30.24 — 17793

AMERICANS DRIVE AHEAD ON ROAD TO PARIS; FLEET BLASTS JAPS 600 MILES FROM TOKYO

Yankees Wheeling Eastward

Great New Arc of Unchecked Assault Bulging Into Interior of France.

MAYENNE RIVER LINE VAULTED

Tanks Roar Toward Le Mans After Taking Laval and Other Points —Plunge to St. Nazaire.

By James M. Long

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Monday, Aug. 7 (AP)—American armor and infantry, having overrun the Brittany peninsula, roared eastward toward Paris today in a full-force attack which captured the towns of Mayenne, Laval and Chateau Gontier, 180 miles inland from the embattled peninsular port of Brest.

NIGHT

On The Timetable

The great new arc of the unchecked assault was bulging into the interior of France a full 50 miles west of Rennes and within 140 miles of Paris at a speed which, a spokesman said, had brought the invasion virtually up to its timetable after seven weeks of hard slogging during vile weather in Normandy.

The line of the American advance ran from Barentan through Mayenne and towns along and across the Mayenne River to within 25 miles of Angers, which is 75 miles up the Loire River.

Swift capture of the towns was being consolidated by infantry which sped up in trucks as fast as the armored spearheads shot forward.

The whole American grip on and around the sliced-off Brittany peninsula was regarded as firm.

Fighting In Brest

The Americans were fighting their way in the outlying streets of Brest, where on the approaches of by-passed St. Malo, they had dug into the last crusts of resistance at the suburbs of Lorient and St. Nazaire, and were thrusting down the last 15 miles toward Nantes for the cleanup of those five most important ports of Brittany.

The Germans were believed to be putting up desperate backs-to-the-sea resistance at those points if nowhere else in the peninsula. Their first attempt at a miniature "Dunkerque" flight by sea was smashed when the British and Canadian warships sank all seven ships of one German convoy attempting to flee from St. Nazaire and shelled a second convoy back into the isolated port.

Americans Complete Mop-Up

The Americans completed the mop-up of La Glacilly, eight miles north of Redon and 34 miles north of St. Nazaire, captured Gourin, 44 miles southeast of Brest; crushed fierce German resistance south of the St. Sever forest by capturing St. Michel de Montjoi on their left flank in Normandy, and enveloped Ambriers de Grand, three and one-half miles north of Mayenne, in broadening their eastward salient.

The British and Canadians advanced generaly along their front in Normandy between the fire and Aunay rivers, capturing St. Jean Le Blanc and crossing the Orne above Thury Harcourt and broadening their hold southward about two miles from Vassy.

The Americans alone counted their total bag of prisoners since the June 6 invasion at about 84,000, of which 12,000 have been taken since the offensive began July 25.

Veer Toward Paris

Four U. S. spearheads veered inland toward Paris. Two pounded on from Mayenne and Laval, 50 and 42 miles east of Rennes, and another seized Chateau-Gontier, 17 miles below Laval and only 24 miles north of the great communications center of Angers. Still another spearhead battled ahead in the Domfront sector 20 miles above Mayenne and east of Avcranches.

One of General Montgomery's senior staff officers asserted 13 German divisions already have been "thoroughly eliminated" in France, wiht 22 now opposing the Americans and British. He declared the U. S. breakthrough had shaken and demoralized the Germans, and predicted "the next two or three weeks may be the most critical of any time of the war for Germany."

The Germans, he said, may be forced to withdraw inside Germany for a last hope stand.

Vannes, center of French Maquis resistance in Brittany, Vitre and Pontivy fell in the mop-up of the peninsula swallowed in less than a week of lightning advances.

British-Canadian assaults meanwhile rolled the German eastern flank back below Caen, hitting to or beyond the Orne river along a creaking 25-mile hinge of enemy front.

Bradley Rivals Russians

The speed with which Lt.-Gen. Omar N. Bradley spurred inland from the victory of Breton peninsula rivalled the swiftest gains of the Russian breakthrough, and apparently left the Germans with no chance for a stand short of Le Mans and Alencon, 30 to 40 miles farther east and within 100 miles of the French capital.

Battlefront dispatches disclosing capture of the textile town of Laval, and Mayenne, 17 miles farther northeast, put advanced U. S. forces across the north-south Mayenne river line. A German broadcast said the Americans were still pressing on east and southeast.

The maintained advice of 20 to 25 miles in some 24 hours indicated no real defense line had yet been encountered.

Inside the big Breton peninsula, the task was principally a mop-up.

There was no official word from the French naval base of Brest since U. S. forward forces fought into the city Saturday night, but it was believed the fiercest struggle of the peninsula was developing there, with the Nazis fighting street by street to cover demolition efforts.

Peninsula Cut In Two Places

The peninsula was cut at two places—at the mouth of the Loire between the great river port of Nantes and France's big shipbuilding center of St. Nazaire, and at Vannes, midway between St. Nazaire and the U-boat pen port of Lorient.

American armor was believed already gunning into the outlying streets of St. Nazaire and Lorient. Resistance appeared moderate.

The Americans last were reported within 15 miles of Nantes, but the situation there was not clear. Although the town lies mostly on the north bank of the Loire, it was regarded as certain that the Germans would do their utmost to keep it if they have any hope of holding on to the Loire river line.

The hour was striking for whatever stand Gen. Johannes Blaskowitz can put up to hold southern France—The Loire marked the boundary between that German general's zone and the area defended by bomb-shocked Marshal Erwin Rommel.

Meet Varying Resistance

In general, the Americans were described as encountering "varying but mostly passive resistance" such as blown bridges, hastily-laid minefields, and some snipers.

Aside from the street fight at port towns, the only pockets of resistance in strength being cleaned up were near Dinan and at Chateauneuf DIlle Et Vilaine (all one town) on the causeway road to the island port of by-passed St. Malo. German strength at St. Malo on the North Breton coast was estimated at 2,000 to 3,000 men.

Between Mortain, east of Avranches, and Vire, southwest of Caen, the Germans were putting up one of the strongest fights along the whole 200-mile front in an attempt to keep a flanking position on the north side of the American wedges shoved toward Paris.

But even this was cracking under relentless pressure. U. S. troops reduced the Nazi stronghold of St. Pois and drove into Cherence Roussel just to the north. They seized Lapillerie two miles west of long-contested Vire, and advanced armor penetrated into Vire.

A front dispatch said forward elements had crossed the Vire-Champs-Du-Boult road, with a sharp fight developing around the latter village.

British-Canadians Slug Away

British-Canadian troops were slugging away at the Nazis' last firm front, the "Norman Switzerland," below Caen, and even it had been drawn back to positions of improvised defense.

British Tommies cleaned up little Montchamp between Vire and Aunay, and pressed east of Aunay, broadening their grip along the Orne. They now hold almost all of the west bank of the Orne from the coast inland to Thury Harcourt, 14 miles southwest of Caen.

Canadian forces hacked away into the important Cross-Orne salient southeast of Caen. In a mile advance, they captured May-Sur-Orne and carried the fight again into the streets of Tilly-La-Campagne. The line they were assaulting was perhaps the strongest and most stubborn of the entire front.

The battle in France was carried forward at least through the first half of Sunday with little or no air support, for clouds limited visibility to 600 feet.

Rennes airdrome—one of the best in all France and certainly the most important captured so far—was taken by Americans so quickly that the enemy had little time for demolition, it was disclosed. Half-packed suitcases were found in officers' barracks.

Gen. Hays Commands Second Division

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Aug. 6 (AP)—Brig. Gen. George R. Hays, 52, is the artillery commander of the American Second Infantry Division now fighting in France, Supreme Headquarters announced today.

The China-born general won the Congressional Medal of Honor in the last war when seven horses were killed under him as he directed fire in the Champagne-Marne defensive battle in July, 1918.

NIGHT

The holder of many other medals, he attended Oklahoma A. and M. College, was professor of military science at Cornell University at Ithaca, N. Y., and with the CCC at Fort Hoyle, Md. He has seen much Washington duty.

British General Says Disaster Faces Germans on French Front

Sees Next 3 Weeks Most Critical for Enemy, Losing in Every Sector; 13 Nazi Divisions Already 'Thoroughly Eliminated' in West

By The Associated Press

KILLED

AT THE BRITISH FRONT IN NORMANDY, Aug. 6.—Thirteen German divisions already have been "thoroughly eliminated" in France, a British general declared tonight, and "the next two or three weeks may be the most critical of any time of the war for Germany."

This officer, painting a picture of shattered hopes for Germany, said about twenty-two Nazi divisions now are facing the British and American armies in France.

"It does look as if Germany is going to be faced with tremendous disasters in many places, and there are terrible times ahead of them," he said.

NIGHT

The officer, one of General Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's senior staff officers, hailed the "tremendous victory of the American army" in sweeping down from Cherbourg across Brittany, and said: "I cannot see the Germans holding a Siegfried line on the west with the Russians pounding against them on the east. I don't think it possible for Germany to hold out under those circumstances."

He said that if Adolf Hitler pulled his armies back inside fortress Germany, abandoning the idea of a fortress Europe, Allied bombers with fighter protection virtually could flatten the Reich.

Commenting on the present phase of the campaign, the general said: "It is very difficult to see how the Germans can stay here and fight with any hope of success. The extremely exhilarating display by the Americans has badly shaken and demoralized the German 7th Army."

The German high command, he said, still is trying to move up reinforcements to plug the breaches in Normandy and Brittany and "they are getting here somehow, on bicycles or flat feet"—but too late. The blow has been struck and the "enemy now is merely reacting to an extremely difficult situation."

The German forces are split about even against the American and British fronts, with eleven divisions in each sector, he said, although the greatest weight of enemy armor still is massed against the British around the vital Caen hinge.

The staff officer gave this up-to-the-minute summary of the war situation in the European theater:

BRITTANY—"The Germans are pulling back into the fortress ports in the Brest peninsula. They may attempt to rescue some of these ports in a drive up from the south if they have any strength left there, but they already are preparing demolitions and have carried out demolitions in some of these ports.

"It will be a tremendous prize for us and completely upset German naval strategy if we take the Brittany ports, particularly since there are masses of German U-boats there."

Prisoner Bag Large

PRISONERS—"The Americans have captured nearly 30,000 Germans in the latest offensive for a total of approximately 84,000; the British have taken about 15,000 since D Day.

RUSSIAN FRONT—"The immediate Russian threat to German territory, with German divisions sealed off in the Baltic states, is bound to have a tremendous effect. The Russians have made enormous inroads on dwindling German man power."

ITALIAN FRONT—"It is difficult to see how the Germans can stand and fight on the Gothic line with the forces at their disposal."

FRENCH MAQUIS—"The results have been astonishing on the 'resistance front.' The French patriots have inflicted great damage, casualties and worry on the enemy. Every Frenchman these days seems to have a gun or knife in his hand."

POLITICAL—"We expect good news from Finland very shortly. The Finns apparently have decided the game is not worth the gamble. Turkey's new policy also is helpful."

ECONOMIC FRONT—"From the evidence we are getting, it cannot be ignored that Germany is confronted by a critical oil shortage. Tremendous damage has been done to German-controlled oil fields and we know that units of the German Army have had to be left behind because they can't get the oil to move. German equipment generally still is good, but they are short of tanks and lately German armored divisions have been reduced from 190 tanks to 150."

AIR—"Every fine day at least 1,000 Allied heavy bombers hit Germany. That would have been big headline news six months ago, but now in the welter of other events it is sometimes overlooked. We must not forget that in weighing the effect on Germany as a whole."

INSIDE GERMANY—"The plot and purge in Hitler's hierarchy shows a definite trend. The German people are becoming more and more lukewarm to the Nazi party. It is a question whether Himmler can tighten the home front any more and if the rope will stand the strain."

GERMAN PLANS—"Until a very short time ago, there always was the fear that the Germans could drive a spearhead to our beaches and play merry hell. Now that fear has vanished."

Supplies Built Up

The military spokesman said it had been vital to build up enormous supplies on the beachhead to enable the Allied armies to exploit the gains when the big push came.

"So," he continued, "the earlier stages of the campaign were slower than one had hoped but perhaps we shall profit by going quicker than expected in the later phases."

General Montgomery, he said, stuck to his guns despite public impatience declaring "let the plan go along as it is and then we shall get along."

The spokesman said German armies were becoming less and less mobile through the lack of transport and the lack of fuel.

ALLIES CONVERT INVASION BEACH INTO HUGE PORT

JAMESON?

INVASION BEACH, France Aug. 6.—(AP) In two months thi sandy resort beach where the firs invasion blood was shed has been converted into one of the world's greatest ports—capable of handling a bigger daily tonnage than the port of New York.

The roar of guns has been replaced by the rumbling and grinding of hundreds of trucks, tractors and cranes. It has more the appearance of a big construction job than anything else. It is not like any harbor you ever saw. There are no big buildings, docks or piers. It is just a beach half a mile wide when the tide is out that has been turned into one of the main lifelines of the American army in France.

Supplies are being fed over it to the army through a network of new roads engineers have cut right through picturesque cliffs and the concrete wall that Hitler boasted was impregnable. They link with main inland highways. Trucks haul the freight directly to supply dumps in the rear eliminating storing and congestion on the beach.

The war now seems remote and far away—except for a concentration of anti-aircraft batteries that guards the beach against an occasional nuisance raider at night — but there is evidence of the bloody battle that raged here June 6, 7 and 8, in the battered Nazi gun emplacements, rows of wrecked houses and a dust-coated signs marking the site of the first American landings in this war in France.

Both water and land traffic is controlled from towers similar to those used at airports to direct plane traffic. The work goes on 24 hours a day. During darkness communications are maintained over walkie-talkies.

Big freighters unload their cargo into ducks, landing craft and barges. The crows nest is constructed on top of the concrete foundation of a German 88 mm. gun.

Nazi 'Little Dunkirk' Ends In Disaster

German Ships Attempting Escape From Brittany Sunk By British.

LONDON, Aug. 6 (AP)—The Germans' first attempt at a "Little Dunkerque" escape from Brittany ended in disaster today under the blazing guns of British and Canadian warships which sank one seven-ship convoy and shelled another back into a death trap at the port of St. Nazaire.

West Of St. Nazaire

One convoy was intercepted west of St. Nazaire as it steamed southward, possibly for Bordeaux, the only good Atlantic port remaining to the enemy now that Brittany is caught in a trap of U. S. steel.

Not one of the seven ships of the convoy and escort, apparently evacuating key personnel from the battered Brittany garrison, escaped during a fierce engagement in which the attacking patrol force suffered some casualties, a communique from the Admiralty announced.

Later the prowling warships, consisting of one British cruiser and two British and two Canadian destroyers, caught a second convoy of undetermined size and forced it back into St. Nazaire, once a haven for U-boats but now attacked by U. S. armor.

The German account said bombers participated in the attacks, admitted its convoys suffered some damage, but denied there were any ship losses.

Nazi U-boats Crippled By Fall of Brittany

Naval Officers Predict Loss of Submarine Pens to Prevent Germans From Ever Again Using Submarines to Strike Effectively.

By John A. Moroso III

LONDON, Aug. 6 (AP)—The fall of Brittany with its U-boat nests of Brest, Lorient and St. Nazaire will cripple enemy submarines so badly they never again will be able to strike efficiently and in great strength, naval officers predicted today.

Must Use Distant Bases

Packs of U-boats now at sea must return to more distant bases for refueling and rearming, naval officers jubilantly declared, and many Allied planes and ships now patroling the Atlantic life lines will be released for other tasks.

The value of the harbors themselves is immense. In the first World War Brest was the port most used by the Americans in pouring troops and supplies into France.

As at Cherbourg, the Americans expect to find Brest, Lorient, St. Nazaire and the river port of Nantes badly wrecked, but the Allies have made plans well in advance to get them back into use quickly.

U-boats in these ports are expected to get a severe mauling as they try to escape, and it is safe to assume some already have been destroyed. A heavy air raid preceded the American entry into Brest yesterday, with 100 RAF four-engined bombers throwing down six-ton factory busters in an effort to block the U-boat exits.

Moonlight Will Help

Bright moonlight and detection instruments are expected to reveal positions and aid Allied ships and planes in attacks.

The German radio said one violent attack took place this afternoon when Allied bombers and destroyers punched repeatedly at a German convoy south of Brittany. The Germans admitted suffering some damage, but declared that because of "clever maneuvers" on the part of the Nazi skippers there were no ship losses. The Germans claimed several hits on Allied destroyers.

The Germans' major remaining French Atlantic base is Bordeaux, 190 miles southeast of St. Nazaire.

Not only will its submarine facilities be overtaxed, but German supplies must be brought over uncertain transportation routes already badly disrupted by Allied bombs and French resistance forces.

Operational Efficiency Reduced

One officer, while warning that the U-boat was not yet whipped, said that their operational efficiency had been greatly reduced.

He emphasized that the fall of Brittany also would sharply curtail the E-boats. Those swift little craft based on the Breton Peninsula now must go hunting for a home far south of the battle area, although their comrades in northern French ports remain a menace to channel shipping.

Brittany's ports will provide the Allies with repair bases for all types of ships. Brest was a great French naval base, with huge repairing and shipbuilding facilities.

Allied air forces also will gain more than a dozen good bases.

Scores of Allied planes now sweping the Bay of Biscay area 24 hours daily in a search for U-boat packs will operate elsewhere as the situation improves.

Better Port Facilities

Shipping experts hailed the capture of Brittany's harbors because gales in the future may forbid Allied use of the beachheads, and Cherbourg is not large enough to handle the flood of troops and supplies waiting to pour into France.

It was because of these ports that the Germans were able to increase the tempo of the battle of the Atlantic.

Now the battle of the Atlantic seems to be nearing an end.

Bretons Rallied Against Nazis

LONDON, Aug. 6 (AP).—Radio France, at Algiers, called today on all workers and civilians in Brittany to join the French Forces of the Interior in small groups or to sabotage German installations pending the arrival of Allied troops. The broadcast declared: "The time for a national uprising is close at hand."

Pace in Brittany Likened To Speed of Red Army

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 6—The speed of the Americans in cutting off Brittany in a single week was believed today to have equaled the fastest Red Army gains in any seven days since Stalingrad.

From the offensive's start on July 25 along the St. Lô-Périers road, the Americans covered the thirty-one miles to Avranches by July 31, averaging five miles a day. Then the pace rocketed to an average of thirty miles a day from the Avranches breakthrough on Aug. 1 to reach Brest, 150 miles away, fifteen miles a day south from Avranches to the Loire River and at least seven and a half miles daily in spreading out southeast to Mayenne, Laval and Châteaugontier.

British gains in the past week averaged about two miles daily against much stiffer resistance.

NAZI COMMANDER KILLED

NEW YORK, Aug. 6—(AP) The Nazi DNB agency broadcast today that Maj. Gen Rudolf Stegman, 50, a German commander on the Western European front, had been killed in action. The broadcast, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, did not disclose how or where Stegman died.

Germans Claim Hits on Ships

The German radio said last night that, on Thursday morning in the Bay of the Seine, human torpedoes had scored twenty-one hits on Allied ships and that one that sank was a British cruiser of the Fiji class, The Associated Press reported. During the attack, the Allies lost 3,400 men and 400 tanks, the Germans said without claiming any specific number of ships sunk.

Soviet Papers Play Up Tidings From France

MOSCOW, Aug. 6 (AP).—Moscow today hailed the American break-through in France as the best foreign news in weeks, and newspapers published detailed accounts of the advancements together with the maps.

Such action in the west, along with the same kind of operations by the Russian armies in the east, is the quickest way of bringing the war to a close, it was asserted here.

SOMERVELL SAYS BATTLE FOR FRANCE NEAR END

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 — (AP) Lt. Gen. Brehon Somervell said tonight that "the battle in France tonight can well be the last round."

The commanding general of the Army Service Forces cautioned, however, that to prevent the Nazis from getting their second wind and starting to trade punches again there must be increased production of the "brass knuckles with which to finish off the job."

"Those brass knuckles," he said in an address prepared for delivery over CBS, "are trucks to haul troops forward, big guns and shells for big guns, tires for our planes and trucks, bombs to drop on the freightened enemy. The shortage in each of these items is serious."

30.24 — 1795

30 Other Surface Craft Hit

American War ships And Planes Destroy Town in Bold Stroke.

ATTACK ISLAND GUARDING TOKYO

First Assault of Its Kind So Near Jap Capital—Convoy Also Wiped Out.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Aug. 6 (AP)—American warships and planes have wiped out one Japanese town, sunk 11 ships and hit 30 other surface craft in their boldest strike at enemy islands guarding the southern approaches to Tokyo, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

Warships shelled Chichi island in the Bonin group, about 600 miles from Tokyo. Never before have U. S. naval surface units attacked ground installations so close to Japan's capital.

Town Destroyed

"Omura town on Chichi Jima (Island) was destroyed," Nimitz's communique said. Omura is on the northern shore of Port Lloyd, Chichi's best harbor.

Four other island in the Bonin and Kazan (volcano) groups were attacked. Thirteen Japanese planes were destroyed.

Biggest bag of the two-day raid last Thursday and Friday (U. S. time) was a Japanese convoy which was virtually wiped out.

The 11 ships sunk included five destroyers or destroyer escorts, five cargo ships and one oiler. Two smaller craft and several barges also were sunk.

Vessels Left in Flames

A light cruiser and five smaller vessels were left in flames and possibly sunk.

Damaged craft included two escort vessels, one large freighter hit on two successive days, three landing ships, and 18 small vessels including five barges. Two of the barges carried troops.

The attack cost the fast carrier forces 16 planes and 19 American airmen. All of the U. S. planes were brought down by anti-aircraft fire.

Six Japanese planes were shot down in air battles over Iwo island in the Kazan group, 150 miles south of the Bonins. Six others were destroyed on the ground at Iwo and one at Chichi.

No Attempt To Replace Former Losses

The small number of defensive planes indicated that the Japanese have made no attempt to replace their heavy air losses from the six previous American land and air strikes at the two strategic island groups, now within range of bombers based in the southern Marianas islands.

Since fast carrier forces first struck at the Bonins and Kazan islands June 14, they have destroyed 280 Japanese planes, sunk 27 ships, and probably sunk or damaged 80 other vessels, excluding barges. Forty-one U. S. planes have been lost.

In the newest strike, first reported by Tokyo radio last Friday, air fields and ground installations were raided on Chichi, Haha, Muko, and Ane (Ani) islands in the Bonins and Iwo in the Kazan group.

Continuing their steady progress northward, American forces on Guam destroyed several strong Japanese defensive positions and captured two towns yesterday, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, Pacific commander, announced today.

The Yanks now control three quarters of the island, the communique said. Fighters of Lye Marine Aircraft Wing are operating from captured Ocote airdrome.

On the west flank, the Americans advanced more than two miles and occupied the towns of Ukudu and Liguan, approximately five miles northeastward of Agana. The Marines have pushed almost to Haputo Point.

The communique reported "no substantial change" on the east flank where American positions are near Lumuna Point.

Nimitz also announced Army and Navy aerial strikes against bypassed Marshall Islands, and against Wake and Ponape.

NIGHT

AUG 7 1944

Severe Blow To Germany

Fall of Drohobycz Further Curtails Enemy's Dwindling Air Supply.

AUG 7 1944

NEW RED ARMY IN THE FIELD

Eleven Now Hitting Nazi Hordes on 1,200-mile Front—Strike Out For Memel.

NIGHT

By W. W. Hercher

LONDON, Monday, Aug. 7 (AP)—An eleventh powerful Soviet Army, joining Russia's gigantic summer offensive, struck a heavy blow at Germany's shrinking fuel supplies yesterday by capturing Drohobycz, pre-war Poland's largest oil center and a citadel guarding the invasion routes through the Carpathian passes to Czechoslovakia.

More of Enemy Trapped

Other Soviet forces striking toward Krakow, last big bastion before Germany itself, appeared to have trapped another segment of enemy troops in the San-Vistula river triangle, and on the bitterly-contested front opposite German East Prussia the Russians smashed eight miles through Nazi lines beyond the Dubissa river.

Premier-Marshal Joseph Stalin in an order of the day announced the sucessful storming of Drohobycz by the Fourth Ukraine Army led by Col. Gen. Ivan Petrov, co-commander of Sevastopol's defenses in 1941-42 German siege.

Drohobycz is in the part of Galicia annexed by Russia in the 1939 portion of Poland, and was the target of American [illegible] bombers last June 27.

Eleven Armies in Field Now

Petrov's emergence on the eastern front with another army raised to 11 the number of Soviet armies now attacking the enemy on a winding 1,200-mile front from Finland to the Carpathian mountains. Other Soviet armies, perhaps headed by Gen. Feodor I. Tolbukhin and Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky, still have not been thrown into action. These may yet strike southwestward from their positions inside Romania to the rich Ploesti oil fields.

German broadcasts last night for the second time in a week told of Nazi air attacks on the big Black Sea port of Odessa, suggesting that Russian ships might be gathering there for a strike at Romania.

Reds Force River

Gen. Ivan D. Cherniakhovsky's Third White Russian army, attacking northwest of Kaunas, forced the Dubissa River in the Airogola sector and captured 30 localities beyond the river on a 12-mile front. Among these were Rozaiciai, eight miles west of the Dubissa and 58 miles northeast of the East Prussian rail city of Tilsit.

This Russian force was striking above the Niemen River in an apparent drive toward Tilsit and the Baltic seaport of Memel in another effort to split up German army groupings along the sea.

South of the Niemen River the Russians were drawn up from five to 25 miles from the East Prussian border, and admittedly were meeting terrific resistance from fresh German troops rushed to the border zone. Thousands of Russian planes still were hammering targets inside East Prussia, and Soviet artillery was hurling shells into that German province. Berlin itself acknowledged pressure areas at several points along a 70 mile front from Augustow, below the invaded Suwalki triangle part of East Prussia, to the Niemen River.

Many Sorties Against E. Prussia

Moscow dispatches said Red Airmen under Cherniakhovsky's aerial chieftain, 33-year-old Col. Gen. Timofey Kruikin, had flown 2,500 sorties against East Prussian targets in the past three days.

Russian troops erected signposts near the positions, showing the dwindling mileage to the border, and wrote underneath "onward, comrades." Cherniakhovsky, in his order to his artillery generals said: "Fire on the enemy's den."

But these same Russian front dispatches admitted the Germans were fighting more savagely now that their homeland was threatened.

The midnight Soviet communique said "steady reinforcements" were arriving in the Virballis secondly several miles from East Prussian, where Russian troops were on the main Kaunas-Konigsberg road. One new Nazi division hurled into battle was identified as the "East Prussia Grenadiers" which Moscow said had just arrived from central Germany.

German Stubbornness

German stubbornness also was apparent in the raging battles east of Warsaw, Polish capital whose fall to the Russians would perhaps be one of the most decisive blows of the war. Moscow's daily communique did not even mention this sector. The German High Comman communique, however, claimed that the Third Soviet Tank Corps had been trapped and wiped out after several days of fierce fighting in which the Russians were said to have lost 192 tanks and suffered severe casualties.

Inside besieged Warsaw Polish underground forces still were fighting, according to a message released here by the Polish government. Although suffering a lack of ammunition the guerrillas were said to have seized several buildings in the northwestern part of Warsaw, including the Polytechnic Institute. A German barracks for Elite SS troops in the Ghetto district of west-central Warsaw also was seized, the Poles said.

Germans Continue Killings

General Bor, the guerrilla leader, said "wanton killings of civilians taken from their homes by the Germans increases."

Russian troops in the San-Vistula river triangle more than 100 miles south of Warsaw now have cleared the enemy from a 14-mile stretch of the Vistula's east bank between the mouth of the San and Tarnobrzeg, the bulletin said. They also seized other localities along the east bank west of Mielec, a rail junction 26 miles northeast of Tarnow, which also was seized, and crossed the nearby Wisloka river.

A body of German troops now appears to have been trapped between Tarnobrzeg and Wojkow in a 66-square-mile area extending into the triangle from Baranov. Any German troops escaping westward across the Vistula at Baranov will collide with other Soviet forces which are striking downriver on that bank toward Krakow and which last were reported within 30 miles of Krakow and only 75 miles from German Silesia.

One German broadcast said that Jelgava key rail junction 22 miles southwest of Riga Latvian capital had been recaptured by the Germans trying to break out of the Baltic trap sprung last week by the Russians. But the German high command made no such claim.

Stalin Holds Drohobycz Important

Stalin termed Drohobycz, 40 miles southwest of captured Lwow and 38 miles from the Czech frontier an important industrial center and "important communications junction and strongpoint in the enemy's defenses covering the approaches to the Carpathian passes."

The town is 16 miles northwest of Stryj, another road junction controlling routes into the Carpathian passes, which was taken Saturday. Berlin broadcasts acknowledged heavy Russian pressure toward a number of these passes, and in some areas the Red army last was reported within 12 miles of the Czech frontier.

In peacetime, Poland produced nearly 800,000 tons of oil from the fields at Drohobycz, nearby Boryslaw, Lwow, and Stanislawow. All these areas now have been reconquered by the Russians.

String of Strategic Cities

The Russians now hold a string of strategic towns and cities on a 150-mile front, Rzeszow, Jaroslaw, Przemysl, Drohobycz, Stryj, and Stanislawow, as jumping-off places for a balkan campaign.

After his 1942 escape from fallen Sevastopol in the Crimea, General Petrov led Soviet Caucasian troops which captured the stronghold of Novorossisk Sept. 16, 1943, following the German debacle at Stalingrad. Then Gen. Andrei I. Yeremenko took charge of an independent maritime army based on Novorossisk and charged across the Kerch Strait int othe Crimea in con junction with Gen. Feodor Tolbukhin's drive into the peninsula from the northern mainland.

Gen. Tolbukhins fourth Ukraine army recaptured Sevastopol last May 9. Presumably Tolbukhin now has been given command of another Russian army not yet thrown into the Soviet Summer drive. After Yeremenko's part in the Crimean campaign he was transferred to command of the second Baltic army which now is herding the Germans back from eastern Latvia toward Riga, where Gen. Ivan Bagramian's first Baltic army troops have cut off the Nazi retreat in that area.

FINNISH GENERAL KILLED

LONDOIN, Aug. 6 — (AP) The German radio said tonight that a Finnish Major General Vihma, former commandant of the Hellsinki garrison, had been killed while leading his division on the Karelian front.

New Finn Gov't May Quit War

MOSCOW, Aug. 6—(AP)—There is reason to believe that the new Finnish government still may save itself and the Finnish people and get out of the war.

(Field Marshal Baron Carl Gustaf Mannerheim was named to the presidency of Finland last week succeeding Risto Ryti. A recent Stockholm dispatch said it was learned that the veteran Finnish commander-in-chief had received Russian assurances of willingness to consider a new Finnish application for an armistice even before he assumed the presidency.)

Well informed diplomats here said there was hope of Finland working out some kind of an agreement with the Russians. There were indications in Moscow that the resumption of peace discussions was probable.

A foreign diplomat usually well informed on Finnish affairs declared he would bet a considerable sum that under Mannerheim's leadership the Finns now realized the situation they were in and perhaps within the next 10 days or two weeks may take active steps to accept the original terms of the Russians.

GILMORE

Moscow Opens Seminary

Orthodox Institute Starts First Training Since 1917

MOSCOW, Aug. 6 (AP).—For the first time since the 1917 revolution, the Russian Orthodox Church has reopened its Theological Institute for higher training of the clergy at the 400-year-old Novodevichy Monastery in Moscow.

Acting Patriarch Alexei blessed the institute yesterday with the ikon of St. Sergei Radonezhsky, declaring the institute was expected to educate not only priests but also ardent patriots like Radonezhsky's monks, who fought against the Tatars.

AUG 7 1944

AUG 7 1944

2,000 U.S. Bombers Hit Nazi Industry

Berlin Hammered in Latest Series of Air Blows—Gen. Doolittle Discloses Aerial Bombardment Has Seriously Curtailed Production at 23 Nazi Oil Plants.

By Ned Nordness

LONDON, Aug. 6 (AP)—More than 2,000 American heavy bombers pounded Berlin and other industrial centers of the Reich today in a continuing campaign against enemy war production.

NIGHT

Production Cut

As the big bombers returned to their bases Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle, commander of the Eighth U. S. Tactical Air Force, disclosed that thus far aerial assaults had seriously curtailed production at 23 of Germany's major oil refineries and synthetic oil plants. Germany's dwindling oil facilities have been an especial target for Allied planes in recent weeks.

Today's armadas, flying from bases in England and Italy, also smashed at enemy submarine pens in Toulon and rail communications in the Rhone valley of France.

Other U. S. Flying Fortresses and Liberators continued their battering of robot bomb installations in the Pas-de-Calais area while medium bombers, fighters and fighter bombers continued their daily pounding of the enemy's shattered French battlefront.

33 Nazi Planes Destroyed

Thirty-three enemy planes were destroyed during the raids on Germany. American losses were 21 heavy bombers and nine fighters.

Pummeling the Reich in force, more than 1,000 Fortresses and Liberators with an escort of 750 fighter planes bore through heavy flak and fighter defenses to reach Berlin and other German objectives.

The assault deep in Germany was the third in as many days for the Eighth Air Force but was the first on Berlin since June 21.

General Doolittle said the war was going so well "we now are able to get to any point in Germany with only a quarter of the loss rate per sortie what it was a short time ago. Our aim now is to reduce production and use of German jet and rocket propelled planes to a minimum."

Soviet Based Planes Active

Soviet-based American and British fighters joined in the Sunday aerial pounding, the Berlin radio reporting they had attacked Romanian railway targets near where the frontiers of Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Romania meet.

More than 750 Fortresses and Liberators based in Italy bombed railways, oil storage installations in the Rhone valley and submarine pens at Toulon in France.

Targets in Berlin included the Diesel motor plant and an aircraft engine works at Genshagen. Armament works and a bomber assembly plant were struck at Bradenburg while at Marienfelde, another Berlin suburb, an aircraft engine plant was bombed.

The heavy bombers blasted four oil refineries in the Hamburg area, an airfield near Magdeburg and port installations at Kiel.

Ace Downs Six Nazis

In a furious battle over Hamburg Maj. George E. Preddy of Greensboro, N. C., a Mustang pilot, set a record in the Eight Fighter Command by shooting down six German aircraft within a few minutes. Maj. Preddy now has a score of 24 1-2 planes in the air and six destroyed on the ground to bring him up high among American top-scoring aces.

Weather hampered operations over the French battlefront during the early part of the day but as conditions improved the air swarmed with planes supporting the ground troops in France.

Fuel Dumps Blasted

Ninth Air Force Marauders set off two fuel dumps near Alencon and southwest of Orleans and bombed bridges northwest of Dreux, north of Le Mans and Courtein. The bombers, escorted by fighters, met no opposition and all returned.

RAF Lancasters fought through 20 to 30 German fighters and blasted flying bomb supply depots in northern France during the day.

In addition to the attack on the U-boat pens at Toulon, the Italian-based heavy bombers struck railway yards at Valence, an oil dump and rail bridge at Le Pouzin, 15 miles southwest of Valence; rail installations at Maramas, 15 miles southwest of Arles; five rail bridges along the main line between Lyon and Arles, and oil storage facilities in the Port Herriot and Lyons areas.

Italian-based Mustangs shot up Nazi airdromes near Valence and northeast of Avignon.

Few enemy aircraft were reported encountered by the Italian-based planes.

Last night RAF Bostons and Mosquitos struck at trains, bridges, troop concentrations, and troop transports over a wide area of France.

Flying Bombs Intermittently Hit London

AUG 7 1944

Allied Air Offensive Has Wrecked Many Stored On Ground in France.

LONDON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Flying bombs exploded intermittently today in London and southern England as rescuers dug the dead and injured out of last night's debris and the air ministry announced that 56 flying bombs storage depots in northern France had been destroyed and 44 heavily damaged in recent heavy bomber counter assaults.

NIGHT

Sporadic Fire

As the American Eighth Air Force for the third straight day hammered Germany with more than 1,000 heavy bombers, the best the Germans could do with their robots was sporadic cross-channel fire punctuated by fairly long lulls and strong combat by fighter patrols and anti-aircraft fire.

Today's incidents did not compare with last night's attacks when a bomb, which fell in southern England, caught a number of villagers working in their gardens, killing eleven and trapping others in several smashed houses. There were many other incidents during the night causing multiple deaths.

Good Score Against Comets

In bright weather over the straits defenders had a good score today against the robots.

The air ministry, detailing results of the recent heavy assaults on rocket bomb installations and depots, said Nazi fighter planes were appearing in increased strength to resist the Allied attacks, and that the Germans have erected flak towers to help defend the depots.

RAF Lancasters attacking a robot depot north of Paris during the day encountered 20 to 30 German fighters which were beaten off.

R. A. F. Honors an American

LONDON, Aug. 6 (AP).—Acting Flight Lieutenant Paul G. Johnson, of Bethel, Conn., has received an award of the Distinguished Flying Cross from the Royal Air Force for gallantry.

AUG 7 1944

Hitler Asks Germans For 'Blind Confidence'

Says He Believes It Necessary for the Reich to Have a Man Like Him—Belief Strengthened Nazis Will Go Down Fighting.

By Alex Singleton

LONDON, Aug. 6 (AP)—The Nazis struggled to keep the lid on a volcano of revolt within the Reich today and broadcast a bid by Adolf Hitler for "blind confidence" on the home front in the face of smashing Allied successes on the battlefields of Europe.

NIGHT

Will Fight to End

The German agency DNB announced that Hitler made a pep talk Friday to Reich leaders and gauleiters at his headquarters in which he reiterated his decision to fight to the end.

This account said he told his followers he was thankful "because I believe it is necessary for the nation to have a man like me who would not capitulate under any circumstances and who holds high the banner of faith and confidence," and added:

"I believe that nobody could do this better than I am doing. Whatever may come, I shall always stand up a bearer of the banner."

"I am not afraid of the fight against our exterior enemies," Hitler continued. "At the end we will finish all the same. All I need is the conviction that in our rear there is absolute security, blind confidence and faithful collaboration."

'Your Life is Our Life'

In reply, Major Gen. Konstantin Hierl, Reichsminister and chief of the labor service, declared: "Your life is our life."

This strengthened belief here that Hitler, barring betrayal or overthrow, will go down fighting and is determined to bring under the Nazi banner all possible Germans, possibly as a nucleus for a post-war underground army.

A dispatch of the Russian news agency Tass from Zurich said Hitler had agreed to a request from Henrich Himmler, commander of the home army, for an increase in the strength of the dreaded SS forces.

Will Stiffen Nazi Spines

This is the organization which hangman Himmler intends to use to stiffen the civilian spine and bolster morale as the German armies backtrack home, bringing the war with them.

Tass also reported in a dispatch from Bern that the Nazis intended to extend total mobilization to foreign workers, which may mean that hundreds of thousands in labor battalions from occupied countries will be pressed into the army under the guns of German officers.

Joseph Terboven, Nazi commander in Norway, declared in a radio broadcast from Oslo that in the future there would be in Germany "only one type" of soldier—a "National Socialist soldier, officer and general."

He maintained that German armament production reached the highest level of the war in July; that the rocket plane was only the beginning of Nazi secret weapons and declared the German people "have only one desire, that retaliation against Britain continue until London, nay even the whole of England, be laid waste."

Travelers Report Nazis Arrest Many Officers

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 6 (AP)—Travelers reaching here from northeastern Germany said today that Gestapo agents and military police swooped through a number of German military establishments in that area a week ago and seized "some officers" who were transported to unknown destinations.

Danzig, Gdynia, Tczew, Marienwerder and Graudenz were among the points where raids were made.

The travelers said other arrests occurred earlier in Stettin, Rostock and Lubeck and that civilians in responsible posts also were taken into custody.

NIGHT

YUGOSLAV PARTISANS DESTROY RAIL LINE

LONDON, Aug. 6 — (AP) A communique broadcast from Marshal Tito's partisan headquarters announced today destruction of a portion of a rail line serving Serbian chrome mines, foreshadowing another cut in Germany's supply of that vital metal.

A section of the Kraljevo-Skoplje line was destroyed, said the communique recorded by the ministry of information, adding, "the Germans exported ore from the Trepca Mine via this line as well as a large quantity of chrome from the Alatinski mines southeast of Skoplje."

NIGHT

The war bulletin also told of eight engagements in which Tito's partisans killed or wounded 971 Germans and Chetniks.

Germans Pour Artillery Fire Into Florence

AUG 7 1944

Disregard Promise to Regard Tuscan Art Center as Open City.

NO GUARD

ROME, Aug. 6 (AP) — Bullets whistled through the ancient streets of Florence today and the Germans—despite promises to respect the Tuscan art center as an open city—poured heavy artillery fire into the southern sections where the British Eighth Army is deployed.

NIGHT

No-Man's-Land

(The London radio said "Florence is virtually in our hands" with the city something of a no-man's-land. The broadcast heard by CBS said South African troops had thrown pontoon bridges across the Arno river flowing through the city to replace those destroyed by the retreating enemy).

Allied headquarters declared British artillery had not been turned against the northern district, containing the bulk of Florence's art treasures and where strong German forces have taken a stand.

On both sides of Florence the Eighth Army planted itself firmly along the Arno river, and the position of those German forces still south of the formidable river barrier was considered untenable.

Firing from Mountain Position

The enemy, raining long-range six and a half inch shells into that part of Florence which lies south of the Arno was firing from good mountain positions north of the city.

Small arms fire was exchanged inside Florence across the Arno. Most of the shooting came from buildings remolished near Ponte Vecchio, the only one of the city's historic bridges left intact by the retreating enemy.

On the Adriatic end of the Italian front, the Germans were drawing back toward Rimini, the eastern coastal anchor of their Gothic Line with Polish troops in pursuit.

The Poles captured the villages of Brugnetto, Monte Di Ripe and San Vito, two to three miles beyond the Misa river and some 40 miles south of Rimini.

British Patrols in Empoli

Bringing up their forces all along the line the British sent patrols into Empoli, some 15 miles west of Florence.

From Florence westward to the sea the stage was being set for the battle of the Arno.

On the western end of the river line, American patrols crossed the stream and probed enemy positions, returning after several hours behind German lines.

A German patrol trying to infiltrate American positions was wiped out. The Germans were firing on the southern sections of Pisa on the lower Arno with artillery and fortars.

The Arno is a military obstacle of importance from Florence westward. Its bed is from 250 to 600 feet wide. Within Pisa and Florence the river flows between masonry banks averaging about 20 feet in height.

Bibbiano Seized

Eighth Army units straightening the Allied line between Florence and the Adriatic seized Bibbiano, in the upper Arno river valley about 27 miles east of Folrence, and nearby Monte Grillo.

Farther east Alpe di Catenaia and Monte Altuccia fell to the Eighth Army after sharp fighting in the mountains.

The Poles in their thrust across the Misa river also reported the capture of Cavallari, Scapezzano and Roncitelli.

Bad weather held down aerial support of all these ground operations, the Allied communique said.

Greeks See Collapse in Balkans

CAIRO, Aug. 6 (AP) — In the first official Greek pronouncement on Turkey's break with Germany, Premier George Papandreou foresaw today the collapse of the Nazis' Balkan front.

NIGHT

In the event Turkey enters the war, her Aegean coast will form a convenient base for operations against the occupied islands of Greece and the western and northern coasts of the homeland, Foreign Affairs Undersecretary Philip Dragoumis said.

30.24 — 17797

Allies Capture Tamu; Cross Burma Frontier

Large Numbers of Dead Japanese Found in Shattered Town—Some Prisoners Taken —British Imperials Advance Along Tiddim Road

AUG 7 1944

By Charles A. Grumich

SOUTHEAST ASIA COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, Kandy, Ceylon, Aug. 6 (AP)—Allied troops in their gruelling campaign to drive the Japanese out of northeastern India have captured Tamu and have crossed the Burma frontier from Manipur state, a communique from Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's headquarters announced today.

Resistance Collapses

The communique said Japanese resistance in Tamu collapsed Aug. 4 and that large numbers of dead Japanese were found in the wreckage of the town and that some prisoners were captured.

British Imperials advancing along the Tiddim Road now are about 50 miles south of Imphal, Allied base in Manipur from which the Japanese are back-pedalling after failing to capture the city in a costly campaign.

Northeast of Imphal the British also have driven the Japanese back into the mountain exits to the Chindwin valley in Burma.

Important Airfield

The fall of Tamu gives the Allies another important air field and control of the Kabaw valley routes in Burma. Tamu was one of the main Japanese advance bases from which they conducted their India invasion, last March.

An official statement said the Japanese had used Tamu as a concentration and hospital center "for those first forces who struggled back from the disastrous fighting in Manipur."

Significant Gateway

Tamu also is significant as the gateway through which Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell and Gen. Sir Harold Alexander and their forces escaped from Burma more than two years ago.

Planes of the Third Tactical Air Force were reported concentrating on scattered Japanese in the Kabaw Valley beating up enemy transport heading for Tiddim. A number of Japanese vehicles and supply dumps were destroyed as the planes attacked the Japanese who were said to be abandoning large quantities of equipment in their flight southward.

'Merrill's Marauders' Get Reinforcements in Field

General Stationed in Ceylon for Health Reasons

GENERAL STILWELL'S HEADQUARTERS IN INDIA, Aug. 6 (AP).—The famous American infantry task force known as "Merrill's Marauders" has been reinforced and is still fighting "somewhere in the field" in Burma, it was announced officially here today.

Brigadier General Frank Merrill is himself stationed at Kandy, Ceylon, where he was assigned more than a month ago as Lieutenant General Joseph W. Stillwell's personal representative. Brigadier General Theodore F. Wessels is commanding the Myitkyina task force.

NIGHT

The change in Merrill's status was made solely for reasons of health, headquarters stated, and there was no connection between the change in his assignment and the inquiry into return of convalescent marauders to duty during the battle of Myitkyina which, an official investigation determined, had caused a breakdown in marauder morale.

It was the second time Merrill's health had forced him to retire from active command. During the early stages of the Burma campaign he was unable to continue his duties owing to a heart ailment. He refused to be evacuated, however, and Stilwell, taking cognizance of his great popularity with the men, eventually permitted him to return to his command. Should his condition improve Merrill most likely will return to active command.

CHINESE OCCUPY INNER DEFENSES OF TENGCHUNG

Aug 6

CHUNGKING, Aug. 6 — (AP) Chinese troops have occupied the inner defenses of Tengchung, main objective of the Salween offensive and key to a junction with Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's Burma forces, after scaling the centuries-old walls of the city with medieval type ladders and using ultra-modern flamethrowers to cut their way forward.

The victorious Chinese also swarmed through gaps punched in the 15-foot thick walls of the town by skip-bombing B-25's of the U. S. 14th Air force. The medium bombers, coming in at tree-top height, sent delayed skip bombs hurtling at the base of the city wall blowing skyward massive rocks which had been in place since the days of Marco Polo.

Reported By Headquarters

The story of the Chinese entry into Tengchung was reported from the headquarters of Brig. Gen. Frank Dorn of the American "Y-force" operations staff, and said savage fighting was in progress inside the city as 2,000 beleaguered Japanese desperately tried to fight their way out of the Chinese encirclement.

After repeated Japanese failures to break out, Chinese of the 20th army group renewed their assault and swarmed into the city, the report said.

NIGHT

The operations were observed by "Y-force" liaison officers and hundreds of Chinese villagers from posts on the hills around the city.

Gen. Dorn's headquarters said the Chinese penetration into Tengchung was made possible by the splendid cooperation of the 14th Air force and American observation officers in tiny liaison planes, directing by radio the fire from the Chinese army's American artillery and Russian-made mortar.

Hand-to-Hand Fighting

Close hand-to-hand fighting developed as the Chinese troops pouring through the rubble strewn breaches of the city's wall were met by the desperate Japanese.

Many of the wounded were carried by stretcher three miles back to an old Buddhist temple where Americans had set up a portable hospital.

The attack leading to the occupation of Tengchung's inner defenses was described as the most violent one of the entire Salween campaign.

Tengchung is 70 air line miles from fallen Myitkyina in Burma. Gen. Stilwell said yesterday in an interview at Kandy, Ceylon, that it was believed no Japanese remain between Myitkyina and Tengchung.

Japan Cuts China Rail Service

CHUNGKING, Aug. 6 (AP).—Chinese reports said today the Japanese had been forced to curtail sharply passenger and freight transportation on railways of north central China because of a shortage of fuel and the urgent pressure of military needs.

NIGHT

AUG 7 1944

Japs' Retreat In New Guinea Sets Precedent

First Time in Southwest Pacific That Nips Have Elected to Back Up.

By Harold Streeter
Associated Press War Editor

Keep your fingers crossed, but that report from Gen. Douglas MacArthur of the Japanese in full retreat from 700 miles of Dutch New Guinea coast establishes an encouraging precedent.

First Time

It marks the first time in the southwest Pacific and the second time in the war that the Japanese have elected to pull out in force from an untenable position. Kiska, in the Aleutians, was the first.

In a way, this reported exodus on Dutch New Guinea is more significant than the one on Kiska because the Japanese in the latest incident are reacting quicker to an unfavorable situation.

Although Kiska was bypassed in May, 1943, by the invasion of Attu, the Japanese there waited until late July or early August before they got off.

Were Bypassed

In the case of Dutch New Guinea, the Japanese along Geelvink bay and the north coast of Vogelkop were bypassed July 30 by American landings at Sansapor. Five days later, MacArthur announced the enemy retreat was under way.

That Dutch New Guinea area is thick with jungles and has rugged mountain terrain. It is ideally suited for those hitherto typically tenacious Nipponese holdouts which require the attention of planes and naval patrols.

In just such favorable terrain and despite an equally untenable situation, Japanese on Bougainville and in the Solomons have, for more than six months, pinned down American airforces and soldiers which otherwise could be fighting elsewhere.

One Difference

There is one difference. On Dutch New Guinea, some of Gen. Fusataro Teshima's second army may elude Allied bombs, make their tortuous way through jungles to the south coast and flee by boat to the Dutch East Indies. On Bougainville in the Solomons, the Japanese have nowhere to go.

Neither have the Japanese trapped in the eastern Marshalls since February. Neither have the Japanese at Rabaul, hemmed in since March. But they could give up.

Perhaps it would be wishful thinking to suggest the effect of accumulative reverses is near the point when an entire Japanese garrison will run up the white flag. But, when thousands of the enemy are reported quitting a defensible sector with airfields and at least one good harbor before a single Allied soldier has landed anywhere along 700 miles, suffice it to say:

"How times have changed."

Hint Bomber Base Shift To Marianas Is.

Present Holdings in Group Offer Good Superfortress Bases.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—A hint that the major base of B-29 Superfortress operations against the Japanese homeland may be shifted to the Marianas soon came today from two high air officers.

General H. H. Arnold, commander of the 20th Airforce of Superfortresses as well as chief of the Army Air Forces, said in an address prepared for delivery on the Army Hour program of NBC:

Operating From China

This indication that the China-based operations will become only a part of a gigantic strategic air war directed at the enemy from several quarters was implemented by remarks of Brig. Gen. Robert W. Douglass, Jr., commander of the 7th Airforce, with headquarters at Hawaii.

"All eyes out here are on our aviation engineers, racing to build huge bases in the Marianas—bases that threaten the very gates of Tokyo.

A Miracle of Construction

"I cannot tell you just what they have accomplished, but I can say that it is a miracle of construction. Today Saipan is one of our most important and busiest bases in the Pacific."

Arnold emphasized that the three raids of the B-29's on Japan and Japanese industrial targets in China, while attaining very good bombing results, are in the nature of testing operations.

"You must remember," he said, "that the B-29 is a youngster. He has just taken his first experimental steps and it will be some time yet before he will be running all over the globe and getting into everything."

First Global Air Force

This was reference to his statement that the 20th is the "first global air force in history."

The The 20th bomber command has been limited in its operations by the same factor that limits the work of the 14th Airforce, also based in China—the necessity of flying in from India, over the Himalayan hump, all fuel, oil and repair parts needed for planes.

With bases in the Marianas, ships can land these supplies in limted quantities directly at the B-29 airfields.

Hitler Bomb Also Intended for Duce

NEW YORK, Aug. 6 (AP) — The Berlin radio, recorded by the Associated Press, broadcast today an official statement from Venice asserting that the bomb aimed at Adolf Hitler also was intended for Benito Mussolini.

"The same German military circles which were found guilty of the attempt effected an advance in the date of Il Duce's journey to Germany by several days," an Italian spokesman for Mussolini's puppet government in Venice was quoted as saying.

Obviously, the spokesman added, the conspirators planned to use the meeting of Hitler and Mussolini for carrying out their plot.

Allies Reported Agreed On Plans for Germany

And This Time Reich Will Be Occupied, London Hears

The British radio yesterday quoted the diplomatic correspondent of the "Sunday Times" as writing that "details of the occupation" of Germany "already have been unanimously agreed" upon and that "the victorious Allied troops will not this time halt at the frontiers of Germany but will occupy its whole length and breadth."

In a broadcast reported by United States government monitors. The British radio quoted the "Sunday Times" writer as saying: "The Allies are determined not again to be caught napping as they were in 1918, when the sudden and unexpected collapse of Germany found them unprepared with any cut-and-dried plans for armistice.

"All three great powers, Great Britain, Russia and America, have contributed draft plans, and the co-ordinated conditions now agree upon cover the whole field of military measures involved when the Germans finally surrender."

AUG 7 1944

U. S., Britain Sign Postwar Pact Soon

Will Be First Formal Agreement on International Trade When Final Seal Is Put On Oil Pact, Sometime This Week.

AUG 7 1944

By Flora Lewis

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Britain and the United States are due to sign the first formal agreement on postwar international trade early this week when the final seal is put on the oil pact.

Agreement Reached

Delegations headed by Secretary of State Hull for this country and Lord Beaverbrook for the British have been discussing oil policy for a little over a week now, and agreement is understood to have been quickly reached.

Main result will be the establishment of an Anglo-American commission on oil moving in international trade. There was some diversion of opinion on the powers of the commission, with the British contending that it should be able to enforce its recommendations on oil production and markets and the Americans holding that the commission's views should be merely advisory.

Purely Advisory

The final decision was to give the commission purely advisory powers, and the plan is that it will make recommendations to each government, which can then pass them along to private oil producing companies either as advisable plans or as law, if Congress or parliament sees fit.

The Anglo-American agreement, which aims at orderly development of the world's oil resources within the framework of free competition but with safeguards against competitive waste, is considered primarily an interim pact until other United Nations can be brought in. Moves towards talks with Russia, Venezuela, Colombia and other oil-interested countries will get underway as soon as the ink is dry on the Anglo-American pact.

A Valuable Beginning

The agreement is considered a valuable beginning in further pacts on other important commodities which assume military and political importance in international trade.

The United States already has begun exploratory talks with Britain and the Netherlands on synthetic rubber, and such commodities as wheat and cotton probably will be reviewed later.

of accessible reserves for war-time use.

While the American policy generally is to avoid restrictive agreements which smack of monopoly or production-limiting cartels, it is felt that the various agreements can be a long step towards avoiding destructive post war Anglo-American trade competition which might endanger international cooperation in the field of peace and security.

Keeps Others Informed

The state department has kept other governments informed of developments in the oil conferences, and the attitude is to put the emphasis on multi-lateral agreements wherever possible, broadening the pacts beyond their initial two power status.

The military importance of oil has not been overlooked in the talks, and establishment of an oil commission is recognized as a ready means of imposing sanctions if a world security organization finds them necessary.

The commission could recommend that all member countries stop selling oil to an aggressor, when the proposed peace league declared that international security was menaced.

At the same time, it would make possible the orderly development

Gen. DeWitt To Succeed Gen. McNair

War Dept. Announces Assignment to Undisclosed Demand.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6. (AP)—The assignment of Lieut. Gen. John L. DeWitt to succeed Lieut. Gen. Lesley J. McNair in an undisclosed command of great importance in Europe was announced tonight by the War Department.

DeWitt, former commanding general of the Fourth Army and the western defense command with headquarters at San Francisco, has been commandant of the joint Army-Navy Staff College in Washington for the past 13 months.

Headed Defense Mobilization

In his West Coast Command, he headed the mobilization of defenses of the coast after Pearl Harbor, and carried out the evacuation of Japanese nationals from critical areas.

McNair, former commanding general of the Army ground forces, was killed in Normandy July 25 by a bomb from an American plane participating in the bombardment which opened the way for the break-through of American forces near St. Lo.

No Hint of Assignment

His assignment overseas, and the designation of Lieut. Gen. Ben Lear as his successor In command of the ground forces,. was announced by the Army July 14, but no hint was given, then or since, of the nature of the assignment, except that it was of great importance.

McNair was with forward elements of U. S. infantry observing the front line action when he was killed.

AUG 7 1944

SOMERVELL SEES NEW ORDER ENDING OUTPUT PROBLEMS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 — (AP) Solution of the army's critical production problems was predicted yesterday by Lt. Gen. Brehon Somervell as a result of the imposition of labor controls by James F. Byrnes, Director of War Mobilization.

"It's the first time we've had anything with teeth in it," Somervell said of the Byrnes order which placed employment ceilings on industries in labor shortage areas, gave the War Manpower commission veto power over resumption of civilian production in labor surplus areas, and authorized the use of sanctions to enforce the labor controls.

Reach Agreement

Complete agreement between the War department, the Manpower commission and the War Production board on the need for vigorous enforcement was indicated by Somervell in an interview. He suggested also that the order would facilitate the planning for eventual conversion from war to peacetime production.

Somervell, commanding general of the army service forces, expressed belief the use of the authorized sanctions—including allocations of materials, fuel, power and services—would be necessary in few if any cases, but made it plain the agencies involved would not hesitate to invoke them if necessary.

Reiterating the urgent need for sharply increased output of certain critical items — including rubber tires, heavy artillery, artillery ammunition, tanks, explosives and fire control apparatus, construction equipment, flame throwers, cotton duck and tentage, cranes and derricks, and heavy trucks—Somervell said the heartening news from the combat fronts should act on the home front as a spur to hasten victory.

"You can't take the team off the field until the game is over," the General said. "I have my own guess as to when the war with Germany will be over, but it's based on the assumption that our production requirements will be met so that the troops can keep rolling.

Have Done a Good Job

"We have made miscalculations at time of the amount of material we would need, but by and large we have done a pretty efficient job. We don't have any more surplus stocks, relatively, than the average department store has to carry.

"And it doesn't solve our problems to know that we have plenty of one type of equipment when the demand from the troops in the field is for something else. It doesn't help me to have plenty of small arms ammunition when I need artillery ammunition—I can't use rifle bullets in a 155 millimeter gun.

"What we need is a realization that when we say we've got to have certain equipment, the need is a real one. We are entitled to that faith. When we tell the factory worker that his plant has to deliver two shells instead of one, he should realize that the only reason we say it is that we need the shells.

"When a gunner at the front sends a message back to the ammunition dump that unless he gets more ammunition, his gun quits firing in an hour, his report isn't questioned. It's the same with us here. We have more time lag—we figure in weeks or even months, while the man in action figures in days or hours, or even minutes—but the situations are essentially the same."

ARMY OFFICIALS ASKED TO EXPLAIN HOTEL TRANSFERS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 — (AP) Army officials will be called on soon, Sen. Kilgore (D.-W. Va.) declared today, to explain "an apparent inconsistency" in real estate transfers.

Kilgore said Senator Ferguson (R.-Mich.) and he, as members of the Senate committee investigating the national defense program, are "making a thorough check" of the matter.

The committee already has issued one report sharply critical on the subject.

"We are investigating reports the Army is trying to secure several large hotels to convert into rest centers for war veterans, and at the same time is disposing of some luxury hotels already converted," Kilgore told a reporter.

The committee will be asked this week he said, to urge the Army to reconsider its decision to return to the owners the former breakers hotel, now the Ream general hospital, at Palm Beach, Fla.

"They'll have to show us it's cheaper to obtain other properties and convert them into hospitals than it is to keep one already in full use," Kilgore asserted. "We are not satisfied with this situation."

The Breakers hotel was the subject of considerable controversy this Spring, and Senator Pepper (D.-Fla.) once asked President Roosevelt to intervene, contending the Army was catering to "special interests" by returning the property to the owners.

The Army at that time reconsidered its decision, but after study by a special board announced that the Breakers would be returned to the owners Dec. 11.

The committeemen also expect to study interest of the Army in hotels at several other places including Asheville, N. C., Hot Springs, Ark., Lake Placid, N. Y., and San Francisco.

Cutbacks Not A Significant Problem--OWI

Says Workers Absorbed Back Into Industry and Cites Examples.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Production cutbacks "are not now a significant problem," the Office of War Information reported today, citing as evidence the lay-off of 14,925 war workers in the same six-week period which saw the demand for workers rise by 200,000.

216 Cutbacks

Cutbacks numbered 216 and involved $215,827,000 worth of munitions in the period from mid-June to Aug. 1, the first six weeks of operation of the production executive committee staff, which reviews military cutbacks for the War Production Board.

"Compared with the great number of war contracts in effect (estimated at around 100,000 not counting subcontracts or prime contracts under $50,000) and the current rate of production under those contracts, these current cutbacks have almost no effect on war production," said a statement by Arthur H. Bunker, PEC staff director.

In 51 of the cutbacks reviewed by Bunker's unit, lay-offs were involved. No employes were released in 130 cases and in 35 cases the number laid off, if any, was not known.

New York Hit Heavily

The cutbacks hit New York state more heavily than any other, the value of contract curtailments being estimated there at $37,031,000 in 9 plants, with 4,240 workers released.

Ohio was second with $23,850,000 in contracts cancelled but the number of workers released, 925, was lower than in Michigan where cuts totaled $18,207,000 and lay-offs 2,603. Massachusetts had $22,946,000 in cutback value and 1,811 layoffs, while New Jersey had $22,102,000 in value of cutbacks and 900 lay-offs.

OWI noted that the 14,925 workers laid off in the six weeks were an insignificant part of the total munitions labor force of 10,000,000 men.

Need For More Workers

"During the same period, the War Manpower Commission reported that increased requirements for ammunition, heavy trucks, tanks, shells, heavy duty tires, and certain secret projects, among others, created a need for an additional 200,000 workers," the report said.

In 52 cases, the workers affected were switched to other contracts held by the plant or put to work on new contracts. In 15 plants the cutback merely made it necessary for the companies to hire more workers, and in 58 cases the firms merely reported that no workers wer released, without explaining how they were to be absorbed. In only two cases did plants report the displaced men were being transferred to civilian production.

Small Cutbacks Not Reviewed

Small cutbacks are not reviewed by the PEC staff, hence were not included in the tabulation. The staff handles any cutback which is part of a procurement program involving an outlay of $1,000,000 in four months.

An effort to discourage "cutback strikes" and "sit-ins" was evident in a portion of Bunker's statement quoted by OWI. "As a matter of national policy," he said, "we think it is highly important for both workers and management to understand that cutbacks in the military production must be made without delay when such production is no longer needed.

"Every effort will be made however, to give as much advance notice as possible and to find other uses for facilities displaced and other jobs for workers laid off."

Dies Demands Swift Action on P. A. C. Drive

Letter to Biddle Says C.I.O. Has Spent Large Sums to Swing Primary Voting

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP).—Representative Martin Dies, Democrat, of Texas, formally requested Attorney General Biddle today to take immediate steps to correct political abuses which the Texan attributed to the Congress of Industrial Organizations Action Committee.

AUG 7 1944

Mr. Dies, chairman of the Committee on Un-American Activities, said his committee has evidence that the P. A. C. "has interfered" in primary elections and has spent "large sums of money . . . to influence the outcome.

Information gathered by his committee, Mr. Dies said last week, will be made available to Mr. Biddle, and unless the Attorney General acts on it by Sept. 1 he threatened to start Congressional action.

Stressing a need for prompt action, Mr. Dies wrote Mr. Biddle that the current political campaigns "will be over in a few months," adding that "these unlawful acts are being committed now and the bills for these acts are being footed by the people of the country who pay the salaries of the men and women who are defying the law."

Specifically, Mr. Dies requested Mr. Biddle to investigate to determine whether government officials, who, he claimed, have been active in P. A. C. work, have violated the Hatch act restricting political activity of Federal employees and whether the Political Action Committee has violated election laws.

"The forces now marshaled under the banners of Sidney Hillman and Earl Browder, using at different times different organization names to cloak their activities and skirt the edges of the law," he continued, "have just recently altered their course by setting up still another organization known as the National Citizens Political Action Committee."

(Former Senator George W. Norris, independent, of Nebraska, last night accepted the honorary chairmanship of the new group.)

Mr. Dies asked that "close scrutiny" be given the new organization which, he said, "intends to raise two funds of $3,000,000 each" to support the Democratic Presidential and Vice-Presidential nominees in the coming election.

(Mr. Hillman, at a New York news conference Saturday, said the executive board of the N. C. P. A. C. had set a goal of $1,500,000 for contributions to be used in behalf of President Roosevelt's re-election and for the election of a "progressive Congress.")

"In this case," Mr. Dies added, "Hillman and Browder will have at their disposal, by the use of two subsidiary organizations, twice the amount permitted by law to carry on a political campaign . . . It would be strange indeed if these radical disturbers were to enjoy immunity not permitted the two great political parties of the nation."

Mr. Dies's letter was made public by Robert E. Stripling, chief committee investigator who recently released a report of telephone conversations between government officials and employees and the New York headquarters of the P. A. C.

Mustering Out Pay Boost Is Proposed

Enactment of Reconversion Bill Will Substantially Increase Army Severance Pay and Unemployment Benefits for Returning Veterans

AUG 7 1944

By Don Hyndman

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Mustering out pay and unemployment benefits for World War II veterans will come in for a substantial boost if Congress enacts the Murray-Truman-Kilgore reconversion bill scheduled for debate in the Senate Tuesday.

Draws Attention

That phase of the legislation—all but obscured by a storm of controversy over compensation payments to civilian workers who lose their war jobs—drew attention today when Senator Burton (R-Ohio) said he favored retaining benefits set up in the newly-enacted GI Bill of Rights as a standard for the states to match in their civilian compensation programs.

The GI bill, which became law June 22, fixed a flat $20 a week for a maximum of 52 weeks for maintenance of veterans unable to find jobs upon leaving the services. Under the Murray-Truman-Kilgore measure, veterans without dependents would get $20, those with one dependent $25, two dependents $30, and three or more dependents $35. The same scale would apply to the civilian unemployed, with the federal government paying whatever portion the states failed to pay.

Would Triple Allotments

In the case of mustering out pay, the Reconversion Bill would more than triple present discharge allowances in some instances.

Under the mustering out pay law enacted last February, payments range from $100 to $300 depending on length of service and whether service was overseas. The new bill would make $200 the minimum for a single veteran serving under one year, $250 the minimum for a service man with one dependent, and $300 for veterans with two or more dependents.

To that basic allowance an installment of $100 to $150 would be added for each year of service either at home or overseas, plus one further instalment if the service was overseas. The veteran with two dependents, who served four years and went overseas, thus would be entitled to $1,050.

Favors State Control

Senator Burton told a reporter he favored letting the states keep control of unemployment compensation rates and standards, but thought the GI bill's $20 standard should be retained as a level which states should seek to adopt voluntarily. The state payments now vary from $13 to $22 weekly.

"Congress considered the GI bill carefully," Burton said, "and it seems to me it could well be adopted as the prevailing level for compensation payments. What is needed is a rate that will be adequate to maintain persons unemployed for short periods, but not one so high that it will encourage idleness."

The Murray-Truman-Kilgore bill will collide in the Senate Tuesday with a rival measure by Senator George (D-Ga) which would leave administration to the states, while bringing 2,000,000 federal employes under the compensation program.

Would Direct Rapid Discharge

Another provision of the Murray-Truman-Kilgore measure, applying to veterans, would direct the War and Navy departments to discharge members of the armed forces after the war as rapidly as possible. The bill states they shall "not retain such persons in the armed services merely for the purpose of preventing unemployment or awaiting opportunities for employment."

Senate and House committees will start hearings tomorrow on a series of bills dealing separately with the problems of disposing of surplus war goods. Leaders now plan, however, to defer final action on that issue until other demobilization legislation is out of the way.

British Ask Lend Lease After War

Said Necessary to Stave Off Economic Trouble in Islands

AUG 7 1944

NEW YORK, Aug. 6—(AP)—The National Association of Manufacturers said today British leaders have told the United States that extension of lend-lease beyond the war in Europe was "absolutely necessary to stave off a serious economic situation in England."

Serious Consideration

Top administration circles, the association declared in its weekly publication, NAM News, already are giving serious consideration to a proposal for providing such assistance, at least until the fall of Japan, and perhaps well into the transition period.

"The proposal under discussion," NAM said, "is a wide departure from the present lend-lease program, in that its primary purpose would not be to aid the prosecution of the war, but would be very frankly to support Britain's domestic economy. The program would cost U. S. taxpayers $2,500,000,000 and up a year, above war costs."

Declaring that, according to unofficial estimates, Britain's exports have dropped 60 to 75 per cent since the outbreak of the war and that she has lost and liquidated an estimated 50 per cent of her foreign investments, NAM said British leaders were worried especially over how they are going to get along the first few years after the fall of Germany.

Have Rejected Suggestions

"Thus far," the publication added, "the British have rejected all suggestions that such postwar assistance be placed on the basis of direct loans, or that they go to the proposed international bank for assistance. 'They tell us they would rather have it lend-leased,' one top U. S. official explained.

"The British are determined to avoid, insofar as possible, going deeply into debt, or liquidating any more foreign holdings. As a result of our assistance to date they have managed to keep their entire national debt, both foreign and domestic, down to around $75,000,000,000—and that includes about $5,500,000,000 owed us from the last war, which they still carry on their books—while our own debt is soaring towards an estimated $300,000,000,000."

NAM said a primary concern of administration officials was how to "make Congress understand."

May Come Out Stronger

"There is already considerable feeling on the hill that the British may come out of this war stronger, fiscally than ourselves," the publication added, "also, if we grant such aid to the United Kingdom, will not Russia, France, Belgium, Holland and so on infinitum, expect the same sort of treatment, they ask. And if we don't give it to them, will not a policy of playing favorites win us enemies?"

LEHMAN SCORES REPORT ON FUNCTIONS OF UNRRA

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—(AP) Herbert H. Lehman, director of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration, commenting on a published report that the organization's role in rebuilding post-war Europe would be less than expected, says "there has been no change at all in the functions of the UNRRA."

The New York Herald Tribune said today in a dispatch from London that the UNRRA would have virtually nothing to do with the "feeding, reconstruction or administration of western Europe," because experience in Normandy has purportedly shown native authorities more capable of handling these affairs "than outsiders from Britain and America."

In his comment, also printed in the Herald Tribune, Lehman said UNRRA "has always contemplated and so set down in the agreement that any country able to pay for supplies would have control of the distribution of supplies and would call on us only for necessary services."

"The western countries of Europe—France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Norway—can pay for their supplies and will manage their distribution. It was always contemplated that way," he said.

REPORT PUERTO RICANS FACING STARVATION

BOSTON, Aug. 6 — (AP) More than 250,000 Puerto Ricans are facing starvation unless the government can give them financial relief, the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals was told today by David L. Kruger, assistant attorney general of the island possession.

Kruger sought to have the court, which has jurisdiction of Puerto Rican affairs, lift an injunction imposed by the supreme court of Puerto Rico, forbidding distribution of $16,000,000 in emergency relief.

The injunction was obtained by a taxpayer, Celesino Iriate Miro, at San Juan last month, in which he named Rafael Buscaglio, Puerto Rico's treasurer. However, a temporary restraining order lifting the injunction was issued by Senior Circuit Court Judge Calvert Magruder.

Kruger maintained to the three-man court that the fund, which would grant 25 cents a day to about 250,000 persons, was vitally needed "to keep them alive."

30.24—17799

Transport Resumes With Armed Guard In Quaker City

AUG 7 1944

Strikers Sulkily Return to Work as Army Moves in After Five-day Strike Which Paralyzed Nation's Third Largest City.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6 (AP)—Helmeted, rifle-carrying soldiers guarded every vehicle that moved in Philadelphia's public transportation system today with every indication that full service would be resumed tomorrow after a five-day unauthorized strike paralyzed the nation's third largest city, crippled war production, and caused race violence.

Stern Ultimatum

A stern ultimatum from Maj. Gen. Philip Hayes, who seized the Philadelphia Transoprtation Company Thursday on orders of President Roosevelt and the arrest of four strike leaders on charges of violating the Smith-Connally Act broke the back of the strike last night.

Sullen and resentful, strikers straggled back today to register for work before the 12:01 a. m. Monday deadline set by Geenral Hayes.

James H. McMenamin, leader of the general strike committee, issued a broadcast back-to-work appeal to the 6,000 PTC employes, who walked out over the upgrading of eight Negroes to operating jobs, and was arrested as he left the studio.

Pleads Innocent

Immediately arraigned, he pleaded inocent along with William C. Dixey, Frank P. Carney and Frank Thompson. Each was held in $2,500 bail. After a night in jail, McMenamin posted bond today and registered to return to work at his scheduled hour of 4:30 a. m. Monday. The others also were released on bond.

U. S. Commissioner Norman J. Griffin, setting hearings for August 14, told the four:

"You men have given Philadelphia one of the worst weeks in its history."

The week saw 13 persons hospitalized in racial clashes; war production in this second largest American arsenal cut an estimated 15 per cent; loss to merchants of an estimated $5,000,000 worth of business; 500,000 man hours in Army and Navy contract work lost; depletion of military gasoline stores by emergency rations to civilians; loss of $650,000 revenues by the PTC; and 1,500,000 daily trolley, bus, elevated and subway train riders forced to walk, hitch-hike or use precious emergency gasoline rations.

With Crushing Suddenness

The break came with crushing suddenness last night as the federal government threw its full weight into the tug-of-war between the strikers and the Army which had lasted for two days.

General Hayes issued his ultimatum—"work or be fired" without unemployment compensation or certificate of availability for the duration; Attorney General Biddle ordered a grand jury investigation which was set for next Wednesday; Selective Service, in a blunt "work or fight" action, ordered cancellation of occupational deferments for all draft-age strikers; and the Smith-Connally act was invoked against the four leaders.

Several thousand soldiers from camps in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Maryland, rushed to the city late yesterday, were on duty with full battle equipment on every trolley, bus and train and every station.

25 Lines Operating

The Army reported 25 of 41 lines operating this afternoon, 43 of 61 trolley lines, and subway and elevated trains running on a "limited basis."

At 8:30 p.m. (EWT) the Army announced 11 more bus lines and 10 more trolley lines were operating and said Market Street "El" operations were "good" and Broad Street subway operations "fair."

No exact figures on the number of vehicles operating on any of the lines were available, but the Army said over-all service was about 50 per cent of normal.

Meanwhile soldiers were seen driving empty trolleys, each "GI" operator with a PTC-uniformed man standing behind him, presumably instructing.

All lines must be in operation tomorrow, General Hayes said, or soldiers will run any "which otherwise would remain idle."

The Transport Workers Union (CIO), collective bargaining agency for PTC employes, which denounced the strike, adopted today a resolution addressed to President Roosevelt urging that the federal investigation "begin with the role of the management of PTC in conceiving this conspiracy and its execution."

"Without question," the statement said, "the events in Philadelphia were the results of a plot conceived by sinister forces and executed by a small traitorous, company-minded band in the ranks of the workers."

Evidence of Collusion

"Unmistakable surface evidence points to collusion on the part of important company officials," the TWU stated. "The interruption of work could never have succeeded had not the management suddenly become extremely lenient towards the ringleaders and devoid of any initiative in coping with the crisis."

The statement thanked the President for ordering the Army to suppress the conspiracy against the nation's war effort" and pledged "everything in our power to make up for the severe damage to war production and morale" resulting from the stoppage.

The company has declined comment on the two allegations.

General Hayes ordered cancelled all vacation leaves beginning as of midnight and telegraphed those starting vacations prior to today: "It would be appreciated if you would voluntarily return immediately from your vacation due to the emergency. If sufficient volunteers are not forthcoming, it may be necessary to cancel all vacations. If so, you will be further notified. Reply by Immediate collect telegram."

Addresses Strikers

After signing up to return to work, McMenamin addressed a crowd of 200 strikers saying:

"You go back to work at the point of a bayonet, but you must obey the orders of your commander-in-chief. We will take this matter up and thrash it out in the federal courts."

The husky, 43-year-old McMenamin said he had lost 21 pounds during the strike, was now down to 180.

A federal spokesman said more than 35 persons, including PTC officials and leaders of striking employes, would be questioned by the grand jury.

No Further Warrants

"It is quite possible," he said, "the grand jury will indict others, but there will be no further warrants issued until after the federal investigation. The FBI is continuing its investigation. We're shooting for the big fish.

The men returned to work knowing that they had lost the issue for which they struck. The eight Negroes who were to receive instructions as trolley car operators the day the strike began will get that instruction tomorrow, the Army decreed.

There were no demonstrations.

The Negro population greeted with quiet enthusiasm the resumption of Army-protected service. Children —white and Negro—dashed to the curb as one trolley proceeded through a mixed residence section.

Elks' Head On Hand

J. Finley Wilson, grand exalted ruler of Negro Elks, arriving this morning, said, "I wanted to be on hand to lend whatever influence I have with the 40,000 Negro Elks and the citizens here against the use of violence. Now's the time we've got to keep cool heads."

"We don't anticipate any trouble," said Herbert E. Millen, assistant director of public safety, after a tour of Negro sections, where he said "things are quiet, orderly, and everything is under control."

Some of the returning workers were happy. One middle-aged operator said:

"This has been the dullest week of my life. I feel like a real American to be coming back to work. Just a few leaders organized this strike with intimidation and everything else."

As women operators appeared and were joined by their soldier-guards, there were jocular shouts, as: "Hurry up, Dorothy; the handsome ones are almost all gone."

An estimated 2500 PTC employes of draft age face the induction order and about 600 already have been reclassified, it was reported.

AUG 7 1944

By The Associated Press.

HAWTHORNE, Calif., Aug. 6—The Northrop Aircraft, Inc., announced today that the War Department had approved the release of heretofore carefully guarded details of the P-61 Black Widow night fighter, termed the world's largest and most powerful pursuit plane.

The company gave this picture:

Black Widow crews and ammunition boxes are protected from .30 and .50 caliber enemy machine gun fire by specially designed armor plate, bullet resistant glass and deflector plates.

Incorporated into the ship is the first full-span landing flap for low landing speed, combined with a new-type aileron which retracts into the upper section of the wing, giving the Black Widow unusual maneuverability

Term Black Widow Deadliest Plane

Pro-Roosevel Texans Fight t Control Electo

Democratic Opposition Challenged to Showdo at Sept. 12 Convention

AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 6 (AP).—Texas's militant pro-Roosevelt Democrats spouted fighting talk today, challenging anti-Roosevelt Democrats to a showdown battle for control based on a nose count of delegates at the September state convention.

Out of the clamor to flatten the opposition came an organization extending into every county of the state, the primary purpose of which will be to make sure that Texas's twenty-three electors with the Democratic label also go down the line for Roosevelt and Truman.

The anti-compromise-minded caucus named Herman Jones, of Austin, chairman. It will seek to make sure every pro-Roosevelt delegate named at last week's county conventions is on hand at Dallas Sept. 12, that those who are not will put their proxies in the right hands, and that the campaign be carried to every individual uninstructed delegate as well as to friendly delegates in counties not bound by the unit rule.

Purpose No. 2 of the pro-Roosevelt forces will be to take over the party organizatic and thereby divest themselves of such terms as "rump" or "pro-Roosevelt Democrats."

Woodville Rogers, of San Antonio, said that under his interpretation of the election laws, the September convention could refuse to certify the names of the twenty-three electors named at the so-called "regular" convention, declaring vacancies if they refused to take the pledge.

"Then we would proceed to certify the right names to the Secretary of State. If he refuses to certify them for printing on the ballot, we would have another lawsuit."

The caucus was held as members of the state executive committee were gathering here for tomorrow's session, which will canvass the party vote of the July 22 primary.

Upon the basis of each county's vote for the successful candidate for Governor in that primary, the voting strength of each county delegation will be computed by the committee.

AUG 7 1944

LONDON--FIRST ADD R[illegible]AN X[illegible] THAT AREA.
YEREMENKO'S TROOPS CAPTURED 40 LOCALITIES DURING THE DAY, CLOSING IN STEADILY ON THE RAIL JUNCTION OF KRUSTPILS, 73 MILES SOUTHEAST OF RIGA, AND TO THE NORTH GEN.IVAN MASLENNIKOV'S THIRD BALTIC ARMY SEIZED 30 TOWNS IN SOUTHERN ESTONIA. (HERCHER)
MASLENNIKOV'S TROOPS CAPTURED LAURA, 35 MILES SOUTHWEST OF PSKOV, AND KUSTOVKA AND LYUBYATOVA, TWO TO THREE MILES SOUTHWEST OF LAURA, NEAR THE LATVIAN BORDER. A GERMAN BROADCAST SAID NAZI TROOPS IN THIS AREA WERE WITHDRAWING "ON A BROAD FRONT," 113 MILES NORTHEAST OF RIGA.
RQ842PEW

SECOND LEAD AERIAL
BY NED NORDNESS
LONDON, MONDAY, AUG 7-(AP)-MORE THAN 2,000 AMERICAN HEAVY BOMBERS HIT BERLIN AND OTHER GERMAN INDUSTRIAL CENTERS YESTERDAY IN A MOUNTING CAMPAIGN AGAINST ENEMY WAR PRODUCTION, AND RAF MOSQUITOS FOLLOWED UP THESE BLOWS WITH A RAID LAST NIGHT OF A SYNTHETIC OIL PLANT AT CASTROP-RAUXEL IN THE RUHR.
AS THE BIG AMERICAN BOMBERS X X X 2ND GRAF, (MAKING TIME ELEMENT CONFORM.)
MQ112AEW

LONDON,AUG.6-(AP)-THE GERMAN-CONTROLLED PARIS RADIO SAID TODAY THAT DESTRUCTION OF DAMS, COAL BARGES AND OTHER FUEL SOURCES BY FRENCH RESISTANCE FORCES WAS BRINGING NEW FUEL RESTRICTIONS AND WOULD FORCE MANY FACTORIES TO SHUT DOWN.
RM415AEW NM

LONDON, AUG. 6-(AP)-A REUTERS CORRESPONDENT WITH T[illegible] AMERICANS IN BRITTANY CABLED TONIGHT THAT GERMAN TROOPS AT LORIEN, HAD ASKED THE AMERICAN TANK FORCE DRIVING ON THE BASE TO ACCEPT THEIR SURRENDER BEFORE THE BATTLE WAS STARTED.
RQ1027PEW

AUG 7 1944

LONDON, AUG 6-(AP)-IN ONE OF ITS FIRST COMMENTS ON TURKEY'S BREAK WITH GERMANY, MOSCOW SAID TONIGHT IT WAS "RATHER OVERDUE" AND "DOES NOT MEAN TURKEY HAS ENTERED THE RANKS OF THE STATES WHO ARE WAGING A DIFFICULT STRUGGLE AGAINST HITLERITE GERMANY."

THE COMMENT, BROADCAST BY THE MOSCOW RADIO AND RECORDED BY THE SOVIET MONITOR HERE, WAS IN AN ARTICLE BY TASS' "DIPLOMATIC OBSERVER."

"WHEN THE OUTCOME OF THE WAR HAS ALREADY BEEN DECIDED IN FAVOR OF THE ANTI-HITLERITE COALITION, THANKS TO THE HEROIC EFFORTS OF THE RED ARMY AND THE ALLIES AND WITHOUT THE SLIGHTEST PARTICIPATIONS IN THESE EFFORTS OF TURKEY, THE PRESENT CHANGE IN TURKISH POLICY IS RATHER OVERDUE AND MUST NOT BE OVER-ESTIMATED," SAID TASS.

"IN EVALUATING TURKEY'S DECISION TO BREAK OFF DIPLOMATIC AND TRADE RELATIONS WITH GERMANY, EVEN THIS DECISION DOES NOT MEAN TURKEY HAS ENTERED THE RANKS OF STATES WHO ARE WAGING THE DIFFICULT STRUGGLE AGAINST HITLERITE GERMANY.

"IT MUST NOT BE FORGOTTEN THAT TURKEY EVEN NOW MAINTAINS AS CLOSE RELATIONS AS HITHERTO WITH GERMANY'S SATELLITES WHO ARE WAGING WAR AGAINST THE SOVIET UNION AND OTHER DEMOCRATIC COUNTRIES."

MQ1138PEW

LONDON, AUG. 6-(AP)-MAJOR GEORGE E. PREDDY, GREENSBORO, N.C., REPORTED TODAY HE SHOT DOWN SIX ENEMY FIGHTER PLANES IN A FEW MINUTES OF FAST ACTION NEAR HAMBURG, A FEAT SELDOM EQUALLED IN THIS WAR.

AUG 7 1944

THE EIGHTH AIR FORCE MUSTANG FIGHTER'S RECORD ROSE TO 24 1/2 IN THE AIR AND SIX ON THE GROUND, SENDING HIM CLOSE TO THE TOP OF ALLIED LIST OF ACES IN THE EUROPEAN THEATER.

FLYING AS A GROUP COMMANDER, PREDDY SAW 30 ME-109'S HEADING FOR THE HEAVY BOMBERS HIS GROUP WAS ESCORTING. HE BECAME SEPARATED FROM HIS WING MAN IN HIS HASTE TO GET AT THE ENEMY.

"THE 109'S WERE FLYING A TIGHT FORMATION AT 28,000 FEET," HE SAID. "I GUESS THEY FIGURED THEIR PROTECTIVE TOP COVER WOULD TAKE CARE OF ME, FOR THEY DIDN'T WAVER FROM THEIR COURSE. I CLOSED RIGHT INTO THE PACK AND SHOT DOWN FIVE IN LESS THAN FIVE MINUTES."

PREDDY'S SIX-ON-ONE-FLIGHT RECORD EQUALS THAT OF THE MISSING COL. NEAL E.KEARBY, SAN ANTONIO, TEX., WHO WON THE CONGRESSIONAL MEDAL OF HONOR FOR DOWNING SIX JAPANESE PLANES IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC.

MIS MISSION TO HAMBURG PUT HIM CLOSE BEHIND LT.COL.FRANCIS S. GABRESKI, OIL CITY, PA., NOW MISSING, WHO HAD A TOTAL OF 31 KILLS, 28 IN THE AIR AND THREE ON THE GROUND.

OF THE FIRST FIVE PLANES QUICKLY KNOCKED DOWN BY PREDDY ONLY ONE OF THE NAZI PILOTS MANAGED TO USE HIS PARACHUTE, THE OTHER FOUR FALLING IN FLAMES.

"AFTER SPLITTING THE ENEMY FORMATION I GOT ON THE TAIL OF THE SIXTH ME-109 AND CHASED HIM DOWN TO 5000 FEET," PREDDY RELATED. "THE FIRST FIVE NEVER HAD A CHANCE AND NONE FIRED A SHOT AT ME BUT THIS GUY GAVE ME A REAL OLD-FASHIONED DOGFIGHT. I FINALLY TURNED AND CAUGHT HIM SMACK IN THE FUSELAGE JUST BELOW THE COCKPIT. I SAW HIS CHUTE OPEN AS HE BAILED OUT."

PREDDY'S OTHER MULTIPLE SCORES FOR ONE DAY INCLUDE A DOUBLE, TRIPLE AND QUADRUPLE. HE HOLDS THE SILVER STAR, THE DISTINGUISHED FLYING CROSS WITH FOUR CLUSTERS AND THE AIR MEDAL WITH THREE CLUSTERS. HE FORMERLY FOUGHT FROM AUSTRALIA.

-DASH MATTER)-

IN HIS HOMETOWN OF GREENSBORO, N.C., MAJ. PREDDY IS KNOWN BY HIS FRIENDS AS "MOUSE.".

BEFORE THE WAR THE NAVY TURNED HIM DOWN FOR AIR SERVICE, AND WHEN THEY CHANGED THEIR MINDS AND WANTED HIM MAJ. PREDDY WAS ALREADY IN TRAINING WITH A NATIONAL GUARD UNIT AT FORT MOULTRIE, GA.

HE WAS COMMISSIONED A SECOND LIEUTENANT FIVE DAYS AFTER PEARL

AUG 7 1944

30,24—17801

HARBOR AND WAS IN AUSTRALIA IN JANUARY, 1942.

WHILE "DOWN UNDER" MAJ. PREDDY EXPRESSED THE DESIRE TO SEE SOME OF HIS VICTIMS GO DOWN, BUT THE BEST HE WAS CREDITED WITH IN THAT THEATRE WAS "PROBABLES".

HIS ONLY INJURY CAME WHEN HE WAS FLYING AS A GUINEA PIG FOR DIVE PRACTICE FIGHTING IN AUSTRALIA IN NOVEMBER, 1942. A PILOT ABOVE FAILED TO COME OUT OF HIS DIVE AND CRASHED INTO PREDDY'S PLANE. PREDDY BAILED OUT IN TIME, WENT THROUGH SOME TREES TO THE GROUND WHERE HE WAS PICKED UP SEVERAL HOURS LATER WITH A BAD LEG INJURY.

IT WAS WHILE ON A BRIEF FURLOUGH HOME RECOVERING FROM THE INJURY THAT MAJ. PREDDY SAID HE WANTED TO SEE PLANES HE SHOT "GO DOWN".

MAJ. PREDDY STARTED FLYING IN HIGH SCHOOL AND HAD FINISHED TWO YEARS AT GUILFORD COLLEGE, QUAKER INSTITUTION, WHEN HE WENT INTO MILITARY SERVICE.

HE WAS CREDITED WITH SHOOTING DOWN HIS FIRST PLANE IN DECEMBER, 1943. IT WAS A ME109. HE IS EXPECTED BACK HOME SOMETIME NEXT MONTH, FRIENDS SAID.

GS957PEW NM

AUG 7 1944

LONDON, AUG. 6-(AP)-FIGHTER PILOTS OF THE EIGHTH U.S. AIR FORCE SHOT DOWN 33 ENEMY PLANES TODAY ON THEIR ESCORT MISSION INTO GERMANY.

SIX WERE CLAIMED BY MAJ. GEORGE E. PREDDY OF GREENSBORO, N.C.

TWO EACH WERE LISTED BY LTS. CHARLES J. CESKY OF 3102 LOCHRAVEN RD., BALTIMORE, AND FREDERICK H. ALEXANDER OF 3529 THIRTY-SIXTH AVE., WEST, SEATTLE, WASH., AND CAPT. HENRY J. MIKLAJCYK OF SYRACUSE, N.Y.

THOSE CREDITED WITH ONE EACH INCLUDED:

LTS. WILLIAM W. BEHREND, TRENTON, N.J.; PAUL D. FICKEL, OTTUMWA, IOWA; ROBERT F. WOOD, RAYMOND, CANADA; DONALD A. ZEINE, GLASFORD, ILL.; DONALD C. PENNY, 1065 SEVENTEENTH AVE., COLUMBUS, OHIO; MYER R. WINKLEMAN, DAVID, TEXAS.

SHELDON HEYER, PEARL CITY, ILL.; WILLIAM D. MARTIN, FORT SMITH, ARK.; BENJAMIN H. RADER, FINDLAY, OHIO; WILLIAM H. LEWIS, GRAND JUNCTION, COLO.; KENNETH C. ZMELTZ, LANCASTER, PA.; JOSEPH L. MANSKER, LONG BEACH, CALIF.; JOSEPH A. PATTERSON, DETROIT; JOHN E. KLINK, SYRACUSE, N.Y.; JOHN T. GODFREY, WOONSOCKET, R.I.; FRED W. GLOVER,

ASHEVILLE, N.C.;

CAPTS. ENOCH B. STEPHENSON, COLUMBIA, TENN.; BURT W. MARSHALL, GREENVILLE, TEXAS; CHARLES W. LENFEST, BOISE, IDAHO; AND FLIGHT OFFICER CYRIL B. DELEAC, NEW ORLEANS.

AUG 7 1944

ONE WAS SHARED BY CAPT.RICHARD E. CONNOR OF VICKSBURG, MISS., AND LT. JAMES B. STALLINGS OF MOULTRIE, GA.

HJ812PEW

ADD AT BRIT-FRONT NORMANDY -(GREENE) XAFUEL

"A GERMAN SS DIVISION COULD GET BACK TO THE SEINE BUT THE INFANTRY CANNOT BECAUSE THEY ARE NOT MOBILE ENOUGH," HE ADDED.

THE SPOKESMAN THEN READ THE FOLLOWING FROM A CAPTURED GERMAN DOCUMENT WRITTEN BY THE COMMANDER OF THE SECOND GERMAN PANZER DIVISION FOR THE ENLIGHTMENT OF A NEW GERMAN DIVISION WHICH WAS TAKING OVER A SECTOR OF NORMANDY FRONT:

"THE ENEMY'S INCREDIBLY HEAVY ARTILLERY BOMBARDMENT IS SOMETHING NEW AND TERRIBLE. THE GERMAN AIR FORCE IS CONSPICIOUS BY ITS ABSENCE. ONLY SIX GERMAN PLANES FLEW OVER OUR DIVISIONAL AREA IN FOUR WEEKS--ONE AND ONE HALF PLANES PER WEEK. OUR SOLDIERS ENTER BATTLE IN THE LOWEST SPIRITS. BEST RESULTS CAN BE OBTAINED IN WHIPPING UP MORALE BY HAVING PLATOON COMMANDERS UTTER GOOD OLD-FASHIONED 'HURRAH,' OR BY BLOWING A BUGLE AS THE TROOPS CHARGE INTO BATTLE."

RQ615PEW

ADD INVASION BEACH FRANCE -(JAMESON) XA G-UN

IN THE TOWER WERE LT.COL.JACOB MOTTORN OF PUNXSUTAWNEY, PA., COMMANDER OF ONE OF THE COMBAT ENGINEER BEACH GROUPS THAT HANDLES THE TRANSFER OF THE CARGO FROM THE SHIPS TO INLAND SUPPLY DUMPS, AND TWO OF HIS ASSISTANTS, LT.ANTON PRISTO OF BERWYN, ILL., AND LT.HAROLD OLIN OF ASHLAND, OHIO. THE THREE OF THEM CAME IN EARLY ON D-DAY.

"EIGHTY-TWO MEN FROM MY BRIGADE WERE KILLED OR WOUNDED THAT DAY," MOTTORN SAID.

IN ANOTHER CONTROL TOWER WAS CAPT.GILBERT R.BUTTS OF OMAHA, NEB., WHO DIRECTS TRUCK DRAFFIC. HIS ASSISTANT, CPL.RALPH M.RICHIE OF AKRON, OHIO, BARKS OUT ORDERS OVER A LOUDSPEAKER TO THE TRUCKS AND DUCK WHICH FORM A CONTINUOUS CHAIN TO AND FROM THE SHIPS TO THE REAR.

THE DUCKS, MANY OF THEM DRIVEN BY NEGRO SOLDIERS, SCOOT BACK AND FORTH FROM THE SHIPS TO THE BEACH WITH LEVEL TRUCKLOADS WHICH ARE LIFTED OUT BY HUGE CRANES ONTO THE BEACH. WHEN THE TIDE IS RIGHT THE DUCKS AND BARGES PULL RIGHT UP TO SEVERAL SEAWALL RAMPS AND UNLOAD.

AUG 7 1944

WG106PEW

BY EDWARD D.BALL

WITH AMERICANS IN BRITTANY, AUG. 6-(AP)-AMERICAN TROOPS TODA CAPTURED CHATEAU-GONTIER, 17 MILES SOUTH OF THE FALLEN ROAD JUNC. OF LAVAL, AND 24 MILES NORTH OF ANGERS.

W226AEW

BY EDWARD D.BALL

WITH THE AMERICANS IN BRITTANY, AUG.6-(AP)-IT WAS ANNOUNCED OFFICIALLY TODAY THAT AMERICAN ARMORED TROOPS HAVE REACHED VANNES, WHILE ANOTHER TANK SPEARHEAD NEARED THE LOIRE RIVER ESTUARY EAST OF ST.NAZAIRE. VANNES IS 37 MILES NORTHWEST OF ST.NAZAIRE.

RH746AEW

BY EDWARD D.BALL

WITH THE AMERICANS IN BRITTANY, AUG 6-(AP)-AMERICAN TROOPS DRIVING EASTWARD OUT OF THE BRETON PENINSULA TOWARD THE FRENCH INTERIOR AND PARIS CAPTURED LAVAL AND MAYENNE TODAY.

MAYENNE IS 137 MILES FROM PARIS, WHILE THE TOWN OF LAVAL IS 148 MILES FROM PARIS.

C266AEW

AUG 7 1944

BY EDWARD D.BALL

RENNES, FRANCE, AUG. 4 (DELAYED)-(AP)-AMERICANS LIBERATED RENNES TODAY AFTER FOUR YEARS OF GERMAN DOMINATION AND TONIGHT THE CITY WHOSE HEART WAS BLASTED BY GERMAN DEMOLITIONS WAS CELEBRATING IN A FESTIVE MARDI GRAS ATMOSPHERE.

THROUGH BROKEN GLASS AND DEBRIS, THE CELEBRANTS MARCHED SINGING THE MARSEILLAISE, AND EMBRACING EVERY KHAKI-CLAD SOLDIER ENCOUNTERED IN THE BLACKET-OUT STREETS.

A BRIGHT FULL MOON OVERHEAD CAST IN SHARP RELIEF THE JAGGED, SAWTOOTH RUINS OF BUILDINGS TORN APART BY THE ENEMY BEFORE HIS FLIGHT SOUTHWARD, BUT THIS SOMBER PICTURE FAILED TO DAMPEN THE FERVOR OF THE EFFUSIVE FRENCH, WHO ACCORDED THE AMERICANS A MOVING AND HEART-WARMING WELCOME.

BEFORE MAKING THEIR EXIT, THE GERMANS SET OFF TONS OF DEMOLITION CHARGES AND MINES. THE STATION AND RAILYARDS ALREADY HAD BEEN DAMAGED HEAVILY BY ALLIED AIR BOMBS.

THE ALLIED BOMBING HAD BEEN ACCURATE AND EFFECTIVE. DAMAGE WAS CONFINED CHIEFLY TO COMMUNICATIONS IN THIS HUB OF RAIL AND ROAD TRAFFIC FOR THE WHOLE OF BRITTANY.

THE CHARGES SET BY THE GERMANS LET GO WITH A TERRIFIC BLAST---SIMILAR TO DESTRUCTION WROUGHT IN LONDON BY BUZZ-BOMBS.

RENNES BEGAN SETTING ITS MUNICIPAL HOUSE IN ORDER AS SOON AS THE AMERICANS MOVED IN. A CROWD OF BETWEEN 10,000 AND 15,000 GATHERED IN THE MAIN SQUARE IN MID-AFTERNOON, LISTENED TO SPEECHES, SANG THE FRENCH AND AMERICAN NATIONAL ANTHEMS, THEN HEARD THE NAMES OF THE NEW CITY OFFICIALS.

THE MAYOR WHO HELD OFFICE UNDER THE GERMANS AND WAS ACCUSED OF BEING A COLLABORATOR WAS REPLACED BY A MAN SELECTED BY GEN. DE GAULLE'S COMMITTEE OF NATIONAL LIBERATION. THE OUSTED MAYOR WAS PERMITTED TO REMAIN IN HIS HOME WHILE OTHER COLLABORATIONISTS WERE ROUNDED UP BY THE RESISTANCE MOVEMENT AND HERDED INTO UNDERGROUND DUNGEONS, WHERE MEMBERS OF THE RESISTANCE GROUP HAD BEEN IMPRISONED THEMSELVES.

WOMEN PREDOMINATED AMONG UPWARDS OF 100 PERSONS SEIZED BY NIGHTFALL AND ACCUSED OF BEING COLLABORATIONISTS.

W322PEW

30.24 —— 17803

BY EDWARD D.BALL

WITH THE AMERICANS IN BRITTANY, AUG. 6-(AP)-COMPLETING A 43-MILE ROAD DASH IN TEN HOURS, AMERICAN FORCES SPED INTO MAYENNE SO FAST LAST NIGHT THAT THEY CAUGHT THE GERMANS FLAT-FOOTED.

THE FORCES, INCLUDING TANKS, TANK-DESTROYERS, ENGINEERS AND MOTORIZED INFANTRY, CRUSHED THE MEAGER ENEMY RESISTANCE AND STORMED INTO THE TOWN AT 10 P.M. AFTER A DRIVE WHICH BEGAN ABOVE FOUGERE AND SWUNG THROUGH THE TOWN OF ERNEE.

THE SPECTACULAR DASH COST LITTLE IN CASUALTIES AND NETTED 75 GERMANS CAPTURED AND 25 KILLED.

AUG 7 1944

IN MAYENNE THE AMERICANS FOUND DEEP, WELL-BUILT FORTIFICATIONS EMPTY AND THE MAYENNE RIVER BRIDGE INTACT, ALTHOUGH IT HAD BEEN MINED WITH 500-POUND CHARGES.

BEFORE HIS MAIN BODY ESCAPED, THE ENEMY DID SUCCEED IN DESTROYING ONE SECONDARY BRIDGE.

"WHILE WE WERE OCCUPYING THE TOWN THE GERMANS BEGAN SHELLING THE MAIN BRIDGE BUT WE SENT A FORCE ACROSS THE RIVER JUST BELOW TOWN AND KNOCKED OUT THEIR GUNS," SAID SGT.ROBERT D.MITCHELL OF LITTLE ROCK, ARK.

"WHEN WE WORKED OUR WAY TO THE BRIDGE WE FOUND OUR MEN HAD PICKED OFF THE CREW THE GERMANS LEFT BEHIND TO CARRY OUT THE DEMOLITION."

"A FEW OF THE PRISONERS TAKEN IN MAYENNE INCLUDED SS.MEN," SAID CAPT. IVAN SCHOCH, 1550 MARIN AVE., BREKELEY, CALIF., "BUT THERE WAS NO FIGHT LEFT IN THEM."

IN CONVERSATIONS WITH PRISONERS, GERMAN-SPEAKING SGT.RAYMOND STEINBAUCH OF NEAR ABILENE, TEXAS, LEARNED THAT SOME GERMANS WERE DUE TO REACH TOWN BY AUTOMOBILE FROM THE EAST SOON AFTER THE AMERICANS ARRIVED.

TWO STAFF CARS AND A TRUCKLOAD OF GERMANS ROLLED DOWN THE ROAD AS SCHEDULED. THE OCCUPANTS OF THE STAFF CARS WERE CUT DOWN BY THE WAITING AMERICANS. THOSE IN THE TRUCK SURRENDERED.

THEN ALONG CAME A BIG, ELEGANTLY-FITTED LIMOUSINE WITH RED LEATHER UPHOLSTERY. IT WAS GOING SO FAST IT CAREENED THROUGH A ROAD BLOCK. ONE OF THREE OFFICERS IN THE CAR WAS THROWN OUT BY THE COLLISION WITH THE BLOCK, THE SECOND WAS KILLED WHEN HE JUMPED, AND THE THIRD FINALLY FELL OUT OF THE DOOR WITH BOTH HIS LEGS CUT OFF AS AMERICAN FIRE STOPPED THE CAR. YELLING AND CURSING, HE WAS CARRIED TO A FIRST-AID STATION BY SGT.FRANK L.DOLL OF CHICAGO (STREET UNAVAILABLE)

RQ833PEW

WITH THE BRITISH ON THE CAUMONT FRONT IN FRANCE, AUG. 6-(AP)-AS THE GERMANS CONTINUED TO SIPHON BATTERED DIVISIONS FROM THREATENED ENTRAPMENT IN THE CAUMONT SECTOR TONIGHT, NAZI TROOPS WERE POURING EASTWARD ACROSS THE ORNE RIVER.

BRITISH PATROLS ALREADY HAVE PROBED ACROSS THE ORNE ABOVE THE GERMAN ANCHOR AT THURY HARCOURT BUT GEN.SIR MILES DEMPSEY HAS NOT YET ATTEMPTED A MAJOR CROSSING. BRITISH VANGUARDS THRUSTING INTO LE HOM FOUND THE GERMANS HAD BLOWN UP THE BRIDGE ACROSS THE ORNE LOOP FROM LE HOM TO THURY HARCOURT.

THE BRITISH LINE NOW EXTENDS ROUGHLY FROM THE VIRE IN THE SOUTHWEST THROUGH SOURDE, ESTRA, ONDEFONTAINE, AND AUNAYSURODEN THEN EAST AND SOUTH THROUGH VALLEE TO LE HOM.

IN THE SOUTH TANK-SUPPORTED GERMAN INFANTRY RECAPTURED VIESSOIX AND DROVE THE BRITISH BACK NORTH OF THE VIRE-VASSY ROAD.

A BRITISH STAFF OFFICER SAID THERE "SIGNS OF ENEMY REINFORCEMENTS COMING UP FROM THE SOUTH IN AN ATTEMPT TO BLOCK A FURTHER BREAKTHROUGH."

RQ748PEW

AT THE FRENCH FRONTIER, AUG. 6-(AP)-THE NAZIS, FALLING BACK STEADILY UNDER THE PRESSURE OF ALLIED INVASION FORCES, HAVE BEGUN THE EVACUATION OF TECHNICAL SERVICES FROM FRANCE, IT WAS REPORTED FROM ANNECY TONIGHT.

FAMILIES OF GERMAN RAILWAY WORKERS, SOME WORKERS AND A GROUP OF CIVILIAN TECHNICIANS ALREADY HAVE LEFT. EVEN THE TODT ORGANIZATION IS MAKING PREPARATIONS TO RETURN TO GERMANY, THE ANNECY INFORMANT DECLARED.

THE RECORDS OF GERMAN ECONOMIC COMMISSIONS IN FRANCE WERE SHIPPED HOME SOME TIME AGO, AND IT WAS REPORTED MANY MEMBERS OF THESE COMMISSIONS WERE INDUCTED INTO MILITARY SERVICE.

THE ALLIED ADVANCE FURTHERMORE PROVOKED A CRISIS IN VICHY AND THERE WERE UNCONFIRMED REPORTS THE GOVERNMENT WAS PREPARING TO TRANSFER HEADQUARTERS TO VITTEL AND THAT IF THE OUTLOOK CONTINUED TO WORSEN PETAIN WOULD BE TAKEN TO GERMANY.

NAZI BOMBERS, IN AN UNEXPECTED CLEANUP EFFORT YESTERDAY AND TODAY, ATTACKED FRENCH PARTISANS IN THE VALENCE AND SAINT JEAN DE VERCERS AREAS.

GERMAN TROOPS AND FREE FRENCH FIGHTERS FROM THE VALLEY OF ABONDANCE HAVE BEEN FIGHTING SINCE SATURDAY IN A SERIES OF BATTLES AROUND BONNEVILLE IN HAUTE SAVOIE. FRENCH RESISTANCE HEADQUARTERS COMPILING REPORTS AVAILABLE ANENT THE WHOLE MOVEMENT GAVE THESE CASUALTY FIGURES FOR THE PERIOD JULY 1 TO JULY 24. 1,500 PARTISANS KILLED OR CAPTURED; 1,200 GERMANS KILLED OR CAPTURED.

RQ1006PEW

AUG 7 1944

BY FRANKLIN BANKER

A U.S. BOMBER BASE IN ENGLAND, AUG. 6-(AP)-LT.COL.ROBERT W.BURNS OF ECRU, MISS., WHO LED A FORMATION OF U.S. HEAVY BOMBERS TO GENSHAGEN, A SUBURB OF BERLIN, TODAY SAID "QUITE A LOT OF DAMAGE WAS DONE TO THE TARGET" DESPITE STRONG OPPOSITION FROM NAZI FIGHTERS.

AUG 7 1944

"WE REACHED OUR OBJECTIVE A FEW MINUTES BEFORE OUR FIGHTER SUPPORT AND THE JERRIES TOOK ADVANTAGE OF THIS," HE RELATED, "BUT THEY FAILED TO DISRUPT OUR BOMBING, HOWEVER."

COL. BURNS SAID THE FLAK IN THE BERLIN AREA WAS "HEAVY, AS USUAL."

SGT. ASHER BROWN 34 LAIRD ST., LONG BRANCH, N.J., A RADIO OPERATOR, SAID "A FORMATION OF EIGHT FOCKE-WULFS TRIED TO GET INTO US BUT OUR P-51'S (MUSTANGS) RAN THEM RAGGED BEFORE THEY HAD A CHANCE TO MAKE A PASS AT US."

"I SAW A LOT OF DOGFIGHTS WHEN WE FIRST GOT INTO GERMANY," REPORTED LT. JOHN LOCKARD, OF ROUTE ONE, LANCASTER, PA., A PILOT.

LT. SAM MARSHALL, 1336 MARKET ST., JACKSONVILLE, FLA., SAID "ENEMY FIGHTERS WERE CATCHING HELL IN THE BERLIN AREA."

"THERE WASN'T MUCH TO IT--NINE HOURS LONG, THATS ALL," COMMENTED LT. WILLIAM FORTSON OF 115 SIXTH AVE., ST.PETERSBURG, FLA., A PILOT IN THE GROUP WHICH BOMBED BERLIN.

AUG 7 1944

"YOU FINISHED YOUR TOUR TODAY DIDN'T YOU?" ASKED A G.I., AND PROMPTLY DAUBED FORTSON'S FACE WITH A LIBERAL APPLICATION OF YELLOW PAINT. THE PILOT'S TIE ALREADY HAD BEEN CUT OFF BY HIS GROUND CREW CHIEF IN THE HIGH-JINKS THAT OCCUR WHEN A PILOT FINISHED UP.

"SOMEONE DID A GREAT JOB ON HAMBURG," SAID LT. JOHN GALLAGHER OF 10 UPLAND ROAD, WEST CONCORD, MASS., A NAVIGATOR. "SIX OR EIGHT BI BLACK COLUMNS OF SMOKE WERE COMING UP. THE SMOKE DRIFTED 25 TO 30 MILES SO THE WHOLE AREA WAS COMPLETELY BLACK."

LT.JACOB QUINTIS OF 6701 RIDGE AVE., PHILADELPHIA, WAS ANOTHER PILOT WHO COMPLETED HIS TOUR TODAY. HE KISSED HIS MASCOT, AN ODD TWO-FOOT WOODEN SOLDIER, AS HE DROPPED OUT OF HIS FORTRESS HATCH.

RADIO OPERATOR SGT. CRAIG GADD, 412 WEST PALMER ST., CHARLOTTE, N.C., ALSO FINISHED UP TODAY.

UX419PEW

WITH THE CANADIANS SOUTH OF CAEN, AUG. 6-(AP)-CANADIAN FORCES AT THE PIVOT OF THE GIANTIC ALLIED ATTACK ENVELOPING NORTHWEST FRANCE, HAVE STRUCK AGAIN AT THE DESPERATELY HELD GERMAN LINE AND FRENCH-SPEAKING TROOPS FROM QUEBEC HAVE FOUGHT THEIR WAY INTO MAY-SUR-ORNE, A VILLAGE ONE MILE SOUTH OF ST. ANDRE AND FIVE MILES SOUTH OF CAEN.

THE CANADIANS ALSO FOUGHT INTO ST. MARTIN DE. FONTENAY, ALSO ON THE EAST BANK OF THE ORNE.

THE ENEMY LINE HERE WAS THE STRONGEST AND MOST SUBBORNLY HELD ALONG THE ENTIRE ALLIED FRONT AND THE GAIN OF A SINGLE MILE WAS AN IMPORTANT ADVANCE.

THE ATTACK WENT IN SATURDAY EVENING.

W954AEW

BY EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, AUG. 6-(AP)-THE RED ARMY'S CAMPAIGNS AGAINST EAST PRUSSIA AND WARSAW ENTERED THE FINAL STAGE TODAY.

GEN. IVAN CHERNIAKHOVSKY'S THIRD ARMY CAME TO GRIPS AT THE EAST PRUSSIAN BORDER WITH LARGE GROUPS OF FRESH GERMAN UNITS.

ADOLF HITLER'S GOVERNOR GENERAL OF POLAND, HANS FRANK, FLED FROM WARSAW TO KRAKOW, LEAVING THE GARRISON STRUGGLING IN THE BURNING CITY AGAINST RISING NUMBERS OF POLISH GUERRILLAS.

CHERNIAKHOVSKY'S AVIATION CHIEFTAIN, 33-YEAR-OLD COL. GEN. TIMOFEY KRUIKIN LAUNCHED A NEW AIR ASSAULT ON EAST PRUSSIA, FLYING 2,500 SORTIES IN THE LAST THREE DAYS.

W849AEW

AUG 7 1944

BY DANIEL DE LUCE

MOSCOW, AUG. 6-(AP)-THE POLISH NATIONAL COMMITTEE OF LIBERATION AND PREMIER STANISLAW MIKOLAJCZYK OF THE POLISH GOVERNMENT IN LONDON TOOK THE FIRST STEP TOWARD POLISH UNITY TODAY WITH A CONFERENCE WHICH LASTED MORE THAN FOUR HOURS AND WILL BE RESUMED MONDAY.

MEETING IN THE FORMER POLISH EMBASSY, THE EXILED GOVERNMENT, REPRESENTED BY MIKOLAJCZYK AND FOREIGN MINISTER TADEUSZ ROMER DISCUSSED RECONCILIATION TERMS WITH THE COMMITTEE'S PRESIDENT, EDWARD BORESLAV OSUBKA-MORAWSKI, VICE PRESIDENTS [redacted] WITOS AND WANDA WASILEWSKA (Andrej) AND THE COMMITTEE'S DEFENSE CHIEF, GEN.MIHAIL ROLIA ZYMIERSKI, WHO FLEW HERE YESTERDAY FROM THE TEMPORARY CAPITAL OF CHELM.

WITH POLAND'S POLITICAL FUTURE IN THE BALANCE, THE NEGOTIATORS WERE UNDERSTOOD TO HAVE RANGED OVER THE WIDEST ASPECTS OF THEIR PROBLEMS AND THE FACT THAT THEY SET THE EARLIEST POSSIBLE TIME FOR THE NEXT MEETING WAS CONSIDERED A GOOD AUGURY FOR UNDERSTANDING.

THE AMERICAN AND BRITISH EMBASSIES KEPT IN CLOSEST POSSIBLE TOUCH WITH MIKOLAJCZYK'S MISSION. THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT'S ATTITUDE, MADE PLAIN AT LAST WEEK'S STALIN-MIKOLAJCZYK CONFERENCE, IS TO LET THE POLES TRY A DIRECT SETTLEMENT OF THEIR DIFFERENCES.

MIKOLAJCZYK DECLINED PUBLIC COMMENT AND COMMITTEE LEADERS HAVE BEEN INACCESSIBLE TO ENGLISH AND AMERICAN CORRESPONDENTS.

MIKOLAJCZYK WAS UNDERSTOOD TO HAVE BEEN GREETED CORDIALLY BY HIS OLD ACQUAINTAINCES, WITOS AND ZYMIERSKI. ONE OF THE PREMIER'S INTIMATES SAID LATER THAT WHAT HAPPENED AT THE MEETING "WOULD MAKE TWO CHAPTERS IN ANY POLISH BOOK."

ANDREI VISHINSKY, SOVIET VICE COMMISSAR OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS, AND OTHERS WELCOMED THE POLES AT THE MOSCOW AIRPORT AND A BAND PLAYED THE NATIONAL ANTHEMS OF POLAND AND THE SOVIET UNION.

"ON BEHALF OF THE POLISH PEOPLE AND ON BEHALF OF THE NATIONAL COUNCIL I CORDIALLY GREET THE CITIZENS OF THE SOVIET CAPITAL," SAID BOLESLAV BERUT, "I AM HAPPY I CAN VISIT THIS COUNTRY, WHICH IS HAILED BY PRESIDENT OF THE POLISH NATIONAL COUNCIL POLAND AS A MOST POWERFUL COUNTRY WITH A COURAGEOUS, HEROICAL ARMY--A COUNTRY WITH WHICH MY MOTHERLAND WANTS ALWAYS TO HAVE FRIENDSHIP."

OSUBKA-MORAWSKI DECLARED THT THE FRATERNITY IN ARMS BETWEEN POLISH AND SOVIET ARMIES WILL SERVE AS A FOUNDATION FOR FRIENDSHIP.

PRAVDA, OFFICIAL COMMUNIST PARTY NEWSPAPER, DECLARED TODAY THAT "THE REAL POLISH PATRIOT KNOWS THAT THERE IS ONLY ONE ROUTE TO FOLLOW--THE STRUGGLE UNDER THE BANNER AND LEADERSHIP OF THE NATIONAL COMMITTEE OF LIBERATION."

SOME SOURCES IN MOSCOW EXPRESSED THE BELIEF MIKOLAJCZYK WILL HEAR FROM THE NATIONAL COUNCIL AND THE NATIONAL COMMITTEE THE TERMS UNDER WHICH ACCEPTABLE POLES NOW OUTSIDE THOSE TWO ORGANIZATIONS COULD JOIN AND WORK FOR A UNITED POLAND.

W240PEW

AUG 7 1944

MOSCOW,AUG.6-(AP)-V.A.MALYSHEV, COMMISSAR OF TANK INDUSTRY, BECAME A HERO OF SOCIALIST LABOR, RECEIVED THE ORDER OF LENIN AND GOLD STAR IN A SPECIAL DECREE OF THE SUPREME SOVIET TODAY AND WAS PROMOTED TO LIEUTENANT GENERAL.

EV711PEW

MOSCOW, AUG.6-(AP)-AMERICAN MUSTANGS DESTROYED 24 PLANES ON AUG. 4 IN THEIR LATEST SHUTTLE OPERATION BETWEEN ITALY AND THE SOVIET UNION, IT WAS ANNOUNCED TODAY.

FOUR WERE DESTROYED ON THE GROUND AND 20 SHOT DOWN IN THE AIR. THREE LOCOMOTIVES WERE SHOT UP ALONG WITH A TROOP TRAIN AND SIX ANTIAIRCRAFT BATTERIES.

SIX MUSTANGS ARE MISSING, BUT ONE OF THE PILOTS IS SAFE.

W^27PEW

CHIASSO, SWITZERLAND, AUG. 6-(AP)-NAZI SS.TROOPS, IN A SUDDEN CLEAN-UP ATTACK AGAINST PARTISANS IN THE APPENINES WHICH IS EXPECTED SHORTLY TO BE BATTLEFRONT WITH ALLIED TROOPS, BURNED SEVERAL VILLAGES IN THE PARMA-MODENA SECTOR AND SHOT MANY SUSPECTED PARTISANS, ITALIAN FRONTIER REPORTS SAID TODAY.

AUG 7 1944

RQ1022PEW

ERNE, AUG. 6-(AP)-SWITZERLAND HAS RESTATED HER POSITION OF THE Right OF POLITICAL REFUGEES TO ASYLUM HERE IN A DECLARATION WHICH CAN, IN APPLICATION--BUT NEED NOT NECESSARILY DO SO--PARALLEL THE ALLIED EFINITION OF WAR CRIMINALS.

INSTRUCTIONS RECENTLY GIVEN TO FRONTIER GUARDS STATE:

"FOREIGNERS UNWORTHY OF ASYLUM BECAUSE OF DESPICABLE ACTS OR OF THEIR ACTIVITIES OR ATTITUDE VIOLATING SWISS INTEREST ARE IN NO CASE TO BE ADMITTED."

SPECIFIC DEFINITIONS OF SUCH FOREIGNERS ARE NOT GIVEN. FRONTIER AUTHORITIES WILL DECIDE MINOR CASES; THE FEDERAL COUNCIL MAJOR CASES.

RQ1008PEW

MADRID, AUG. 6-(AP)-THE LONG-STANDING FEUD BETWEEN ARCH-COLLABORATIONISTS MARCEL ~~DEAT,~~ JOSEPH DARNAND AND JACQUES DORIOT ON THE ONE HAND AND PIERRE LAVAL AND MARSHAL PETAIN ON THE OTHER HAS BROKEN INTO THE OPEN AND IS SPREADING THROUGHOUT FRANCE DISPATCHES SAID TONIGHT.

DEAT, WHO APPARENTLY HEADS THE SUPER-COLLABORATIONIST CLIQUE, SEEMS TO HAVE GOTTEN GERMAN BACKING BY BLAMING NAZI DEFEATS IN NORMANDY AND BRITTANY UPON VICHY'S "WAIT AND SEE" POLICY WHICH PERMITTED THE SPREAD OF THE RESISTANCE MOVEMENT.

DARNAND, WHO CONTROLS ALL VICHY'S POLICE AS WELL AS THE ANTI-RESISTANCE MILITIA, HAS REVOKED THE APPOINTMENTS OF MANY REGIONAL PREFECTS WHO DREW THEIR AUTHORITY FROM THE GOVERNMENT.

IN OTHER LOCALITIES AUTHORITIES WHO REFUSED TO COLLABORATE WITH DARNAND'S POLICE HAVE BEEN DETAINED.

IN AN OUTSPOKEN INTERVIEW PUBLISHED IN TODAY'S EL ESPANOL, DEAT CALLED FOR AN IMMEDIATE VICHY DECLARATION OF WAR ON THE ALLIES AND DECRIED "BAD GOVERNMENTAL DIRECTING FROM VICHY WHERE THE CLIMATE IS FAVORABLE TO TREASON."

RQ752PEW

AUG 7 1944

BY CHARLES S.FOLTZ

IRUN, SPAIN, AUG 6-(AP)-THE GERMANS HAVE BEEN TELLING FRENCHMEN AND EACH OTHER THAT FLYING BOMBS OF BOTH NEW AND OLD TYPES SOON WILL BE UNLEASHED AGAINST THE ALLIED ARMIES IN FRANCE.

BORDER REPORTS HERE ARE THAT SS. AND REICHSWEHR OFFICERS ARE TRYING TO BUOY THE SPIRITS OF THEIR MEN AND COMBAT THE RISING FRENCH CONVICTION THAT THE BATTLE MAY SOON BE OVER WITH STORIES OF A RING OF FLYING BOMB PLATFORMS NOW NEARING COMPLETION DEEP INSIDE FRANCE. FROM THESE PLATFORMS, THE GERMANS CLAIM, THE ROCKETS WILL BE SENT TO DESTROY THE ALLIED LANDING PORTS OF CHERBOURG AND ELSEWHERE.

ALL OF BRITTANY IS BEING ABANDONED, ACCORDING TO A GERMAN STORY PROBABLY INVENTED BY PROPAGANDA MINISTER GOEBBELS, TO BRING THE ALLIES WITHIN RANGE OF THE BOMBS.

FURTHERMORE, THE STORY CONTINUES, THE FLYING BOMB BARRAGE WILL BE ONLY A PRELUDE TO THE GREATEST BATTLE OF THE WORLD WHEN THE LUFTWAFFE, SWOLLEN BY HOARDED RESERVES OF PLANES, AGAIN CHALLENGES ALLIED AIR SUPERIORITY AND ALL THE GERMAN TROOP STRENGTH IS HURLED INTO A BATTLEGROUND OF GERMAN CHOOSING.

THAT IS THE STORY THE GERMANS ARE TELLING ACROSS THE FRONTIER, BUT THERE ARE FEW FACTS TO SUPPORT IT.

AUG 7 1944

MQ1113PEW

ANKARA, AUG. 6-(AP)-THE TURKISH SHIP MEFKURE, CARRYING 250 JEWISH REFUGEES TO TURKEY FROM CONSTANTA, ROMANIA, SANK IN THE BLACK SEA EARLY TODAY WITH THE LOSS OF ALL BUT FOUR OF THE PASSENGERS, SAID EARLY REPORTS REACHING HERE. THERE WERE NO DETAILS.

RQ842PEW

BY FRANK O'BRIEN

ANKARA, TURKEY, AUG. 6-(AP)-A REGULAR NIGHTLY BLACKOUT OF ISTANBUL WILL BEGIN MONDAY, IT WAS ANNOUNCED OFFICIALLY TONIGHT, AS A PRECAUTIONARY STEP FOLLOWING ON TURKEY'S SEVERANCE OF RELATIONS WITH GERMANY.

GERMAN AMBASSADOR FRANZ VON PAPEN LEFT ANKARA FRIDAY NIGHT FOR ISTANBUL ON THE FIRST LAP OF A TRIP WHICH MAY TAKE HIM HOME TO PURGE-RIDDEN GERMANY AND TO A HITLER DISPLEASED WITH THE FAILURE OF HIS MISSION TO TURKEY.

HIS PARTING WITH ANKARA WAS CORRECT AND AMICABLE, WITH TURKISH OFFICIALS OBSERVING ALL THE AMENITIES. HE AND HIS DAUGHTER AND PERSONAL ENTOURAGE WERE GIVEN A SPECIAL CAR BELONGING TO THE FOREIGN MINISTRY.

THE PARTING WORDS BETWEEN VON PAPEN AND HIS COMPANY AND THE SCORES OF GERMANS STILL IN ANKARA WERE "AUF WIEDERSEHEN," AND NOT "HEIL HITLER." ONLY THREE OR FOUR HANDS WERE RAISED IN A HALF-HEARTED HITLER SALUTE, AND VON PAPEN'S WAS NOT AMONG THEM.

A NAZI STRONGARM GUARD TRIED TO BLOCK ALLIED AND TURKISH PHOTOGRAPHERS FROM TAKING PICTURES, AND THE NAZI MILITARY ATTACHE, GEN HANS ROHDE, CREATED A FEW TENSE MOMENTS WHEN HE SNARLED AT THEM AND CALLED THEM SWINE.

GERMAN BROADCASTS IN TURKISH HAVE BECOME SO VITUPERATIVE SINCE THE BREAK WITH GERMANY THAT TURKISH AUTHORITIES TODAY ASKED RESTAURANTS AND COFFEE SHOPS NOT TO TUNE THEM IN ON THEIR PUBLIC RADIOS.

THE TURKISH REQUEST FOLLOWED VON PAPEN'S SWIFT EXIT BEFORE ANY BUT A FEW OF HIS NATIONALS HAD LEFT. THIS PROCEDURE IS CONTRARY TO THE USUAL PRACTICE.

RQ808PEW

AUG 7 1944

CAIRO, AUG.6-(AP)-PREMIER GEORGE PAPANDREOU IN EFFECT HAS OFFERED TO RESIGN IF THAT WILL BRING THE ~~LEFTIST~~ EAM INTO THE ALL-PARTY GREEK GOVERNMENT, IT WAS LEARNED TODAY.

PHILIP DRAGOUMIS, UNDERSECRETARY FOR FOREIGN AFFAIRS, EXPRESSED HOPE AT A PRESS CONFERENCE THAT THE EAM WOULD NOT PRESS ITS DEMAND THAT THE PREMIER RETIRE BEFORE IT ENTERED THE UNITY GOVERNMENT.

PAPANDREOU, WHO HAS BRITISH BACKING, TOLD EAM RESISTANCE LEADERS HE WOULD NOT STAND IN THE WAY OF THEIR ENTRANCE INTO THE COALITION GOVERNMENT, DESPITE THE REFUSAL OF HIS CABINET TO CONSIDER HIS RETIREMENT.

AK1145PEW

1+DD CHUNGKING -(MOPSA) EX TENGCHUNG

(THE SOUTHEAST ASIA COMMAND COMMUNIQUE ANNOUNCED THAT CHINESE TROOPS HAD COMPLETED THE OCCUPATION OF WAINGMAW, ACROSS THE IRRAWADDY

RIVER TWO AND A HALF MILES SOUTHEAST OF FALLEN MYITKYINA. BUT KACHIN LEVIES FIGHTING EAST OF THE RIVER WERE SAID TO HAVE ENCOUNTERED STIFFENING JAPANESE RESISTANCE IN THE MAINGNA AREA, WHICH IS ABOUT TWO AND A HALF MILES NORTHEAST OF MYITKYINA, AND TO HAVE WITHDRAWN FROM THE ATTACK THERE.

(THE BRITISH RADIO IN A BROADCAST RECORDED BY CBS SAID THAT THE "BIGGEST GUN YET FIRED IN THE BURMA CAMPAIGN"--A 155 MM . HOWITZER--WAS USED IN THE FINAL ASSAULT ON MYITKYINA. THE GUN, WHICH WEIGHS MORE THAN FIVE TONS WAS DISMANTLED AND CARRIED IN TWO TRANSPORT PLANES FROM A BASE IN IND[illegible] THE BROADCAST SAID.)

AUG 7 1944

CHUNGKING, AUG.6-(AP)-JAPANESE FORCES IN A NEW DRIVE IN SOUTHWESTERN KWANGTUNG PROVINCE HAVE BURST OUT OF HOIHENG (LUICHOW) PENINSULA AND ARE THREATENING THEIR APPARENT IMMEDIATE OBJECTIVES OF LIMKONG AND FAHSIEN, THE CHINESE HIGH COMMAND ANNOUNCED TODAY.

THE ATTACK WAS LAUNCHED IN TWO DIRECTIONS, TO THE NORTHEAST AND NORTHWEST, AGAINST CHINESE POSITIONS JUST ACROSS THE STRAIT FROM THE JAPANESE-HELD ISLAND OF HAINAN.

THE HIGH COMMAND COMMUNIQUE ALSO ANNOUNCED THAT BLOODY FIGHTING WAS RAGING ALONG THE ENTIRE HENGYANG FRONT WHICH INDICATED THE JAPANESE WERE MAKING DETERMINED BUT SO FAR UNAVAILING ATTEMPTS TO STORM THE DEFIANT CITY AS CHINESE FORCES WITH EQUAL DETERMINATION STILL WERE TRYING TO SMASH THE ENEMY'S ENCIRCLING RING.

ONE ENEMY COLUMN INFILTRATED INTO A SOUTHWESTERN SUBURB OF THE CITY, THE COMMUNIQUE SAID, BUT ADDED THAT MOST OF THE ATTACKERS WERE ANNIHILATED AND THE REMAINDER DRIVEN OUT.

SOME CHINESE SAW IN THE JAPANESE MOVE IN THE LUICHOW PENINSULA A DIVERSIONARY MOVE INTENDED TO PREVENT FURTHER CHINESE REINFORCEMENT OF POSITIONS THREATENED BY THE JAPANESE OFFENSIVE IN HUNAN PROVINCE.

OTHERS, HOWEVER, SAID THAT WHILE IT WAS [illegible] EARLY TO SAY DEFINITELY JUST WHAT WERE THE JAPANESE INTENTIONS THE OPERATIONS MIGHT BE THE START OF A DRIVE ON LUICHOW, JUNCTION OF THE HUNAN-KWANGSI AND KWANGSI-KWEICHOW RAILWAYS. SUCH AN OPERATION IF SUCCESSFUL WOULD NEUTRALIZE THE VALUE OF KWEILIN, PROVISIONAL CAPITAL OF KWANGSI, AS AN ALLIED BASE AND THREATEN IT WITH ATTACK FROM THE REAR

ANOTHER VIEW WAS THAT THE JAPANESE MERELY WERE ENGAGED IN MOPPING UP OPERATIONS TO SECURE THEIR POSITIONS IN THE PENINSULA.

CHINESE HERE HAVE BECOME INCREASINGLY INCLINED TO BELIEVE THE JAPANESE MIGHT ABANDON THEIR PLAN TO CONQUER THE ENTIRE CANTON-HANKOW RAILWAY ON ACCOUNT OF THE UNEXPECTEDLY STUBBORN RESISTANCE OF THE HENGYANG DEFENDERS AND THE GROWING SEVERITY OF THE ATTACKS OF MAJ. GEN.CLAIRE L.CHENNAULT'S PLANES ON THEIR COMMUNICATIONS IN HUNAN.

IT WAS NOTED THAT THE JAPANESE HAVE BEEN IN POSSESSION OF CHANGSHA TO THE NORTH FOR SOMETIME YET THEY HAVE NOT INSTALLED A PUPPET ADMINISTRATION IN THE CITY WHICH WOULD BE A NATURAL COROLLARY TO ANY INTENTION TO REMAIN THERE PERMANENTLY. HOWEVER. IT IS BELIEVED THAT THE JAPANESE WOULD NOT PULL OUT--IF THEY ACTUALLY DO--UNTIL THEY HAVE CONQUERED HENGYANG BECAUSE THEY WOULD LOSE TOO MUCH FACE.

WHILE BOTH SIDES HAVE HAD LOCAL SUCCESSES AND SUFFERED MINOR REVERSES THERE HAVE BEEN NO DECISIVE CHANGES IN THE DIFFERENT SECTORS OF HUNAN IN THE LAST 24 HOURS.

IN THE ONCE SEETHING HONAN PROVINCE THE JAPANESE APPEARED TO BE CONCENTRATING MORE ON REBUILDING THE PEIPING-HANKOW RAILWAY THAN ON MILITARY ACTION AGAINST THE CHINESE.

W237PEW

CHUNGKING, AUG. 6-(AP)-GENERALISSIMO CHIANG KAI-SHEK SENT CONGRATULATIONS TODAY TO LT.GEN.JOSEPH W.STILWELL ON THE CAPTURE OF MYITKYINA, IN BURMA, AND PRAISED THE AMERICAN FOR HIS ABLE GENERALSHIP AND SKILLFUL STRATEGY.

HE ALSO CONGRATULATED LORD LOUIS MOUNTBATTEN, ALLIED COMMANDER FOR SOUTHEAST ASIA.

RQ1011AEW

AUG 7 1944

ADD GEN-STILWELL'S H-Q. 11 COMPLETED

SHOULD HIS CONDITION IMPROVE, MERRILL MOST LIKELY WILL RETURN AGAIN TO ACTIVE COMMAND. MEANWHILE, THE UNIT THAT BEARS HIS NAME HAS RECEIVED REPLACEMENTS, BEEN REINCORPORATED INTO A LARGER ALLIED FORCE, AND STILL IS OPERATING, ARMY AUTHORITIES SAID.

FOR SECURITY REASONS IT CANNOT BE DISCLOSED HOW LARGE THE FORCE IS, OR HOW MANY OF THE MEN HAVE BEEN SENT TO HOSPITALS AND GIVEN PREFERENCE FOR ROTATION TRANSFERS TO THE UNITED STATES, AS RECOMMENDED BY THE INVESTIGATOR'S REPORT.

THE INSPECTOR GENERAL'S REPORT ON THE MYITKYINA CASE IS CLOSED WITH THE RECOMMENDATION THAT NO FURTHER ACTION BE TAKEN BEYOND RECTIFYING THE CONDITIONS THAT CAUSED WHAT IT CALLED "THE ALMOST COMPLETE BREAKDOWN OF MORALE" AMONG THE MARAUDERS.

AUG 7 1944

HEADQUARTERS EMPHASIZED THAT IT WAS A TEMPORARY FLAREUP WHICH HAD BEEN HANDLED SUCCESSFULLY. BOTH STILWELL AND MERRILL ENJOY GREAT POPULARITY WITH THE MEN AND THE REPORT MADE NO ATTEMPT TO PIN THE RESPONSIBILITY ON THEM OR ANY OTHER COMMANDERS FOR WHAT IT CALLED "ILL-ADVISED PROMISES" TO THE MEN.

RQ1040PEW

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, MONDAY, AUG.7-(AP)-AMERICAN TROOPS IN BRITISH NEW GUINEA HAVE CUT THE MAIN ENEMY SUPPLY ROUTE TO THE DRINIUMOR FRONT, HEADQUARTERS ANNOUNCED TODAY.

GEN.DOUGLAS MACARTHUR SAID THE AMERICAN MANEUVER THREATENED TO ISOLATE AN ENEMY FORCE IN THE INLAND AREA AROUND AFUA VILLAGE.

AN ADDITIONAL 526 ENEMY DEAD HAVE BEEN COUNTED ALONG THE DRINIUMOR RIVER BATTLE LINES 17 MILES EAST OF AITAPE

AUG 7 1944 30.24 — 17807

THE TOTAL OF JAPANESE DEAD SINCE RENEWAL OF ACTIVITY JULY 12 IN THE LONG-QUIET WEWAK-AITAPE SECTOR NOW STANDS AT 5,935.

HEADQUARTERS MEANWHILE DISCLOSED THAT PRISONERS OF WAR REPORTED THAT THE RECENT AMERICAN LANDINGS AT SANSAPOR ON THE NORTHWEST TIP OF DUTCH NEW GUINEA, 700 MILES WEST OF THE AITAPE AREA, CAUGHT THE JAPANESE BY SURPRISE.

THE PRISONERS SAID AN AMERICAN ATTACK UPON MANOKWARI, 150 MILES EAST OF SANSAPOR, HAD BEEN ANTICIPATED, AND THE BYPASSING MOVE CAUGHT THE JAPANESE OFF GUARD.

A HEADQUARTERS SPOKESMAN SAID THE LANDING CONFUSED THE JAPANESEM SECOND ARMY IN THE GEELVINK BAY AREA OF DUTCH NEW GUINEA AND LEFT THE ENEMY FORCES "IN A STATE BORDERING ON DEMORALIZATION."

ALLIED BOMBERS ATTACKED A JAPANESE CONVOY NEAR AMBOINA IN THE NETHERLANDS EAST INDIES SATURDAY, SINKING A 1,000-TON FREIGHTER AND DAMAGING TWO OTHERS.

IN TWO SUCCESSIVE DAYS, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY, 73 TONS OF AUG 7 1944 BOMBS WERE DROPPED UPON YAP ISLAND IN TVE CAROLINES, CAUSING TREMENDOUS EXPLOSIVES. PALAU AND WOLEAI ALSO WERE HIT SATURDAY.

OF JAPANESE CASUALTIES IN THE AITAPE FIGHTING, TODAY'S COMMUNIQUE OBSERVED:

"THE TOTAL OF COUNTED DEAD, LARGELY FROM HIS (THE ENEMY'S) COMBAT INFANTRY, IS NOW 5,935 AND INCLUDES ONLY THOSE ABANDONED OUTSIDE HIS LINES.

"THE USUAL CONSERVATIVE RATIO OF DEAD TO WOUNDED WOULD INCREASE HIS LOSSES TO 9,000 TO 12,000. THIS ESTIMATE DOES NOT INCLUDE LOSSES ON HIS LINES OF COMMUNICATION, WHERE 20,000 MEN OF HIS TOTAL FORCE ARE CONSTANTLY SUBJECTED TO INTENSE DAILY AIR AND NAVAL BOMBARDMENT."

OF THE LANDINGS AT SANSAPOR, ONLY ABOUT 600 MILES SOUTHEAST OF THE PHILIPPINES, A WEEK AGO, THE COMMUNIQUE SAID:

"STATEMENTS FROM PRISONERS OF WAR AND FRIENDLY NATIVES, SUBSTANTIATING OUR OWN AIR OBSERVATIONS, EMPHASIZE THE CONFUSION AND DISLOCATION IN REAR AREAS OF THE SECOND JAPANESE ARMY.

"THE ENEMY APPARENTLY EXPECTED AN ATTACK AT MANOKWARI AND HAD THOROUGHLY PREPARED AN ELABORATE DEFENSE SYSTEM.

"WHEN MANEUVER AND SURPRISE WERE EMPLOYED RAOHER THAN DIRECT ASSAULT, AND THE ENEMY'S DEFENSES WERE BYPASSED AND EVELOPED BYTHE UNSUSPECTED LANDING AT SANSAPOR, HIS MAIN COASTAL COMMUNICATIONS WERE CUT AND HE HAS BEEN THROWN BACK UPON THE JUNGLE IN HIS EFFORT TO EXTRICATE HIMSELF.

"HIS FORCES ARE REPORTED IN A STATE BORDERING ON DEMORALIZATION. THIS OPERATION, WHICH CAN NOW BE REGARDED AS COMPLETED, WAS ACCOMPLISHED WITH VERY SMALL FORCES AND INVOLVED ONLY A HANDFUL OF CASUALTIES."

BY AL DOPKING
ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENT
REPRESENTING THE COMBINED AMERICAN PRESS AUG 7 1944

ABOARD REAR ADMIRAL CONNOLLY'S FLAGSHIP, GUAM, AUG 6- (AP-VIA NAVY RADIO)-AS MARINES AND DOUGHBOYS WIPED OUT SMALL BANDS OF JAPANESE THIS HOT SABBATH DAY AND DREW A DEADLY NOOSE TIGHER ABOUT THE TOTALITARIAN ENEMY ON GUAM THEY HAD A CONCRETE EXAMPLE OF DEMOCRACY--THE RIGHT TO VOTE--SHAPING UP BEHIND THEIR OWN BATTLE LINES.

OFFICERS ARE PASSING OUT TO THEM PRELIMINARY CARDS WHICH THEY MAY FILL OUT AND RETURN TO THEIR OWN STATES IF THEY WANT TO CAST A BALLOT IN THE FORTHCOMING ELECTIONS. MARINE COL. WILLIAM J.SCHEYER, OF FREDERICKSBURG, VA., PERSONNEL OFFICER OF THE THIRD AMPHIBIOUS CORPS, SAID EVEN FIGHTERS AT THE FRONT WOULD BE GIVEN TIME OUT TO FILL OUT THE CARDS.

AS THIS DEMOCRATIC ACTIVITY GOES ON THE YANKS ARE PRESSING AHEAD THROUGH UNDERGROWTH SO DENSE THAT IN SOME PARTS TANKS ARE HARDLY DETECTABLE 15 FEET AWAY.

MARINE MAJ. GEN. ROY S.GEIGER, COMMANDING ALL GROUND FORCES IN THE GUAM CAMPAIGN, IS MOVING MEN FORWARD OVER THIS WILD COUNTRY METHODICALLY AND IS AFFORDING THE JAPANESE SLIGHT RESPITE.

GENERAL GEIGER DECLINED TO SPECULATE WHEN THE LAST JAPANESE RESISTANCE ON THE ISLAND WOULD BE BROKEN BUT WITH BOTH AIRFIELDS AND ALL IMPORTANT INSTALLATIONS AND TOWNS IN U.S. HANDS THERE CAN BE NO DOUBT EVEN IN THE ENEMY'S MIND AS TO THE ULTIMATE OUTCOME. WHAT JAPANESE ARE LEFT--MORE THAN 8,000 OF THEM ALREADY HAVE BEEN BURIED BY AMERICANS--ARE FIGHTING DELAYING ACTIONS WHILE THEIR TERRITORY GROWS SMALLER AND SMALLER AND ONLY ONE HEIGHT, 700-FOOT MT. SANTA ROSA ON THE EAST COAST, IS STILL IN THEIR HANDS.

A HODGEPODGE OF NAVY AND ARMY JAPANESE ARE THROWING UP ROADBLOCKS AND BATTLING FROM HASTILY CONSTRUCTED PILLBOXES BUT ARE BEING CLEANED OUT WITH SLIGHT LOSS TO AMERICAN TROOPS.

MOST OF THIS OPPOSITION IS DISORGANIZED. AT LEAST 30 DRUNKEN JAPANESE RUSHED THE THIRD MARINE DIVISION LINE IN A FANATICAL NIGHT ATTACK WHICH ENDED WITH THE ENEMY FLEEING IN MORE CONFUSION THAN WHEN HE ARRIVED. NEARLY HALF OF THE JAPANESE WERE LEFT DEAD.

THE AMERICAN LINE NOW EXTENDS FROM AMANTES POINT ON THE WEST COAST TO LUMUNA POINT ON THE EAST, WITH THE JAPANESE IN COMMAND OF ONLY A FEW MILES IN WHICH TO MAKE THEIR LAST STAND AND WITH THE PROBABILITY OF A WATER SHORTAGE, SINCE ONLY A FEW SPRINGS ARE IN THEIR AREA.

NAVAL GUNFIRE RAKES THIS AREA NIGHT AND DAY, KEEPING THE ENEMY BOTH FROM DIGGING IN AND FROM SLEEPING. FROM OVERHEAD OUR BOMBERS AND FIGHTERS CONSTANTLY ARE HARASSING HIM.

SINCE EARLY JULY THE ENEMY HAS BEEN AWARE OF ONE PARTICULARLY GRIM FACT--NOT ONCE HAS EITHER HIS FLEET OR HIS AIRFORCE PUT IN AN APPEARANCE.

ON THE SOUTHERN END OF THE ISLAND AMERICAN PATROLS ARE ELIMINATING JAPANESE STRAGGLERS WHO WERE CUT OFF FROM THEIR MAIN FORCE WHEN THE SEVENTY-SEVENTH ARMY DIVISION SWUNG AROUND ON THE RIGHT FLANK OF THE THIRD MARINE DIVISION AND MOVED UP THE EAST COAST, TAKING BOTH MT. TENJO AND MT. BARRIGADA.

TROOPS ALTERNATE IN FIGHTING IN DUST AND MUD. SOMETIMES WHEN IT FAILS TO RUN FOR A DAY OR TWO DUST ON THE ROAD BECOMES ALMOST BLINDING, AND THEN IT RAINS AGAIN, CONVERTING THE ROADS INTO QUAGMIRES.

RECONSTRUCTION OF HOUSING ACCOMMODATIONS HAS BEGUN BUT IT PROMISES TO BE A LONG JOB WITH ALL BUILDINGS WRECKED.

MORE THAN 22,000 RESIDENTS, ALL OF THEM LOYAL AMERICANS, HAVE COME INTO OUR CAMPS AND SOME 5,000 OF THESE ALREADY HAVE RETURNED TO THEIR HOMES BEHIND THE PRESENT LINES.

THEY ARE GOING BACK TODAY WITH WHAT FEW BELONGINGS THEY HAVE LEFT ON THEIR BACKS OR IN SMALL CARTS DRAWN BY CARABAO.

ON THE WAY TO AGANA WITH NAVY LT. WILLIAM GOYLE, FORMER WASHINGTON, D.C., RADIO ANNOUNCER, WE SAW ONE OF THE NATIVES LOOKING FOR HIS HOME. HIS NAME WAS JESUS MINDELANO AND HE LOOKED TIRED AND BEDRAGGLED.

WE WATCHED HIM WALK UP TO WHAT HAD BEEN HIS HOUSE--A TWO STORY FRAME STRUCTURE.

HE WENT UP THE STEPS OF THE FRONT PORCH, LEANED AGAINST THE BATTERED WALLS AND LOOKED IN AT THE SHAMBLES OF FURNITURE.

JESUS STOOD THERE A MOMENT, THEN SPOKE.

"YES" HE SAID SLOWLY, "IT WAS WORTH IT."

SF929APW

AUG 7 1944

AUG 7 1944 30.2V — 17807

THE TOTAL OF JAPANESE DEAD SINCE RENEWAL OF ACTIVITY JULY 12 IN THE LONG-QUIET WEWAK-AITAPE SECTOR NOW STANDS AT 5,935.

HEADQUARTERS MEANWHILE DISCLOSED THAT PRISONERS OF WAR REPORTED THAT THE RECENT AMERICAN LANDINGS AT SANSAPOR ON THE NORTHWEST TIP OF DUTCH NEW GUINEA, 700 MILES WEST OF THE AITAPE AREA, CAUGHT THE JAPANESE BY SURPRISE.

THE PRISONERS SAID AN AMERICAN ATTACK UPON MANOKWARI, 150 MILES EAST OF SANSAPOR, HAD BEEN ANTICIPATED, AND THE BYPASSING MOVE CAUGHT THE JAPANESE OFF GUARD.

A HEADQUARTERS SPOKESMAN SAID THE LANDING CONFUSED THE JAPANESEM SECOND ARMY IN THE GEELVINK BAY AREA OF DUTCH NEW GUINEA AND LEFT THE ENEMY FORCES "IN A STATE BORDERING ON DEMORALIZATION."

ALLIED BOMBERS ATTACKED A JAPANESE CONVOY NEAR AMBOINA IN THE NETHERLANDS EAST INDIES SATURDAY, SINKING A 1,000-TON FREIGHTER AND DAMAGING TWO OTHERS.

IN TWO SUCCESSIVE DAYS, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY, 73 TONS OF AUG 7 1944 BOMBS WERE DROPPED UPON YAP ISLAND IN TVE CAROLINES, CAUSING TREMENDOUS EXPLOSIVES. PALAU AND WOLEAI ALSO WERE HIT SATURDAY.

OF JAPANESE CASUALTIES IN THE AITAPE FIGHTING, TODAY'S COMMUNIQUE OBSERVED:

"THE TOTAL OF COUNTED DEAD, LARGELY FROM HIS (THE ENEMY'S) COMBAT INFANTRY, IS NOW 5,935 AND INCLUDES ONLY THOSE ABANDONED OUTSIDE HIS LINES.

"THE USUAL CONSERVATIVE RATIO OF DEAD TO WOUNDED WOULD INCREASE HIS LOSSES TO 9,000 TO 12,000. THIS ESTIMATE DOES NOT INCLUDE LOSSES ON HIS LINES OF COMMUNICATION, WHERE 20,000 MEN OF HIS TOTAL FORCE ARE CONSTANTLY SUBJECTED TO INTENSE DAILY AIR AND NAVAL BOMBARDMENT."

OF THE LANDINGS AT SANSAPOR, ONLY ABOUT 600 MILES SOUTHEAST OF THE PHILIPPINES, A WEEK AGO, THE COMMUNIQUE SAID:

"STATEMENTS FROM PRISONERS OF WAR AND FRIENDLY NATIVES, SUBSTANTIATING OUR OWN AIR OBSERVATIONS, EMPHASIZE THE CONFUSION AND DISLOCATION IN REAR AREAS OF THE SECOND JAPANESE ARMY.

"THE ENEMY APPARENTLY EXPECTED AN ATTACK AT MANOKWARI AND HAD THOROUGHLY PREPARED AN ELABORATE DEFENSE SYSTEM.

"WHEN MANEUVER AND SURPRISE WERE EMPLOYED RAOHER THAN DIRECT ASSAULT, AND THE ENEMY'S DEFENSES WERE BYPASSED AND EVELOPED BYTHE UNSUSPECTED LANDING AT SANSAPOR, HIS MAIN COASTAL COMMUNICATIONS WERE CUT AND HE HAS BEEN THROWN BACK UPON THE JUNGLE IN HIS EFFORT TO EXTRICATE HIMSELF.

"HIS FORCES ARE REPORTED IN A STATE BORDERING ON DEMORALIZATION. THIS OPERATION, WHICH CAN NOW BE REGARDED AS COMPLETED, WAS ACCOMPLISHED WITH VERY SMALL FORCES AND INVOLVED ONLY A HANDFUL OF CASUALTIES."

BY AL DOPKING
ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENT
REPRESENTING THE COMBINED AMERICAN PRESS AUG 7 1944

ABOARD REAR ADMIRAL CONNOLLY'S FLAGSHIP, GUAM, AUG 6-(AP-VIA NAVY RADIO)-AS MARINES AND DOUGHBOYS WIPED OUT SMALL BANDS OF JAPANESE THIS HOT SABBATH DAY AND DREW A DEADLY NOOSE TIGHER ABOUT THE TOTALITARIAN ENEMY ON GUAM THEY HAD A CONCRETE EXAMPLE OF DEMOCRACY--THE RIGHT TO VOTE--SHAPING UP BEHIND THEIR OWN BATTLE LINES.

OFFICERS ARE PASSING OUT TO THEM PRELIMINARY CARDS WHICH THEY MAY FILL OUT AND RETURN TO THEIR OWN STATES IF THEY WANT TO CAST A BALLOT IN THE FORTHCOMING ELECTIONS. MARINE COL. WILLIAM J.SCHEYER, OF FREDERICKSBURG, VA., PERSONNEL OFFICER OF THE THIRD AMPHIBIOUS CORPS, SAID EVEN FIGHTERS AT THE FRONT WOULD BE GIVEN TIME OUT TO FILL OUT THE CARDS.

AS THIS DEMOCRATIC ACTIVITY GOES ON THE YANKS ARE PRESSING AHEAD THROUGH UNDERGROWTH SO DENSE THAT IN SOME PARTS TANKS ARE HARDLY DETECTABLE 15 FEET AWAY.

MARINE MAJ. GEN. ROY S.GEIGER, COMMANDING ALL GROUND FORCES IN THE GUAM CAMPAIGN, IS MOVING MEN FORWARD OVER THIS WILD COUNTRY METHODICALLY AND IS AFFORDING THE JAPANESE SLIGHT RESPITE.

GENERAL GEIGER DECLINED TO SPECULATE WHEN THE LAST JAPANESE RESISTANCE ON THE ISLAND WOULD BE BROKEN BUT WITH BOTH AIRFIELDS AND ALL IMPORTANT INSTALLATIONS AND TOWNS IN U.S. HANDS THERE CAN BE NO DOUBT EVEN IN THE ENEMY'S MIND AS TO THE ULTIMATE OUTCOME. WHAT JAPANESE ARE LEFT--MORE THAN 8,000 OF THEM ALREADY HAVE BEEN BURIED BY AMERICANS--ARE FIGHTING DELAYING ACTIONS WHILE THEIR TERRITORY GROWS SMALLER AND SMALLER AND ONLY ONE HEIGHT, 700-FOOT MT. SANTA ROSA ON THE EAST COAST, IS STILL IN THEIR HANDS.

A HODGEPODGE OF NAVY AND ARMY JAPANESE ARE THROWING UP ROADBLOCKS AND BATTLING FROM HASTILY CONSTRUCTED PILLBOXES BUT ARE BEING CLEANED OUT WITH SLIGHT LOSS TO AMERICAN TROOPS.

MOST OF THIS OPPOSITION IS DISORGANIZED. AT LEAST 30 DRUNKEN JAPANESE RUSHED THE THIRD MARINE DIVISION LINE IN A FANATICAL NIGHT ATTACK WHICH ENDED WITH THE ENEMY FLEEING IN MORE CONFUSION THAN WHEN HE ARRIVED. NEARLY HALF OF THE JAPANESE WERE LEFT DEAD.

THE AMERICAN LINE NOW EXTENDS FROM AMANTES POINT ON THE WEST COAST TO LUMUNA POINT ON THE EAST, WITH THE JAPANESE IN COMMAND OF ONLY A FEW MILES IN WHICH TO MAKE THEIR LAST STAND AND WITH THE PROBABILITY OF A WATER SHORTAGE, SINCE ONLY A FEW SPRINGS ARE IN THEIR AREA.

NAVAL GUNFIRE RAKES THIS AREA NIGHT AND DAY, KEEPING THE ENEMY BOTH FROM DIGGING IN AND FROM SLEEPING. FROM OVERHEAD OUR BOMBERS AND FIGHTERS CONSTANTLY ARE HARASSING HIM.

SINCE EARLY JULY THE ENEMY HAS BEEN AWARE OF ONE PARTICULARLY GRIM FACT--NOT ONCE HAS EITHER HIS FLEET OR HIS AIRFORCE PUT IN AN APPEARANCE.

ON THE SOUTHERN END OF THE ISLAND AMERICAN PATROLS ARE ELIMINATING JAPANESE STRAGGLERS WHO WERE CUT OFF FROM THEIR MAIN FORCE WHEN THE SEVENTY-SEVENTH ARMY DIVISION SWUNG AROUND ON THE RIGHT FLANK OF THE THIRD MARINE DIVISION AND MOVED UP THE EAST COAST, TAKING BOTH MT. TENJO AND MT. BARRIGADA.

TROOPS ALTERNATE IN FIGHTING IN DUST AND MUD. SOMETIMES WHEN IT FAILS TO RUN FOR A DAY OR TWO DUST ON THE ROAD BECOMES ALMOST BLINDING, AND THEN IT RAINS AGAIN, CONVERTING THE ROADS INTO QUAGMIRES.

RECONSTRUCTION OF HOUSING ACCOMMODATIONS HAS BEGUN BUT IT PROMISES TO BE A LONG JOB WITH ALL BUILDINGS WRECKED. AUG 7 1944

MORE THAN 22,000 RESIDENTS, ALL OF THEM LOYAL AMERICANS, HAVE COME INTO OUR CAMPS AND SOME 5,000 OF THESE ALREADY HAVE RETURNED TO THEIR HOMES BEHIND THE PRESENT LINES.

THEY ARE GOING BACK TODAY WITH WHAT FEW BELONGINGS THEY HAVE LEFT ON THEIR BACKS OR IN SMALL CARTS DRAWN BY CARABAO.

ON THE WAY TO AGANA WITH NAVY LT. WILLIAM GOYLE, FORMER WASHINGTON, D.C., RADIO ANNOUNCER, WE SAW ONE OF THE NATIVES LOOKING FOR HIS HOME. HIS NAME WAS JESUS MINDELANO AND HE LOOKED TIRED AND BEDRAGGLED.

WE WATCHED HIM WALK UP TO WHAT HAD BEEN HIS HOUSE--A TWO STORY FRAME STRUCTURE.

HE WENT UP THE STEPS OF THE FRONT PORCH, LEANED AGAINST THE BATTERED WALLS AND LOOKED IN AT THE SHAMBLES OF FURNITURE.

JESUS STOOD THERE A MOMENT, THEN SPOKE.

"YES" HE SAID SLOWLY, "IT WAS WORTH IT."

SF929APW

BY MORRIE LANDSBERG (370)
AGANA, GUAM, AUG.1-(DELAYED)-(VIA NAVYIRADIO(-)AP)-AGANA WAS A LOVELY TOWN--AND NO DOUBT SHE WILL BE AGAIN.
BUT IT WAS A DISFIGURED AGANA THAT AMERICAN MARINES FOUND YESTERDAY IN AN ALMOST BLOODLESS OCCUPATION OF THE OLD SPANISH SETTLEMENT.
THERE WERE NO DARK-HAIRED SMILING GUAMANIANS TO WELCOME THE LEATHERNECKS, AS IN PRE-WAR DAYS WHEN MARINE GARRISONS FLOCKED TO AGANA ON LIBERTY.
AGANA WAS COMPLETELY DESERTED. FOREWARNED BY EARLY BOMBARDMENTS, ITS 10,000 INHABITANTS HAD MOVED TO THE HILLS.
MANY BUILDINGS WERE DEMOLISHED, OTHERS WERE LEFT HOLLOW SHELLS. TENANTS HAD CARRIED AWAY EVERYTHING THEY COULD, AND STORES WERE BARE OF STOCKS.
WE ENTERED GUAM'S FIRST CITY WITH A UNIT LED BY 2ND LT.E.R. HAGEMANN, LOUISVILLE,KY.
AUG 7 1944
CPL.J.D.HARRIS, CANDOR,N.C., AND CPL.M.J. STEVENS, WINNSBORO,TEX., WERE SCRAPING A ROAD SURFACE, SLOWLY DIGGING OUT LAND MINES.
"STAY OUT OF THOSE TWO SEALED HOUSES," DIRECTED MILITARY POLICEMAN KENNETH A.TOMLINSON, OF SAN FRANCISCO. "THEY'RE MINED."
IN A GROUP OF MARINES AROUND THEIR MACHINE GUN, CPL.THOMAS MCHUGH, OF CINCINNATI,OHIO, REPORTED THEY HAD JUST KILLED A JAPANESE SOLDIER IN A STREET DUGOUT.
FOUR MARINES STRETCHED OUT ON THE CHAIRS OF AN ABANDONED BARBER SHOP.
"WHAT'LL YOU HAVE?" ASKED CPL.CHARLES D.CERRATI, OF NEW YORK CITY. THE OTHERS WERE PFC.JOE P.DZIADIK, SEYMOUR, CONN.; CPL.J.B.CONNOLLY, NEW HAVEN,CONN.; PFC. ROY W.GRIFFITH, BUCKEYE LAKE,OHIO.
MEN WERE SPRAWLED OUT ON THE LAWN IN THE GOVERNOR'S PLAZA. THE EXPANSE OF GREEN WAS BROKZN BY THE WHITE MARKINGS OF MINE POSITIONS.
PHARMACST'S MATE 2/C BERTRAND MCHUGH, EVERETT,MASS., CAME BY ON A JAPANESE BICYCLE. HE WORE A WHITE JERSEY OF THE ENEMY'S NAVAL UNIFORM.
THE FINE OLD WALLS AND BUILDINGS OF THE GOVERNOR'S PALACE, DATING BACK TO SPANISH RULE, WERE SCARRED AND SMASHED IN PLACES. BUT ITS BEAUTY STILL FLOURISHED IN A GARDEN RICH WITH WHITE HIBISCUS, RED WILD POINSETTIAS, BOUGAINVILLEAAND LILLIES.
BY 2 P.M., AGANA WAS ABUSTLE AGAIN. MARINES FLOCKED IN THE STREETS, AWAITING ORDERS TO MOVE FORWARD.
ONE MARINE CLIMBED THE FLAGPOLE IN FRONT OF THE GOVERNOR'S PALACE, PJEPARATORY TO HOISTING THE AMERICAN FLAG, AS THE TANKS PUSHED THROUGH ON THEIR WAY TO THE FRONT.
PM&HW916PPW NM
(END REPEAT)
AUG 7 1944
HW951PPW NM

WORDEN
O
ROTE PENINSULA, GUAM, JULY 27-(DELAYED)-(AP)-A CLOSEUP PICTURE OF A FIGHTING AMERICAN ON GUAM:
HE SLEEPS IN A SUCCESSION OF FOXHOLES, DIGGING A NEW ONE EVERY NIGHT BECAUSE OF THE ADVANCES.
HIS BATTLE GARB WAS SALT-SOAKED WHEN HE WADED ASHORE FROM AGAT REEF. SALT MARKS STILL ARE ON IT, ALONG WITH A WEEK'S COLLECTION OF MUD. NO NIGHT PASSES WITHOUT AT LEAST ONE SHORT RAIN TO KEEP CLOTHES IN A DAMPISH STATE.
HE HAS NO CHANCE TO SHAVE, LITTLE CHANCE TO EVEN WASH HIS FACE.
HIS DRINKING WATER IS BROUGHT UP FROM REAR AREAS, SOME FROM SHIPS, SOME FROM DISTILLATION PLANTS OR PURIFICATION UNITS ASHORE. IT'S SAFE TO DRINK BUT THE WATER TASTES LIKE A CROSS BETWEEN GASOLINE AND AN EMETIC.
HE'S H D NOTHING EXCEPT K OR C RATIONS TO EAT AND HAS REACHED THE POINT OF BEING UNABLE TO STOMACH ANY MORE OF THOSE CRACKERS.
THERE IS HEAT RASH OVER A CONSIDERABLE PART OF HIS BODY, ALSO INNUMERABLE MOSQUITO BITES. THE VORACIOUS MOSQUITOES ARE DETERRED ONLY SLIGHTLY BY THE REPELLANTS WHICH HE CARRIES.
HE HIKES FOUR OR FIVE MILES DAILY, MOSTLY THROUGH UNDERBRUSH AND SWAMP, THEN SPENDS HOURS SITTING AROUND WAITING FOR NEW ATTACKS TO BEGIN.
HE HAS DUG SOME JAPANESE OUT OF SNIPER FOXHOLES AND FIRED AT A FEW OTHERS. HE HAS SEEN VIRTUALLY NONE IN OPEN BATTLE. HE HAS SEEN HALF A DOZEN BURNED OUT JAPANESE TANKS, WITH THE COOKED BODIES OF THE OPERATORS STILL IN THEM AND A FEW SMALL GUNS WITH THE BODIES OF THE CREWS AROUND THEM.
THE CASUALTIES ABOUT HIM HAVE BEEN THE RESULT MAINLY OF STRAY SNIPER BULLETS. HE SELDOM KNOWS WHERE THE BULLET CAME FROM.
HE HAS BEEN FIRED ON BY NEMY ARTILLERY A FEW TIMES, ESPECIALLY ON THE BEACHES, BUT MOST OF THE OPPOSITION HAS BEEN FROM MORTARS AT NIGHT WHICH ARE NOT CONDUCIVE TO SLEEPING.
LIFE FOR HIM IS PUNCTUATED CONSTANTLY BY THE BANG OF HIS OWN ARTILLERY, INTERMITTENTLY BY RAIN AND CONTINUOUSLY BY THE WHINE OF MOSQUITOES.
AUG 7 1944
SF1151APW NM

WITH THE AMERICAN FORCES ON GUAM, AUG 2-(DELAYED)-(AP-VIA NAVY RADIO)-THE MARINES, WHO GARRISONED GUAM BEFORE THE U.S. MARIANAS ISLANDS OUTPOST FELL TO THE JAPANESE SHORTLY AFTER THE OUTBREAK OF THE WAR, HAVE BECOME INTERESTED IN THE RESTORATION OF NORMALCY HERE, PARTICULARLY IN FINANCIAL CIRCLES.
IN THE OLD MARINE BARRACKS ON OROTE PENINSULA, THEY FOUND THE PRE-WAR MARINE RECREATIONAL FUND OF $24 IN A CIGAR BOX AND TWO WAR BONDS BELONGING TO THE WIFE OF A MARINE.
NEXT THEY RETRIEVED A BANK BOOK SHOWING THE MARINE FUND HAD A BALANCE OF $604 IN THE BANK OF GUAM.
SF1143APW

BY SERGEANT DAVID DEMPSEY, OF 74 WEST 12TH STREET, NEW YORK CITY, A MARINE CORPS COMBAT CORRESPONDENT. (DISTRIBUTED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS)
SAIPAN, MARIANAS ISLANDS--(DELAYED)--MAYBE IT HAPPENED THIS WAY; MAYBE NOT. IN WAR YOU'RE NOT SURE WHAT HAPPENS. THIS MUCH WE KNOW: AN AMERICAN MARINE TRIED TO REASON IT OUT WITH ONE OF THE RISING SONS OF NIPPON. THE BUDDIES OF THE MARINE SAW THE BEGINNING OF THIS DRAMA. THE END WAS TOLD WITHOUT WORDS, WHEN THEY FOUND THEIR COMRADE WITH A BULLET THROUGH HIS HEAD AND THE JAP DEAD BEHIND HIS MACHINE GUN.
THE PLACE WAS THE ROCKY SLOPES OF HILL 721. THE JAP WAS AN ENGLISH-SPEAKING, AMERICAN EDUCATED SOLDIER. THE YANK WAS--WELL, SENTIMENTAL.
A MARINE PATROL FOUND THE JAP, ALONE, BEHIND A MACHINE GUN IN A WELL PROTECTED SPOT UNDER AN OVERHANGING LEDGE. THE JAP DIDN'T OPEN FIRE, AND THEY CRAWLED CLOSER.
THE SENTIMENTAL MARINE SAID, "MAYBE HE WANTS TO SURRENDER," AND CRAWLED A LITTLE CLOSER THAN THE REST.
YOU CAN IMAGINE HIS SURPRISE WHEN THE JAP SAID, "I WOULDN'T COME

TOO CLOSE, MAC. YOU MIGHT GET HURT."
"LISTEN, TOJO," THE MARINE CAME BACK, "THERE ARE EIGHT OF US. WHY DON'T YOU GIVE UP?"
"I SHOULD SURRENDER TO SOME DRUG STORE COWBOYS?" THE JAP RETORTED.
"YOU SPEAK PRETTY GOOD ENGLISH FOR A JAP," THE YANK SAID.
"WHY NOT?" TOJO REPLIED. "I SPENT FIFTEEN YEARS IN YOUR COUNTRY. I EVEN WENT TO COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY FOR TWO YEARS."
"I'M A PRINCETON MAN MYSELF," THE MARINE DECLARED.
"YOU OUGHT TO BE ASHAMED TO ADMIT IT," THE JAP SHOUTED BACK. "PRINCETON HASN'T BEATEN COLUMBIA IN FOUR YEARS."

"LISTEN, TOJO, CUT THE DIRTY REMARKS BEFORE I LET YOU HAVE A BURST," THE AMERICAN SNAPPED.
AT THAT MOMENT THE JAP OPENED UP WITH HIS MACHINE GUN AND THE YANK FLATTENED HIMSELF BEHIND A BOULDER. HE WATCHED THE BULLETS RICHOCHET OFF THE TOP OF IT. HIS BUDDIES BACKED AROUND THE NEAREST CLIFF TO GET OUT OF RANGE. PRETTY SOON THE JAP STOPPED FIRING.
THE AMERICAN RAISED HIS HEAD.
"PAL, THAT DID IT," HE SAID, AND CUT LOOSE WITH A AUG 71944 BURST FROM HIS BAR. THE JAP DUCKED AND TURNED ON HIS NAMBU MACHINE GUN.
FOR A FEW MINUTES THAT QUIET RAVINE, WHICH HAD BEEN GIVEN OVER TO THE REPARTEE OF TWO MEN AT WAR, ECHOED WITH THE ANGRY CHATTERING OF AUTOMATIC WEAPONS. BULLETS SPATTERED OFF THE ROCKS LIKE HAILSTONES AND THE ACRID SMELL OF GUNPOWDER SETTLED INTO EVERY CREVICE. THEN IT WAS QUIET.
THE OTHER MARINES CRAWLED BACK AROUND THE CLIFF AND FOUND THEM, BOTH DEAD.
AB502PEW

LA PAZ, BOLIVIA, AUG. 6-(AP)-LT.GEN.GUALBERTO VILLARROEL, WHO BECAME PRESIDENT OF BOLIVIA IN DECEMBER, 1943, AFTER A REVOLUTIONARY JUNTA OVERTHREW THE GOVERNMENT, WAS SWORN IN AS CONSTITUTIONAL PRESIDENT TODAY FOR A 4-YEAR TERM ENDING IN 1948.
AS VILLARROEL WAS SWORN IN HIS CABINET RESIGNED IN ORDER THAT HE MIGHT HAVE COMPLETE LIBERTY IN CHOOSING A NEW CABINET. HE WAS EXPECTED TO NAME THE CABINET TOMORROW WITH SLIGHT CHANGE.
RQ1022PEW

HAVANA,AUG.6-(AP)-THE NEWSPAPER DIARIO DE LA MARINA ANNOUNCED TODAY THE WITHDRAWL OF ITS CAMPAIGN AGAINST U.S.AMBASSADOR SPRUILLE BRADEN IN ORDER TO AVOID EMBARRASSMENT FOR PRESIDENT-ELECT RAMON GRAU SAN MARTIN DURING HIS VISIT TO WASHINGTON LATE THIS MONTH.
THE NEWSPAPER, WHICH ACCUSED BRADEN OF INTERFERING IN ITS CAMPAIGN FOR HIGHER PRICES FOR SUGAR TO BE SOLD TO THE UNITED STATES IN 1945, SAID IT WAS CONTINUING ITS PRICE CAMPAIGN, HOWEVER.
EUGENIO DE SOSA, JR., DIRECTOR OF THE NEWSPAPER, FOUGHT A BLOODLESS DUEL LAST WEDNESDAY WITH DR.GUILLERMO BELT, CONFIDANT OF GRAU SAN MARTIN, WHO HAD ENTERED THE CONTROVERSY AS AN INTERMEDIARY BETWEEN FRIENDS OF THE AMBASSADOR AND ANOTHER EXECUTIVE OF THE NEWSPAPER.
EV714PEW

VANCOUVER, AUG. 6-(AP)-SEVERAL BYSTANDERS WERE INJURED AND . LEAST 12 SEAMEN AND "ZOOT-SUITERS" ARE IN JAIL, BEHING HELD WITHOUT CHARGE, FOLLOWING RIOTING WHICH BROKE OUT IN THE DOWNTOWN SECTION OF VANCOUVER EARLY THIS MORNING.
THE FEUD BETWEEN THE MERCHANT SEAMEN AND THE DRAPE-SHAPE DEVOTEES, IN PROGRESS FOR THE LAST TWO WEEKS, BROKE OUT AFRESH AT THE SEAMEN'S MANNING POOL IN DOWNTOWN VANCOUVER.
RQ1020PEW

NEW YORK,AUG.6-(AP)-THE NEW YORK TIMES TODAY QUOTED GEN.DRAJA MIHAILOVIC, LEADER OF YUGOSLAV CHETNIK FORCES, AS DECLARING THAT HE WOULD BE WILLING TO PLACE HIMSELF UNDER THE COMMAND OF A THIRD YUGOSLAV GENERAL ACCEPTABLE TO BOTH HIS OWN FORCES AND THE PARTISAN FORCES OF MARSHAL TITO (JOSEIP BROZ) FOR THE SAKE OF NATIONAL UNITY IN RESISTING THE NAZIS.
MIHAILOVIC MADE THE STATEMENT IN ANSWERING A SERIES OF 12 QUESTIONS ON YUGOSLAV UNITY IN AN EXCHANGE OF CORRESPONDENCE WITH C.L.SULZBERGER, NEW YORK TIMES CORRESPONDENT IN CAIRO. THE QUESTIONS WERE ADDRESSED TO MIHAILOVIC JUNE 17 AND WERE RECEIVED BY HIM JULY 16.
CONTENDING THAT THE GROUP HE COMMANDS WAS AND REMAINS AN EFFECTIVE FACTOR AGAINST THE GERMANS, MIHAILOVIC SAID THAT "WHEN THE RIGHT MOMENT COMES, OUR ALLIES AS WELL AS OUR ENEMIES, QILL BE SURPRISED BY THE POTENTIAL FORCE CONCENTRATED IN OUR MOVEMENT."
HE EXPLAINED THAT IN VIEW OF WHAT HE TERMED PAST UNSUCCESSFUL EFFORTS TO ACHIEVE UNITY HE DID NOT FEEL THAT HIS FORCES COULD BE UNITED WITH MARSHAL TITO'S, BUT THAT THE ALTERNATIVE OF A SINGLE COMMAND WOULD BE ACCEPTABLE IF THE PROPER YUGOSLAV GENERAL COULD BE FOUND FOR IT.
MIHAILOVIC SAID THE QUANTITY OF WAR MATERIAL SENT TO HIM BY THE ALLIES HAD BEEN "WHOLLY INSUFFICIENT FOR OUR NEEDS."
HE SUGGESTED THAT THE SPEEDIEST SOLUTION FOR YUGOSLAV INTERNAL DISCORD WOULD BE FOR THE COMMUNIST PARTY OF YUGOSLAVIA, WHICH HE DESCRIBED AS THE "DECISIVE FACTOR" IN THE PARTISAN MOVEMENT, TO "CEASE ITS SEPARATE POLITICAL AND MILITARY ACTIVITY AND ACCEPT THE GENERAL NATIONAL DISCIPLINE AS ALL OTHER NATIONAL AND POLITICAL GROUPS HAVE DONE."
EV709PEW AUG 71944

NORTHFIELD, VT., AUG 6-(AP)-THE MERGING OF THE ARMY AND NAVY INTO A SINGLE MILITARY FORCE AT THE END OF THE WAR IN ORDER TO FACILITATE QUICK MOBILIZATION, WAS ADVOCATED TODAY BY UNDER SECRETARY OF WAR ROBERT T.PATTERSON.
SPEAKING AT EXERCISES COMMEMORATING THE 125TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE FOUNDING OF NORWICH UNIVERSITY, SECRETARY PATTERSON SAID:
"MY PERSONAL OPINION IS IN FAVOR OF SUCH A MERGER. JOINT OPERATIONS IN THIS WAR HAVE DONE MUCH TO CHANGE OLD DIVISIONS AND DISTINCTIONS."
IN ANY FUTURE WARS THERE WILL BE MUCH LESS TIME TO PREPARE FOR BATTLE ACTION THAN THERE WAS IN 1940 -,$ '41, PATTERSON

BATTLE ACTION THAN THERE WAS IN 1940 AND '41, PATTERSON TOLD HIS AUDIENCE, ADDING THAT:
"THIS HAS BEEN MADE OBVIOUS BY DEVELOPMENTS IN THIS WAR, PARTICULARLY IN AVIATION. OUR GEOGRAPHIC ISOLATION WILL CONTINUE TO DECREASE..
"UNTIL A BETTER AGE ARRIVES, LET US NEVER FORGET THAT IT IS MILITARY POWER OR THE LACK OF IT THAT DECIDES WHETHER A FREE NATION IS TO LIVE OR IS TO PERISH.
"THE BULWARK OF OUR SECURITY MUST REST ON WELL-TRAINED AND EQUIPPED FORCES OF A STRENGTH TO COMMAND THE RESPECT OF UNFRIENDLY NATIONS.
"IN MY OPINION WE CANNOT MAINTAIN THOSE FORCES AND THAT NECESSARY STRENGTH EXCEPT BY A SYSTEM OF UNIVERSAL MILITARY TRAINING FOR OUR YOUTHS."
UNDER SECRETARY PATTERSON, IN ADVOCATING UNIVERSAL MILITARY TRAINING FOR THE NATION'S YOUTH, SPOKE AT THE FIRST COLLEGE IN AMERICA TO INCLUDE MILITARY TRAINING AS AN INTRINSIC PART OF ITS CURRICULUM.
PATTERSON, WHO CAME BY AIRPLANE FROM WASHINGTON TO DELIVER HIS ADDRESS, SAID THAT "WHILE WE HAVE THE GERMANS ON THE RUN AND THE JAPANESE CHANGING CABINETS TO EXCUSE THEIR DEFEATS, WHICH WILL CONTINUE TO BE THEIR LOT, LET THERE BE NO RELAZATION OF OUR WAR WORK AT HOME."

TOUCHING UPON AMERICAN REACTIONS TO TOTAL WAR, PATTERSON SAID:

"TOTAL WAR HAS PROVED US ALL TO BE CITIZEN SOLDIERS AND THE PEACE OF THE FUTURE CAN ONLY STRENGTHEN THAT PROOF.

"DEMOCRACY WILL LIVE IF WITHIN OUR OWN CAREERS WE ACCEPT OUR OBLIGATIONS AND CARRY THEM WITH A DEVOTION TO DUTY WORTHY OF THE MEMORY OF THE CITIZEN SOLDIERS WHO HAVE LAID DOWN THEIR LIVES FOR OUR HOPES OF A BETTER WORLD."

SM1018PEW NM

UNDATED JAPANESE

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

THE JAPANESE RADIO SAID TODAY THAT "ENEMY CRUISERS AND DESTROYERS" SHELLED CHICHI JIMA IN THE BONIN ISLANDS YESTERDAY AND THAT BOTH CHICHI AND IWO ISLANDS HAD BEEN BOMBED BY "LARGE-TYPE CARRIER-BASED ENEMY PLANES."

THE BROADCAST, REPORTED BY THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION, SAID THAT CHICHI AND IWO ALSO WERE RAIDED TWICE FRIDAY. THE JAPANESE CLAIMED THAT 150 PLANES ATTACKED CHICHI FRIDAY AND 120 MADE THE ASSAULT ON IWO. YESTERDAY, THE JAPANESE REPORTED, "SEVERAL LARGE ENEMY PLANES" FOLLOWED BY "ABOUT 80 CARRIER-BASED ENEMY PLANES ATTACKED CHICHI." IN ALL, THE JAPANESE CLAIMED THAT 22 OF THE RAIDERS HAD BEEN SHOT DOWN.

AT THE SAME TIME A DOMEI DISPATCH TO THE CONTROLLED PRESS IN OCCUPIED ASIA SAID THAT A "POWERFUL ENEMY TASK FORCE" HAD CONCENTRATED IN THE BONINS AND THE ADJOINING VOLCANO ISLANDS GROUP.

THERE WAS NO ALLIED CONFIRMATION OF ANY OF THESE REPORTS.

IN A PROPAGANDA BROADCAST YESTERDAY CONTINUING THE THEME THAT JAPAN HAS BEEN AWAITING ONLY THE PROPER MOMENT TO COMPLETELY WIPE OUT AMERICAN OFFENSIVE POWER IN THE PACIFIC THE TOKYO RADIO REMINDED THE JAPANESE PEOPLE OF A SAYING:

"CUT THE BONES OF THE ENEMY BY LETTING HIM CUT OUR OWN SKIN. CUT THE CORE OF THE ENEMY BY LETTING HIM CUT OUR BONES."

W1215PEW

THE ROAD TO BERLIN

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

1--RUSSIAN FRONT: 322 MILES (MEASURED FROM EASTERN SUBURBS OF WARSAW).

2--ITALIAN FRONT: 603 MILES (MEASURED FROM ABOVE SENIGALLIA).

3--FRENCH FRONT: 630 MILES (MEASURED FROM TROARN).

MQ1158PEW

135 ENEMY TANKS KNOCKED OUT BY ALLIED BOMBERS

LONG

German Armored Thrust to Split Allies Wilts Under Heavy Gunfire.

MOP-UP IN ST. MALO

AUG 8 1944

Doughboy Column Races Toward Lorient on Brittany's South Coast.

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Tuesday, Aug. 8. — (AP) American forces drove to within 120 miles of Paris yesterday as their comrades far in the rear smashed the biggest German counterattack since D-day at the narrow Normandy-Brittany corridor, where four tank divisions tried to split in half the three Allied armies in France.

A total of 135 enemy tanks —the greatest enemy loss in a single day since the Allies stormed ashore June 6—were knocked out by Allied planes alone in the futile thrust toward Avranches.

NIGHT

Thrusting 18 miles beyond last reported positions across the Mayenne river, Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's tanks and Doughboys ran into the first organized resistance in their dash toward the French capital, already being emptied of high Nazi officers.

Yanks Roll Ahead

Even this opposition was not in strength, and Doughboys, some of whom have advanced 115 miles in a week, were already talking of getting leaves in Paris. The fighting was beyond Mayenne and Laval, but specific mileages were not disclosed.

In the mop-up of the Brittany peninsula, hard fighting was reported at Brest and within two miles of the north coast port of St. Malo. Fifty miles west of St. Malo, an American force occupied Guincamp with its network of highways.

Late dispatches put an American column within nine miles of the port of Lorient on Brittany's south coast, but the garrison offering to surrender it was believed possible the city already was reached.

Allied officers, acknowledging the importance of the German attack on the Normandy-Brittany corridor, emphasized that Avranches never was threatened because the scope of the enemy counterattack was limited.

With Tiger and Panther tanks the Germans drove forward three miles and neared Cherence - Le Roussel, narrowing the Avranches corridor to little more than 15 miles, but there the attack wilted in the massed fire of big U. S. guns and swarms of warplanes.

Then U. S. tanks raced into the battle and the enemy was driven back out of Mortain, 19 miles east of Avranches, which he had carried in the initial rush. Late front dispatches indicated the thrust had been stopped.

Strong Counterattack

This attack, coming at a time when the enemy's flanks both north and south of the bulge were crumbling, was described as a strong local counterattack and not in the proportions of a counteroffensive.

(The Berlin radio claiming a six-mile penetration, gave strength to this view, quoting a dispatch from German headquarters to the effect that the attack was a success in that it had foiled an American attempt to crush the Vire salient with an outflanking movement to the south.

At least 88 enemy tanks were knocked out of action in the hail of explosives from the sky, including rockets which screamed down from the largest force of British Typhoons ever sent into the air.

It was considered unlikely the four attacking divisions were up to normal strength of 600 to 700 tanks. It was thought they were the Panzer Lehr, the Second SS, the Second Panzer and the 116th Panzer, already badly mauled on the western end of the front.

As the Germans played—and probably lost—their tank trump card in a desperate bid to stave off disaster, the British stabbed a new Paris-pointed wedge across the Orne river and the Americans raced unchecked into the hills beyond the Mayenne river in a swift advance toward the capital.

(NBC said in a broadcast from

NAZI COUNTER-ATTACK SMASHED BY YANKS; TROOPS RACE WITHIN 120 MILES OF PARIS

AUG 8 1944

AUG 8 1944

AUG 8 1944

30. 24 — 17811

AMERICANS ADVANCE IN RUSH FOR PARIS

AUG 8 1944

Enemy Assault Cuts Road Behind Force of Yanks Headed for Capital—Foe Said to Be Quitting City.

AUG 8 1944

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 7 (A. P.).—The Germans today struck their most furious counterblow at Americans since D day, shooting four armored divisions to a depth of about three miles into the thinnest Allied coastal strip east of Avranches.

DAY

The counter-attack, described in front line dispatches as the most concentrated the Germans have yet made in France, apparently was aimed at outflanking four American spearheads pointing dangerously toward Paris and at separating Lieut.-Gen. Omar N. Bradley's American forces in Brittany from the British forces to the north in Normandy.

The Germans in their first rush recaptured Mortain, cutting the road behind the most advanced Gen. Bradley spearhead at Domfront where it was aimed at Paris, 135 miles away. The Americans were said to still hold the high ground around Mortain, however, and the German thrust was met by a hurricane of fire from hundreds of guns and Allied air forces.

"The air forces are having a field day," one high officer said at the front.

[The Allied forces, including "tankbuster" Typhoons of the Royal Air Force, have destroyed or damaged eighty-eight German tanks engaged in the German counterattack east of Avranches, CBS reported in a broadcast from Normandy today.]

Nazis Attack on 8-mile Front.

The German counterattack was on an eight mile front from Mortain to Sourdeval, to the north, and was in an area about twenty miles from the sea. The German commanders evidently aimed their thrusts at Avranches, the coastal city where American forces turned the corner from Normandy into Brittany. The first penetrations carried to the area of Juvigny-le-Tertre, three miles northwest of Mortain, and Cherence-le-Rousse, two miles farther north.

To the north, however, the Americans, who earlier had achieved a junction with the British around Vire, captured Vire, an important road hub nine miles above Sourdeval. The Yanks were in a position to press on the flank of the German advance.

The net result of the German thrust, a high American officer said in France, would be the destruction of much armor which the enemy could ill afford.

Below the area of German counter - attack four American spearheads were turned away from overwhelmed Brittany and pointed toward Paris along a fifty-mile front.

To the north, the British drove a new Paris - pointed spearhead across the Orne on a two-mile front which threatened to sweep away the enemy hinge below Caen where the Germans' weeks-long stand already was blocked by the American sweep around their southern flank.

Supported by a close Allied naval blockade which already had broken up three German convoys apparently attempting a "Little Dunkirk" from Brittany, American armor and infantry teams captured four more towns in the Breton Peninsula in the closing stages of an offensive which promised to clinch control soon of the ports of Brest, St. Nazaire, Nantes, Loriente and St. Malo.

St. Malo, an ancient sea fortress and fishing port on Brittany's north coast, was under attack by strong forces, which broke through the outer perimeter of landward defenses at Chateauneuf. In spite of the order of the commander to fight until the last man, 500 of a garrison estimated at 2,000 to 3,000 men surrendered under a bombardment of shells, bombs and leaflets carrying an ultimatum to lay down their arms.

The Americans were last reported two miles from the center of St. Malo, which is connected with the mainland by a causeway. Besieged many times in ancient days, St. Malo never has been taken by storm.

The garrison of Lorient, on the south coast, already had offered to surrender, not awaiting the arrival of the Americans who took the famous city of Auray, eighteen miles west of Vannes and eighteen miles east of Lorient.

At Brest, the French naval base at Brittany's tip, Americans were last reported in the outlying streets. No recent news had come from that sector. The last official announcement said the Americans had taken Huelgoat, thirty-two miles east of Brest and nine miles northwest of Carhaix.

Lieut.-Gen. Omar N. Bradley's armor also has been reported in the outlying streets of St. Nazaire, the big shipbuilding center and U-boat base at the mouth of the Loire, and driving the last fifteen miles toward Nantes, city of 195,000 a few miles up the river. But there were no late reports either from St. Nazaire or Nantes.

Shoving thirty-one miles northwest of Dinan, the Americans also captured St. Brieuc on Brittany's north coast, field dispatches reported.

The American offensive in Brittany already had netted 13,000 prisoners and 3,400 Nazi dead, a sizable addition to the divisions destroyed in Normandy.

In their eastward push the Americans already were closer to Paris than they were a week ago to the port of Brest, which they reached in a homestretch dash of 75 miles in a day. Their four pronged push spread over a front of fifty miles from Domfront miles east of Avranches, straig- down the Varenne and Mayenne River valleys through Mayenne, Laval, Houssay and Chateau-Gontier. Five bridgeheads across these rivers had been gained, and the American right flank was only 25 miles north of the Loire.

The British thrust, driving into the fringes of the Cinglais Forest, cut deep behind the enemy's gun-bristling anti-tank screen in the "Normandy Switzerland" below Caen.

Other Allied troops took Vire—the Germans' last real anchor in western Normandy. The fall of this major communications center, furiously defended for weeks by the Germans, opened the way for linking the initial Normandy cleanup with the new drive eastward from Brittany.

British Storm Hill Fortress.

Near the left flank of the Allied lines British troops swept onto 1,200-foot Mont Pincon, on the west side of the Orne almost twenty miles below Caen. This advance of four miles was the farthest penetration yet made up the river.

The British southward push threatens to link up with the drive eastward from Vire. British, Canadian and American troops now are strung out along a line running in a general north-south direction, and are pushing drives aimed at forcing a corridor 100 miles wide through the heart of France.

Near the south end of this line in Brittany the Germans have been cleared from Chateau-Gontier, 140 miles from Paris. American units now have crossed the Mayenne River barrier in five places—Ambrieres, Mayenne, Laval, La Houssaie and Chateau-Gontier. The southern, or right, flank of this drive is only twenty-five miles above the Loire River.

The British radio said Nazi occupation authorities in France had moved their administrative offices from Paris eastward to Nancy nearer to the German border. A similar report came from Switzerland.

Some Nazis Hold Out.

In Brittany the Germans were putting up some resistance at Brest and St. Malo, but the garrisons there were doomed since the Nazis obviously had written off the peninsula, having withdrawn the bulk of their forces week. The Algiers radio reported that Gen. Charles de Gaulle's organization had called on Bretons to conduct a general uprising against the Germans.

The Lorient submarine pens were bombed late yesterday by R. A. F. heavy bombers as Brest's were Saturday to block the escape of Nazi U-boats. Allied navies have blockaded the Breton Peninsula to prevent German escapes to Bordeaux and other ports.

American Marauder bombers, maintaining pressure to seal in whatever Germans are left on the Breton Peninsula, made direct bomb hits on two enemy freighters in the harbor of Brest before noon. Other mediums bombed Seine River Railway bridges 30 miles south of Paris at Corbeil, and at Corbie near Vernon.

In its latest communique the Admiralty disclosed that light British forces yesterday met five heavily armed escort vessels and in a fierce battle of torpedoes sank an armed trawler, probably sank another vessel and damaged the rest, with only slight damage to the British ships.

AUG 8 1944

Normandy that RAF heavy bombers blasted strong German positions south of Caen for 43 minutes tonight, hundreds of bombers throbbing across the sky in one of those concentrated attacks which often has signalled new Allied drives in France.)

American patrols ranging far south were reported probing close to the Loire river barrier north of Nantes and enemy broadcasts said the Germans had established defensive "bridgeheads" on the north bank of the river.

An Associated Press dispatch from Spain reported large-scale movements of German troops from southwest France, where Col. Gen. Johannes Blaskowitz, commander in southern France, may be scraping forces together for a stand along the Loire.

Far to the west American tank forces ran on through Brittany, where they have captured 13,300 Germans and killed at least 3,400 more, and were fighting in or nearing all the five great ports, Brest, Lorient, St. Nazaire, St. Malo and Nantes.

Paris Withdrawal Begun

Enemy withdrawal from Paris was reported to have begun in the face of the imminent menace—U. S. troops rolling east along a 53-mile front, the British across the Orne river barrier, and the Canadians lashing out east of Caen—the last according to German accounts.

Allied officers did not minimize the threat of the Germans to the 20-mile wide Avranches' corridor, but asserted this bulge was being reduced and the striking force was itself in danger of being cut off and annihilated.

With nearly one-tenth of continental France now in Allied hands, the Americans and British were steadily driving the enemy from his best positions blocking the way to the French capital.

Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's first U. S. army was setting the pace, entering Domfront, 135 miles west of Paris, and pressing on the transportation center of Le Mans, protecting the southwestern approaches to Paris, 100 miles away.

Lt. Gen. Sir Miles C. Dempsey's Second British army broke across the Orne along a two-mile front 15 miles southwest of Caen in an outflanking threat to those formidable positions five miles south of Cean which the Germans have used to check the drive toward the French capital.

From their positions in newly-won La Moissonniere and La Bogotiere, two miles northeast of the enemy's Orne river stronghold of Thury-Harcourt, the British were about 125 miles west of Paris.

And the Germans reported that Lt. Gen. H. D. G. Crerar's Canadian First army—revealed today to be a separate force in the field for the first time in Canada's history—had opened a new assault on Troarn, eight miles east of Caen and 115 miles west of Paris.

The surprising German counter-attack at the Allies' Avranches corridor opened at dawn along an eight-mile front from Sourdeval on the north to Mortain on the south and reached its greatest penetration at Cherence-Le Roussel, only 15 1-2 miles east of Avranches.

Allied Guns Open Up

Then the hordes of tanks and infantry ran into a hell of fire from hundreds of American guns protecting the corridor, and from hurried-summoned British and American warplanes.

A high American officer told an Associated Press frontline correspondent that the attack was not expected to make much progress and was costing the foe tanks he could ill afford to lose.

Rocket-firing Typhoons, which enemy tankmen dread, joined the aerial attack. The Germans apparently had drained armor from other sectors to make this attempt.

While this fighting raged, American forces recaptured the old Normandy capital of Vire, on the north flank of this German force, and bulldozers cleared the streets of the ruined town so the Doughboys could fight south in an attempt to close a trap on the attackers. (German broadcasts said Vire had changed hands several times).

Vire was the last real German stronghold in Normandy and its fall made the counter-attacking enemy position's in the Avranches bulge all the more precarious. Southwest of Vire the Americans hammered the Germans back a tanks joined in the attack on the trapped garrison of from 2,000 to 3,000. Under orders of their Nazi commander to fight to the last man, the garrison was surrendering anyway. Five hundred have quit the fight and others are coming into the American lines by the truckload, one officer said.

The Garrison at the Nazi submarine base of Lorient, on the south coast, sent out word that it was ready to surrender even before American forces reached the outskirts, and it was considered possible the port had been occupied.

...ile through the forest above St. Pois.

On the southern extremity of this bulge, American patrols were in Domfront, 35 miles east of Avranches, and there are good roads leading north should Bradley decide to try to snare the four enemy tank divisions.

Race Through Brittany

The American race through Brittany was at such a clip that one tank force told a pocketed force of 1,200 Germans that they would have to surrender to somebody else as it was too busy to stop.

Heaviest fighting was reported at the ancient sea-girt port of St. Malo on the north Brittany coast, where Doughboys drove through a maze of minefields, pillboxes, tank traps and barbed wire to within two miles of the heart of the city, after capturing Chateauneuf.

Artillery, dive bombers, and

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 7 (AP)—In the past fortnight the Allied invasion armies have increased their territory in northwestern France more than tenfold. They now have taken about 20,000 square miles, or nearly a tenth of continental France.

442 YANKS KILLED IN INVASION TEST

AUG 8 1944

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 7 (A. P.).—The only effective German action against numerous invasion rehearsals was made in April when swift enemy E-boats sank two Allied landing craft on the British coast, killing 442 United States troops, it was disclosed tonight.

The E-boats slipped through a hole in the Allied escort and sent two LSTs flaming to the bottom in a matter of a few minutes. The enemy escaped without loss.

It was announced Saturday that 130 were killed, 312 were missing and forty-one wounded in the maneuver, one of many before D day. The missing were so listed because their bodies were never found. The LST sank with all their equipment. The figures do not include the sailors lost nor disclose the small number of survivors.

The practice force was making ready to enact a mock invasion when the E boats evaded screening warships and torpedoed the LSTS, heavily laden with United States troops, tanks and other vehicles. The landing craft blew up and disappeared rapidly while the E boats scurried away.

BATTALIONS CITED FOR D DAY DEEDS

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 7 (A. P.).—The 299th Engineer Combat Battalion has been awarded a unit citation for heroic action in removing beach obstacles on invasion day in Normandy. Despite heavy casualties, the 299th landed within three minutes after H hour and cleared the way for the infantry.

Major Milton A. Jewett, former New York city subway engineer, commands the unit. He and Capt. Edwin R. Herry of 847 Boulevard East, Weehawken, N. J., won Distinguished Service Crosses. Silver Stars went to Major Fred E. Kohter of Leadville, Col., and Sergt. George E. Odell of Andover, N. Y., Major Jewett is a native of Kensal, N. D.

The Second Ranger Battalion, commanded by Lieut.-Col. James E. Rudder of Brady, Tex., was awarded a unit citation "for outstanding performance of duty in action" in storming the beachhead on D day. The battalion silenced two enemy batteries and suffered casualties. Its personnel won eleven Distinguished Service Crosses and ten Silver Stars in fighting near Pointe du Hoe and Vierville.

The Fifth Ranger Infantry Battalion was cited for outstanding performance in securing a section of beachhead on D day, despite intense German opposition. Lieut.-Col. Max F. Schneider of Shenandoah, Iowa, is the unit commander. He was a commercial pilot before the war.

Two 8th Air Force Generals Shifted

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 7 (A. P.)—Major Gen. James P. Hodges and Major Gen. Curtis E. Lemay, former commanders of the Eighth U. S. Air Force Bombardment divisions, have been given important assignments elsewhere, it was disclosed today with the announcement of their successors.

Major Gen. William E. Kepner, of Kokomo, Ind., who commanded the Eighth Fighter Command the past yeaf, and Major Gen. Earle E. Partridge, San Antonio, Tex., former deputy commander of the Eighth U. S. Army Air Force, were announced as the new commanders of the bomber divisions. Kepner, whose wife lives in Clarkesville, Tenn., was succeeded as head of the Eighth Fighter Command by Brig. Gen. Francis Griswold, Harrodsburg, Ky., formerly chief of staff.

31 Nazi Divisions Traced

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expedititonary Force, Aug. 7 (AP).—Records of the thirty-one divisions which the Germans threw into the futile fight for Normandy showed tonight that seven were drawn from weaker-garrisoned Brittany and six from southern France. Only two, both S. S. panzer divisions, were drawn from the eastern front, one from Galicia and the other from Poland. Three divisions came from Denmark, Holland and Belgium.

Americans Open Heavy Assault On St. Malo

AUG 8 1944

By Edward D. Ball and Harold V. Boyle

Approaching St. Malo, Brittany, Aug. 7 (AP)—An American attack, backed by armored vehicles, artillery and dive bombers, has cracked through the outer defenses of this ancient sea-girt fortress to within two miles of the center of St. Malo.

The attack on St. Malo, often besieged in the Middle Ages but never taken, got off late yesterday afternoon.

The trapped Nazi garrison fought from barricades under an army commander who had ordered that they battle until the last man, but the Americans by leaflets and broadcasts served an ultimatum demanding surrender, and hundreds were lining up in response.

500 Captured

"We took about 500 already and they are still coming in by the truckload," said Master Sergeant Harry Brouhard, Indianapolis, Ind.

The Yanks cracked the first German defense line last night at Chateauneuf-d'Ille-St. Vilaine, and then began their main attack at 3.30 this afternoon after a 20-minute artillery barrage.

The Germans fought back from behind a line of minefields, barbed wire, anti-tank ditches, blockhouses and stone road blocks.

Gunboats Shelled Yanks

Their gunboats in the Rance river estuary also shelled American troops, but most of these were knocked out by dive bombers, which also flayed the German lines. From Cezembre Island, which controls Ohahlort, the Germans also had heavy naval guns able to fire inland or toward the sea.

"But they don't seem to have much artillery left," an American captain said.

"The American attack advanced 800 yards in the first hour," said Capt. James C. Bagley, of [illegible] Fla. "It's tough because the Germans are well entrenched—they've had years to get ready for this."

"Hottest Spot"

"They're fighting back, throwing everything on us—small arms, machine guns, mortars and some artillery—it's the hottest spot I've seen," added a colonel commanding one unit.

Capt. William P. Callaghan, Washington, D. C., said the Germans were reported to have barricaded the streets with tram cars, wagons and anything else they could find, and were set to make a street-by-street fight.

Inside Chateauneuf they had a series of tunnels and a concrete road block four feet thick with a parapet from which infantry could fire down streets.

Last-Man Stand

"We will fight on until the last man is killed—even if that man is myself," the German commander told the garrison after waving aside French civilian protests that his stand was hopeless in view of the overwhelming Allied strength massed around him.

Overnight the Germans ordered all French to leave the area around St. Malo and the neighboring towns of St. Servan and Parame.

The roads were crowded by the lines of refugees, with handkerchiefs tied around their arms permitting them through the Allied lines. They hauled their possessions in carts, baby carriages and hand bundles through the dust stirred up by lines of armored vehicles.

Cheered For Yanks

One old woman in black walked beside her cow.

Despite their own misery these people cheered hysterically for the advancing troops and some of the men tried to share their last bottle of cider with the soldiers.

One refugee said the Germans in recent days had executed a number of French in St. Malo for sabotage and shot four yesterday, including one woman. Other refugees said the Germans had prepared to blow up the four inner basins of the harbor.

"We are hoping the Germans will give up to avoid further destruction or loss of life, but their commander is a very obstinate fellow," said an American captain.

A French refugee said the German naval commander had wished to surrender, but was overruled by the army leader.

Some Surrendered

Major Charles Pack of Live Oak, Fla., and Captain Callaghan told how some enemy troops gave up after army sound trucks broadcast the surrender ultimatum.

"One Russian lieutenant surrendered and told us he could get his platoon to come over if we let him go back," said Callaghan. "Lieut. John D. Raikos, of Indianapolis, went forward with him. They took a truck along. The Russian lieutenant called out for his men and 15 came out and threw down their arms."

Chateauneuf was largely defended by Russians impressed into German service who were surprised when the Americans came in by the rear road.

Death In Church

"At another place we talked four Germans into surrendering a machine-gun position holding us up. These broadcasts are doing good," Callaghan added.

Three Nazis met death in a church, at the village of St. Pere, which they had been using as a sniper hideout.

"Our infantry came by and caught one in the steeple and two in the aisles, and shot them to death in a gunfight," said Corporal Herbert E. Matheson, of Newton, N. C. "The floor of the church had several bloodstains."

"They hid out in the steeple and used it for an observation post," added Corporal Billy Reavis, of Rome, Ga. "We found a telephone with a lot of German personal effects and three straw mattresses."

"They picked the wrong Sunday to go to church," commented Corporal Arthur S. Bretzke, of Glasgow, Mont.

Wanted To Hold Services

Private Howard D. Tuel, of Oblong, Ill., added that "we had a lot of trouble keeping French civilians out of here—Nazis or no Nazis they wanted to hold services."

In the small village of La Goursniere two artillerymen—Corporal Robert J. Frk, of Cleveland, Ohio, and Pfc. Harold E. Good, of Shenandoah, Pa.—sweated out a barrage of artillery shells.

"One just hit a house down the street and another landed by our command post," Good said.

Lorient Surrender Offer

Troops in Lorient on the south side of Brittany sent word to United States troops advancing from Vannes that they wanted to surrender to keep out of the hands of the French.

Another force of 1,200 Germans asked the Americans to accept their surrender, but the rapidly advancing column sent word back that they would have to surrender to somebody else because it was too busy.

'MINUTE MEN OF BRITTANY'

AUG 8 1944

French Resisters Take Vannes; Yanks Get Big Welcome

By J. W. GALLAGHER

Vannes, France, Aug. 7 (AP)—The "Minute Men of Brittany"—there is no better name for these men of the French resistance movement—handed over to the American army today this city of 20,000.

The American column was given a tumultuous welcome with tears, wine and flowers mixing with bayonets and blood.

With advance American columns rolling in, this quiet, pretty, wooded country with its fruit trees and hayfields not unlike those of New England, sprang into armed fury overnight.

Many Villages Taken

The armored columns cut the Brest peninsula at this time after finding the last 60 miles paved for them by the French resistance movement, which captured dozens of villages, neatly gathered up hundreds of German prisoners and jailed the collaborators.

The Minute Men put white arm bands on their sleeves and wore helmets that were relics of the last war. They strung grenades in their belts; dug up the rifles and submachine guns Allied planes dropped by the thousands; met secretly with careful organization, and then fell on the retreating Germans.

Some died or were wounded in the sharp though brief fighting as they seized bridges, destroyed munitions dumps and spread such confusion among the Germans that the enemy split into small pockets. The French promptly reported the locations of the pockets to the American columns.

"Wine, Flowers And Kisses"

The Americans entered the city and the tanks halted in the streets. The town was theirs and they felt like movie stars as crowds begged for autographs. Anything was theirs for the asking. Until the 10.30 P. M. curfew, crowds stood in the streets and watched the tanks go by like an American circus parade. If there was a halt, the French rushed out to shower wine, flowers and kisses on the embarrased doughboys.

The impact of this emotion staggered the usually wise-cracking soldiers. The friendship was warmhearted, and despite the language barrier, French kids were riding around town in tanks and jeeps ten minutes after the first arrival of the machines.

Resistance Beaten Down

Meanwhile, our armored spearheads are pulverizing what pockets of German resistance still remain beyond here. Just outside of this town 170 Germans in a roadblock tried to put up a fight and 145 were killed and the remainder captured for one American casualty.

I didn't see any Germans except those who were prisoners, and it seems apparent the Nazis remaining in Brittany are doing their best to get out, not wanting to fight except in the cases of small garrisons near seaports.

Within Vannes, the crowds were in holiday mood. They interrupted their cheering to boo and hiss as German collaborators marched up the street to prison ahead of machine-gun-carrying Minute Men. Most of the collaborators were women.

No Mob Scenes

There was surprising order and none of the mob scenes of Rennes where the pro-Germans had been beaten mercilessly on the streets. In this town everybody knew who was collaborating and who was not, and when the time came picked Minute Men hunted them down.

Out of the prison came 100 Minute Men and about 60 girls who had been treated badly by the Germans who tried to pry information out of them. In the window of a shop, decorated with the Tricolor, were pictures of Minute Men killed by Germans.

One bearded, crying, emotional young Breton with two hand grenades on his waist embarrassed this correspondent by running up, throwing his arms around me and kissing me on both cheeks.

CANADIANS HAVE THEIR OWN ARMY

First, Under Lieut. Gen. Cre-

30. 24— 17813

rar, Hold Right Of Line

With the Canadian First Army in France, Aug. 7 (AP)—Canada, for the first time in her history, now has a separate army formation on the battlefield—the Canadian First Army.

It includes powerful units of British troops, fighting under Canadian command just as Canadian soldiers have been under British command previously in this war and in World War I.

Operating For 10 Days

Existence of the Canadian army was disclosed today, but it actually has been operating for ten days as a fully organized army, and many of its men have been in the line since D-day. Canadian units left the British Second Army to form the Canadian First Army.

The battle lineup in France now is the American First Army on the right; the British Second Army in the center, and the Canadians on the left, all under field direction of General Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, himself under supreme command of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

General Crerar In Command

The Canadian commander, Lieut. Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, has been in France since June 18, flying almost daily over the Canadian line. He has had two close calls, once when an observation plane next to his was shot down by German anti-aircraft fire, again when he made a crash landing but escaped unhurt.

This army has confronted the best the Germans had, such units as the Adolf Hitler and Hitler Youth armored divisions, and has held as many as eight German divisions at a time.

A Canadian army formation may consist of two to five corps, with two or more divisions in a corps. One Canadian corps is fighting in Italy as part of the British Eighth Army.

CANADIANS FIGHT AS SEPARATE ARMY

First Canadian Army Headquarters, France, Aug. 7 (A. P.).—The First Canada Army left the British Second Army on July 31 and today, for the first time in Canadian history, the dominion has a separate army formation in the field.

The French front now has the American First Army on the right, the British Second Army in the center and the Canadian First Army on the left. All are under command of Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery, who in turn is under the Supreme Allied Commander, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The Canadian First Army is commanded by Lieut.-Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, who has a formidable number of troops under his command. The Army is complete in every detail.

A Canadian Army formation may consist of two to five corps. (A corps consists of two or more divisions). One Canadian Corps is fighting in Italy as part of the British Eighth Army.

Gen. Crerar established tactical and planning headquarters in France on June 18. Some Canadian officers who fought in the combined operation at Dieppe hold important commands at headquarters, where one is chief of staff.

The announcement that a Canadian Army is operating in Normandy marks a milestone in the Dominion's military history. In the last war, Canada maintained a corps on the Western Front.

700,000 NEGRO TROOPS REPORTED IN U.S. ARMY

SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE, Aug. 7.—(AP) Brig. Gen. Oliver Davis, only Negro general in the U. S. Army told war correspondents tonight there now are 700,000 Negro troops in the United States forces, with approximately 5,000 commissioned officers, and that he was looking to the day when there would be at least 10,000 Negro officers.

Commenting on racial differences, General Davis said "when I was in London two years ago our own soldiers didn't get along so well with each other but now on this side I have been told there is no racial unpleasantness."

Nazi Arms Still Good

By Preston Grover

A United States Base in France, Aug 7 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Henry B. Sayler, chief ordnance officer, said today that captured guns, tanks and automobiles indicated Germany was not suffering from any shortage of critical materials.

"Their materiel continues good," he told correspondents, "but ours is better." He added that the ordnance department was preparing for the war to continue "at least several months."

Plants already are operating among the orchards and grain fields of Normandy, supplying the Allies with every type of munitions and fighting equipment from pistol bullets to Sherman tanks.

Allies Rebuilding Rapidly

A tour of the Cherbourg harbor area by boat disclosed the extent of demolition accomplished jointly by German dynamite and Allied naval gunnery. It also showed the extent of ingenuity by American harbor and transport engineers.

Already a railroad is operating south from Cherbourg toward the battlefront carrying whole carloads of equipment for American fighting engines. The population of Cherbourg is dribbling back but they are outnumbered two or three to one by American troops.

Trucks Assembled In France

A mass of fighting materiel is pouring in. For one example, a depot commanded by Lieut. Col. A. R. Decker, Homewood, Ill., has an assembly line able to put together scores of trucks daily with storage facilities for 6,000.

Trucks no longer are assembled in Great Britain, but in France, where the job is done swiftly. The port of Cherbourg is 300 miles closer to New York than is London.

The general said he had found morale among Negro troops in Normandy "very high—I haven't heard a growl yet."

Gen. Walker Dies Leading Men

Somewhere in Normandy, July 27 (AP—Delayed)—Brig. Gen. Nelson M. Walker, a native of Pittsfield, Mass., and the assistant commander of a United States infantry division, was killed today while personally leading an assault on a German machine-gun position in a hedgerow.

The 55-year-old general, who has been recommended for a posthumous Distinguished Service Cross, had gone to the front to inspire and encourage his troops freshly thrown into battle. A machine-gun bullet severed a thigh artery. He died within a few hours. His son, Lieut. Perrin Walker, is an aide to the general commanding this division.

General Walker recently was awarded the Legion of Merit for his work in the army's plans and training section at Washington after Pearl Harbor. He was a second lieutenant in the first World War and was awarded the Purple Heart for wounds received during fighting in France.

He was promoted to brigadier general in 1942 after having served in various military assignments.

His widow, Mrs. Doris Walker, lives in Pittsfield.

German Prisoner Spots Own Guns

With the American Troops at St. Malo, Aug. 7 (AP)—Nazi long-range shells landed a few yards from some German prisoners near St. Malo today.

One captive officer called excitedly to one of the guards.

"I am an artilleryman and I believe those are guns from our battery," he said, adding nervously, "Let me see your map."

A map was brought; he pointed, and said, "Here."

The information was relayed immediately to an American battery which opened fire. The enemy fire ceased abruptly.

'From Brooklyn,' German Asserts

Vannes, France, Aug. 7 (AP)—Every place you go you meet someone from Brooklyn.

Two ancient trucks wheezed into the town square jammed with French resistance forces. In the center of them were four frightened German prisoners.

One of them spotted the Americans. He screamed:

"Ich Freund! Ich von Brooklyn!"

(I'm a friend. I'm from Brooklyn).

GERMAN PRISONER RIDICULES HITLER

On the British Front in France, Aug. 7 (A. P.).—A German corporal deserted to British lines today and said:

"We are not fighting the war any more. I am an army man and this new Hitler salute we have had to give since the assassination attempt is not for me. After all, Hitler was only a lance corporal in the last war and even then he was only a company runner."

85,543 Captured By Yanks in France

With United States First Army in France, Aug. 7 (A. P.).—Prisoners captured by Americans for the entire French front since D day mounted to 85,543 today and German burials by the Americans reached 14,171.

NAZIS EVACUATING SOUTHWEST FRANCE

Only Handful Of Police Left Along Spanish Frontier

Irun, Spain, Aug. 7 (AP)—German forces in southwestern France, whose communications are seriously menaced by the American drive eastward into France, began a full-scale evacuation last night, it was learned here today, leaving only a handful of Gestapo agents and gendarmes to cover the French-Spanish frontier.

Regular army forces moved out of the region south of Bayonne over a week ago, leaving SS units behind. The SS forces in turn began leaving last night, reports said, and today only French custom guards and two or three German gendarmes were on duty at the international bridge across the Bidassoa river here.

Temporary, Gestapo Say

As the Germans moved north from Hendaye, Biarritz, Bayonne and Bordeaux, French Maquis several hundred strong in a daring raid struck railroad communications on the outskirts of Bayonne, dynamiting a bridge north of the city last night, thus cutting a direct line from Bordeaux.

German police forces at the Hendaye bridge maintained the evacuation of the troops was a "purely temporary withdrawal" due to the reassignment of the border region forces.

Permanent, French Believe

Frenchmen living on the Spanish side of the frontier, however, are convinced the Nazi high command is abandoning southwestern France.

The daring Maquis raid at Bayonne indicated the patriots even last night were well aware that the Germans were spread very thin south of Bordeaux, for Bayonne once was one of the strongest of the German garrisons in that region.

French Set To Evacuate Mediterranean Coast

New York, Aug. 7 (AP)—Preparations are complete for the compulsory evacuation of the French Mediterranean coast if it should become necessary, the Vichy radio said today, asking for the immediate voluntary evacuation of "all those whose presence is not necessary."

The French people should not let events on the Normandy and Brittany fronts make them forget the "dangers that threaten other regions," said the broadcast reported by the Federal Communications Commission.

RUSSIANS SEIZE LAST OIL WELLS IN CARPATHIANS

Loss of Boryslaw Heavy Blow to Enemy's Dwindling Oil Supplies.

DRIVE TOWARD KIELCE

Eleventh Soviet Army Captures Boryslaw and Sambor in Southern Poland.

LONDON, Tuesday, Aug. 8.—(AP) Russian troops, attacking a bitterly-resisting foe beyond the Vistula river in southern Poland, yesterday smashed to within 25 miles of the German stronghold of Kielce, while other Soviet forces in the Carpathian mountains reconquered the last of 2,000 Galican oil wells which had been feeding the Axis war machine.

Two orders of the day announced the fall of the oil center of Boryslaw in the Carpathians and the seizure of Sambor, a communications hub whose capture gave the Russians firm grips on five routes leading into nearby Czechoslovakia.

Drive In East Prussia

Simultaneously, three other powerful Soviet armies far to the north began a great pincers movement on German East Prussia along a 200-mile front, which was being savagely defended by reinforced German troops sent into battle as soon as they arrived from central Germany.

Although the Russians scored strategic gains in several key sectors during the day, there were no spectacular spurts such as those chalked up as recently as last Thursday when the Red armies crossed the Vistula river southwest of Sandomierz, 110 miles below besieged Warsaw.

Both Moscow and Berlin dispatches indicated the intensity of German resistance now that Russian troops are only a few miles from the East Prussian border and within 75 to 90 miles of German Silesia. But the Russians also were fighting another foe—lengthening supply lines and communications shattered by a retreating enemy.

Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukraine army captured 60 localities yesterday in expanding its bridgehead west of the Vistula. These included Sandlow, 30 miles beyond the river and 25 miles southeast of Kielce, a road hub whose fall would cut important enemy communication lines linking the Warsaw and Krakow fronts.

Capture Kongary

Kongary, 16 miles west of Sandomierz, also was captured, as well as Sosniezany, only seven miles southwest of Sandomierz. The latter town apparently also was a Soviet objective since a rail bridge spans the Vistula there.

The Russians now have seized 650 square miles on the west bank of the Vistula in a drive which has rolled southwest to within 37 miles of Krakow, last big German bastion before Silesia.

A German broadcast said the Russians still held another bridgehead, at Warka, 30 miles below Warsaw, but Moscow never has confirmed a crossing by Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's First White Russian army fighting in the Warsaw area.

In the north, Gen. Ivan C. Bagramian's First Baltic army struck out suddenly yesterday in a twin drive toward Tilsit and Memel, key East Prussian cities. His troops captured 50 towns and villages, including Saukenai, 63 miles northeast of Tilsit, and 77 miles east of the Baltic seaport of Memel. Kursenai, 11 miles north of Saukenai, also fell in advances ranging up to 20 miles from the pivot base of Siauliai in northern Lithuania.

It was Bagramian's troops which last week plugged the land escape route of scores of thousands of Nazi troops in Estonia and Latvia by driving a wedge northward to the gulf of Riga.

In the first news of the battle progress since then Moscow radio last night broadcast an appeal by the national committee of free Germany calling on these trapped troops to surrender.

They were told that a Soviet ring "95 miles in depth" hemmed them in, and that "a break-out toward East Prussia is impossible."

Adressed to Troops

"Not a single man must uselessly sacrifice his life for Hitler's lost cause," said the appeal addressed to perhaps 200,000 to 300,000 troops. The appeal was signed by Erich Weinert, committee president, and Gen. Walter B. Seydlitz, vice-president. Weinert is a German refugee in Russia, and Seydlitz is one of the many German generals who have joined the committe since the Nazi debacle at Stalingrad.

In Eastern Latvia and southern Estonia two other Russian armies were herding these German troops westward toward Riga. The daily bulletin said the railway and highway between Madona and Gulbene, 80 miles east of Riga, had been cut in this steady advance.

The drive on Tilsit from the northeast was aided by other attacks south of that front and west of the Dubissa river. Forty villages were captured in this area yesterday, including Andrusaiciai, less than two miles from the road junction of Raseinial, and Plinge, 12 miles beyond the Dubissa river. These represented seven-mile gains, and put the Russians 53 miles east-northeast of Tilsit.

Moscow did not mention the sector just opposite the East Prussian border where Gen. Ivan D. Cherniakhovsky's Third White Russian army has been meeting furious resistance, but told of a new spurt toward the southern border of East Prussia by Gen. G. F. Zakharov's Second White Russian army.

Zakharov's troops captured Knyszyn, 15 miles northwest of Bialystok, and Lapy, about the same distance southwest of that base. These spearheads both were about 35 miles from the German stronghold of Lomza, which must be reduced before the Russians can hit into the southern part of East Prussia and straighten their lines between that German province and Warsaw.

Nazis Suffer Heavy Losses

The Germans were estimated to be suffering losses of at least 5,000 men daily in their effort to hold back the multiple Soviet armies. Nearly that many killed yesterday alone, a midnight Moscow bulletin said.

German broadcasts said hundreds of thousands of men, women and even children had been mobilized in East Prussia to aid Nazi armies in the fight to prevent an invasion by "superior Soviet forces" attacking furiously on a broad front from the invaded Suwalki triangle in the south to the area above Tilsit.

(A German broadcast to the armed forces, reported by the Federal Communications commission, disthe East Prussia front were suffering from "utter fatigue" in their bitter fight against "a Soviet superiority in men and material that is beyond the imagination.")

Reds Take Another Oil Center In Polish Carpathian Hills

Nearby Railway Junction Also Is Captured, Cutting Line From Reich to Romania— 11 Russian Armies Now Press Foe.

London, Aug. 7 (A. P.).—The Polish oil center of Boryslaw and the nearby German stronghold of Sambor in the Carpathian slope country were today captured by the Russians, Marshal Stalin announced in successive orders of the day.

Boryslaw is five miles southwest of the companion oil center of Drohobycz, which the Russians captured yesterday. These Galician petroleum centers were the most important in old Poland and second only to the Ploesti fields of Romania as a source of German oil. The Boryslaw fields are connected by pipeline with those of Drohobycz, which produced about 700,000 tons of oil a year.

Stalin's first order told of the capture of Sambor, forty-two miles southwest of Lwow and nineteen miles northwest of Drohobycz, and described Sambor as a large railway junction and important strongpoint in the German defenses in the Carpathian foothills. It lies on railway lines from Lwow to Czecho-Slovakia and Hungary and from German Silesia to Romania.

In tonight's official communique, Moscow announced that the Russian troops in Latvia captured Lubana, 100 miles east of Riga, and also cut the railway and highway between Madona and Gulbene. Madona is eighty miles east of Riga.

Continuing their drive on East Prussia other Russian forces captured the large highway junction towns of Kurtavenia and Saukenai, which is seventy miles northeast of Tilsit in East Prussia, Miscow also said. West of Sandomierz the Russians, expanding their bridgehead on the left bank of the Vistula, captured over sixty populated places.

Nazi Resistance Stiffens

Moscow, Aug. 7 (AP)—Eleven Russian army groups hammered with artillery and bombers today at the steel foundations of Germany's East Wall based on Krakow, Warsaw and the forested border of East Prussia, encountering the toughest opposition in the 46-day summer offensive.

Toward the southern extremity of the 1,200-mile meandering front the Russians captured the oil and communications center of Drohobycz, chasing the Germans in a bloody rout deep into the Carpathian Mountain approaches to the Czechoslovak border. Red planes hounded the fleeing enemy, after destroying six troop and oil trains at the Drohobycz station.

Nazi Reserves In Battle

German resistance stiffened with infantry and armored reserves now making a final stand to save the Reich from concerted invasion. The Russians, capturing 30 villages in the north, stood 5 to 25 miles from East Prussia. In the south beyond the breached Vistula river line, they were within 75 miles of German Silesia, highly industrialized coal region. In this area they were only 30 miles from the Polish city of Krakow.

Only in the Baltic States and on the northern slopes of the Carpathians did the war remain fluid. (The Germans asserted they had recaptured Jelgava in Latvia in the ten-mile corridor to the Baltic west of Riga.)

In London Reuter reported that the German radio said that hundreds of thousands of East Prussians have been mobilized by Gauleiter Koch to build fortifications along the border of East Prussia.

Closer To Danube Basin

Russian pressure was fiercely intense against all German strongpoints. Steadily encroaching westward along the Carpathians, the Red army neared the moment when it could launch powerful blows toward the Danube basin which is Germany's bread-basket.

Warsaw, under seige for more than a week, seethed with street fighting between Poles and the German garrison. Fires still burned in the city from German demolitions. Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky presumably was continuing to probe with Rusian and Polish infantry for crossings of the broad and swift Vistula which would outflank the Polish capital from north and south.

Nazis Reported Trapped

Hitting toward Krakow, last large Nazi stronghold before German Silesia, still other Red Army units appeared to have trapped a segment of enemy troops in the San-Vistula river triangle, more than 100 miles south of Warsaw.

Col. Gen. Ivan Petrov, taking over the Fourth Ukranian Army, commanded formerly by Gen. Feodor I. Tolbuhkin, emerged as the leader of the 11th Army attacking the Germans.

Premier Joseph Stalin announced the fall of Drohobycz in a special order of the day yesterday.

Driving Toward Tilsit

Gen. Ivan D. Cherniakhovsky's Third White Russian Army was striking above the Niemen river in an apparent drive toward Tilsit and the Baltic seaport of Memal in another effort to split German army groupings along the sea.

South of the Niemen river the Russians were from five to 25 miles from the East Prussian border. Soviet artillery hurled shells into German positions beyond the border, and Russian planes hammered targets inside the Nazi province.

Signs Urge Harder Effort

Nazi resistance was fierce, but Russian troops erected signposts showing the dwindling mileage to the border and wrote underneath: "Onward comrades."

The latest Soviet communique said "steady reinforcements" were arriving in the Virbalis sector, where Russian troops were only a few miles from East Prussia on the main Kaunas-Konigsberg railway.

Hit Polish Corridor.

Moscow, Aug. 7 (A. P.).—Heavy bombers of the English based Eighth United States Air Force, with Mustang escorts, yesterday attacked a German aircraft factory at Rahmel, ten miles northwest of the Polish port of Gdynia, and landed at Russian bases without loss. The flyers reported excellent bombing results and said that the objectives were covered with flames and smoke as the squadron flew on to Russia.

Anti-aircraft fire was heavy at some points along the long route, but enemy fighters were encountered only in weak strength. It was the twentieth operation in which American planes have used Russian bases of the Eastern Command.

Gydnia, a city of 113,000 lies at the north end of the Polish Corridor, where the first shots of this war were fired.

'Polish Boys Fighting'

London, Aug. 7 (AP)—Boys of 12 are fighting tanks in Warsaw, the Polish forces' press bureau said today, quoting a radio dispatch from General Bor, commander in chief of the Polish underground.

The homeland army has seized its first tank, and "the civilian who put it into action after its capture, John Lumenski, is the first cvilian decorated in the fight for Warsaw," the dispatch added.

Underground fighters recaptured the Lolidorz district of Warsaw, the central part of which is known as Woodrow Wilson Plaza, the dispatch reported. Germans, it said, set fire to the National Museum, Red Cross Hospital, Athanaeum Theater and a big apartment house, and prevented the population from combating the fires.

POLISH - RUSSIAN ACCORD NEARER

Moscow, Aug. 7 (A. P.).—Prospects of Polish reconciliation appeared brighter today with the renewal of conferences between Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk and the Polish National Committee of Liberation.

Premier Mikolajczyk, who heads the Polish Government at London, held a preliminary four-hour talk with the other faction yesterday. An atmosphere of improving goodwill was reported.

Allied Planes Raid Germans From Dawn Until Midnight

London, Tuesday, Aug. 8 (AP)—Allied planes attacked the Germans in France from dawn to midnight yesterday, smashing the enemy from the battlelines to his vital supply centers far in the rear in possibly the greatest effort of ground forces since D-day.

Rocket-firing RAF Tyhoons and Allied fighter-bombers, raiding German armor that was counterattacking into the heart of the American line across the base of the Brittany peninsula, alone knocked out 135 German tanks and smashed scores of other enemy vehicles.

At 11 P. M., 1,000 RAF Lancasters and Halifaxes bombed German positions facing the British and Canadians south of Caen.

Bridges, Fuel Tanks Hit

While the fighters and fighter-bombers were raking the front-lines during the day, 1,500 United States Flying Fortresses and Liberators hit the enemy rear in an arc running from Amiens, in northwest France, through the Paris area to Bordeaux, on the Bay of Biscay. The big bombers rained explosives on bridges, railroad junctions, fuel tanks and supply depots.

Field dispatches last night said the night assault in the Caen sector compared favorably with the blows during the day on the German counterattack south of Mortain and aimed at Avranches.

The American heavies over France met no opposition in the air, but two bombers and two fighters were reported missing. From an earlier mission over the Breton peninsula and Brest harbor, five United States Ninth Air Force Marauder bombers were reported missing.

32 Locomotives Claimed

United States Eighth Air Force fighters accompanying the heavies over France claimed destruction of 32 locomotives, 350 freight cars and 80 military vehicles. Other groups of French-based Mustangs and Thunderbolts stabbed deep into France, encountering 35 German fighters and destroying seven.

At the same time, formations of up to 500 Italian-based heavy bombers attacked two synthetic oil plants at Blechhamer in Silesia, 75 miles southeast of Breslau, carrying on the strategic operations which had sent United States planes from England over Germany for the past three days.

The bombers from the 15th Air Force completed their mission successfully despite swarms of interceptors trying to save the plants which produced much of Germany's high-grade motor fuel.

Another force of American Liberators from Italy bombed the airfield at Alibunar and oil installations on the Danube at Novi Sad, northwest of Belgrade. Both points are in Yugoslavia.

Good Results Reported

Returning crewmen from the raid into Silesia reported good results in this latest blow at German oil resources which Lieut. Gen. James H. Doolittle said had been reduced almost to non-existence.

Another force of bombers from England, escorted by Mustangs, yesterday attacked a German aircraft factory at Rahmel, ten miles northwest of Gdynia, and landed safely at Russian bases.

Crewmen reported excellent results in that raid, the 20th in which American planes have used Russian bases of the Eastern Command.

Bombers of all types now are carrying bombs containing RDZ, which can do 50 per cent. more damage than previous explosives.

United States Air Force Marauders closed another escape route for trapped Germans on the Breton peninsula when they scored direct hits on two freighters in Brest harbor during a forenoon attack.

Rail Bridges Bombed

Another force of Marauders stepped up their pace to isolate the enemy in the main battle area, bombing two railroad bridges over the river Seine at Corbeil, 20 miles south of Paris, and at Corbie to the north.

British aircraft took full advantage of the moonlight Sunday night and hit targets reaching from the battle zone into Germany.

Heavy bombers crippled the enemy's vital north-south supply routes, and Mosquitos returned to Cologne and with two-ton blockbusters, smashed anew at the synthetic oil plant at Castrop-Rauxel in the Ruhr.

Mosquitos hit the most important rail routes running eastward from the Paris area and bombed many trains.

The Mosquitos downed five German planes for the loss of one.

30-24— 17815

The Air ministry, commentin the Caen bombardment, said th "though it was in darkness, this attack was in a literal sense the closest support yet given to our armies, because the bomb line was nearer to our troops than ever before."

There was a bright moon and clear skies with some ground haze, but reports said the bombing was accurate.

Two Oil Plants Near Breslau Yank Target

BERLINER

London, Aug. 7 (AP)—More than 500 American heavy bombers raided two synthetic oil plants deep in the Reich today in concert with from 500 to 750 Liberators and Fortresses which struck over a wide area of France.

The Fifteenth Air Force sent its heavyweights from Mediterranean bases to Blechhamer, Silesia, 75 miles southeast of Breslau, where they hit two plants which produce much of the German high-grade fuel oil.

The Germans threw up smoke screens and interceptors swarmed into the air to guard the plants, one of which is the third largest Nazi synthetic plant still operating, but the bombers fought through and dropped their loads visually or by instrument.

DAY

Targets In Belgrade Area

Another force of Liberators roared into the Balkans, pounded an airfield at Alibunar, 21 miles northeast of Belgrade, and oil installations on the Danube at Novi Sad, northwest of Belgrade.

A big force of American heavies from British bases—numbering up to 750 — bombed fuel tanks and depots, bridges and railway junctions over a wide stretch of France.

An equal number of Lightnings, Thunderbolts and Mustangs guarded the bombers striking east and northeast of Paris, southeast of Bordeaux and in the Amiens region.

AUG 8 1944

Today's daylight operations followed an attack by heavy bombers of the Royal Air Force last night on the railroad junction of Hazebrouck, south of Dunkirk.

Shuttle Raids Hit Rahmel

Moscow disclosed that American heavies flying from England yesterday pounded a Nazi aircraft plant at Rahmel, ten miles northwest of the Polish port of Gydnia, and then flew on to Russian bases without loss.

Anti-aircraft fire was heavy at some points, but enemy fighters were encountered only in weak strength.

The attack was the 20th operation AUG 8 1944 American planes have used Russian bases of the Eastern Command. The first shuttle bombers landed in the Soviet Union June 2.

Two Ships At Brest Hit

Today's aerial assaults followed an RAF heavy bomber raid last night on the rail junction of Hazebrouck, south of Dunkirk, and Berlin radio said planes from the south also were hitting at German targets.

American Marauder bombers, maintaining pressure to seal in whatever Germans are left on the Breton peninsula, made direct hits on two enemy freighters in the harbor of Brest before noon.

Other mediums bombed Seine river railway bridges 30 miles south of Paris at Corbeil, and at Corbie near Vernon.

ROBOT ASSAULTS CONTINUE LIGHT

London, Aug. 7 (A. P.).—German flying bomb attacks continued on London and the southern counties today. During the night the bombs came over at short intervals, causing a few casualties. DAY

The overnight bombardment capped a week end of sporadic robot attacks which reached fairly heavy proportions Saturday night, but tapered off during the daylight hours yesterday.

The Air Ministry announced fifty-six flying bomb storage depots in northern France had been destroyed and forty-four heavily damaged in recent Allied heavy bomber attacks.

AUG 8 1944

Allied Headquarters reported that the Russians have found large areas of Poland devasted by the German V-2 rocket experiments, BBC said today in a broadcast recorded by CBS.

PARTISANS CAPTURE TOWN

Greeks and Yugoslavs Take City in Joint Frontier Action

LONDON, Tuesday, Aug. 8 (AP) —Yugoslav and Greek Partisans have joined forces along the frontiers and together have captured the Greek industrial town of Edessa, Marshal Tito's communiqué reported today. NIGHT

The communiqué said that the capture of the city, which formerly had a population of 20,000, threatened German communications between Solun and Bitolj.

Aristocrat Hunt Now On In Germany

London, Aug. 7 (AP)—Nazi gauleiters and propagandists are off on a wild gallop against German aristocrats and generals who they allege are leagued with a "blueblooded international" plot to kill Hitler.

Hitler's appeal to gauleiters Friday that he could win the war "despite everything" if he could only be sure of "absolute security and blind confidence" of the home front, seems to have imparted to his followers something of his unspoken fears as he contemplates the prospect of collapse of his regime.

So, taking a cue from Labor Minister Robert Ley's outburst against "blueblooded swine," they pictured the aristocrats as a menace worse than the Bolshevist international.

Outbursts From Carinthia

The latest to follow in the steps of Ley is the gauleiter of Carinthia in southern Austria, who said:

"Aristocracy is an international phenomenon, the representatives of which can be found in America, Britain and elsewhere."

Certain German aristocrats and generals in league with this international, he explained to a mass meeting, planned to kill Hitler and "conclude peace with Stalin after assuming power, and open the gates to a march into Germany of the Soviet divisions." NIGHT

Stalin Now Braided Marshal

This was not inconsistent on the part of the aristocrats, he added, because "the criminal generals and officers no longer saw Stalin as a Red hangman but as a braided marshal."

Nazi commentators, trying to explain the cumulative defeats in the east and west, are jumping at the chance to blame aristocrats for Germany's hard luck.

Hitler Promises No Surrender

London, Aug. 7 (AP)—A bid by Adolf Hitler for "blind confidence" from the Nazi home front strengthened the belief here today that, barring betrayal or overthrow, he will continue the fight against the Allies until the very end.

The official German agency DNB said yesterday in a Berlin broadcast that Hitler, in a pep talk to Reich leaders at his headquarters last Friday, asserted he was thankful "because I believe it is necessary for the nation to have a man like me who would not capitulate under any circumstances, and who holds high the banner of faith and confidence."

"I believe that nobody could do this better than I am doing," "Hitler added. "Whatever may come, I shall always stand up, a bearer of the banner. DAY

Hitler "Not Afraid"

"I am not afraid of the fight against our exterior enemies. At the end we will finish all the same. All I need is the conviction that in our rear there is absolute security, blind confidence and faithful collaboration."

His remarks were interpreted also as an expression of determination to bring all Germans possible under the Nazi banner. Perhaps as a nucleus for a post-war underground army.

May Bring In Workers

The Russian news agency Tass, in a dispatch from Bern, said the Nazis intend to extend total mobilization to foreign workers, which may mean that hundreds of thousands in labor battalions from occupied countries will be forced into the German army.

In a dispatch from Zurich, Tass said Hitler had agreed to a request from Heinrich Himmler, commander of the home army, for an increase in the strength of the SS forces.

LASKI AND BED HURLED 5 STORIES

London, Aug. 7 (A. P.).—Prof. Harold Laski, widely known British economist, had a rude awakening recently when a German flying bomb struck a coast hotel. DAY

Laski's bed fell five stories through a gaping hole torn by the bomb blast, but landed right side up with the professor still in it, wide awake but unhurt.

British Sink Nazi Trawler

LONDON, Aug. 7 (AP).—One German armed trawler was sunk and another probably sunk by light coastal forces of the Royal Navy in an encounter yesterday with five armed escort vessels off the Brittany coast north of St. Malo, an Admiralty communique said today. DAY

Von Papen On Way Home

London, Aug. 7 (AP) — Berlin broadcasts said today that Franz von Papen, former German Ambassador to Turkey, has arrived in Bulgaria en route to Germany. DAY

Petain In Germany?

London, Tuesday, Aug. 8 (AP)—The Reuters news agency declared today that unconfirmed reports from Zurich, Switzerland, said Marshal Petain had been taken from Vichy to Germany.

FINNS PROCEED WITH PLANS FOR NEW GOVERNMENT

STURDEVANT

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 7 — (AP) Finnish political leaders were described today as "making haste slowly" toward formation of a government under the new president, Marshal Baron Mannerheim, which presumably will be called on to negotiate peace with the Soviet Union. NIGHT

In an order of the day, Mannerheim told Finnish soldiers that "the battle for the existence and future of the country goes on. In my capacity of commander-in-chief of the armed forces I appeal to you to be steadfast and tenacious. The unshakable mutual confidence and unity of our nation are the country's best protection."

Political maneuvering continued in Helsinki without a sign as to when a list of new cabinet ministers could be expected, said a dispatch to the Stockholm Aftonbladet.

Finnish informants here expressed the view that the new government would include representatives of most parties along the lines of the old cabinet of Premier Edwin Linkomies.

An augury of Finnish rapprochement with the U.S.S.R. was seen in a statement of Dr. Juho Paasikivi that "we Finns must always count on a strong Russia and once and for all forget Russia's weakness in 1917."

Paasakivi's statement was made in an interview with an Associated Press correspondent at the Finnish Summer resort of Nadenthal on the gulf of Bothnia where the Finnish elder statesman is believed awaiting a call from Mannerhein to again negotiate peace with Russia as he did in 1940.

The former minister to Moscow, now 73, declared "a little country like Finland must avoid all adventures and maintain a cautious policy. We must design our foreign policy so that it does not oppose Russia.

AUG 8 1944

Paasikivi declared the armistice terms he obtained last March on a peace mission to Moscow were "milder" than those offered when he met Madame Alexandra Kollontay, Soviet ambassador to Sweden, in Stockholm the preceding month.

New Finnish Cabinet List Expected Today

Stockholm, Tuesday, Aug. 8 (AP). Announcement of the new Finnish Cabinet is expected today and it is reported to include Hantti Hackzell, former Minister to Moscow, as Premier. STURDEVANT

Carol Inckell, member of the Finnish peace mission to Moscow in March, was reported to be Foreign Minister in the new Cabinet.

The reported Cabinet was seen as an augury of Finnish rapprochement with the U. S. S. R., as was a statement by Dr. Juho Passikivi that "we Finns must always count on a strong Russia and once and for all forget Russia's weakness in 1917."

Stockholm, Aug. 7 (A. P.).—Dr. Juho Paasikivi, Finland's foremost spokesman for peace with Russia, declared in an interview today:

"We Finns must always count on a strong Russia and once and for all forget Russia's weakness in 1917." He added: "We must avoid conflicts and design our foreign policy so that it does not oppose Russia. A little country like Finland must avoil all adventures and maintain a cautious policy."

The 73-year-old former Finnish Minister to Moscow arranged the peace which ended the Russian-Finnish Winter war of 1939-40. He negotiated again for peace earlier this year, but the terms he elicited were rejected by the Government of President Risto Ryti, now resigned and succeeded by Marshal Baron Mannerheim.

Mr. Paasikivi gave his interview at the Finnish summer resort of Nadenthal, where he is believed to be awaiting a call from the Mannerheim Government once more to negotiate peace.

ALLIES PREPARE TO CROSS ARNO

MORGAN

Last Pockets of Enemy Resistance Near Florence Being Reduced.

ROME, Aug. 7.—(AP) Battle-hardened Allied fighting men moved into position tonight for the next great assault on an Italian water barrier, the Arno river, barring the path to the enemy's fortified Gothic Line.

AUG 8 1944

British Eighth army troops and men of the U. S. Fifth army, many of them veterans of the bloody crossings of the Volturno, Sangro and Rapido rivers, waited only for the reduction of a few pockets of Nazi resistance on the south banks of the Arno, east and west of Florence, and for the completion by engineers of preparations for the new assault. NIGHT

Few Nazis Left

Small groups of Germans, grimly hanging on in the face of Allied pressure, were all that were left from a point three miles east of Florence to Montelupo, 12 miles west.

Allied reconnaissance patrols invaded the important river towns of Montelup and Empoli but they remained in no-man's land. An important center of German resistance on the ridge southwest of Pontassieve, in the bend of the Arno, was being steadily reduced.

Once those German pockets have been wiped out General Sir Harold Alexander's American, British and Dominion forces can be massed on a sixty-mile front from the Arno's mouth to Pontassieve.

South African troops made contact with the Germans on the north bank of the river in thrusts which an Allied spokesman explained were only reconnaissance patrols which had returned.

DAY

AUG 8 1944

Alarm expressed by the Vatican that the great renaissance city of Florence might be destroyed was allayed by word from the ... command that the city's main area on the north side of the Arno was apparently occupied only by small parties of machine-gunners, and by the declaration from an official source that "there will be no need for the city itself to become a battlefield."

Enemy Digging in

On both sides of Florence, however, the Nazis were digging in for a desperate stand. Big guns emplaced on the hills north of the Arno continued to toss shells into the Eighth army lines. Allied artillery was not shelling any part of the city.

The time needed to complete preparations for an attack across the Arno appeared to depend to a considerable extent upon the speed with which Allied engineers will be able to restore the battered harbors, railroads, highways and other communications leading to the battlefront.

Taking a lesson from their failure in Rome, the Nazis ordered the early demolition of Florence's bridges. Close pursuit forced them to leave the Tiber bridges intact during the drive on Rome.

(The Germans gave new evidence of widespread sabotage in northern Italy with their communique today saying 1,212 "terrorists and saboteurs" were annihilated between August 1-5.)

FLORENCE STILL UNDER NAZI FIRE

Allies Say There Is No Need for City to Be Battlefield.

NORTH-STAR

Rome, Aug. 7 (A. P.).—Big German shells continued to land today in the southern portions of Florence, which is in Allied hands, but Gen. Sir Harold Alexander's headquarters announced, "there will be no need for the city itself to become a battlefield."

[Riots were reported in parts of Florence held by the Germans, according to a BBC broadcast heard today by NBC monitors. Fighting is going on between the local Fascists and anti-Fascists, BBC said.]

An Allied Headquarters communique said South African troops had made contact with the enemy on the north banks of the Arno River within Florence. An Allied spokesman explained, however, that "we have not yet had more than reconnaissance patrols over the river, and these have returned."

He added that apart from small parties with machine guns on the north bank there is little enemy activity in the town, and said the Nazis were devoting their major efforts in strengthening defenses intended to hurl back any Allied efforts to cross the river on either side of Florence.

DAY

The Allied command announced more than 50,000 prisoners had been taken by the Fifth and Eighth armies in the offensive from Cassino to Florence.

Both east and west of Florence, the Eighth Army was mopping up the few enemy footholds left on the south bank of the Arno.

All Quiet on Lower Arno.

In the great bend of the Arno east of Florence the Germans still were resisting on the ridge southwest of Pontassieve, but were being routed out.

Sharpshooting American artillerymen and mortar crews enlivened the relatively quiet Fifth Army front by knocking out a number of enemy mortar positions across the lower Arno.

The enemy was seen using pack trains on the steep slopes of Monte Pisano, the hill mass northeast of Pisa. This elevation is the site for big guns which occasionally shell the Leghorn harbor.

Indian and British units made advances despite stubborn resistance in the rough country northwest of Arezzo. In the upper Tiber valley northwest of Umbertide, San Sepoloro and San Giustino were cleared of the enemy.

Poles on the Adriatic sector made contact with the Nazis on a twenty-mile front in the high ground in front of the Cesano River, thirty-eight miles below Rimini. The Poles occupied Ripe and Lucia, while Italian troops on their left seized Montale and Ostra Vetere.

Patriots in Pitched Battle.

In northern Italy patriots with Allied air support are engaging the Germans in a major battle at Vercelli, said a BBC broadcast recorded by CBS in New York today.

Wins Flyer Silver Star

NORTH

Rome, Aug. 7 (AP)—A 20-year-old American Lightning fighter pilot who boldly landed his plane in a Romanian pasture despite heavy enemy ground fire and rescued a fellow pilot was decorated with the Silver Star when he stepped from his plane at the end of a shuttle trip to Russian bases.

The pilot, Flight Officer Richard T. Andrews, of Portland, Ore., was greeted and decorated by Maj. Gen. Nathan Twining, commander of the 15th Air Force.

DAY

Andrews was among the Lightning and Mustang pilots of the 15th Air Force landing at Italian bases yesterday upon completion of a shuttle mission during which formations strafed trains, railway stations, oil tanks and airdromes, leaving a blazing path of destruction across Romania going and coming.

Seventeenth Victory

Three victories were scored on the outgoing hop. One, over a German Junkers-25 transport plane, was credited to Capt. James S. Varnell, of Charleston, Tenn., giving him a total of 17 triumphs and a tie with Major Herschel S. Green, of Mayfield, Ky., for top-scoring honors among American flyers in the Mediterranean theater.

Varnell, however, would talk about nothing but Andrews' feat in rescuing Lieut. Richard E. Willsie, of Long Beach, Cal.

"It was one of the bravest things I've ever seen," he said. "He landed in a field near enemy positions through a lot of flak and took out his parachute to make room before taking off through the flak again."

On His Lap

Willsie had crash-landed after groundfire had knocked out the left engine of his low-flying Lightning. Andrews followed him in, put the 190-pound Willsie on his lap and took off with Willsie handling the controls.

Ground crews at the base gaped with amazement as they saw two men clambering out of Andrews' plane.

Turkey, on Raid Alert, Blacks Out Main Cities

ANKARA, Aug. 7 (AP).—Ankara, Istanbul, Izmir and other major points in Turkey within bombing range of German bases in Bulgaria, Greece and Romania went under a complete regular blackout tonight, as throughout Turkey preparations were being made to put the country on a semi-war footing.

Large groups of German nationals left Ankara in mid-afternoon for Istanbul, en route to Germany

ALLIED FORCES DRIVE AHEAD IN NORTHERN BURMA

GRUMICH

SOUTHEAST ASIA COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, KANDY, Ceylon, Aug. 7 — (AP) Allied forces swung into the concluding phase of their rigorous Monsoon campaign which has wrecked the Japanese plan of invading northeast India, and pressed deeper into northern Burma today beyond the captured frontier base of Tamu.

The Japanese offered no organized resistance in the rain-sodden jungle in the Kabaw valley. It was stated officially that only sick and wounded Japanese remain in the area west of the Chindwin river and north of an east-west line through Tamu.

Tamu is about 40 miles airline southeast of Imphal, Allied supply base which the Japanese campaign never reached.

Allied headquarters said ablerremnants of the beaten enemy had crossed the swollen Chindwin, using army crafts and a few motor boats and suffering casualties. The Japanese apparently were trying to establish a makeshift defense line on the left bank of the river. The Allied 14th army estimated it had killed 1,017 Japanese in the first half of July.

Headquarters said captured Japanese were "in a shocking state." Piles of Japanese bodies were being buried in the ruins of Myitkyina, main Japanese base in North Burma which Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's forces captured last week. In the vicinity of Tamu Allied troops found about 400 Japanese dead or dying from wounds and starvation.

NIGHT

Fifty miles south of Imphal on the road to Tiddim Japanese remnants were able to muster enough strength for delaying actions.

On the Mogaung front in northern Burma, Stilwell's forces continued their advance, capturing an important hill 12 miles southwest of Mogaung. The enemy offered sharp resistance along the Mandalay railway.

Despite Monsoon weather Allied aviation made widespread attacks in support of ground operations.

(In an interview at Kunming, Gen. Cheng Tung Kuo, deputy commander of the Chinese troops in Burma, said that Chinese forces there had advanced more than 160 miles and conquered more than 4,000 square miles of Burmese territory.

(He declared the Japanese had suffered more than 30,000 casualties, including more than 3,000 killed, and that the crack Japanese 18th division had been annihilated after having been reinforced 12 times. He attributed Allied successes in North Burma to high morale, perfect cooperation between various units, air supremacy and superior tactical and strategic plans.)

Japanese In Tamu Found Starving

Southeast Asia Command Headquarters, Kandy, Ceylon, Aug. 7 (AP)—British forces pursuing the Japanese beyond the captured Burmese frontier base of Tamu found no organized resistance today and they captured prisoners described officially as "in a shocking state."

In the ruins of captured Myitkyina, long besieged base in north Burma which Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell captured last week, piles of Japanese bodies were being buried.

Fifty miles south of Imphal, the Japanese were able to stage delaying actions.

Japs Found Starving

First troops entering Tamu reported finding more than 200 Japanese dead or dying from wounds and starvation in the near-by village of Bashas. About the same number of similar casualties were found in a village to the north and along the Kabaw Valley roads.

Widespread aerial attacks were made on strategic and tactical objectives, despite the monsoon.

The victors of Tamu were pushing the remnant enemy units into North Burma.

In capturing Tamu, the Allies seized a main advance base from which the Japanese launched their invasion of India, and also won control of an important airfield.

Strategic Hill Taken

From the Mogaung front in northern Burma came word that General Stilwell's forces had captured an important hill 12 miles south of that town after overcominging bitter enemy resistance along the Mandlay railway. Allied ground troops were reported continuing the advance.

Allied planes strongly attacked Bhamo, on one of the logical lines of extension of the new Burma road from captured Myitkyina.

Merrill's Marauders Still Fighting

Gen. Stilwell's Headquarters in India, Aug. 7 (A. P.).—Although Brig.-Gen. Frank Merrill has been transferred to a post in Kandy because of ill health, his famous American infantry force, known as Merrill's Marauders, is still fighting "somewhere in the field" in Burma, an official announcement said yesterday.

The announcement emphasized that Gen. Merrill's transfer was in no way connected with an inquiry into the return of convalescent raiders to duty during the battle of Myitkyina, which an official investigation said had caused a breakdown in Marauder morale. That investigation was reported closed with recommendation that no action be taken beyond rectifying the conditions which caused the breakdown.

The Marauder unit has received replacements and has been incorporated into a larger Allied force, the authorities said.

CHINESE REPULSE JAP ATTACKS ON HENGYANG LINE

NICOSIA

CHUNGKING, Aug. 7 — (AP) In some of the heaviest fighting ever seen on a China battlefield, Chinese defenders have smashed yet another determined Japanese offensive against Hengyang, rail-junction fortress in northern Hunan province, front dispatches said tonight.

The Chinese high command itself said Chinese troops had wiped out part of one Japanese force which infiltrated into their positions about the city, which the Japanese have been trying to capture for more than a month in their campaign to control the Hankow-Canton railway.

NIGHT

Two fierce Japanese counter-attacks were foiled. Chinese relief forces continued stabbing attacks against the besiegers.

East and west of the Siang river fighting continued without change at different points where the Japanese have established themselves to protect their main forces along the Canton-Hankow railway.

In southwestern Kwangtung province, where Japanese troops in a new offensive have burst out ofthe Hoiheng (Luichow) peninsula, the enemy was being engaged in the vicinity of their two apparent objectives, Limkong and Fahsien, which they hitherto have been unable to take. This new drive was headed in two directions, northeast and northwest against Chinese positions across the strait from Hainan, Japanese-held island.

Chinese forces pressing their offensive toward Burma in western Yunnan province were fighting inside the besieged Japanese bastion of Tengchung.

Chinese engineers widened breaches blown in the city's ancient walls by bombers of the U. S. 14th air force, said a Chinese high command communique. Pressure was being strengthened steadily on the Japanese garrison at this main objective of the Salween river offensive and the link to a junction with Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's campaigners in northern Burma.

AUG 8 1944

Chinese Enter Tengchung.

Chungking, Aug. 7 (A. P.).—Chinese troops were reported battling inside the defenses of the Japanese stronghold of Tengchung in western Yunnan province today after pouring through breaches blasted in the city's ancient walls by United States Fourteenth Air Force bombers. A Chinese communique said Chinese engineers had succeeded in widening the initial breaches and declared the attacking troops steadily were increasing their pressure on the Japanese garrison.

Daring Rescue Of Buddy

Other Chinese troops scaled the walls with medieval-type ladders, then used ultramodern flame-throwers to cut their way into the city—main objective of the Salween River offensive and key to a junction with Lieut.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's north Burma forces.

The Chinese also were exerting pressure on enemy forces defending the Burma road town of Mangshih, several miles southwest of Lungling, another major objective of the campaign.

Reports from the headquarters of Brig.-Gen. Frank Dorn of the American "Y-Force" operations staff, said savage fighting was in progress inside Tengchung, as 2,000 desperate Japanese tried to battle their way out of the Chinese encirclement.

AMERICANS RENEW DRIVE NEAR AITAPE

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, Tuesday, Aug. 8 (AP) Americans, renewing their advance against Japanese trapped in British New Guinea east of Aitape, have inflicted heavy casualties, headquarters announced today.

The advance continued toward the inland village of Afua, and penetrated behind the worward enemy positions.

Bombers from the South Pacific area hit Yap island in the Carolines with 30 tons of bombs Sunday.

"The Yap airbase appears to have been neutralized by our continuous attacks," Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced.

A Japanese freighter transport of 1,500 tons was sunk south of Ceram island, in the Netherlands East Indies, in a bombing attack Sunday.

GLOVER GIVEN COMMAND OF U. S. SEVENTH FLEET

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, Aug. 2—(Delayed)—(AP) Rear Adm. Robert O. Glover has assumed command of the U. S. Seventh Fleet service force, succeeding Commodore R. G. Coman.

The announcement, made by Vice Adm. Thomas C. Kinkaid, commander of Allied Naval forces in the Southwest Pacific area, said Coman returned to the United States for reassignment.

Glover, former commander of the battleship U.S.S. Massachusetts, recently was stationed at the office of chief of naval operations. His wife, Mrs. Rosalie H. Glover, lives at Richmond, Va.

American Troops Occupy Nine-Tenths of Guam Isle

Three-Mile Advance Sweeps Over Large New Jap Cemetery.

U. S PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Aug. 7—(AP) American troops pushed northward three miles in the center of the fighting lines on Guam Sunday to bring about nine-tenths of the American island's 225 square miles under control, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

The advance swept over a large, new Japanese cemetery where there was "evidence of the mass burial of enemy dead," Nimitz reported.

Bonin Island Bombarded

Nimitz disclosed Sunday that a powerful task force penetrated the Bonin islands last Thursday and Friday to strike a devastating blow at enemy shipping and ground installations within 600 miles of Tokyo.

This was the first mention of a new enemy cemetery in the Marianas islands, where Saipan and Tinian, about 125 miles northward, already have been conquered. Previously, Nimitz has reported that the Japanese have been carrying back their dead as they retreated, apparently trying to conceal the extent of losses.

The village of Vigo was captured in the northward sweep, along with considerable stores of ammunition and supplies. Yigo is almost directly west of Santa Rosa peak, 870-foot mountain just ahead of the Yanks and on their right or eastern flank.

With the Nipponese pushed back into a tenth of Guam's area, final crushing of the remnants of the trapped Japanese garrison can be expected shortly.

The American line continued to be anchored near Haputo point, on Guam's western coast, and at Lumuna point, on the eastern shore. Carrier aircraft again Sunday bombed and strafed enemy positions and troop concentrations near Mt. Santa Rosa.

Bombing raids on Truk Aug. 4 and 5 and on Ponape August 4 were announced by Nimitz. Probably a dozen enemy planes intercepted the slashes at Truk and two were damaged.

Nimitz disclosed Sunday that a powerful task force knifed into the Bonin islands last Thursday and Friday, striking a devastating blow at Japanese shipping and ground installations within 600 miles of Tokyo.

Chichi Island Shelled

Besides shelling Chichi island in the Bonins for the first time in the war, the force sank 11 enemy ships and several smaller craft, damaged 30 vessels and destroyed 13 planes.

American losses were announced as 16 planes and 19 flight personnel, the result of anti-aircraft fire.

Ships lost by Japan included five destroyers or destroyer escorts, five cargo vessels and an oiler. A light cruiser and five smaller vessels were left burning. Damaged ships included two escort vessels and a large freighter.

The ships made up a convoy that was "virtually wiped out," Nimitz reported.

The attack force, lingering for two days deep in enemy waters but without a sign of interference from the Japanese fleet, centered in the Volcano islands north of the invaded Marianas and in the Bonins, 600 miles closer to Japan.

Heaviest hit was Omura town on Chichi. It was destroyed, Nimitz reported, as American warship gunners got the range for the first time of enemy installations in the Bonins. Ground installations also were hit on Muko, Ani, Haha and Iwo islands.

Six enemy planes were destroyed in the air over Iwo, which is in the Volcano group, and six on the ground. Another plane was destroyed on the ground at Chichi.

Tokyo Admits Attack

Radio Tokyo belatedly admitted the attack today. The broadcast, quoting an Imperial communique, followed the usual course in asserting damage was slight and in ballooning claims of damage inflicted on the striking force.

Less than a fourth of Guam island remained in Japanese hands. That area in the northern end of the island, slowly shrinking as infantry and Leathernecks closed in, included Mt. Santa Rosa. That 870-foot peak on the eastern flank was the only height unconquered with the exception of Mt. Machanao, 610 feet high, in the extreme northern tip.

The 77th army division, under Maj. Gen. A. D. Bruce, was threatening to envelop Mt. Santa Rosa. It had made a brilliant three-mile advance along the wooded coast after capturing Mt. Barrigada, dominating a ridge that extended nearly across the island.

As the end approached, the Japanese were bombarded relentlessly day and night by American warships, planes and artillery.

11 Jap Ships Sunk, 30 Hit In Bonins Attack

Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Aug. 7 (AP)—Striking within 600 miles of Tokyo, an American carrier task force has shelled the Bonin Islands for the first time in this war, and in a two-day attack sank 11 Japanese vessels—including five warships—and damaged 30 other surface craft.

The shelling leveled Omura, Japanese town on northwestern Chichi, key island of the Bonin group. Carrier planes bombed Chichi, Haha, Muko and Ane islands in the Bonins, and two in the Kazan group, 150 miles south.

Convoy Wrecked

A Pacific Fleet communique said the American task force "virtually wiped out a Japanese convoy" during the raids Thursday and Friday. The score:

SUNK—Five Japanese destroyers or destroyer escorts, five cargo ships, one oiler, two smaller craft and several barges.

SET FIRE AND POSSIBLY SUNK—One light cruiser and five smaller vessels.

DAMAGED—Two escort vessels, a large freighter hit on both days, three landing ships and 18 small vessels, including five barges, two of them troop laden.

13 Planes Destroyed

At Iwo, six enemy planes were shot down. Six others were destroyed and five damaged on the ground. One parked plane was destroyed at Chichi. Anti-aircraft guns shot down 16 American carrier planes, and 19 American airmen were lost.

Indicating that B-29 Superfortresses will be based on Saipan, Brig. Gen. Robert W. Douglass, Jr., commander of the Seventh Army Air Force, disclosed that American engineers in the Marianas, "accomplishing a miracle of construction," were building big air bases "that threaten the very gates of Tokyo."

On Guam, 130 miles south of Saipan, American soldiers and marines forced Japanese defenders deeper into the northern quarter of the island.

Now Using Airfield

Marines began operating fighter planes off the Orote peninsula airstrip on Guam. Civilians continued to surrender by the hundreds; 22,000 already have taken refuge behind American lines.

Meanwhile, American Sixth Army troops who landed at Sansapor, Dutch New Guinea, 600 miles southeast of the Phillipines, last week, have cut enemy coastal communications and driven the Japanese back into the jungle "in a state bordering on demoralization."

Americans made another landing at Korim Bay, on Biak Island, off Dutch New Guinea, Thursday to cut off the escape of Japanese units fleeing from the American-occupied Mokmer airdrome area.

967 More Japs Killed

In the Wewak-Aitape area of British New Guinea, 700 miles east of Sansapor, Americans buried 967 more enemy dead, bringing Japanese fatalities in that area, since renewal of activity last July 12, to 5,935.

Allied bombers, attacking a small Japanese convoy off Amboina west of New Guinea Saturday, sank a 1,000-ton freighter and damaged two others. Two 1,000-ton enemy freighters were set afire 100 miles east of Palau, in the Carolines, Friday. Other bombers hit Wake Island, Ponape and Yap and enemy bases in the Marshall Islands.

Guam Japs Pushed Back In Steamroller Drive

By Charles P. Arnot

[Representing the Combined Allied Press]

Aboard Admiral Richard L. Conolly's Flagship off Guam, Aug. 7 (AP—Via Navy Radio)—Bearded, mud-caked marines and doughboys overran hastily constructed roadblocks and scoured treacherous wilds of northern Guam today in a steam roller drive toward Mount Machanao, where the final battle for Guam may be fought.

Between the front lines and the island's northern tip there still are some five miles of jungle terrain and several thousand Japanese fighting a desperate delaying action.

But they are without hope of escape and their eventual collapse can only be a matter of time.

Banzi Attack Expected

Mercilessly bombed and shelled day and night, these bleary-eyed survivors of Guam's original garrison already are showing increasing signs of thirst, hunger and confusion.

If this battle follows the usual pattern, there probably will be a banzi-screaming attack. Then will come the mopping-up phase.

Rising some 600 feet from the extreme northern tip of the island, Mount Machanao's wooded hillsides offer only a high refuge for the last-ditch stand by the enemy on the western flank, where strong marine forces have plunged forward more than two miles in the last 24 hours.

Yank Casualties "Light"

Despite the savage terrain and increasing effort of the enemy to slow the advance, Lieut. Col. E. S. Murray, of Duluth, Minn., staff officer of the Third Marine Division, described American casualties as "light."

To sharpshooting marines, who must have a name for everything, this is the battle of "boondocks"—a leatherneck term loosely applied to any rugged terrain and particularly to Guam's thicket-covered tablelands.

All across the six-mile front there are forbidding natural defenses. These are a paridise for snipers, but the terrain is so thick that even jungle-loving Japanese have been forced to concentrate their main delaying actions along a few narrow roads.

Hedgehog Defense Pits

Along strategic curves and hill tops they have camouflaged some of their few remaining 75-mm. cannon to halt our tanks and have dug hedgehog defense pits to challenge infantry assaults.

But so far their success has been meager. Nine field guns, ranging from 37-mm. to 75s, and two tanks were destroyed yesterday as the advancing ground forces swept along roads paralleling the west coast.

Fanning out from the strategic Finegayan road junction, tank-supported infantrymen moved in two powerful columns north and northwest, overrunning the rubble-strewn villages of Ukudu and Liguan by noon.

Both Flanks Anchored

Before nightfall they had anchored their left flank at Haputo Point on the west coast and were digging in along a line stretching clear across the island to Lumuna Point, just below Mount Santa Rosa, on their right flank.

Most of the resistance along the western (left) flank has come from groups of 30 to 40 Nipponese who either tried to dig in along the roads or fire from ambushes.

On the east (right) flank, the enemy's hold on 970-foot Mount Santa Rosa and the nearby town of Yigo is threatened by Maj. Gen. A. D. Bruce's 77th Army Division, which has plunged northward more than three miles along the wooded coast line since capturing Mount Barrigada.

Sharpshooting Record

Concentrating on the few remaining roads in enemy territory, several "Long Toms" yesterday set something of a sharpshooting record by scoring direct hits on several enemy trucks transporting troops along the road leading to Mt. Machanao. The recent night average output for all artillery has been nearly 1,000 rounds.

During a tour of the front in the Finegayan area I had a ringside seat for one of the greatest artillery concentrations of the campaign. Scores of rounds of heavy artillery fire landed simultaneously in an area 400 yards square, virtually obliterating both the Japs and their markeshift defenses.

This mass destruction of the enemy is being repeated every half hour and each time against a new target, said Major George H. Ford of Homer, La., executive officer of one battalion.

36.24— 17817
AUG 1944
DAY
ERICKSON
AUG 1944
NIGHT
AUG 8 1944
DAY
AUG 8 1944

Many Seek U. S. Help On Guam

With the American Forces on Guam, Aug. 3 (AP—Delayed) (Via Navy Radio)—Hundreds of Chamorros peopled this camp on Mount Alifan today and many more were straggling wearily in to gain the protection of the American flag once more—two years and seven months after the Japanese invaders had taken over.

Weeks in the dense interior without sufficient food and the difficult journey to the American lines left these small friendly people exhausted, but they were happy. They were going to their village homes.

Food Supplied Them

Food was available—as much as they could carry, and more was to be delivered to the villages.

There were corn, seed and fertilizer for the farmers, fish nets and lines for the fishermen.

"We're just like in Heaven. American now," a grizzled old-timer remarked with a smile.

base, and Piti, between Sumay and Agana. The Aemircans tried to fight back, but it was like a few pebbles against a landslide.

Natives Put Up Fight

"The natives of Guam put up a fight, too. The insular guards, consisting of 103 men, armed only with rifles, started firing on the Japanese from the Government House plaza at Agana.

"The guards surrendered after six were killed. The survivors were imprisoned at Agana until February 1—more than a month and a half—when they were put to work.

"The surviving Americans were arrested and later shipped away to an internment camp. It was all over by 7 A. M.—organized resistance, that is. Then the Japanese ran up their flag where the American flag had flown for 43 years."

Food Scarce Under Jap Rule

"Food quickly became scarce under Japanese rule, and the Japanese closed all our business shops and replaced them with the Nipponese commercial monopoly," Guerrero said.

"The Japanese closed our churches as places of prayer, and turned them into propaganda halls.

"They ordered the people of Guam to bow whenever they met Japanese soldiers, and they punished offenders without trial."

friend. * * * At the same time, I reaffirm this fact of the utmost importance: That Brazil, completely devoted to the United Nations' position in the Americas, will not deviate or differ from this position."

Two Nations Spurn Argentina.

Bogota, Colombia, Aug. 7 (A. P.).—Colombia and Venezuela today announced jointly that it would be impossible for them to maintain normal relations with the Farrell regime in Argentina until that country demonstrates its solidarity with the other American nations.

ARGENTINE PAPER SEIZED

Daily Accused of Defending Public Utility Firms

PARANA, Argentina, Aug. 7 (AP)—The expropriation of the Diario, the leading daily of Entre Rios Province, published in this city, was ordered today by the Federal Interventor, Lieut. Col. Carlos Zavalla.

Another decree dissolved the corporation that had published the newspaper. It was headed by Eduardo Laurencena, former Provincial Governor and a national Senator.

The action was based on a charge that the newspaper had defended public utilities of the province in compensation for their advertising and had opposed "the policy of the recuperation of public services initiated by the national revolution." The provincial government deposited 10,000 pesos in payment for the newspaper's presses and other property, and instructed its press officer to take charge of the publication.

Villarroel Takes Oath in Bolivia.

La Paz, Bolivia, Aug. 7 (A. P.).—Lieut.-Gen. Gualberto Villarroel, who became President of Bolivia in December, 1943, after a revolutionary junta overthrew the Government, was sworn yesterday as constitutional President for a four-year term ending in 1948.

Quebec, Que., Aug. 7 (AP)—Canada's war policy under the Government of Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King will get an indirect test tomorrow at the hands of the predominantly French-Canadian province of Quebec—containing approximately one third of the Dominion's population—in a provincial election being watched closely by all of Canada.

The Liberal provincial government of Premier Adelard Godbout is fighting for its life in a three-way battle in which his opponents are making the most of discontent over wartime restrictions and inconveniences.

Technically, the policies of the Liberal government at Ottawa, the Dominion capital, are not on trial, but Godbout's opponents have tried to make them a principal issue by attacking Federal war regulations as in infringement on provincial autonomy—an appeal bound to get a favorable reception in many quarters of this province, which differs from many other parts of the Dominion on war issues.

Women Vote For First Time

Women will vote tomorrow for the first time in a general election, extension of the franchise having been one of Godbout's undertakings, but this is not expected to have any extraordinary effect on the returns.

Godbout, a quiet-mannered farmer, has urged the electorate to cast their votes on provincial issues, asking approval of his policies as carried out since he took office in 1939. These include the balancing of the budget, the expropriation of the Montreal Light, Heat and Power Company in order to lower electric rates through most of the province, and much labor and social legislation.

If the voters cast their votes on the basis of approval or disapproval of his provincial administration, he should win easily, but the chances are his opponents will succeed, to a limited extent at least, in making political profit of the conduct of the war by the Dominion Liberal Government.

Two Main Opposing Parties

These opponents are the Union Nationale, a party formed in 1936, when it won control of the government for a three-year-term, and the newly formed Bloc Populaire. The former, led by the sharp and fiery Maurice Duplessis, is roughly comparable to the Conservative party in the Dominion field, while the latter is composed of extreme nationalists who are outspoken in their criticism of Canada's part in the war. The Bloc Populaire is led by Andre Laurendeau, 32 years old and a relative newcomer.

There is much possibility of a three-way split for the 90 seats at stake tomorrow, in which case the course of the leaders of the province appears to be uncertain. The Union Nationale and the Bloc Populaire have been at each other's throats frequently, and it is questionable whether these two would form a coalition government.

A resounding victory for Godbout's Liberals might well induce Prime Minister King to call an early general election to strengthen his hold on the Dominion. It is not too firm now, and it would be characteristic of King to take immediate advantage of a good showing in Quebec.

His mandate in Ottawa will be ended soon, and he must have a general election before next March.

In addition to the three large parties, a few seats are being contested by the Cooperative Commonwealth Federation, a Socialist party which recently won the government in the province of Saskatchewan, and by a scattering of others not likely to be a factor.

The C. C. F. has entered only 24 contestants, but its national leader, M. J. Coldwell, has aided them by making appearances in the province in support of his program of public ownership of utilities and natural resources, farm credits and economic and social security for workers.

REPORT JAPS TOOK GUAM IN 5 HOURS

Chamorro Refugees Tell Of Onslaught As War Began

By MORRIE LANDSBERG

A Chamorro Refugee Camp, Guam, Aug. 7 (AP)—Japan overwhelmed the small U. S. garrison on Guam, in her savage attack at the start of the war, within five hours, witnesses of Guam's capture declared today.

English-speaking natives, rescued from more than two and a half years of Japanese domination by American soldiers and marines who have retaken nine tenths of the the island, gave the first eyewitness accounts of Guam's downfall and of conditions under the Japanese.

7,000 Against 225

"The Japanese came at 2 A. M., December 10, 1941," said Manuel F. Leon Guerrero, 29, United States-educated bookkeeper.

"There were about 7,000 of them, and only 255 American marines.

"The Japanese swarmed ashore and quickly seized strong points in the main towns of Agana, the capital, Sumay, the United States naval

U.S. Marines 'Welcomed' On Guam Beachhead

GUAM ISLAND, Aug. 7. — (AP) "Welcome Marines" read a sign that greeted surprised Leatherneck assault waves storming a Guam beach.

The board sign had been planted in the sand by an American Navy Gunner's Mate, H. I. Green. Navy Lt. William G. Carberry of Covington, Ky., said the premature landing of the gunner's mate was not exactly regulation, and smiled as he added Green had been "disciplined."

Brazil Reaffirms Solidarity

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 7 (AP)—Foreign Minister Oswaldo Aranha said today he had told the recalled Argentine Ambassador to the United States that "Brazil is fully identified with United Nations' courses," and would give full support to United Nations programs.

He said in an interview that when Ambassador Adrian Escobar had stopped in Brazil en route to Buenos Aires, this outline of Brazil's diplomatic status was given to him:

"Argentina is our neighbor and

QUEBEC VOTE TURNS ON WAR

Mackenzie King's Policies To Be Tested Today

TOKYO RADIO REPORTS PLANES OVER MINDANAO

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—(AP) The Tokyo radio said today two Allied planes had appeared over Davao, on Mindanao at the southern end of the Philippines, in a "half-hearted attempt to invade" the southern Philippine city and that one had dropped three bombs which caused no damage.

One large plane was sighted over the city yesterday at 1 a. m. and was followed an hour later by another aircraft which "fled before reaching the skies over Davao," the Tokyo broadcast said.

There was no Allied report of such a mission.

Tokyo Reports 2 U. S. Planes

Over Davao

New York, Aug. 7 (AP)—Two Allied planes appeared over Davao, in the Philippines, the Tokyo radio said today, and one dropped "three small bombs, which landed harmlessly in the sea. Absolutely no damage was caused."

The Tokyo report said:

"The enemy made a half-hearted attempt to invade Davao from the air early yesterday morning, when one large enemy aircraft was sighted over the city about 1 A. M., followed by another at nearly an hour's interval. The first enemy plane sighted over Davao dropped three small bombs, which, however, landed harmlessly in the sea.

"Second Plane Fled"

"At about 2 A. M., another enemy plane was sighted heading for Davao, but this one fled before reaching the skies over Davao. Absolutely no damage was caused by these enemy nuisance raiders."

There was no Allied report of such a plane expedition.

Davao is on the Island of Mindanao, at the south end of the Philippines.

Another Tokyo broadcast today told of a Japanese Imperial Headquarters communique acknowledging that a United States task force had staged a two-day raid on the Bonin Islands within 600 miles of Tokyo, but asserted as usual that damage was slight.

Reports Contrast

The communique contrasted strongly with the announcement of Admiral Chester W. Nimitz yesterday that the task force—which shelled the Bonins for the first time in this war—had sunk or damaged 41 Japanese vessels, including five warships.

The Japanese claimed—totally without confirmation—that they had "heavily damaged" an Allied cruiser and said they had shot down 41 attacking planes. Admiral Nimitz put American air losses at 16 carrier-based planes.

Text Of Broadcast

The Japanese text, as recorded here:

"An enemy task force appeared in the waters east of the Ogasawara (Bonin) group the morning of August 4 and air-raided Chichi Jima and Iow Jima on August 4 and 5. On August 5 enemy cruisers and destroyers shelled Chichi Jima. Our units, intercepting the enemy, shot down at least 41 aircraft besides heavily damaging one cruiser and successfully repulsed the invading forces. Damage suffered by our side was slight."

Bulgars Said To Seek Pre-War Frontiers

New York, Aug. 7 (AP)—The British radio said today that "it is learned in Ankara that Bulgaria is seeking an Allied guarantee of her independence within her pre-war frontiers as the price of getting out of the war."

The BBC broadcast, recorded by the Office of War Information, declared that Bulgarian Premier Ivan Bagrianov, through the Bulgarian Minister in Ankara, Nickolai Balbanov, "has asked Turkey to sound out the Allies on the subject," and added:

"The Bagrianov Government is stated to be ready to discuss the withdrawal of Bulgarian troops of occupation from Greece and Yugoslavia on this basis. As soon as the bombing of targets in Bulgaria ceases, the Government will be prepared to allow Allied bombers to fly unmolested over Bulgaria."

Official London Is Silent

LONDON, Aug. 7 (AP)—Only two London newspapers printed today a statement of the National Association of Manufacturers in New York that British leaders insist that lend-lease must continue after the fall of Germany if Britain is to play her full part in the war against Japan.

The Express and The Evening Standard printed the report without comment, except for this phrase in The Express: "Feared in Washington Britain may come out of the war fiscally stronger than the United States."

Official reaction also was lacking on the report, which, as published in The NAM News, said in part: "British officials have told leaders that such action is absolutely necessary to stave off a serious economic situation."

AUG 8 1944

30. 24 — 17819

State Department Denies NAM Lend-Lease Report

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7 — (AP) A report by the National Association of Manufacturers that British officials are insisting on continuation of lend-lease aid after Germany's defeat caused a flurry among Congressmen today but Acting Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., declared:

"The British government has not raised with us the future of lend-lease."

Both the United States and Britain, Stettinius told a news conference, "are completely occupied with the war campaigns in Europe and the Far East."

"No one can possibly foresee what changes in the situation the fortunes of war in Europe may bring about," he added, "or how soon these changes may reflect themselves in lend-lease operations."

Foreign economic administration officials indicated that battle considerations will remain uppermost in distributing lend-lease when Germany goes under, and if Britain needs aid to fight Japan, it probably will be forthcoming.

The present lend-lease act expires June 30 of next year, and no operations could be carried on beyond that date without Congressional extension of the act.

Whatever is done, Senators Johnson (D.-Colo.) and Murray (D.-Mont.) told reporters "Congress should be fully consulted."

The Manufacturers association's weekly publication, N.A.M. News, reported that British and top administration officials have discussed a proposal calling for continued lend-lease aid which "would be very frankly to support Britain's domestic economy," at a cost to the United States of $2,500,000,000 or more a year, above war costs.

The publication added that the British had rejected suggestions of post-war assistance based on direct loans or on borrowings from the proposed international bank.

Senator Taft (R.-Ohio) said "it may be that a loan should be made to England in some sufficient amount to assist them in starting again their economic life," and added:

"In my opinion this should be an alternative to the vast stabilization fund and should not be added to it."

Senator Pepper (D.-Fla.) declared:

"I think there's a regrettable taste the article apparently tries to put into our mouths in suggesting Britain is trying to milk the United States in some way.

"Whether it will be necessary for the United Nations to stand together after the war is a matter that will have to be decided after the war is over. If the question is are we going to give Great Britain something as charity, I'd say no. If it is will we, with proper safeguards and in return for things of value to us, help some of our Allies, it is yet. That does not mean as a Santa Claus procedure, but as a wise investment."

AUG 8 1944

Some highly placed American officials have said privately that they expect the lend-lease program to stop as soon as the war ends. They consider the fight against Japan an integral part of the war.

Conversations go on daily with lend-lease recipients, such as Great Britain, to decide how many supplies are directly needed for the war effort and where.

Stettinius said "there have been from the outset, and will continue to be discussions of prospective requirements taking into consideration various phases of the war."

One plan for post-war aid to America's Allies now receiving official consideration is to ask Congress to authorize long term loans at low rates of interest.

Money authorized for lend-lease which may remain unspent when both Tokyo and Berlin have capitulated would be turned back, under this plan, with the request that Congress redesignate the funds for such loans.

At present, Stettinius said, lend lease is "daily and hourly an administrative task which is necessarily confined to its current phases."

Militarists Use Hirohito To Keep Hold

By Russell Brines

Washington, Aug. 7 (AP) — Emperor Hirohito's prestige has been exploited fully by Japanese militarists in a new effort to strengthen their hold on an empire made restless by defeat.

Through the recently announced new Supreme War Council, they have made a bold bid for perpetuated power. The organization is so unprecedented that its announcement was screened by especially lurid propaganda reminders that the "situation is serious."

The Emperor, whose word is inviolate, sanctioned and explained the council, which, Japanese reports said, probably will decide all "basic national policies" for the war's duration. The council is an imperial agency, removed from political sniping.

Military Faction In Control

But behind it will stand the militarist faction which has ruled the country since 1937. Its firm control was challenged most strongly in the battle of oligarchic faction which precipitated the recent Cabinet change.

Capitalizing upon recent defeats, these factions summoned enough strength to topple ex-Premier Hideki Tojo and to obtain greater representation in Premier-General Kunaki Koiso's compromise Cabinet.

That crisis, the first of many to come, evidently convinced the dominant Kwantung army clique that future defeats might imperil its domestic power as long as it ruled through cabinets which could be overturned.

Bound Politically

The solution was the throne-supported Supreme War Council. Tokyo's explanation indicates that its functions will be formulation of both war strategy and the political policies essential to maintain a strong home front. The Cabinet is bound politically to the council's decisions.

In other words, the Cabinet no longer is the policy making organization, but becomes an agency for carrying out the program decided by the council's generals, admirals and the "Cabinet Ministers concerned."

The Emperor's name has been used in the past to extend or justify the militarists' control. Never before, however, has he conferred authority so definitely on the military junta.

This political sleight-of-hand was produced behind an unprecedented propaganda smokescreen. The Cabinet decided "to arm the entire people at the earliest possible moment." This implies the imminence of invasion, with the homeland unprotected either by a fleet or home army garrisons. These potential developments still are remote, and the leaders know it.

It made good advertising to hide the real consolidation of power.

Senate Prepares to Tackle Problems of Coming Peace

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7—(AP) The Senate took on an increasingly warlike mood tonight on the eve of tackling the intricate economic problems of an approaching peace.

Democratic proponents of a bill to create an Office of War Mobilization and Adjustment and set Federal standards for unemployment compensation were asserted by Senator Taft (R-Ohio) to have disregarded recommendations of the postwar report by Presidential Advisor Bernard M. Baruch in favor of "a C.I.O.-sponsored measure."

Siding with Taft as a bi-partisan coalition to fight the measure took shape, Chairman George (D-Ga) of the Senate Finance committee declared the bill's sponsors promised war workers "more than they can ever get," and paved the way for "a vast new Federal bureaucracy."

In reply to such attacks, Senator Kilgore (D-WVa) said George's separate bill to include Federal shipworkers and other industrial government employes as beneficiaries of unemployment pay but to leave rate-fixing to the states, advocated a policy "of doing nothing to solve the problem of human demobilization."

As the Senate moved toward debate starting tomorrow, with Majority Leader Barkley (Ky) talking optimistically of a decision "within two or three days," to hear a recommendation from Senator Truman (D-Mo) that it "enlarge its work of investigation" in all fields.

AUG 8 1944

Preparing for his campaign as Democratic vice presidential nominee after relinquishing the War Investigating committee's chairmanship to Senator Mead (D-NY), Truman told his colleagues that "an informed Congress is a wise Congress, and an uninformed Congress surely will forfeit a large portion of the respect and confidence of the people."

Meanwhile Senator Johson (D.-Colo.) told a Senate military subcommittee, that Congress should retain firm pist-war control over the nation's expanded merchant marine and air force, rather than delegate disposal authority to an executive agency.

Johnson spoke in support of his bill to hold durable surplus war goods off the civilian market for five years after the war, to stimulate an "unhandicapped expansion of private industry.

The committee is trying to work out legislation guiding the disposal of more than $75,000,000,000 of government plants and supplies at the war's end, a measure to be considered apart from demobilization and reconversion legislation.

Barkley told reporters that George's "states' rights" unemployment bill probably would be given the right-of-way over the rival measure to set up an over-all agency with advisory control over all problems of production and employment until two years after the war.

The rival bill includes a provision setting up a federal plan under which unemployment compensation would amount to 75 per cent of a worker's base pay up to a maximum of $20 a week for a single worker and up to $35 for a worker with three or more dependents.

George told reporters he would make a vigorous fight against substitution of the rival proposal, sponsored by Senators Murray (D.-Mont.), Truman (D.-Mo.), and Kilgore and approved by the military committee over solid Republican opposition.

"It sets up a scheme which probably will end up with the workers getting nothing," George declared. "The agency goes far beyond anything advocated by Bernard M. Baruch, the President's advisor on post-war problems. Basically, it will result in a universal pension system for all workers."

Taft said it would be desirable to offer as a substitute for the military committee bill an original George-Murray measure setting up an Office of Demobilization with limited authority.

NAVY CASUALTIES.

Washington, Aug. 7 (A. P.).— The Navy Department announced today the names of 181 additional casualties in the Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard, which makes a total of 52,501 casualties reported by the Navy since Dec. 7, 1941. Of this total 21,989 are reported dead, 16,349 wounded, 9,694 missing and 4,469 prisoners of war. The list today includes the following with their next of kin:

NEW YORK.
DEAD

ALI, Robert T., pfc., M. C.; Slayman Ali, 225 W. 14th st.
DORAN, William Robert, s.2c.; Peter J. Doran, 1082 Greene st., Brooklyn.
LEDDY, Andrew John, el.m.1c.; Mrs. Mary J. Leddy, 2840 Bailey ave.
LEIST, Frank Jay, phar.m 2c.; Gilbert E. Schultheis, 33 Cynthia Ct., Hempstead.
PETTIT, Edward G., av.rad.2c.; Mrs. Charlotte Pettit, 51 Roxbury Rd., Rockville Centre.
RUDDEN, Edward C., pvt., M. C.; Mrs. Claire C. Rudden, 2326 Loring Pl., Bronx.
WESTLUND, Thomas F., mot.mach.m.2c.; Mrs. Anna Kofoed, 72 Desales Pl., Brooklyn.

WOUNDED

GRAZIANO, William J. Jr., pfc., M. C.; William J. Graziano, 827 E. 221st st., Bronx.
SHAW, Thomas F., pfc., M. C.; Thomas Shaw, 94-47 214th st., Queens Village.

MISSING

BAGLIERI, Sylvester F., s.2c.; Salvatore Baglieri, 173½ Cortland st., N. Tarrytown.

NEW JERSEY.
DEAD

EISENBERG, Edwin M., pfc., M. C.; Mrs. Anna Eisenberg, 67 S. Grove st., East Orange.
ROUBA, Benjamin C., mot.mach.m.1c.; Charles Rouba, 25 S. Logan ave., Trenton.

WOUNDED

FAVILLA, Ralph Jr., hos.ap.1c.; Ralph Favilla, 180 James st., Newark.
FERGUSON, David W., pfc., M. C.; Mrs. David W. Ferguson, 324 Woodside ave., Newark.
MELONE, Nicholas, pfc., M. C.; Lawrence Melone, 104 Carlisle ave., Paterson.
NIVEN, Charles Scott, a.lc.; Charles Niven, 71 Van Nostrand ave., Jersey City.
SCHEITLIN, Kenneth H., pfc., M. C.; Fred Scheitlin, 502 W. Scott ave., Rahway.

COL. M'NAIR, 37, KILLED ON GUAM

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7—(AP) The death in Guam of Col. Douglas McNair, 37, only son of the late Lt. Gen. Lesley J. McNair was announced today by the War department.

The circumstances of his death were not reported in the news message which the War department received from his commander, Maj. Gen. A. D. Bruce, commander of the 77th division now in action on Guam.

General McNair, the colonel's father, former commander of the army ground forces, was given an important but undisclosed overseas assignment early in July, and was killed by the prematurely-released bomb of an American plane while he was observing a front-line action near St. Lo in Normandy on July 25.

The younger McNair, like his father a field artilleryman, served with General Bruce when the latter commanded the tank destroyer center at Camp Hood, Texas.

Young McNair was an instructor in tactics at the school. He went with Bruce when the latter was assigned to command the 77th division.

The War department said it had asked for details of Col. McNair's death, and would announce them as soon as they were received.

AUG 8 1944

Survivors include a widow, Mrs. Freda McNair, and their infant daughter, Bonny Clare, of Santa Barbara, Calif., and his mother, who lives in Washington, D. C.

Gen. James F. C. Hyde, On South Pacific Staff

New Hebrides Commander Dies on Visit to Son

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7 (AP).— Brigadier General James F. C. Hyde, commanding general of the Service Command in the New Hebrides Islands in the South Pacific, died today at Phoenixville, Pa.

The War Department, announcing his death, said General Hyde was at Valley Forge Hospital at Phoenixville to visit his son, Captain James C. Hyde jr., who was wounded by a grenade on the Anzio beachhead in Italy.

The general suffered a heart attack at the hospital yesterday, and died there this morning. Funeral services will be held Wednesday at Fort Myer, Va., and burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

SOMERVELL SEES FOE ON THE ROPES

Washington, Aug. 7 (A. P.).— "The enemy is hanging to the ropes," says Lieut.-Gen. Brehon B. Somervell, and "it's up to us to give our men the brass knuckles with which to finish off the job."

These extra and efficient weapons for fighters, the Commanding General of the Army Service Forces said in a CBS broadcast last night, are more "trucks to haul troops forward, big guns and shells for big guns, tires for our planes and trucks, bombs to drop on the frightened enemy."

AUG 8 1944

Further using boxing terms, the General said:

"Our men are giving out with the old one-two technic, punching with lefts and rights. . . . The battle in France tonight can well be the last round."

Gen. Somervell also said in a week-end interview that the imposition of labor controls by War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes should solve the Army's critical production problems. "It's the first time we've had anything with teeth in it," he commented.

SECURITY TALKS DELAYED TO GIVE RUSSIA MORE TIME

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7—(AP) With the explanation that the Soviet government needs "a little more time" to prepare, the United States today delayed for a week the beginning of postwar security talks here with Russia and Britain.

This action moves the date from August 14 to 21, and, possibly by coincidence, lengthens the pre-conference period in which present negotiations for a solution of Russo-Polish problems may be concluded.

Polish Rift Not Involved

Although the rift between Moscow and the Polish government at London is not involved in the forthcoming talks here, there has been much speculation that happier relations in that quarter would raise the level of good feeling among the Allies.

Washington and London have watched with intense interest the work in Moscow of Premier Stanislow Mikolajczyk, of the Polish government at London. Moscow dispatches said today he had renewed his conferences with the Russian-sponsored Polish Committee of National Liberation and it was reported that hopes for a settlement were brightened.

A successful conclusion of the Mikolajczyk mission, it is believed in official quarters here, would go far toward settling the Russo-Polish difficulties.

Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., acting secretary of state, announced the delay in the security talks, which are aimed at producing tentative agreement among London, Washington and Moscow, and eventually Chungking, on plans for a world league to preserve peace.

Stettinius told his news conference that the postponement probably would "save time in the end."

Reds May Present Plan

This suggested that the Russian delegation, names of the members of which have not been announced, might come here with a comprehensive plan for world organization, matching the American plan which Secretary Hull and other officials have spent more than two years developing.

The British likewise are expected to have a fairly detailed system of international security to toss on the table. The job of the delegates then will be to amalgamate the three plans, reconciling conflicting ideas so that they come up with a single system which all three governments would be willing to support.

Thereafter the British and American representatives are scheduled to spend about a week in a similar conference with the Chinese delegation.

AUG 8 1944

Truman Asks More Inquiries

Tells Senate That Investigations Will Raise Power and Prestige of Congress.

AUG 8 1944

Washington, Aug. 7 (A. P.).—Senator Truman, Democratic vice-presidential nominee, recommended today that Congress expand its investigation activities as a means of raising its power and prestige. The Missourian made his recommendation in presenting to the Senate his last report as chairman of its war investigating committee.

"In my opinion, the power of investigation is one of the most important powers of the Congress," he said. "The manner in which that power is exercised largely will determine the position and prestige of the Congress in our future. An informed Congress is a wise Congress, and an uninformed Congress surely will forfeit a large portion of the respect and confidence of the people."

Reviewing the committee's three and a half years of investigation under his chairmanship, Senator Truman reminded his colleagues that the committee called as early as last November for a start on reconversion problems.

Recalls Third Annual Report.

"Specific methods of dealing with those problems were set forth in the committee's third annual report," he said. "Progress has been disappointing, because many new needs have arisen and because the armed services have been bitterly opposed to taking any action."

Senator Truman included in his nine-page speech a word of praise for President Roosevelt.

"When the President advocated a program for preparedness over the opposition of many of our isolationists," Senator Truman asserted, "I wholeheartedly supported that program. It was another and perhaps the greatest instance of that ability which he has so ffrequently shown to see into the future and determine the right course for this nation.

"But as a soldier who had deplored the waste and confusion in the last war, I believed that our preparedness program should be subjected from the very first to intelligent and honest investigation so that mistakes could be caught before the damage had been done."

He praised the "tremendous help and assistance" of Republican Senators Brewster of Maine, Ball of Minnesota, Burton of Ohio and Ferguson of Michigan and praised in turn the work of each of the Democratic members.

Fulton Remains as Consultant.

Senator Mead (D.-N. Y.), Senator Truman's successor as committee chairman announced that the group had agreed reluctantly to the resignation of Hugh Fulton, chief counsel, who will, however, continue to work in advisory capacity with the title of consulting counsel and who would be available to Rudolph Halley, who takes over his old post.

Senator Truman said he would remain in Washington "until I have had a chance to have an interview with President Roosevelt."

"It is the President's campaign, and I'll do what's necessary to contribute to its success," he told a press conference.

MILITARY STATUS ASKED FOR WASPS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7 — (AP) The head of the WASPS recommended to Gen. H. H. Arnold today that the organization be given military status or discontinued entirely.

Jacqueline Cochran, director of the Women Airforce Service Pilots, said their present status as uniformed civilian employees is unsatisfactory to the WASPS, deprived of military benefits, and to the air forces, unable to use them to the fullest extent because they are not subject to military discipline.

A bill to militarize the WASPS was killed by the house in June, after Rep. O'Hara (R-Minn) denounced it as "society legislation" and Rep. Morrison (D-La) questioned the need for women pilots as long as instructors and trainees of the discontinued Civilian Pilot Training program were denied opportunities to fly as officers in the air forces.

The question of Miss Cochran's rank if the WASPS were militarized came up during the House debate, with Rep. Izac (D-Calif) citing as one of his reasons for the motion on which the bill was rejected the fact that the director would become a Colonel.

In her report to Arnold, Miss Cochran suggests that most of the WASPS should be second lieutenants. As to her own rank, the report says only that "the small size of the organization should be considered in determining the top WASP rank."

The report sets out that the original purposes of the group, first called the WAFS, were to determine whether women could be utilized as pilots in a national emergency, to release male pilots for more important duties, and to decrease the total demand of the air forces for physically fit young men.

PROBING PAC, BIDDLE SAYS

Has No Power In Hatch Act Cases, He Tells Dies

Washington, Aug. 7 (AP)—Attorney General Francis Biddle assured Representative Dies (D., Texas) today that the Justice Department is investigating activities of the CIO Political Action Committee, but not, he said, alleged violations of the Hatch Act by Government employes.

Cases involving the Hatch Act restricting political activity of Federal employes, Biddle said, are handled by the Government agencies hiring them.

Dies, chairman of the House Committee Investigating Un-American Activities, had called on Biddle to take immediate steps to "correct" what the Texan called political abuses practiced by the PAC. He also urged the Attorney General to ascertain if Government officials who he said had been active in PAC work had violated the Hatch Act.

Already Investigating

Biddle replied in a letter to Dies that the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the criminal division of the Justice Department already were investigating charges that election laws had been violated by PAC and its associates.

But, Biddle added, neither the FBI nor the Justice Department has authority to investigate Hatch Act cases which, he said, are not criminal offenses.

Enforcement of the act, he said, is the responsibility of the Government agency concerned. Cases involving classified civil service workers, for example, are handled by the Civil Service Commission, he said.

U. S. Anti-Trust Stand On Reconversion Is Told

Biddle Approves Talks With W. P. B., Bars Private Deals

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7 (AP).—The Department of Justice announced today a policy intended to assure protection from anti-trust law prosecution to industries which are co-operating with the War Production Board in developing plans for conversion from war to civilian production.

Attorney General Francis Biddle said the policy was established in correspondence with John Lord O'Brian, general counsel of the W. P. B., who had inquired as to the status of persons and concerns discussing reconversion with the war agencies.

The department said that consultations by members of industry advisory committees with the W. P. B. on reconversion matters during the war will not under certain limitations constitute violation of the anti-trust law.

"If members of the committees would themselves privately agree on any plan or program or take part in any such private plan or program involving directly or indirectly the production of commodities, such a plan would be subject to the anti-trust laws," Mr. Biddle wrote.

He emphasized that each specific plan, before it is put into operation, must be "submitted to me for advice and individual clearance."

AUG 8 1944

PLAN OUTLINED FOR LAYING OFF FEDERAL WORKERS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7 — (AP) The Civil Service commission determined today the order in which Federal workers will be laid off when personnel cuts become necessary. New regulations were issued stressing the rights of "career" employes, and war veterans, as well as efficiency and length of service.

This action does not mean, the Commission emphasized, that demobilization of Federal employes is believed imminent because of encouraging war developments. Rather, it is because a uniform application of Civil Service rules throughout the government is required by the Starnes-Scrugham Veterans' Preference act of 1944.

Asked to Hold Jobs

The commission asked Federal workers to stick at their jobs as long as needed, and said they will get due notice when reductions have to be made.

Such reductions have no connection with termination of the war, the Commission said, but might be caused by a decrease in appropriations, completion of a project, reorganization of an agency, or in order to provide jobs for returning veterans entitled by law to reemployment.

Heretofore, reduction-in-force regulations have applied only to employes with competitive classifications under the provisions of the Civil Service act. The new rules apply to all of the 2,908,912 employes in the Federal Executive Civil Service, of whom 270,057 work in Washington.

Layoffs will be made strictly on the basis of individual records, apparently preventing the Army, Navy, or other war agencies from making arbitrary group reductions when peace comes.

Four Categories Made

When a cut is necessary in any department or bureau, each group of employes doing the same kind of work will be put in four categories, as follows:

1. The first to be laid off will be those who had been recalled from retirement, and those who have continued working beyond the ... retirement age.

2. Next to go will be temporary employes, serving under appointments limited to one year or less.

3. "Transitory" employees, including those whose appointments are for the duration of the war and six months thereafter.

4. "Career" employees, with unlimited appointments — the last group to be reached. These generally have a classified (competitive) status, or if not have attained permanency of tenure in their respective agencies.

In each of the first two categories, non-veterans must be laid off before veterans. Within the non-veteran and veteran groups, less efficient employees must go first. Then, other things being equal, length of service will be the determining factor.

AUG 8 1944

Infant Mortality Rate At New Low In Hawaii

Washington, Aug. 7 (AP)—The Census Bureau reported the infant mortality rate for the Territory of Hawaii has reached the record low of 38.9 per 1,000 live births, almost half what it had been ten years earlier.

The ratio of births to deaths had been increasing steadily until 1941, when Pearl Harbor casualties greatly increased the death rate.

The bureau reported the Territory's suicide death rate for 1942 one of the highest ever recorded at 22.4 per 100,000 population compared with 14.8 in 1941.

An increased accident death rate was attributed to "increased military activities in the Hawaiian theater," principally air transport.

RESIGNATION OF TWO WPB MEN REPORTED

30. 24 — 17821

Alleged Suppression Of Data, At Army Request, Given As Reason

Washington, Aug. 7 (AP)—Two War Production Board officials have resigned, it was reported tonight, in protest against the alleged suppression, at army request, of data said to show on hand an abundance of ordnance supplies for the army ground forces.

The incident created a minor sensation in production quarters because of recent statements by Lieut. Gen. Brehon B. Somervell, commanding the army service forces, reciting serious shortages in many production programs.

The Friday directive of James F. Byrnes, War Mobilization Director, sharply tightening controls over manpower and civilian production, was ascribed to the shortages.

No Comment Made

The two men were identified by WPB sources as V. Lewis Bassie, acting director of the progress division of WPB's Bureau of Planning and Statistics, and Irving Kaplan, chief of the production program analysis section.

There was no indication that the resignations had been accepted. Kaplan termed the incident "an internal matter which I don't believe I should discuss. I am on the job today." Bassie could not be reached immediately for comment.

Report Is Confidential

Kaplan and Bassie, whose duties included the preparation of a confidental "progress report" on production to be presented at full sessions of the War Production Board once a month, were said to have included in July's report a finding that the army's stocks of ordnance—including items mentioned by Somervell—were in good shape.

The report was circulated, as is customary, among officials of the agencies concerned, before presentation to the board. At the War Department, officials protested inclusion of the portion dealing with the stocks of the army ground forces.

Objectors Not Convinced

Exhaustive conferences followed with army statisticians, it was reported, from which Bassie and Kaplan emerged unconvinced that their facts were in error. The army, however, requested that this section be stricken out.

Stacy May, chief of the WPB Bureau of Planning and Statistics, and the superior of the two men, yielded to the army request and ordered the recall of all copies which had been distributed. He directed that the offending section be deleted, it was said, and in this decision had the backing of Charles E. Wilson, WPB executive vice-chairman, who normally presents the report to board meetings.

Upon receiving these instructions, Kaplan and Bassie turned in their resignations. The report, it is believed has not yet been presented to the board, which usually meets on Tuesdays.

GREEK TO TOUR PLANTS

Officer to Study the American Methods of Manufacture

ALBANY, Aug. 7 (AP)—Lieut. Peter J. Doanides, representative of the Greek Government-in-Exile, will begin a tour of New York State industrial plants this week to locate essential machinery and material and to study American construction methods to apply to post-war rehabilitation of Greece.

The tour was arranged by the Greek Embassy and the State Department of Commerce, and is part of a nation-wide survey by Lieutenant Doanides. He plans to visit manufacturers and some of the large dams.

Doanides, a member of the Royal Hellenic Navy, is expected to spend at least three weeks in the State.

three eighteen-hole golf courses and facilities for summer and winter sports.

It borders on Mirror Lake, which has the village of Lake Placid on one end and an abrupt rise of the slopes of Whiteface Mountain on the other.

The club was founded in 1895 by Melvil (born Melville) Dewey, who devised the Dewey decimal system, used by libraries to classify books, and was an advocate of simplified spelling. Mr. Dewey planned the resort as a haven for hay-fever sufferers.

Samuel Packer is president of the club. He maintains a year-around residence there.

STAYS PUERTO RICO AID

Court of Appeals Acts in $16,000,000 Emergency Relief

BOSTON, Aug. 7 (AP)—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today stayed an order of the Supreme Court of Puerto Rico forbidding the distribution of $16,000,000 in emergency relief.

Judge Calvert Magruder directed the stay and ordered that the case be heard on its merits in the Circuit Court of Appeals on Aug. 23.

Suspension of the Supreme Court's decision came after several hearings during which David L. Kruger, assistant Attorney General for the island possession, told Judge Magruder that more than 250,000 Puerto Ricans faced starvation if the Government could not give aid.

Army Will Use Lake Placid Club For Battle Veterans' Rest Haven

By The Associated Press

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Aug. 7.—Battle-weary soldiers soon will be enjoying the severely luxurious facilities of the famous Lake Placid Club.

The War Department announced today in Washington that it expected to take over the world-known resort center, which for many years has been a rendezvous of the international set.

It was not indicated how many soldiers would be sent to the club for rest and recreation, but it is able to accommodate 1,200 guests.

Surrounded by the rugged and picturesque peaks of the Whiteface Range of the Adirondacks, the club has thirty-five buildings,

ARMY RESTORES PEACE TO PHILLY

Troops Guard Every Vehicle Against Violence, End Transit Walkout.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 7—(AP) Uncle Sam restored Philadelphia's transportation to normal today, guarded every vehicle against violence fired four leaders of the wildcat transit walkout, and assembled material for presentation to a federal grand jury convening Wednesday to investigate the strike.

The army was running the Philadelphia Transportation company, which it seized Thursday night, but no soldiers were required to operate any bus, trolley, elevated or subway train. All except 13 of the 6,000 operating employes returned to work on schedule to meet the army's "work or be fired" ultimatum. This compared with an average absenteeism of 9.5 per cent during the last three months.

13 Fail to Report

Of the 13 employes who failed to report, an army spokesman said "it is not yet known how many of them will be able to present medical certificates of illness to excuse their absence."

There was almost unanimous "sickness" reported among the employes as they walked out in protest against the upgrading of eight negroes to trolley motormen. One of the eight negroes appeared today to resume instruction, appearing at a car barn suddenly quiet. After an hour, he was sent home to await a call. Apparently the other seven also were awaiting calls. The army declined to say.

FBI agents probed deeper into underlying causes of the strike, called without warning last Tuesday, which cut war production, caused racial clashes, and inconvenienced 1,500,000 daily riders in the nation's third largest city and second largest war material producing center.

"We're going after the big fish," a federal investigator said.

Two score or more witnesses were expected to be called before the grand jury, including strikers, PTC officials, and members of the transport workers union (CIO), who denounced the stoppage and accused company officials of "collusion."

The four strike leaders, dismissed as they appeared for work, were James H. McMenamin, 43, husky, curly-haired chairman of the strike committee; Vice Chairman William C. Dixey; Frank P. Carney, four times president of the company union displaced as bargaining agent by the TWU; and Frank Thompson, frequent spokesman for McMenamin.

Four Await Hearing

All four are free on $2,500 bonds awaiting hearing August 14 on charges of violating the Smith-Connally wartime anti-strike act, to which they pleaded innocent.

McMenamin told the strikers "you return to work at the point of a bayonet."

Maj. Gen. Philip Hayes, touring the car barns, told the returning workers:

"You're all soldiers even though you're not in uniform. Any man who isn't back on his job at the scheduled time—zip! He will get no job anywhere for the duration—and the duration may be a long time."

The only trouble the soldiers riding the conveyances reported was "trolley fatigue."

"You get bounced around so much, you feel like the original jumping bean," said one.

War production roared back to normal as Philadelphia's "nightmare week" ended.

Gerald Smith Proposes Negro 'Home' in Africa

Would Establish Nation for Emigrants From U. S.

DETROIT, Aug. 7 (AP).—Gerald L. K. Smith, nnominated for President by the Michigan convention of his America First party, said today he would advocate establishment of a "homeland in Africa for the American Negro."

Mr. Smith, in a statement to the press, said "we should compel the French and British to turn over to us for this purpose 1,000,000 square miles of Africa—to apply on their war debt to us."

The land, he said, would be made available to the American Negro "absolutely free." He proposed that this government give $5,000 and free transportation to every Negro willing to migrate. He said this was a means "to solve the Negro problem honestly and realistically."

Mr. Smith said he would make the proposal to the national convention of the America First party here Aug. 29 and 30.

FLED "TO FIGHT THE HITLER GANG"

German So Testifies At Jap Women's Treason Trial

Denver, Aug. 7 (AP)—A 31-year-old German prisoner of war told a Federal court jury today that three California-born Japanese women helped him and a comrad escape from an internment camp, but startled the courtroom crowd with testimony that he sought his freedom so he could "fight against the Hitler gang."

The witness was Corporal Heinrich Haider, brought by the Government from imprisonment at Camp Campbell, Kentucky, to testify in support of treason charges against Mrs. Tsuruko (Toots) Wallace, 35; Mrs. Florence (Flo) Shivze Otani, 38, and Mrs. Billie Shitara Tanigoshi, 32. The three are sisters.

Death Penalty Possible

The Government charges that the women, who were residents of the Granda Relocation Center at Amache, Col., provided the means by which Haider and Corporal Herman Loescher, also 31, fled from a near-by interment camp at Trinidad, Col., last October. The sisters are charged also with conspiracy to commit treason.

Conviction of treason carries a possible death penalty.

Hesitating frequently as he groped for unfamiliar English phrases, Haider, who said he was a native of Austria, said he and Loescher went through a break in the wire at the Trinidad camp. Then, he testified, a "big black Buick" in which all three sisters were riding picked up the two men and took them as far as Wagon Mounds, N. M. There the men and the women separated, he said.

Two days after their escape, the Germans were seized by the FBI at Watrous, N. M., and since then have been reinterned at Camp Campbell.

Urged Austrian Revolt, He Says

Haider said he opposed German annexation of Austria and, for writing a statement urging the Austrian people "to rise up against the Hitler power and help free the country again," he was put in a Bavarian concentration camp.

He testied he was imprisoned for two years and beaten by Hitler's Storm Troopers.

Later, he said, he was drafted into the German army, fought first on the Balkan front, then in North Africa, with Marshal Erwin Rommel's Afrika Korps, where he was captured by the British Eighth Army in its sweep up Cape Bon.

Friction In Prison Camp

The bespectacled German also told of friction between Nazis and anti-Nazis at the Trinidad camp.

"There was a first sergeant in charge of one of our compounds," said Haider. "He was one of the Nazi leaders of Germany. He caused already some troubles—threatening me and other fellows, too, to beat us up or to hang them."

He said Loescher, who is scheduled to testify tomorrow, also is an anti-Nazi.

"Toots tried to prevent me from escaping," Haider told the jury. "She said I might be shot. But I told her my friend and I were resolved to take a chance. She said, 'I will see what I can do for you.'"

Later, Haider said, he found clothing and maps wrapped in brown paper in a clump of bushes and concealed them in his lunch basket beneath some dishes.

Draft Boards Could A. To Jobs, Says Hershey

Seattle, Aug. 7 (AP)—Post-war operation of selective service boards, to help public employment agencies find jobs for returning servicemen and to select men for military training as part of the national security, was advocated in an interview today by Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national selective service director.

General Hershey told interviewers that "these boards were responsible for taking millions of men out of civilian life. But until they have helped return them back to civilian helped return them to civilian life, their responsibility is not over."

A13 DD LONDON -(HERCHER) AN IMAGINATION

PREMIER-MARSHAL JOSEPH STALIN ANNOUNCED THE TWO VICTORIES IN THE SOUTHERN PART OF PRE-WAR POLAND IN TWO ORDERS OF THE DAY. COL. GEN. IVAN PETROV'S FOURTH UKRAINE ARMY, ELEVENTH POWERFUL RED ARMY TO BE THROWN INTO THE BIG SUMMER OFFENSIVE, SEIZED BORYSLAW, FIVE MILES SOUTHWEST OF THE TWIN OIL CITY OF DROHOBYCZ, TAKEN BY PETROV'S MEN SUNDAY.

THE FALL OF THE TWO TOWNS WHICH PRODUCED AND REFINED NEARLY ALL OF PRE-WAR POLAND'S 800,000-TON ANNUAL PRODUCTION, WAS A HEAVY BLOW TO GERMANY'S DWINDLING OIL SUPPLIES. THE BIG PLOESTI OIL FIELDS IN ROMANIA--TARGET OF FREQUENT AMERICAN AIR ATTACKS--ARE THE LAST BIG NATURAL SOURCES LEFT TO GERMANY.

MARSHAL IVAN S.KONEV'SLFIRST UKRAINE ARMY CAPTURED SAMBOR, 18 MILES NORTHWEST OF BORYSLAW. SAMBOR IS A JUNCTION ON A RAILWAY LEADING THROUGH CZECHOSLOVAKIA 75 MILES TO UNGVAR, FORMER CARPATHO-UKRAINE CAPITAL WHICH HUNGARY ANNEXED.

THE RUSSIANS NOW ARE THREATENING THE GERMAN HOLDS ON FIVE CARPATHIAN PASSES ON A 150-MILE FRONT IN THE SOUTHERN PART OF PRE-WAR POLAND. THEY ARE FROM 12 TO 30 MILES FROM THE CZECH BORDER, STEADILY PUSHING THE GERMANS AND THEIR HUNGARIAN HIRED HANDS BACK INTO THE MOUNTAINS.

AT DELATYN, BELOW CAPTURED STANISLAWOW, THE RUSSIANS WERE WITHIN 18 MILES OF THE TATAR PASS; AT MIZYUN STARY THEY WERE WITHIN 15 MILES OF THE WYSZKOW ENTRANCE; AT STRYJ THEY WERE WITHIN 38 MILES OF BESKID PASS; AT NEWLY CAPTURED SAMBOR THEY WERE WITHIN 21 MILES OF THE UZSOK PASS; AND AT SANOK THEY WERE WITHIN 21 MILES OF LUPKOW PASS. RAILWAYS RUN THROUGH NEARLY ALL THESE PASSES.

IT STILL WAS TOO EARLY TO DETERMINE WHETHER THE RUSSIANS INTEND TO INVADE CZECHOSLOVAKIA, BUT A CZECH BRIGADE HAS BEEN FIGHTING ALONGSIDE THE RUSSIANS WITH THAT HOPE EVER SINCE LAST SPRING WHEN THE RUSSIANS FIRST REACHED THE BORDER AREA, ONLY TO BE PUSHED BACK UNDER HEAVY AXIS COUNTERATTACKS.

THE RUSSIANS MAY INTEND MERELY TO DAM UP THE PASSES AND THUS SECURE THE FLANK OF THE HEAVY SOVIET FORCES POURING WESTWARD TOWARD KRAKOW AND HIGHLY INDUSTRIALIZED GERMAN SILESIA WHICH WAS ATTACKED DURING THE DAY BY MORE THAN 500 U.S. HEAVY BOMBERS BASED IN ITALY. THE AMERICANS STRUCK AT TWO SYNTHETIC OIL PLANTS AT BLECHHAMER, 75 MILES SOUTHEAST OF BRESLAU AND ONLY ABOUT 100 MILES WEST OF SOVIET LAND TROOPS.

IN THE SIEGE OF WARSAW, NOW ENTERING ITS NINTH DAY, A COMMUNIQUE FROM GENERAL BOR, COMMANDER OF POLISH PATRIOTS FIGHTING INSIDE THE CITY, SAID THE POLES HAD CAPTURED WOODROW WILSON SQUARE AND AN ADJOINING AREA IN A COUNTERTHRUST IN THE ZOLIBORZ AREA. THIS IS NEAR THE CITADEL ON THE VISTULA RIVER IN THE NORTHERN PART OF THE CAPITAL.

"PRISONERS WERE TAKEN IN BATCHES UP TO 200," SAID THIS COMMUNIQUE DISTRIBUTED BY THE POLISH TELEGRAPH AGENCY HERE.

AUG 8 1944

A76 DD LONDON -(BEALMEAR) ADVERTISING

WHILE BRITISH HEAVY BOMBERS RAINED EXPLOSIVES ON THE ENEMY'S IMPORTANT NORTH-SOUTH SUPPLY ROUTES LAST NIGHT, MOSQUITOS RANGED OVER GERMANY AND A WIDE AREA OF FRANCE, HAMMERING TARGETS NEAR THE BATTLE ZONE AND 100 MILES BEYOND.

MOST OF THE MOSQUITO ATTACKS WERE SLANTED AT RAIL TRANSPORT IN CONTINUATION OF EFFORTS TO BLOCK MOVEMENT OF GERMAN FORCES WITHDRAWING RAPIDLY FROM THE WESTERN FRONT.

OTHER MOSQUITOS CONTINUED THE ASSAULT ON GERMANY'S SHRINKING OIL SUPPLY BY BOMBING A SYNTHETIC OIL PLANT AT CASTROP-RAUXEL, NEAR THE EASTERN END OF THE RUHR, AND STILL OTHERS RETURNED WITH TWO TON BLOCK-BUSTERS TO THE OFT-BATTERED CITY OF COLOGNE.

MORE THAN 2,000 AMERICAN HEAVY BOMBERS HIT BERLIN AND OTHER GERMAN INDUSTRIAL CENTERS YESTERDAY. LT. GEN. JAMES H. DOOLITTLE, COMMANDER OF THE EIGHTH U.S. TACTICAL AIR FORCE, SAID AIR ATTACKS HAD CURTAILED PRODUCTION SERIOUSLY AT 23 OF GERMANY'S MAJOR OIL REFINERIES AND SYNTHETIC OIL PLANTS.

AUG 8 1944

THE MEDITERRANEAN AIR FORCE FLEW 2,100 SORTIES SUNDAY WHILE FIGHTER PLANES WERE COMING FROM RUSSIA, MORE THAN 500 U.S. 15TH AIR FORCE HEAVY BOMBERS FLEW OVER SOUTHERN FRANCE AND SMASHED AT 14 OBJECTIVES.

THE HEAVY BOMBERS SCORED GOOD RESULTS ON FOUR OF FIVE RAILWAY BRIDGES ALONG THE LOWER RHONE, A HISTORIC INVASION ROUTE; LEFT FIRES BURNING IN SUBMARINE PENS AT TOULON AND CUT MOST OF THE TRACKS IN THE RAIL YARDS AT MIRAMAS.

LIGHTNINGS ATTACKED THE TARASCON BRIDGE ON THE MAIN LINE BETWEEN NICE AND MARSEILLES OF FOUR TIMES YESTERDAY AND DESTROYED A SECTION OF IT.

OFFENSIVE SWEEPS WERE CARRIED OUT OVER THE PLOESTI AND BUCHAREST AREAS IN ROMANIA. TWELVE PLANES WERE MISSING AFTER THE DAY'S OPERATIONS AND ONE ENEMY AIRCRAFT WAS DESTROYED.

AUG 8 1944

AROUND 4,500 SORTIES WERE FLOWN YESTERDAY AND ALLIES LOSSES IN ALL OPERATIONS YESTERDAY AND LAST NIGHT WERE 42 PLANES, WHILE 43 GERMAN PLANES WERE SHOT DOWN.

THE RAF ANNOUNCED ITS HEAVY BOMBERS SCORED DIRECT HITS ON THE SUBMARINE PENS AT LORIENT IN A DUSK ATTACK. OTHER ESCORTED BRITISH HEAVY BOMBERS BATTERED SUPPLY DEPOTS IN THE FORET DE NEIPPE IN THE PAS-DE-CALAIS AREA AND AT L'ISLE ADAM NORTH OF PARIS IN DAYLIGHT.

MORE THAN 20 TRAINS WERE ATTACKED BY THE MOSQUITOS WHICH SWEPT OVER THE FLERS-BRETTEVILLE-LISIEUX-DREUX-ARGENTAN AREA AND RANGED MORE THAN 100 MILES EAST OF PARIS TOWARD VITRY AND CHALONS. ONE TRAIN WAS ATTACKED ON THE WEST SIDE OF PARIS VIRTUALLY IN THE SUBURBS BETWEEN THE CITY AND ST. CYR.

JR758AEW

LONDON, AUG 7-(AP)-GEN.CHARLES DE GAULLE SAID TONIGHT OVER THE ALGIERS RADIO THAT "SOON, VERY SOON, A POWERFUL FRENCH ARMY WITH THE MOST MODERN EQUIPMENT WILL BE DEPLOYED ON THE INTER-ALLIED FRONT IN FRANCE."

SN407PEW

BY JAMES KING (200)

LONDON, TUESDAY, AUG 8-(AP)--BRITAIN'S LIBERAL PARTY ASSERTED TODAY THAT ONCE THE FRONTIERS OF GERMANY ARE SET AFTER THE WAR, THE UNITED NATIONS SHOULD GUARANTEE TO DEFEND THEM, BY FORCE IF NECESSARY.

MAKING PUBLIC A PROGRAM FOR POST-WAR GERMANY, THE PARTY COMMITTEE HEADED BY LORD PERTH, WHO AS SIR ERIC DRUMMOND WAS SECRETARY-GENERAL TO THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS FROM 1919 TO 1933, SAID THE TWO GENERAL GUIDING PRINCIPLES SHOULD BE:

1. GERMANY MUST NOT BE ALLOWED TO ESTABLISH A MILITARY FORCE TO ENABLE HER TO CONTEMPLATE SUCCESSFUL AGGRESSION AGAIN.
2. GERMANY MUST NOT BE TREATED WORSE THAN OTHER NATIONS IN MATTERS OF ECONOMICS, FINANCE AND WELFARE.

THE PARTY SAID THE TRIAL OF WAR CRIMINALS SHOULD BE COMPLETED WITHIN SIX MONTHS AFTER THE ARMISTICE; PROPOSED OCCUPATION OF ALL GERMANY, BUT NO LONGER THAN NECESSARY, AND ADDED THESE PROPOSALS:

TOTAL DISARMAMENT OF GERMANY AND ALLIED CONTROL OF IMPORTANT WAR MATERIALS; A BAN ON BUILDING OF AIRCRAFT, TANKS, HEAVY GUNS, BATTLESHIPS OR SUBMARINES; ALLIED CONTROL OF THE OUTPUT OF NITRATES.

THE PROGRAM SUGGESTED AN ALLIED HIGH COMMISSIONER TO HANDLE REEDUCTION OF GERMANY, ADDING THAT AN AMERICAN WOULD BE THE BEST CHOICE BECAUSE OF GERMAN ADMIRATION FOR AMERICAN INSTITUTIONS AND ORGANIZATION.

SK1048PEW

LONDON, TUESDAY, AUG. 8-(AP)-ALLIED PLANES KNOCKED OUT 135 GERMA TANKS LAUNCHING A COUNTERATTACK SOUTH OF MORTAIN MONDAY, IT WAS OFFICIALLY ANNOUNCED TODAY.

WE729PEW

AUG 8 1944

A228) (ADD SHAEF - (LONG) XX OCCUPIED

DRIVING STEADILY ALONG THE SOUTH COAST, THE AMERICANS CAPTURED THE BRETON SHRINE CITY OF AURAY, 16 MILES EAST OF LORIENT. IT WAS AT AURAY THAT BENJAMIN FRANKLIN LANDED AS AMBASSADOR OF THE NEW-BORN UNITED STATES TO WIN FRANCE'S AID IN THE FIGHT FOR FREEDOM.

THERE WERE NO LATE REPORTS FROM BREST, WHICH AMERICAN FORCES ENTERED TWO DAYS AGO WITH ONE LAST, MIGHTY 75-MILE LUNGE.

STREET FIGHTING WAS REPORTED IN THE SHIPBUILDING CENTER AND U-BOAT NEST OF ST.NAZAIRE, AND THE AMERICANS LAST WERE REPORTED WITHIN 15 MILES OF NANTES, ST.NAZAIRE'S TWIN RIVER PORT ON THE LOIRE.

AMERICANS CLEANING UP THE NORTHERN PART OF THE PENINSULA CAPTURED ST.BRIEUC, 65 MILES WEST OF THEIR ENTRY POINT TO BRITTANY, AND HUELGOAT, 32 MILES EAST OF BREST.

THE PENINSULA WAS FIRMLY BLOCKED OFF AT TWO POINTS, BETWEEN ST. NAZAIRE AND NANTES ON THE LOIRE, AND AT VANNES, CENTER OF FRENCH PATRIOT RESISTANCE IN ALL BRITTANY. VANNES LIES BETWEEN ST. NAZAIRE AND LORIENT.

WITH THE HOUR OF LIBERATION AT HAND, THE MAQUIS RESISTANCE FORCES WENT INTO ACTION THROUGHOUT THE PENINSULA AND IT WAS THE FEAR OF WHAT THESE PATRIOTS MIGHT DO TO THEM THAT PRODDED THE LORIENT GARRISON INTO OFFERING TO SURRENDER.

AUG 8 1944

IN THE DRIVE ON PARIS, ALLIED SUCCESSES PRESENTED A FRONT RUNNING NORTH AND SOUTH FROM CAEN ALMOST 100 MILES SOUTH TO WITHIN 25 MILES OF THE LOIRE RIVER.

IT RUNS FROM NEAR TROARN ON SOUTH OF CAEN, ACROSS THE ORNE, RECROSSES THIS STREAM JUST ABOVE THURY-HARCOURT, BENDS BACK SHARPLY WEST AROUND THE COUNTERATTACKING GERMANS IN THE VIRE-MORTAIN AREA, CUTS BACK EAST TO DOMFRONT AND ON SOUTH TO NEAR THE LOIRE.

READING FROM NORTH TO SOUTH ALONG THE AMERICAN SECTOR OF THE FRONT, THE DOUGHBOYS HAVE FORCED THE MAYENNE RIVER BARRIER AT FIVE POINTS--AMBRIERES, MAYENNE, LAVAL, HOUSSAY AND CHATEAU-GONTIER.

30.24—17823

WITH THE CAPTURE OF CHATEAU-GONTIER, THE AMERICANS PRESSED ON TOWARD LE MANS, 42 MILES EAST.

THE AMERICANS WERE REPORTED ENGAGED IN SHARP FIGHTING EAST OF LAVAL, WHICH IS 45 MILES WEST OF LE MANS.

THE AMERICANS ON THIS FRONT ARE CLOSER TO PARIS THAN THEY WERE TO BREST A WEEK AGO, BUT THE NATURE OF THE RESISTANCE TO THE DRIVE TOWARD THE CAPITAL IS NOT YET CLEAR.

IN THEIR CONCERTED CROSSING OF THE ORNE, THE BRITISH BEAT OFF TWO COUNTERATTACKS AND WERE LAST REPORTED IN THE EDGES OF THE FOREST OF DE CINGLAIS.

THEY ALSO IMPROVED THE POSITIONS ON THEIR RIGHT FLANK BY FIGHTING UP THE 1,200 FOOT HEIGHTS OF MONT PINCON.

THE BRITISH RADIO AND DISPATCHES FROM SWITZERLAND SAID THE GERMANS WERE MOVING THEIR ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICERS FROM PARIS TO NANCY, NEARER THE GERMAN BORDER.

AUG 8 1944

A GERMAN CORPORAL WHO DESERTED TO THE BRITISH SAID HE SERVED SEVEN YEARS IN THE GERMAN ARMY AND DECLARED:

"WE ARE NOT FIGHTING A WAR ANY MORE. I AM AN ARMY MAN AND THIS NEW HITLER SALUTE WE'VE HAD TO GIVE SINCE THE ASSASSINATION ATTEMPT IS NOT FOR ME."

OTHER PRISONERS REFUSED TO HELP A WOUNDED NAZI SS TROOPER WHEN HE WAS BROUGHT INTO A PRISONER'S CAGE.

LATE REPORTS SAY THE AMERICANS HAVE TAKEN 85,543 GERMAN PRISONERS SINCE D-DAY, AND HAVE BURIED 14,171 OTHERS.

DISPATCHES FROM BRITTANY REPORTED THAT WHEN THE AMERICANS REACHED VANNES THEY FOUND THE TOWN AND DOZENS OF SURROUNDING VILLAGES ALREADY HAD BEEN CAPTURED FOR THEM BY THE MAQUIS, WHO HAD SEIZED THE GERMAN GARRISONS.

IN AN ALGIERS BROADCAST, GEN.CHARLES DE GAULLE TOLD THE FRENCH THAT "SOON, VERY SOON, A POWERFUL FRENCH ARMY, COMPLETE WITH THE MOST MODERN EQUIPMENT, WILL BE DEPLOYED ON THE ALLIES' FRONT IN FRANCE

SN6PEW

(ADD SHAEF - (HILL) XX SHIPS

THE BRETON PENINSULA NOW HAS BEEN CUT AT TWO PLACES--(1) AT THE MOUTH OF THE LOIRE RIVER BETWEEN THE GREAT RIVER PORT OF NANTES AND FRANCE'S BIG SHIPBUILDING CENTER OF ST.NAZAIRE, AND (2) AT VANNES, MIDWAY BETWEEN ST.NAZAIRE AND THE NAZI U-BOAT PORT OF LORIENT.

AUG 8 1944

AS THE LIGHTNING CAMPAIGN IN BRITTANY ENTERED ITS SIXTH DAY, THERE WAS PROMISE THAT AMERICAN TROOPS SOON WOULD POSSESS ITS FIVE GREAT PORTS, VALUABLE FOR BUILDING UP THE INVASION FORCES.

NAVAL OFFICERS PREDICTED THAT WHEN THIS CLIMAX IS REACHED THE GERMANS NEVER AGAIN WOULD BE ABLE TO STRIKE IN GREAT STRENGTH WITH THEIR SUBMARINES.

BRADLEY'S TROOPS HAD MADE THIS PROGRESS TOWARD THEIR GOALS YESTERDAY:

BREST--AMERICAN TROOPS WERE FIGHTING THEIR WAY IN THE OUTLYING STREETS OF THIS GREAT PORT AND NAVAL BASE AT THE TIP OF THE BRETON PENINSULA.

ST. MALO--AMERICAN TROOPS WERE ON THE APPROACHES OF THIS NORTH

BRETON COAST PORT. THE GERMAN FORCE DEFENDING IT WAS ESTIMATED AT 2,000 TO 3,000.

LORIENT--HERE THE AMERICANS HAD DUG INTO THE LAST CRUSTS OF GERMAN RESISTANCE AT THE SUBURBS.

ST. NAZIRE--BRADLEY'S ARMOR WAS GUNNING INTO THE OUTLYING STREETS. AS AT LORIENT, RESISTANCE HERE APPEARED MODERATE. THE GERMANS' FIRST ATTEMPT AT A MINIATURE "DUNKERQUE" FLIGHT BY SEA WAS SMASHED WHEN BRITISH AND CANADIAN WARSHIPS SANK ALL SEVEN SHIPS OF ONE GERMAN CONVOY ATTEMPTING TO FLEE FROM ST. NAZAIRE, AND SHELLED A SECOND CONVOY BACK INTO THE ISOLATED PORT.

NANTES: THRUST WAS BEING MADE BY U.S. FORCES DOWN THE LAST 15 MILES [illegible]ARD THIS PORT.

AUG 8 1944

VANNES, CENTER OF FRENCH MAQUIS RESISTANCE IN BRITTANY, VITRE AND PONTIVY FELL IN THE MOP-UP OF THE PENINSULA.

WHEN THE CURRENT OFFENSIVE BEGAN, THE BRITISH-AMERICAN LINE IN NORMANDY RAN GENERALLY IN AN EAST-WEST DIRECTION. AFTER BRADLEY'S BREAKTHROUGH INTO BRITTANY, A GIGANTIC WHEELING MOVEMENT WAS COMPLETED. NOW THE ALLIES ARE ON A LINE RUNNING FROM THE NORTHERN COAST OF NORMANDY ABOVE TROARN SOUTH TO CHATEAU-GONTIER.

FROM THE VIRE SECTOR NORTHEASTWARD, BRITISH AND CANADIAN TROOPS HAVE CAPTURED ST. JEAN LE BLANC AND CROSSED THE ORNE ABOVE THURY-HARCOURT. THEY HAVE BROADENED THEIR HOLD SOUTHWARD ABOUT TWO MILES FROM VASSY, 10 MILES EAST OF VIRE.

GERMAN TROOPS IN THE SALIENT BETWEEN MORTAIN, EAST OF AVRANCHES, AND VIRE WERE PUTTING UP A STRONG FIGHT. IN THIS AREA U.S. TROOPS REDUCED THE NAZI STRONGHOLD OF ST. POIS, AND DROVE INTO CHERENCE-LE BOUSSEL JUST TO THE SOUTH.

AMERICAN ARMOR PENETRATED INTO VIRE.

THE MOST SPECTACULAR GAINS WERE MADE FARTHER SOUTH. HERE AMERICAN ARMOR AND INFANTRY CAPTURED THE ROAD HUB TOWNS OF MAYENNE, LAVAL AND CHATEAU-GONTIER, VAULTED THE MAYENNE RIVER LINE AND WERE STRIKING TOWARD LE MANS. LAST NIGHT THEY WERE REPUTED 140 MILES FROM PARIS AND 180 MILES INLAND FROM BREST.

SO SWIFT WAS THIS ADVANCE THAT IT HAS BROUGHT THE INVASION VIRTUALLY UP TO ITS TIMETABLE AFTER SEVEN WEEKS OF HARD SLOGGING DURING VILE WEATHER IN NORMANDY, A SPOKESMAN SAID.

ONE OF GEN. SIR BERNARD L. MONTGOMERY'S SENIOR STAFF OFFICERS SAID 13 GERMAN DIVISIONS ALREADY HAD BEEN "THOROUGHLY ELIMINATED" IN FRANCE, AND THAT THE "NEXT TWO OR THREE WEEKS MAY BE THE MOST CRITICAL OF ANY TIME OF THE WAR FOR GERMANY." HE ESTIMATED ABOUT 22 NAZI DIVISIONS NOW FACE THE BRITISH AND AMERICAN ARMIES IN FRANCE.

AUG 8 1944

IN ADDITION TO THE PUSH EASTWARD, THE AMERICANS ALSO WERE IN POSITION FOR A CONTINUED DRIVE SOUTHWARD FROM A SALIENT STRETCHING NEARLY 75 MILES ALONG THE NORTH SIDE OF THE LOIRE RIVER.

WHAT STRENGTH GEN. JOHANNES BLASKOWITZ CAN MASS ALONG THIS RIVER BARRIER, WHICH SEPARATES HIS COMMAND IN SOUTHERN FRANCE FROM THAT OF WOUNDED MARSHAL ERWIN ROMMEL, REMAINS TO BE SEEN.

WITH A DOUBLED AREA TO GUARD, BLASKOWITZ IS BELIEVED TO HAVE NO MORE THAN 10 NAZI DIVISIONS COMPARED WITH ROMMEL'S FORCE OF MORE THAN TWICE THAT SIZE IN THE PRESENT BATTLE AREA TO THE NORTH AND 25 MORE IN THE PAS DE CALAIS.

THE LOIRE IS BLASKOWITZ'S FIGHTING FRONTIER AND HIS ONLY STRONG NATURAL DEFENSE LINE. HE HAS THE DISADVANTAGE OF EXPOSING HIS BACK ALONG THE MEDITERRANEAN COAST IF HE TURNS NORTH IN STRENGTH TO MEET THE AMERICAN ONSLAUGHT.

M548AEW

BY HAL BOYLE

ON THE OUTSKIRTS OF ST. MALO, AUG. 7-(AP)-AMERICANS AND GERMANS FOUGHT SAVAGELY IN THE STREETS ON THE OUTSKIRTS OF BARRICADED ST. MALO TONIGHT AS THE NAZI COMMANDER OF THE TRAPPED ENEMY GARRISON MADE GOOD HIS THREAT TO MAKE A "NEW STALINGRAD" HERE.

AUG 8 1944

THE LADER OF GERMAN TROOPS HIDDEN IN VAST CONCRETE DEFENSES IN THE PORT--STRONGHOLDS WHICH 10,000 MEN WORKED TWO YEARS TO BUILD--WAS QUOTED AS HAVING PLEDGED TO FIGHT "STREET BY STREET, AND TO THE LAST MAN

"HE TOLD ME WHEN HE CAME HERE IN APRIL THAT IF HE WAS EVER ATTACKED HE WOULD FIGHT TO HOLD EVERY STREET," SAID PAUL JOSEPH DELACOUR, FORMER MAYOR OF ST. SERVAN, A SUBURB SOUTH OF ST. MALO, WHO SAID THE NAZIS FORCED HIM TO LEAVE THE CITY THREE WEEKS AGO WHEN HE REFUSED TO SUPPLY THEM WITH FRENCH FARMERS AND CARTS TO HAUL AMMUNITION TO THE NORMANDY FRONT.

SHELLS WHISTLED OVERHEAD AS DELACOUR TOLD AMERICAN OFFICERS THAT THE GERMAN COMMANDER, WHEN HE ARRIVED AT THE CITY, WANTED TO PREPARE IT IMMEDIATELY FOR A SIEGE AND HAD COMMENTED "YOU WILL HAVE A NEW STALINGRAD HERE."

AUG 8 1944

"THE WHOLE PORT AREA IS FILLED WITH GERMAN GUNS," SAID DELACOUR.

TODAY AS AMERICAN TROOPS COMPLETED MOPPING UP THE REST OF THE BRITTANY PENINSULA, TAKING HUNDREDS OF PRISONERS, THE SURROUNDED NAZI GARRISON AT ST. MALO FOUGHT BACK FIERCELY WITH ARTILLERY, MORTARS, HEAVY NAVAL GUNS, MINESWEEPERS, MACHINE GUNS AND RIFLES.

BECAUSE OF THE STRENGTH OF THE ENEMY DEFENSES IN THE BARRICADED STREETS IT WAS NECESSARY TO BLAST THE GERMANS YARD BY YARD, AND THE AMERICAN COMMANDER SENT IN HEAVY BOMBING FORCES AS WELL AS THE LARGEST ARTILLERY PIECES USED IN FRANCE.

30.24— 17825

THE GERMAN DEFENSE LINE EXTENDED AROUND THE TOWNS OF PARAME, ST. MALO, ST. SERVAN AND ACROSS THE FRANCE ESTUARY TO INCLUDE DINARD, WHICH IN PEACETIMES WAS ONE OF THE MOST POPULAR RESORTS IN FRANCE.

THE NAZI COMMANDER HAD ORDERED OUT ALL CIVILIANS AND IN THE LAST TWO DAYS RESIDENTS STREAMED FROM THE FOUR TOWNS THROUGH AMERICAN LINES.

AUG 8 1944

AMERICAN TANKS INCHES THROUGH THE OUTSKIRTS OF ST.MALO WITH ALMOST CONTINUOUS CLASHES WITH THE ENEMY. THE NAZI GARRISON HAD NO CHOICE BUT TO FIGHT TO DEATH OR SURRENDER AS THE SQUEEZING RING OF STEEL ENCIRCLED THEM.

"IN THE ROCKY FORT IN WHICH THE GERMANS HAVE HEADQUARTERS," DELACOUR SAID." THEY HAVE A DOZEN CONNECTING TUNNELS 15 FEET DEEP--SO DEEP NO SHELL CAN BLOW THEM OUT."

THE AMERICANS BEGAN THEIR MAIN ATTACK ON THE CITY AT 3:30 THIS AFTERNOON AFTER A 20-MINUTE ARTILLERY BARRAGE. ALREADY SOME OF THE NAZIS HAD ABANDONED THEIR DEFIANT COMMANDER AND SURRENDERED TO THE DOUGHBOYS.

"WE CAPTURED AN EITRE COMPANY OF CZECHS WITH THEIR OFFICERS," SAID CAPT. JOHN NEFF, 1058 HOMEWOOD DRIVE, LAKEWOOD, OHIO." THEY GAVE UP AND THEN THE ENEMY BEGAN SHELLING THE ROAD BACK SO THEY HAD TO SWEAT IT OUT IN OUR FRONTLINES.

AUG 8 1944

"THEY'RE PUTTING UP A REAL SCRAP IN THAT PORT. THEY HAVE SOME HIGH GROUND AND THEY ARE USING IT. THEY ARE USING FRENCH 37-S AND 47-S AND HAVE BEEN TOSSING HEAVY STUFF FROM NAVAL GUNS. THEY HAVE BEEN CAUSING US A LOT OF TROUBLE, TOO, WITH A LOT OF MINES AND OBSTACLES AT THE EDGE OF THE CITY. THEY REALLY BARRICADED THE STREETS--THEY ARE CLUTTERED WITH CARTS."

A COLONEL COMMANDING ONE AMERICAN UNIT SAID: "THEY ARE FIGHTING BACK LIKE HELL, THROWING EVERYTHING ON US. IT'S THE HOTTEST SPOT I'VE SEEN."

AUG 8 1944

E 1149PEW

BY ROGER D. GREENE

ON THE ORNE FRONT, FRANCE, AUG. 7-(AP)-BRITISH INFANTRY SWEEPING ACROSS THE ORNE RIVER ON A TWO-MILE FRONT DROVE TODAY INTO THE WESTERN FRINGES OF THE FOREST DE CINGLAIS IN A SUDDEN MOVE THREATENING TO OUTFLANK GERMAN DEFENSES ON THE VITAL HUNGE.

THE THRUST CUT DEEP BEHIND THE ENEMY'S GUN-BRISTLING DEFENSE FACING CAEN ON A LINE FROM MAY-SUR-ORNE EASTWARD THROUGH ROQUANCOURT, TILLY LA CAMPAGNE, LA HOGUE AND VIMONT.

POURING ACROSS THE ORNE JUST NORTH OF GERMAN HELD THURY-HARCOURT, THE BRITISH STIFLED ENEMY OPPOSITION SWIFTLY ON THE EASTERN BANKS, CAPTURED LA BOGOTIERE AND LA MOISSONNIERE, AND RACED ON TO CUT THE THURY-HARCOURT ROAD.

THE LIGHTNING CROSS-RIVER DRIVE CONFRONTED THE ENEMY WITH THE DANGER OF BEING OUTFLANKED ON THE ONE LINE HE HAD BEEN FIGHTING TO HOLD AT ALL COSTS---THE LINE THAT FOR A LONG TIME HELD THE BRITISH FROM EXPLOITING THEIR SURGE EAST OF THE ORNE BELOW CAEN.

AGAIN AND AGAIN THE BRITISH TRIED TO FIND A SOFT SPOT IN NAZI ARMOR, STRETCHED ACROSS THE PLAIN FROM THE ORNE TO VIMONT, ONLY TO MEET DEADLY FIRE FROM MASSED GERMAN ANTI-TANK GUNS, DUG IN TANKS, ROCKET GUNS AND ARTILLERY.

THE GERMANS MUST ACT FAST TO EXTRICATE THEMSELVES FROM A CRITICAL SNARL, FOR WITHOUT THE CAEN HINGE THE ENEMY CAN HAVE LITTLE HOPE OF CHECKING THE BRITISH AND AMERICAN "SWINGING DOOR" OFFENSIVE.

"THE ENEMY'S POSITION IS RAPIDLY DETERIORATING," SAID A STAFF OFFICER. "THERE IS NO TWO WAYS ABOUT IT. THE BOCHE IS IN A FRIGHTFULLY STICKY POSITION."

AUG 8 1944

BY WILLIAM SMITH WHITE

WITH THE FIRST CANADIAN ARMY IN FRANCE, AUG. 7-(AP)-THE RAF STRUCK WITH CRUSHING WEIGHT LATE TONIGHT IN A WIDE AREA BELOW CAEN WITH HUNDREDS OF HEAVY BOMBERS THROWING IN A THUNDEROUS HALF-HOUR ATTACK.

THE SKY WAS FILLED WITH THE NOISE OF ENGINES AND THE COUNTRYSIDE ROLLED WITH THE THUNDER OF FALLING BOMBS.

I WATCHED THE GREAT ATTACK FROM A POINT MORE THAN FOUR MILES FROM ITS CORE, YET THE THREE-FOOT-THICK STONE WALL ON WHICH I SAT SHOOK STEADILY WITH CONCUSSIONS THAT SEEMED TO RISE RIGHT OUT OF THE ROOTS OF THE EARTH.

ALTHOUGH A GROUND MIST LAY HEAVILY OVER THE AREA, THE BOMBERS DROVE IN WITHOUT HESITATION.

GERMAN ANTIAIRCRAFT FIRE WAS SPOTTY.

FROM 11 P.M. ONWARD MORE THAN 1,000 LANCASTERS AND HALIFAXES ATTACKED THE HINGE OF THE GERMAN LINE JUST SOUTH OF CAEN. MANY THOUSANDS OF BOMBS WERE DROPPED IN THE ATTACK, WHICH WAS THE CLOSEST SUPPORT YET GIVEN TO THE ARMY BY THE HEAVY BOMBERS.

HW752PEW

WITH THE FIRST ARMY IN FRANCE, AUG.7-(AP)-MAJ.GEN.WILLIAM B.KEAN, CHIEF OF STAFF OF THE FIRST ARMY, HAS BEEN AWARDED THE DISTINGUISHED SERVICE MEDAL FOR "EXCEPTIONALLY MERITORIOUS SERVICE" IN PLANNING DETAILS OF THE INVASION OF FRANCE, PARTICULARLY THE CHERBOURG OPERATION, IT WAS ANNOUNCED OFFICIALLY TODAY.

GENERAL KEAN WAS BORN IN BUFFALO, N.Y. HIS WIFE LIVES AT 29 FAIRWAY DRIVE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

HW755PEW

AUG 8 1944

BY EDWARD D.BALL

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS IN BRITTANY, AUG 6-(DELAYED)-(AP)-AMERICAN FORCES HAVE DRIVEN 25 MILES WEST OF DINAN TOWARD ST.BRIEUC, ON THE NORTH COAST OF BRITTANY.

ST.BRIEUC IS 31 MILES WEST OF DINAN.

IN THE BATTLE FOR ST.MALO THE AMERICANS ARE ENCOUNTERING STIFF RESISTANCE FOUR MILES FROM THE CITY.

HEAVY RESISTANCE, TOO, HAS BEEN MET EAST OF LAVAL IN THE DRIVE TOWARD PARIS.

THE ATTACK ON ST.MALO HAD ADVANCED ABOUT THREE MILES FROM THE LAST REPORTED POSITION AT CHATEAUNEAUF-D'ILLE-ET-VILAINE ON THE EAST SIDE OF THE RANCE RIVER ESTUARY.

TROOPS IN LORIENT ON THE SOUTH SIDE OF BRITTANY SENT WORD TO U.S. TROOPS ADVANCING FROM VANNES THAT THEY WANTED TO SURRENDER TO KEEP OUT OF THE HANDS OF THE FRENCH.

ANOTHER FORCE OF 1,200 GERMANS ASKED THE AMERICANS TO ACCEPT THEIR SURRENDER, BUT THE RAPIDLY ADVANCING COLUMN SENT WORD BACK THAT THEY WOULD HAVE TO SURRENDER TO SOMEBODY ELSE BECAUSE IT WAS TOO BUSY.

BY WES GALLAGHER

WITH THE U.S.FIRST ARMY IN FRANCE, AUG.7-(AP)-THE GERMANS TODAY LAUNCHED THEIR LARGEST COUNTERATTACK SINCE THE LANDINGS IN FRANCE, USING AT LEAST FOUR ARMORED DIVISIONS BETWEEN MORTAIN AND SOURDEVAL IN A DRIVE AIMED AT SPLITTING THE NORMANDY AND BRITTANY FORCES.

THE ATTACK, LAUNCHED THIS MORNING, MADE PENETRATIONS UP TO A DEPTH OF THREE MILES IN THE AREA OF CHERENCS LA ROUSSE, BUT WAS BEING HELD AND POUNDED BY ARTILLERY AND AIR FORCES.

A HIGH AMERICAN OFFICER SAID THE GERMAN ATTACK WAS NOT EXPECTED TO MAKE MUCH PROGRESS AND THAT THE RESULT WOULD BE DESTRUCTION OF ARMOR WHICH THE ENEMY COULD ILL AFFORD.

"THE AIR FORCES ARE HAVING A FIELD DAY," HE COMMENTED.

ANOTHER PENETRATION WAS MADE TOWRD JUVIGNY, AND THE AMERICANS WERE DRIVEN OUT OF MORTAIN, BUT THEY STILL HELD THE HIGH GROUND AROUND THE VILLAGE. TO THE NORTH OF THE SECTOR THE AMERICANS CAPTURED VIRE.

AUG 8 1944

THE GERMAN THRUST WAS AIMED AT AVRANCHES. IT WAS THE LARGEST COORDINATED ENEMY BLOW AT THE AMERICANS SINCE D-DAY, AND THE DIVISIONS MAKING IT HAD BEEN DRAINED FROM VARIOUS SECTORS OF FRANCE.

SOME CRACK AMERICAN UNITS WERE MEETING THE ATTACK.

RAF ROCKET-SPITTING TYPHOONS TEAMED UP WITH THE AMERICAN AIR FORCE TO STRIKE FULL FORCE AT THE GERMAN ARMOR.

THE ATTACK WAS ON A NARROW EIGHT-MILE FRONT AND WAS CONCENTRATED.

BY EDWARD D.BALL

WITH AMERICANS ON THE ROAD TO PARIS, AUG. 7-(AP)-PUNCHING TO WITHIN 120 MILES OF PARIS, AMERICAN FORCES TODAY THREW THE GERMANS BACK STEADILY HERE ALONG THIS PART OF THE FRONT BEYOND LAVAL AND MAYENNE WHICH, TO PARAPHRASE THE GENERALS, IS A HIGHLY FLUID ONE.

THE SPEARHEADS ARE WELL BEYOND MAYENNE AND LAVAL ON THE ROADS TO PARIS BUT THE SPECIFIC MILEAGES WERE UNDISCLOSED.

FOR THE TIME OUR TROOPS ARE BEGINNING TO MEET SOME SEMBLANCE OF ORGANIZED RESISTANCE SINCE THE BREAKTHROUGH SURGED ACROSS BRITTANY TO ENGULF THE NAZIS.

"BUT IT IS NOT OPPOSITION IN STRENGTH ," SAID LT.COL.JAMES O. OBSEWELL, WASHINGTON, D.C. "WE HAVEN'T HIT ANY PREPARED POSITION YET, EITHER."

OUR TROOPS WHO HAVE ADVANCED SOME 115 MILES IN THE PAST WEEK ARE BEGINNING TO TALK OF LEAVE IN PARIS. THE DAILY MIMEOGRAPHED NEWSPAPERS OF ONE FRONT LINE U.S.DIVISION WAS DISTRIBUTED TODAY WITH THE HEADLINE:

"YANKS MOVE ON PARIS."

DURING THE DAY A NUMBER OF SMALL VILLAGES WERE CAPTURED AFTER A NIGHT OF BRISK FIGHTING IN WHICH SEVERAL ENEMY TANKS WERE KNOCKED OUT.

AMONG GUNS CAPTURED IN THIS SECTOR WAS AN 88 WITH 15 RINGS AROUND ITS SNOUT, INDICATING IT CLAIMED A BAG OF THAT MANY ALLIED PLANES. THREE RINGS WERE MARKED "FORTRESS," FIVE "MITCHELL," FIVE "WELLINGTON," FIVE "LANCASTERS," AND TWO WERE MARKED ONLY "FRENCH." THE GUN APPARENTLY HAD BEEN RUSHED HERE FROM SOME POINT WHERE IT HAD BEEN USED FOR ANTI-AIRCRAFT DEFENSE.

AMERICAN TROOPS WHO HAVE BEEN SWAMPED WITH OFFERS OF COGNAC AND CALVADOS--WHICH TASTES AND LOOKS LIKE RAW CORN WHISKEY--FROM FRENCH PEOPLE, FOUND SOMETHING NEW. IN FRONT OF A LITTLE VILLAGE SHOP WAS A CHALKED SIGN "MILK BAR--FREE."

(EDS: 2ND GRAF ABOVE READ X X X 88 WITH 20 RINGS--NOT "15")

HW734PEW

BY HENRY B.JAMESON

AUG 8 1944

NINTH U.S. AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, AUG 7-(AP)-SWARMS OF AMERICAN FIGHTER-BOMBERS ROARED IN RELAYS TODAY OVER THE GERMAN ARMORED COLUMNS WHICH HAD COUNTERATTACKED EAST OF AVRANCHES AND THRUST A WEDGE IN THE MORTAIN AREA IN A BOLD BID TO BISECT AMERICAN FORCES.

RETURNING PILOTS, WHO POUNDED THE GERMAN COLUMNS MERCILESSLY, TOLD OF A FIERCE TANK BATTLE RAGING IN THE VICINITY WHERE THE NAZIS REPORTEDLY HAD THROWN IN PANZER DIVISIONS TO CUT OFF THE AMERICANS IN THE BREST PENINSULA. SOME PILOTS SAID THE ARMIES WERE LOCKED IN BATTLE AT SUCH CLOSE RANGE THEY WERE UNABLE TO RELEASE THEIR BOMBS FOR FEAR OF HITTING THEIR OWN TROOPS.

PROBING FURTHER SOUTH, IN THE MAYENNE AREA, THE FRENCH-BASED THUNDERBOLTS AND MUSTANGS MET 35 GERMAN PLANES AND DESTROYED SEVEN IN THE AIR.

AUG 8 1944

LT.LLOYD OVERFIELD OF LEAVENWORTH,KANS., SHOT DOWN HIS THIRD NAZI PLANE IN EIGHT DAYS.

CAPT.VERLIN CHAMERS OF EMMETT, IDAHO, AND LT.WILLIAM ANDERS OF 7915 VERNON AVE., CHICAGO, EACH CLAIMED TWIN VICTORIES. ANDERS GOT HIS THIRD PLANE IN SIX DAYS. CAPT.WALLACE EMMER OF ST.LOUIS,MO., SHARED IN THE DESTRUCTION OF ONE ME109 WITH LT.HAYDEN HOLTON OF KEWANEE,ILL.

AUG 8 1944

DN523PEW

ADD MOSCOW -(LULE) XX RAILWAY

(THE MOSCOW COMMUNIQUE MADE NO MENTION OF THE BATTLES RAGING EAST OF WARSAW, FALL OF WHICH WOULD PERHAPS BE ONE OF THE MOST DECISIVE BLOWS OF THE WAR. A GERMAN HIGH COMMAND COMMUNIQUE YESTERDAY SAID THE THIRD SOVIET TANK CORPS HAD BEEN TRAPPED IN THAT AREA AND WIPED OUT AFTER SEVERAL DAYS OF FIERCE FIGHTING).

(THE POLISH GOVERNMENT IN EXILE IN LONDON SAID POLISH UNDERGROUND FORCES WITHIN WARSAW WERE STILL FIGHTING, AND THAT DESPITE LACK OF AMMUNITION HAD SEIZED SEVERAL BUILDINGS IN THE NORTHWESTERN PART OF THE CITY AS WELL AS A GERMAN BARRACKS FOR ELITE SS TROOPS IN THE GHETTO DISTRICT OF WEST-CENTRAL WARSAW.)

RUSSIAN TROOPS HAVE CLEARED THE ENEMY FROM A 14-MILE STRETCH OF THE VISTULA'S EAST BANK BETWEEN THE SAN'S MOUTH AND TARNOBRZEG, THE RUSSIAN COMMUNIQUE SAID. THEY SEIZED OTHER LOCALITIES ON THE EAST BANK WEST OF MIELEC, RAIL JUNCTION 26 MILES NORTHEAST OF TARNOW, AND CROSSED THE NEARBY WISLOKA RIVER. MIELEC ALSO FELL.

A BODY OF GERMAN TROOPS APPEARED TRAPPED BETWEEN TARNOBRZEG AND WOJKOW IN A 66-SQUARE-MILE AREA EXTENDING INTO THE TRIANGLE FROM BARANOW. NAZIS FLEEING WEST ACROSS THE VISTULA MAY MEET UP WITH OTHER SOVIET FORCES STRIKING DOWNRIVER TOWARD KRAKOW, AND WHICH AT LAST REPORTS WERE WITHIN 30 MILES OF KRAKOW AND ONLY 75 MILES FROM GERMAN SILESIA.

M303AEW

BY DANIEL DELUCE

AUG 8 1944

MOSCOW, TUESDAY, AUG 8-(AP)-NEGOTIATORS FOR THE RIVAL POLISH POLITICAL REGIMES LEFT THEIR THIRD MEETING AT MIDNIGHT LAST NIGHT WITHOUT AGREEING WHEN THEY WOULD CONFER AGAIN, BUT A SOURCE CLOSE TO PREMIER STANISLAW MIKOLAJCZYK OF THE LONDON POLISH GOVERNMENT SAID "THE CRISIS, IF ANY, HAS NOT YET BEEN REACHED."

IN TWO DAYS MIKOLAJCZYK'S DELEGATION OF EXILES AND REPRESENTATIVES OF THE COMMITTEE OF NATIONAL LIBERATION, FRESH FROM POLAND, HAVE TALKED AND ARGUED FOR MORE THAN 10 HOURS IN A FLAG-HUNG CHAMBER OF THE FORMER POLISH EMBASSY.

VISIBLY WEARY, THE PREMIER, FOREIGN MINISTER TADEUSZ ROMER, AND THE 73-YEAR-OLD LADISLAS GRABSKI, THIRD MEMBER OF THE LONDON POLISH DELEGATION, RETURNED TO THE SOVIET GUEST HOUSE EARLY TODAY WITH SOBER VISAGES.

BEFORE THE THIRD SESSION OPENED, A SPOKESMAN FOR THE PREMIER SAID EACH SIDE HAD STATED ITS CASE AND "THE EXCHANGE OF VIEWS HAS BEEN CONCLUDED."

3a-24— 17827

JOZEF ZARANSKI, MIKOLAJCZYK'S DIPLOMATIC AID, SAID THE POLISH NEGOTIATIONS HAD BEEN "CORRECT, COURTEOUS AND VERY FRANK," BUT ADDED THAT IT WAS IMPOSSIBLE TO SAY WHAT PROGRESS HAD BEEN MADE TO THIS POINT.

TODAY'S MEETING, WHICH CAME AFTER THE PREMIER HAD CONSULTED JOINTLY WITH THE BRITISH AND AMERICAN AMBASSADORS, WAS PRESIDED OVER BY BOLESLAW BERUT, CHAIRMAN OF THE POLISH NATIONAL COUNCIL, WHICH, ACCORDING TO THE CHELM MANIFESTO, IS THE SOURCE OF POWER FOR THE NATIONAL COMMITTEE.

AUG 8 1944

ZARANSKI INDICATED THE NEGOTIATIONS HERE WOULD END IN A FEW DAYS.

MIKOLAJCZYK, WHO CAME TO MOSCOW ON A TWO-FOLD MISSION TO MERGE RIVAL POLITICAL FACTIONS AND SOLVE DIPLOMATIC AND FRONTIER QUESTIONS WITH THE SOVIET UNION, CARRIED THE MAJOR BURDEN OF NEGOTIATIONS, WITH BERUT AND WANDA WASSILEWSKA, ASSISTANT CHAIRMAN OF THE NATIONAL COMITTEE, LEADING THE DISCUSSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE COMMITTEE.

IT IS NO SECRET THE COMMITTEE IS CONFIDENT OF ITS AUTHORITY AND POSITION IN LIBERATED POLAND.

AT EVERY STEP MIKOLAJCZYK KEPT THE BRITISH AND AMERICAN DIPLOMATIC MISSIONS ADVISED OF THE PROCEEDINGS.

AUG 8 1944

IT WAS CONFIRMED THAT MIKOLAJCZYK WAS EMPOWERED TO SIGN, ON BEHALF OF THE POLISH GOVERNMENT-IN-EXILE, ANY AGREEMENT HE DEEMS SUITABLE, WITHOUT THE NECESSITY FIRST OF TAKING IT TO LONDON.

DN509PEW

BY DANIEL DE LUCE

MOSCOW, AUG 7-(AP)-THE RED ARMY STRUCK OUT AFRESH FROM ITS VISTULA RIVER BRIDGEHEAD TODAY TOWARD GERMAN SILESIA, 75 TO 90 MILES DISTANT, AS ENEMY DEFENSES SAGGED AND BROKE NEAR THE LITHUANIAN COAST AND IN THE CARPATHIAN FOOTHILLS.

MOSCOW'S GUNS AND ROCKETS CELEBRATED THE DOUBLE VICTORIES OF SAMBOR AND BORYSLAW IN THE GALICIAN UPLANDS, CLEARING THE WAY FOR A NEW SURGE AGAINST THE MOUNTAINS GIRDLING THE DANUBIAN BASIN.

THESE TRIUMPHS, HOWEVER, WERE OVERSHADOWED IN STRATEGIC IMPORTANCE BY THE RED ARMY'S FIERCE CHALLENGE TO END THE TEMPORARY STALEMATE IN THE HEART OF POLAND.

THE VISTULA BRIDGEHEAD, WHICH HAS BEEN A NIGHTMARE TO HITLER'S SUPREME COMMAND, ERUPTED WITH ATTACKS WHICH CAPTURED OVER 60 SETTLEMENTS, SWEPT MORE THAN 20 MILES WEST OF THE RIVER AND THREATENED TO STRANGLE THE ENEMY'S LATERAL COMMUNICATIONS BETWEEN THE KRAKOW AND WARSAW SECTORS.

KIELCE, ASTRIDE VITAL HIGHWAYS AND RAILROAD ARTERIES, IS DIRECTLY MENACED BY THE RED ARMY THRUST FROM NEWLY OCCUPIED SZYDLOW, 24 MILES SOUTH-EASTWARD.

THE DIRECTION OF THE NEW PUSH RAISED THE POSSIBILITY OF OUT-FLANKING KRAKOW FROM THE NORTH AND FORCING ANOTHER LARGE-SCALE ENEMY WITHDRAWAL IN CENTRAL POLAND.

SN811PEW

AUG 8 1944

ADD STOCKHOLM - (STYRDEKVANDA 1917

PAASIKIVI, FORMER MINISTER TO MOSCOW, NEGOTIATED THE FINNISH-RUSSIAN PEACE OF MARCH, 1940, AND MADE ANOTHER MISSION TO MOSCOW LAST SPRING IN AN UNSUCCESSFUL PEACE MANEUVER.

MEANWHILE, IN AN ORDER OF THE DAY PRESIDENT CARL GUSTAV MANNERHEIM TOLD FINNISH SOLDIERS THAT "THE BATTLE FOR THE EXISTENCE AND FUTURE OF THE COUNTRY GOES ON. IN MY CAPACITY AS COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF OF THE ARMED FORCES, I APPEAL TO YOU TO BE STEADFAST AND TENACIOUS. THE UNSHAKABLE MUTUAL CONFIDENCE AND UNITY OF OUR NATION ARE THE COUNTRY'S BEST PROTECTION." #

MADRID,AUG.7-(AP)-A COMMUNIQUE PUBLISHED IN GERMAN PAPERS REACHING HERE TODAY INFORMED GERMAN WORKERS THAT HENCEFORTH THEY WILL BE PAID ON A TRI-MONTHLY BASIS, A SYSTEM IT SAID WAS NOT INSTITUTED BEFORE BECAUSE OF THE "DANGER THE PEOPLE WOULD SPEND THEIR ENTIRE SALARY DURING THE FIRST MONTH."

THE DANGER CEASED TO EXIST, THE COMMUNIQUE SAID, BECAUSE PURCHASING POWER WAS RESTRICTED BY "THE SCARCITY OF GOODS, MAKING IT IMPOSSIBLE TO SPEND TOO MUCH MONEY."

HW737PEW

ADD ROME - (MORGAN) - AIRPLANE

BESIDES VARNELL, AERIAL VICTORIES WERE CREDITED TO LT. NATHANIEL A. PAPE, 1009 BAYLOR ST., AUSTIN, TEXAS, AND LT. ROBERT S. MCCAMPBELL, 1754 PROSPECT AVE., SANTA BARBARA, CALIF.

AUG 8 1944

JR751AEW

BY GEORGE BRIA (1SO)

ROME, AUG 7-(AP)-COUNT CARLO SFORZA, ITALIAN MINISTER WITHOUT PORTFOLIO, TODAY SUBMITTED TO ETTORE CA

S
A

T

I, PRESIDENT OF THE HIGH COURT FOR PUNISHMENT OF FASCIST CRIMES, THE NAMES OF 399 ITALIAN SENATORS WHO HE BELIEVES SHOULD BE REMOVED FROM THE SENATE FOR FASCIST ACTIVITIES.

THE LIST COMPRISED ALL BUT 111 MEMBERS OF THE SENATE AND INCLUDED THOSE WHO SFORZA ACCUSES OF CONTRIBUTING BY THEIR VOTES AND ACTS TO THE MAINTENANCE OF THE FASCIST REGIME THAT MADE WAR POSSIBLE.

THE FASCIST-APPOINTED CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES ALREADY HAS BEEN DISSOLVED. SIMILAR ACTION WAS NOT TAKEN WITH THE SENATE, SINCE THE SENATORS ARE ROYAL APPOINTEES AND DISSOLVING IT WOULD BE REGARDED BY THE GOVERNMENT AS INVOLVING A QUESTION WHICH IT PLEDGED NOT TO CONSIDER UNTIL THE END OF THE WAR.

SFORZA, RECOGNIZING THE POSSIBILITY THAT SOME SENATORS ON THE LIST NOW ARE FIGHTING THE GERMANS IN NORTHERN ITALY, SAID HE WAS READY TO REMOVE THEIR NAMES IF PROOF LATER WAS ESTABLISHED THAT THEY CONTRIBUTED TO THE WAR EFFORT.

HE NOTED IN HIS LETTER TO CASATI THAT WHILE REMOVAL FROM THE SENATE SHOULD BE THE PUNISHMENT, SUCH REMOVAL DOES NOT PRECLUDE THE POSSIBILITY THAT THEY ALSO BE TRIED LATER AS FASCIST CRIMINALS UNDER OTHER SECTIONS OF ITALIAN LAW.

SK-EV1152PEW

AUG 8 1944

ALGIERS, AUG 7-(AP)-GEN.CHARLES DE GAULLE IN A RADIO SPEECH BEAMED TO FRANCE TODAY SAID IT WAS THE IMMEDIATE DUTY OF ALL FRENCHMEN TO TAKE PART IN COMBAT AND ANNOUNCED THAT "VERY SOON" A FRENCH ARMY OF SEASONED TROOPS WILL BE DEPLOYED ON THE FRENCH FRONT.

HE PRAISED THE FRENCH FORCES OF THE INTERIOR AS AN INTEGRAL PART IN THE GENERAL BATTLE, STATING THEY HAD KILLED 10,000 GERMANS IN THE LAST TWO MONTHS AND WERE RESPONSIBLE FOR HOLDING TWO NAZI DIVISIONS IN BRITTANY SINCE JUNE 6. HE ADDED THAT THE FFI, HELPED BY FRENCH PARACHUTISTS, HAD ASSISTED AMERICAN FORCES IN MOPPING UP OPERATIONS.

SK1040PEW

ADD CHUNGKING xx ENGINEERMENT

MEANWHILE JAPANESE FORCES IN A NEW DRIVE IN SOUTHWESTERN KWANGTUNG PROVINCE HAVE BURST OUT OF HOIHENG (LUICHOW) PENINSULA AND ARE THREATENING THEIR APPARENT IMMEDIATE OBJECTIVES, LIMKONG AND FAHSIEN, THE CHINESE HIGH COMMAND SAID.

AUG 8 1944

THE ATTACK WAS LAUNCHED IN TWO DIRECTIONS, TO THE NORTHEAST AND NORTHWEST, AGAINST CHINESE POSITIONS JUST ACROSS THE STRAIT FROM THE JAPANESE-HELD ISLAND OF HAINAN.

BLOODY FIGHTING RAGED ALONG THE ENTIRE HENGYANG FRONT, AND A HIGH COMMAND COMMUNIQUE INDICATED THE JAPANESE WERE MAKING DETERMINED BUT THUSFAR UNAVAILING ATTEMPTS TO STORM THE RAIL CITY, WHILE CHINESE FORCES WITH EQUAL DETERMINATION WERE TRYING TO SMASH THE ENEMY'S ENCIRCLING RING.

THE COMMUNIQUE SAID ONE ENEMY COLUMN PENETRATED INTO A SOUTHWESTERN SUBURB OF HENGYANG BUT MOST OF THE ATTACKERS WERE KILLED AND THE REMAINDER DRIVEN OUT. AUG 8 1944

M514AEW

ADD FLEET H-Q. P-H - XX ISLANDS

AT PEARL HARBOR LT.GEN.ROBERT RICHARDSON, JR., ARMY COMMANDER FOR THE CEPOYAL PACIFIC, WAS MADE COMMANDING GENERAL OF THE PACIFIC OCEAN AREAS, A NEW POST.

HIS JURISDICTION WAS EXPANDED TO REACH "WESTWARD TO THE JAPANESE MAINLAND AND BEYOND, AND SOUTH TO INCLUDE NEW ZEALAND." THE NEW COMMAND TAKES IN NEW CALEDONIA AND THE SOLOMON ISLANDS. IT LINKS CLOSELY WITH MACARTHUR'S SOUTHWEST PACIFIC AREA, WHICH INCLUDES AUSTRALIA, NEW GUINEA AND ISLANDS TO THE WEST.

PM1228APW

GHQ, SOUTHWEST PACIFIC--SECOND ADD NEW GUINEA (WHICH WILL STAND) XXX ATTACK SUNDAY.

IN THE AMERICAN ADVANCE IN THE AITAPE AREA, IT WAS DISCLOSED THAT TROOPS AFTER MOVING EASTWARD ALONG THE COAST CUT SOUTH TO SEVER THE JAPANESE SUPPLY LINE FROM WEWAK, AND THEN MOVED WESTWARD TOWARD AFUA VILLAGE.

THE JAPANESE THUS CUT OFF ARE NOT COMPLETELY ISOLATED, HOWEVER. THEY CAN RETREAT INTO THE MOUNTAINS TO RETURN TO THEIR REAR AREAS ARO WEWAK, A HEADQUARTERS SPOKESMAN POINTED OUT.

IN THE SARMI-MAFFIN BAY AREA OF DUTCH NEW GUINEA, 350 MILES WEST OF AITAPE, RECENT ALLIED PATROLS HAVE KILLED 160 JAPANESE AND CAPTURED 22, BRINGING THE ENEMY'S KNOWN DEAD IN THE AREA--INCLUDING THE WAKDE ISLAND OPERATION OFF MAFFIN BAY--THROUGH SUNDAY TO 3,297. PRISONERS OF WAR TAKEN IN THE AREA TOTAL 64.

VB721PCW NM AUG 8 1944

ADD AJD FLAGSHIP -(AGNOT) XXBATTALION

THE WEATHER HAS BEEN SO UNPREDICTABLY WET AND DRY THAT EVEN HARD-BITTEN MAJ.GEN.ROY S.GEIGER, COMMANDER OF THE THIRD AMPHIBIOUS CORPS, COMPLAINED OF "NASTY FIGHTING CONDITIONS" ON HIS RETURN FROM INSPECTING THE FRONTLINES.

ONLY A FEW HUNDRED NATIVES ARE BELIEVED TO REMAIN IN THE TRAP WITH THE BESIEGED JAPANESE. NOTES DROPPED FROM AMERICAN PLANES HAVE

30.24 — 17829

DIRECTED THE CHAMORROS TO ENTER OUR LINES ALONG DESIGNATED SAFETY ROUTES. FOR SEVERAL DAYS ADVANCING TROOPS HAVE BEEN PASSING SCORES OF NATIVE FAMILIES ON THEIR WAY SOUTHWARD TO CIVILIAN CAMPS.

THE MOST RECENT LOOT TAKEN FROM THE JAPANESE INCLUDED A SHINY BLACK 1941 MODEL DODGE SEDAN. IT WAS ONE OF THE FEW VEHICLES TO ESCAPE DAMAGE IN THE TERRIFIC PRE-INVASION BOMBARDMENT. AUG 8 1944

GG1241PCW NM

A CHAMORRO REFUGEE CAMP, GUAM--SECOND ADD LANDSBERG'S GUAM UNDER JAP RULE X X WITHOUT TRIAL.

GUERRERO SAID THE JAPANESE FORCED GUAM'S CITIZENS TO SURRENDER ALL MATCHES, KNIVES AND GUNS. EACH PERSON WAS GIVEN AN IDENTIFICATION CLOTH TO WEAR OVER THE LEFT BREAST, TO SHOW THAT HE HAD BEEN EXAMINED.

AMERICAN FOODSTUFFS WERE CONFISCATED, AND ON JAN. 21, 1942, AN EXCHANGE RATIO OF ONE U.S. DOLLAR FOR TWO YEN WAS ESTABLISHED. (THE PRE-WAR VALUE OF A YEN WAS 23 CENTS, U.S.)

A FOOD RATION OF ONE LITRE OF RICE (ABOUT TWO POUNDS) PER PERSON EACH 10 DAYS WAS ENFORCED. MEN WERE REQUIRED TO WORK IN RICEFIELDS FROM 6 A.M. TO 5 P.M.

FRANCISCO GUERRERO, 48, FORMER FISH WARDEN, SAID EACH CIVILIAN WAS GIVE A JAPANESE FLAG AND WAS REQUIRED TO MARCH IN PARADES SHOUTING "BANZAI, SINGAPORE, MANIRA AND AUSTRARIA"--"WE SOON LEARNED THE JAPS COULDN'T PRONOUNCE THE LETTER L."

"AFTER THE FIRST TWO MONTHS THE AMERICAN GOODS GAVE OUT, AND THEN ONLY DOGS LIVED WORSE THAN WE DID. THEY LEVIED A POLL TAX OF TWO YEN A YEAR ON ALL ABLE-BODIES MEN BETWEEN 16 AND 60, AND TAXED US THREE YEN A YEAR FOR EACH COCONUT TREE."

JAVIEI QUENGA, 15, A SCHOOLBOY, SAID "THEY ORDERED US NOT TO SPEAK ENGLISH AT SCHOOL, AND FORCED US TO SALUTE THE JAPANESE FLAG."

THE CHAMORRA NATIVES SAID THEIR WOMEN WERE MOLESTED BY THE JAPANESE FOR THE FIRST FEW WEEKS UNTIL THE MILITARY POLICE CONTROLLED THE SITUATION, AFTER WHICH THERE WAS LITTLE TROUBLE OF THAT KIND. SOME NATIVE GIRLS LIVED WITH THE JAPANESE IN ORDER TO GET FOOD, BUT THE JAPANESE BROUGHT THEIR OWN WOMEN TO GUAM SHORTLY AFTER ITS CAPTURE.

MM/EA915PPW AUG 8 1944

BY WILLIAM L.WORDEN

AGAT,GUAM,AUG.1-(DELAYED)-(AP)-THE GUAM BOY SCOUTS, UNDAUNTED BY WARFARE, HAVE REPORTED TO THE AMERICANS, READY FOR DUTY.

IN THE MIDST OF THE HEAVIEST BOMBARDMENT BEFORE AMERICAN INVESTMENT OF THE ISLAND'S SOUTHERN END, A FRAIL CANOE WAS SPOTTED FAR OFFSHORE BY A DESTROYER. TWO TINY SIGNAL FLAGS WERE WAVING FROM THE CENTER OF THE CRAFT. SOMEBODY FRANTICALLY WAS SENDING CODE.

THE DESTROYER PICKED UP THREE SMALLISH CHAMORROS. THEY WERE USHERED TO THE OFFICE OF LT.CMDR.SAMUEL SUTPHIN OF INDIANAPOLIS (1321 NORTH MERDIAN ST.)

PEDRO Q.SANCHEZ, 21, GAVE AN ORDER. HIS FOLLOWERS, JUAN M.AGUON, 18, AND ZIEZO RIO, 19, SNAPPED TO ATTENTION AND GAVE THE THREE-FINGERED BOY SCOUT SALUTE.

"SIR," SAID SANCHEZ, "THE GUAM BOY SCOUTS ARE REPORTING FOR DUTY."

THEY WERE MEMBERS OF A TROOP ORGANIZED BY SCHOOLMASTER MANUEL CHARFAUROS BEFORE THE WAR.

WHEN THE JAPANESE CAME, THEY PROHIBITED FURTHER TROOP MEETINGS AND INDICATED THEY CONSIDERED THE SCOUTS AMERICAN SPIES. THE TROOP CONTINUED MEETING IN SECRET, HOWEVER. WHEN THE AMERICAN ATTACK ON THE ISLAND BEGAN, ALL WERE PLACED IN A CONCENTRATION CAMP. DURING SUBSEQUENT DISTURBANCES CHARFAUROS WAS WOUNDED.

THE CHAMORROS FINALLY BROKE OUT OF THE CAMP, KILLING WHEIR GUARD, AND FLED IN THE HILLS. THEY CHOSE THE THREE YOUTHS TO GET WORD OF THEIR HIDING PLACE TO THE AMERICANS.

THE BOY SCOUTS MADE THEIR PERILOUS TRIP OVERLAND AND BY CANOE IN TIME TO PREVENT AN AMERICAN BOMBING STRAFING ATTACK AGAINST THE CHAMORROS WHO OTHERWISE MIGHT HAVE BEEN MISTAKEN FOR JAPANESE IN THE MOUNTAINS.

EA922PPW NM

AUG 8. 1944

BY MORRIS LANDSBERG

WITH AMERICAN FORCES ON GUAM, JULY 31.-(AP)-(DELAYED)-(VIA NAVY RADIO)-AN ARMY PATROL BY A LANKY 22-YEAR-OLD TEXAN WON A TWO-DAY FIGHT AGAINST NATURAL OBSTACLES AND DETECTION BY THE JAPANESE TO COMPLETE THE FIRST RECONNAISANCE TRIP TO THE EASTERN SHORES OF GUAM.

LT. JACK MILLER OF COLLEGE STATION, TEX., AND THREE SOLDIERS WENT SOUTHEAST ACROSS THE ISLAND TO THE HIGH LAND BETWEEN TALOFFO AND TOJCHA BAYS, TOPPING OFF THEIR PIONEER MISSION BY GOING TO THE VICINITY OF YLIG BAY. AS PATROLS TRAVEL, THE DISTANCE WAS ABOUT EIGHT OR TEN MILES.

STAFF.SGT. CLIFFORD AUSTIN, 24, OF CASTLE SHANNON, PA., SGT. RICHARD DE PONTO, 25, OF YONKERS. N.Y., AND T/4JOSEPH BOGDZIO, 26, OF SAYREVILLE, N.J., WHO ACCOMPANIED MILLER, SAID THEY TOOK NO CHANCES, AWAKE OR ASLEEP.

MILLER SAID THE GROUP STAYED OFF THE TRAIL TO AVOID DETECTION. BEATING THROUGH JUNGLES SO DENSE THAT OFTEN THEY HAD TO CRAWL FOR LONG STRETCHES.

DE PONTO SAID THE PATROL SIGHTED ONLY FIVE JAPANESE ON THE TRIP, BUT THEY GAVE THE AMERICANS NO TROUBLE. "THEY RAN AWAY WHEN THEY SAW US", THE HUSKY NEW JERSEY YOUTH SAID.

THE AMERICANS SPENT THE NIGHT IN A CAVE. THE FATIGUED MEN SNORED SO LOUDLY THAT, AUSTIN SAID, THEY AGREED TO WAKE EACH OTHER UP IF THE NOISE BECAME TOO GREAT.

AUG 8 1944

BOGBZIO LISTED SWORD GRASS, BRUSH, VINES, ROOTS, MOSQUITOS AND HEAT AS LEADING OBSTACLES TO TRAVELING ACROSS THIS COUNTRY.

"THERE'S SOME KIND OF DRY TREE UP THERE. I WAS SO TIRED AND THEY LOOKED LIKE HEALTHY TREES. SO I WOULD LEAN AGAINST ONE TO REST. KNOW WHAT? THEY'RE HOLLOW INSIDE. THE TREE WOULD FALL OVER AND ME WITH IT."

WHEN THE WATER SUPPLY RAN OUT THE MEN DRANK COCONUT MILK AND ATE THE HEART OF PALMETTO BRANCHES. BOGDZIO SAID PALMETTO WAS A DELICACY, "SOFTER THAN CELERY", AND THAT THEY KNEW NOW WHY IT WAS KNOWN TO GOURMETS AS "MILLIONAIRES SALAD"--IT TASTED LIKE A MILLION DOLLARS.

AUG 8 1944

IT TOOK THE MEN A DAY AND A HALF TO CROSS THE ISLAND BUT ONLY HALF A DAY TO RETURN.

FJ657ACW

BY ELMONT WAITE

ABOARD U.S. CARRIER FLAGSHIPOFF PALAU, JULY 27-(DELAYED) (AP)-THE DISHEARTENED JAPANESE DEFENDERS OF THE PALAU ISLANDS THIS AFTERNOON WATCHED SOLID PILLARS OF BLACK SMOKE BELCHING A MILE AND A HALF HIGH FROM THE SHATTERED RUINS OF THEIR FUEL, FOOD AND AMMUNITION STORES ON THIS STRATEGIC SOUTHWEST PACIFIC BASE.

PALAU HAS JUST BEEN VISITED, FOR THE SECOND TIME IN FOUR MONTHS, BY THE MIGHTIEST OF THE U.S. NAVY'S CARRIERS.

NO JAPANESE FLEET BARRED THE OCEAN LANE LEADING TO THE ISLANDS, 600 MILES DUE EAST OF DAVAO IN THE PHILIPPINES. ONLY A HALF DOZEN NIPPON PLANES WERE SIGHTED IN THE AIR DURING THE THREE DAY BLASTING OF THE PALAUS.

PART OF THE CARRIER FORCE ALSO HAMMERED YAP, ULITHI AND FAIS ISLANDS, TO THE NORTHEAST OF THE PALAUS. YAP WAS UNDER ATTACK FOR THREE DAYS.

IT WAS A DARING ADVENTURE WHEN AN AMERICAN CARRIER TASK FORCE--NOT NEARLY SO POWERFUL AS THIS ONE--STEAMED BOLDLY TO THE PALAUS, DEEP IN ENEMY CONTROLLED SEAS, LAST MARCH. THAT FORCE WAS THREATENED DAY AND NIGHT BY JAPANESE PLANES.

THIS TIME IT WAS A ROUTINE CRUISE. WE SIGHTED ONLY TWO ENEMY PLANES BEFORE OUR OWN BEGAN SMASHING PALAU AND YAP ON JULY 25.

EXCEPT FOR INACCURATE ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE THE JAPANESE GARRISON WAS DEFENSELESS. ONLY FIVE JAPANESE PLANES WERE IN THE AIR. FOUR WERE SHOT DOWN AT PALAU AND ONE AT YAP. TWENTY-ONE GROUNDED PLANES WERE DEFINITELY DESTROYED AND OTHERS POSSIBLY DESTROYED. THERE WAS NO INDICATION THE JAPANESE MADE ANY REAL EFFORT TO GET THEM INTO COMBAT. OUR COMBAT LOSSES WERE FIVE PLANES.

IN THE FIRST STRIKE AGAINST THE PALAUS LAST MARCH, POWERFUL TASK FORCE 58 TOOK TOLL OF NEARLY 200 JAPANESE PLANES AND DESTROYED

CLOSE TO 150,000 TONS OF NIPPONESE SHIPPING. THIS TIME WE BAGGED ONLY COUPLE OF SMALL COMBAT SHIPS, A LIGHT OILER, THREE SMALL FREIGHTERS AND MISCELLANEOUS HARBOR CRAFT.

AUG 8 1944

CMDR.THEODORE HUGH WINTERS, WHOSE WIFE AND TWO DAUGHTERS RESIDE AT SOCIETY HILL, S.C., FIGHTER SKIPPER ON THIS CARRIER WHO LED THE FINAL STRIKE ON THE PALAUS, SAID "THAT HOT BLACK SMOKE WAS SO HIGH IT WAS LITTERALLY CREATING A THUNDERHEAD. I COULD SEE CLOUDS FORMING A REGULAR LITTLE STORM FRONT ABOVE THE SMOKE."

LESS SPECTACULAR BUT EQUALLY DESTRUCTIVE FIRES AND EXPLOSIONS LAID WASTE TO OTHER JAPANESE SUPPLY CENTERS ALL THROUGH THE PALAU GROUP AND AT YAP, THE RETURNING FLIERS REPORTED. NO POSSIBLE TARGETS WERE OVERLOOKED.

LEIUT.DONALD W.MCMILLAN, A TORPEDO PILOT OF WAMEGO, KAS., SAID HE WAS SIGHTING THROUGH HIS BOMBSIGHT WHEN HE NOTED A PUFF OF WHITE SMOKE STARTING FROM THE AREA AT WHICH HE WAS AIMING.

HE LEARNED THAT DIVE BOMBER PILOT ENSIGN ALBERT ALDMAN (CORRECT) OF (1128 S 10TH) GADSDEN, ALA., HAD BEATEN HIM TO IT AND DROPPED A HEAVY BOMB SQUARELY ON WHAT HE THROUGH WAS A PILE OF LUMBER. IT WAS AN UNDERGROUND AMMUNITION DUMP.

WINTERS, THE FLIGHT LEADER, SAID THE BLAST SHOOK ALL OF MALAKAL ISLAND. HE ADDED "IT MUDDIED THE WATER FAR OUT INTO THE SEA ALL AROUND THAT END OF THE ISLAND. I COULD SEE DEBRIS RAINING DOWN FOR A COUPLE OF MINUTES."

OTHER AMERICAN AIRMEN ABOARD THIS CARRIER FLAGSHIP WHO HAD A FIELD DAY BLASTING SHIPS, POWER PLANTS AND OTHER ENEMY INSTALLATIONS ON DIFFERENT ISLANDS OF THE GROUP INCLUDED:

AUG 8 1944

CMDR.RICHARD MCGOWAN, ALEXANDRIA, VA., THE DIVE BOMBER SKIPPER; LT.JOHN H.MORRISON, LAUREL HILL, N.C.; LT.HENRY V. BONZAGNIL, (45 LEONARD RD) MELROSE, MASS.; ENSIGN ARTHUR LEE PRICE, (1573 RODGE AVE) EVANSTON, ILL.; LT.JOHN L.BUTTS, JR., (6100 NW 2ND COURT) MIAMI, FLA.; ENSIGN PAGE WODELL, SHORT HILLS, N.J.; LT.WILLIAM A.WRIGHT, DETROIT, MICH.; LT.CMDR.DAVID E.DRESSENDORDER, SPRINGFIELD, ILL., LTFREDERICK DOLL, JR., (1192 PARK AVE) NEW YORK CITY; LT.JOSEPH C.HERBERT, (2505 EDGEWOOD DR) BATON ROUGE, LA.; LT.FRANK PERRY, LINCOLNVILLE BEACH, ME.; LT.WILLIAM H. CRAVENS, RIVES, TENN.; ENSIGN ALVIN F.EMIG, (2114 PRICE RD) COLUMBUS, OHIO; LT.E.B.STELLA, (116 CARY RD) HURLEY, WIS.; AND LT. WILLIAM E.MCBRIDE, SPRINGFIELD, ILL., WHOSE WIFE RESIDES AT PONTIAC,, ILL.

VB744PCW NM

BY SPENCER DAVIS

AUG 8 1944

ABOARD A P-T BOAT OFF SORONG, DUTCH NEW GUINEA,AUG.3-(DELAYED) (AP)-YANKEE "DEVIL BOATS" -- A NAME THE JAPANESE HAVE CONFERRED ON BARGE-BAITING P-T'S -- MADE THEIR FIRST CALL ON THE ENEMY NAVAL BASE AT SORONG THIS MOONLIT EVENING.

FOR MORE THAN THREE HOURS THEY PROWLED OVER REPUTEDLY MINED WATERS. MAKING A SHARP INSPECTION OF DOOM ISLAND, THE HEART OF SORONG'S DEFENSES, AND TAKING A BRAZEN RUN ON JEFMAN ISLAND, WHERE THE NIPPONESE HAVE CONSTRUCTED A MAJOR AIR BASE.

THE ENEMY TREATED THE P-TS WITH SILENCE FOR THE MOST PART. BUT ONE IMPATIENT NIPPONESE GUNNER OPENED UP AS THE BOATS WERE WITHDRAWING.

BEFORE THE SHELLS EXPLODED HARMLESSLY BEYOND US, LT.COMDR.N. BURT DAVIS OF CORONADO,CALIF., WHO LED THE EXPEDITION, YELLED:

"LET 'EM HAVE IT."

THE DEVIL BOATS ROARED THEIR REPLY. A HAIL OF MACHINE GUN BULLETS AND SHELLS POURED DOWN UPON THE ENEMY GUN POSITION. IT FIRED NO MORE THAT NIGHT.

AUG 8 1944

LT.(J.G.) EDWARD LYONS, ROCHESTER,MINN., SKIPPER OF THIS LEADING BOAT, HELD HIS FIRE AND THROTTLED DOWN HIS THREE 1,700-HORSEPOWER ENGINES TO PROWLING SPEED OF NINE KNOTS AS WE ROUNDED THE CAPE.

ONLY 400 YARDS SEPARATES DOOM ISLAND FROM THE MAINLAND, AND THROUGH THIS NARROW CHANNEL ENEMY SHIPPING PASSES INTO AN INNER ANCHORAGE.

LYONS SKIPPED THE CHANNEL, SAW NO TARGETS AND RETIRED TO THE COMPARATIVE SAFETY OF DAMPIER STRAIT. NOT A SHOT WAS FIRED FROM SHIP OR SHORE.

"NOW FOR JEFMAN," ORDERED DAVIS. THE TRAILING BOAT COMMANDED BY LT.(J.G.) JOHN HEGGEN, DES MOINES,IOWA, PULLED INTO ECHELON POSITION AND THE RUN WAS ON.

"THE NIPS ARE THICK IN THERE," HE SAID.

AUG 8 1944

"IT'S A TYPICAL STUNT OF THEIRS TO HOLD FIRE AND LURE US IN."

ALL SORONG KNEW ITS DOOM WAS SEALED. THE DEVIL BOATS HAD PAID

THEIR FIRST, BUT NOT THEIR LAST, CALL.

FJ518ACW

WELLINGTON, N.Z., AUG. 7-(AP)-PRIME MINISTER PETER FRASER TOLD THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES TODAY HE STRONGLY ADVICATED THAT NEW ZEALAND, AUSTRALIA, CANADA AND THE UNITED STATES PARTICIPATE IN JOINT OWNERSHIP AND OPERATION OF TRANS-PACIFIC AIR SERVICE.

"WHILE WE DO NOT WANT TO ENTER NTO ANTAGONISMS WITH OUR FRIENDS," HE SAID, "I REPRESENTED IT (THE PROPOSAL) TO AUTHORITIES IN WASHINGTON.

AUG 8 1944

AFROE NEW ZEALNDTHE RIGHT TO ESTABLISH A BRITISH AIR ROUTE

"WE ARE ASKING THE RIGHT TO ESTABLISH A BRITISH AIR ROUTE FROM NEW ZEALAND TO CANADA, WITH LANDING RIGHTS IN HONOLULU, IN RETURN FOR LANDING RIGHTS FOR AN AMERICAN SERVICE TO OPERATE TO NEW ZEALAND."

THE PRIME MINISTER, REPORTING ON HIS RECENT MISSION OVERSEAS TO ATTEND THE BRITISH EMPIRE CONFERENCE, ADDED:

"I BELIEVE THAT RECIPROCAL RIGHTS TO BE ESTABLISHED WITH A UNITED STATES AIR LINE ACROSS THE PACIFIC TO PANAMA IS ONE PLAN WHICH CAN BENCONSIDERED, BUT IT IS NOT OF SUCH IMMEDIATE IM-PORTANCE OR URGENCY AS A ROUTE VIA CANADA AND THENCE TO THE UNITED KINGDOM."

MH729PPW NM

HEADQUARTERS U.S. 7TH AAF SERVICE COMMAND,AUG.8-(AP)-THE HAWAIIAN AIR DEPOT, WIDELY KNOWN PACIFIC MILITARY INSTALLATION, WAS OFFICIALLY PLACED UNDER THE 7TH AAF SERVICE COMMAND TODAY AND IT'S NAME CHANGED TO AAF SERVICE COMMAND DEPOT.

BRIG.GEN.WALTER J.REED, COMMANDER OF THE 7TH, EXPLAINED THE CHANGE WILL COORDINATE ACTIVITIES OF THE AIR DEPOT WITH THE EXPANSION PROGRAM OF THE SERVICE COMMAND DEVELOPED BY THE GENERAL TO MAINTAIN PACE WITH REQUIREMENTS OF TACTICAL AIR FORCE UNITS THAT ARE HITTING JAPANESE BASES EVER CLOSER TO TOKYO.

THE DEPOT, CONVERTER, MODIFIER, MANUFACTURER AND DESIGNER OF COMBAT AIRCRAFT AND EQUIPMENT WILL, IN THE WORDS OF THE GENERAL, "BECOME MORE IMPORTANT TO WINNING THE WAR IN THE PACIFIC" UNDER ITS NEW COMMAND.

ADD BUENOS AIRES 8A LATER

ACCORDING TO ONE VERSION HERE, HOCHSCHILD AND BLUM WALKED TO THE SIDE OF THE CONSULATE WHERE THEY WERE SEIZED BY SEVEN MEN WHO HUSTLED THEM OFF IN A WAITING AUTOMOBILE.

PRESIDENT VILLARROEL TOLD THE BOLIVIAN CONGRESS THAT THE "KIDNAPP-ING" OF HOCHSCHILD WAS PART OF A PLAN TO CREATE DIFFICULTIES FOR THE NEW GOVERNMENT.

A REPORT FROM LA PAZ LAST WEEK SAID HOCHSCHILD WAS IN THE UNITED STATES DISCUSSING TRANSFER OF HIS TIN PROPERTIES. FRIENDS AND BUSI-NESS ASSOCIATES DENIED THE REPORT, HOWEVER, AND SAID THEY HAD NOT HEARD FROM THE MISSING MINE MAGNATE.

AUG 8 1944

MJ1139AEW

SAN JOSE, COSTA RICA, AUG 7-(AP)-WARREN H.ATHERTON, NATIONAL COMMANDER OF THE AMERICAN LEGION, ARRIVED TODAY TO BEGIN A GOOD WILL TOUR OF CENTRAL AMERICA.

SN553PEW

OTTAWA,AUG.7-(AP)-PRIME MINISTER MACKENZIE KING, INDICATING HIS BELIEF THAT THE WAR IN EUROPE MAY END BEFORE NEXT JUNE, SAID TONIGHT AT A BANQUET MARKING HIS 25TH ANNIVERSARY AS LEADER OF THE LIBERAL PARTY THAT HE INTENDS TO KEEP HIS UNDERTAKINGS THAT THERE WILL BE NO ELECTION WHILE THE WAR LASTS AND THAT HE WILL NOT EXTEND THE LIFE OF PARLIAMENT.

IF PARLIAMENT RAN ITS FULL COURSE, INTO APRIL, AN ELECTION NORMALLY WOULD BE HELD 60 DAYS LATER, OR SOMETIME IN JUNE.

THE PRIME MINISTER RECEIVED GREETINGS FROM PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL, PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, U.S.SECRETARY OF STATE CORDELL HULL AND MANY OTHERS.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, EXTENDING "AFFECTIONATE GREETINGS," SAID HE COUNTED IT A PRIVILEGE "TO BE ONE OF YOUR MANY FRIENDS IN ALL WALKS OF LIFE AT HOME AND ABROAD WHO ARE JOINING TO DO YOU HONOR TODAY."

EV136AEW

ottawa,aug.7 (ap)--two americans serving with the royal canadian air force--

AUG 8 1944

one of whom has been killed--have been awarded distinguished flying crosses the air ministry announced tonight.

flt.lt. p.g.johnson of 11 beech st.,bethel,conn.,who is reported tilled in action over the french battlefront,was credited with destroying ive enemy aircraft,three of them in one day, over the battlefront.

flt.lt. l.a.moore of 1328 hale st.,philadelphia,knocked down two enemy planes early in july when he particpated in a battle against eight german planes his citation said.

AUG 8 1944

OATTAWA, AUG. 7-(AP)-REVENUE MINISTER C.W.L. GIBSON SAID TODAY IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS THAT HIS DEPARTMENT WAS PREPARED TO EXPLORE ANY MEANS OF GIVING RELIEF TO RESIDENTS OF WINDSOR, ONT., WHO WORK IN DETROIT AND WHO HAVE TO PAY INCOME TAX IN CANADA ON THEIR GROSS INCOME

30-24— 17833

PLUS 10 PER CENT REPRESENTING THE PREMIUM ON UNITED STATES CURRENCY.

HE WAS REPLYING TO PAUL MARTIN, PARLIAMENTARY ASSISTANT TO LABOR MINISTER MITCHELL, AND GORDON GRAYDON, PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE HOUSE LEADER.

AUG 8 1944

MARTIN SAID 2,500 TO 3,000 RESIDENTS OF WINDSOR EARNED THEIR LIVING IN DETROIT. MOST OF THEIR SALARIES RANGE BETWEEN $2,000 AND $3,000 ANNUALLY.

A MAN EARNING $3,000 IN UNITED STATES CURRENCY HAS TO PAY HIS CANADIAN INCOME TAX ON THE BASIS OF $3,300, HE SAID.

NO DEDUCTIONS ARE ALLOWED FOR LIVING EXPENSES, AND NO CONSIDERATION IS GIVEN THE FACT THAT MUCH OF THE MONEY IS SPENT IN THE UNITED STATES WHERE THE WORKER CANNOT COLLECT ANY PREMIUM ON AMERICAN CURRENCY.

THE WORKERS ASK THAT THEY BE GIVEN A TAX-FREE ALLOWANCE FOR EXPENSES AND THAT THEY PAY INCOME TAX ON NET INCOME PLUS 10 PER CENT AND NOT ON GROSS EARNINGS PLUS 10 PER CENT. AUG 8 1944

COL. GIBSON SAID THE WAR INCOME TAX ACT WOULD HAVE TO BE AMENDED TO ALLOW THE WINDSOR RESIDENTS TO DEDUCT EXPENSES FOR INCOME TAX PURPOSES. SUCH AN AMENDMENT WOULD SET A PRECEDENT, AS NO SALARIED WORKER WAS ALLOWED TO DEDUCT LIVING EXPENSES. THE RESIDENTS OF WINDSOR ARE NO MORE ENTITLED TO SUCH A DEDUCTION THAN WORKERS IN OTHER PARTS OF CANADA, HE SAID.

EDMONTON, AUG 7-(AP)-VOTERS THROUGHOUT ALBERTA'S 250,000 SQUARE
LES WILL DECIDE TOMORROW BY THEIR BALLOTS WHETHER THE 9-YEAR-OLD )CIAL CREDIT GOVERNMENT SHALL REMAIN IN OFFICE FOR A THIRD TERM
: GIVE WAY TO ANOTHER.
TONIGHT 184 CANDIDATES SEEKING ELECTION TO THE 57 LEGISLATURE
EATS COMPLETED THEIR CAMPAIGNS.
MAJOR OPPONENTS ARE THE SOCIAL CREDIT AND THE COOPERATIVE COMMON-EALTH FEDERATION PARTIES, EACH WITH 57 CANDIDATES IN THE CONTEST.
HE INDEPENDENT PARTY, WHICH HAD THE SECOND LARGEST GROUP OF MEMBERS
N THE LAST LEGISLATURE, HAS 36 CANDIDATES AND THE LABOR-PROGRESSIVES
).

AT DISSOLUTION OF THE LEGISLATURE JULY 7 PARTY STRENGTH WAS:
OCIAL CREDIT 35; INDEPENDENT 15; LIBERAL THREE; LABOR ONE;
.C.F. ONE; INDEPENDENT-SOCIAL CREDIT ONE; AND VACANT ONE.
THE VACANCY WAS IN THE CALGARY SEAT FORMERLY OCCUPIED BY 'REMIER WILLIAM ABERHART, FIRST SOCIAL CREDIT LEADER IN ALBERTA
HO LED HIS PARTY TO VICTORY AT THE POLLS IN 1935, OUSTING UNITED
'ARMERS OF ALBERTA GOVERNMENT, AND IN 1940.
ABERHART DIED LAST YEAR AND WAS SUCCEEDED AS PREMIER BY E.C.
MANNING, HIS LIEUTENANT IN THE EARLY '30'S.
SK1118PEW

AUG 8 1944

NEW YORK, AUG 7-(AP)-RADIO FRANCE AT ALGIERS, IN A BROADCAST HEARD HERE BY U.S. GOVERNMENT MONITORS, SAID TODAY THAT A FRENCH PARACHUTIST REGIMENT HAD LANDED IN BRITTANY DURING JUNE WHILE THE ALLIES WERE FIGHTING IN NORMANDY, AND HAD RALLIED MORE THAN 10,000 FRENCHMEN BEHIND THE GERMAN LINES IN WHAT LATER WAS SHOWN TO BE A "PRIMARY FACTOR IN THE LIBERATION OF BRITTANY."
SN829PEW

NEW YORK, AUG 7-(AP)-THE BERLIN RADIO SAID TONIGHT THAT FOR THE FIRST TIME A PRINTED REFERENCE HAD BEEN MADE IN GERMANY TO THE "NATIONA COMMITTEE OF FREE GERMANY" HEADED BY GEN.WALTER VON SEYDLITZ IN MOSCOW.
IT SAID THE REFERENCE WAS IN THE GERMAN SOLDIERS' NEWSPAPER "FRONT UND HEIMAT," WHICH "IS CLOSE TO DOCTOR (JOSEPH) GOEBBELS."
THE BERLIN BROADCAST QUOTED THE PAPER AS SAYING THE SOVIETS HAD MADE USE "OF SOME TRAITORS TO MIX THEM IN ONE POT WITH COMMUNISTS WHO HAVE EMIGRATED FROM GERMANY TO FORM A SO-CALLED NATIONAL COMMITTEE.
THE RADIO SAID THE PAPER RELATED THAT THE NAMES OF MOST GERMAN SOLDIERS AND OFFICERS USED BY THE COMMITTEE WERE FORGED.
SK1042PEW

NEW YORK, AUG.7-(AP)-HUNDREDS OF RAF HEAVY BOMBERS BLASTED GERMAN POSITIONS SOUTH OF CAEN FOR 43 MINUTES TONIGHT, DAVID ANDERSON, NBC REPORTER, SAID IN A BROADCAST FROM NORMANDY.
"FROM A HIGH VANTAGE POINT I WATCHED THE FIRST HEAVIES TAKE OFF AT FOUR MINUTES TO 11," ANDERSON BROADCAST. "AT ONE MINUTE PAST 11 THE FIRST EXPLOSION OCCURRED. IT MUST HAVE BEEN AN AMMUNITION DUMP, FOR THE ENTIRE SKY WAS LIT UP. THE BOMBERS, HUNDREDS STRONG, PASSED OVER IN SUCCESSIVE WAVES AND FIRES FLASHED UP AS EACH PLANE MADE THE TARGET RUN."
HW641PEW

AUG 8 1944

NEW YORK,AUG.7-(AP)-THE TOKYO RADIO SAID TODAY THAT PREMIER GENERAL KUNIAKI KOISO DECLARED IN A DOMESTIC RADIO ADDRESS THAT THE PEOPLE OF JAPAN "HAVE BUT ONE COURSE TO FOLLOW--THAT OF MARCHING FORWARD TO VICTORY BY OVERCOMING ALL DIFFICULTIES."
IN A BROADCAST RECORDED BY THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION, THE OFFICIAL NEWS AGE[illegible] PREMIER HAD USED "ROBUST MILITARY LANGUAGE" TO INFORM THE JAPANESE PEOPLE THAT ALL MEASURES DRAWN UP BY HIS GOVERNMENT "HAVE BEEN BASED ON THIS ONE VITAL POINT."
KOISO'S SPEECH MARKED THE EIGHTH OBSERVANCE OF IMPERIAL RESCRIPT DAY, THE MONTHLY ANNIVERSARY OF JAPAN'S SNEAK ATTACK ON PEARL HARBOR AND THE EDICT FROM THE THRONE DECLARING WAR ON THE UNITED STATES.
EV1259AEW

1944

BY RAY CRONIN
MEMBER OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS FOREIGN STAFF FORMERLY ASSIGNED TO THE PHILIPPINES.

SAN FRANCISCO, AUG.7-(AP)INDICATIONS THAT THE JAPANESE ARMY IN THE PHILIPPINES IS CARRYING OUT A YEAR OLD PLAN TO CONCENTRATE MOST AMERICAN AND OTHER CIVILIAN PRISONERS IN TWO INTERNMENT CAMPS REACHED THE UNITED STATES RECENTLY FROM MANILA.

A JAPANESE-APPROVED CABLEGRAM, RECEIVED BY A RELATIVE FROM AN AMERICAN BOY FORMERLY INTERNED AT DAVAO, SOUTHERN MINDANAO ISLAND, SAID HE IS IN THE LOS BANOS CAMP, 35 MILES SOUTHEAST OF MANILA

ANOTHER MESSAGE INDICATED THE PRESENCE IN THE MANILA SANTO TOMAS CAMP OF A FORMER DAVAO INTERNEE.

ABOUT A YEAR AGO, PRIOR TO MY REPATRIATION FROM THE PHILI- AUG 8 1944 PPINES WHERE I SPENT 21 MONTHS IN THE SANTO TOMAS CAMP, THE JAPANESE WERE DISCUSSING A PLAN TO CONCENTRATE CIVILIAN PRISONERS IN THE MANILA AND LOS BANOS CAMPS. EARLIER THE OCCUPANTS OF CAMPS AT CEBU, ILOILO, BACOLOD CITY AND NAGA HAD BEEN BROUGHT TO SANTO TOMAS FROM THE SOUTHERN ISLANDS IN THE HOLDS OF FILTHY SHIPS.

A.KODAKI, JAPANESE CAREER DIPLOMAT AND CHIEF OF ALL CIVILIAN CAMPS IN THE PHILIPPINES, NEVER GAVE A SATISFACTORY REPLY TO MY QUESTION AS TO WHY THE INTERNEES WERE TO BE CONCENTRATED IN ONE OR TWO CAMPS. OBVIOUSLY THE MILITARY POLICE HAD ORDERED THE CONCENTRATION. ONE REASON PROBABLY WAS TO RELEASE SOLDIER GUARDS FOR OTHER DUTIES.

FOUR CIVILIAN CAMPS WERE FUNCTIONING IN THE PHILIPPINES LAST FALL--SANTO TOMAS WITH A POPULATION OF 4,000; LOS BANOS, 800; HOLMES, IN THE BONTOC MOUNTAINS NEAR BAGUIO, ABOUT 500; AND DAVAO, ABOUT 300.

THE SANTO THOMAS FIGURE WAS BOOSTED RECENTLY BY APPROXIMATELY 500 WHEN THE JAPANESE RADIO REPORTED INTERNMENT OF ALL UNITED NATIONS MISSIONARIES AND RELIGIOUS WORKERS.

NOTHING HAS REACHED AMERICA, SO FAR AS I KNOW, TO INDICATE TRANSFER OF THE HOLMES CAMP INTERNEES.

IF THE 500 RELIGIOUS WORKERS AND THE 300 DAVAO PRISONERS HAVE BEEN ADDED TO THE SANTO TOMAS AND LOS BANOS POPULATIONS THOSE CAMPS MUST BE CROWDED FAR BEYOND CAPACITY.

SANTO TOMAS WAS JAMMED WHEN THE INTERNEE POPULATION REACHED 4,000. LIVING SPACE IN THE SEPARATE DORMITORIES FOR MEN AND WOMEN AND CHILDREN WAS LIMITED TO SIX FEET FOUR INCHES BY 32 INCHES PER PERSON--SUFFICIENT ROOM FOR A COT. SOME MEN WERE LIVING IN PALM LEAF SHACKS THEY CONSTRUCTED THEMSELVES. LOS BANOS COULD ACCOMMODATE FEW NEWCOMERS.

OTHER MESSAGES FROM MANILA IN RECENT WEEKS SAID PERSONAL PACKAGES SENT TO SOME INTERNEES BY RELATIVES IN THE UNITED STATES, WERE DELIVERED TO CIVILIAN PRISONERS. DURING THE FIRST 21 MONTHS OF INTERNMENT NOT A SINGLE PACKAGE REACHED SANTO TOMAS FROM AMERICA.

QD128APW AUG 8 1944

WASHINGTON,AUG 7-(AP)-NOW THAT AMERICAN FORCES ARE MAKING LONG STRIDES IN THE PACIFIC THEATER OF WAR, SENATOR CHAVEZ (D-NM) TODAY EXPRESSED HOPE THAT DIRECT AID MAY SOON REACH NEW MEXICO BOYS

HELD BY THE JAPS WOULD BE TO SEND MORE TROOPS STRAIGHT INTO THE PHILIPPINES AND RECAPTURE THE

THE STATE DEPARTMENT, NEGOTIATING WITH RUSSI AN EFFORT TO SEND SUPPLIES TO AMERICANS HELD BY NO ANNOUNCEMENT OF ANY RECENT PROGRESS, CHAVEZ

AUG 8 1944

WASHINGTON,AUG.7-(AP)-FOLLOWING IS THE TEXT
SECRETARY OF STATE STETTINIUS' STATEMENT ON BR

(ABOUT 250)

"THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT HAS NOT RAISED WI
LEND-LEASE. FOR THE TIME BEING, BOTH GOVERNME OCCUPIED WITH THE WAR CAMPAIGNS IN EUROPE AND

"THE PRESS KNOWS FROM WHAT SECRETARY HULL HA
QUESTIONS WHICH HAVE BEEN TAKEN UP FOR ACTIVE
THE MO. VITAL OF THESE ARE THE SECURITY TALKS
MONETARY TALKS HAVE PASSED THEIR FIRST STAGE.
QUESTION. ARE PROGRESSING WELL.

"SO FAR AS LEND-LEASE IS CONCERNED, THAT IS DA
AN ADMINISTRATIVE TASK WHICH IS NECESSARILY CO PHASES.

AUG

"NO ONE CAN POSSIBLY FORESEE WHAT CHANGES IN THE
THE FORTUNES OF WAR IN EUROPE MAY BRING ABOUT, OR HOW SO CHANGES MAY REFLECT THEMSELVES IN LEND-LEASE OPERATIONS.

"SINCE STEPS NECESSARY TO MAINTAIN THE FLOW OF SUPPLIES PROSECUTION OF THE WAR REQUIRE PLANS WHICH ARE PROJECTED INTO

30. 24 - 17835

VARIOUS PHASES OF THE WAR.

AUG 8 1944

"OUR POLICY HAS BEEN AND CONTINUES TO BE CONDUCT LEND-LEASE OPERATIONS TO BRING ABOUT THE GREATEST MOBILIZATION OF OUR JOINT RESOURCES.

"THE LEND-LEASE ACT AS AMENDED PROVIDES THAT THE POWERS GRANTED TO TRANSFER MATERIALS SHALL END JUNE 30, 1945, OR PRIOR TO THAT TIME IF THE TWO HOUSES OF CONGRESS PASS A CONCURRENT RESOLUTION SUBJECT TO CONTRACTS WHICH MAY BE MADE TO EFFECT AN ORDERLY LIQUIDATION."

VH222PEW

THE ROAD TO BERLIN
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
1--RUSSIAN FRONT: 322 MILES (MEASURED FROM EASTERN WARSAW).
2--ITALIAN FRONT: 603 MILES (MEASURED FROM FLORENCE).
3--FRENCH FRONT: 630 MILES (MEASURED FROM TROARN).

M312AEW

FOUR YEARS AGO TODAY

AUG 8 1944

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
AUG.7, 1940--LONE BRITISH PLANE BOMBS LE BOURGET FIELD IN PAR' SUBURB; BRITISH GOVERNMENT SIGNS AGREEMENT WITH GEN. CHARLES DE GAULLE UNDER WHICH HIS VOLUNTEER FRENCH FORCES PLEDGE THEMSELVES FIGHT TO END AGAINST GERMANY; ITALIAN PLANES AGAIN RAID HAIFA, PALESTINE.

M313AEW

BLANK

Canadians Open Drive in France, Smash Through German Defenses; Yanks in Outskirts of Le Mans

30-24—17837

ALLIES SHATTER ENEMY LINES IN DRIVE FOR PARIS

Canadian Tanks, Infantry Pour Through Break in Enemy Defenses.

GATHEMO OVERRUN

AUG 9 1944

Americans Break into Port of St. Milo on Coast of Brittany.

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Wednesday, Aug. 9—(AP) The Canadians in their first great offensive in France smashed five miles yesterday into some of the strongest enemy lines before Paris, whose defenses 110 miles to the southwest were imperiled by onrushing Americans pounding at the gateway of Le Mans.

More than 1,000 U. S. heavy bombers — defying flak as intense as bristling strong points below Caen on the shortest route to Paris. Canadian tanks and infantry poured through the breaches and fought down the road to about 110 miles from the capital.

Allies Attack Cintheaux

One by one enemy strongholds which had blocked the Paris highway since D-day were rolled up, and last night the Canadians were reported engaging the enemy at Cintheaux, 8 1-2 miles south of Caen.

The advance was not without its cost, for flak shot down one of the lead bombers, and its formation loosed some of its cargo on Allied positions, causing casualties reminiscent of those on the American front in the breakout bombing west of St. Lo.

Canadian tanks and infantry raced through the dust pall across the rolling wheat lands and pastures, seized the hamlet of Gaumesnil, and faced east to engage 20 Tiger tanks forming for a counterthrust.

Ten miles beyond the point of farthest advance reported yesterday, Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's doughboys were closing in on Le Mans by German broadcasts in 5944 and one dispatch said vanguards had reached the big railroad and highway center.

These developments fell on the 26th anniversary of Germany's blackest hour in the First World War, when the Kaiser's high command decided that further resistance was hopeless.

But today, despite the crumbling defenses of Normandy and Brittany, the enemy fought fiercely—below Vire, before the British across the Orne southwest of Caen, and in the doomed north Brittany port of St. Malo.

In the Vire pocket, the lines swayed around Cherence-Le Roussel, where four enemy tank divisions which tried to break through the Avranches corridor were being ground to pieces between American armor striking from north, south and west.

Overrun Gathemo

In an advance of ten miles southwest of Vire, the Americans overran Gathemo threatening to pinch off the enemy forces still fighting back with ever-feebler counterattacks around Cherence-Le Roussel.

On the north Brittany coast, American force broke into the besieged port of St. Malo at three points, a front dispatch said, and fierce fighting raged in the ruined streets.

(A dispatch by the German News agency, Transocean, said Allied glider-borne troops had been landed along the Loire estuary in what appeared to be a show-down fight for the Nazi U-Boat base of St. Na-

After the American heavy bombers had finished the work begun by 1,000 British bombers last night, the Canadian forces broke through St. Aignan-de Cramesnil, seven miles south of Caen and southwest of the Vimont road block of anti-tank artillery.

'The hinge is loosening," said a senior Canadian staff officer.

A breakthrough there would leave Field Marshal Gen. Guenther Von Kluge without a real defense line short of the Seine, and would brighten the prospect of an early liberation of Paris.

(The German radio continued talk of an immin[illegible] landing on the Mediterranean coast of France, asserting some American Fifth army troops had been relieved in Italy and there was a great conentration of transport and landing craft on Italy's west coast.)

As the American bag of prisoners reached 86,556, 1,000 more since Monday, the Allied command again fell silent on Doughboy movements toward Le Mans and along the north bank of the Loire.

The Germans admitted the Americans were in the department of Sarthe, of which Le Mans is the capital, at two places—showing the main forces had covered at least half the distance from the Mayenne river to the city.

Race Toward Loire River

Other American forces at the bottom of the 130-mile front were reported racing on south toward the Loire river to meet ten enemy divisions of southern France, which Spanish dispatches said were rushing north by bicycle and horse-drawn vehicle, abandoning the Mediterranean flank except for weak garrisons.

Four enemy divisions were under assault around Mortain, where yesterday they made an abortive attempt to severe the Normandy-Brittany corridor. The hulks of 163 enemy tanks littered a battlefield narrowed by American capture of Gathemo, seven miles north of Mortain.

The Second British army strengthened its new bridgehead across the Orne below the Canadian fighting zone after beating off four counter-attacks in 24 hours.

Sensitive to this threat, German tanks and infantry attacked throughout the morning along the northern fringe of Grimbosq woods above Thury-Harcourt, 14 miles southwest of Caen.

In the Breton peninsula American armor was reducing the defenses of all five main ports. A concentrated attack was opened on the submarine base of Lorient, whose garrison was reported ready to surrender.

St. Malo Cut Off

St. Malo was completedly cut off, with the die-hard holding force still resisting. (The Germans said the Americans had broken into St. Malo at one point.)

Late reports still were lacking from Brest and St. Nazaire, where Americans were reported fighting in the outskirts, and from the Loire river port of Nantes. Guingamp, some 60 miles east of Brest, was captured.

Lt. Gen. H. D. G. Crerar sent his first Canadian army into action with an eye on history. Aug. 8, 1918, when the German high command decided the war was lost; Crerar was before Amiens as a senior artillery officer.

He celebrated with two innovations in his first attack south of Caen last night—the use of 1,000 heavy British bombers in a night bombardment, and a big-scale tank attack under cover of darkness. Practically everything about the operation was as new and untried as the army itself.

Tracer shells guided the attackers to their targets and one by one these strongholds fell: May, St. Martin-De Fontenay, Roquancourt, La Hogue, Tilly-La Campagne, Garcelles and St. Aignan.

One thousand American four-engine bombers came over by daylight, added to the 6,700 tons of explosives dropped by their British big brothers and kept the Germans rocked back on their heels.

The first major Canadian attack in France was aimed toward Falaise, 20 miles souht of Caen, and it appeared to have carried one-third of the distance or more.

Canadians were charging across bald, undulating country where the dug-in Germans had defied frontal assault because of the broad sweep of their artillery and machineguns.

Bradley's troops seemed to be pushing through the Mayenne hills without encountering the buffer resistance which would indicate a German stand along the Sarthe river, which runs north and south through Alecon and Le Mans.

There was little except speculation concerning the situation along the Loire, where the whole German defense of southern France hangs in the balance.

Americans were within 15 to 30 miles of the river for 50 miles from Nantes to Angers, and had been there for at least two days under a complete hush on their movements.

Nazis Counterattack

In an attempt to hold their salient aimed at Avranches, the Germans threw in local counterattacks east of Vire, to relieve the pressure from the north, but these gained only a mile at most. Mortain changed hand four times, and it was still held by the Germans today.

The enemy tanks which were lost here could have been used south of Caen, and the Canadian attack showed the close correlation of the Allied fronts—attack wherever the enemy weakens one sector to bolster another.

Associated Press front dispatches pictured the Germans as hanging on the ropes, scraping divisions together to meet mounting dangers, and probably incapable of summoning strength to ward off another big blow in Fran[illegible]

Lt. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton of the Ninth air force declared the Germans were being slowly strangled because they are unable to bring up enough supplies over their bomb-ravaged communication lines.

ALLIES ADVANCE TOWARD PARIS ON WIDE FRONT

U. S. Patrols Enter Le Mans —Troops About 100 Miles From Capital.

YANKS TIGHTEN ON KEY PORTS

Nazi Counter-blow at Mortain Is Smashed, but Battle Still Rages There.

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 8 (A. P.).—A Canadian Army power drive ripped five miles through the formidable German hinge line below Caen today, and the Americans, wheeling eastward at the other end of a gigantic pincers, fought toward or even into Le Mans, 110 miles southwest of Paris.

Toward the center of the front, one American column battered its way forward from Mortain—lost and then retaken during a powerful German tank counter-attack —and entered Barenton, six miles further on to the southeast.

The Allies were reported within little more than 100 miles of Paris, but the exact sector was not disclosed.

Advance elements of the Americans heading toward the French capital were reported already in Le Mans.

Canadians Rip Ahead.

Paced by 1,600 bombers, the Canadian offensive started at midnight and late today they had deepened their gains to five miles, with tanks slugging ahead of infantrymen digging in to hold new gains. A senior Canadian staff officer declared the hinge of the whole German line in eastern Normandy was "loosening, although it has not by any means been yanked from the door as yet."

Striking from the north, the first Canadian Army is driving deep into German hedgehog positions east of the Orne River, while the Second British Army is strengthening its new bridgehead across the Orne in the Thury Harcourt sector, and the Americans are pressing forward in their spectacular sweep from the west.

On this British front four German counterattacks have been beaten off in twenty-four hours in the vicinity of the Grimbosq Woods. Extremely sensitive to the British outflanking threat, the Germans threw tanks and infantry into an all-morning attack on the north fringe of the woods. Savage close-quarters fighting was in progress there this afternoon. Despite the ferocity of the German resistance, however, one British officer said that the German High Command was "worried as hell."

Rush Against U. S. Wing.

The Germans were reported rushing in forces from Southern France against the American southern wing.

On the Breton Peninsula, U. S. troops battled against stubborn resistance for the northern port of St. Malo, fought on the outskirts of Brest, and threw a concentrated attack against Lorient.

[Berlin radio acknowledged Americans had broken into St. Malo at one point.]

The Germans rushed in reinforcements against the rising Allied threat to Paris. It was the 26th anniversary of their "Blackest Day" of World War I when the German High Command decided the war was lost. This time the big counterattack in the center of the Allied line has been halted and thrown back, with Allied planes alone knocking out 163 enemy tanks. Gathemo, between Mortain and Vire, is among towns taken by the Allies.

Battles still swirled in this middle sector where four German armored divisions — mounting the fiercest counter-assault since D day—sought to crash through Allied corridor joining Nor mandy and Brittany. The town of Mortain, swept up in the assault, was recaptured by doughboys.

Patrols Enter Le Mans.

A front line dispatch said advanced units of the United States offensive to the south—hitting eastward from Mayenne and Laval—had entered Le Mans, communications network forming a key to Paris.

The Canadian First Army on the Allied left flang burst forward at midnight after a bomb-

barrage by 1,000 R. A. F. heavy bombers, and broke the first main enemy defense line south of Caen, advancing up to four miles.

Novel tactics marked the assault. The bombers flew in close ground support for the first time in darkness, and Canadian artillery tracer shells spotted the targets for them just ahead of the Allied line. The Allied planes hurled down 6,700 tons of explosives and then Canadian armor rolled forward in the fire-licked blackness—the first major night attack by tanks in France. Infantrymen followed, digging out the Germans.

AUG 9 1944

Canadians Aim at Falaise.

The Canadian push was pointed in the direction of the road hub city of Falaise, twenty miles southeast of Caen.

The American sector comprising the southern end of the Allied line is approaching the Loire River, and from Spain came reports that German troops in southern France were pouring northward, some on bicycle and some in horse-drawn vehicles, weakening the Mediterranean flank in the face of the American threat.

Advices from the Spanish frontier said the Germans were virtually abandoning their fortifications on more than a 100-mile stretch from the Spanish frontier north to Bordeaux, since these positions had been outflanked by the United States push eastward from Brittany.

The Canadian Army offensive, meanwhile, captured the town of Tilly-la-Campagne, five miles south of Caen. It had been bypassed by armored spearheads striking to the south.

Casualties Light so Far.

A Canadian staff officer said Allied casualties so far had not been large.

"This is a full-scale operation by the First Canadian Army and things are going well so far, but we do not want to be over-optimistic," he said. "If we do managed to break this hinge here the whole German position will be precarious."

The Canadian First Army, which also includes some British units, swept through the blasted strong-points of May-sur-Orne and St. Martin-de-Fontenay east of the Orne River which the Germans have defended fanatically for weeks.

Peninsula Cleanup Continues.

The American cleanup of the Breton Peninsula continued. Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's tank-infantry teams were within 5 miles of the big southern naval and submarine base of Lorient. There was no further information about a reported offer of the German garrison there to surrender.

Other American forces were fighting within 4 miles of the second French port of Brest and its mile of deep-water quays. At the week end, American troops had been inside the city of 70,000.

The northern St. Malo Cape was cut. Remnants of the German garrison were making a final fight behind medieval fortifications and modern minefields.

Smoke from large fires rose from St. Malo and Lorient, indicating the Germans were destroying supplies and preparing to pull out. Guingamp and St. Brieuc, between St. Malo and Brest, were added to the long list of liberated Brittany towns.

Anniversary of "Blackest Day."

The menacing giant pincer thrusts toward Paris, the keystone of the Nazis' shaky western conquests, was being carried out on the twenty-sixth anniversary of the Germans' "blackest day" of the World War.

In further grim underscoring of this anniversary came mounting reports of dissension in the German ranks and new threats from the uprising French.

The German counterattack in the Mortain area, made by four tank divisions, was smashed. The strategic picture there had shifted until now the results of counterblow were considered less of a menace to the Allies than to the Germans who finally had decided to throw their armor into a decisive encounter.

The objective of the German blow was to split the Allied armies by cutting the Normandy-Brittany coastal corridor.

(The German high command's broadcast communique said the German counterblow was making good progress. It reported violent fighting against the renewed Allied attack south and southeast of Caen.

(A German midday broadcast declared the Germans still held Angers and Nantes, on the Loire River, but possibly significantly omitted mention of Le Mans. The Nazi high command said "the enemy increased pressure in the area east of Laval.")

40 Miles Farther Ahead.

The American advance elements at Le Mans were 40 miles farther into interior France than the area where the Germans launched their counterattack.

Associated Press Correspondent Wes Gallagher reported that the Germans were a "shattered, disillusioned, defeated" force, and one incident after another illustrated this underscoring of the schism between the purged old-line army and Hitler's special-police SS troops.

A captured German army captain is reported to have walked up and spat in the face of a high-ranking SS officer. Captured army soldiers, usually solicitous about their own wounded, pointedly were ignoring SS injured. There were reports of increasing numbers of Germans wounding themselves to escape the fighting.

AUG 9 1944

Churchill at Front Again; Gets Data From Generals

By The Associated Press.

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 8—Prime Minister Churchill visited the Normandy battlefront again today, Supreme Headquarters disclosed today.

During his visit the Prime Minister received first-hand information on the recent Allied advances from Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery and Lieut. Gen. Omar Bradley.

Before leaving for Normandy, Mr. Churchill conferred with King George.

set out on its heels, following it two or three miles in the darkness to where the Germans were hiding in the woods until daylight.

They then hurried to the American lines with the result that at dawn yesterday the Germans found themselves suddenly deluged in a barrage of shells and bombs before they could launch their own "surprise."

In the battle that followed the Doughboys' names were lost and a hunt is going on for them so they can be named in citations.

German armor, badly smashed by bombs and artillery yesterday, suffered again today as the armored division sought the cover of wooded areas in the Sourdeval pocket.

In Brittany, the siege of the key ports of Brest, St. Malo and Lorient continued with unabated fury while infantry fanning out took a firmer grip on vast territory in the peninsula which armor passed over.

In the central sector, although the Germans still are in Mortain, the Americans on the hills around the town were strong enough to strike out six miles and enter Barenton.

AUG 9 1944

Happy Warriors Succumb To Cider

By WES GALLAGHER

With the United States Army in France, Aug. 8 (AP)—Among battle sidelights:

Normandy cider rather than Allied weapons caused the downfall of one group of Nazis.

Four German soldiers found in a cider house with cups contained and rifles stacked outside were captured by a squad led by Sergt. Thomas Mashburn, of Abilene, Texas.

Ten other reeling Germans who already had quaffed the brew were picked up in the same vicinity.

S. C., put a steel plate from a German armored car over his foxsole his friends laughed at him for going to this extra trouble.

Right after Private Gwin fell asleep in his snug shelter an 88-millimeter shell landed squarely on the plate with a bang like a gigantic cowbell. The shell cracked the plate in three places, ruined three rifles and a pack lying by the foxhole, and showered the surrounding area with steel splinters.

Private Gwin crawled out dazed but unhurt. He is looking for another steel plate and so are his friends. There is a demand for them.

AUG 9 1944

Reporter Wounded in France

WITH THE AMERICAN 1ST ARMY IN FRANCE, Aug. 8 (AP).—Holbrook Bradley, "Baltimore Sun" war correspondent, was slightly wounded today by a mortar shell at Vire. A fragment pierced the fleshy part of his leg and he will be hospitalized for two or three days.

Red Sees Road to Paris Open

MOSCOW, Aug. 8 (AP).—Colonel Victor Derman said in a "Red Star" article today that Allied invasion forces in France not only are numerically superior to the Germans but now have space enough for the development of "big operations and further advances." "There are no serious obstacles at all" on the road to Paris, he wrote, and landings in Brittany are possibly in the offing.

western France, leaving only a few Gestapo agents and gendarmes to over the French-Spanish frontier.

German police at the Hendaye bridge maintained that the evacuation was a "purely temporary withdrawal" necessitated by the reassignment of border region forces following the shift of certain SS (Elite Guards) units of the frontier garrison to join the Loire River.

AUG 9 1944

French living on the Spanish side of the frontier said, however, they are convinced the Nazi high command is abandoning Southwestern France, and many believe they will awake some morning soon and find the last German gone.

Regular German Army forces moved out of the region south of Bayonne over a week ago, leaving SS units behind. The SS forces in turn began leaving Sunday night.

Only French customs guards and two or three German gendarmes bridge across the Bidassoa River here yesterday.

The German railroad troops left behind to guard the coast were reported loading the last of the Nazis' movable artillery aboard flat cars at Hendaye, Bayonne and Biarritz. To reach the German forces to the north these guns and other supplies will have to run the gantlet of sabotaged rail lines.

AUG 9 1944

Although most of the German forces called out of Southwestern France were rushed north to Bordeaux and La Rochelle, it was reported some units marched by road across Southern France toward Montpellier and the Rhone River to frontier reports the Tricolor already is flying over the town halls of scores of little hamlets inland from the coast.

Germans Become Pessimistic.

At the French Frontier, Aug. 7 (Delayed) (A. P.).—The plot that failed against Adolf Hitler, coupled with Allied advances on all fronts, apparently is rapidly altering the outlook of fighting Germans.

According to advices from inside France, many Germans, especially the older men, are pessimistic because they believe failure of the plot also dissolved the only chance of quickly bringing the war to an end. But S. S. (Elite Corps) men, more and more taking a leading part in the battle for France, seemingly are convinced that their only chance is to fight harder than ever before.

This is the picture compiled from reports received here from France through trusted channels, usually well informed.

Field Marshal Gen. Karl Gerd von Rundstedt's removal alone was a sharp blow to officers in France. The arrest of other high officials following the reported attack upon Hitler created a considerable feeling of depression. Some officers in a northern city have packed suitcases in the belief they will be leaving shortly, either as part of an evacuation or because the end of the war.

Reds Reported Organizing.

Tension between the SS and other army units has increased noticeably but so far any open clash has been avoided.

There are rumors that small communist groups are being organized. This is unconfirmed, but persons who have known Germany for years long have felt that a communist movement easily might coincide with end of the war.

Indicative of a still existing underground movement among the Germans is this leaflet circulated secretly after the Hitler plot:

"Do not despair, your leaders are still at work. The war will soon be ended by the overthrow of the regime. You will be called upon to act when the time comes, and as a reward for the patriotic attitude you will be asked to show, you will be able to return to a free and happy Germany."

German officers, many of whom have acquired stocks and money in France now are reported withdrawing these investments and converting them into valuable objects or into real estate in Austria and Hungary.

The revolt might have suceed-

2 Heroic GI's Played Major Role In Frustrating Nazi Tank Attack

By WES GALLAGHER

OUTSIDE ST. POIS, France, Aug. 8 — (AP) Two heroic GI's played a major part in frustrating the attack by four German divisions attempting to cut through American lines toward the sea at Avranches.

NIGHT

They were on night patrol in an area south of here between Sourdeval and Mortain when they discovered a whole column of German tanks and vehicles literally all around them.

The Germans were moving into a salient of the American lines for a morning jump-off. Lines in this area are not closely held and infiltration, particularly at night, is easy.

The two Doughboys lay quiet and let the armored column pass, then

'Lid' That Private Put On Foxhole Saves Him

88 Shell Makes Direct Hit on Plate From Nazi Armor

WITH THE A. E. F. IN FRANCE, July 25 (Delayed) (AP).—Phen Private Sam C. Gwin, of Great Falls,

Germans Reported Abandoning Atlantic Wall in Bordeaux Area

100-Mile Section North From Spain Outflanked by Swift Allied Gains

By the Associated Press.

FOLD

IRUN, Spain, Aug. 8.—Adolf Hitler's once-vaunted Atlantic wall, for more than 100 miles from the Spanish frontier north through Bordeaux, has been virtually abandoned and is manned by only a handful of over-aged German railroad troops, advices from France said today.

DAY

These Nazi fortifications have been outflanked to the north by the swift progress of American troops through Brittany and eastward toward Paris in much the same way as the Maginot Line was outflanked when the Germans broke through Belgium in 1940.

With their communications seriously menaced the Germans were said to have begun a full-scale evacuation of their forces in South-

Valley.

The Germans remaining on the southwestern front apparently fear being left behind because French resistance forces already have severed Atlantic to Mediterranean communications by dynamiting railroads and highways.

As Nazi units were being evacuated northward the Maquis dynamited a railway bridge north of Bayonne Sunday night, thus cutting a direct line to Bordeaux.

Reports circulated along the frontier of possible Allied landings in the Bordeaux area and on the Mediterranean coast.

French patriots were reported now operating around Bordeaux and St. Jean de Luz. The Maquis were kept out of the latter town, which is a few miles above the frontier, by German railroad troops still manning pillboxes there. According

30. 24— 17839

ed in France if the announ
that Hitler was still alive h
so quickly become known. The story comes from Paris that just before the bomb attack divisional commanders throughout France received a message that Hitler was dead and the general staff was taking over.

Soldiers of the Paris garrisons are said to have surrounded Gestapo headquarters there and to have kept it under guard for some hours. Within a short time, however, a special representative of Hitler, a general, arrived at headquarters in France to see for himself that order was maintained. Hitler spoke over the radio and officers who might otherwise have acted accepted the attempted revolt as a failure.

GERMAN ATTACKS STALL RED DRIVE ON WHOLE FRONT

HERALD

All Available Reserves Used in Desperate Counter-Attacks.

ENEMY BLOWS REPULSED

Soviet Bulletin Claims Nazis Being "Bled White" in Stubborn Stand.

AP

LONDON, Thursday, Aug. 9—(AP) The Germans are launching desperate counterattacks along virtually all of the 1,000-mile Eastern front but are being "bled white," Moscow reported today as it appeared that the Nazis had managed to stem the Red army advance by drawing heavily on their dwindling central reserves.

An early-morning supplement of the Soviet war bulletin underscored the German counter-blows in nearly every sector but asserted flatly that all were repulsed and added, "our troops are stubbornly advancing."

Counterattacks Smashed

One such Nazi counterattack has been smashed after several days of bitter fighting on the Latvian-Lithuanian border and the Russians have resumed their push toward Riga, the regular Soviet midnight communique said.

AUG 9 1944

All the while the Russians continued to mass men and material for a new steamroller Eastern front drive that may carry all the way to Berlin.

Both Soviet and German communiques confirmed essentially that the great Russian Summer offensive, now in its 48th day, had lost the sweeping mobility that marked its progress during the first 40 days, but the German lines were strained and artillery and failure at any point might spell disaster for the Reich.

To bolster the lines and implement the desperation-born counter-attacks, the Germans are throwing into battle everything they have, "even road-building, airdrome and other rear detachments," Moscow said.

The Soviet pressure continued inexorably, Eddy Gilmore, Associated Press correspondent in Moscow, said, reporting that Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's men gained six miles against bitter resistance in the northward expansion toward Warsaw of their positions on the west side of the Vistula river and also edged slightly southwestward toward Krakow.

Similarly, in the south, Marshal Ivan Konev and Gen. I. E. Prytov edged forward within 33 miles of the old Czechoslovak frontier.

16 New Divisions Used

In the past three weeks, Soviet reports stated, the Germans have sent 16 new divisions to the Eastern front, some from the vital reserves of central Germany, others from western Poland, Italy Yugoslavia, Hungary and Norway.

The Germans themselves announced that many new officers "have taken over on the Eastern front at this critical juncture of the war." These apparently were from Heinrich Himmler's fanatical Nazi SS. Elite guard.

It was evident that the Germans were preparing as best they could to make a stand all along the present battlefront.

The Soviet midnight communique said the Germans threw in a heavy counterattack of several days' duration in the Birzai section in North Lithuania but that the Red army had smashed it, killing 6,000 of the enemy, capturing 1,350, and renewed its own defensive, taking more than 800 towns, including Radviliskis, on the border 43 miles south of Riga.

AUG 9 1944

In this battle, part of the massive operation to annihilate the two German armies trapped in the Baltic states, the Russians said they destroyed 89 German tanks and 150 cannon and captured 16 tanks and 75 guns.

Hard-fighting penetrations also were made by two other spearheads reaching into Latvia up both sides of the Daugava river towards Riga. One took the important railway junction of Krustpils on the east bank and got within 64 miles of Riga, while the other, near the west bank, moved north to threaten Jekabpils.

Warsaw Not Mentioned

The Russians made no mention of the continuing siege of Warsaw or other sections of the front except to record a slight widening of their bridgehead across the Vistula towards Kielce and improvement of positions farther southeast along the Carpathian foothills.

The Germans, however, for all their desperate struggle to stabilize the lines, are fighting Soviet armies vastly superior in manpower, equipment and spirit, and acknowledged their peril in a broadcast stating that big Soviet reserves now were moving toward the Vistula bridgeheads to drive north to Warsaw along the west bank.

The Germans, too, were busy bringing up every reserve they could find. One broadcast quoted Field Marshal Walther von Model, returning from a Warsaw inspection trip, as saying, "after weeks of receding, now the time has come to stick to our positions. New forces from the Reich are arriving."

In the long run, the Nazis' stiffening defense was given small chance for success, and when it fails, Germany may be overrun swiftly from the East.

The line along which the Germans are making their desperate stand runs roughly in front of the northern and eastern frontiers of East Prussia, southward through Lomza to Warsaw, southward along the Vistula, then billows ominously southwestward under pressure of the Russian positions on the west side of the Vistula, and then back southeastward along the Carpathian foothills.

Nazis Fight Stubbornly

While the Germans hang on stubbornly, using men, women and children to help them dig in, the Russians are establishing new and stronger lines of communication and moving forward their airfields and supply dumps to catch up with the tremendous ground gains made since June 23. Nearly three months remain for another westward push on the grand scale before the heavy autumnal rains set in over the Polish plains.

Any day the new Russian blow may come. It may be across the eastern borders of East Prussia, where Gen. Ivan D. Cherniakhovsky's powerful Third White Russian army has been massing for eight days without moving forward more than a few miles. It may be through Warsaw, now in the ninth day of siege, or it may be from the threatening positions Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky has built up on the west side of the Vistula southwest of Sandomierz.

From besieged Warsaw the latest news came via the Polish Telegraph Agency in London, which distributed an urgent appeal from the Polish underground forces for more arms and ammunition.

Patriots Face Flame Throwers

"We are faced with fighting for at least several more days," said this appeal, "and we must be supplied all this time. The battle (of the underground) for Warsaw is in its sixth day. The Germans are using technical means that we do not possess: armor, air forces, artillery and flame throwers. . . . The enemy is bombing our city for the third day in succession and using flame throwers in whole districts."

The Germans claimed that their mopping-up operations inside Warsaw had been concluded.

REDS SMASH NAZI ATTACK IN LITHUANIA

Other Russian Advances Strike Toward Krakow And Czech Border

GILMORE

Mannerheim announces new Finnish Cabinet.....Page 4

Moscow, Aug. 8 (AP)—Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky swerved north toward Warsaw tonight from his expanding salient west of the Vistula river and gained six miles against bitter resistance in what may be a drive on the Polish capital from the south.

Throwing heavy tank attacks, supported by Stormovik planes in great strength, against the Germans, Rokossovsky's forces took 50 towns and villages west and northwest of Sandomierz, liberating the village of Wlostow, just four miles south of Opatow on the Radom-Warsaw railway.

Also Move Against Kielce

His troops in this area also moved westward toward Kielce, and edged forward slightly to the southwest in the Krakow direction.

Southeast of the Vistula river Marshal Ivan Konev and Gen. I. E. Petrov pushed toward the Czechoslovakian border, capturing Chyrow, 33 miles from the frontier.

Five miles northwest of Chyrow the Russians seized Dobromil in an 18-mile jump from Sambor, capture of which Moscow saluted last night. Here the Soviet troops havec rossed the swift Stirwiaz river and have threatened to join forces with troops which have been driving toward Krakow from the triangle formed by the Vistula and the San rivers.

NIGHT

Smash Counterattacks

On the Baltic front the Red army, as the result of smashing strong German counterattacks southeast of Riga, captured 80 towns an dvillages in the Birzhai sector in the last few days. The sector is in the upper knob of Lithuania on the Latvian border.

The Nazis threw in strong counterattacks in a desperate attempt to hold off the Russian drive to Riga and the Baltic where 20-odd divisions faced possible entrapment.

Fighting is in progress some 48 miles southeast of Riga at the village of Radzivilis. The Russians now have a strong arc from the gulf of Riga to the southern shores of Lake Peipus, in which the Germans are all but encircled in numerous sectors.

AUG 9 1944

By capturing 50 places northwest of Rezeknye in Latvia and 70 northwest of Daugavpils along with the offensive in the Birzhai sector, the Red army has liberated 200 more places and there is reason to believe one of the biggest encirclements of the summer offensive is under way.

Reds Increasing Threat to Nazis On Polish Front

AUG 9 1944

Direction of Drive Indicates Possibility Of Flanking Krakow

By the Associated Press. LUCE

MOSCOW, Aug. 8.—A new eruption of Red Army attacks which captured more than 60 communities beyond the enemy's broken Vistula River defenses threatened today to strangle German communications between Krakow and Warsaw in the heart of Poland.

Striking out afresh yesterday from the Vistula bridgehead, Marshal Ivan S. Konev's 1st Ukraine Army reached points 30 miles west of the river, Soviet field dispatches said.

Thrusting beyond newly-occupied Szydlow, the Russians directly menaced Kielce, astride highway and rail arteries 25 miles to the northwest. The direction of the drive raised the possibility that the Russians might outflank Krakow on the north.

Last reports placed Soviet spearheads within 37 miles of Krakow, last big Nazi bastion before German Silesia, now 75 to 90 miles away.

Oil Center Captured.

Moscow's guns sounded last night for twin victories—the fall of the oil center of Boryslaw in the Carpathians, and the capture of Sambor, communications hub whose fall gave the Russians a grip on five routes leading into nearby Czechoslovakia.

DAILY

(Information available in London indicated that through capture of Boryslaw the Russians had regained some 2,000 Galician oil wells which had been feeding the Nazi war machine. The Germans thus were left only the Ploesti fields in Romania, which have been repeatedly bombed by Allied Airmen.)

Far to the north three powerful Soviet armies began a pincers movement on East Prussia along a 200-mile front. One of these—Gen. Ivan C. Bagramian's 1st Baltic Army—bent back sagging German defenses in Lithuania in twin drives toward Memal and Tilsit, key East Prussian cities. His troops captured 50 towns and villages, including Saukenai, 77 miles east of the Baltic port of Memel.

Gen. Bagramian's troops, who last week plunged to the Baltic front below Riga, advanced as much as 20 miles yesterday in this new surge toward the sea.

40 Communities Taken.

To the south the capture of 40 communities, including Andrusaicial, put other Red Army troops 53 miles east-northeast of Tilsit.

The latest Soviet communique made no mention of the sector just opposite the East Prussian border where Gen. Ivan D. Cherniakhovsky's 3d White Russian Army has been meeting strong resistance, but it told of a new advance toward the southern border by Gen. G. F. Zakharov's 2d White Russian Army which captured Knyszyn, 15 miles northwest of Bialystok, and Lapy, to the southwest.

(A Vichy broadcast heard today by the Associated Press said all factories in East Prussia had closed and that "the whole population was digging trenches against the approaching Russian Army.")

Advances in Baltic.

Two Russian armies in Eastern Latvia and Southern Estonia were driving westward against the Germans isolated by Gen. Bagramian's plunge to the Baltic last week. The Moscow communique announced this advance had cut the railway and highway between Madona and Gulbene, 90 miles east of Riga. Capture of [illegible] in the same area was announced.

AUG 9 1944

The Free Germany National Committee, broadcasting from Moscow last night, urged the German troops in the northern Baltic area to surrender because "a break-out toward East Prussia is impossible."

Attack German Towns.

With the Red Army virtually on the east Prussian border, hundreds of Stormoviks, Bostons and Soviet medium bombers went into attacks against east Prussian towns, railroads and highways today.

"I saw hundreds of fire centers and high columns of black smoke," Capt. Max Imov told an Izvestia correspondent after flying over German soil, "as soon as we returned from our targets, a new group took off. The air is full of our aviation."

Izvestia commented that "the hour of revenge has come."

A Pravda article decrying the Germans' slaughter in Russia said "we will remember all this in Berlin."

"We want to stamp out the viper's nest," said the article, by Ilya Ehrenburg, broadcast from Moscow recorded in London. "We want to sweep through Germany with our sword in order to eradicate the Germans' love for the sword."

Ehrenburg suggested that the bomb plot against Hitler was an attempt to destroy evidence against those who will plead: "We weren't killing—it was Hitler." He said it was fear not conscience, stirring among Germans as defeat loomed.

One powerful arm of Gen. Cherniakhovsky's Army group moving against east Prussia before stiffening opposition, was striking north of the east Prussian border toward the Baltic on a thirty to 35-mile front in Lithuania. Another arm northwest of Bialystok, in old Poland, approached the Biebizna River, This group is well within the Suwalki triangle which east Prussia annexed in 1939 and within about five miles of the city of Suwalki.

More Arms Wanted For Poles In Warsaw

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—Polish Ambassador Jan Ciechanowski said tonight that the Polish underground army fighting inside Warsaw is insufficiently armed and asserted "some means should be found to supply them without delay."

Ciechanowski did not suggest what means might be available, but it is evident that only the Red army is in position to deliver any effective quantity of supplies.

Whether the Soviet troops fighting in the suburbs of Warsaw are in actual contact with the "Polish home forces," which Ciechanowski said hold more than 40 per cent. of the city, is a question, but Polish officials here say that means undoubtedly can be found to deliver ammunition.

Moscow, Aug. 8 (A. P.).—Flying Fortresses and Liberators of the Eighth United States Air Force attacked a German synthetic oil refinery yesterday at Tresbinia, about twenty miles west of the ancient Polish capital of Krakow, and returning flyers reported excellent visibility with fires and explosions in the target area, and smoke that leaped three miles high.

Escorting Mustang fighters destroyed three German interceptors and the bombers destroyed a fourth.

The American force arrived at Russian bases on Sunday from their normal bases in England.

Russia Joins Polish Parley

London, Wednesday, Aug. 9 (AP). Tripartite talks on the Polish question have started in Moscow, with Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, Premier of the Polish Government in exile, and representatives of the Soviet Government and the Soviet-sponsored Polish Committee of National Liberation taking part, a Reuters dispatch from Moscow said today.

Rival Polish Groups Confer With Molotov

Moscow, Aug. 8 (AP)—Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov conferred at the Kremlin tonight for more than two hours with Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk of the Polish Government-in-exile and representatives of the Soviet-sponsored Polish Committee of National Liberation.

It was the first time in the Soviet Union that the two rival Polish regimes were represented at the same conference table.

In an atmosphere summed up by a member of the London Polish group as "friendly," Molotov presided at the session in his study.

Foreign Minister Tadeusz Romer of the Polish London Government and 73-year-old Professor Grabski, Polish boundary expert, were among those present.

POLISH PREMIER REPORTS ON TALKS

Moscow, Aug. 8 (A. P.).—Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk today relayed to London, to his Polish Government in Exile, the details of his lengthy discussions with the Moscow-sponsored Polish Committee of Liberation and National Council. Persons close to the exiled Polish leaders in London said that the Premier now has enough information on which to base vital decisions. They hesitated to speculate on the terms, however.

Foreigners in Moscow said that this was a crucial moment in Polish history because "it is now up to the London Government," to which concrete conditions have been given.

The Soviet Union recognizes the Polish Committee of Liberation, composed largely of Polish Patriots and underground figures who have spent much of the five years of German occupation inside Poland. Russia severed relations with the Polish Government in Exile last year, after that regime had requested the International Red Cross to investigate German charges that the Russians had killed 10,000 Polish officers in Katyn Forest near Smolensk. Premier Stalin agreed, however, to the present conversations with Mikolajczyk.

Stalin is understood to have assured Mikolajczk once a Polish rapprochement is arrived at. Russo-Polish issues will be concidered. These deal primarily with Poland's eastern frontier.

Coalition Cabinet Held Likely

LONDON, Aug. 8 (AP).—Poles in London speculated tonight that Premier Mikolajczyk would ask President Wladyslaw Raczkiewicz of the exiled government for authority to form a new coalition cabinet. American and British backing is believed possible for a plan calling for formation of a new cabinet including some members of the exiled government, some of the Soviet-sponsored committee and a few Poles affiliated with neither group.

Luxembourg Envoy in Moscow

MOSCOW, Aug. 8 (AP)—Rene Blum, Minister from the Luxembourg Government in Exile, arrived in Moscow today and was welcomed by G. I. Fomin of the Russian Foreign Office.

3,500 PLANES SUPPORT DRIVE

Some Bombs, However, Are Dropped On Allied Troops

London, Wednesday, Aug. 9 (AP). More than 3,500 planes smashed at German front positions in strong support of ground troops driving toward Paris, but the tremendous effect of the aerial barrage was marred by a report that some of the bombs were unloaded on Allied troops.

Waves of United States heavy bombers, in a violent, heavy smash, tore the Germans loose from their defenses below Caen, opening the space for Canadian tanks to lead the drive, after 1,000 RAF heavies had softened the same positions 14 hours before.

Through Heavy Flak

The American heavies stabbed through heavy flak, intense as any encountered over Europe. Some bombers, including the lead plane which controlled the bombing of one formation, dropped their explosives among Allied troops, causing casualties.

The incident recalled another unfortunate occurrence July 25, when the Americans opened their offensive in the path of 1,500 American heavy bombers. Their targets distorted by rolling smoke and dust clouds, the bombers dropped five per cent. of their explosives on Allied positions.

26 Allied Planes Lost

Thirteen Fortresses and Liberators were missing from today's attack and 13 of the fighter escort were lost. Ten of the bombers fell in the Caen sector, where the bombers hovered in a sky blackened 10 to 15 minutes by flak. Four enemy planes were shot down and one destroyed on the ground.

Marauders and Havocs of the Ninth Air Force concentrated on seven bridges in the Paris-Reims-Amiens area while late in the afternoon RAF Halifaxes bombed flying rocket installations in northern France.

Attack 14-Ship Convoy

RAF torpedo-carrying Beaufighters attacked a German convoy of 14 ships steaming north off the southwest coast of Norway and three merchant ships and six escort vessels were reported damaged. Three of the RAF planes were lost.

American Mustangs escorted the Beaufighters and shot up Norwegian airdromes.

The five-span Joigny bridge over the Yonne river, 70 miles southeast of Paris, was destroyed by the Marauders. Other bridges hit by the Ninth Air Force in a move to hinder enemy transport included two bridges over the Marne at Nanteuil, 25 miles northeast of Paris; a bridge 20 miles north of Amiens in the vicinity of Reims and another southeast of Paris. One Marauder and two Havocs were lost to flak.

Blast Anti-Tank Defenses

More than 600 American heavy bombers blasted German anti-tank defenses below Caen in close-up support of the Canadian First Army's drive against the northern anchor of the enemy's line in Normandy.

The American assault originally was scheduled at 1,000 heavy bomber strength as a followup to the attack by more than 1,000 RAF heavies 14 hours before which blazed the path for British and Canadians in ripping open the enemy's defenses below Caen.

Range Over Northern France

The army command decided at the last minute, however, that 600 bombers could do the job and sent 400 Fortresses and Liberators ranging over northern France in smashes at enemy airfields and robot bomb installations.

It was estimated that 8,500 tons of bombs were dropped in the two concentrated attacks on strong points that had barred an Allied advance below Caen. The Fortresses and Liberators dropped about 1,800 tons. The heavy bombers in each instance were covered by up to 750 Lightnings which shot up targets.

First Support Of Kind

The attack by RAF Lancasters and Halifaxes made aerial history. It was the first time that heavy bombers operated in support of ground troops after dark. The night assault was hailed officially as the closest support ever given ground forces by British heavies. The ground artillery fired red starshells and tracers to mark out targets.

American heavies hit air bases at Romilly, on the Siene river 55 miles northwest of Paris, and at Leperthe, northeast of Romilly.

While advancing troops had the usual air canopy, medium and light American bombers concentrated on highways, railroads, bridges, freight yards and other enemy objectives northeast, east and south of Paris.

Shuttle Raid Hits Airfields

Fortresses shuttling back from bases in Russia plastered Romanian airdromes at Buzau and Ziliestea, 40 miles northeast of the Ploesti oil sources. The Mustang escort shot down one of the few enemy fighters which challenged the flight. The shuttle bombers landed on Italian bases preparatory to returning to Britain.

The German synthetic oil refinery at Tresbinia, Poland, was a target of United States Eighth Air Force heavy bombers from Russian bases Monday, a dispatch from Moscow announced. The crews reported fires and explosions resulted.

Moscow over the French battle area last night shot down seven enemy bombers and one fighter for a loss of three. They had been sent out to intercept any planes which the Germans might send against the heavy bombers in the Caen sector. They also strafed 24 trains east and southeast of Paris.

Lancasters Open Way For Canadian Attack In Area Below Caen

6,700 Tons of Bombs Dropped in First Night Support of Troops

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Flying in close support of ground forces during darkness for the first time, 1,000 British four-engined Lancaster bombers blasted German positions below Caen last night, blazing a trial for the Canadian 1st Army's smashing new attack.

In the hour before midnight, the big bombers dumped an estimated 6,700 tons of explosives on enemy fortified points in the area of May-Sur-Orne and Tilly La Campagne on both sides of the Caen-Falaise road.

Allied air fleets made new attacks on the enemy today.

The midnight bombardment formed one of three separate phases in aerial support given Gen. Eisenhower's advancing armies.

163 Tanks Knocked Out.

The other two phases, in which Allied airmen dealt hard blows to German armor, transport and supply, were:

1. British rocket-firing Typhoons and fighter-bombers teamed with American fighter-bombers and knocked out at least 163 tanks in repeated blows against a counter-attack on the American Avranches corridor.

2. American heavy bombers, fighters and fighter-bombers ranged over France from end to end, smashing German transport routes, supply centers.

In the Avranches sector the British 2d Tactical Air Force destroyed 81 tanks and damaged 54. The United States 9th Air Force destroyed 26 and damaged a large number.

All operations over France yesterday and last night totaled more than 4,000 offensive sorties.

Transportation Blasted.

Great destruction was created close behind the German lines as bombers and fighters attacked 10 major transportation targets and 11 major fuel dumps. Fighter-bombers destroyed or damaged 131 locomotives, 582 railroad cars, and 195 motor vehicles.

British Mosquitos hit railroad and ammunition dumps 100 miles beyond Paris. They bombed and shot up 24 trains, mostly on lines east and southeast of Paris to Dijon, Chalons and Nevers.

At least 20 enemy planes were downed in combat yesterday and last night while Allied losses were 21 planes. One reported missing by the daily supreme headquarters communique turned up later.

RAF bombers based in Italy struck the Szombathely airfield south of Vienna, burning a number of parked German planes.

Only a few hours before Italian-based American heavy bombers penetrated Germany and attacked two synthetic oil plants at Blechhamer, leaving large fires burning. The Mediterranean Air Forces destroyed 29 German planes in combat and lost 22.

The Russian communique listed 117 German planes destroyed yesterday, raising the Allied toll to at least 166, exclusive of those shot up aground.

Clear Skies Aid British In Downing Robots

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Bright moonlight and clear skies aided British coastal defenses last night as the Germans resumed their flying bomb attacks on London and Southern England after a brief lull.

The attacks were on a comparatively small scale and a number of the robots were shot down before they reached their targets.

Air Vice-Marshal Boyd Killed

LONDON, Aug. 8 (AP)—Air Vice-Marshal Owen Tudor Boyd, fifty-five, has been killed on active service, it was announced today.

Captured by Axis troops after a forced landing in 1940, Boyd escaped after the Italian surrender last year with two other high ranking British officers, Lieutenant General Philip Neame and Lieutenant General Sir Richard O'Connor.

8 Nazi Officers Hanged; Himmler Reported Slain

Field Marshal Among Group Executed for Plotting to Kill Hitler.

LONDON, Aug. 8—(AP) Berlin broadcasts announced that eight expelled army officers were hanged today upon conviction of treason in the Hitler assassination attempt and that five others remained to be tried.

The official German broadcasts said those hanged were Field Marshal Erwin von Witzleben and seven co-conspirators who confessed to participating in the bomb plot to kill Hitler July 20 and surrender Germany to the Allies.

The executions brought to 16 the total of officially announced deaths in connection with the plot.

Five of the defendants requested death before firing squads but this "privilege" was refused, and all were hanged within two hours after a red-robed "people's court" convicted them at conclusion of a two-day trial that developed a tale of a vast intrigue against Hitler stemming from the dissatisfaction of high officers with his military procedure.

The two-day trial developed a story of vast intrigue against Hitler and dissatisfaction of high officers over his military ineptitude.

Himmler's Death Hinted

The rumor that Gestapo Chief Himmler was dead came from the British front in Normandy. This report, received with the utmost reserve in London, said a newly-captured German intelligence officer related that Himmler had been killed and Goering, Hitler's second in command, wounded.

30-24- 17841

Other prisoners offered to corroborate the officer's story, but all the captives' information was based on what they had been told and not what they themselves had observed.

(One German officer captured in Normandy related that he had made a "pep talk" to his troops and for want of something else had made up a story that Himmler was dead, in order to encourage them, the British radio said. There was no indication, however, that this officer was the same one referred to in the Normandy dispatch).

Berlin's official account of the hangings named those killed as van Witzleben, the chief defendant, Maj. Gen. Erich Hoppner, Maj. Gen. Helmut Stieff, Lt. Gen. Paul von Hase, Lt. Col. Robert Bernardis, Capt. Freidrich Karl Klausing, Lt. Albrecht von Hegen and Lt. Peter Count York von Wartenburg. All the property of the executed men was confiscated by the Reich.

Purge Toll Rises To 16

This brought to 16 the deaths which Berlin has announced in connection with the bomb explosion which bruised and burned Hitler.

A Berlin broadcast by the Transocean News Agency said five other officers cashiered in connection with the conspiracy would be tried by the people's court, presumably immediately. They were listed as General Fellgiebel (signals intelligence), Major General Von Treschow, Colonel Hanson (general staff), Major Hayessen (general staff) and Lieutenant Count von der Schulenburg, a relative of the former German Ambassador to Moscow.

Five of the defendants asked today to be shot rather than be hanged, said the rambling report of the trial broadcast by DNB.

"You wanted to blow the Fuehrer to pieces and now you ask for an honest bullet," rasped the president of the court, Dr. Roland Feisler. "This is really the limit."

Many Fantastic Touches

The picture of the conspiracy, as unfolded in the DNB version of the testimony, bore fantastic touches in the best tradition of modern "purge" trials.

For example, generals and colonels of one of the world's most efficient armies were described in testimony as considering solemnly, then shelving, a plot to kill Hitler with time-bombs placed in the knapsacks of three unsuspecting soldiers—set to explode while the Fuehrer was inspecting their new equipment.

Generals and colonels accustomed to flinging tons of explosives against the enemy in a casual day's battle, accustomed to controlling vast amounts of death-dealing munitions, were pictured as elaborately planning how to get hold of a few packages of high explosive for the assassination of Hitler.

The red-robed presiding judge of the highest Nazi tribunal—the senate of the people's court—was quoted as interrupting testimony and browbeating a general into calling himself an ass and then contradicting him with the juristic observation, "you always will be a schweinhund (pig dog)."

An infantry general, a Berlin businessman, a people's councillor and a municipal councilor made up the people's court, with a Berlin baker and a civil engineer serving as substitute judges. Eight defense councillors appointed by the state represented the accused.

Captured German Intelligence Officer Says Goering Was Wounded in Same Attack on Sunday.

GREENE

On the British Front in France, Aug. 8 (A. P.).—A newly captured German intelligence officer asserted today that Heinrich Himmler, the German Gestapo and S. S. chief, has been assassinated and Reichsmarshal Herman Goering wounded in a new outbreak against the Nazi hierarchy.

DAY

Nine other captives, all Austrians, corroborated the intelligence officer.

"We heard that (Marshal Erwin) Rommel was wounded in the head by bomb fragments on the Normandy front, but was recovering," one of the Austrians said. "The best news came on Sunday when we heard that Himmler had been killed and that Goering was wounded in the attack on Himmler."

The British first heard this story from the Austrians. An Associated Press correspondent then asked the German intelligence officer, who had been kept apart from the Austrians: "I suppose Himmler is stronger than Hitler these days?"

"No, Himmler is dead," the Intelligence officer replied. "He was assassinated. I heard it at my headquarters on Sunday. All our officers are talking about it."

May Be All a Joke.

There was no confirmation of the forgoing report. The officer's statement, based on second-hand information, is therefore subject to reservation.

In this connection, the British radio said today, that a German lieutenant taken prisoner in France, declared that he had given a "pep talk" to his troops and "for want of other good news" had told them that Himmler was dead.

Soon after the July 20 attempt to kill Adolf Hitler, Himmler was named Chief of German Army Ordnance and Commander in Chief of Home Training Forces, twin jobs calculated to give him virtually complete control over internal Germany. After his appointment he proclaimed his confidence that the home front would remain "a model of loyalty and obedience."

Now 43 years old, Himmler won the reputation of being the most sinister man in Hitler's Nazi movement when he enforced his brutal discipline in Norway, Czecho-Slovakia, France and Holland. Germany herself early felt his lash when, as head of the Gestapo, he directed the pogrom against Jews and opposition groups. He was also custodian of the Nazi network of concentration camps.

Himmler's fear of an attempt on his life drove him long since, it is said, to wear a bullet-proof vest and travel in a special armored car equipped with six powerful rifles on each side. His career in the Nazi movement was marked professionally when he failed to prevent the attempt on Hitler's life in the Munich beer hall blast in 1939 and again last month.

Field Marshal von Witzleben and Other Officers Reported Confessing Year-old Scheme to Assassinate Fuehrer.

London, Aug. 8 (A. P.).—Field Marshal Erwin von Witzleben and seven other German Army officers were hanged today, Berlin announced, after a trial at which they confessed plotting to kill Adolf Hitler and surrender to the Allies.

This brought to sixteen the announced number of conspirators executed or dead by their own hands in connection with the alleged plot that culminated in the bomb explosion at Hitler's headquarters on July 20 last.

Today's executions took place two hours after the conclusion of the trial of Von Witzleben and the seven others, all of whom had previously been expelled from the Army.

Lieut. Count Yorck von Wartenburg, a cousin of Count Claus von Stauffenberg—identified by Berlin as the July 20 assassin—was announced as one of the defendants who took the witness stand. He testified, Berlin said, that the conspirators planned to establish relations with the Allies on both the east and west, therefore they had no doubt that the enemy would insist on unconditional surrender and the annihilation of the German Reich and the German people."

Von Wartenburg was hanged, Berlin said, along with Von Witzleben, Major-Gen. Erich Hoeppner, Major-Gen. Helmut Stieff, Lieut.-Gen. Paul von Hase, Lieut. Albrecht von Hegen, Lieut.-Col. Robert Bernardis and Capt. Friedrich Karl Klausing.

DAY

Account of Trial.

An official account of their trial, as broadcast by DNB, the German official news agency, disclosed that the alleged plot against Hitler had been hatching since last summer. Von Stauffenberg was declared to have brought explosives into Hitler's presence twice prior to July 20, but he refrained from letting them go, it was added, because Heinrich Himmler, the Gestapo chief, was not with Hitler on either of those occasions and "he was to be finished at the same time."

Von Witbleben was quoted as testifying that he and Col.-Gen. Ludwig Beck were to have headed the military under a new government. Beck, who was once the Chief of the German General Staff, committed suicide, Berlin said, when the conspiracy failed.

Stieff told the Himmler-ruled People's Court, Berlin said, that he knew the details of still another abandoned plot to kill Hitler. This called for the placing of time bombs in the packs of three private soldiers — without their knowledge — and setting the bombs to explode when they appeared before Der Fuehrer for a demonstration of new equipment.

The broadcast, by DNB, German news agency, did not disclose immediately what the sentences were. Four other officers, however, were executed July 20 on a charge of taking part in the plot and another four accused officers committed suicide, the Germans have announced.

DNB said the eight former officers, all out of uniform, went to trial yesterday before the People's Court of Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler. Berlin previously had announced that a special "court of honor" expelled all eight from the army.

The broadcast said police officials led the defendants into the Berlin supreme court for the trial. The deliberations were concluded today.

Account of Trial.

Berlin gave this account:

The officers were accused of participation in the assassination attempt "in order to stir up revolt in Germany, to assume command of the Wehrmacht, to seize state authority and to conclude a dishonorable peace."

The court consisted of an infantry general, a Berlin businessman, a people's councilor and a municipal councilor. A Berlin baker and a civil engineer served as substitute judges. The jury wore long red robes.

The officers were represented by eight defense councilors appointed by the state.

When the chief of the defendants, former Marshal Erwin von Witzleben, gave the German salute the president of the court declared, "The German salute may be given only by Germans who are men of honor."

On trial with Marshal Witzleben were former Maj. Gen. Erich Hoeppner, former Maj. Gen. Stieff, former Lt. Gen. von Hase, former Lt. Col. Bernardis, former Capt. Friedrich Karl Klausing, former Lt. von Hegen and former Lt. Count Yorck von Wartenburg.

Stieff Questioned First.

The proceedings were carried out in the senate of the People's Court, highest German court. Dr. Roland Freisler was president and Chief Prosecutor Lautz headed the staff presenting the Reich's case.

Gen. Stieff, first to be questioned, answered a simple "yes" when asked if he had been involved in assassination plans as early as the summer of 1943.

His answers also told of an alternate plan. Three veteran soldiers from the front were to be sent to demonstrate new field equipment for Hitler. Explosives hidden in the baggage of one of the soldiers were to be timed to kill every one in the group.

Gen. Stieff's answers implicated his immediate senior, former Artillery Gen. Wagner (reported by Berlin to have committed suicide after the plot's failure). When Gen. Stieff termed Gen. Wagner an "old comrade," the court president snapped that it would be better to call him an "old criminal."

Marshal Witzleben frankly admitted in court he had been "involved in this matter."

Admitted Visiting Beck.

He admitted visiting former Col. Gen. Ludwig Beck, another reported suicide, in February, 1943, at which they agreed that men heading the military stragedy under Hitler were "no good" while "good ones" were eliminated.

The President asked who would have been more fitted to head the military.

Marshal Witzleben answered quietly: "We two—Beck and I."

Marshal Witzleben told of discussions last "October or November" at which a plan was hatched to seize Hitler and force their decisions on him, adding:

"I know nothing of politics in general and questions of internal politics. In the first place, of course, we want to seize the Fuehrer. At the time of the action we proposed to await a trip of the Fuehrer with the smallest possible entourage. We believed a living Fuehrer would be more useful than a dead Fuehrer."

He testified that the men to carry out this earlier plot were "still to be picked."

3 Hungarian Ministers Reported Dismissed

Significance of Horthy's Action Not Apparent

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The Berlin radio quoted a dispatch from Budapest today as saying Admiral Nicholas Horthy, Hungarian regent, had dismissed Bela Imredi, minister without portfolio, and two other cabinet members "at their own request."

The others dismissed were identified as Antal Kunder, Minister of Commerce and Transsportation, and Andor Jaross, Home Secretary.

The significance of the development was not immediately apparent. All three, however, were strongly identified with pro-Nazi elements in Hungary and took office last March 23, when a new government was organized under Premier Dotmez Sztojay to intensify the war effort.

Formation of the Sztojay cabinet coincided with a sudden influx of German troops which amounted to virtual military occupation of Hungary.

The German radio said Dr. Lajos Szasz, Minister of Industries, had been asked to assume the commerce portfolio and that Nikolaus Bonczos had been appointed Home Secretary.

Imredi's post remained vacant.

British Official Hurt In Palestine

London, Aug. 8 (AP)—Sir Harold MacMichael, outgoing British High Commissioner for Palestine, was wounded in Jerusalem today in an ambush attack on his car, the Colonial Office announced.

Sir Harold is being succeeded by Lord Gort, whose transfer to the Palestine and Trans-Jordan Commissionership from the Governorship of Malta was announced July 19.

The Colonial Office announcement said:

"Information has been received from Jerusalem that this afternoon the High Commissioner and Lady MacMichael were motoring to a farewell function when their car under police escort, was ambushed.

"Fire was opened from the side of the road. The High Commissioner was only slightly wounded and Lady MacMichael was unhurt, but two members of the High Commissioner's staff were seriously injured.

"Police are taking all appropriate measures."

Army Camps Ban British Journals

London, Aug. 8 (AP)—The sale of British newspapers and magazines was banned in United States Army camps in Britain today until after the American Presidential election.

The army said the action was taken under the soldiers' voting law requirement which says "no member of the United States armed forces shall have his vote influenced in any way."

An official explained the troops may still buy any newspapers or magazines they desire outside camps. Army authorities told British publishers they meant "no reflections" and that post exchange sale of American publications also was restricted.

FAVOR LEND-LEASE IN POST-WAR PERIOD

London, Aug. 8 (A. P.).—The British unofficially took the position today that the war-born lend-lease program and reverse lend-lease should continue after the victory over Germany, but privately acknowledged that it was a touchy problem.

The subject was raised by a declaration of the National Association of Manufacturers that administrative discussions were under way on the question of using lend-lease to help support the British domestic economy.

Informed persons here were cautious in the discussion, but were generally agreed on these points: The "mutual aid" program should be continued until Japan is defeated; greater emphasis should be given in the United States to the British part in this program; the section of the program dealing with final settlements should be clarified.

The British caution in the matter is born of a belief that the administration of lend-lease may develop into an issue during the presidential campaign. British officials have been advised to maintain a hands-off attitude in the election.

The Financial Times said that a conference was planned soon, "perhaps this week," to determine the volume of goods to be shipped to the United Kingdim after Germany falls. The publication said that there were some indications that at least one phase of the talks may be initiated in London, while another aspect would be discussed in Washington. One of the main factors in the post-war settlement of lend-lease is expected to center around the disposition of American merchant vessels built during the time Britain was concentrating on warship construction.

Londoners Paying $16 Each For Pineapples

London, Aug. 8 (AP)—Londoners had pineapples today for the August bank holiday—at a cost of from $16 to $21 each.

Watermelons were $20 apiece, grapes about $5 a pound and peaches 80 cents to $1.50 each.

Army Boxer Victim Of Enemy Artillery

London, Aug. 8 (A. P.).—Vince Kozak, heavyweight boxing champion of the United States Army in the English theater, was killed in action in Normandy shortly after D day, it was announced today. The 190-pound private from Hazelton, Pa., died when an artillery shell burst near the bridge he was guarding as a member of the First Army MP unit to land in France.

NEW FINN CABINET LIST IS ANNOUNCED

Former Minister To Russia Selected As Premier

Stockholm, Aug. 8 (AP)—A new Finnish Cabinet, obviously picked to clear the way for peace feelers to Russia, was announced in Helsinki tonight.

The new President, Marshal Carl Gustav Mannerheim, picked as his Premier Hantti Hackzell, former Minister to Russia and twice Foreign Minister in the 1930's.

Anti-Russians Excluded

The Cabinet was made up of men regarded as experts on Russia and excluded such anti-Russian figures as outgoing Premier Edwin Linkomies and Finance Minister Vaino Tanner.

Carl J. A. Enckell became Foreign Minister, a post he held in 1918-19 and 1922-24.

Enckell's connections with Russia date back to 1917, when he was Finnish Secretary of State in Russia, signed the Finnish independence agreement with Nikolai Lenin, and subsequently was diplomatic representative to Russia from the new Finnish republic. He was in Moscow last March in connection with the futile armistice mission. As Foregn Minster he replaces Sir Henrik Ramsay.

Other Members

Other members of the new Cabinet include:

MAJ. GEN. RUDOLPH WALLDEN, Defense Minister and Deputy Premier, a holdover.

KAAKO HILLILAE, Interior Minister, former Governor of Lapland.

ERNST VAN BORN, Minister of Justice.

—— HILTONEN, Finance Minister.

ALEKSI AALTONEN, Social Minister.

Holdover members include:

DR. UUNO K. TAAKY, Trade Minister.

KARL ELLILAE, Minister of Supply.

JALO AURA, Assistant Minister of Supply.

VILJAMI KALLIOKOSKI, Minister of Agriculture.

PROF. KALLE KAUPPI, Minister of Education.

Those replaced were the main anti-Russian diehards of the Linkomies-Tanner clique.

CABINET FORMED BY FINNISH HEAD

LONDON, Aug. 8—(AP) Berlin said tonight a new Finnish cabinet had been formed by President Baron Carl Gustaf Mannerheim, replacing Edwin Linkomies with conservative Hantti Hackzell, former minister to Russia, as premier, but retaining Maj. Ge. Rudolf Wallden as minister of defense.

Linkomies and many of his ministers had been objectionable to Russia, and some quarters expected the new cabinet would approach Moscow with a new peace bid.

DNB, German News agency, said in the broadcast that Carl Inckell, who went to Moscow in March in connection with the futile armistice mission, was made foreign minister in the new government, and listed the following other appointees:

Interior minister, Kaako Hillilae, former governor of Lapland and member of the farmer's party; justice minister, Ernst Von Born, leader of the Swedish people's party.

The broadcast said Finance Minister Vaino A. Tanner was among the former cabinet members who had left office.

A broadcast by transocean, Nazi propaganda agency, said Gen. Wallden also would serve as vice-premier in the new government.

New Finn Cabinet Reported Formed

London, Aug. 8 (A. P.).—The German radio reported tonight that a new Finnish Cabinet had been formed by President Mannerheim, with the Conservative, Hantti Hackzell, former Minister to Russia, as Premier.

Keep Reichswehr. Is Aim Of Junkers

Madrid, Aug. 8 (AP)—Germans here are passing around a clandestine newspaper, New Germany, which obviously is Prussian Junker inspired, and, while calling for the overthrow of the Nazis, insists the Reichswehr must be maintained and strengthened.

Copies of the two-page tabloid published just prior to the plot aginst Hitler reached Madrid today by a roundabout route.

Camouflaged with considerable double-talk, the main editorial said essentially that the Germans must kick out the Nazis and immediately sign "an honorable peace which is not forced upon us by the destruction of our armies, and then set about the reconstruction and recreation of a Germany strong enough to take and safeguard her place in the family of nations."

NAZIS HIT BACK IN ARNO BEND

Drive Indian Troops From Monte Orillo Above Arezzo

Rome, Aug. 8 (AP)—Lieut. Alfonso Casati, of the Italian army, only son of War Minister Alessandro Casati, has been killed in action at the front, it was announced today.

Rome, Aug. 8 (AP)—British troops, splashing through the rain, were wiping out the last islands of enemy resistance south of the Arno river around Florence today, while the bulk of the Allied armies in Italy rested for the grand assault on the Gothic Line just ahead.

There was hard fighting on high ground in the big bend of the Arno east of Florence.

Patrols Feel Out Enemy

But even this was on a small scale when compared with the slugging that has carried the Allies most of the way up the mountainous peninsula to positions before the heavily fortified Gothic Line above Florence and Pisa.

Eighth Army patrols were feeling out the enemy dispositions.

Germans in the big bend of the Arno above Arezzo threw Indian troops out of Monte Grillo, but the reversal had little effect on the general strategic situation.

Allied headquarters said both sides suffered heavy casualties when the Germans loosed a counterattack in this section Sunday.

Artillery Only On 5th's Front

On the Fifth Army front, to the west, there were artillery exchanges.

German shells still fell in the southern section of Florence. An official source declared that air photographs disproved a German claim that the Allies also had shelled the city.

[CBS quoting the Vatican newspaper, Osservatore Romano, as saying: "Against the German words there are the blown-up bridges and roads blocked with wreckage. Florence is indeed an open city—open to war."]

GERMANS CLING TO ARNO HILLS

Storms Halt Action Near Florence and Pisa.

Rome, Aug. 8 (A. P.).—The Germans clung tightly to a foothold in the hills south of the Arno River in the great bend east of Florence today after counter-attacking sharply against Indian troops advancing through the mountains north of Arezzo.

In the two great cities bisected by the Arno—Florence and Pisa—the positions of the contending forces remained virtually unchanged, the Allies holding the regions south of the stream and the Germans still in control of the north banks.

Stormy weather, much with rain, curtailed action along most of the front. On both sides of Florence Gen. Sir Harold Alexander sent Eighth Army patrols across the Arno, but there was no sign of an attempt to gain a foothold over the stream.

The Allied Command announced that both sides suffered heavy casualties Sunday when the Germans counter-attacked in force and recaptured Mote Grillo, nine miles north of Arezzo and a little west of Highway 71, from an Indian division.

The only considerable action on the Fifth Army front came in the area of San Winiato, where the enemy fired approximately 325 rounds of shellfire into the Allied line, then attempted to infiltrate.

An official source declared that air photographs taken at low level disprove German contention that Allied guns have shelled Florence. Meanwhile German shells continued to fall in the southern sections of the city but civilians were going calmly about their pursuits.

BRITAIN-TO-ITALY PLANES HIT PLOESTI

Rome, Aug. 8 (A. P.).—Shuttle bombers of the English-based Eighth United States Air Force attacked two Romanian airfields northeast of Ploesti today and then landed on Italian bases. The objectives were at Buzau and Zilistea, forty miles above the great enemy oil fields.

Few interceptors were encountered by the Flying Fortresses and escorting Mustang fighters. One enemy plane was destroyed.

MAJ. GEN. JOHNSON GIVEN COMBAT ASSIGNMENT

ROME, Aug. 8—(AP) Maj. Gen. Harry H. Johnson has been relieved of his post as military governor of Rome to accept a combat assignment, it was announced tonight.

General Johnson, whose home is Laredo, Texas, was awarded American Legion of Merit and the Grand Cross of the Order of the Crown of Italy before departing for the United States for what was described only as "an important assignment with troops."

The Italian decoration, one of the nation's highest, was bestowed on behalf of Prince Umberto, lieutenant general of the realm.

King Honors General Devers

Rome, Aug. 8 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Jacob L. Devers, deputy commander in chief in the Mediterranean theater, was made a Knight Commander of the Order of the Bath by King George VI during the Monarch's visit to Italy, it was disclosed today.

Army Shop Roof Falls, 19 Die

ROME, Aug. 8 (AP).—The roof of a British Army workshop near Rome caved in during a heavy rain yesterday and killed nineteen persons. Four were British troops. Others possibly were trapped and twenty-six were injured.

Franz Von Papen Reported Held

Istanbul, Aug. 8 (AP)—Franz von Papen, former Ambassador to Turkey, was arrested as soon as he entered Germany today on his return to the Reich from Turkey, it was reported here tonight.

The information came from an official of an international bank here who was a personal friend of von Papen. The bank official received no details of the arrest.

[The German-controlled Paris radio said earlier today that von Papen, who left Turkey when that country broke relations with Germany, had arrived in Berlin.]

Arrival of Von Papen In Berlin Reported

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The Nazi-controlled Paris radio said today that Franz von Papen, German Ambassador, who left Turkey when that country broke relations with Germany, had arrived in Berlin.

Earlier in the day he had been reported in Bucharest.

Turks Free Two Jailed For Von Papen Attack

Ankara, Aug. 8 (AP)—Turkish authorities today released from prison two Russian citizens, employed by the Soviet consulate at Istanbul, who were sentenced to 16 years and eight months imprisonment in 1942 after a bomb attempt on the life of Franz von Papen, German Ambassador.

The employes, George Pavlov and Leonid Kornilov, were met at the prison gates by Soviet Embassy officials and their wives, carrying flowers, and were escorted to the Russian Embassy. They had served two years and five months of their sentences.

Their release followed passage by the Turkish assembly last week of an amnesty bill fo political crimes committed on Turkish territory in the past few years by nationals of the United Nations.

Turkey Takes Steps For Possible War

Istanbul, Aug. 8 (AP)—Steps to prepare Turkey for possible wartime conditions were taken today with the passage of three bills by the Turkish Assembly, which recently approved the nation's diplomatic break with Germany.

One bill provided for evacuation of major cities and towns. A second defined the responsibilities of the Transportation Minister in the event of partial or total mobilization. The third established a civilian defense law under which men between 16 and 60 and women between 20 and 45 will receive 72 hours of training with firearms.

Against Bulgar-Turk Break

Istanbul, Aug. 8 (AP)—The newspaper Tasviri Efkar reported today that the Bulgarian consul at Edirne on the Bulgarian-Turkish frontier had called upon city officials Monday to express his Government's wishes for continued friendship between the two countries.

INDIA INVASION COSTLY TO JAPS

GRUMICH

Manipur And North Burma Toll Estimated At 42,000

Southeast Asia Headquarters, Ceylon, Aug. 8 (AP)—Less than 5,000 effective Japanese fighting men were reported left in India today and an Allied spokesman declared that the Japanese who invaded Manipur state "have taken the biggest hiding they've had on any front."

The northeast India campaign and Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's push in the north Burmese mountains resulted in the death of 42,000 Japanese and liquidation of four of Japan's nine Burma divisions, the spokesman said.

NIGHT

To "Keep Them Moving"

He said the Allies planned to drive the Japanese across the Chindwin river and "keep them moving if we can." He suggested the enemy might retreat as far as Mandalay, but warned of his familiar trick of "hitting back when he appears to be in a bad way."

Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's headquarters reported that Allied patrols, probing the northwestern Burma frontier regions, crossed the Yu river without opposition from the Japanese fleeing toward the Chindwin.

Other Allied forces were reported to be making good progress in clearing the highway from Imphal to Tiddim, which is the retreat route of the 33d Japanese division.

This division, the spokesman said, is the only one retaining military unity. The 31st and 15th have been written off "and there is no chance of a Japanese comeback before a long period of refitting and rehabilitation," he said.

Actual count showed 15,693 Japanese dead in India and 3,650 in Stilwell's fight for Myitkyina. For all north Burma since December there have been 22,341 Japanese killed and 200 captured.

KILLED 42,000 JAPS IN INDIA

Allied Troops Liquidated Four Enemy Divisions.

GRUMICH

Southeast Asia Command Headquarters, Kandy, Ceylon, Aug. 8 (A. P.).—An Allied spokesman declared today that 42,000 Japanese had been killed and four of the enemy's nine Burma divisions had been liquidated in their drive into northeast India and in Lieut.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's successful campaign in the jungle-girt Burmese mountains.

"They have had the hell knocked out of them," the spokesman said in closing the books on the Japanese incursion into India.

He speculated that the Japanese might retreat as far as Mandalay.

Allied patrols fanned out beyond the Burmese frontier base of Tamu and crossed the Yu River, chasing the disorganized Japanese toward the Chindwin River, headquarters announced today. Other forces moving south toward Tiddim on a highway from Imphal were reported making satisfactory progress.

Called Bad Jap Defeat

"I would say without hesitation that the Japanese (in the Indian State of Manipur) have taken the biggest hiding they've had on any front," the spokesman said.

Of three Japanese divisions which made the attack into India, he said only the 33d constituted anything like a military force. This division is now retreating down the Tiddim road. The 31st and 15th divisions have been written off, the spokesman said, and "there is no chance of a Japanese comeback before a long period of refitting and rehabilitation."

British and Indian troops killed 15,693 Japanese by actual count. Gen. Stilwell's men killed 3,650 in winning the north Burma base of Myitkyina, and for all north Burma since December, Gen. Stilwell has announced 22,341 Japanese killed and 200 captured.

Four Divisions Out.

"To all intents and purposes, we have liquidated four Japanese divisions in Burma," the spokesman said, adding that the dead alone amounted to 42,000 out of the nine divisions totaling 180,000 men. The Japanese used three of their Burma divisions to invade India.

The spokesman said that fewer than 5,000 effective Japanese fighting men remained in India.

"It looks like a very promising ending of this (Manipur State) campaign," he said, "But I must warn of the Japanese trick of hitting back when he appears to be in a bad way."

Allies Fail to Find Japs Beyond Tamu

By the Associated Press.

SOUTHEAST ASIA COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, Kandy, Ceylon, Aug. 8.—Allied patrols, fanning out beyond captured Tamu into the frontier region of Northwestern Burma, have encountered the Yu River without meeting any resistance from Japanese forces retreating toward the Chindwin, Allied headquarters announced today.

At the same time, on the Indian side of the border, the Allied forces moving southward along the highway from Imphal to Tiddim were reported making satisfactory progress in clearing that artery of the enemy.

Gandhi Seeks Meeting With Viceroy Wavell

New Delhi, Aug. 8 (AP)—Reports were current in political circles today that Mohandas K. Gandhi has written Viceroy Archibald P. Wavell suggesting they meet to discuss possibilities of forming an Indian National Government on the basis of an "eight point formula" that Gandhi proposed recently in a statement to newspapers.

It was considered possible Wavell would agree to such a meeting. The main points of Gandhi's formula were that the British Viceroy should remain even after establishment of an Indian Government, that Gandhi would show his desire to help the war effort, and that he would pledge to refrain personally from reviving civil disobedience.

JAPS WIPE OUT CHINESE FORCES IN HENGYANG

MOOSA

CHUNGKING, Wednesday, Aug. 9.—(AP) A grim, dramatic message from within walled Hengyang left little doubt today that the city after a heroic stand of more than six weeks, was completely in the hands of Japanese forces and the way open for the Japanese to drive down the remainder of the Canton-Hankow railway to secure their control of a 1,000-mile band across China.

The commander within the city notified Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek [illegible] p. m. Monday that the Chinese defenders had been killed almost to the last man, and concluded:

"I am afraid this may be my last message to you."

Tokyo Claims Occupation

(The Tokyo radio yesterday claimed complete occupation of the embattled city, and said Gen. Fang Hsien Chiao, commander of the 10th Chungking army, had surrendered. The broadcast asserted that four Chungking divisions and supporting American forces were wiped out and the city was occupied at 8 a. m. yesterday. Sixty American officers and men took part in the final battle, Tokyo said, but there was no confirmation from Allied sources.)

Last word from the high command on the grave situation at Hengyang dealt with Monday's developments, when it was admitted that the Japanese had broken into the city and grim street fighting ensued.

Although the length of the siege has reduced somewhat the present strategic value of Hengyang, the loss still is regarded as the most serious blow to the Chinese since the capture of Hankow and Canton in 1938 as scarcely any barrier remains between Hengyang and the Japanese forces about 170 miles to the south, driving up from the Canton area in Kwangtung province.

Closing of this gap would give the Japanese an overland rail route all the way from Peiping in the north to Canton, making the enemy in a measure independent of tenuous sea lanes and dangerous river supply as soon as they could rebuild the wrecked railway.

Japs Suffer Losses

Conquest of Hengyang apparently has cost the Japanese dearly. On July 25, after a month's fighting, the Chinese high command claimed 14,000 of the invader storming the city had been killed.

In addition, heavy tolls have been taken by planes of Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault's 14th U. S. air force both in the number of river and land supply craft and troop carriers, and in the numbers of troops killed by the planes in widespread strafing and bombing attacks throughout Hunan province.

Hengyang is 375 miles southeast of Chungking, China's wartime capital, and stands at the confluence of the Siang and Lui rivers. It is the junction of the Canton-Hankow and Kwangsi-Hunan railways, the latter running southwest 170 miles to Kweilin, capital of Kwangsi province.

DEFENDERS DEAD; JAPS IN HENGYANG

Chungking, Aug. 9 (A. P.).—The Japanese have broken into Hengyang and a message from the Chinese commander there said that his soldiers had been killed virtually to the last man, the High Command announced today.

The commander's message, received at 7 P. M. Monday, by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, said, "I am afraid this may be my last message to you."

Tokyo Raido Claims Seizure of Hengyang

Stilwell, However, Tells Of Air Aid to Defenders

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The Tokyo radio asserted today that Japanese troops had completely occupied Hengyang, strategic Hunan Province city on the Canton-Honkow railway which has been under siege for weeks.

The claim was not immediately confirmed by Chinese authorities. On the contrary, a communique from Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters said American and Chinese airmen yesterday dropped large quantities of ammunition to the Chinese garrison in Hengyang and bombed attacking Japanese forces.

The Tokyo broadcast quoted an imperial headquarters communique as saying:

"Japanese troops operating in the Hengyang area launched a general attack against enemy positions on August 4. The important town of Hengyang has been entirely occupied by our troops this morning at 8 a.m. Three Chungking divisions, as well as supporting American forces, have been wiped out."

There has been no mention of any American ground forces in the Hengyang area heretofore, and the allusion to "supporting American forces" may possibly have meant the air units which have been backing up the Chinese garrison.

MacArthur's Air Force Raids Halmahera Again

General Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, Wednesday, Aug. 9 (AP)—Thirteen parked airplanes were destroyed in a raid upon Halmahera Island, steppingstone between New Guinea and the Philippines, headquarters announced today.

BERGHAUS

Halmahera is an island octopus, one tentacle of which is about 200 miles west of the foremost Allied base at Sansapor, Dutch New Guinea, and another of which is 300 miles south of Mindanao.

Also Damage Merchant Ship

Liberators from New Guinea bases smashed Galela and Lolobata airdromes on Halmahera with 48 tons of bombs Monday. They also damaged a 3,000-ton merchantman.

The Halmahera raid was made in the face of adverse weather. In addition to destroying 13 planes, the bombs damaged many other grounded aircraft and started large explosions and fires.

Seven Japanese Zeros were air borne, but apparently only to escape destruction. None of them intercepted the raiders.

The 3,000-ton cargo vessel, upon which the bombers scored a direct hit, was part of an enemy convoy encountered in Halmahera's Wasile Bay. One of the naval escort vessels also was strafed.

Speed Troops From Wewak

Headquarters also reported that the Japanese were rushing troops from Wewak, in British New Guinea, to the Driniumor front about 20 miles east of Aitape, to reinforce units under attack by American forces there.

An American drive eastward across the Driniumor river has split the Japanese front-line forces into three groups, and has cut supply lines from Wewak for some if not all of these groups.

Allied bombers supported ground operations in the Aitape-Wewak area, dropping 81 tons of explosives upon the trapped enemy units.

Today's communique reported that the enemy "has brought forward from his shipping base force at Wewak one of his infantry regiments, the 66th," which is from Japan's 51st division. "His position is becoming difficult," the communique added.

13 Enemy Planes Destroyed

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, Aug. 9 (Wednesday) (AP). — Thirteen parked airplanes were destroyed in a raid upon Halmahera Island, stepping stone between New Guinea and the Philippines, headquarters announced today.

BERG

30.24— 17843

east shore and have pushed a center wedge threatening to cut the last, doomed Japanese in two.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced the successes today in a communique which listed the counted enemy dead since the invasion opened July 20 at more than 10,000—not taking into account the Japanese buried en masse in a cemetery since overrun by the Yanks.

The west coast advance carried the Marines and soldiers to Pt. Ritidian.

The east coast force pushed ahead more than three miles close to Anao point, an equal distance from the northeast tip.

The central wedge is within less than a mile of the north end of the island, making the line resemble the letter W.

Japanese pinched into the northeast corner of Guam are in an area of little more than 15 square miles.

Nimitz announced that daylight days of aerial attacks, Aug. 5, 6 and 7 on Nauru, southwest of the Marshalls, with Japan's phosphate industry and airfields the targets.

Other planes on Aug. 4 went back to the intermittently attacked Kuriles guarding Japan's approach from the north. In daylight, the Navy search planes raided airfields and also went after small shipping near Paramushiro.

Cornered in a tiny area of northern Guam, pounded day and night from the air, sea and land, their water supply restricted, the Japanese showed signs of panic.

They fled almost without a struggle Sunday from the village of Yigo, key approach to Mt. Santa Rosa, the 870-foot peak which might be the scene of their last stand.

Yigo's staunch defenses, 2,500 yards inland from the eastern coast, were engulfed by American infantry and Marines in a quick stab into the enemy lines that plunged the Nipponese into headlong flight. The Americans pursued them into the foothills.

A dispatch from Guam said the sudden rout of the enemy at Yigo was a pleasant surprise and was accomplished with light losses. It quoted Maj. Gen. Roy S. Geiger, commanding American troops on Guam, as saying "a real hard fight" had been expected.

On the western side of Guam, on

Yanks Capture Mt. Santa Rosa Dominating Coast of Guam Isle

ERICKSON

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Aug. 8 — (AP) Fast-driving American forces cleaning up the Guam campaign have surged north the last six and one half miles up Guam's west coast, captured 870-foot Mt. Santa Rosa dominating the north-the American left flank, Marines pushed northward from Haputo point. Pockets of resistance were isolated and erased. Some patrols were reported to have probed the northernmost tip of the island.

Reconquest of Guam Near; Japs Pressed Into Tenth of Island

By the Associated Press.

PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Aug. 8.—American Marines and soldiers on Guam have compressed several thousand Japanese into the northern one-tenth of the island, bringing complete reconquest of the former United States naval base very near.

Other bad tiding for the enemy:

Apparent neutralization of Yap Island, once-mighty Japanese air base in the Carolines, 600 miles southwest of Gaum.

Slicing of the Japanese supply line between Aitape and Wewak in British New Guinea.

Reports — Tokyo originated — of American airplanes over the Philippines on Monday (United States time).

The Tokyo radio yesterday said a large plane dropped "three small bombs harmlessly into the sea" near Davio, Mindanao, at 1 a.m. An hour later another plane fled before reaching Davao.

Bonin Raid Acknowledged.

There were no substantiating reports from Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney's Far Eastern Air Force, which patrols from the Australia-New Guinea area toward the Philippines. There has been no Allied air attack on the Philippines since mid-April, 1942, before the fall of Corregidor.

The Japanese belatedly acknowledged a two-day raid by an American carrier task force on the Bonin and Kazan Islands, 1,000 miles north of Guam and only about 600 miles from Tokyo, but said 41 United States planes were shot down and an American cruiser damaged.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz previously announced that 11 Japanese vessels were sunk and 30 other surface craft damaged, and 13 enemy planes were destroyed, for the loss of 16 American planes, last Thursday and Friday.

No Interception Over Yap.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported a 30-ton midday bombing raid Sunday on Yap, 800 miles east of Mindanao, and added:

"There was no attempt at interception. The enemy's air base appears to have been neutralized by our continuous attacks."

Gen. MacArthur also announced that an American counter-envelopment force east of Aitape had inflicted heavy casualties on trapped Japanese units, severed the enemy supply line from Wewak and was advancing westward on Afua Village.

Guam's trapped enemy remnants are under the merciless pressure of American ground forces, carrier planes and artillery. Last Sunday the Americans plunged forward 3 miles to occupy the midisland village of Yigo and a large cemetery where Japanese had given their dead mass burials. The advance brought one-third of the remaining Japanese area within American lines and gave the Yanks nine-tenths of the island.

Dutch-manned Mitchells sank a 1,500-ton enemy freighter transport south of Ceram in the Netherlands Indies Sunday.

JAPS FLEEING YANKS ON GUAM

Enemy Rushes From Yigo as Americans Attack.

By JOHN R. HENRY,
Representing the Combined Allied Press.

Aboard Amphibious Attack Flagship, Guam, Aug. 8 (A. P.) (via Navy Radio).—Struck by a determined thrust of the Seventy-seventh Army Division, Japanese defending the town of Yigo fled in pandemonium and swift capture of the village came as a pleasant surprise to soldiers and Marines pressing relentlessly onward today to the northern shores of Guam.

"I thought we'd have a real hard fight there," said Major-Gen. Roy S. Geiger, commanding the Third Amphibious Corps forces, who already have broken the back of enemy resistance on this island. He pointed out that the Japanese had prepared stanch defenses in Yigo, which lies 2,500 yards inland from the east coast and guards the approaches to Mount Santa Rosa.

The battle for the unimpressive little cross-roads settlement barely got beyond the skirmish stage, however, when the Japanese broke into headlong flight, leaving assorted equipment and supplies behind.

Capture of Yigo marked the first phase of a move to seize Mount Santa Rosa, which was regarded as probably the focal point of the enemy's intended last-gasp defensive effort.

Troops Forge Ahead.

The Army troops swept on into the foothills of the 800-foot mountain. Marines, meanwhile, were pushing along the western side of Guam, wiping out isolated pockets and in some cases sending patrols along the northernmost tip of the island.

Gen. Geiger said that his trans-island line of leathernecks and doughboys, massed through the dark jungleland and across fields from Lumuna Point on the east coast to Naputo Point on the west, now is at full strength and poised for the final push. He revealed that elements of the Marine First Brigade, which has seen action in every phase of the Guam campaign, now stand side by side with the Third Marine Division and 77h Army Division.

Ground Heavily Bombed.

Three hours before the ground action started at Yigo, United States planes from Saipan tumbled bombs upon Santa Rosa and Yigo, and Navy carrier bombers and fighters followed with equally explosive attacks. The whole area in addition was subjected to bombardment from warcraft lying off both sides of the island.

Roadblocks held up the Americans for a while but American tanks finally smashed ahead and tore into the town, guns blazing. Japanese troops, apparently more anxious to live a while longer than to join their ancestors, leaped out of pillboxes and hideaways and fled. It was a rout never before seen in this campaign. American losses were light.

It was evident the days of the enemy troops were numbered, unless they decide to make Japanese history by mass capitulation. A suicidal "banzai" charge was considered more probable.

Capture of Japanese cemeteries, where mass burials were recently conducted, led officers to believe that enemy casualties were far greater than the 8,000 known dead.

The Japanese have only one water reservoir left and it is under fire.

SPILLED BEANS OVER MARINES

Saipan, Marianas Islands (Delayed) (A. P.).—Corporal John Enright Jr. of Highland Park, N. J., who was in the first assault wave which attacked Saipan, told a fellow Jerseyman, Marine Corps Combat Correspondent Sergt. Bob Cooke of Metuchen, that Marines in his amphibian tractor were showered by a new kind of shrapnel when it was hit by an artillery shell while still a mile off shore.

The shell hit a case of beans, the contents of which were sprinkled all over the men, Enright said.

Jap Bullets Help Baltimore Soldier To Escape Yank Fire

An Advanced 7th Army Air Force Base in the Marianas Islands (AP—Delayed)—Fighting the war on both sides on the same day, with Japanese assistance in escaping the American fire, was the hazardous experience of three Seventh Army Air Force field clerks on Saipan Island.

They were Technical Sergeant Albert F. Parsons, of 4002 Ridgewood avenue, Baltimore; Technical Sergeant Ellis E. Shelhamer, of Grand Junction, Col., and Corporal Clifford E. Gilham, of Gary, Indiana.

In search of salvageable materials near the summit of Mount Topatchau, highest peak on Saipan, the three noticed a man about 30 yards ahead. They hailed him. As he whirled they realized he was a Japanese soldier.

Fired On By Patrol

The three fired, knocking the soldier to his knees. He fell at the side of the trail near a cliff and the field clerks surrounded the spot.

A Yank sniper patrol on the ridge above, knowing enemy remnants were around, mistook the clerks for Nipponese and opened fire. Parsons, Shelhamer and Gilham hit the dirt as rifles, carbines and machine guns spat lead. It was a tight spot.

Then an enemy machine-gun crew near by opened fire on the Yanks on the ridge. Protected by the enemy fire, the trio of clerks withdrew hastily.

"We didn't even stop to say thanks," said Parsons.

Was At Pearl Harbor

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis C. Parsons, Sergeant Parsons was at Pearl Harbor at the time of the Japanese attack. He enlisted in the army in 1940 and crossed in Hawaii on Christmas Eve of that year.

Last January, when he was interviewed by Howard M. Norton, Sunpapers war correspondent, at an air base in the Hawaiians, Sergeant Parsons was administrative inspector of personnel records at the base.

At that time he said he liked it so well in Hawaii he might stay there when the war is over if he could get a good job.

A graduate of Forest Park High School, Sergeant Parsons will be 23 on August 25. He was a member of the Hilltop Theater group in Ellicott City before enlisting.

Australia Mission to London

CANBERRA, Australia, Aug. 8 (AP).—An Australian delegation will leave soon for London to discuss with British Ministry of Food officials the nutrition value of different foods under war conditions and civilian consumption levels.

Bar Congress in Tumult

Proposal on Puerto Rican Independence Plebiscite Stirs Row

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 8 (AP).—After recommending an international treaty seeking elimination of racial discrimination in every American country and rejecting a resolution calling on the United States to return to Mexico disputed territory in El Paso, Tex., last night's session of the third Inter-American Bar Congress broke up in tumult.

A group of delegates remained for a noisy pro-independence session—led by Yamil Galib, of Puerto Rico—after the meeting was ordered adjourned without taking up a proposal recommending a Puerto Rican independence plebiscite.

Also tabled over loud protests was a motion censuring the Argentine government as "anti-hemispheric and pro-Axis.

RIOTING MARKS QUEBEC ELECTION

MONTREAL, Aug. 8—(AP) The liberal government of Premier Godbout was locked in a tight battle with Union Nationale candidates tonight, and indications were that if the government was returned it would be with a greatly cut margin.

Balloting was quiet everywhere except in Montreal where a number of persons suffered gunshot wounds in election day riots in one district.

Liberals were pulling ahead slowly in members elected, but the Union Nationale party showed continued strength in undecided districts and was leading in more districts than its opponents.

Liberals were elected in 18 seats, and the Union Nationale in 17 others — seven of them representing gains from liberals and one representing a gain from nationalist Rene Chaloult who lost out in Quebec (county).

Elsewhere in the province, the Union Nationale was leading in 22 districts as against liberals leading in 18. The young BLC populaire had elected two members and was leading in a third.

Rioting broke out in Montreal today as the predominantly French province of Quebec, comprising almost one third of Canada's population, turned out in record numbers to vote in a hotly-contested provincial legislative election in which Canada's war effort was a basic but underlying issue.

Scores were injured, including five persons taken to hospitals, when rival political gangs numbering hundreds clashed in a French section of Montreal, fired shots, flashed knives, overturned automobiles and wrecked buildings in rioting described by police as the city's worst in 25 years.

Godbout's Headquarters Stormed

The shooting began when a mob tried to storm a local headquarters of the Liberal party of provincial Premier Adelard Godbout, whose government was struggling to remain in power in a three-way campaign against the Union Nationale of former Premier Maurice Duplessis and the National Bloc Populaire, led by 32-year-old Andre Laurendeau. A few minutes after police brought this under control a second riot broke out when mobsters marched toward a near-by Nnion Nationale headquarters.

Voting for the members of legislature in the rest of Quebec was reported orderly but heavy, with the women of the province voting for the first time in a general election and interest running high over the war cooperation record of Godbout's Liberal regime.

Godbout's Regime In Danger

Indications tonight were that if Godbout's government is returned it would be with a greatly cut margin.

At 10 P. M. the Liberals and Union Nationale had each won 32 seats, and the Bloc Populaire 4. For the remaining 23 seats of the legislature, Duplessis' Union Nationale was leading in 15, and Godbout's Liberals in only 5. Forty-six seats would give a bare majority.

Godbout, Duplessis and Laurendeau all were elected in their home constituencies.

The Socialist Cooperative Commonwealth Federation, which has risen rapidly to prominence in western Canada and in Ontario, entered 24 candidates in its first venture into Quebec, but failed to win any of the first 68 seats decided and was leading in only one of the remaining 23.

In the outgoing legislature, which had only 86 seats, the Liberals held 59 seats, the Union Nationale, 17; Nationals, 1, and Independents 1. Eight were vacant. A redistribution raised the total number of seats to 91.

VIOLENCE MARKS QUEBEC ELECTION

Quebec, Que., Aug. 8 (A. P.).—Three persons were hospitalized with gunshot wounds and numbers of others suffered cuts and bruises today in Election Day clashes in Montreal's East End.

Windows were smashed and several automobiles were overturned during the fracas in front of the Liberal party headquarters for the St. James Riding (electoral district) of Montreal. Liberal organizers said it began when men from a caravan of fourteen automobiles tried to storm the headquarters.

Earlier today, one man was stabbed during a smaller outbreak in the East End.

Quebec's Provincial balloting was regarded as an indirect test of Canada's war policy as carried out by the Liberal Government of Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King.

Social Credit Wins In Alberta

Edmonton, Alberta, Aug. 8 (AP)—Reelection of the nine-year-old

30-24— 17845

Social Credit Government of Alberta was conceded tonight by rival factions of Premier Manning a little more than an hour after the vote tabulation started.

Candidates were seeking election to the province's 57 legislative seats.

A special staff recorded thousands of ballots cast yesterday by Alberta men and women in the armed service who are stationed in the province, which were added to today's returns.

NIGHT

Son of Gen. M. A. Pope Escapes Nazis in Italy

By the Associated Press.

OTTAWA, Aug. 8.—Lt. W. H. Pope of the Royal 22d Regiment, son of Maj. Gen. M. A. Pope of the Canadian Army staff at Washington, has escaped from the Germans in Italy and rejoined his regiment after 71 days behind the enemy lines, it was learned last night.

Lt. Pope was captured when assisting some of his wounded men to safety.

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—An ABSIE (American broadcasting station in Europe) broadcast said tonight that Adolf Hitler had summoned Benito Mussolini to Berchtesgaden for an emergency meeting.

Rommel Recuperating

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—The Berlin radio said tonight that German Field Marshal Gen. Edwin Rommel, second in command on the western front who was injured during an Allied air raid July 17, "is being cured" in a hospital.

Report Polish Change

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—A broadcast from Berne said today that Tomasz Arciszewski, leader of the Polish Socialist party, has succeeded Gen. Kazimierz Sosnkowski as successor designate to the President of the republic.

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—A plot to overthrow Generalissimo Francisco Franco of Spain was reported today by DNB, the German news agency, which asserted agents charged with engineering the coup had been arrested in Morocco.

S HOLD BREADLINE

NEW YORK, Aug. 8—(AP) The Office of War Information today quoted the Swiss newspaper Tribune de Geneve as saying in a dispatch datelined from Paris that the Parisians "have almost nothing to eat" because warfare has cut off the food supply from Normandy.

"In the Rue Mouffetard I saw 500 people waiting in front of a bakeshop on the door of which was written 'no more bread,'" the newspaper's correspondent wrote.

He reported drinking water also was very scarce.

Shanghai Raided by Lone U. S. Plane, Japs Say

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—A single American B-24 bomber raided Shanghai today, the Japanese Domei news agency reported in an English-language wireless transmission.

The transmission, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, said that "only very slight damage had been caused."

Jap Premier Warns American Advances Threaten Homeland

AUG 9 1944

By the Associated Press.

Premier Gen. Kuniaki Koiso was quoted by the Tokyo radio today as warning the Japanese people that American advances in the Marianas and the New Guinea area, plus an apparent intention "to strike at our homeland," had confronted the empire with "national difficulties of unprecedented seriousness."

The broadcast, reported by the Federal Communications Commission, said Koiso had told the nation in a special radio address that it had but one course to pursue—"to consolidate the resolution of our total strength to overcome all difficulties and thus win the war."

He added the time had now come when Japanese military operations "on a grand and bold scale are expectantly awaited."

The new premier pledged his government to concentrate its efforts, "with the recently established Supreme Council for the direction of the war as a basis," on leading the Japanese to victory.

He declared the government was determined to "bring about not only the rapid expansion of our fighting strength, but also the stabilization and further brightening of the people's livelihood, for which no efforts will be spared."

Koiso's address coincided with the August observance of imperial rescript day—the monthly anniversary marking the attack on Pearl Harbor and the edict from the throne declaring war on the United States.

The Japanese news agency Domei said the premier had used "robust military language" in addressing the Nation and quoted his reference to recent Allied successes as follows:

"In the two years and nine months since the outbreak of the war the enemy, deeply distressed by profound difficulties of their own and by pressing internal and external developments, have encroached upon the Marianas in an attempt to obtain a quick decision in the war, and by present appearances as if to strike at our homeland in a single blow.

"In the New Guinea area, too, they have made gradual advances and have revealed their plan to threaten our lines of communication with the southern region. The time has now come when military operations by our imperial forces on a grand and bold scale are expectantly awaited, and at the same time when our 100,000,000 people must arm themselves and in obedience strike against the enemy and destroy their evil design."

Brittany Peninsula. It may have been July 20, which Hitler announced an attempt on his life. It may have been earlier, or it may be yet to come.

26 Years Ago Today Germany Decided World War Was Lost

AUG 9 1944

By the Associated Press.

Today is the 26th anniversary of the "black day of the German Army" in the World War—the day the German high command decided the war was lost.

On August 8, 1918, Marshal Foch launched his great offensive into the Albert-Montdidier salient in the Somme sector. Spearheaded by 450 tanks, British and French infantry swarmed through the enemy's lines—penetrating up to 7½ miles on a front of 20 miles and taking so many prisoners that war dispatches at the time said counting them was a "difficult task."

The gains that first day of the Allied onslaught were the greatest on the western front since trench warfare began.

It was the beginning of the end.

Marshal Erich von Ludendorff said in later years: "August 8 was the black day of the German Army in the history of the war. * * * It put the decline of our fighting power beyond all doubt."

Acting on this realization, Ludendorff immediately informed the Kaiser that he no longer could guarantee a military victory and that peace overtures should be begun quickly before the situation became worse.

They did become worse. The German home front, the central alliance and the German throne crumbled even more rapidly than did the army.

Yet it was three months and three days after Germany's "black day" before peace came.

Whether a comparable "black day" already has appeared for Germany in this war is a matter of opinion. It may have been July 27, the day the Russians captured Lwow, Bialystok, Stanislawow, Daugavpils, Rezekne and Siauliai. It may have been August 3, when the Americans sliced off most of the

U. S., Britain Sign Oil Pact Designed to Foster Peace

AUG 9 1944

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8—(AP) The United States and Great Britain today signed pact on oil policy designed to promote peace-time disputes between the two Allies and serve as a prime weapon to enforce peace.

The agreement, negotiated by acting Secretary of State Stettinius for this country and Lord Beaverbrook for Britain, is the first pact dealing directly with post-war trade and security.

Both countries agreed that it shall go into effect when each has notified the other "of its readiness."

For the United States, this leaves open the question of Senate ratification, which a State department spokesman said had not yet been decided. It is not expected that the agreement in its present form will be sent to the Senate however, since it can be enforced as an executive agreement and both Britain and this country consider it a temporary arrangement until a multilateral agreement including all nations interested in oil can be concluded.

AUG 9 1944

The agreement looks toward an eventual international oil conference and the establishment of an international commission which would make recommendations to governments on how companies should produce and sell petroleum.

It sets up an Anglo-American commission for this purpose in the meanwhile, and both nations undertake to keep informed and inform the commission on what their nationals intend to do.

The two governments pledge to "endeavor, in accordance with their respective constitutional procedures, to give effect to such approved recommendations" made by the commission.

The agreement emphasizes the view that world security must remain uppermost in all international considerations, and makes the distribution of oil "to all peaceable countries" subject to a future world organization to check aggression and maintain peace.

Thus, it provides the first ready means for sanctions against aggressors on oil—basic to modern warfare.

In addition to establishment of the Anglo-American commission, main points of the agreement are:

1. Assurance that "adequate supplies of petroleum shall be available in international trade to the nationals of all peaceable countries at fair prices and on a nondiscriminatory basis," subject to provisions for the maintenance of peace.

2. "Development of petroleum resources with a view to the sound economic advancement of producing countries."

3. "Recognition of the principle of equal opportunity in the acquisition of concessions."

4. "Respect for valid concession contracts."

5. Ban on unnecessary restrictions, such as governments might impose for their individual interests, in production and international distribution of petroleum.

The agreement lays down the broad principle of free competition within the framework of international controls for peace and sound economic development. Sponsors hope it may be a model for future pacts on such subjects as rubber, wheat, aviation and international trade in general.

Other governments may simply adhere to the pact, or an international conference may be held at which a new agrement may be written.

Enforcement of the agreement is left up to each government, which promises to do what it can to bring its nation into line.

U. S., British Oil Agreement

AUG 9 1944

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP).—Following are the texts of a State Department memorandum and the Anglo-American agreement on petroleum:

An agreement on petroleum between the government of the United States and the government of the United Kingdom was signed in the State Department at Washington on Aug. 8, 1944, by the Honorable Edward R. Stettinius jr., Acting Secretary of State, on behalf of the United States government, and by Lord Beaverbrook, who led the United Kingdom delegation, on behalf of the government of the United Kingdom. The conversations which led up to the negotiation of this areement were conducted for the United States government by a delegation consisting of:

The Honorable Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, chairman.

The Honorable Harold L. Ickes, Petroleum Administrator for War, vice-chairman.

The Honorable James V. Forrestal, Secretary of the Navy.

The Honorable Robert P. Patterson, Under Secretary of War.

The Honorable Leo Crowley, Foreign Economic Administrator.

Mr. Charles E. Wilson, vice-chairman, War Production Board.

Mr. Ralph K. Davies, Deputy Petroleum Administrator for War.

Mr. Charles B. Rayner, petroleum adviser, Department of State.

Mr. Harry C. Hawkins, director, office of economic affairs, Department of State, adviser.

Mr. James C. Sappington, assistant chief, petroleum division, Department of State, executive secretary.

Mr. John A. Loftus, petroleum division, Department of State, recording secretary.

For the United Kingdom they were conducted by a delegation consisting of:

The Right Honorable Lord Beaverbrook, Lord Privy Seal, head of delegation.

The Right Honorable Richard Law, M. P., Minister of State.

The Right Honorable Ben Smith, M. P., Minister resident in Washington.

The Right Honorable Ralph Assheton, M. P., Financial Secretary to the Treasury.

The Right Honorable Geoffrey Lloyd, M. P., chairman, Oil Control Board.

Sir William Brown, chief adviser.

Mr. Victor Butler, secretary.

The agreement will become effective upon notification by both governments of their readiness to bring the agreement into force.

The agreement lays down certain broad principles governing international trade in petroleum. These principles have to do with assuring the availability of adequate petroleum supplies to all peacable countries at fair prices and on a non discriminatory basis, subject to such collective-security arrangements as may at any time be in force; the development of petroleum resources with a view to the sound economic advancement of producing countries; recognition of the principle of equal opportunity in the acquisition of concessions; respect for valid concession contracts, and freeing the production and distribution of petroleum from unnecessary restrictions.

AUG 9 1944

The agreement provides for the establishment of an international petroleum commission composed of representatives from the two governments. The commission is charged with the responsibility of estimating world demand for petroleum and recommending to the two governments the manner in which this demand may best be satisfied in accordance with the general principles of the agreement as referred to above. The recommendations of this commission, if approved by the two governments, will be issued with a view to their adoption by the American and British companies operating in the international petroleum trade. The commission is further charged with the duty of investigating Anglo-American problems relating to efficient and orderly operation of the international petroleum industry and of making appropriate recommendations to the two governments.

This agreement, which is terminable on three months' notice by either government, is of an interim character and is preliminary to the negotiation of a multilateral agreement on troleum to which the governments of all producing and consuming countries interested in the international petroleum trade will, it is hoped, become signatories. The agreement provides that the requisite steps, preparatory to the convocation of a world petroleum conference for the negotiation of a multilateral agreement, will be taken as soon as practicable.

The two signatory countries agree to seek the collaboration of other interested countries in the implementation of the agreed principles and to consult as appropriate with the governments of such countries in connection with activities undertaken on the basis of recommendations of the petroleum commission.

Text of the agreement is attached.

AGREEMENT ON PETROLEUM BETWEEN THE GOVERNMENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA AND
THE GOVERNMENT OF THE UNITED KINGDOM OF GREAT BRITAIN AND NORTHERN IRELAND
INTRODUCTORY ARTICLE

The government of the United States of America and the government of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, whose nationals hold, to a substantial extent jointly, rights to explore and develop petroleum resources in other countries, recognize:

1. That ample supplies of petroleum, available in international trade to meet increasing market demands, are essential for both the security and economic well-being of nations;

2. That for the foreseeable future the petroleum resources of the world are adequate to assure the availability of such supplies;

3. That such supplies should be derived from the various producing areas of the world with due consideration of such factors as available reserves, sound engineering practices, relevant economic factors and the interests of producing and consuming countries and with a view to the full satisfaction of expanding demand;

4. That such supplies should be available in accordance with the principles of the Atlantic Charter and in order to serve the needs of collective security;

5. That the general adoption of these principles can best be promoted by international agreement among all countries interested in the petroleum trade, whether as producers or consumers.

Article I

The two governments agree that the development of petroleum resources for international trade should be expanded in an orderly manner on a world-wide basis with due consideration of the factors set forth in Paragraph 3 of the introductory article and within the framework of applicable laws or concession contracts. To this end, and as a preliminary measure to the calling of the international conference referred to in Article II below, the two governments will so direct their efforts as to respect to petroleum resources in which rights are held or may be acquired by the nationals of either country:

1. That, subject always to considerations of military security and to the provisions of such arrangements for the preservation of peace and prevention of aggression as may be in force, adequate supplies of petroleum shall be available in international trade to the nationals of all peaceable countries at fair prices and on a nondiscriminatory basis;

2. That the development of petroleum resources and the benefits received therefrom by the producing countries shall be such as to encourage the sound economic advancement of those countries;

3. That the development of these resources shall be conducted with a view to the availability of adequate supplies of petroleum to both countries as well as to all other peaceable countries, subject to the provisions of such collective-security arrangements as may be established;

4. That, with respect to the acquisition of exploration and development rights in areas not now under concession, the principle of equal opportunity shall be respected by both governments;

5. That the government of each country and the nationals thereof shall respect all valid concession contracts and lawfully acquired rights and shall make no effort unilaterally to interfere directly or indirectly with such contracts or rights;

6. That, subject always to the considerations mentioned in Paragraph 1 of this article, the exploration for and development of petroleum resources, the construction and operation of refineries and other facilities and the distribution of petroleum shall not be hampered by restrictions imposed by either government or its nationals, inconsistent with the purposes of this agreement.

Article II

The two governments recognize that the principles declared in Article 1 hereof are of general applicability and merit adherence on the part of all countries interested in the international petroleum trade of the world.

Therefore, with a view to the wider adoption and effectuation of the principles embodied in this agreement, they agree that as soon as practicable they will propose to the governments of other interested producing and consuming countries an international petroleum agreement which, inter alia, would establish a permanent international petroleum council composed of representatives of all signatory countries.

To this end the two governments hereby pledge themselves to formulate plans for an international conference to consider the negotiation of such a multilateral petroleum agreement. They also pledge themselves to consult with other interested governments with a view to taking whatever action is necessary to prepare for the proposed conference.

Article III

There are, however, numerous problems of joint immediate interest to the two governments with respect to petroleum resources in which rights are held or may be acquired by their nationals, which must be discussed and resolved on a co-operative interim basis if the general petroleum supply situation is not to deteriorate.

With this end in view the two governments hereby agree to establish an international petroleum commission to be composed of eight members, four members to be appointed immediately by each government. This commission, in furtherance of and in accordance with the principles stated in Article I hereof, shall consider problems of mutual interest to both governments and their nationals, and, with a view to the equitable disposition of such problems, shall be charged with the following duties and responsibilities:

1. To prepare long-term estimates of world demand for petroleum, having due regard for the interests of consuming countries and expanding consumption requirements;

2. To suggest the manner in which, over the long term, this estimated demand may best be satisfied by production equitably distributed among the various producing countries in accordance with the criteria enumerated in Paragraph 3 of the introductory article;

3. To recommend to both governments broad policies for adoption by operating companies with a view to effectuating programs suggested under the provisions of Paragraph 2 of this article;

4. To analyze such short-term problems of joint interest as may arise in connection with production, processing, transportation and distribution of petroleum on a world-wide basis, wherever the nationals of either country have a significant interest, and to recommend to both governments such action as may appear appropriate;

5. To make regular reports to the two governments concerning its activities;

6. To make, from time to time, such additional reports and recommendations to the two governments as may be appropriate to carry out the purposes of this agreement.

The commission shall establish such organization as is necessary to carry out its functions under this agreement. The expenses of the commission shall be shared equally by the two governments.

Article IV

To effectuate this agreement the two governments hereby grant reciprocal assurances:

1. That they will adhere to the principles set forth in Article I, Paragraphs 1 to 6 inclusive;

2. That they will endeavor to obtain the collaboration of the governments of other producing and consuming countries in the implementation of the principles set forth in Article I, and will consult, as appropriate, with such governments in connection with activities undertaken under Article III;

3. That upon approval of the recommendations of the commission they will endeavor, in accordance with their respective constitutional procedures, to give effect to such approved recommendations;

4. That each government will undertake to keep itself adequately informed of the current and prospective activities of its nationals with respect to the development, processing, transportation and distribution of petroleum;

5. That each government will make available to the commission such information regarding the activities of its nationals as is necessary to the realization of the purposes of this agreement.

Article V

The two governments agree that in this agreement:

1. The words "country" or "territories"

(A) In relation to the government of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, include, in addition to the United Kingdom, all British colonies, overseas territories, protectorates, protected states and all mandated territories administered by that government; and

(B) In relation to the government of the United States of America, include, in addition to the United States, all territory under the jurisdiction of the United States;

2. The word "nationals" means

(A) In relation to the government of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, all British subjects and British protected persons belonging to the territories referred to in 1 (A) above and all companies incorporated under the laws of any of the abovementioned territories, and also companies incorporated elsewhere in which the controlling interest is held by any of such nationals;

(B) In relation to the government of the United States of America, all nationals of the United States, including companies incorporated under the laws of the territories referred to in 1 (B) above, and also companies incorporated elsewhere in which the controlling interest is held by any of such nationals;

3. The word "petroleum" means crude petroleum and its derivatives.

Article VI

This agreement shall enter into force upon a date to be agreed upon after each government shall have notified the other of its readiness to bring the agreement into force and shall continue in force until three months after notice of termination has been given by either government or until it is superseded by the international petroleum agreement in Article II.

In witness whereof, the undersigned, duly authorized thereto, have signed this agreement.

Done in Washington, in duplicate, this eighth day of August, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Forty-four.

For the government of the and United States of America.
EDWARD R. STETTINIUS JR.,
Acting Secretary of State of the United States of America.

For the government of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland:
BEAVERBROOK,
Lord Privy Seal.

Allied Shipping Pool Agreement Extended

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP) — The United States, Britain and other Allied shipping powers signed in London today an extension of their present shipping pool agreement insuring that when Germany has been defeated there will be an adequate pooling of tonnage to carry on the war against Japan.

The action was announced jointly in London and Washington, but no details were available there.

Gen. Deane Back From Russia

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP).—Major General John R. Deane, chief of the United States military mission in Moscow, has returned to this country temporarily, presumably for reports and conferences.

Flyers In Burma Try Spike Bombs

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—It's not a game but airmen over Burma play darts with 100-pound bombs—called spike-bombs.

Instead of dart boards, they use Japanese railways and bridges. Scores have been impressive.

Spike-bombs, the army reported today, were improvised in the India-Burma theater where delayed-action fuses are necessary to let low-flying planes clear the target before the explosion. Ordinary bombs showed a tendency to ricochet and explode harmlessly a few feet away from the target.

To meet the need, airmen took the nose fuse out of each bomb, replacing it with a long spike made from an old axle. The plan worked, so spike-bombs were made by hand in the theater until supplies ordered in the United States began to arrive in quantity.

STILWELL MADE 4-STAR GENERAL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 — (AP) Joseph Warren Stilwell, 61-year-old commander of American troops in the China, Burma, India theater, was elevated today to the temporary rank of full general.

His confirmation by the Senate raised to six the number of four-star officers on active army duty. The others are George C. Marshall, chief of staff; Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme Allied commander in Europe; Douglas MacArthur, Southwest Pacific Commander; H. H. Arnold, Army Air Forces commander, and Main Craig, chairman of the officer procurement board.

Stilwell's promotion was described by a Senate Military Affairs committee spokesman as a reward for the successful termination of the Burma campaign. "The general is a remarkable man to have endured what he has in Burma," he added.

Other promotions confirmed today were:

To Major General: Robert Tryon Frederick, San Francisco; Jens Anderson Doe, Chicago.

To Brigadier General: Gerald Joseph Higgins, Buhl, Idaho; Maurice Wiley Daniel, New Albany, Ind.; James Alward Van Fleet, Coytesville, N. J.; George Arthur Taylor, Portland, Ore.; Charles Draper William Canham, Kolo, Miss.; Hugh French Thomason Hoffman, Fort Smith, Ark.; John Huston Church, Frederick, Md.; William O'Dwyer, New York city.

Combat Fatigue Causes Adm. Moon to Kill Himself

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 — (AP) Combat fatigue, Navy Secretary Forrestal said today, apparently caused one of the Navy's youngest rear admirals to take his own life after participating in the invasion of Europe.

He was Don Pardee Moon, 50, whose task force moved through one of the most heavily mined areas off the French shores to attack the Cherbourg peninsula.

Successful Operation

At that time the operation was reported to have been carried out with surprising speed and low casualties.

Where Moon was assigned at the time of his death last Saturday was not disclosed by the Navy, which reported only:

30. 24 — 17847

AUG 9 1944

"The Secretary of the Navy announced with regret that Rear Admiral Don Pardee Moon, U. S. Navy, who commanded a task force that took part in the landings in France, died on August 5, 1944. Apparently Rear Admiral Moon had taken ill as a result of combat fatigue."

Moon was promoted to the rank of rear admiral last January and immediately was assigned to command a task force which subsequently joined in opening the assault on Europe.

Earlier, he had commanded a destroyer squadron which participated in landings in French Morocco in November, 1942. He was awarded a letter of commendation for excellent anti-submarine and anti-aircraft operations by his destroyers there.

Stickler for Detail

Known as a stickler for detail, Moon served in the planning division of the office of Admiral Ernest J. King, navy commander-in-chief, from shortly after the North African landings until his assignment to sea in January.

During that time he may have participated in planning the European invasion.

Praise came to his task force in a communique from Supreme headquarters, Allied Expeditionary force, on June 10.

It reported: "During the night destroyers under the command of Rear Admiral Don Pardee Moon, USN, intercepted a force of heavily armed enemy craft between the mainland and the isles St. Marcouf and drove them off."

A native of Kokomo, Ind., Moon was graduated from the Naval Academy in 1916. He is survived by his widow, who lives in Arlington, Va., and four children.

Moon's death raises to 12 the number of officers of flag or general rank in the Navy and Marines who have died in combat areas since the war started.

9 Generals Get DSM; Bradley Heads List

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—The army awarded the Distinguished Service Medal today to nine generals for outstanding leadership in Italy and Normandy.

Lieut. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, of Moberly, Mo., senior commander of American ground forces in the invasion, headed the list, receiving an Oak Leaf Cluster in place of a second DSM. Oak Leaf Clusters, representing second awards of the DSM, also were given to Maj. Gen. Clarence R. Huebner, Washington, commanding the First Division; Maj. Gen. Lawton Collins, a native of New Orleans, commanding general of the Seventh Corps in Normandy, and Maj. Gen. Leonard T. Gerow, Washington, invasion commander of the Fifth Corps.

The DSM was awarded to Maj. Gen. Raymond O. Barton, Jacksonville, Fla., commanding general of the Fourth Division in the invasion; Maj. Gen. John B. Coulter, El Paso, Texas, who commanded the 85th Division in the march on Rome; Maj. Gen. William W. Eagles, San Antonio, Texas, who led the 45th Division in southern Italy, on the Anzio beachhead and the advance on Rome; Maj. Gen. John W. O'Daniel, Atlanta, Ga., commander of the Third Division at Anzio, and Maj. Gen. John E. Sloan, San Antonio, Texas, commander of the 88th Division in Italy.

ARMY CASUALTIES

Washington, Aug. 8 (A. P.).—The War Department announced today the names of 1,954 Army casualties in the Asiatic, European, Mediterranean and Southwest Pacific areas. Included in the list are the following with their next of kin:

WOUNDED

NEW YORK.

European Area.

BONITA, Peter J., pvt.; Mrs. Carmaker Bonita, 815 40th st., Brooklyn.
BONURA, Joseph P., pvt.; Mrs. Mary Bonura, 130-34 Lefferts Blvd., Ozone Park.
BRADY, Eugene F., pvt.; Mrs. Catherine R. Brady, 824 Hancock st., Brooklyn.
CALL, Joseph E., pvt.; Mrs. Nellie Siemasko, Pomona.
CHARPENTIER, Pierre, pfc.; Mrs. Feldmene Charpentier, 134 Broadway, Lynbrook.
D'ANDREA, Victor, pfc.; Michael D'Andrea, 142-23 95th ave., Queens.
DEAN, Joseph F., sgt.; Mrs. Mary Dean, 218 W. 22d st.
D'ELIA, Patsy P., tech. 5g.; Frank D'Elia, 219 E. 29th st.
DELANEY, Kenneth T., pvt.; Mrs. Margaret Delaney, 14-52 28th ave., Long Island City.
DELUCIA, John J., pvt.; Mrs. Lucy Delucia, 936 E. 172d st.
EICHEN, Sidney, 1st lt.; Esrael Eichen, 3029 Brighton 12th st., Brooklyn.
EISEN, Albert, tech. 5g.; Mrs. Rebecca Eisen, 2144 Bronx Park, E., Bronx.
FASULO, Diego, pfc.; Salvatore Fasulo, 174 Johnson ave., Brooklyn.
FISHOFF, Hyman J., pvt.; Mrs. Lillian Fishoff, 42 E. 98th st., Brooklyn.
FLAUTO, Ralph E., pvt.; Gilbert T. Flauto, 104-56 125th st., Richmond Hill.
FORMAN, Joseph, 2d lt.; Phillip Forman, 569 Empire blvd., Brooklyn.
FORREST, Edwin, pvt.; Mrs. Elinor M. Forrest, [illegible] Mount Vernon.
FULBROOK, [illegible] G., pvt.; William Fulbrook, [illegible] 105th st.
FUNK, Lloyd N., pvt.; Mrs. Julia Funk, 45 Front st., Poughkeepsie.
GENUA, John A., 2d lt.; Michael Genua Sr., Route 1, Hicksville.
GOLD, Teddy, pfc.; Mrs. Maria Gold, 573 Christopher ave., Brooklyn.
GOLUP, Charles J., pvt.; Mrs. Anna Voesach, 120-27 142d st., South Ozone Park.
GOODS, Thomas F., Jr., pfc.; Mrs. Delia Lyons, 218 67th st.
GRADY, John D., pvt.; Mrs. Edith Grady, 302 St. Anns ave.
HICKEY, John M., pfc.; Michael Hickey, 449 West 19th st.
HUNTER, David H., pfc.; Louis J. Horowitz, 60 E. 42d st.
IANNACONE, John F., pfc.; Louis Iannacone, 1050 58th st., Brooklyn.
JAEGER, Harry, pvt.; Mrs. Josephine Jaeger, 826 Greene ave., Brooklyn.
JOLLEY, George S., pfc.; Mrs. Betty R. Jolley, 553 Academy st.
JONES, Bryant W., sgt.; Mrs. Muriel E. Jones, 6 Crown Top Rd., Manhasset.
KATZ, Paul, pvt.; Mrs. Jean Katz, 1170 E. New York ave., Brooklyn.
KAUFMAN, Melvyn, pvt.; Mrs. Esther Kaufman, 6 Preston Rd., Great Neck.
KEATING, Harold F., Jr., pvt.; Harold F. Keating, Sr., 2443 Tiebout ave.
KELLMAN, Murrays, pvt.; Max Kellman, 12 Pinehurst ave.
LAMARCA, Pat A., pfc.; Tom Lamarca, 251 Conklin ave., Brooklyn.
LANOCE, Vincent L., pvt.; Vincent J. Lanoce, 164-45 81st ave., Jamaica.
LEBECK, William J., pvt.; Mrs. Rosina Lebeck, 151 W. 62d st., care Tedesco.
LEE, Ling Y., pfc.; Ling Yen Lee, 163 W. 49th st.
LILLIAN, Philip, pvt.; Mrs. Beckie Lillian, 85 S. 10th st., Brooklyn.
LINDSAY, Eugene J., sgt.; William Lindsay, 96-06 Jamaica ave., Richmond Hill.
LOIODICE, Michael, pvt.; Pasquale Loiodice, 94-53 43d ave., Corona.
LONGLEY, Richard V., pvt.; Mrs. Dorothea L. Longley, 56 Lander st., Newburgh.
LOSCALZO, Leonard J., sgt.; Mrs. Anna M. Loscalzo, 571 E. 224th st., Bronx.
MADSEN, Edward J., pfc.; Mrs. Hedvig Madsen, 101-33 93d st., Ozone Park.
MALERBA, Jerry J., pvt.; Mrs. Mary A. Malerba, 70 Lorimer st., Brooklyn.
MARINO, Mathew S., pfc.; Joseph Marino, 132 Elery st., Brooklyn.
MARINO, Salvatore J., pfc.; Mrs. Marie Marino, 101 Bay 37th st., Brooklyn.
MEADE, Roderic J., flt off.; Mrs. Sylvia Meade, 25-33 14th st., Astoria.
MORIARTY, James H., pfc.; James Moriarty, 38 Traverse ave., Port Chester.
MORTON, Walter H., tech. 3g.; Elwood S Morton, 891 E. 21st st., Brooklyn.
NETHERCOTT, John R., pfc.; Mrs. Clementina Nethercott, 478 Franklin st, Port Chester.
ONUFRAK, George., tech. 4g.; Mrs. Julia Onufrak, 113a Nassau ave., Brooklyn.
ORLOFF, Herbert, pfc.; Mrs. Miriam Orloff, 1990 Ellis ave., Bronx.
OTTO, George J., pvt.; Herman F. Otto 1676 Linden st., Ridgewood.
PAPE, Ralph D., tech. 4g.; Anthony Pape, 937 59th st., Brooklyn.
PETERSON, George C., pvt.; Mrs. Ina L. Peterson, 310 Taylor st., Staten Island.
PIEPOL, Stanley, cpl; Mrs. Mary Kowaloff, 417 E. 6th st.
PIPOLO, Sandy E., 1st sgt.; Mrs. Phyllis Pipolo, 101-39 101st st., Ozone Park.
PLOTKIN, Leopold L., pfc.; Mrs. Rebecca Plotkin, 355-359 S. 4th st., Brooklyn.
RATTI, Raymond V., pfc.; Edward J. Ratti, 2862 Harrington ave.
REMOLLINO, Joseph D., cpl.; Mrs. Margaret G. Remollino, 793 Grant st., Brooklyn.
RODRIGUEZ, Joseph, sgt.; Mrs. Ella R. Kramer, 3710 90th st., Flushing.
RUGGIERO, Domenick R., staff sgt.; Mrs. Rachael Salasano, 1173 Colgate ave.
RULLAN, Louis F., pfc.; Mrs. D. Rullan, 3054 Godwin Ter.
RUSSOMANNO, Louis M., 1st sgt.; Mrs. Antoinette Russomanno, 353 W. 26th st.
RYAN, Edward A., pfc.; James Ryan 85-48 108th st., Richmond Hill.
RYAN, Vincent A., pfc.; Mrs. Anna Wohl 670 Jamaica ave., Brooklyn.
SADLIER, Clement J., pfc.; Mrs. Pearl S Larson, 111-14 145th st., Jamaica.
SALICA, Salvatore A. Jr., pfc.; Mrs. Lula M. Salica, 153 Huntington st., Brooklyn.
SAVINO, Felice J., tech. 5g.; Giuseppe Savino, 985 Madison ave., Brooklyn.
SCHMIDT, Xavier T., pfc.; Mrs. Elizabeth Schmidt, 12 Railroad ave., Montgomery
SCHNEIDER, Oscar, pvt.; Michae Schneider, 564 E. 91st st., Brooklyn.
SCHULMAN, Marvin B., staff sgt.; Mrs Pearl Schulman, 1604 University ave.
SETTANNI, Michael O., 1st lt.; Mrs Mary Settanni, 2352 61st st., Brooklyn.
SHURE, Jerome B., pvt.; Herman Shure 199 Kingston ave., Brooklyn.
SIRIANNI, Salvatore A., pfc.; Anthony D Sirianni, 360 10th ave.
SORICK, Sam, pvt.; Mario Uhoda, 19 30th st., Brooklyn.
STENGEL, John C., pvt.; Mrs. Margare Stengel, 127 Troutman st., Brooklyn.
STYPULKOWSKI, Stanley, pfc.; William Stypulkowski, 366 Ashburton ave., Yonkers.
UFFNER, Raphael L., capt.; Mrs. Raphael L. Uffner, 71-15 37th ave., Jackson Heights.
ULLRAM, Oskar W., pfc.; Mrs. W. Ullram, 31 Grand ave., Poughkeepsie.
UZZILLO, Benny D., pvt.; Mrs. Mary S. Uzzillo, 72 Highland ave., New Rochelle.
YEARWOOD, [illegible], pvt.; Clarence Yearwood, 1486 E. 56th st., Brooklyn.
YONKE, George, pvt.; Mrs. Anne Yonke, 434 Grant ave., Brooklyn.
YOUNG, Garland R., 1st sgt.; Mrs. Helen R. Young, 1417 Greene ave., Brooklyn.
ZAPKA, William, sgt.; Mrs. Anna Zapka, 529 E. 147th st.
ZITO, Domenick F., staff sgt.; Matthew Zito, 24 Garden st., Brooklyn.

Mediterranean Area

BARRETT, William J. Jr., pvt.; Mrs. Eleanor Barrett, 309 E. 91st st.
BEISIEGEL, Frederick, pfc.; Mrs. Florence Beisiegel, Erie st., Blauvelt.
BOYLE, Thomas F., pfc.; Mrs. Agnes McGarry, 4 Topping st., Staten Island.
CAINE, Martin J., tech sgt.; Mrs. R. Shirley Laufer, 158-18 Riverside Drive.
COHEN, William, pfc.; Louis Cohen, 1479 Jesup ave., Bronx.
CURRAN, R. F., pvt.; Miss A. Curran, Demarest ave., West Haverstraw.
DAMBROSIA, Francis H., pfc.; Mrs. Antonetto D. Polito, 315 Chauncey st., Bklyn.
DAMIANI, Mario R., tech sgt.; George Platoni, 322 E. 56th st.
DAVIDSON, Harold S., pfc.; Mrs. Phyllis E. Davidson, 905 Summit ave., Bronx.
DODDS, Robert T., pfc.; Mrs. Elizabeth Dodds, 93 Java st., Brooklyn.
DONOHUE, Bernard J., pvt.; Mrs. Mary Donohue, 1411 Madison ave.
ELLIOTT, John C., capt.; Mrs. John C. Elliott, 453 Hudson st.
GALM, Lawrence W., 2d lt.; George P. Galm, 1885 1st ave.
GALOPPO, Edward, staff sgt.; Mrs. Phyllis Galoppo, 338 W. 47th st.
GRASSO, Neil F., pfc.; Mrs. Mary Grasso, 108-19 157th st., Jamaica.
HUNT, Edward V., tech. sgt.; Thomas Hunt, 284 Pacific st., Brooklyn.
KENNEDY, Francis J., pvt.; Mrs. Nora Kennedy, 1372 Ogden ave, Bronx.
KEENEY, Vincent D., 2d lt.; Mrs. M. F. Keeney, 52 Leonard ave., Freeport.
KLEINBERG, Charles, 2d lt.; Mrs. Jennie Kleinberg, 913 Park ave., Brooklyn.
KNOPF, John J., sgt.; Nikolaus Knopf, 10 Harding ave., Yonkers.
KOPEC, Frank S., pvt.; Mrs. Vera D. Kopec, 94 Havemeyer st., Brooklyn.
LABARBERA, Adam, pvt.; Charles Labarbera, 207 Eldridge st.
LONDON, Bernard, staff sgt.; Mrs. Betty London, 1837 Clinton ave., Bronx.
LUTWIN, Harry, pfc.; Mrs. Rebecca Lutwin, 1122 Metcalf ave., Bronx.
MARINO, Frank J., pfc.; Mrs. Anna Marino, 640 Fourth ave., Brooklyn.
MOOCHNEK, J., pfc.; Mrs. B. Moochnek, 514 Hopkinson ave., Brooklyn.
NOTO, Alfonso J., pfc.; Mrs. Anna Noto, 16 Ellery st., Brooklyn.
POPLAWSKI, Joseph S., tech. 4g.; Mrs. Mary Fabiszewska, 1061 Teller ave.
RAIMONDI, Patsy J., pvt.; Alfred Raimondi, 93 Granite st., Brooklyn.
RENTON, Benjamin E., 2d lt.; Hollings C. Renton, 5 Henry st., Tuckahoe.
ROSENZWEIG, Irving I., pfc.; Mrs. Estelle Go[illegible] 22d st., Brooklyn.
SENTENAC, [illegible] 1st sgt.; Mrs. Hannah Sentenac, [illegible] 88th st., Jamaica.
STEVENS, Harold W., pvt.; Mrs. Mary Stevens, 40 Jackson ave., Mineola.
STOGEL, Sam., pvt.; Julius Stogel, 904 48th st., Brooklyn.
VITALE, James V., pfc.; Mrs. Catherine Vitale, 122 St. Marks Pl.
ZETTERBERG, R. T., staff sgt.; Mrs. H. M. Zetterberg, 250 Waldorf ave., Elmont.

Southwest Pacific Area

ANDERSON, George, pvt.; Murray Anderson, 301 E. 93d st.
CINTRON, Armando, pfc.; Mrs. Silvia Cintron, 889 Huntspoint ave., Bronx.
CLIFFORD, Edward J., pfc.; E. L. Clifford, 62 Hemlock st.
CRISCI, Anthony, pvt.; Ernest Crisci, 635 Grand st., Brooklyn.
HACKETT, Edward C., pvt.; Mrs. Nora B. Hackett, 7112 Fifth ave., Brooklyn.
KUHN, Louis W., pfc.; Mrs. Roberta L. Kuhn, 115-35 209th st., St. Albans.
MEEHAN, Edward T., cpl.; Mrs. Mary A. Meehan, 4554 Park ave., Bronx.
MONROE, James C., pvt.; Mrs. Mildred Monroe, 62 W. 98th st.

NEW JERSEY.

European Area.

BARTEAU, Edward L., staff sgt.; Mrs. H. Donahue, 585 Newark ave., Elizabeth.
BEENICK, Frank S., pfc.; Mrs. Anna Beenick, 350 Eighth st., Jersey City.
BELVISO, Pietro, pvt.; Mrs. J. Belviso, 1409 Leslie st., Hillside.
BROUGH, David S., sgt.; Peter Brough, Box 308, Bernardsville.
BUCHHOLZ, Edward H., pfc.; Mrs. Agnes Buchholz, 302 Summit ave., Jersey City.
BULLARO, John, Jr., pvt.; Mrs. Alice Bullaro, 220 Lagg ave., Trenton.
CHEESMAN, Russell, pfc.; Mrs. Hazel Dilks, Sicklerville.
COLE, Elmore F., pfc.; Mrs. Marion C. Cole, 148 Stuyvesant ave., Arlington.
DESENA, Vincent P., staff sgt.; Mrs. L. Campana, 383 Delano Pl., Fairview.
DOBOL, Theodore L., tech. sgt.; Mrs. Rose Milosz, 101 Peshine ave., Newark.
FOGERTY, John T., sgt.; Mrs. Jennie J. Fogerty, 625 Scotch Plains ave., Westfield.
FORTUNATO, Peter P., pfc.; Mrs. Theresa Fortunato, 421 Willow ave., Roselle Park.
GAGLIANO, Domenick A., pvt.; Mrs. Mary Gagliano, 69 Bloomfield ave., Bloomfield.
GORACY, Wladyslaw J., cpl.; Mrs. Blanche Goracy, 316 7th st., Jersey City.
HAUCK, Arthur E., tech. 5g.; Mrs. Katherine Hauck, 198 Highland ave., Kearny.
HOCKENBURY, Henry R., pfc.; Mrs. Hazel E. Hockenbury, 902 S. 17th st., Newark.
HORSCH, Charles M., sgt.; Mrs. Ruth A. Horsch, 1279 Springfield ave., Irvington.
JARMOLA, Stephen, pfc.; Mrs. Anna Jarmola, 241 Henderson st., Jersey City.
KARKUT, Edmund S., pvt.; Miss Irene Karkut, 24 Pamrapo st., Jersey City.
KEENAN, Walter F., 1st lt.; Mrs. Mary J. Keennan, 437 Henry st., South Amboy.
KELLY, John J., pfc; Mrs. Viola Kelly, 343 4th st., Jersey City.
LAWRENCE, Edward W., 2d lt.; Mrs. Dorothy E. Lawrence, 108 Howard st., Dumont.
McCULLOCH, Maxwell A., 1st lt.; Mrs. Martha McCulloch, 161 Argyle Pl., Arlington.
MONACO, Angelo T., pvt.; Mrs. Mary Monaco, 145 Rector st., Elizabeth.
MYRON, George., 2d lt.; Mrs. Elsie C. Myron, 537 Northfield ave., West Orange.
OPITZ, Lawrence M., pfc.; John Opitz, 5406 Bergenline ave., West New York.
PALUSH, Michael S., pfc; George Palush, 202 Grant st, Perth Amboy.
PERAGINE, Michael G., pvt.; Francis Peragine, 901 Summit ave., Union City.
PLUTA, Walter C., cpl.; Mrs. Madeline Pluta, 1614 Mildred ave., Linden.
RENNIE, James W., capt.; Mrs. Jeanie W. Aitken, 32 Craig Pl., North Plainfield.
RIPKEY, Robert H., tech. 4g.; Mrs. Emma F. Ripkey, 140 Stegman st., Jersey City.
ROTHBAUM, Max M., tech. 5g.; Mrs. Florence Rothbaum, 619 Hunterdon st., Newark.
SCAGLIONE, Philip, sgt.; Mrs. Theresa Scaglione, High st., Northvale.
SCHECKMAN, Seymour, pvt.; Mrs. Rose V. Scheckman, 181 Shepherd ave., Newark.
SCHREIBER, George, sgt.; Miss Edna C. Schreiber, 18 Dehart Pl., Elizabeth.
SIMON, Edgar, 1st lt.; Mrs. June A. Simon, 257 Warwick ave., South Orange.
SIOSTRZEWSKI, Joseph M., pfc.; Mrs. Magdelene Siostrzewski, 7 Agnes st., Bayonne.
SIRCEY, Charles W., pvt.; Mrs. Sarah J. Sircey, 238 Tioga st., Trenton.
SKORUPSKI, Edmund J., pvt.; Mrs. Helen H. Skorupski, 545 E. 38th st., Paterson.
SLATNICK, Louis J., staff sgt.; Mrs. Rebecca Slatnick, 292 Runyon st., Newark.
SUAREZ, Candido, pvt.; Mrs. Josephine Suarez, 94 W. 21st st., Bayonne.
TERNOSKY, Edward J., pvt.; George Ternosky, 121 Maple ave., Rockaway.
VICIDOMINI, Patsy S., pvt.; Mrs. Anna Vicidomini, 251 Elm st., Newark.
WEISSMAN, Peter, pfc.; Mrs. Maude Weissman, 1100 Grand st., Roselle.
WILLIAMS, Bernard G., pvt.; Mrs. Eva Williams, 115 Mechanic st., Boonton.
YOUNG, Gregory W., pvt.; Mrs. Gregory W. Young, 396 Union ave., Newark.

Mediterranean Area

ADAMS, Eugene G., pfc.; Mrs. Mary H. Adams, 28 Mawhinney ave., Hawthorne.
ALBERT, Frank E., pvt.; Mrs. Genevieve Albert, Route 3, New Brunswick.
CUMMINGS, James R., cpl.; Mrs. C. W. Cummings, 31 Courthouse Pl., Jersey City.
FLAMMER, William, pvt.; Mrs. Rose Flammer, 128 N. Day st., Orange.
GRAUBARD, Irving C., staff sgt.; Mrs. P. C. Cassell, 268 Goldsmith ave., Newark.
HOINSKY, Steven J., pfc.; Mrs. Louise P. Hoinsky, 185 Passaic st., Passaic.
RUPA, Peter C., pvt.; Mrs. Florence M. Rupa, 601 Ridge Rd., Lyndhurst.
KWIECIEN, Emil J., pvt.; Miss Helen Kwiecien, 10 Franklin ave., Harrison.
NICHOLLS, Robert G., pvt.; Thomas E. Nicholls, 31 Kirk st., West Orange.
ROLLIN, William H., pfc.; Mrs. V. L. Rollin, 16 Llewellyn ave., West Orange.
SHEEHAN, John J., pfc.; John J. Sheehan, 611 West Side ave., Jersey City.

Southwest Pacific Area

ADAM, John J., pfc.; John Adam, 130 Turpin st., Trenton.

CONNECTICUT.

European Area.

AMARAL, Julio, pfc.; Mrs. Victoria Amaral, 45 Liberty st., Danbury.
BELORIT, Edward, pfc.; Mrs. Susan Belorit, 26 Mountainville ave., Danbury.
GALLA, Michael S., pvt.; Mrs. Anna Galla, 186 Beach st., Bridgeport.
LOMBARDI, Vincent M., pvt.; Joseph Lombardi, 124 Rouse ave., Bridgeport.
MASTROIANNI, Anthony, pvt.; Frank Mastroianni, 81 Bouton ave., Norwalk.
QUINN, Harry P. Jr., 1st lt.; Mrs. Margaret K. Quinn, 1782 E. Main st., Bridgeport.
SULLIVAN, John M., pvt.; Mrs. Sadie E. Sullivan, 390 Warren st., Bridgeport.

Mediterranean Area

WEIDNER, Clifford E., staff sgt.; Mrs. Lois E. Weidner, 16 S. Main st., S. Norwalk.

AUG 9 1944

Battle Breaks Out in Senate Over Post-War Economic Plan

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 — (AP) A sharp conflict over post-war unemployment compensation payments to discharged war workers broke out on the floor today immediately after the Senate got down to work on overall legislation to cushion the economic impact of any sudden German collapse.

Republican arguments that the Murray - Kilgore bill to set up a super reconversion agency with authority to require payments up to $35 a week would shackle labor under government domination were countered by Senator Wagner (D-NY) who urged:

"Let us not be blinded by the lobby of state bureaucrats who come down here and tell us to do nothing whatsoever that may affect them."

Senator George (D-Ga), author of a Republican - supported measure to leave the fixing of unemployment rates to the states, but to bring 3,500,000 workers under their coverage and guarantee the solvency of state unemployment funds, took a shot at the rival bill by declaring "it would be most unwise to approve any system which would induce idleness."

Following up the attack in a statement, Senator Willis (R-Ind) denounced the Murray - Kilgore bill as a measure to "Hillman-ize and Soviet-ize labor, by shackling re-employment under complete domination of government."

But Senator Kilgore (D - W Va), ...uing that "economic chaos is in... ely more costly than measures to prevent it," said average jobless payments of $1,250 a year under his bill would not exceed $7,500,000,000 over a period of two and a half years.

Over the same period he figured the combined cost of unemployment compensation under present state procedure, and relief, at $18,000,000,000. He said his measure would cut costly job payments by guaranteeing "full production and employment."

In the absence of a program putting reconversion, unemployment and production under a single operating agency — his proposed Office of War Mobilization and Adjustment — Kilgore predicted unemployment would reach 18,000,000 during the second year of peace.

Sen. Willis' statement said Kilgore's proposal would "raise our post-war obligations to such stratospheric heights that opportunities for continued and new jobs for our returning service men and federal workers would be reduced to the vanishing point." This view was said by Senator Taft (R-Ohio) to represent the sentiment generally expressed at a Republican conference earlier in the day.

Meanwhile, George put the finishing touches on a complete demobilization bill which the coalition probably will support when the voting starts later in the week. Its suggested office of demobilization would operate without the industry and advisory boards proposed in the Murray-Kilgore bill. It leaves out a Murray-Kilgore provision increasing mustering out payment and unemployment benefits for returning war veterans.

It would authorize the federal government to pay transportation expenses up to $200 for "Stranded" war workers back to their homes, but not to new job locations as the rival bill proposes. It also eliminates a Murray-Kilgore provision for federal planned vocational training.

AUG 9 1944

Senator George predicted a vote by Thursday, as he brought the day's debate to an end with Social Security board estimates that the Murray-Kilgore bill would cost the Treasury $10,405,000,000 over and above present state unemployment benefits and estimated costs under the GI Bill of Rights.

George said the figures were based on assumptions the European war would end about the end of 1944, the Japanese war at the end of 1945 and that peak unemployment would reach 8,000,000 by the end of 1946.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, sent to each member of the senate a statement urging immediate passage of the Kilgore-Murray bill.

Maj. Clay Says WPB, Army Agree on Supply Estimates

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8—(AP) There is complete agreement between top officials of the army and the War Production board on estimates of military supplies, Maj. Gen. Lucius D. Clay said today in reference to a statistical report whose withdrawal led two members of the WPB staff to submit resignations.

Clay, director of materiel for the army service forces, said in an interview that the summary in question was a general inventory which the army felt might tend to obscure critical needs for specific weapons. The suppressed report listed good supplies of nearly all army ground weapons, including certain items in which Lt. Gen. Brehon Somervell, Clay's chief, had reported shortages.

Behind Schedule

"The army has never said that the over-all procurement program is lagging seriously," Gen Clay asserted. "However, we are behind schedules and our required production in the next six months must increase substantially."

He stressed increaed requirements for radar, heavy trucks and artillery, heavy artillery ammunition, tires, cotton duck and tentage, aircraft bombs.

Clay was reluctant to discuss the suppressed WPB report, but said Stacey May, director of WPB's Bureau of Planning and Statistics, felt that its withdrawal was justified by the army's apprehension of possible misinterpretation.

Two of May's assistants, Victor L. Bassie, director of the progress division, and Irving Kaplan, chief of the production program analysis section, who prepared the report, were said to have submitted their resignations when May did not use it in a monthly report to key war agency officials.

Clay said requirements from combat theaters have been so sharply increased that production goals for the second half of the year have become critical problems.

Manpower Key to Problems

Manpower has been the key to these problems, the general said, even in radar, where he admitted that design changes accounted for a small portion of the lag. Five major plants producing radar equipment now employ 16,000 persons, but they need 2,000 more now and an additional 4,000 by Christmas.

Production of aircraft bombs in the first half of the year met requirements set January 1, said Clay, but requirements for the last half of the year are 177 per cent of the first six months total.

He gave these additional examples:

Heavy artilery ammunition production in the first six months of the year was 94 per cent of plan, but requirements for the second six months are 210 per cent of the first half-year's actual total. In specific calibers he gave these percentages: 155 MM Howitzer shells, first six months actual production, 92 per cent of plan, second half requirements, 180 per cent; 155 MM. gun shells, 98 per cent and 200 per cent; eight inch Howitzer shells, 85 per cent and 396 per cent; 240 MM. Howitzer shells, 79 per cent and 141 per cent.

The only shell program which fell more than one-half below plan was for eight inch gun ammunition, in which production was only 30 per cent of the goal. However, Clay said that in this case an unrealistic "incentive schedule" had been set up.

Meet Heavy Gun Program

In heavy artillery weapons, 94.5 per cent of plan was achieved, but the second six months requirement is 123 per cent. The only heavy gun program met in full was the 4.5 inch weapon, and the others carried to a low of 61.7 per cent for the 155 MM. gun.

The overall light-heavy and heavy-heavy truck program was only 5 per cent off in the first six months, but has 140 per cent to go in the second half, Clay said, and in the heavy-heavies the lag is 16 per cent and second half requirement 223 per cent.

Tanks were off 4 per cent and tank destroyers off 5 per cent, said Clay. The second half goals for tanks are 150 per cent of the first six months output. The tank destroyer lag is more serious—the two models most neded fell eight per cent and 21 per cent, respectively, behind plan, and the second-half requirement for one of these is 400 per cent of the first half-year's actual production.

Wallace and Pepper Map A Drive for 'Liberalism'

Both Plan to Take Stump for Roosevelt in Fall

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP).—Vice-President Henry Wallace and Senator Claude Pepper, of Florida, mapped plans to continue a fight for what Senator Pepper termed liberalism in government.

Senator Pepper, and those who fought unsuccessfully at the Chicago convention to renominate Mr. Wallace, disclosed that at a conference with the Vice-President this afternoon the two discussed "matters of interest to us and the liberal cause."

He told a reported that despite earlier opposition to Senator Harry S. Truman, Democrat, Missouri, as the party's Vice-Presidential nominee "we will both make several talks this fall" for the Roosevelt-Truman ticket.

Senator Pepper said plans for Mr. Wallace's future role in government were not discussed, but added: "I am certain his chief concern at present to do all in his power to insure the continuation of a liberal outlook in government by re-electing our President." Mr. Wallace was not available for comment on his conference.

F. D. R. SPEECH HELD 'CRAZY'

Sedition Evidence Adds President "Seemed Possessed"

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—O. John Rogge, chief prosecutor, read to the mass sedition conspiracy trial jury today a 1941 letter which asserted that President Roosevelt "seems like one possessed of devils."

The letter was signed "Larry," and dated October 28, 1941. Rogge said it was written by Lawrence Brown, editor for the former Silver Shirts leader, William Dudley Pelley, to George E. Deatherage, ex-commander of the Knights of the White Camelia. Pelley and Deatherage are defendants.

Spoke Of "Crazy Address"

The writer spoke of "F. D. R.'s" crazy address of last evening," and added:

"I never heard him talk like that but once before, and this was even more belligerent, to the point of exhibiting a man well unbalanced, as charged by Berlin spokesmen. . . . His pictures show a man beside himself. Maybe you have heard something not published about what got into this man, for he seems like one possessed of devils."

Defense counsel continued frequent objections to Rogge's use of some 200 documents seized from Pelley's files, which Chief Justice Edward C. Eicher admitted in evidence late yesterday. The court denied all motions to strike these exhibits from the record.

WPB TO PROPOSE CHANGES IN TIRE UNION PRACTICES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 — (AP) The War Production board, seeking a 20 per cent increase in heavy tire production, will carry to Akron, Ohio, this week a proposal for a 90-day "moratorium" on certain union agreements and working practices. WPB Vice Chairman L. R. Boulware said these practices have impeded peak production.

Boulware announced that he and two other vice chairmen, Joseph D. Keenan and Clinton S. Golden, planned a conference later this week with representatives of Akron tire companies and the CIO United Rubber Workers, in an effort to reach agreement.

Drive for More Workers

The program will supplement a drive for 1,000 new workers estimated to be needed in Akron tire plants and the army's plans to furlough former rubber workers back to the tire companies.

The emergency measures, Boulware said, should boost production sufficiently to remedy the "alarming" shortage of big tires reported both by the armed forces and commercial bus and truck operators. The WPB executives will take these two main proposals to Akron:

First, that seniority rules be changed to permit the transfer of strong male workers from light passenger car tires to truck tires. At present a worker would lose his seniority if so shifted, officials said.

WPB seeks an understanding by which the men transferred would return to their regular work after the 90-day production and recover their full seniority status.

Second, that the present informal production "quotas" — under which each workman normally produces only so much work in a day, regardless of his ability—be dropped temporarily to permit greater output, with pay to be increased proportionately.

Union Demands Assurances

Union spokesmen have demanded assurances, according to WPB sources, that such a demonstration of higher productivity would not result in a reduction of wage rates in the future. WPB will seek such assurances.

Boulware said that one company already had arrived at such an agreement and that both the union and management groups have so far indicated confidence that the desired arrangements can be made throughout the Akron industry.

The Dunlop company of Buffalo also has sent word, Boulware said, that its workers have agreed to put in sufficient overtime to enable Dunlop to achieve the 30 per cent increase.

The conference in Akron will be "in no sense an investigation," Boulware said, but "rather a meeting to determine how a very desirable end for all concerned can be accomplished with each one's individual interest preserved and protected."

COMMITTEE SEEKS AID FOR JEWISH REFUGEES

NEW YORK, Aug. 8—(AP) The emergency committee to save the Jewish people of Europe today urged Great Britain to issue Palestine visas to Jewish refugees now in Turkish rescue centers, thereby permitting others to cross the Turkish borders.

At its Second National conference the committee, through its executive vice chairman, Johan J. Smertenke, said that the 500 refugees now residing in the rescue centers were the maximum for whom Turkey could provide.

"The United States and Great Britain must siphon off these people," Smertenke said. "We must immediately importune the British government to issue visas so that they may enter Palestine."

By making Turkey a transit country, he said, 600,000 Jews in Hungary eventually could reach safety by that route.

The committee resolved to request its membership for a substitute word for "refugee," which, it said, is "too mild a term when applied to European Jews."

GI'S TO SEE MUSICALS

NEW YORK, Aug. 8—(AP) The clamor for glamor by G.I. Joes overseas is about to be rewarded with real, live chorus girls, as distinguished from the pin-up version, playing the fox-hole circuit for the first time.

USO-camp shows announced today that chorus lines will move in on the front lines early in the fall when the organization sends the first of several streamlined Broadway musical comedies to the war zones.

'One Man Army At Anzio' In Hurry To See 'Mom'

Philadelphia, Aug. 8 (AP)—The "one-man army of Anzio"—all 120 pounds of him—passed through here tonight, in a hurry to get home to "mom" and present her with the Congressional Medal of Honor he won for holding off two German companies and killing at least 60 Nazis.

Pfc. Alton W. Knappenberger, 20, was due for a brass-band welcome in Norristown, but he hoped there wouldn't be too much delay in his reaching home at Spring Mount, Pa., some 15 miles farther on, for a reunion with his mother, Mrs. Harvey Seibert.

Between trains here, he told of the events preceding presentation of the nation's highest military award to him by Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark in Rome.

Tells Of His Exploit

"My company withdrew," he said. "I stayed to hold the German counterattack. I ran out of ammunition and crawled 15 yards under fire to get some from a dead comrade.

"I crawled back to my position and started firing again. I was about 35 yards from the enemy. They were throwing hand grenades at me. Finally I crawled back to join my company, 300 yards to the rear, and learned that the action was over. I was credited with killing 60 Germans."

"Knapp," who has not received as much as a scratch since he went overseas last October, is on a 21-day furlough.

TRANSIT PROBE TO BEGIN TODAY

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 8 — (AP) The federal grand jury's investigation of Philadelphia's broken transportation strike, starting tomorrow, will go beyond provisions of the Smith-Connally anti-strike act, Assistant U. S. Attorney Edward A. Kelly said today.

"We might find a conspiracy to sabotage the war effort," Kelly said, "in which case we would not be confined to the Smith-Connally act, but would then proceed under the more drastic provisions of the Second War Powers act, which carries much more drastic penalties."

Kelly made his statement after a conference with Special Assistant U. S. Attorney General Henry A. Schweinhaut, U. S. Attorney Gerald A. Gleeson, and Golden Dagger, a representative of the criminal division of the Department of Justice, who arrived here today.

Witnesses to be called before the grand jury include officials of the Philadelphia Transportation company, the Transport Workers Union (CIO), Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, P.R.T. Employes Union (independent), and government war agencies.

Full service continued today on troop-guarded trolleys, buses and subways, while the army attempted to round up reports on the 181 employes who failed to show up for work yesterday.

An army spokesman said the figure included "many who may be able to present medical certificates or who may have been absent due to vacations."

He pointed out that the total of absentees was far below a daily average of 650 for all causes, except vacations, during the three months preceding the strike.

Duke of Windsor Gets A Democratic Welcome

Is Asked in Baltimore: 'Howya, Duke, How's the Duchess?'

BALTIMORE, Aug. 8 (AP).—The Duke of Windsor, visiting his Duchess' native city today, was greeted democratically by a woman bystander with: "Howya, Duke? How's the Duchess?"

The former King of England told his questioner, who had grabbed his arm, that the Duchess was well and probably would visit the city later.

Then, met by General Henry M. Warfield, the Duchess' uncle, he went to the Maryland Club for tea. Arriving there following an inspection of Bahamian labor camps in Maryland and Delaware in his capacity as Governor General of the Bahamas, the Duke said he had found the immigrant workers "Very well taken care of and in very good condition." . . .

"I found that many of them have increased in weight because of the fine food. In the camps they are fed; at home they feed themselves, which makes some difference."

30.24 — 17849

He had dinner with General and Mrs. Warfield and Zachary Lewis, the General's son-in-law. Later the Duke and his party departed for New York.

MARINES FORM LAST MAN CLUB

Atlanta, Aug. 8 (A. P.)—Veterans of the First Marine Division, which opened American offensive operations by going into Guadalcanal on August 7, 1942, have organized "the Last of the First" A Last Man's club of veterans of World War II.

Lieut.-Gen. Alexander Archer Vandegrift, commandant of the United States Marine Corps, was elected honorary president of the club. As a brigadier-general he led the Marines when they landed on Guadalcanal. Later he was promoted to major-general and before returning to the States, was named a lieutenant-general and awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor.

Membership in the Last of the First is limited to Marines of the First Division who have made assault landings against the enemy anywhere during this war. And at their annual meeting on August 7 of each year there will be no rank—no officers, no enlisted men. Just plain Marines.

At the organization meeting last night, charter members drank a toast to "those who won't come back."

Warrant Officer Luther A. McLendon, of Atlanta, was elected president.

Admiral C. A. Pownall Named To Training Post

Pensacola, Fla., Aug. 8 (AP)—Rear Admiral Charles Alan Pownall will succeed Rear Admiral George D. Murray as chief of naval air training with headquarters at the Pensacola Naval Air Station, Public Relations announced today.

Admiral Pownall now is chief of air force, Pacific command. He is expected to report here in about three weeks. Admiral Murray has received orders detaching him for duty in the Pacific area.

Newspaper Editor Is Killed On Saipan

Battle Creek, Mich., Aug. 8 (AP)—Lieut. George B. Dolliver, Jr., 38, editor of the Big Rapids (Mich.) Pioneer and son of the publisher of the Battle Creek Enquirer and News, was killed in action on Saipan July 12, the War Department notified his wife, Virginia, today. A brother, J. Clark Dolliver, is a publisher in Moorhead, Minn.

REP. FULBRIGHT WINS ARKANSAS PRIMARY

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 8—(AP) Gov. Homer M. Adkins formally conceded defeat tonight in the face of returns from more than two-thirds of the state's precincts showing him trailing youthful Rep. J. W. Fulbright by almost 18,000 votes in their race for the Arkansas democratic senatorial nomination to succeed Sen. Hattie W. Ca[illegible]

AUG 9 1944

The 53-year-old Adkins, completing his second term as governor, took the action after returns from 1,470 of the state's 2,087 precincts gave Fulbright 69,801 and Adkins 52,080.

Negro voters turned out in greatly increased numbers for the runoff.

U. S. GOVERNMENT NEAR END OF CASE IN DENVER TRIAL

DENVER, Aug. 8 — (AP) Nearing the close of its case, the government today sought to prove that two of the three Japanese-American women being tried on treason charges left their fingerprints on maps allegedly taken from German prisoners of war they are accused of helping to escape.

From Washington came John R. Robyak, FBI fingerprint specialist, to testify that prints found on the maps were those of Mrs. Billie Shitara Tanigoshi, 32, and Mrs. Tsuruko "Toots" Wallace, 35. The third of the trio of sisters is Mrs. Florence "Flo" Shivze Otani, 33, who was not named in the fingerprint testimony.

Maps Not Identified

But U. S. District Judge J. Foster Symes ruled that the maps offered in evidence had not been specifically identified by prosecution witnesses as those found on the prisoners, Heinrich Haider and Herman Augustt Loescher, when they were recaptured.

Symes rejected a mistrial motion by Defense Attorney Kenneth Robinson, submitted on the contention that the maps should have been excluded from the evidence entirely.

Joe Gartside, Trinidad, Colo., filling station operator, told the jury that Mrs. Wallace obtained road maps from him, explaining she planned to visit her husband's "folks."

The government alleges that the sisters furnished clothing, maps and other equipment to the Germans last October, then drove them in a car from the prisoner of war camp at Trinidad, Colo., to New Mexico.

Will End Case Soon

Assistant U. S. District Attorney Ivor O. Wingren said the government expects to wind up its case soon after the third day's session starts tomorrow. Only about half-dozen prosecution witnesses remain to be called.

Robinson said he has not decided whether to call the sisters to the stand. He plans, he said, to submit a motion for a directed verdict of acquittal.

The Shitara sisters lived at the Granada relocation center, Amache, Colo., and worked on the same farm with the Trinidad internees.

Late today the jury heard of a 165-foot tunnel by which at least five Germans were said to have obtained their freedom from the camp. Lt. Col. William S. Hannan of Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., former commanding officer at Trinidad, said the tunnel started at a building occupied by German officers and ended outside the fence.

It had electric wiring, he said, and was not discovered until after the escape of Haider and Loescher. On Oct. 16, the night of their break, at least five and possibly six prisoners altogether escaped from the camp, Hannan testified.

ARMY'S SNOW JEEP PROVES ITS VALUE

Buckley Field, Col., Aug. 8 (A. P.).—Up where some of the world's worst storms are born, on top of 14,000-foot high Mount Evans, the Army has unveiled the M-29 light cargo carrier.

The background of high altitude lightning, of torrential rain, snow and howling gale is the testing ground and the school ground. Here men train for the search and rescue of Allied flyers forced down in the desolate snow lands of the arctic.

The M-29 is a track-tractor type of vehicle that will carry 1,200 pounds and tow a trailer or a half hundred men on skis.

It waddles on snow, as does a man on snowshoes. It clanks across and up granite mountainsides in the fashion of a bulldozer. It swims in the style of a duck. Its trailer carries sufficient medical equipment to rescue ten men in a wrecked airplane.

It has proved its worth in Colorado. In mid-winter it fought its way up 11,000-foot high Berthoud Pass, west of Denver, to rescue almost thirty persons trapped by a blizzard that blocked highways. It also has rescued crews of planes that have crashed high in remote corners of the Rocky Mountains.

Swift Russian advances of last winter undoubtedly partially were powered by the M-29; the mountain fighters of Gen. Clark's Fifth Army in Italy probably are well acquainted with M-29.

G. I. Joes call it "that thing," the "snow buggy," the "weasel" or the "snow jeep."

In a recent demonstration drivers tied a couple of ropes, fifty feet long, to the controls of the snow buggy, as if it were a horse, with reins. The buggy moved slowly ahead, as the drivers jerked first one rein and then the other. The buggy responded, as an intelligent horse would. The purpose of such control is to permit the vehicle to break its own trail, unoccupied. If the man is behind, steering with reins, he, the other cargo carriers, and their crews, all escape disaster if the vehicle falls into a crevice.

Jap Girl in Bloomers Tries to Stop Marines

Seattle, Aug. 8 (A. P.).—Second Lieut. George C. Hill of Salisbury, Md., brought a story from Saipan today of a giggling young Japanese girl who bombarded his Marine unit with grenades from her bloomers, while Japanese soldiers coached her from behind a revetment.

The former University of Maryland student, who is hospitalized here, told a Post-Intelligencer interviewer that the girl appeared to be about 9 years old. It happened before he got his leg wound from a sniper the first evening of the attack on the island.

"We were about 200 yards off the beach," he related. "There were about nine Japs behind the revetment right in front of our lines. This little girl came out from behind it to within about twenty or thirty yards of us. The Japs had filled her bloomers with grenades.

"She'd take out the pin of a grenade, hold it behind a rock and then throw it at us. We didn't want to shoot her so we grabbed each grenade and threw it back away from her.

AUG 9 1944

"She was standing there laughing and giggling and the Japs were telling her what to do. They apparently told her to take more time so we wouldn't have a chance to throw the grenades away, and she slowed down a little. Luckily, he had time to throw them back even then."

Soon some bazookas were brought up to the Marine line. By that time the girl had gone back to the Japanese soldiers behind the revetment.

"We fired at them," Lieut. Hill continued, "and when we went back to look we'd killed them all—the girl, too."

Partner for B-29

Consolidated Building B-32, Similar in Size to Superfortress

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Aug. 8 (AP).—The Office of Censorship today authorized disclosure that a giant stablemate to the B-29 Superfortress was in production at the Consolidated-Vultee Aircraft Corporation.

Details of production status, performance and size of the new bomber, named the B-32, have not been disclosed. Recent trade publications stated the bomber would be produced at the San Diego and Fort Worth plants.

CURRAN IS CHOSEN TO RUN FOR SENATE

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thomas J. Curran, Manhattan party leader and long-time associate of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, was assigned by New York Republicans yesterday to the dual task of opposing the veteran Democratic Senator Robert F. Wagner and bolstering G.O.P. efforts to cut into the normally heavy downstate Democratic vote.

The state committee action had been generally forecast since Dewey, Republican presidential nominee, met with state party leaders Monday night. Before that, the race had been rated as wide open. The big question at the conferences was the effect the selection may have on the 47 New York electoral votes which Dewey may need in November.

A few hours before the Republican selection was announced, the State Democratic committee took its expected action of renominating the 67-year-old Wagner, author of the National Labor Relations and Social Security acts, and strong administration supporter.

Curran, 45-year-old New York Secretary of State, has been close to Dewey since both were assistants in the office of the U. S. attorney for the southern district of New York 14 years ago.

AUG 9 1944

AUG 9 1944

AUG 9 1944

LONDON—FIRST ADD NIGHT LEAD GERMAN TRIAL XXX ACCUSED.

THE DNB BROADCAST OF TRIAL TESTIMONY SAID WHEN OFFICERS AND MEN

OF THE BERLIN GARRISON RAIDED A ROOM WHERE VON BECK AND OTHER

CONSPIRATORS WERE TATMERED HOEPPNER LET HIMSELF BE ARRESTED BUT VON

BECK TRIED TO KILL HIMSELF WITH THREE PISTOL SHOTS.

COL. GEN. FROMM THEN SHOT AND KILLED VON BECK, THE BROADCAST SAID,

BUT IT WAS NOT EXPLAINED WHETHER THIS WAS A COUP DE GRACE TO END

A COLLEGUE'S SUFFERING OR WHETHER FROMM FIRED OUT OF SUDDEN RAGE AND DISILLUSIONMENT.

THE FIRST TO BE QUESTIONED, STIEFF, ACKNOWLEDGED HE HAD BEEN INVOLVED IN PLANS TO ASSASSINATE HITLER AS EARLY AS 1943. WITZLEBEN ADMITTING HE HAD BEEN "INVOLVED IN THIS MATTER," SAID HE VISITED COL.GEN.LUDWIG VON BECK IN FEBRUARY, 1943, AND THEY AGREED THE MILITARY STRATEGISTS UNDER HITLER WERE "NO GOOD."

AUG 9 1944

IMMEDIATELY AFTER THE ATTEMPT ON HITLER'S LIFE VON BECK WAS REPORTED BY BERLIN AS "NOT AMONG THE LIVING."

AP951 LONDON -(HERCHER) KK CONCLUDED

IN THE LAST CASE, THE RUSSIANS ARE IN POSITIONS TO OUTFLANK WARSAW FROM THE SOUTH OR TO DESCEND UPON KRAKOW.

ON BOTH SIDES OF THAT CENTRAL POLISH SECTOR THE RUSSIAN PROGRESS WAS CONTINUING, IN FOUR DAYS HAVING TAKEN THE CITIES OF SAMBOR, DROHOBYCZ, BORYSLAW AND STRYJ, GAINING FIRM CONTROL OF THE GATEWAYS TO THE UZOK PASS THROUGH THE CARPATHIANS.

IN THE NORTH, MOST OF TWO GERMAN ARMIES CONTINUED CUT OFF IN ESTONIA AND NORTHEAST LATVIA. FEW DEVELOPMENTS WERE REPORTED FROM THAT FRONT OVER THE PAST TEN DAYS BUT THE IMPRESSION GREW THAT THE NAZIS WERE BEING SLOWLY SQUEEZED AND CUT UP WITH LITTLE CHANCE OF ANY BIG-SCALE SEAWARD EVACUATION.

HUNDREDS OF FIRES BLAZED ACROSS THE FRONTIERS INSIDE EAST PRUSSIA, LIT BY SOVIET WARPLANES THAT ROARED AHEAD OF THE TANKS AND INFANTRY. ON THE GROUND A SWAYING BATTLE CONTINUED TO RAGE IN OPPRESSIVE MIDSUMMER HEAT.

AUG 9 1944

THE GERMAN RADIO ALSO SAID THE GI TEST SOVIET PRESSURE NOW WAS BEING EXERTED FROM THE VISTULA RIVE BRIDGEHEADS, STATING, "BOTH RUSSIANS AND GERMANS HAVE THROWN IN STRONG RESERVES IN THE BATTLE AREA AROUND MIELEC," 30 MILES SOUTHWEST OF SANDOMIERZ.

ANOTHER GERMAN BROADCAST ADMITTED THAT THE RUSSIANS HAD PUSHED "A FEW KILOMETERS NORTHWARD" IN THE REGION SOUTH OF SANDOMIERZ AND THAT THE RUSSIANS "BROKE INTO OUR POSITIONS" NORTHWEST OF BARANOW IN HEAVY FIGHTING.

IT WAS CLAIMED, HOWEVER, THAT THE GERMANS MADE A "MAJOR SCALE" LINE STRAIGHTENING NORTH OF THE DVINA RIVER WITHOUT RUSSIAN PURSUIT.

A RUSSIAN BREAKTHROUGH IN LITHUANIA NORTHWEST OF KAUNAS WAS SEALED OFF, A GERMAN REPORTER CLAIMED.

AUG 9 1944

RO-M0307PEW

FIRST LEAD AERIAL

LONDON, AUG. 8-(AP)-A THOUSAND AMERICAN HEAVY BOMBERS STRUCK A SECOND TREMENDOUS BLOW AT THE HINGE IN GERMAN LINES BELOW CAEN AND RANGED WIDELY OVER FRANCE ATTACKING AIR FIELDS AND FLYING BOMB INSTALLATIONS.

AN ESTIMATED 1,800 TONS OF BOMBS WERE CAST ON GERMAN LINES BEFORE THE ADVANCING CANADIAN FIRST ARMY IN THE SAME AREA PULVERIZED LAST NIBHT BY 1,000 BRITISH HEAVY BOMBERS WHICH DROPPED AROUND 6,700 TONS. ABOUT 600 FLYING FORTRESSES AND LIBERATORS PARTICIPATED IN THIS ACTION.

SOME 400 OTHERS BEAT UP AIRFIELDS AT ROMILLY SUR SEINE, 55 MILES NORTHWEST OF PARIS, AND AT LE PERTHE, NORTHWEST OF ROMMILLY. THEY ALSO BOMBED THE PLATFORMS FROM WHICH ROBOT BOMBS ARE HURLED AT ENGLAND.

UP TO 750 MUSTANG, LIGHTNING AND THUNDERBOLT FIGHTERS ESCORTED THE AMERICAN BOMBERS.

THE ATTACK LAST NIGHT BY THE RAF'S LANCASTERS CONSTITUTED THEIR FIRST OPERATION IN DARKNESS IN CLOSE SUPPORT OF GROUND FORCES.

THE ENTIRE FORCE OF 1,000 AMERICAN HEAVY BOMBERS ORIGINALLY WAS ALLOCATED TO SUPPORT THE CANADIAN AND BRITISH TROOPS BELOW CAEN, BUT THE ARMY COMMAND ADVISED THE AIR FORCES AT THE LAST MINUTE THAT 600 WOULD BE ENOUGH TO DO THE TRICK. THUS 400 WERE DIVERTED QUICKLY TO OTHER OBJECTIVES.

MEDIUM AND LIGHT BOMBERS ATTACKED TARGETS NORTH AND SOUTH OF PARIS, CHIEFLY RAILROADS AND OTHER TRANSPORT FACILITIES.

WITH AIR POWER TO SPARE, U.S.EIGHTH AIR FORCE BOMBERS AND FIGHTERS FROM BRITAIN PARTICIPATED IN SHUTTLE OPERATIONS OVER POLAND AND ROMANIA, USING RUSSIAN AND ITALIAN BASES.

AUG 9 1944

A GROUP WHICH FLEW TO RUSSIA SUNDAY, BOMBING AN AIRCRAFT FACTORY NORTHWEST OF THE POLISH CORRIDOR PORT OF GYDNIA, RETURNED TO THE AIR YESTERDAY AND BOMBED A SYNTHETIC OIL REFINERY 20 MILES WEST OF KRAKOW

IN POLAND AT TRESBINIA.

ANOTHER GROUP OF ESCORTED FORTRESSES FROM BRITAIN BOMBED TWO ROMANIAN AIRFIELDS 40 MILES NORTHEAST OF PLOESTI AND THEN LANDED O ITALIAN BASES. THE FIELDS WERE AT BUZAU AND ZILISTREA.

IN THE HOUR XXX ETC AS BEFORE.

AUG 9 1944

LONDON, WEDNESDAY, AUG. 9-(AP)-RAF LANCASTERS AND HALI ATTACKED TARGETS IN NORTHERN FRANCE DURING THE NIGHT WHILE SWIFT MOSQUITOS POUNDED COLOGNE WITH 4,000-POUND BLOCKBUSTERS, THE BRITI ANNOUNCED OFFICIALLY TODAY.

THE OVERNIGHT ASSAULTS APPARENTLY WERE CARRIED OUT IN GREAT FOR THE OBJECTIVES OF THE BOMBER FORMATIONS WHICH STRUCK FRANCE WERE N IMMEDIATELY SPECIFIED. IT WAS PRESUMED THAT SOME WERE IN THE BATT AREA WHERE PLANES HAVE BEEN BLASTING A PATH FOR ADVANCING ALLIED T FOR THE PAST 24 HOURS.

LONDON--FIRST ADD FINNISH CABINET X X X AS PREMIER.

THE NEW FOREIGN MINISTER WAS NAMED AS CARL INCKELL, WHO WENT TO MOSCOW IN MARCH IN CONNECTION WITH THE ARMISTICE MISSION THAT FAILED.

THE CABINET, WHICH SOME QUARTERS EXPECT WILL APPROACH MOSCOW WITH A NEW PEACE BID, REPLACES THAT OF EDWIN LINKOMIES, WHO, WITH MANY OF HIS MINISTERS, WAS OBJECTIONABLE TO THE RUSSIANS.

THE GERMAN BROADCAST LISTED ONE HOLDOVER, HOWEVER, MAJ.GEN.RUDOLF WALLDEN AS MINISTER OF DEFENSE.

MQ438PEW

LONDON, AUG 8-(AP)-DNB, IN A GERMAN NEWS AGENCY BROADCAST FROM BERLIN TONIGHT SAID ALLIED GLIDER TROOPS WERE LANDING IN THE LOIRE RIVER ESTUARY NEAR ST.NAZAIRE IN SUPPORT OF LT.GEN.OMAR BRADLEY'S AMERICAN FORCES MOVING SOUTH ALONG THE BASE OF THE BRITTANY PENINSULA. THERE WAS NO ALLIED CONFIRMATION OF THE REPORT.

MQ506PEW

London, Aug. 8-(AP)-An electrically heated "casualty bag" has been designed as another protective devise for allied fliers.

AUG 9 1944

Brig. Gen. Malcolm C. Grow, inventor of the flak suit of light armor and flak curtains, announced today that his medical section of the air service command had developed the casualty bag.

The devise is a sort of sleeping bag heated by wiring. It had handle for lifting and is covered with water-proof, bouyant material to keep even the heaviest airmen afloat for more than two hours. Its heating qualities prote wounded and unconscious airmen from excessive cold and prevent shock. The handles make the bag a flexible stretcher. The bouyancy enables casualties aboard a plane forced to land on water to be floated to life rafts.

30-24-17951

apl 1559-bleamear-rm-1017a

AUG 9 1944

WITH THE U.S. ARMY IN FRANCE 1ST ADD GALLAGHER'S BATTLE SIDE-LIGHTS (TOP AYE) XXX SAME VICINITY.

-BASH-

PVT. PEDRO RUBIO, 25, OF (606 EAST SEVENTH ST) AUGSTIN, TEX., PERFORMED AN OPERATION WITH A POCKET KNIFE UNDER GERMAN MACHINE GUN FIRE.

RUBIO, A MEDICAL CORPSMEN, FOUND A DOUGHBOY WITH A BULLET WOUND NEAR THE SURFACE OF ONE THIGH. THE TEXAN, REALIZING THE DANGER OF INFECTION, REMOVED THE BULLET WITH THE KNIFE WHILE MACHINE GUNS CHATTERED.

AUG 9 1944

THEN IT TOOK RUBIO AND PVT. LLOYD COCKRELL, 21, OF LAMPASAS, TEX., THREE HOURS TO GET THE WOUNDED MAN OUT OF RANGE OF THE GUNS.

(EDS: IN ABOVE MAKE IT AUSTIN, TEX.)

A U.S. NINTH AIR FORCE BASE IN FRANCE, AUG. 8-(AP)-- LT.

JAMES L. MCWHORTER, SANFORD, FLA., A THUNDERBOLT PILOT WHO WAS SHOT

AUG 9 1944

DOWN BEHIND GERMAN LINES JULY 27, EVADED THE GERMANS BY HIDING OVERNIGHT

"THEY HAD [illegible] PATROLS OUT

IN ONE OF THEIR OWN DUGOUTS.

LOOKING FOR ME ALL NIGHT," HE SAID, "AND THROWING GREN

INTO JUST ABOUT EVERY ABANDONED FOXHOLE EXCEPT THE ONE I WAS IN."

[illegible] THE NEXT MORNING [illegible] AMERICAN TANKS [illegible]

ENTERED THE AREA AND HE EMERGED. HE

THE AIRMAN WHO WAS BACK AT HIS OWN BASE THAT AFTERNOON. #

BY HAL BOYLE

IN AN ARTILLERY CUB PLANE OVER ST.MALO, FRANCE, AUG 8-(AP)-FROM THIS SKY PERCH BESIEGED ST.MALO CAN BE SEEN BILLOWING BLACK AND WHITE SMOKE, STABBED WITH FLASHES OF FLAME, AS AMERICAN TANKS AND INFANTRY ADVANCE BEHIND A ROLLING ARTILLERY BARRAGE AND SMASH IN STREET BATTLES TOWARD THE PORT'S FORTRESS CITADEL, WHERE THE NAZIS HAVE BARRICADED THEMSELVES IN A STALINGRAD-LIKE STAND.

OUR TROOPS HAVE THRUST FROM THREE DIRECTIONS INTO THE STREETS OF THIS LUXURIOUS "EMERALD COAST" BEACH RESORT, WHICH THE GERMANS CONVERTED INTO A SEA SUPPLY BASE, AND THE SURROUNDED ENEMY GARRISON IS TRAPPED ON THE FOURTH SIDE BY THE SEA ITSELF.

I WAS TAKEN FOR A BIRD'S EYE VIEW OF THIS FLAMING BATTLE BY LT.JOHN S.BAKER, 26, OF SHORT HILLS, N.J., WHO HAS FLOWN HIS "FLYING JEEP" PLANE ON 50 MISSIONS IN FRANCE TO SEARCH OUT ENEMY TARGETS FOR THE ARTILLERY.

WE TOOK OFF FROM AN OAT FIELD ONLY A FEW THOUSAND YARDS FROM THE OUTSKIRTS OF ST.MALO, WHERE THE FANATICAL COMMANDER STILL IS HOLDING OUT, ALTHOUGH HUNDREDS ARE SURRENDERING AS SOON AS THE DOUGHBOYS SURROUND THEIR POSITIONS IN STREETS BLOCKED WITH RUBBLE AND BURNED-OUT TRAM CARS.

AT FIRST GLANCE FROM THE AIR THE WHOLE AREA APPEARED DECEPTIVELY QUIET.

"OVER THERE," SUDDENLY SHOUTED BAKER.

I FOLLOWED HIS HAND AND SAW GREAT TOWERS OF DEBRIS AND WHITE PHOSPHORUS SPURT FROM THE FORTRESS IN THE BAY, AT THE MOUTH OF THE RANCE RIVER, AS ITS STONE ENTRENCHMENTS AND DEEP TUNNELS WERE BROUGHT UNDER BATTERING FIRE BY SCORES OF AMERICAN MEDIUM AND HEAVY ARTILLERY PIECES.

IT WAS ONE OF THE MOST SPECTACULAR BATTLE SIGHTS I HAD SEEN IN ALMOST TWO YEARS OF WAR COVERAGE.

I COUNTED 27 FIRES BURNING THROUGHOUT THE CITY BEFORE BAKER SWUNG HIS PLANE AROUND SHARPLY TO SWERVE US AWAY FROM NAZI ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE.

HE SWUNG AROUND OVER THE NORTHERN PART OF THE CITY.

AUG 9 1944

"CAN WE GO DOWN A LITTLE CLOSER?" I ASKED BAKER.

"WE'RE FLYING AT 1,500 NOW, AND IF WE GO ANY LOWER WE MIGHT CATCH AN ARTILLERY SHELL," HE SAID. "WE'VE LOST THREE CUBS IN FRANCE THAT WAY."

SO WE SPIRALLED BACK AND SLIPPED IN TO A LANDING. AS HE STEPPED OUT, BAKER, A TALL, BLACK-HAIRED AND AMIABLE FLIER, SAID CHEERFULLY:

"COME BACK AGAIN AND I'LL TAKE YOU FOR A TRIP OVER PARIS. THE WAY OUR ARMY IS MOVING NOW IT WON'T BE LONG."

SN114OPEW

BY ROGER D.GREENE

ON THE BRITISH FRONT SOUTH OF CAEN, 5:40 P.M., AUG 8-(AP)-THREE GREAT ARMIES, AMERICAN, BRITISH AND CANADIAN, ARE SMASHING THROUGH AND AROUND THE VITAL CAEN "HINGE" OF THE GERMAN DEFENSES IN FRANCE TONIGHT IN ONE OF THE MOST DECISIVE BATTLES ON THE WESTERN FRONT SINCE THE INVASION BEGAN.

STRIKING FROM THE NORTH, THE FIRST CANADIAN ARMY IS DRIVING DEEP INTO GERMAN HEDGEHOG POSITIONS EAST OF THE ORNE RIVER WHILE THE SECOND BRITISH ARMY IS STRENGTHENING ITS NEW BRIDGEHEAD ACROSS THE ORNE IN THE THURY HARCOURT SECTOR AND THE AMERICANS PRESS FORWARD IN THEIR SPECTACULAR SWEEP FROM THE WEST.

ON THIS BRITISH FRONT FOUR GERMAN COUNTERATTACKS HAVE BEEN BEATEN OFF IN 24 HOURS IN THE VICINITY OF THE GRIMBOSQ WOODS. EXTREMELY SENSITIVE TO THE BRITISH OUTFLANKING THREAT, THE GERMANS THREW TANKS AND INFANTRY INTO AN ALL-MORNING ATTACK ON THE NORTH FRINGE OF THE WOODS. SAVAGE CLOSE-QUARTERS FIGHTING WAS IN PROGRESS THERE THIS AFTERNOON.

AUG 9 1944

DESPITE THE FEROCITY OF THE GERMAN RESISTANCE, ONE BRITISH OFFICER SAID THE GERMAN HIGH COMMAND WAS "WORRIED AS HELL" ABOUT THE NUMBER OF DESERTIONS.

"FIRST THEY TRIED PEP TALKS," HE SAID, "TELLING THEIR TROOPS IT WAS DISHONORABLE TO DESERT AND THAT THEY NEVER WOULD BE ALLOWED TO RETURN TO THEIR FAMILIES IN GERMANY. THAT DIDN'T WORK, SO NOW THEY ARE TRYING TO TERRORIZE THEIR MEN BY TELLING THEM, 'IF YOU DESERT OR ARE CAPTURED, YOU WILL BE COMMITTED TO A LIFE OF SLAVERY. THE BRITISH AND AMERICANS WILL SEND YOU TO DIE IN SIBERIA.'"

NEVERTHELESS, HE ADDED, "GERMAN DESERTERS HAD BETTER PUNCH A TIME CLOCK AND BRING ALONG A STAMPED SLIP TO SHOW WHEN THEY CHECKED OUT IF THEY EXPECT TO BEAT THE RECORD SENT BY A NEW BUNCH WE HAVE JUST RECEIVED."

THESE NEW ARRIVALS WITHIN THE BRITISH LINES WERE MEMBERS OF A GERMAN REGIMENTAL HEADQUARTERS DEFENSE PLATOON WHO HAD BEEN THROWN INTO THE FRONT LINE TO PLUG A GAP LEFT BY PREVIOUS DESERTERS. THEY REACHED THE LINE AT 11 P.M. YESTERDAY AND DESERTED AT 2 A.M. TODAY.

MO4OZPEW

BY WES GALLAGHER

WITH THE U.S. FIRST ARMY IN FRANCE, AUG 8-(AP)-FIELD REPORTS AT DAWN TODAY INDICATED THAT THE GERMAN COUNTERATTACK BETWEEN MORTAIN AND SOURDEVAL ON AN EIGHT-MILE FRONT HAS BEEN CRUSHED BY CRACK AMERICAN DIVISIONS AND ALLIED PLANES.

ON THE FRONT FROM NEWLY CAPTURED VIRE TO MAYENNE, WHICH INCLUDES THE AREA OF THE GERMAN PUSH, LT.GEN.OMAR N.BRADLEY'S SOLIDLY PACKED POWER ATTACK IS SQUEEZING THE LIFE OUT OF THE BIGGEST NAZI COUNTERATTACK TO DATE AND BENDING THE GERMAN LINE BACK EAST AND NORTH IN THE QUESTION OF PARIS.

FROM MAYENNE ACROSS BRITTANY THERE IS NO SUCH THING AS A LINE. FIGHTING THERE IS AS FLUID AS THAT OF CIVIL WAR DAYS WHEN CAVALRY RANGED OVER WIDE AREAS, STRIKING WHEREVER IT FOUND THE ENEMY.

EXACTLY THE SAME THING IS BEING DONE NOW. ONLY THE CAVALRY STRIKING EAST AND SOUTH ARE FORCES OF AMERICAN LIGHT TANKS AND ARMORED CARS SPEEDING ACROSS HUNDREDS OF MILES OF PAVED HIGHWAYS AT A TOP SPEED OF 50 MILES AN HOUR, SHOOTING UP GERMAN FORCES WHEREVER THEY ARE FOUND AND THEN SPEEDING ON AGAIN.

AUG 9 1944

DEEPER IN THE PENINSULA, HEAVIER ARMORED AND INFANTRY [illegible] ARE REDUCING NAZI DEFENSES AROUND THE FIVE MAJOR PORTS OF NANTES, ST.NAZAIRE, LORIENT, BREST AND ST.MALO. ONCE THESE ARE CLEARED THEY CAN REGROUP AND TURN EAST AND NORTH AND THEN THE NAZI FAT MAY REALLY BE IN THE FIRE.

A DRIVE OF MORE THAN 300-MILES ACROSS BRITTANY AND NORMANDY CAN ONLY CONVINCE THE OBSERVERS THAT ADOLF HITLER'S FORCES IN FRANCE--SHATTERED AND DISILLUSIONED--ARE HANGING ON THE SAGGING ROPES

OF DISCIPLINE AND THAT ONE MORE MAJOR ALLIED PUNCH MAY KNOCK THE FIGHT OUT OF THEM FOR GOOD.

THE GERMAN ARMY HAS BEEN SCRAPING DIVISIONS FROM EVERY PART OF FRANCE AND EUROPE TRYING TO HOLD THE LINE. SEEMINGLY THE BEST THEY CAN HOPE TO DO IS TO HOLD A FEW STRONG POINTS. IT IS DOUBTFUL IF THEY HAVE ENOUGH DIVISIONS TO TRY A SOLID LINE SUCH AS BRADLEY'S ATTACK BROKE IN NORMANDY ON JULY 25.

WORSE STILL FROM THE POINT OF VIEW OF THE GERMAN ARMY IS THAT THE GERMAN SOLDIER, EXCEPT IN ISOLATED INSTANCES SUCH AS AT ST.MALO, SEEMS TO BE LOSING HIS WILL TO PUT UP A STIFF FIGHT.

ONLY ON THE BRITISH SECTOR WHICH IS HEAVILY LACED WITH SS TROOPS HAE THE GERMANS BEEN ABLE TO PUT UP WHAT CAN BE DESCRIBED AS ORGANIZED RESISTANCE.

AUG 9 1944

RZ653AEW

BY WILLIAM SMITH WHITE

WITH THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY IN FRANCE, AUG 8-(AP)-PRESSING A GREAT THRUST THAT ALREADY HAS CARRIED TO A DEPTH OF FOUR MILES ON A THREE-MILE WIDE FRONT, THE FIRST CANADIAN ARMY BROKE INTO THE FIRST MAIN GERMAN DEFENSE LINE BELOW CAEN TODAY IN A MAJOR NEW OFFENSIVE AIMED AT SMASHING THE NORTHEASTERN HINGE OF THE GERMANS' ENTIRE BRIDGEHEAD POSITION IN FRANCE.

RZ648AEW

AT LAST REPORT THE CANADIANS STILL WERE ROLLING ONWARD. THE ENEMY APPEARED DAZED BY THE WEIGHT OF A TREMENDOUS AIR BOMBARDMENT THAT LED OFF THE THRUST.

IT WAS A MAJOR ATTACK AND WAS RISING HOURLY IN VIOLENCE ON THIS 26TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE GERMANS' "BLACKEST DAY" OF THE FIRST WORLD WAR.

IT WAS A NIGHT ASSAULT BY ARMOR, THE FIRST TIME SUCH A THRUST HAD BEEN ATTEMPTED IN FRANCE IN THE HOUSE OF DARKNESS. INFANTRY FOLLOWED IN HEAVILY ARMORED VEHICLES.

A CRUSHING AIR BOMBARDMENT FROM 1,000 HEAVY BOMBERS AGAINST SELECTED ENEMY TARGETS PRECEDED THE ARMOR ATTACK.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENT ROGER D. GREENE, REPORTING FROM ANOTHER SECTOR OF THE CANADIAN FRONT, SAID THE OFFENSIVE WAS SIX MILES BROAD.

("AS THE MORNING DAWNED WITH A THICK GROUND MIST SLOWLY MELTING UNDER THE HOT SUN, CANADIAN INFANTRYMEN WERE SWEEPING ON AFTER CAPTURING MAY-SUR-ORNE, ST.MARTIN DE FONTENAY, ROQUANCOURT, FONTENAY LE MARMION AND LA HOGUE," HE WROTE.)

N859AEW

BY WILLIAM SMITH WHITE (150)

WITH THE FIRST CANADIAN ARMY IN FRANCE, AUG. 8-(AP)-POWERFUL FIRST CANADIAN ARMY TANK FORCES SPRANG AHEAD OF THE INFANTRY TODAY AND CHALKED UP AN AGGREGATE CANADIAN ADVANCE OF NEARLY FIVE MILES FOR THE DAY IN AN OFFENSIVE HEADED TOWARD FALAISE.

A SENIOR CANADIAN STAFF OFFICER, CALMLY SUMMING UP THE DAY'S STEADY PROGRESS, SAID:

"THE HINGE OF THE WHOLE GERMAN NORMANDY LINE IS LOOSENING ALTHOUGH IT HAS NOT BY ANY MEANS BEEN YANKED FROM THE DOOR AS YET."

THE TANKS, DIRECTED BY LT.GEN.H.D.G.CRERAR, COMMANDER OF THE FIRST CANADIAN ARMY, WORKED THEIR WAY PAST CANADIAN INFANTRY FORCES DIGGING INTO GERMAN POSITIONS TO SCORE THEIR ADVANCE.

TOWNS ALREADY FALLEN TO INFANTRY MOP-UP FORCES IN THIS BATTLE INCLUDE MAY-SUR-ORNE, TILLY, LA CAMPAGNE, CAILLOUET AND GAUMESNIL.

THESE FORCES WERE FIGHTING LATE TODAY IN THE TOWN OF FONTENAY LE MARMON, WHERE 82 GERMAN PRISONERS THUS FAR HAVE BEEN TAKEN.

AUG 9 1944

RW1226PEW

30 24 — 1785

BY EDWARD B.BALL (370)

WITH THE AMERICANS ON THE ROAD TO PARIS, AUG. 8-(AP)-AS [illegible] OF THE AMAZING FLUIDITY OF THIS AMERICAN ADVANCE IS THE [illegible] GOO GERMANS.

I WAS SITTING IN A WOODS WITH A COLONEL, EATING [illegible] AND BEANS AND DRINKING SOLUBLE COFFEE WHEN A RUNNER [illegible] THE COLONEL, "SIR, GOO GERMANS ARE COMING DOWN [illegible] HALF AWAY."

"OKAY, WE'D BETTER GIT," REPLIED THE COLONEL.

OUR PARTY STRUCK CAMP AND MOVED OUT, NOT TO THE TOWARDS THE "FRONT." ON THE WAY, WE MET A PARTY OF DOUGHBOYS TOWARDS THE REAR TO DEAL WITH THE GERMANS. WE WENT ON TO [illegible] I NEVER DID FIND OUT WHETHER THOSE GOO GERMANS WERE LOOKING FOR A CHANCE TO SURRENDER. EITHER WAY THE DOUGHBOYS WERE READY [illegible]

YESTERDAY WITH PVT. ERNEST F.ALSTON OF STUEBENVILLE, OHIO, DRIVING A JEEP, I MADE A 60-MILE ROUNDTRIP OVER A ROAD ALONG WHICH AMERICAN ARMOR HAD PASSED A FEW HOURS BEFORE.

IT WAS CROWDED WITH AMERICAN TANKS AND TRUCKS LADEN WITH SOLDIERS GOING FORWARD. TODAY I TRAVELLED THE SAME ROAD AND NOT A VEHICLE WAS IN SIGHT. AT THE COLONEL'S TEMPORARY COMMAND POST I LEARNED STRETCHES OF THAT ROAD WERE AGAIN IN NO-MAN'S-LAND. THIS WAS IN THE SECTOR WEST OF LAVAL.

IT IS THE KIND OF WAR WHERE THE ARMOR TEARS AHEAD FOR MILES, SHOOTING UP EVERYTHING THAT ROLLS AND LEAVING THE INFANTRY TO DEAL WITH EVERYTHING THAT WALKS.

AUG 9 1944

SOMETIMES IT IS DAYS BETWEEN THE TIME THE ARMOR PASSES THROUGH

AND THE INFANTRY FINISHES MOPPING UP. SOMETIMES BROKEN ENEMY REMNANTS FIGHT AND SOMETIMES THEY DON'T. WHEN YOU SEE THIS KIND OF WAR YOU UNDERSTAND WHY HITLER OVERRAN FRANCE SO FAST AFTER HIS INITIAL BREAKTHROUGH AND WHY HE HAS BEEN BACKTRACKING SO FAST NOW BEFORE THE AMERICANS.

AUG 9 1944

ALONG THIS SORT OF FLUID FRONT THERE ARE TWO WAYS OF TELLING WHETHER YOU ARE IN "HOT" TERRITORY--THE PRESENCE OF CUB SPOTTER PLANES AND THE ATTITUDE OF THE FRENCH PEOPLE.

THE CUBS STAY RIGHT UP BEHIND THE FRONT AND WHEN YOU DON'T SEEM THEM IN THE AIR YOU'D BETTER START ASKING QUESTIONS.

IF THE FRENCH GREET YOU WITH HEARTY WAVES AND CHEERY GREETINGS ALL THE GERMANS HAVE DECAMPED. IF THEY GIVE YOU A KNOWING LOOK AND MERE FLICK OF THE WRIST, THERE ARE STILL SOME GERMANS IN THE WOODS AND IT'S TIME TO TURN AROUND AND BEAT IT.

"IT'S A HELL OF A WAR," LAUGHED CAPT. JAMES C.MCNAMARA, 2119 SECOND AVE., LOS ANGELES, WHO IS THE PRESS OFFICER OF THIS OUTFIT.

GH1048PEW

AUG 9 1944

U.S.NINTH AIR FORCE BOMBER COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, AUG. 8-(AP)-THE GERMAN ARMY IN NORMANDY IS IN A CRITICAL STATE AND "IS SLOWLY STRANGLING FOR WANT OF SUPPLIES," LT.GEN.LEWIS H.BRERETON, COMMANDER OF THE U.S.NINTH AIR FORCE DECLARED TODAY.

THIS, HE SAID "IS ATTRIBUTED TO A VERY LARGE DEGREE TO WORK OF PERSONNEL OF THE UNITED STATES NINTH AIR FORCE BOMBER COMMAND."

IN A MESSAGE TO BRIG GEN.SAMUEL E.ANDERSON, COMMANDER OF THE BOMBERS, BRERETON COMMENDED ALL MARAUDER AND HAVOC GROUPS IN THE NINTH FOR THEIR RECENT DESTRUCTION OF A LARGE NUMBER OF BRIDGES "IN THE FACE OF BAD WEATHER AND ENEMY FIGHTERS AND FLAK."

HE DESCRIBED AS AN "OUTSTANDING MISSION" THE DESTRUCTION OF TWO RAIL BRIDGES SOUTH OF LE MANS BY A MARAUDER GROUP COMMANDED BY COL. JOE W.KELLY, COLUMBUS, IND. BOTH LINKED RAIL TRAFFIC THROUGH THE PARIS-ORLEANS GAP.

RQ1013AEW

AUG 9 1944

ADD MOSCOW —(LUCE) XXSUVALKI

OFFICIAL SOURCES WERE SILENT ABOUT THE SIEGE OF WARSAW, IN ITS NINTH DAY, BUT IT IS KNOWN THAT MARSHAL KONSTANTIN ROKOSSOVSKY IS BUILDING UP RESERVES. WHEN HE REACHED THE GATES OF THE POLISH CAPITAL, THE GERMANS HURLED A VIOLENT ATTACK FROM THE NORTHWEST AT HIS FLANK. THE MARSHAL, WHILE CONTENDING WITH THIS COUNTER-ATTACK, WHICH IS NOW BELIEVED SHATTERED, HAS BEEN STORMING THE WARSAW SUBURBS.

AUG 9 1944

AFTER TOPPLING THE OIL CENTERS OF BORYSLAW AND SAMBOR IN THE CARPATHIAN SLOPES, THE RUSSIANS IN THE EXTREME WESTERN UKRAINE (OLD POLAND) ENCOUNTERED VIOLENT GERMAN RESISTANCE IN SWAMPS AND ALONG MOUNTAIN STREAMS. IZVESTIA SAID THE ENEMY HAD CONSIDERABLE ARTILLERY AND INFANTRY IN THIS REGION ON THE OUTSKIRTS OF CZECHO-SLOVAKIA AND THAT PROGRESS WAS DIFFICULT.

MOSCOW FIRST ALD AERIAL XXX ~~GYDNIA~~ ENGLAND.

MAJ. WILLIAM S.LINDLEY, STANKVILLE, MISS., SAID OF THE SUNDA. ATTACK ON THE AIRCRAFT PLANT AT RAMMEL, NORTHWEST OF GYDNIA: "WE HIT IT SQUARELY ON THE NOSE."

LT. F.E.SHERWOOD, BOMBARDIER, WILLIS, MICH., SAID: "IT WAS BURNING WHEN WE LEFT."

LT. WILLIAM GREENE, AUBURN, N.Y., CALLED THE BOMBING A "GOOD PATTERN."

LT. RUSSELL HALL, 170 E. FT. JEFFERSON AVE., DETROIT, MICH., ADDED THAT "WE PLASTERED IT." HE MET AN OLD FRIEND IN RUSSIA, MAJ. S.M.MARSHALL, WHO USED TO LIVE AT 450 WEST END AVE., NEW YORK.

STAFF SGT. ATHOL STRICKLAND, LOGAN, W.VA., A TAIL GUNNER, SAID HE SAW THREE FIRES AND "ALL OF THEM WERE RIGHT IN THE FACTORY."

STAFF SGT. LAWRENCE HEREFORD, SALEM, ORE., SAW THE BOMBS HIT AND A LOT OF SMOKE RISE.

AUG 9 1944

GH110SAEW

ADD ROME xx REALM

THE CITATION SAID GEN. JOHNSON, "BY VIRTUE OF HIS PERSONAL ABILITY TO SECURE COOPERATION FROM ALL ALLIED AUTHORITIES, WAS ABLE TO REESTABLISH THE ECONOMIC AND POLITICAL STRUCTURE OF THE CITY OF ROME IN A MINIMUM OF TIME."

THE TEXAN, 49, GAINED A REPUTATION AS A BAYONET FIGHTER WITH THE 36TH DIVISION IN THE LAST WAR. HE REMAINED IN GERMANY WITH THE ARMY OF OCCUPATION UNTIL 1919. HE REENTERED THE SERVICE IN 1940 AS A LIEUTENANT COLONEL, BECAME A BRIGADIER GENERAL IN 1941 AND COMMANDED A CAVALRY BRIGADE AT LAREDO IN 1942. AUG 9 1944

GN209PEW

ROME, AUG 8-(AP)-A NUMBER OF GROUNDED GERMAN PLANES WERE LEFT IN FLAMES DURING THE NIGHT WHEN RAF BOMBERS ATTACKED SZOMBATHELY AIRDROME SOUTH OF VIENNA A FEW HOURS AFTER AMERICAN HEAVY BOMBERS RAIDED TWO SYNTHETIC OIL PLANTS AT BLECHHAMER IN GERMAN SILESIA.

TWENTY-NINE ENEMY NAZI PLANES WERE SHOT DOWN BY ESCORTING FIGHTERS AND BOMBER GUNNERS IN THE BLECHHAMER ATTACK. THE ALLIES LOST 22 PLANES FROM A TOTAL OF 2,000 OPERATING YESTERDAY.

GREAT COLUMNS OF SMOKE RISING 15,000 FEET TESTIFIED TO THE DAMAGE DONE TO THE OIL PLANTS AT BLECHHAMER.

PENETRATING DEEPLY INTO THE RHONE VALLEY AMERICAN MITCHELLS BOMBED RAIL BRIDGES IN THAT SOUTHEASTERN FRANCE SECTOR FOR THE FIFTH TIME IN SIX DAYS. MARAUDERS ALSO HAMMERED COMMUNICATIONS IN SOUTHERN FRANCE AND ALONG THE RIVIERA.

LT.NORMAN C.SKOGSTAD, OF BARRON, WIS., A MUSTANG PILOT FLYING ON HIS FIRST COMBAT MISSION, KNOCKED DOWN TWO ME-109'S DURING A RUNNING BATTLE FROM BLECHHAMER INTO HUNGARY.

ANOTHER MUSTANG PILOT, LT.WAYNE L.LOWRY, OF MASON CITY, NEB., SCORED HIS ELEVENTH VICTORY AND TIED WITH LT.JOHN B.LAWLER, 712 NORTH WOODINGTON ROAD, BALTIMORE, MD., FOR FIFTH PLACE AMONG AMERICAN ACES IN THE MEDITERRANEAN THEATER.

MK655AEW AUG 9 1944

CHUNGKING, AUG. 8-(AP)-CHINESE TROOPS SURROUNDING TENGCHUNG ARE MASSING FOR A FINAL ASSAULT EXPECTED TO RESULT IN THE FALL OF THAT JAPANESE STRONGHOLD IN WESTERN YUNNAN PROVINCE, THE WALLS OF WHICH ALREADY HAVE BEEN PENETRATED BY THE BESIEGING FORCES. A CHINESE COMMUNIQUE TODAY SAID THE JAPANESE HAD BEEN UNABLE TO DISLODGE CHINESE FORCES PREVIOUSLY REPORTED TO HAVE STORMED THROUGH BREACHES BLASTED IN THE CITY'S ANCIENT WALLS ON THE SOUTHEAST BY THE U.S. 14TH AIR FORCE.

DESPERATE ENEMY COUNTERATTACKS WERE HURLED BACK WITH FLAME-THROWERS, THE CHINESE SAID.

OTHER CHINESE UNITS, WERE SAID TO HAVE REACHED THE NORTHEAST WALL, WHERE THEY WERE CONSOLIDATING POSITIONS FROM WHICH TO BREAK INTO THE CITY.

JAPANESE AIRMEN ATTEMPTED TO DROP SUPPLIES TO THE ISOLATED ENEMY GARRISON AT SUNGSHAN, MOUNTAIN STRONGHOLD ON THE BURMA ROAD.

"CHINESE ARTILLERY FIRE PREVENTED RECOVERY OF THE SUPPLIES WHICH WERE DROPPED," THE COMMUNIQUE ADDED.

RQ1016AEW AUG 9 1944

30.24 — 17855

UNDATED HENGYANG PRECEDE LONDON (200)

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

THE TOKYO RADIO ASSERTED THAT JAPANESE FORCES TODAY COMPLETELY OCCUPIED HENGYANG, EMBATTLED HUNAN PROVINCE CITY ON THE CANTON-HANKOW RAILWAY.

THE REPORT LACKED CHINESE CONFIRMATION. (EDS: CHINESE COMMUNIQUE DUE ABOUT 11AEW).

THE CITY HAS BEEN BESIEGED FOR MORE THAN A MONTH IN AN EFFORT TO GAIN CONTROL OF THE HANKOW-CANTON RAILWAY AND SPLIT CHINA.

THE TOKYO BROADCAST, RECORDED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, REPORTED THAT GEN.FANG HSIENCHIAO, COMMANDER OF THE CHINESE 10TH ARMY, AND OTHER COMMANDERS SURRENDERED TO THE OCCUPATION FORCES.

TOKYO SAID FOUR (CORRECT) CHUNGKING DIVISIONS AND SUPPORTING AMERICAN FORCES WERE WIPED OUT BY JAPANESE FORCES WHICH OCCUPIED HENGYANG AT 8 A.M. TODAY. TOKYO ASSERTED LAST WEEK THAT 60 AMERICAN OFFICERS AND MEN TOOK PART IN THE HENGYANG BATTLE, BUT THERE HAS BEEN NO ALLIED CONFIRMATION.

A COMMUNIQUE FROM LT.GEN.JOSEPH W.STILWELL'S HEADQUARTERS SAID AMERICAN AND CHINESE AIRMEN YESTERDAY DROPPED LARGE QUANTITIES OF AMMUNITION TO THE CHINESE GARRISON AT HENGYANG AND BOMBED ATTACKING JAPANESE FORCES.

N1001AEW AUG 9 1944

ADD V-5-P-E-N-P-N- (ERICKSON) xx 15-4-AND

THERE HAS BEEN SOME EXPECTATION THAT THE JAPANESE MIGHT SELECT THAT AREA FOR THE FINALE. IT IS DOMINATED BY 610-FOOT HIGH MT.MACHANAO.

ACROSS THE ISLAND AMERICAN FORCES WERE MASSED, AWAITING THE SIGNAL FOR THE FINAL PUSH TO BLOT OUT ALL ORGANIZED RESISTANCE. THE SITUATION WAS HOPELESS FOR THE JAPANESE. THE SEA WAS AT THEIR BACKS, FROM WHICH THEY COULD EXPECT NO SUCCOR FROM THEIR HARBOR-BOUND FLEET.

THE JAPANESEHOMELAND, TOO, REALIZED THE SITUATION WAS DES-PERATE, THAT THE EMPIRE WAS CONFRONTED WITH "DIFFICULTIES F UNPRECEDENTED SERIOUSNESS." IT WAS SO WARNED BY PREMIER GEN.

KUNIAKI KOISO,THE TOKYO RADIO SAID. HE WAS QUOTED AS SAYING THE PRECARIOUS POSITION STEMMED FROM AMERICAN ADVANCES IN THE MARIANAS AND THE NEW GUINEA AREA, PLUS AN APPARENT YANKEE INTENTION "TO STRIKE AT OUR HOMELAND."

AUG 9 1944

JW140PCW NM

(EDS: THE FOLLOWING STORY WAS WRITTEN BY SERGEANT HERB SHULTZ OF 616 MERCER STREET, ALBANY, NEW YORK, A MARINE CORPS COMBAT CORRESPONDENT, FORMERLY OF THE ALBANY BUREAU, ASSOCIATED PRESS. IT IS DISTRIBUTED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS)

SAIPAN, MARIANAS ISLANDS--(DELAYED)--MANY SOUVENIR HUNTERS ON THIS ISLAND HAVE BEEN GETTING MORE JAPS THAN SOUVENIRS.

TAKE THE CASE OF THREE LIGHTLY ARMED MARINES WHO ADVANCED BEYOND THEI FRONT LINES WITHOUT KNOWING IT AND KNOCKED OUT AN ENEMY MACHINE GUN NEST WHICH HAD BEEN HOLDING UP ANOTHER MARINE UNIT FOR 24 HOURS.

ALTHOUGH THEY KILLED AT LEAST FIVE JAPS, THEY SAID SADLY: "WE DIDN'T HAVE TIME TO GET A SINGLE SABER OR JAP FLAG OUT OF THE DEAL."

THEIR OUTFIT WAS IN RESERVE THAT DAY AND THE TRIO RECEIVED PERMISSION TO TAKE OFF THROUGH THE WOODS IN SEARCH OF SOURVENIRS. THEY WERE PRIVATES FIRST CLASS NEIL A. COLE, OF 219 MEACHEM STREET, BATTLE CREEK, MICH.; JOSEPH W. MICIAK, OF 235 EAST 25TH STREET, NEW YORK CITY, AND JULIUS L. BENNETT, OF ROUTE 1, HARRISVILLE, MISS.

THEY ADVANCED THROUGH TWO CANYONS AND, BEFORE THEY KNEW IT, WERE BEHIND THE JAP LINES. BREAKING THROUGH HEAVY UNDERGROWTH, THEY SUDDENLY CAME UPON THE ENEMY STRONG POINT FROM THE REAR. THERE WERE THREE MACHINE GUNS, TWO HEAVIES AND A LIGHT, NONE OF WHICH WERE FIRING AT THE TIME, AND THERE WERE AT LEAST 15 JAPS.

COLE AND BENNETT EACH CARRIED RIFLES, LOADED WITH EIGHT ROUNDS APIECE. MICIAK HAD A REVOLVER WHICH HELD SIX ROUNDS. NONE HAD EXTRA AMMUNITION.

WHEN ONE OF THE JAP SOLDIERS STARTED UP FROM HIS HOLE, BENNETT AND MICIAK OPENED FIRE, KILLING AT LEAST THREE MEN BETWEEN THEM. COLE, ABOUT 15 YARDS AWAY, EMPTIED HIS CLIP OF AMMUNITION AND GOT TWO MORE. THEN THEY TURNED QUICKLY AND DUCKED BACK INTO THE BUSHES.

EARLIER, BENNETT HAD BEEN INVOLVED IN A SIMILAR INCIDENT. HE RECEIVED A FULL DAY'S LIBERTY FROM HIS UNIT AND WENT SOUVENIR HUNTING WITH MARINE PRIVATE FIRST CLASS PLUMMER J.BRYANT, OF ROUTE 1, ALDERSON, WEST VIRGINIA.

AS THEY MOVED DOWN THE SIDE OF A SMALL VALLEY, THEY SPIED SIX JAPS LYING IN HOLES ABOUT 25 YARDS AWAY. ASSUMING THEM TO BE DEAD, THEY KEPT ADVANCING.

ONE OF THE JAPS JUMPED UP AND BOTH MARINES OPENED FIRE. A MOMENT LATER TWO MORE JAPS BEGAN SHOOTING FROM THE TOP OF A NEARBY HILL. AFTER EMPTYING THEIR WEAPONS, BENNETT AND BRYANT DUCKED BEHIND A ROCK AND RELOADED. THEY SHOT AT LEAST SIX JAPS, INCLUDING THE TWO ON THE HILL.

"WE DIDN'T MAKE OUT WITH THE SOUVENIRS," BRYANT GRINNED. "BUT WE GOT SIX OR EIGHT JAPS."

AUG 9 1944

FR&SU913AEW

BY AL DOPKING (540)

AN ADVANCED CENTRAL PACIFIC BASE-(DALAYED)-(AP)-BOREDOM SPAWNED A NEW ERA IN AMERICAN BOMBING TACTICS IN THE PACIFIC.

A NAVY BOMB SQUADRON FOUND ITS LONG RECONNAISSANCE FLIGHTS, WHICH SOME TIMES LASTED 15 HOURS, TIRESOME AND DULL.

SINCE THE SQUADRON HAS PERHAPS THE MOST EXPERIENCED FLIERS IN THE NAVY, IT OFTEN FOUND RELAXATION BY TALKING AVIATION TECHNIQUE.

THAT IS HOW LOW LEVEL BOMBING WAS BORN. ONE OF THE STRONGEST ADVOCATES OF SUCH TACTICS WAS LT.JOHN STICKELL OF GALENA,ILL., A FORMER R.A.F. PILOT WITH 45 MISSIONS OVER EUROPE BEFORE COMING TO THE PACIFIC.

AUG 9 1944

STICKELL WAS CONFIDENT BOMBERS COULD SLIP IN ON THE LOW LYING ATOLLS OF THE CENTRAL PACIFIC AT TREE-TOP LEVEL WITH DETECTION.

LT.FRANK ACKERMAN, 26, OF MIAMI,FLA., A FORMER TRANSPORT PILOT WITH SOME 2,500 HOURS OF FLYING TIME, TRIED IT FIRST OVER MILI IN THE MARSHALLS LAST DECEMBER.

RIDING LOW OVER THE WATER WITH HIS FOUR-ENGINE LIBERATOR, ACKERMAN WASOVER THE MILI AIRDROME BEFORE THE JAPANESE COULD UNCOVER THEIR GUNS. HE SPRAYED INSTALLATIONS, SANK A SUPPLY SHIP AND THEN FLEW BACK OVER THE RUNWAY BARELY 15 FEET ABOVE THE GROUND, AGAIN STRAFING GUN POSITIONS, RADIO INSTALLATIONS AND PLANES.

ACKERMAN'S PLANE WAS UNDER ATTACK BY SIX ENEMY FIGHTERS DURING HIS TREE-TOP RUN. HE SHOT TWO DOWN IN FLAMES BEFORE TEARING OUT FOR HIS HOME BASE.

FELLOW PILOTS WERE ELATED OVER ACKERMAN'S SUCCESS BUT THERE WAS A MESSAGE TO REPORT TO VICE ADM.JOHN H.HOOVER, COMMANDER OF THE FORWARD CENTRAL PACIFIC AREA.

AUG 9 1944

ACKERMAN HAD NOT BEEN AUTHORIZED TO MAKE THE LOW LEVEL RAID. THE ADMIRAL ADMONISHED HIM BUT THERE WAS SOMETHING IN HOOVER'S VOICE

THAT COULD NOT CONCEAL HIS PRIDE IN THE SQUADRON'S INITIATIVE.

OTHER LOW LEVEL RAIDS IN THE GILBERTS AND MARSHALLS FOLLOWED AND ONLY TWO CASUALTIES WERE SUFFERED BY THE SQUADRON AS THEY WROUGHT HAVOC ON INSTALLATIONS OVER A THOUSAND MILE RANGE. IRONICALLY ONE OF THESE CASUALTIES WAS LT.STICKELL.

AUG 9 1944

HE AND LT.RICHARD BERTON DALEY, OF LOS ANGELES, WERE MAKING A TREE-TOP RUN OVER JALUIT IN THE MARSHALLS AND THE ACK-ACK WAS TERRIFIC. A PROJECTILE STRUCK STICKELL IN THE FOOT. COMPLICATIONS WHICH SET IN LATER COSTING HIM HIS LIFE.

SANTIAGO, CHILE, AUG 8-(AP)-COL.PAUL HANLEY, CHIEF OF THE U.S. AIR MISSION TO CHILE, RECEIVED THE UNITED STATES LEGION OF MERIT AWARD TODAY FOR ESTABLISHING "ALMOST WHOLLY BY HIS OWN INITIATIVE" THE AVIATION MECHANICS SCHOOLS AT AMARILLO, TEX.

MT924AEW

MEXICO CITY,AUG.8-(AP)-VICENTE LOMBARDO TOLEDANO, PRESIDENT OF THE LATIN AMERICAN LABOR FEDERATION, SPEAKING AT A MEETING IN HONOR OF POLAND LAST NIGHT, SAID THAT "PACIFISTS IN THE UNITED STATES, ENGLAND AND THE VATICAN," ALONG WITH "MONOPOLISTS," FAVOR A NEGOTIATED PEACE WITH GERMANY.

"THE VATICAN HAS NEVER BEEN CONTRARY TO THESE MANEUVERS," LOMBARDO ADDED.

"CONSEQUENTLY IT FOMENTS THE ACTION OF THE MONOPOLISTS AND ENCOURAGES THE POLISH REACTIONARIES AGAINST SOVIET RUSSIA IN THE PROBLEM OF BOUNDARIES BETWEEN THE TWO COUNTRIES, WHICH REALLY IS A MATTER EXCLUSIVELY THEIRS.

AUG 9 1944

"THE REACTIONARIES DREAM OF A NEW VERSAILLES THAT WI

L PERMIT.

LIKE THE OTHER, THE BIRTH OF ARTIFICIAL NATIONS TO AVOID 'THE TERRIBLE SOVIET INFLUENCE'."

JW1114ACW

AUG 9 1944

THIRD NIGHT LEAD ELECTION (1/40)

BY HARRY T.MONTGOMERY

MONTREAL, QUE., (WEDNESDAY, AUG. 9-(AP)-THE LIBERAL GOVERNMENT OF PREMIER ADELARD GODBOUT, PROPONENT OF FULL COOPERATION IN CANADA'S FEDERAL WAR EFFORT, WAS DEFEATED IN A BITTERLY-CONTESTED QUEBEC PROVINCIAL ELECTION YESTERDAY BY THE UNION NATIONALE PARTY UNDER FORMER PREMIER MAURICE DUPLESSIS, WHO CAMPAIGNED AGAINST WHAT HE TERMED "FEDERAL INTERFERENCE" IN THE AFFAIRS OF THE PREDOMINANTLY FRENCH-SPEAKING PROVINCE.

THE LIBERAL'S MAJORITY OF 59 SEATS IN THE OUTGOING LEGISLATURE WAS CUT TO A MINORITY OF LESS THAN 40, WHILE THE FOLLOWERS OF DUPLESSIS INCREASED THEIR STRENGTH OF 17 TO MORE THAN 40, ALTHOUGH THEY HAD NOT WON A CLEAR MAJORITY BY LAST MIDNIGHT.

AT THAT HOUR THE UNION NATIONALE HAD WON 43 SEATS AND THE LIBERALS 37, WITH THE UNION LEADING IN THREE OTHERS AND THE LIBERALS IN ONE. FORTY SIX WERE REQUIRED FOR A MAJORITY.

IF THE UNION NATIONALE SHOULD FAIL TO WIN A MAJORITY OR FIND A WORKING ARRANGEMENT WITH SOME OF THE MINOR PARTY MEMBERS, A NEW ELECTION WOULD HAVE TO BE CALLED.

THE VOTE WAS HEAVY IN MONTREAL DESPITE A STRIKE OF STREET CAR AND BUS OPERATORS WHICH FORCED THE CITY'S ONE MILLION POPULATION TO RELY ON MAKESHIFT METHODS OF TRANSPORTATION.

GODBOUT CLOSED HIS CAMPAIGN WITH A DEFENSE OF HIS PROVINCIAL PROGRAM AND OF HIS COOPERATION WITH THE WAR POLICIES OF DOMINION PRIME MINISTER W.L.MACKENZIE KING'S LIBERAL GOVERNMENT IN OTTAWA. HE CHARGED THAT HIS OPPOSITION HAD BEEN "TAKING ADVANTAGE OF THE WAR'S ANXIETIES TO GAIN THE ELECTORATE'S CONFIDENCE."

DECLARING THAT HIS OPPONENTS HAD BEEN APPEALING "NOT TO REASON, BUT TO PASSION," GODBOUT SAID THEY HAD BEEN ATTACKING HIM ON MATTERS WHICH HAD NO BEARING ON PROVINCIAL ISSUES. ONE OF THESE, HE SAID, WAS CONSCRIPTION, IN WHICH THE OTTAWA GOVERNMENT'S PROGRAM IS UNPOPULAR IN TRADITIONALLY ISOLATIONIST FRENCH CANADA.

DUPLESSIS MADE HIS FINAL APPEAL BEFORE A LARGE CROWD IN HIS HOME CONSTITUTENCY OF THREE RIVERS, REPEATING EARLIER CHARGES THAT GODBOUT HAD MADE QUEBEC A SLAVE OF THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT AND HAD SUBJECTED THE PROVINCE UNNECESSARILY TO WAR RESTRICTIONS AND INCONVENIENCES. HE PREDICTED HIS PARTY WOULD SCORE AN OVERWHELMING VICTORY.

THE THIRD MAJOR PARTY, THE RELATIVELY NEW BLOC POPULAIRE, IS HEADED BY 32-YEAR-OLD ANDRE LAURENDEAU, WHO TOLD A MONTREAL AUDIENCE THAT THE LIBERAL GOVERNMENT COULD ONLY "PROVIDE THE PEOPLE WITH MEAGRE DIRECT RELIEF" DURING THE DEPRESSION BUT AT THE SAME TIME HAS "BEEN ABLE TO SPEND MILLIONS AND MILLIONS OF DOLLARS TO FIGHT A FOREIGN WAR." HE SAID THAT FRENCH CANADIANS WERE DYING ABROAD IN THE DEFENSE OF "MONIED INTERESTS WHO CONTROL THE LIBERAL AND UNION NATIONAL PARTIES."

AUG 9 1944

IN THE OUTGOING LEGISLATURE, WHICH HAD ONLY 86 SEATS, THE LIBERALS HELD 59 SEATS, THE UNION NATIONAL 17, NATIMNALS 1 AND INDEPENDENTS 1. EIGHT WERE VACANT. A REDISTRIBUTION RAISED THE TOTAL NUMBER OF SEATS TO 91.

SN732PEW

QUEBEC, QUE., AUG 8-(AP)-A SECOND ELECTION DAY RIOT IN WHICH AT LEAST TWO PERSONS WERE SHOT BROKE OUT IN MONTREAL'S EAST END LATE TODAY, TWO BLOCKS FROM THE SCENE OF AN EARLIER DISORDER IN WHICH THREE PERSONS WERE HOSPITALIZED WITH GUNSHOT WOUNDS AND A NUMBER OF OTHERS SUFFERED CUTS AND BRUISES.

AUG 9 1944

ONE OF THESE WOUNDED IN THE SECOND CLASH WAS A 12-YEAR-OLD BOY WHO WAS CAUGHT BETWEEN THE OPPOSING FACTIONS IN TODAY'S PROVINCIAL ELECTION.

POLICE SAID THAT IN ADDITION TO THOSE TREATED AT HOSPITALS OTHERS INJURED HAD BEEN CARRIED AWAY BY FRIENDS.

QUEBEC PREMIER ADELARD GODBOUT, WHOSE LIBERAL GOVERNMENT IS FIGHTING FOR ITS LIFE IN A THREE-WAY BATTLE, URGED THE ELECTORATE DURING THE CAMPAIGN TO CONSIDER ONLY PROVINCIAL ISSUES, BUT TWO OPPOSITIONS PARTIES HAVE ATTACKED FEDERAL WAR REGULATIONS AS AN INFRINGEMENT ON PROVINCIAL AUTONOMY.

GODBOUT'S MAJOR OPPONENTS ARE THE UNION NATIONALE, A PARTY FORMED IN 1936 AND WHEN IT WON CONTROL OF THE GOVERNMENT FOR A THREE-YEAR TERM, AND THE NEWLY-FORMED BLOC POPULAIRE.

THE UNION NATIONALE, LED BY MAURICE DUPLESSIS, IS ROUGHLY COMPARABLE TO THE CONSERVATIVE PARTY IN THE DOMINION FIELD. THE BLOC POPULAIRE, HEADED BY 32-YEAR-OLD ANDRE LAURENDEAU, CONSISTS OF EXTREME NATIONALISTS WHO ARE OUTSPOKEN IN CRITICIZING CANADA'S PART IN THE WAR.

IN ANOTHER PRONVICIAL ELECTION TODAY--IN ALBERTA--VOTERS WILL DECIED WHETHER THE NINE-YEAR-OLD SOCIAL CREDIT GOVERNMENT SHALL REMAIN IN OFFICE FOR A THIRD TERM. FIFTY SEVEN LEGISLATURE SEATS ARE AT STAKE. THE SOCIAL CREDIT AND COOPERATIVE COMMONWEALTH FEDERATION PARTIES ARE THE MAJOR OPPONENTS.

RQ1011AEW

MONTREAL, AUG 8-(AP)-A.C.BRICAULT, MONTREAL MANAGER OF NATIONAL SELECTIVE SERVICE, SAID TONIGHT HIS OFFICE WOULD ESTABLISH A SPECIAL DEPARTMENT TOMORROW TO ISSUE TEMPORARY WORK PERMITS TO STRIKERS, AS THE DEADLOCK CONTINUED THROUGH THE SIXTH DAY OF THE CITY'S TRAMWAYS STRIKE.

BRICAULT SAID IN VIEW OF THE MANPOWER SHORTAGE ON FARMS AND ESSENTIAL INDUSTRIES IN THIS AREA, EVERY FACILITY WOULD BE GIVEN THE STRIKING WORKERS TO GET PERMITS PERMITTING THEM TO DO SOME USEFUL WORK FOR THE DURATION OF THE STRIKE, BASIC DEMAND OF WHICH IS UNION SHOP.

SN9PEW

AUG 9 1944

OTTAWA, AUG. 8-(AP)-MUNITIONS MINISTER C.D.HOWE SAID TODAY ARRANGEMENTS WERE BEING MADE TO HAVE THE WAR ASSETS CORPORATION ACT FOR THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT IN THE DISPOSAL OF MOVABLE ASSETS AT THE HUDSON BAY CHAIN OF WAR-TIME AIR BASES WHICH WERE BUILT BY THE U.S. AND ARE BEING ACQUIRED BY CANADA.

HOWE MADE THE STATEMENT DURING CONSIDERATION OF CIVIL AVIATION ESTIMATES IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

A REPRESENTATIVE OF THE CORPORATION NOW IS IN THE AREA COOPERATING WITH MAJ-GEN. W.W. FOSTER, THE U.S. GOVERNMENT'S CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICER.

AUG 9 1944

GEN. FOSTER HAS REPORTED THE AMOUNT OF SUPPLIES DESTROYED BY THE UNITED STATES AUTHORITIES ON THE ALASKA HIGHWAY WAS "TRIVIAL."

HOWE REFERRED TO REPORTS THAT CANADIAN AUTHORITIES PREVENTED THE SALE OF THE SURPLUS SUPPLIES LOCALLY BECAUSE DUTIES HAD NOT BEEN PAID.

"IT WAS MORE LIKELY ARMY REGULATIONS WHICH WERE RESPONSIBLE," HE SAID.

HOWE SAID THE SALE OF GOVERNMENT SUPPLIES HAD TO BE HANDLED CAREFULLY AND COULD NOT BE LEFT TO OFFICERS IN CHARGE OF THE SUPPLIES.

AK700PEW

AUG 9 1944

ADVANCE HEADQUARTERS,U.S.ARMY, ALASKA DEPARTMENT,AUG.8-(AP)-LT.EDMUND J.AVERMAN,JR., (401 STANFORD AVE.) PITTSBURGH, PA., WAS LEADER OF THE FIRST FLIGHT OF FIVE A-20 TRANSPORT PLANES FLOWN TO FAIRBANKS, ALASKA, FOR DELIVERY TO THE RUSSIANS, THE ALASKA DEPARTMENT REVEALED TODAY.

SINCE THAT INITIAL FLIGHT ON SEPT.3, 1942, LEND-LEASE OPERATIONS HAVE SENT NEARLY 5,000 FIGHTER, BOMBER AND TRANSPORT PLANES TO THE SOVIET FRONTS VIA ALASKA.

NEW YORK, AUG. 8-(AP)-ADOLF HITLER HAS RECOVERED FROM HIS JULY 20 BURNS, THE SWISS NEWSPAPER DER BUND SAID IN AN ARTICLE REPORTED BY THE OWI TODAY, BUT "THE CONDITION OF THE CHANCELLOR'S MORALE MAKE A CERTAIN PERIOD OF QUIET NECESSARY."

HE HAS BEEN RESTING AT BERCHTESGADEN, THE NEWSPAPER ADDED, AND HAS INVITED COLLABORATORS FROM SATELLITE COUNTRIES TO VISIT HIM.

RQ11AEW

30.24— 17859

NEW YORK, AUG. 8-(AP)-MINISTRIES OF THE VICHY GOVERNMENT ARE "FEVERISHLY PREPARING TO LEAVE" THAT CAPITAL, THE SWISS NEWSPAPER JOURNAL DE GENEVE SAID IN AN ARTICLE REPORTED TODAY BY OWI.
REPORTS THAT THE GOVERNMENT WOULD MOVE NEAR NANCY WERE DENIED BY THE GERMAN TRANSOCEAN AGENCY.

AUG 9 1944

RQ1259PEW

A152

NEW YORK, AUG. 8-(AP)-A SWISS NEWSPAPER DISPATCH REPORTED TO THE OWI TONIGHT SAID THAT NAZIS HAD SHOT 43 PERSONS, RAZED 80 HOUSES AND LEFT IN RUINS THE FRENCH VILLAGE OF BAUGES IN HAUTE-SAVOIE.
DESTRUCTION OF THE VILLAGE FOLLOWED A CLASH BETWEEN GERMAN TROOPS AND THE FRENCH FORCES OF THE INTERIOR, THE LAUSANNE NEWSPAPER SAID.
RW1230AEW

(ADVANCE)..WASHINGTON, AUG.8-(AP)-WITH THE RUSSIANS DRIVING AHEAD IN POLAND, THE NAZI WAR MACHINE IS THREATENED WITH THE LOSS OF VITAL NATURAL RESOURCES AND IMPORTANT WAR INDUSTRIES, THE FOREIGN ECONOMIC ADMINISTRATION SAID TODAY.
IT REPORTED THAT WHILE POLISH TERRITORIES SO FAR CONQUERED BY THE RUSSIANS ARE CHIEFLY AGRICULTURAL, AREAS IN THE PATH OF THE SOVIET OFFENSIVE ARE ESSENTIAL TO GERMANY FOR SUPPLIES OF COAL, IRON, OIL, TIMBER AND ZINC, AS WELL AS FOR OIL REFINERIES AND OTHER INDUSTRIAL PLANTS.
LIBERATION OF THE REST OF POLAND ALSO WOULD DEPRIVE THE NAZIS OF "A LARGE SOURCE OF LABOR SUPPLY NOW BEING EXPLOITED FOR THE WAR EFFORT," FEA SAID.
POINTING OUT THAT POLISH AREAS STILL UNDER GERMANY CONTROL INCLUDE MOST OF THE DISTRICT OF GALICIA, CENTRAL POLAND, POLISH SILESIA, AND THE NORTHWESTERN PROVINCES OF POZNAN AND POMORZE, THE AGENCY ADDED THAT LOSS OF THAT TERRITORY WOULD TAKE FROM THE NAZIS "AN AREA HITHERTO COMPARATIVELY IMMUNE FROM ALLIED BOMBING."
(END ADVANCE FOR AMS OF WEDNESDAY, AUG.9)
AB154PEW

DAYTONA BEACH,FLA.,AUG 8-(AP)-COL.H.A.FLINT OF DAYTONA BEACH, AN AMERICAN ARMY OFFICER PRESENT WHEN THE GERMAN ARMY AND NAVY COMMANDERS AT CHERBOURG SURRENDERED, DIED JULY 25 OF WOUNDS RECEIVED IN COMBAT, HIS WIFE WAS INFORMED TONIGHT BY THE WAR DEPARTMENT. THE COLONEL WAS WOUNDED JULY 24.
A CITATION RECENTLY PRESENTED TO THE OFFICER ALONG WITH THE SILVER STAR GAVE HIS REGIMENT A LARGE SHARE OF CREDIT FOR THE CAPTURE OF CHERBOURG. IT PRAISED THE COLONEL FOR THE INSPIRATION HE FURNISHED HIS MEN UNDER FIRE, AND FOR EXCELLENT LEADERSHIP IN THE BATTLE FOR THE FRENCH SEAPORT CITY.
COL.FLINT WAS A NATIVE OF ST.JOHNSBURY,VT. HE WAS GRADUATED FROM THE U.S. MILITARY ACADEMY AT WEST POINT IN 1912.
COLONEL AND MRS.FLINT MOVED TO DAYTONA BEACH IN 1940.
SF1101PCW NM

THE ROAD TO BERLIN
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUG 9 1944

1. RUSSIAN FRONT: 322 MILES (MEASURED FROM EASTERN SUBURBS OF WARSAW).
2. ITALIAN FRONT: 603 MILES (MEASURED FROM FLORENCE).
3. FRENCH FRONT: 629 MILES (MEASURED FROM CINTHEUX).
SN1006PEW

FOUR YEARS AGO TODAY
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
AUG.8, 1940--GERMANS REPORT 12-HOUR ATTACK ON BRITISH CONVOY IN ENGLISH CHANNEL, SAY THEY SANK 12 VESSELS AND SHOT DOWN 34 PLANES; BRITISH SAY THEY SHOT DOWN 70 PLANES AND LOST 16 AIRCRAFT AND THREE SHIPS. BRITAIN REITERATES PLEDGE THAT "FREE AND EQUAL PARTNERSHIP IN THE BRITISH COMMONWEALTH" IS HER AIM FOR INDIA.
M335AEW

UDATED LE MANS

AUG 9 1944

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LE MANS, CATHEDRAL CITY 110 MILES SOUTH WEST OF PARIS, ESCAPED THE SURGE OF GERMAN ARMIES INTO FRANCE IN WORLD WAR I, BUT FIGURED AS A BATTLE THEATER IN THE FRANCO-GERMAN WAR IN 1871.

AMERICAN SPEARHEADS WERE REPORTED TODAY TO HAVE ENTERED THE CITY (POP. 84,525.) ITS CAPTURE WOULD GIVE THE ALLIES AN IMPORTANT HIGHWAY AND RAIL CENTER BETWEEN THE SEINE AND LOIRE VALLEYS AND FACILITATE A DIRECT OR ENCIRCLING OPERATION FOR THE LIBERATION OF PARIS.

THE GERMANS CAPTURED LE MANS IN 1871 AFTER DRIVING THE FRENCH BACK FROM PARIS. ONCE A ROMAN-WALLED CITY, IT FIGURED IN MEDIEVAL BATTLES. ITS CATHEDRAL, DEDICATED TO ST. JULIAN, HAS A NAVE DATIN FROM THE 11TH AND 12TH CENTURIES AND AMONG THE TOMBS IS THAT OF BERENGARIA, QUEEN OF RICHARD THE LION HEARTED.

LE MANS, OLD CENTER OF THE MAINE PROVINCE, IS NOW THE CAPITAL OF THE DEPARTMENT OF SARTHE. ITS INDUSTRIES INCLUDE THE STATE MANUFACTURE OF TOBACCO, METAL WORKS, SPINNING AND AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS.

AUG 9 1944

GN1210PEW

Americans Take Le Mans, Push On for Paris, Capture St. Malo; Canadians Close on Falaise

AUG 10 1944

Le Mans Is Passed By Yanks

Rush on Unchecked Toward Paris—Nantes and Angers Occupied.

NAZIS ADMIT U. S. 87 M OF PARIS

Germans Continue in Grave Situation — Battering Assault Upon Brest Begins.

By James M. Long

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Aug. 9 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's whirlwind wedges rushed without check on the last 100 miles toward Paris tonight after sweeping through Le Mans and forcing the die-hard defenders of Brittany's sea fortress of St. Malo to knuckle under in surrender.

The capture of St. Malo, whose defenders had been ordered to fight to the last man, was reported in field dispatches. Never before had it been taken, though it had been the scene of many sieges in the Middle Ages. The historic fishing village and resort on the north coast was perched on an island connected with the mainland by a defended causeway.

Reach Nantes And Angers

Unconfirmed reports said American troops had pushed into Nantes on the Loire and into Angers, just north of the Loire and 50 miles upstream from Nantes, indicating the Americans were still sweeping forward without any stiffening Nazi resistance that would presage a real fight for Southern France.

On the northern end of the far-flung Allied battleline British and Canadian forces continued their advance.

The Canadians broadened their wedge into the German lines to six miles at the base and pushed a three-mile-wide spear to within about five miles of Falaise.

British troops defending their bridgehead across the Orne River beat off German counterattacks and advanced amid indications the Germans were getting ready to withdraw from their positions between the British and Canadian forces.

With Allied forces sweeping forward in France Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower moved his headquarters from Britain to Normandy to be closer to the battle front.

Americans 87 Miles From Paris

The official announcement of the complete occupation of Le Mans—automobile manufacturing city 85 miles east of Rennes—made it clear that American tanks were well beyond the city and the German news agencies reported the fast spearheads were only 87 miles from Paris.

The German report that Bradley's forces had scored this further advance of 23 miles from Le Mans was without Allied confirmation, but there was a possibility it might be correct as the Americans had not yet met any solid resistance.

On the Caen front, wave after wave of Allied planes slashed savagely at a great concentration of German tanks which had been drawn up presumably for a large-scale counterattack. The Canadians on this front rolled up their total catch of prisoners to more than 2,000, most of them from the German 89th Division, badly mauled in the initial Canadian attack a few days after they were brought to the front from Norway.

Altogether at least 26 more towns and villages were liberated today by the Americans, British and Canadians, bringing the Aug. 2-8 weekly total of announced liberated communities to 49.

The Canadians themselves added, among other places, the fairly large communities of Conteville, Poussy, St. Sylvain, Cauvecourt, Soignolles and Estrees-la-Campagne, pushing out their bulge on an arc from eight to 12 miles southeast of Caen.

There still was no indication where, short of Paris, the Germans might be able to check the storm of American steel which in a little more than two weeks had swept over an arc of 200 miles from St. Lo, through Avranches, Rennes, Laval and Le Mans.

Behind the streams of machines plunging eastward, the American battering ram opened an assault on Brest at the western tip of Brittany, beginning a rear door attack on the outer defenses when the garrison of the French naval base rejected an offer by the American commander to accept its surrender.

British Break Through German Lines

Seventy miles north of Le Mans the Canadian First Army in a great dual thrust steadily pried open a second doorway barely 100 miles from Paris, breaking cleanly through the Germans' first and second lines of defense and advancing to a point 16 miles below Caen.

The Canadians, springing open the German bars in a total advance of 11 miles in two days, were within four miles, or easy gun range, of Falaise, a communications center essential to the whole German position at the northern end of the Normandy battle line.

Le Mans—where Wilbur Wright made his first airplane flight in Europe in 1908 and where Henry II, the first Plantagenet king, was born—was firmly occupied by infantry, battle dispatches said, which came up in the wake of armor and surprised the Germans in the act of hastily fortifying the Sarthe river crossing.

May Be Threatening Tours

German reports that the Americans were driving east and southeast past Le Mans—thrusts which might be menacing Tours, a Loire river city 47 miles to the Southeast; and Orleans, also on the Loire 78 miles east of Le Mans—were not verified here.

Bit it was clear the American spearheads deepened toward Paris were spaced along a broad front of nearly 80 miles, threatening Alencon, a crossroads center 30 miles north of Le Mans, and drawing near the outskirts of Angers, another Loire River city 50 miles southwest of Le Mans.

There was no indication that St. Nazeire or Lorient, German U-boat bases on the south coast of Brittany, had been brought under the final phase of an attack similar to that at Brest, although the Americans were pressed about both ports at close range.

Avenue of Escape

But the Germans had no avenue of escape, and Bradley apparently was waiting to give them a taste of full force bombing and artillery to underscore the advisability of surrendering.

Brest, where the Americans captured Lt. Gen. Karl Spang, 58, commander of the 266th Infantry Division, was first reached Saturday by fast-moving advanced motorized units which covered 150 miles from Avranches in five days. But these units were not in strength to engage the port's garrison and drew back until an assault force could be brought up.

There was no immediate indication of the strength of the inland defenses, but it was emphasized here that it can be expected several days will be required to root the Nazis out by shellfire and bayonet.

Canadian Attack Toward Falaise

The Canadians in their attack toward Falaise from Caen, fanned out east of the Caen-Falaise road today, as the Germans rushed considerable armor into the defense.

But the troops of Lt. Gen. H. D. Crerar were within 1,500 yards of Pontigny, five miles up the road from Falaise, and had overran Bretteville-Sur-Laize, one of the most important objectives, Grainville, Cauville-La-Campagne, Bretteville-Le-Rabet, Hautmesnil, Cintheaux, Robertmesnil, Secqueville-La-Campagne, Labruyere, Fonte-May-Le-Marmion and Lorguichon. They had taken 800 to 1,000 prisoners.

The Canadian and American drives were closing a pincers on a 70-mile pocket, apparently forcing the Germans to give up their badly blunted attempt to split the Avranches corridor. The Germans were slowly withdrawing their mauled armor around Mortain.

There still was fighting around Cherence-Le-Roussel, northwest of Mortain, and enemy-held Mortain itself but just to the north along the Mortain-Vire road the Americans were closing in steadily, capturing several villages. Among them was St. Germain-De-Tallevende, three miles south of Vire.

Foe Strikes Hard At British

The Germans made their most violent counterattacks farther to the northeast, in the British sector near Grimbosq Wood southwest of Caen where Lt. Gen. Sir Miles C. Dempsey's Second Army holds a bridgehead across the Orne. But the Germans pulled back after eight assaults in nine hours, leaving greyclad corpses scattered like jackstraws in the lush meadows and apple orchards bordering the forest.

"For a time we were [illegible] by our eyelids," a British [illegible] was quoted in dispatches as saying.

A new "ghost weapon" was found on the Orne front where British Tommies searching shelltorn houses from which the sound of firing apparently was coming, discovered the enemy had strung powder charges in firecracker fashion in strands of burning rope to simulate snipers.

BERLIN REPORTS DRIVE 87 MILES FROM CAPITAL

Canadians Breach Second Fortified Line in Push South of Caen.

LE MANS FALLS TO U. S.

Bradley's Men Also Advance Southward Toward Loire —Widen Front.

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 9 (A. P.).—Lieut.-Gen. Omar N. Bradley's American First Army swept straight through Le Mans today and stormed still unchecked into the last hundred miles to Paris.

An official announcement of complete occupation of the big road and rail junction city made it clear that United States armor was firmly beyond the city, 110 miles southwest of Paris, and a German broadcast said fast spearheads were only eighty-seven miles from the French capital.

Canadians on the east flank, meanwhile, had smashed sixteen miles below Caen through the Germans' second defense line, and were advancing on Falaise, only four miles away, a communications center essential to the whole [illegible] of the German line.

The Germans pictured the American avalanche as already twenty-three miles beyond Le Mans, easily possible since the doughboys had not yet run into solid resistance, and there was no indication where, short of Paris, the Germans might be able to check them.

On the Breton Peninsula, doughboys charged into the outer defenses of the great port of Brest after the German garrison refused a surrendered ultimatum.

Both the Americans and Canadians were within little more than 100 miles—and perhaps closer—to Paris in a great pincers drive on the French capital.

The Allies apparently had split German armored forces—heretofore so carefully husbanded—into three great blocs. The enemy threw tanks into vain attempts to halt the surge into Le Mans. Four armored divisions had been committed to a futile counterattack at the Allied center near Mortain. The enemy was throwing other steel machines against the Canadians advancing below Caen.

A front dispatch said Americans had sealed off the German penetration near Mortain, aimed at splitting the Allied corridor, and had knocked the enemy from Cherence Roussel in that area and captured three more towns. Fighting continued, however, near Juvigny, northwest of Mortain.

United States forces were closing also on the ports of St. Malo, on the north Breton coast, St. Nazaire, and Mantes. Reconnaissance patrols were reported at the Loire's River mouth.

[The Berlin radio said German troops at St. Malo had pulled back within the inner ring of the city's defenses.]

Brazzaville radio revealed today that units of regular French paratroopers have been operating continuously in Brittany since the Allied landings in Normandy, and that two days ago, following weeks of harrassing and sabotage operations, they captured St. Briac, just west of St. Malo.

CBS recorded the broadcast, which quoted Gen. De Gaulle.

In the weeks following Allied landing in Normandy, the report said, formations of French paratroopers had been dropped from Great Britain. Some immediately after Allied landing operations began.

The Canadian drive, ripping through a great German antitank wall, had cut more than ten miles forward, carrying sixteen of the twenty miles from Caen to the road hub of Falaise. From 800 to 1,000 Germans were captured. The key town of Bretteville-sur-Laize, nine miles below Caen, was seized.

On the Canadian left, the Germans counter-attacked today against the British bridgehead across the Orne River, but it was repelled with slight loss of ground, and the bridgehead was termed secure. This British wedge threatens to trap Germans between the Orne and Laize rivers by joining with the Canadian push below Caen.

A Canadian staff officer said, "Our object was to break through two German defenses, and we've succeeded on a limited front in doing this."

These two defense belts have been two of the strongest in all Normandy—on which the enemy had been piling armament for weeks. The breakthrough them has been achieved, partially-by-passed pockets have been cleaned out thoroughly.

Praises U. S. Flyers.

As many as twenty German Panther tanks have been met at a time. Three were destroyed in one action, but the enemy's total losses are not yet tabulated. Canadian tank casualties so far were described as light.

The Canadian staff officer, referring to the heavy smash by United States bombers yesterday, declared "we wouldn't be where we are now if the American bombing hadn't been successful."

Further indications were that the Germans virtually were abandoning southern France to scrape together forces for defense of the Loire River line. From Spain came word that a second trainload of guns and other equipment en route north from the Bayonne defenses, 275 miles south of the Loire, had been wrecked by the French Maquis.

Nazi Submarines Escape.

Supreme headquarters said the bulk of approximately 100 submarines which the Nazis were reported to have in Brittany were believed to have escaped.

Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's columns fought in the outskirts of St. Malo on the north coast. The siege went into its fourth day. Headquarters reported the Americans 4 miles from Brest and 5 miles from Lorient.

The British 2d Army punched into Central German defenses between Vire and Thury-Harcourt, capturing Le Plessis-Grimoult, 19 miles southwest of Caen.

Just north of Thury-Harcourt, tank-supported British infantry beat off strong German counterattacks seeking to wipe out the Grimbosq bridgehead. Fresh reinforcements, the Tommies strengthened their hold along the east bank of the Orne River and the fringes of the Grimbosq forest in the sector 11 miles southwest of Caen.

The forward line of the Canadian 1st Army still was rolling toward Falaise, birthplace of William the Conqueror, and the level land leading toward Paris.

Many Prisoners Captured.

Hundreds of German prisoners were captured, but the Canadians had no time to count them.

Supreme headquarters gave no new information on the drives for St. Nazaire and Nantes. American units are known to be within 12 miles of each.

The German radio reported a fierce battle for Lorient and said the Germans have "withdrawn closer to the fortress itself."

A dispatch yesterday by the German news agency, Transocean, said Allied glider-borne troops had been landed along the Loire estuary in what appeared to be a showdown fight for St. Nazaire.

The Germans continued to talk of an imminent Allied landing on the Mediterranean coast of France, asserting some American 5th Army troops had been relieved in Italy and there was a great concentration of transport and landing craft on Italy's west coast.

Luftwaffe Believed Lacking Leadership

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 9 (AP)—Air Chief Marshal Trafford Leigh-Mallory said today the German air force lacked leadership and that this explained a deterioration in enemy morale and German fighters' reluctance to mix with the Allies.

The air commander of General Eisenhower's invasion team said the German airmen should have shown fight when the invasion was threatened, but did not.

Prior to D-day, the Allied Expeditionary Air Force, in a long-term program, flew 22,000 sorties and dropped 66,000 bombs, destroying 51 rail centers and severely damaging 25 others, he said. All but three bridges on the Seine below Paris were knocked out, he said.

Since July 6, all bridges across the Loire and all but two over the lower Seine have been knocked out.

He said the success of the invasion was augmented by the crippling of German gun and radar sites and the halting of enemy reconnaissance.

100 U[illegible]TS SAID TO HA[illegible]ESCAPED

Supreme H[illegible]dquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 9 (A. P.).—The bulk of approximately 100 submarines which the Germans were reported to have based in ports in Brittany are believed to have escaped.

The British radio said today that the swift American advance in Brittany will probably cost the Germans more than seventy U-boats stationed in Lorient, Brest and St. Nazaire.

The broadcast, recorded by the Office of War Information, said that if some of the submarines should succeed in breaking through the Allied blockade "they could only escape to Bordeaux, and Swiss sources report the evacuation of Bordeaux."

YANKS CAPTURE NAZI GENERAL

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 9 (A. P.).—Lieut.-Gen Karl Spang, commander of the German 266th Infantry Division, has been captured by the American First Army near Brest.

Eight German generals have been killed in France. Two others and a rear admiral have been captured since D day, June 6.

Within a week, the Germans have announced the deaths in France of Lieut.-Gen Von Drabisch-Waechter, a divisional commander, and Major-Gen. Rudolf Stegman, a Western Front commander.

In the Russian offensive started June 23, the Red Army has announced the capture of twenty-seven German generals and the deaths of several others. Numerous other German general officers have been reported killed in the blood purge following the purported attempt to assassinate Hitler July 20, and in accidents.

Eisenhower's Headquarters Now In France

Moved in Order to Maintain Closest Possible Contact.

By Howard Cowan
Associated Press Correspondent
Representing the Combined American Press

GEN. EISENHOWER'S ADVANCE COMMAND POST IN NORMANDY, Aug. 9—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme commander of Allied forces, has established his headquarters on the continent in order to maintain the closest possible contact with the Allies' fast rolling offensive against the German army.

Was Moved By Air

The supreme command headquarters unit, it was announced tonight, was moved to Normandy by air during the past few days. Officers and enlisted personnel—including WACS—are living in tents in a camouflaged area under constant patrol by heavily armed military police.

The general is situated near an airfield from which he makes speedy trips daily for personal conferences with Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery and Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley.

Highly Favorable Reports

Yesterday he saw his British and American field commanders, both of whom were able to give highly favorable reports on the progress of the renewed drive from Caen and the tank smash on the western and southern ends of the far-flung Allied front.

Instantaneous telephone communication with Supreme Headquarters in London is available from the general's trailer headquarters which is under 24-hour guard by an MP who squats in a dugout behind a machine-gun.

The general's guardians are taking no chances on his safety.

Eisenhower's aide, Commander Hary C. Butcher, former CBS executive of New York City, sleeps in a tent a few yards away.

He was awakened late the other night by thunder from a nearby ack-ack battery. Scrambling out of his bedroll to make for a foxhole, Butcher tripped over a washstand, grunted and sent pans clattering to the ground.

"Halt!" roared an MP.

"I crawled back into my tent and got back into bed," Butcher grinned.

It wasn't a raid. Just a false alarm.

EISENHOWER SHIFTS BASE TO FRANCE

London, Aug. 9 (A. P.).—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower had moved his headquarters from Britain to France, it was announced tonight.

Bombing Error Wounds High Canadian Officer

By the Associated Press.

WITH THE CANADIAN 1st ARMY IN FRANCE, Aug. 8 (Delayed).—A senior Canadian staff officer told war correspondents today that in this afternoon's heavy raid by American Flying Fortresses and Liberators in support of the Canadian offensive from 6 to 30 bombs fell (eight words censored) short, resulting in casualties to Canadian personnel (five words censored).

A high Canadian officer was wounded.

Six hundred (three words censored) Fortresses and Liberators participated in the raid, which was directed against German positions in front of the Canadian line.

The staff officer said he did not know to what the accidents were attributed, but strongly emphasized that they had no ill effect on the offensive itself. (Twelve words censored.)

Nazis Believed Trying Scorched-Earth Policy

London, Aug. 9 (AP)—American airmen returning from bombing the railway embankment at Epernon today expressed the belief the retreating Germans were scorching the earth—burning villages, fields and forests to delay the Allied advances in France.

"Fires were burning everywhere as we went in—airdromes, fields and woods—as if the Nazis were deliberately burning them," a flyer said.

VICHY CALLED BESEIGED CITY

Maquis Forces Said To Be Battling To Capture Capital

Madrid, Aug. 9 (AP)—Vichy is a besieged city with the garrison of 5,000 militiamen, mobile guardsmen, gendarmes and state police battling French Patriot forces attempting to seize the collaborationist capital, dispatches received here said today.

Pierre Laval, French collaborationist leader, is no longer able to live in his Chateldon chateau only ten miles south of Vichy because of the danger of ambush by Maquis forces along the road, the morning newspaper Ya said in a story from its Vichy correspondent.

Patriots In Vichy Garrison

The correspondent reported that truckloads of militiamen and other forces "armed to the teeth" were dashing from the city constantly to block the Maquis, but that actually numbers of the Patriots already were inside Vichy.

Even the garrison has Maquis in its ranks in the person of young men who joined the militia rather than go to work in German fields or factories, he wrote.

Vichy forces patrol the streets day and night with sawed-off shotguns, halting inhabitants every few yards and forcing them to show identification papers.

Pyrenees Area In Patriot Hands

Elsewhere in France, Partisan battles with Germans and collaborationists were reported increasing in fury.

Maquis forces in southwestern France were said to have captured an important road junction between Bordeaux and Bergerac after heavy fighting.

Barcelona dispatches said the Germans had made large-scale withdrawals in the Spanish-French border area, but that the Nazis, evidently fearing the possibility of Allied landings on the French Mediterranean coast, had removed few troops from fortifications lining that shore.

Only a small covering force of Gestapo agents and gendarmes has been left to cover the Pyrenees frontier, the dispatches said. They added that the entire Pyrenees Mountain region was believed to have passed into Maquis control.

Nazi Efforts to Escape Southwest France Disrupted by Maquis

By the Associated Press.

IRUN, Spain, Aug. 9.—German attempts to evacuate men and equipment from positions in Southwestern France outflanked by Allied troops farther north are being seriously disrupted by French patriots sabotaging communication lines and spreading panic among the Nazis still in that area, border reports said today.

As the German army of occupation moved northward, the Maquis were reported narrowing its way of escape and grimly awaiting the time when those Nazis left behind are too weak to survive the challenge of the Frenchmen of the mountains. The Maquis were declared to be forcing the Germans to destroy much of the material they hoped to rescue from Southern France.

The few Germans still remaining along the French border were comparatively calm. They apparently feel that if the worst comes they can cross into Spain and surrender their arms. It was among the German units farther to the north that the dread of the Maquis was said to be growing.

French Talk Openly of War.

Two daughters of the French station master at Hendaye said their fellow countrymen in the border region were making the lives of the Germans still in the area particularly miserable by keeping them informed of the news of Allied victories as given by Allied broadcasting stations.

The French openly talk about the war on the streets and in cafes, the sisters said, adding that boys and girls under working and fighting age help annoy the Germans by singing a French equivalent of the American song, "I'll Be Glad When You're Dead, You Rascal You."

Fewer than 1,000 Germans soldiers remain in Hendaye, St. Jean de-Lux and other points south of Bordeaux. These stay close to their barracks and seem ready to move at a moment's notice, French reports said.

Patriots Cut Rail Lines.

Other advices said French resistance forces had cut the railroads linking the Bay of Biscay with the Mediterranean but the roads remain as possible escape routes for Germans along the coast from Brittany to the Pyrenees. These roads constantly are policed by SS motorized units in the daytime. So much sabotage is carried out at night when the Germans remain in their barracks that each morning the Nazis have to reopen the same routes through unfriendly country.

Previously new recruits to the Maquis were admitted only after thorough questioning. Now, according to frontier reports, the Maquis will accept any Frenchman, Belgian, Dutchman and Italian with a gun as a co-belligerent, although by no means as an ally.

With various Maquis groups on the move toward definite objectives their orders are to accept in good faith any volunteer who wants to fight in the ranks, although giving him none of the credentials nor confidences accorded the oldtimers.

Some petty collaborationists undoubtedly are attaching themselves to the Maquis, but the French patriots are said to be meeting this problem by shooting them when discovered.

Correspondents Race Dispatches By Pigeons

New York, Aug. 9 (AP) — Gault MacGowan, New York Sun correspondent, and J. W. Gallagher, Associated Press correspondent, dispatched bulletins by rival pigeons from near Sourdeval, France, today, because, as MacGowan put it, "our swift advance is outstripping our communications and I am racing one of the New York Sun pigeons against Wes Gallagher's AP pigeon and shall eat our pigeon if he loses."

The Sun pigeon is safe. It arrived at the dispatching station at 6.09 P. M., after flopping the 50 miles in 1 hour 54 minutes. The AP bird clocked in at 6.10. However, the Associated Press dispatch reached New York four minutes before MacGowan's got to the Sun.

The dispatches told of American troops driving a German attack from Cherence Roussel and sealing off a German penetration near Mortain.

Foe Takes Desperate Measures

Sends Women 15 to 65 To Dig Trenches to Protect "Holy Soil."

RUSSIANS GAIN 9 TO 12 MILES

Renew Offensive North of Warsaw and Climb Higher in Carpathians.

By W. W. Hercher

LONDON, Thursday, Aug. 10 (AP) — Slowed but not stopped by desperate German counterattacks all along the eastern front, powerful Russian armies yesterday ground out nine to 12-mile gains in the battle of Latvia, renewed the offensive northeast of Warsaw, and climbed higher into the Carpathians toward Czechoslovakia.

In telling of the day's furious fighting and hard-won advances, the Soviet midnight communique and an early-morning supplement over and over again used the phrases "stubborn resistance" and "repeated counterattacks," but said that in no case had these Nazi efforts succeeded.

Send Women to Dig Trenches

Thoroughly alarmed, the Germans drafted every able-bodied man and woman from 15 to 65 to dig trenches against the imminent entry of the Red Army onto the "holy" soil of East Prussia.

It was there, too, that they put in the most frequent counter-attacks, east of the border town of Schirwindt and northwest of Marjampole. In a special air forces broadcast today, said all the digging would do the Germans little good, for Soviet plans, with a six-fold superiority in numbers, were attacking the Nazi defenses at will.

It confidently concluded:

"Soviet troops will advance farther and farther to the west until they link up with our allies."

Up and down the 1,000-mile front the counterattacking Germans lost more than 3,800 killed yesterday, said the Soviet war bulletin, while another 120 enemy tanks were destroyed or knocked out. It was the ninth consecutive day that the Russians had recorded loss of more than 100 tanks by the Nazis.

In the north, the Russians reported capture of more than 280 towns in twin drives northwestwards within 64 miles of Riga, Latvia, along both sides of the Daugava river. Best gains recorded there were 15 kilometers (about nine miles).

In the corridor across Latvia to the sea a score of miles west of Riga, which has trapped two German armies of possibly 250,000 men, the Russians reported they took 200 towns in westward advances of about 12 miles. Memel, one of Hitler's early pieces of bloodless loot, lay but 80 miles to the southwest.

East of Warsaw and northwest of Siedlce the Russians reported that they had "renewed their offensive after powerful artillery and air penetration," taking they key road junctions of Wengrow and Sokolow, 20 and 22 miles northwest and north of Siedlce. These were paving the way for eventual all-out assault on Warsaw, already besieged for 10 days.

More than 130 miles southeast of Warsaw, they reported continued widening of their bridgeheads across the Vistula west of Sandomierz.

On the southern sector of the active front, the communique reported capture of the town of Skole, in the narrowing Carpathian valley where the road and railroad wind up to the Beskid Pass and the Czecho-Slovak border 20 miles distant.

The imminent threat to East Prussia, however, was the Germans' greatest source of worry, as indicated by their counter-attacks northwest of Marjampole, their drastic call-up of labor battalions from hitherto privileged white-collar classes and officials, and the continual harping of the German radio on the East Prussian defense theme.

The Germans said the Russians had driven breaches nearer to East Prussia on the northeast and southeast—on both sides of the region of the German counterattacks—but the Russians themselves were silent concerning those fronts.

The Germans admitted that the latest Russian salient had forced them to abandon the town of Raseinial, 50 miles northeast of the frequently bombed East Prussian city of Tilsit and that they had reorganized their line to the westward.

They later claimed to have pushed the Russians back out of Raseinial in hard fighting, but were deliberately vague about the present status of the town.

Another Soviet column was forking northeastward from Bialystok in Old Poland, with fighting in progress west of Knyszyn, which is 31 miles from the East Prussian frontier and 41 from the East Prussian town of Lyck.

The Germans also attached importance to a Soviet spearhead thrusting southwestward from Bialystok beyond Lapy down the railroad towards Warsaw.

The Warsaw siege front remained static, the Germans said, but they admitted that 130 miles farther south, in the Baranow area, the Russians made gains both north and south, extending their salient.

Only on the farthest south of the active fronts did the Germans claim unmitigated success, in their titanic struggle to stop the Russian offensive, asserting that with the aid of Hungarian Alpine troops they had driven a deep wedge into Soviet columns in the Tatar pass to Czecho-Slovakia and had eased the pressure on that historic gate through the Carpathians.

It was on the East Prussian front, however, that the Nazis showed the greatest worry. There, where Gen. Ivan Chernlakhovsky's Third White Russian Army is drawn up within rifle range of the border at many places on a 70-mile front, the mobilization of civilians to build defense works was admittedly rigorous.

Throughout East Prussia, Danzig, the old Polish corridor to the sea, and the West Prussian area beyond, the order for everyone was "dig!" The Germans admitted that they were pressing into this spadework many Poles and other nationalities, everyone, in fact, who had the strength to wield a tool. Even officials of the German "Government-General" of former Polish territory were jerked off trains and put to digging trenches.

"He who leaves his post is a deserter, no matter whether he is an official or a private individual," said the orders. "No excuse however cunning, will help such a person. . . . This region must not be given up."

The all-out nature of the German defense already had shown its effect by slowing the Russian advance, but the Red Armies methodically fought ahead and brought up their supplies for further offensives.

In the north Baltic states the Russians tightened their grip on the possibly 250,000 German troops trapped in Estonia and northeast Latvia. Gen. Ivan C. Bagramian's Army group which drove the corridor to the Baltic west of Riga to cuot off those troops wos now only 20 miles from the Latvian capital, while Gen Andrei I. Yeremenko's men thrust up from the southeast, 64 miles distant.

These two forces were forming a pocket in which at least eight German divisions were believed operating. German veterans who were the first to invade Russia in 1941 were among those troops.

In the siege of Warsaw, in its tenth day, the Germans declared they had put down a general revolt of the Polish underground inside the city in "a major operation." The Polish Partisans sent word via their press bureau in London that they were handicapped immensely by lack of munitions and [illegible] against German heavy armor, but that the spirit of troops and civilians is still magnificent.

The Soviet high command announced that enemy forces are being "bled white" and "our troops are stubbornly advancing" against German reserve divisions thrown into desperate counterattacks in nearly every sector of the front to keep the Russian hordes from German soil. A communique supplement said all were repulsed.

(The Red Army was reported in a BBC broadcast heard by NBC today to have broken into German defenses on the East Prussian frontier. There were no immediate details.)

Six-Mile Advance.

The Russian communique also announced a 6-mile northward thrust on the Vistula bridgehead, a drive which may be pointed at Warsaw from the south, and an advance to within 33 miles of the Czechoslovak border.

The Russians said that to support their counterattacks the Germans are hurling "even road-building, airdrome and other rear detachments" into battle. It was reported 16 new German divisions have reached the front in the last three weeks—some from the Central German reserves, [illegible] Yugoslavia, Hungary and Norway.

[illegible] the Russians did not disclose where the German counterattacks have occurred, but it could be assumed that at least part were aimed at keeping the Red Army from leaping forward the few miles needed to reach the soil of East Prussia.

(The Germans announced that many new officers "have taken over on the Eastern front at this critical juncture.")

German Thrust Broken Up.

A German southward thrust aimed at breaking out of the Estonia-Latvia encirclement was broken up by Soviet forces several days ago in the Birzai area in Northern Lithuania near the Latvian border, the Russian communique said.

Since then the rolling Russian legions in that sector have captured more than 80 communities, including Radviliskis, on the border 43 miles from Riga.

Along with the Birzai offensive the Soviet forces shot two other spearheads into Latvia along the Daugava River toward Itiga, sweeping through a total of 120 places, including Krustpils.

Front advices said there was reason to believe one of the biggest encirclements of the summer campaign was gaining new momentum. Thousands of German soldiers strung out in the vast spaces from the Gulf of Riga to the southern shores of Lake Peipus were [illegible] driven back to the Baltic in a of extermination.

More Towns Liberated.

The Russian advances in the Vistula bridgehead in Poland likewise threatened new German disasters.

The 6-mile northward gain freed 50 towns and villages west northwest of Sandomierz. Steadily widening the salient, the Rusisans also made new strides westward toward Kielce and edged forward slightly to the southwest in the Krakow direction.

Once again the Russian communique made no mention of the situation before Warsaw, where Soviet troops last were reported battling the eastern suburbs while the Polish underground fought the Germans inside the capital itself.

Toward the southern end of the long battle line a thirty-three-mile approach to Czecho-Slovakia was achieved by capture of Chyrow in a jump from the highway-rail junction of Sambor, capture of which Moscow saluted two nights ago.

Nazis Digging In.

London, [illegible] The German radio said today that men and women in the Polish Corridor and Danzig had been mobilized totally to dig in against the threat of Russian invasion.

The broadcast suggested that the Germans were not convinced that the Red Army had spent its force despite the recent slowing of the advance, caused by stouter Nazi resistance stiffening by central reserves rushed to the front, the necessity of consolidating and strengthening supply lines, and of regrouping after advances of up to 450 miles.

The Germans announced the loss of the Lithuanian town of Raseinial, fifty-three miles from the East Prussian rail junction Tilsit. Another retreat [illegible] the Baranow bridgehead the Vistula River 110 [illegible] Warsaw was reported

Reds Closing In On Riga From Three Sides

Nazi Counterattacks Along Entire Front Reported Repulsed

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Aug. 9.—The Red Army tightened a noose today around German Baltic forces once estimated at more than 20 divisions—between 250,000 and 300,000 men—and smashed a deeper wedge through Poland toward German Silesia west of the Vistula.

Three Soviet columns pressed on Riga from the west, south and east for possibly the biggest kill of the summer campaign. Heavily armored enemy units fell back on the Latvian capital, their offensive thrusts shattered by Gen. Ivan C. Bagramian's right wing.

Gen. De... Vi...

30. 24 — 17863

Need of Reorganizing Supply.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9—(AP)—Major General John R. Deane, one of the few foreign officers who has inspected the Red Army front, today attributed the recent slowing of Russian advances to the necessity of reorganizing supply lines, and scoffed at any idea that the Germans have been making a planned withdrawal.

A Poor Plan

"If this was a planned withdrawal," the chief of the military mission to Moscow told a news conference, "it was a poor plan."

The speed of the Red Army's advance, said Deane, was due to a number of factors, the most important being the 100 per cent war participation of the civilian population, and the speed with which civilians repair supply routes.

Soviet partisans in enemy-held territory have played an important role, acting as advance intelligence forces for the Red Army until it reached them, then joining the army.

Civilians Pitch In

As territory was retaken, the entire civilian population—men, women and children—would "pitch in" to make temporary repairs on bridges under expert supervision so that supplies could move forward immediately.

A large part of Red Army supply has been by rail, Deane said, requiring rebuilding and changing the gauge of every foot of track as it was recaptured—the work again being done by local civilians under a small crew of technical supervisors supplied by the army.

American Trucks Great Help

Fifty per cent of the highway supply is moved in American trucks, said Deane, and the balance in "anything that will roll," down to peasant carts. The way this miscellaneous collection of vehicles is organized in an orderly and efficient supply system is a tribute to the administrative ability of the Russians and the discipline of the entire population, he added.

"There are four points I would like to emphasize," Deane said.

"One—the Russians are in this war 100 per cent — you will see in Russia total war if you are ever going to see it;

"2—They have reached a very high degree of military competency;

"3—They are very appreciative of American assistance and are using it to the hilt;

They Want to Be Friends

"4—They like Americans, they want to be friends, and they co-operate with us in every way."

Deane said the Russians value our trucks most highly, followed in order by planes and food.

Deane avoided political topics, except to say that he believed the friendships being formed between Americans and Russians, particularly at shuttle-bomber bases in Soviet territory, will pay dividends in mutual understanding.

AUG 10 1944

Stalin Says Russia Wants Poland Strong

According to Premier Mikolajczk — Talks Broken Off.

MOSCOW, Thursday, Aug. 10 (AP)—Shortly after his second meeting with Premier Stalin, Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, premier of the Polish Government-In-Exile, radiating optimism, announced today he would return to London with proposals concerning the rival Polish regimes on which "no definite agreement" was reached here.

Assured of Desire

"Premier Stalin has assured us of his desire for a strong, independent, democratic Poland," he told a press conference, adding he had a deep conviction that a durable, close and friendly cooperation between Poland and Soviet Russia must exist now and in peacetime.

As negotiations between the rival regimes, the Government-In-Exile and the Soviet-sponsored National Committee of Liberation, broke up, Mikolajczyk said, "we have agreed not to make statements and counter-statements," and declined to make any prediction about his own prospects.

Left Last Night

(Members of the national committee left the Russian capital last night by plane for an unrevealed destination, the Moscow radio said. The dispatch, recorded in London by the Soviet monitor, said high Soviet officials were present to see them off.)

Reminded he had led correspondents to believe he had authority to negotiate an agreement, Mikolajczyk said factors had arisen which he had not expected, adding that the "Russian-Polish agreement was signed while I was away," and that "changed the situation, obviously."

The premier, who saw Stalin Aug. 3 and last night, conferred with Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov July 31 and last Monday night and met the rival Polish group Aug. 6 and 7, said certain proposals had been advanced by both sides which "will be considered in London." Asked if the negotiations would be resumed in Moscow, he replied:

"I think Warsaw, which is fighting now a terrible fight, would be the best place. It would be the easiest place to find an agreement."

He added that the people of the Polish underground seemed to him to be the ones who should lead Poland.

"This is a common front of every Pole," he said grimly.

As the discussions ended, with both sides preparing to return to their own headquarters, each party indicated a desire for renewal of the talks on a plan for fusion, probably after the retreat of the Germans from Warsaw, to make it possible to carry on there.

Consults Ambassadors

Premier Stanislaw Mokolajczyk of the exiled Polish government in London, whose visit to Moscow was encouraged by the United States and Britain, consulted the Ambassadors of those two nations, probably for the last time before leaving for England tomorrow.

He will return with basic terms which the London government was proffered by the Soviet-sponsored Polish Committee of National Liberation. Fundamental differences, which will take much individual consideration for solution, were reported to have divided the two groups.

The National Committee, whose president Morawski left today for Lublin in Poland, released a statement to the Moscow press charging that the talks collapsed because Miodolajczyk's delegation would not renounce the constitution of 1935, which is described as dictatorial, in favor of a "democratic provisional government" under the liberal constitution of 1921.

May Resume Later

The statement was issued by Polpress, an agency of the liberation committee, which pointed out that "it is possible negotiations will resume later." The Moscow papers stressed that Premier Stalin desired "all questions of conditions in Poland" to be settled solely by the Poles.

Although the talks made no tangible progress toward Polish unity, Allied embassies held out the hope that a solution would come later in Warsaw.

For the first time a Soviet representative, Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov, joined the two Polish groups last night at a conference where the atmosphere was described by a member of the London group as friendly.

Molotov arranged his meeting with the two groups at the request of Mikolajczyk and was understood to have expressed favor of a later renewal of negotiations.

Andrezej Witos, vice president of the liberation committee, urged Polish emigres in Russia to obtain membership in his peasant party, saying "Polish aristocracy will no longer dominate Poland."

A similar appeal came from the Socialist party. Both were published in the Polish newspapers Wolna Polska, which said membership registrations were needed in order for the Poles to "return home as an organized political force."

AUG 10 1944

POLISH FACTIONS UNABLE TO AGREE

Moscow, Aug. 9 (A. P.)—Rival Polish regimes failed to agree today on a plan of fusion and leaders are returning to their respective headquarters in London and Lublin with renewal of negotiations delayed at least until after the Russians capture Warsaw.

Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk consulted the United States and British Ambassadors late today after the Soviet-sponsored Polish Committee of National Liberation said the exiled government in London was clinging to the dictatorial constitution of 1935, blocking formation of a Democratic provisional government. He probably will leave for London tomorrow.

President Morawski of the committee departed for Lublin.

Both sides left the way open for talks in the indefinite future, but indicated they preferred to wait until the Germans are driven from Warsaw, the Polish capital, which could be the scene of their next deliberations.

The committee, recognized by Russia, insisted on restoration of the 1921 constitution as more democratic than the 1935 document. It is known, however, that other fundamental differences exist which could be ironed out, if at all, only by lengthy individual consideration.

The Russian attitude officially is unchanged: The Soviets are favorable to a settlement of the internal Polish problem by the Poles themselves.

No announced progress has been made toward a unified Polish government, more hopeful diplomats said a future conference might succeed. Mikolajczyk now knows the basic terms which he and other Poles in the London regime must meet if they intend to collaborate with the committee.

At the same time, a front-page announcement said Premier Stalin told Mr. Mikolajczyk in their talk August 3 that he desired "all questions of conditions in Poland might be decided by the Poles themselves."

Constitution Not Accepted.

Reports said the discussions between the two Polish groups had "not brought positive results so far because the representatives from London did not accept the 1921 democratic constitution and did not agree to replace the anti-democratic constitution of 1935 with all its consequences."

After this show of silence, the Soviet press renewed its attack on Gen. Kazimierz Sosnkowski, war minister for the London Polish government, as a fascist-hating imperialist. A Red Star article, saying there were reports that Polish officers in Italy were planning a Federation to be confirmed in Poland declared "the Polish people regard these plans * * * with a feeling of repulsion."

A source close to Mr. Mikolajczyk indicated that last night's conference at the Kremlin among his group, the Liberation Committee and Soviet Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov had left the door open for continuance of negotiations between the two Polish factions.

Friendly Atmosphere.

A member of Mr. Mikolajczyk's London Polish group described the atmosphere of the meeting as friendly. Mr. Mikolajczyk left the Kremlin in the best mood since he saw Premier Stalin last week and apparently had no thought of terminating his Moscow visit abruptly.

The conference marked the first time that representatives of the two rival Polish regimes and the Soviet Union had sat down at the same conference table. The previous meetings here on the question of Polish unity were attended only by Poles.

Mr. Molotov arranged the meeting last night at the request of Mr. Mikolajczyk and was understood to have assured continuance of the negotiations.

AUG 10 1944

Waves Of Allied Planes Lash Nazis

Great Concentration of German Tanks Pounded Viciously—Were Presumably Gathered to Head Counterattack.

By Ned Nordness

LONDON, Aug. 9 (AP)—Wave upon wave of Allied aircraft slashed viciously in a day-long assault south of Caen today at a great concentration of German tanks, presumably gathered to spearhead a large-scale counterattack, and Canadians in the sector advanced tonight without meeting the armored threat.

AUG 10 1944 NIGHT

Summary Received

While the enemy armor at the vital "hinge" of the western front was being plastered, other aircraft struck at submarine pens on the west French coast and at the Nazi's patched industry and dwindling oil resources in Germany, Hungary and Yugoslavia, while still others threw a protective canopy over the whole Allied front.

The enemy tanks were gathering in the Laison valley near St. Quentin De La Roche, six miles north of Falaise and just off the C[illegible]

The planes presumably were led by the deadly, rocket-firing Typhoon tank busters, whose effectiveness was displayed recently in the smashing of the German counterattack in the Mortain area.

Significant Developments

Two significant developments were disclosed by long-distance hauls today by Marauders and Havocs of the Ninth Air Force and RAF Halifaxes to destroy fuel dumps and bridges.

Air officers said bluntly that field dumps were so badly smashed near the enemy's front he was being forced to draw from distant supplies—and that Seine river bridges were so damaged that the Allies are hitting farther back at the Oise river northeast of Paris to complete the cutting of the German front from supplies and reinforcements.

Carrying out the strategy, Halifaxes flew 200 miles beyond Caen to the Foret de Mormal, near Valenciennes, to drop explosives on a fuel depot in an attack similar to three last night.

Nazis Repair Bridges

Although there are 500 bridges over the Seine between Paris and the sea, only 29 were considered vital to the Germans. All but three of these were smashed before D-day, but constant repairs by the Nazis have necessitated frequent renewals of the attacks.

The Lancasters' attack was part of a concentrated effort to wipe out German Atlantic bases. The La Pallice base, where submarine fuel tanks were attacked, is south of the battle area in the vicinity of La Rochelle. Already in this concentrated campaign Le Havre has been rendered virtually useless, and the Brest, Lorient and St. Nazaire ports are about to fall into American hands.

Stuttgart Hit

While tactical forces streamed over enemy lines in France in a bridge-busting campaign, jamming Nazi communications, up to 750 British-based U. S. Eighth Air Force Liberators and Fortresses, with equal fighter escort, ploughed through murky weather against Stuttgart, "the Detroit of Germany," and other targets in southern Germany. A rail yard was among these.

The escorting Lightnings, Thunderbolts and Mustangs reported 33 enemy planes shot down in aerial combat. Eighteen bombers and two fighters were missing from the British-based attacks on Germany.

A communique said none of the German interceptors was able to penetrate the fighter screen around the bombers.

Air Opposition Light

Fighter escorts of both heavy bomber fleets said German air opposition was not intense and contradicted German radio reports of fierce battles in the air. The American fighters dipped down from bombing altitudes and strafed enemy airfields, shooting up 30 planes on the ground and destroying 50 locomotives and 137 freight cars in their thrust from the west.

The weather over the French front was favorable for the aerial blows at the Germans' communication system.

More than 500 heavies of the 15th air force struck from Italy at Nazi aircraft and oil resources, including the Almas Fuzito refinery on the Danube 30 miles west of Budepest, a Messerschmitt assembly plant at Gyor and airdromes at Veches and Tokol in Hungary as well as rail yards at Brod in Yugoslavia.

The daily smash at bridges, designed to cut off German reinforcements in France, was led by large formations of U. S. Ninth Air Force Marauders and Havocs. This afternoon they bombed five railway bridges over the Oise northeast of Paris and a sixth at Chartres. Other of the bridge-busters went to Pontoise, Verberie, Chauny, Compiegne and Beaumont-Sur-Oise.

Meanwhile, second tactical air force Bostons and Mitchells blasted an ammunition dump in the forest of Lyons east of Rouen. Their bombs started huge fires and then a terrific explosion of ammunition was felt for a radius of five miles, rocking the planes like cradles.

Countryside Quivers

"You could see the whole countryside quivering and trees were bent over by the blast," said one pilot. "Flames and smoke rose to a great height."

Three planes were lost in these operations.

American heavies returning from Germany passed RAF Lancasters and Halifaxes hitting at flying bomsites in northern France. Other Halifaxes made a heavy attack on a fuel depot in the Forest of Marmal, near Valenciennes, and later Lancasters smashed at targets including an oil tank at La Pallice, on the west coast of France.

Allied bombers last night roared over Europe from Britain and Berlin said Italy-based planes bombed targets in Hungary.

Night-flying RAF Lancasters and Halifaxes smashed three fuel dumps in northern France, each containing hundreds of tons of oil. Mosquitos strafed trains and bombed Cologne with two-ton block-busters.

The Ninth Air Force reported 51 tanks destroyed and many more damaged in more than a thousand sorties at the French front yesterday.

In Rome the RAF announced that bomb-carrying Mustangs of the Desert Air Force had knocked out the canal locks at Cavanella D'Adige, south of Venice, in repeated attacks during the past two days, closing a water route over which the enemy was moving an immense volume of supplies for the Gothic line.

The announcement said it was believed the canal would be useless for a long time and all traffic on the Adige River was dislocated.

2000 U. S. Planes Raid Europe

Bombers and Fighters From Britain and Italy Strike Germany, Hungary and Yugoslavia.

London, Aug. 9 (A. P.).—More than 2,000 American heavy bombers and fighters from Britain and Italy attacked war targets today in Germany, Hungary and Yugoslavia while hundreds of planes slashed at bridges behind the French battle zone and exploded a huge ammunition dump.

About 750 Flying Fortresses and Liberators with an equal number of escorts flew through soupy weather from England and cast explosives on undisclosed objectives around Stuttgart, the Detroit of Germany, and in other sectors of southern Germany.

Generally the bombers encountered unfavorable weather. Strong forces of Lightnings, Thunderbots and Mustangs of the Eighth Fighter Command escorted the heavies and reported thirty-three enemy planes shot down in aerial combat. None of the interceptors was able to penetrate the fighter screen around the bombers. Eighteen are missing, however, along with two of our fighters.

Our fighters also strafed enemy airfields and shot up enemy planes on the ground and destroyed fifty locomotives and 137 freight cars.

American Marauders and Havocs bombed six French bridges at noon. Five were across the Oise north of Paris. A German radar station in the Argentan-Alencon area also was attacked.

Italy-based American heavy bombers struck oil and plane facilities in Hungary and the Brod railway yards in Yugoslavia.

The United States Ninth Air Force announced that its fighter bombers supporting ground forces yesterday destroyed fifty-one tanks and damaged twenty-two, mostly between Mortain and Vire and around newly captured Le Mans. In the thousand sorties the Ninth flew yesterday, the fighter bombers destroyed 138 other vehicles, thirty-four gun emplacements, sixty-three railroad cars and two locomotives.

Planes filled the Channel skies throughout the morning. One bomber fleet took more than an hour to cross the coast.

Twice within three hours last night, R. A. F. Lancasters and Halifaxes attacked three fuel dumps in northern France—all considerable distances from the battle front and each containing hundreds of tons of oil.

All three dumps—at Aire-sur-la Lys in the Pas de Calais area, in the Foret de Lucheux to the south and in the Foret de Chantilly just north of Paris—were left in flames.

Of the stabs into Germany and Hungary today, German broadcasts said heavy United States bombers with strong fighter escort struck into the southern Reich from the west and suffered losses in air battles over Budapest and Lake Balaton.

R. A. F. Mosquitoes again ranged over France from the battle zone to 200 miles beyond last night in search of transport targets, but the crews noted a marked lack of activity on previously busy roads and railways.

Mosquitoes bombed and strafed some trains, however, and started fires among a number of oil tanks north of Fountainbleu. Others dumped two-ton blockbusters on Cologne for the second time in three nights.

British medium bombers in the early afternoon exploded an ammunition dump in the Lyons Forest, 10 miles east of Rouen. A forest fire was kindled by the explosion and "this was followed by a gigantic upheaval of the earth which sent a wave over a radius of five miles," a pilot said.

Three bombers were lost to intense ground fire.

Flack Only Moderate.

The first flyers returning from Stuttgart reported only moderate flak and no enemy fighters, in contrast to German reports of bitter battles. Weather was foul, some crews running into three-mile-thick cloud banks which made flying hazardous.

The reported thrust into the Reich was the first since Sunday for British based heavy bombers, which had devoted all their efforts to support of Allied armies in France.

Twice within three hours last night, RAF Lancasters and Halifaxes attacked three fuel dumps in Northern France—all considerable distances from the battle front and each containing hundreds of tons of oil.

Allied Bombs Fall Short.

More than 3,200 sorties were flown yesterday against German front positions in support of ground troops driving toward Paris, but Allied appraisal of the results was marred again by a report that some explosives fell short, bombing Canadian positions.

Allied medium bombers yesterday attacked railways and bridges in Southern France for the sixth time in seven days while 8th Air Force Fortresses and Mustangs landed in Italy after attacking Romanian airdromes on a shuttle flight from Russia.

The Fortresses and their escort left Britain Sunday under Brig. Gen. A. W. Kissner of Mount Vernon, Va., bombed an aircraft factory at Gydnia, Poland, and landed in Russia The crews flew more than 30 hours in three days and shot down eight enemy fighters.

Gen. Kissner, who is 38 years old, is a native of New Haven, Conn. He was graduated from West Point in 1928 and a year later transferred to the Air Forces. He was stationed here from 1940 to 1943 and served as AAF chief of personnel research and statistics.

MAJOR RIDES, JUMPS AND THUMBS HOME

A United States Bomber Base, Britain, Aug. 9 (A. P.).—Major Jere Maupin of Glendale, Cal., took over controls of his crippled Fortress yesterday when the pilot was wounded over France, ordered the crew to bail out and then jumped himself. The Major landed near an air transport base. He thumbed a ride to England and was back at his home field to resume command of his squadron eight and one-half hours after the formation originally took off.

Maupin was an outstanding member of the 1939, 1940 and 1941 football teams at the United States Military Academy. He played the right halfback position but was handicapped by injuries during the final games of his senior year.

Yanks' Cash To Rebuild Old English Chapel

A United States Bomber Base in England, Aug. 9 (AP)—A 14th century chapel in an undisclosed English village will be rebuilt by funds of American officers and enlisted men stationed at this fortress base in memory of their comrades killed and missing in action.

Col. Robert W. Warren, Big Spring, Texas, commands the base. Chaplain Charles E. Smith, of Rochester, N. Y., and Lieut. Col. A. E. Moffett, Tampa, Fla., ground executive, are in charge of arrangements.

Reginald Bell, well-known English artist, developed the motif depicting American flyers to be used in stained glass windows in the memorial chapel. Group insignia and insignia of each bomber squadron of the group will be included in the window decorations.

Robot Attacks Continue

LONDON, Aug. 9 (AP).—The Germans resumed their flying bomb attacks on Britain today after a night of sporadic assaults which an official announcement said had "caused damage and casualties in residential areas" in London and the southern counties.

Report of Himmler Slaying Lacks Concrete Support

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—British officials said today they had found nothing concrete to confirm that Heinrich Himmler had been assassinated, as related by a German Army intelligence officer captured by Britons in France.

"This appears to be a rumor current among the soldiers, but too many details are lacking—such as the time Himmler is supposed to have been killed—to let us put much credence in it," one official said.

Captured Germans, a Normandy dispatch said, related their information was only what they had heard. The officer's story was that Gestapo Chief Himmler had been killed in a new outbreak against the Nazi hierarchy which also resulted in wounding Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering.

Total War In Kitchen—Guests Do Own KP

London, Aug. 9 (AP)—An example of total war, as announced today by the German radio:

"In restaurants at Konigsberg, customers must go to the kitchen with their plates, have their plates filled and then before leaving the restaurant, must wash their plates so that all waiters and male kitchen staff members can dig."

Russian armies are 93 miles from the East Prussian capital.

3,000 WACS to Move Into France

LONDON, Aug. 9 — (AP) — Three thousand of the 6,500 WACS in the European theater of U. S. Army operations will be moved to France, following 300 already there.

Lt.-Col. Anna Wilson, WAC director here, announced this tonight. She did not indicate how soon the transfers would be made, but presumably the WACS will be moved as required, and not in a single move.

Turk Refugee Ship Sunk, Ankara Says

London, Aug. 9 (AP)—The Ankara radio said today that a Turkish motor vessel carrying 292 Jews from Constanta, Rumania, to Palestine, had "sunk outside territorial waters." The broadcast said that five passengers and two crew members were saved.

Palestine Commissioner Wounded in Ambush

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—The Colonial Office has announced that Sir Harold MacMichael, outgoing British high commissioner for Palestine, was slightly wounded in Jerusalem yesterday when his car was ambushed.

Lady MacMichael, accompanying her husband, was unhurt, but two members of the high commissioner's staff were seriously injured.

Sir Harold is being succeeded by Field Marshal Lord Gort, whose transfer to the Palestine and Trans-Jordan commissionership from the governorship of Malta was announced July 19.

Madrid Denies Report Of Anti-Franco Coup

Madrid, Aug. 9 (AP) — A Foreign Office spokesman asserted today that all Spanish Morocco is calm and has had no uprisings.

He called fantastic a report put out by DNB, German agency, saying that agents charged with engineering a coup against Generalissimo Francisco Franco had been arrested in Morocco.

Germany Faces Milk Shortage

London, Aug. 9 (AP)—A report of the German Food Ministry received here today forecast a growing milk shortage, explaining: "during the grain harvest, cows must be utilized as draft animals."

British-Indian Troops Repel Counterattacks Northwest of Arezzo

Fighting Furious in Area While Lull Prevails Over Most of Front

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Aug. 9.—British and Indian forces have recaptured Monte Grillo and have beaten off five enemy counterattacks on its slopes in furious fighting north and northwest of Arezzo, Allied headquarters announced today as a lull prevailed over most of the Italian front.

A communique described the situation in and around Florence as virtually unchanged, with only patrol activity in the immediate vicinity of the great city center.

There were no further reports of the Germans shelling the southern part of the city. Associated Press War Correspondent Lynn Heinzerling, who has been with the 8th Army inside the city in recent days, said the German batteries had been directing their fire at targets outside the southern limits and there was nothing to indicate damage to the city itself.

Situation in Florence Confused.

There were conflicting reports, however, on conditions within the heart of Florence on the north bank of the Arno.

The British troop paper Union Jack said life was going on normally inside Florence, but that the water supply was short and black marketers were selling water at 20 lire per bottle. (The lire had a prewar value of about 5 cents.)

On the other hand the Canadian troopsheet, Maple Leaf, said an Italian who had forded the Arno and reached the Allied lines declared that "Central Florence is being systematically looted by the Germans" and that the citizens are confined indoors. He also asserted that fighting between Fascists and anti-Fascists had broken out in one section.

30. 24 — 17865

In the Arno loop east of Florence the enemy continued to resist strongly along his 5½-mile bridgehead on the southern bank of the stream, extending from a point 4 miles east of the city's edge to 3 miles south of Pontassieve.

British Capture Monastery.

Near the middle of that line British infantry captured a monastery on a hilltop and seized a number of enemy prisoners.

Another pocket of the enemy remains on the south bank between Empoli and Monte Lupo. The 8th Army has secured Monte Lupo, but Empoli was commanded by enemy guns and remained in no-man's land.

From the 5th Army front came an announcement that American artillery had engaged Nazi tanks going into position southeast of Pisa. There was no indication whether the tanks were on the northern or southern side of the Arno.

The Germans still hold some ground in the Arno bend to the east of Pisa. Both the Americans and the enemy are sending patrols across the stream. One enemy patrol engaged an American mine-laying detail southwest of Pisa, Nazi artillery joined in the ensuing fight and the Americans had to bring up tanks to chase the enemy off.

elements was known to have broken out in at least one neighborhood.

Looting in some sections, both by German soldiers and Italian hoodlums, also was reported, causing the bulk of the population to remain indoors and hope for speedy deliverance.

Foe Holds Two Bridgeheads

The enemy still held bridgeheads in two loops of the river east and west of the city. The first extends 5½ miles from a point four miles east of the city's edge to a point three miles south of Pontassieve. In the middle of that pocket the British took a monastery on a hilltop.

The other is between Empoli and Monte Lupo, 11 miles west of Florence, with the British holding Monte Lupo at the east end of the loop, but with German guns commanding Empoli.

There was virtually no change anywhere along the Gans-Italian battle front except in the area nine miles north of Arezzo, southeast of Florence, where the British recaptured Monte Grillo and beat off five enemy counterattacks.

Along the American sector of the Arno patrols still crossed the stream both ways, probing opposing positions.

Florence In Vise Of Armies Faces Food, Water Shortage

Most of Florence's art treasures untouched by war.....Page 2

Rome, Aug. 9 (AP) — The city of Florence, locked in a vise formed by the British and German armies, was reported facing a series of food and water shortages and beset by looting and outbursts of civil strife today.

While military operations in and around the Tuscan city were limited to patrol forays, machine-gun positions lined both banks of the Arno river along its course through the city.

The battle lines had cut the city off from food supply from the surrounding countryside, one of Italy's richest agricultural regions, and no food had been distributed on the German side of the city since last Friday.

City Without Lights

German destruction of the power plant had deprived the city of light and caused an alarming water-supply situation, with black marketers demanding 20 lire (20 cents) for a bottle of water.

The Tuscan capital has a long history of civil strife and is a hotbed of both Fascist and anti-Fascist extremists. Fighting between these

Saint-Exupery, Pilot-Author, Lost on Mission

Frenchman, 44, Taught U.S. Flyers in North Africa; Mail Pilot in His Youth

ROME, Aug. 9 (AP).—Antoine de Saint-Exupery, forty-four, French pilot and author, is missing after a mission over southern France, an official announcement said today.

During his youth, Saint-Exupery was a French mail pilot and from these experiences he produced his novel "Night Flight." His "Flight to Arras," published in 1942, gives an account of his reconnaissance flight over France in May, 1940.

He escaped when France fell and had returned to duty only a short time ago.

Taught American Flyers

Perhaps Saint-Exupery's best known work was "Wind, Sand and Stars," a best seller written in 1939. It recounted the days when he flew flimsy mail planes over the dangerous territory from Toulouse, France, to Dakar, Africa.

Known to thousands of his readers as "Saint X," the flyer-author had been instructing French and American soldiers in aviation in North Africa until he was assigned to make lone reconnaissance flights from Italy four weeks ago. He held the rank of captain in the French Air Force.

Born in Lyons in 1900, Saint-Exupery was descended from Count Georges de Saint-Exupery, who accompanied Lafayette to America to fight in the American Revolution.

General Wilson Moves To Italy

Rome, Aug. 9 (AP)—General Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, supreme Allied commander in the Mediterranean theater, announced today that Allied force headquarters were moved from Algiers to Italy last month. The job required 19 days and the transportation of hundreds of thousands of tons of supplies and equipment.

500 Women Ask Pope To Help Internees

By the Associated Press.

VATICAN CITY, Aug. 9.—Five hundred Italian women appealed to Pope Pius XII today to intercede in the internment of their husbands by Allied authorities. The Pope did not receive the group, but the women were invited to state their case in a petition.

The women said their husbands "had been compelled after several refusals to adhere to the Fascist republic under threats of reprisals against their families."

Tito Visits St. Peter's

VATICAN CITY, Aug. 9 (AP).—Marshal Tito and members of his Yugoslav Army staff made an incognito visit yesterday at St. Peter's Basilica, the Vatican News Service said today.

Report Bulgaria Asks For Peace Terms

ANKARA, Aug. 9 (AP)—Unconfirmed reports circulated here today that Bulgaria has asked the Allies for peace terms through the medium of the Turkish government.

The reports were given some color when Dr. Floyd Henson Black, for 18 years president of the American College in Bulgaria and now president of the American College in Istanbul, left Istanbul hurriedly for Ankara.

It was believed he had been called into consultation by the U. S. Embassy because of his intimate knowledge of Bulgaria, his personal friendship with the Bulgarian minister to Turkey, Nikola Balabangy, and the wide respect he commands in Bulgaria.

Bulgarian Peace Feelers Denied

London, Aug. 9 (AP)—The Berlin radio said tonight that the Bulgarian Foreign Office "denies as untrue foreign reports that Bulgaria is attempting to negotiate an armistice with the British and Americans."

Simultaneously the German news agency DNB said Bulgarian and Turkish relations were "not to undergo any change" despite Turkey's break with Germany.

The Bulgarian Parliament has been called into a special session and will meet next Tuesday, another Berlin broadcast said tonight.

Allied Drive Pushing Japs From Burma

Troops Penetrate to Point 54 Miles South of Imphal.

SOUTHEAST ASIA COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, KANDY, Ceylon, Aug. 9—(AP)—The Allied drive to push the last Japanese invaders out of northeast India penetrated today to a point 54 miles south of Imphal, where Japanese rear guards were encountered.

It appeared likely that the last of the beaten 33rd Japanese Division would be chased over the Burma frontier toward Tiddim within another week. These retreating elements of the enemy still must pass Allied "shadow" troops lodged in their rear and harassing Tiddim road traffic.

Strike Railway

In the Mogaung Valley campaign in northern Burma Allied troops striking down upon the Mogaung Mandalay Railway in the Taungni area encountered heavy opposition at Tigyaingzu, five miles northeast of Taungni and about 10 miles southwest of Mogaung, air line.

In Burma's Kabaw Valley east of Tamu Allied forces found evidence of Japanese panic in the abandonment of 200 motor vehicles on one five-mile stretch of road, along with guns of all calibers and thousands of rounds of ammunition.

Dogs Being Used

Headquarters permitted today the disclosure that the Allies are using a canine corps to advantage in Burma. One dog killed a Japanese unassisted. Another spotted a straggler who was killed by the dog's master. The Japanese also are using dogs to help locate jungle positions.

A formal statement by Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell released at headquarters revealed that Brig. Gen. Frank D. Merrill, former commander of the noted "Marauder" detachment in Burma, has been appointed head of the liaison group for the China-Burma-India theater here.

Illness Reported

Stilwell said the only reason for Merrill's relief was his health and revealed that Merrill had been hospitalized from March 31 to April 16 and again from May 20 to June 13.

Emphasizing a previous statement that Merrill's transfer to Kandy was not connected with an inquiry into reports of a breakdown of morale of the Marauders during the battle for Myitkyina, Stilwell said "I considered it unfair to a valuable officer to ask further effort on his part which might have a serious, lasting effect on his health x x x

"Gen. Merrill is a very high class officer and his unavailability in the field is very regrettable. My full confidence in him should be obvious from the duty he is now performing."

Kandy, Ceylon, Aug. 9 (A. P.).—Dislodged from positions fifty miles south of Imphal, Japanese rearguards covering the retreat of the main body of enemy troops still inside India were overtaken again last night by Allied troops four miles farther south on the Tiddim road, an Allied communique announced today.

Meanwhile, the announcement said, Allied forces in northern Burma reached the Mogaung-Mandalay railway in the Taungni area after a rapid advance to the southeast. They were reported to have encountered heavy resistance after reaching the rail line.

Merrill Is Assigned To Head Liaison at Ceylon Headquarters

By the Associated Press.

SOUTHEAST ASIA COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, KANDY, Ceylon, Aug. 9.—Brig. Gen. Frank D. Merrill, who recently surrendered command of his famous Marauder detachment in Burma, has been named head of the liaison group for the China-Burma-India theater at Allied headquarters here.

The nature of Gen. Merrill's assignment was disclosed by Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell in a message from his headquarters in India commending Gen. Merrill for his services in the field and declaring he had been relieved of his command solely because of ill health.

The statement supplemented an earlier announcement from Gen. Stilwell's headquarters emphasizing that Gen. Merrill's transfer to Kandy was in no way connected with an inquiry into a reported breakdown in the morale of the Marauders during the battle of Myitkyina. The breakdown had been attributed to premature return of convalescent soldiers to active duty.

Was Hospitalized Twice.

The Myitkyina task force has been commanded since Gen. Merrill's assignment to Kandy by Brig. Gen. Theodore F. Wessels.

The statement today said:

"The following statement is for immediate release from Gen. Stilwell. It concerns the relief of Brig. Gen. Frank D. Merrill from command of the 5307th Provisional Regiment and his subsequent assignment to head the CBI (China-Burma-India) liaison group at SEAC headquarters.

"The only reason for his relief was his health. He was hospitalized from March 31 to April 16 and again from May 20 to June 13.

Full Confidence Expressed.

"I considered it unfair to a valuable officer to ask further effort on his part which might have a serious, lasting effect upon his health and I have, therefore, transferred him to less arduous but equally important duty in his present assignment.

"Gen. Merrill is a very high-class officer and his unavailability in the field service is very regrettable. My full confidence in him should be obvious from the duty he is now performing."

BRITISH ARREST 25 IN BOMBAY

Bombay, Aug. 9 (A. P.).—Police arrested without resistance twenty-five persons who said they planned to sing All-India Congress party songs today—the second anniversary of the arrest of India's political leaders—as a demonstration of a desire for civil liberties.

Four others who offered themselves for arrest were taken into custody. A few students attempted to picket schools and colleges. Bombay, on the whole, was quiet.

Earlier Mohandas K. Gandhi had said there would be civil disobedience if the police did not grant the twenty-five persons permission to march in batches of five and offer silent prayer at a common gathering place.

When he issued the call on Bombay residents to observe the anniversary he cautioned against mass civil disobedience unless British authorities interfered with what he described as a "symbolic exercise."

Chinese Forces Fight To Death In Hengyang

Five Generals Leading Die-hard 'Last Man' Stand.

CHUNGKING, Aug. 9 (AP)—Die-hard Chinese forces headed by five generals apparently were making good today their vow to fight to the death in battered Hengyang, opposing a Japanese assault to the last.

Situaton Obscure

The Chinese High Command said broken radio contact made the situation obscure inside the city.

where street fighting last was reported. Tuesday night five generals headed by Fang Hsien-Chueh, 39-year-old commander of the Tenth Chinese Army, sent a farewell message to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek declaring they would stick with their troops and die fighting.

Japanese troops broke into the suburbs of Yiyang [illegible] miles northwest of Changsha, the Chinese High Command said. The enemy was trying to take this town to guard his communications and ward off flank attacks.

Strategic Importance Destroyed

P. H. Chang, a government spokesman, said the strategic importance of Hengyang nearly had been destroyed by the protracted and dogged defense of the city in which occurred some of the bitterest fighting since the battle for Shanghai in 1937. He reiterated China's determination to wreck the plan of the Japanese to seize the whole Hankow-Canton railway and split China in two.

In wetsern Yunnan province Chinese troops have dislodged the enemy from all but three of their strong points on Sungshan mountain, a Chinese announcement said. The capture of this height would clear the Burma Road from the nearby Salween river to Lungling, 25 miles southwest. The Japanese were putting up a hard fight.

Further Progress

The High Command said their units had made further progress in the siege of Tengchung, principal enemy stronghold in western Yunnan.

An announcement from headquarters of the U. S. 14th Air Force disclosed a group of American generals under Lt. Gen. Barney M. Giles, chief of the air staff under Gen. H. H. Arnold, had made a three-day tour of China air bases, surveying the needs of this area.

The party included Maj. Gens. W. D. Styer, Clayton L. Bissell, John E. Hull, and Frank O'D. Hunter and Brig. Gen. O. L. Nelson, Jr.

5 CHINESE GENERALS FELL AT HENGYANG

Chungking, Aug. 9 (A. P.).—Five Chinese generals apparently remained with the last survivors of the heroic Hengyang garrison, composed principally of Cantonese troops, when the Japanese broke into the city after the bitterest fighting in China since the battle for Shanghai in 1937.

The generals in a farewell message to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, sent on Tuesday night just before radio contact with Hengyang was broken, said they intended to stay with their troops and die fighting.

Senior of the five Generals left in Hengyang was Fang Hsien Chueh, 39-year-old commander of China's Tenth Army and a graduate of China's West Point, Whampoa Military Academy. He played an important part in the second and third battles of Changsha and last winter in the battle for Changteh.

The situation inside Hengyang still was obscure tonight, a communique said.

The High Command announced that Japanese units had broken into the suburbs of Yiyang, sixty miles northwest of Shangsha, and were trying to capture the town to protect their communications and safeguard themselves from flank attacks.

Former Italian Liner Hit In U. S. Raid on Shanghai

By the Associated Press.

CHUNGKING, Aug. 9.—The Italian liner Conte Verde, now in Japanese hands, received direct hits in the first attack by American bombers against Shanghai Harbor, Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters announced today.

The raid was carried out Monday by Liberators.

Shanghai, with a population of 3,500,000, is the largest city under Japanese occupation. It fell in 1937 after a 92-day battle.

The Italians scuttled the Conte Verde after Italy's surrender to prevent the Japanese from making use of her.

The Japanese salvaged the ship for use as a transport. Damage from the bombing has not been assessed.

AITAPE TOLL BOOSTED 1,072

Americans Begin "Systematic Destruction" Of Japs

General Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, Thursday, Aug. 10 (AP). Additional 1,072 Japanese have been killed in the Aitape sector of British New Guinea, headquarters announced today.

This is one of the heaviest battle tolls yet taken in that area.

Americans have encircled Japanese front lines on the Driniumor river and remnants of the Japanese 18th Army trapped in the Wewak area who had attempted to break westward through American lines now are on the defensive some 20 miles east of Aitape.

Bombs Ship Off Davao

Headquarters also announced that an Allied Liberator bombed a 2,000-ton Japanese freighter off Davao, Mindanao, in the southern Philippines Monday night.

Other Allied bombers raided Halmahera Island, between New Guinea and Mindanao, Yap Island in the western Carolines, and Sorong and Manokwari, in Dutch New Guinea west and east of the American beachhead at Sansapor.

Again there was neither aerial interception nor anti-aircraft fire at Yap.

Net Around Forward Lines

A headquarters spokesman said the Americans had thrown a net of troops around Japanese forward lines in the Aitape sector and had started a "process of systematic destruction."

American forces had moved in two directions, one working down the Niumen river and expanding to the south and west, the other operating along the Driniumor river and pushing east and south, and far enough into the hills to cut off an avenue of escape for the enemy.

The spokesman said it was impossible to estimate the number of Japanese trapped along the Aitape front, but we know their forces have been greatly depleted and disorganized."

Today's communique listed 1,007 additional enemy dead in the Driniumor area, but Japanese killed in other actions in the Aitape sector raised the total to 1,072. American casualties were described as light.

U. S. PATROL SAVES FORMOSA CAPTIVES

With Sixth Army Forces, Sansapor, New Guinea, Aug. 2 (Delayed) (A. P.).—A patrol advancing eastward from the new Sansapor beachhead was surprised and supicious when it encountered a lone enemy soldier walking toward them with two white flags held aloft.

It looked like a trap. The patrol paused. Then the advancing soldier waved the flags and called out, "surrender, surrender!" His hands were raised. In fair English he told the patrol leader that he was a Formosan, not Japanese.

The patrol leader was still wary. The Formosan pointed to the .45 pistol in the American's hand and then pointed to his own head.

"Come with me," he begged.

The Formosan spoke truthfully. There was no ambush. And his people were suffering acutely from malnutrition and exposure to the jungle. Most of them were covered with tropical ulcers, lesions and insect bites. He told Capt. Richard Booker, Niagara Falls, N. Y., and Capt. William Donovan of New York city that the Japanese at Manokwari treated the Formosans as slaves, fed them poorly and gave them minimum medical attention.

Americans Complete Conquest Of Guam

Island Now All Occupied Except for One Tiny Pocket of Resistance Near Pati Point Which Is Expected to Be Wiped Out Momentarily.

By Leif Erickson

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Aug. 9 (AP)—American forces completed their conquest of Guam Tuesday except for a small inland area near Pati Point, where surviving Japanese were surrounded, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

At Northeast Corner

Pati Point is at the northeast corner of Guam, the first American insular possession seized by Japan.

The campaign to retake Guam began with the invasion of the island on July 20 by the Third and Fourth Marine Divisions and the 77th Infantry Division.

The assault troops landed at two points on the western coast, rapidly overran the lower half of the island and pushed north to virtually complete reconquest of the island on the 20th day of the campaign.

The remaining pocket of enemy resistance was expected to be blotted out shortly as the American forces were exerting heavy pressure on the remnants of the Japanese garrison, which had no hope of escape.

Cannot Flee By Water

Any attempt by the surviving Nipponese to flee by water was blocked by American warships that kept up a constant patrol of the island's coastline.

Marine Maj. Gen. Roy S. Geiger commanded the ground forces that conquered Guam, the third island in the strategic Marianas group to be captured. The others, Tinian and Saipan, about 125 miles to the north, were taken in July.

There are several important airfields on the three islands, all within Superfortress bombing range of Japan, the Philippines and the China coast. Some of them have been used for sometime by fighter planes.

Seizure of the three principal islands in the Marianas gives the United States jumping bases for deeper penetrations of Japan's inner island defense arc.

High point in the reconquest of Guam, a prewar American naval station, was the raising of the Stars and Stripes over the marine barracks on the Orote peninsula, on the Western side of the island, July 29.

Orote Airfield Excellent

Orote peninsula is the site of an excellent airfield, already in use, and of the Sumay naval base. There is no major naval base on Guam, nor in the Marianas, suitable for fleet operations.

Conquest of the Marianas, however, will be of great assistance in speeding the war's end, Adm. Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief of the United States fleet, said recently in Washington.

King and Nimitz conferred at Pearl Harbor last month, after the capture of Saipan, on "future operations" which King said included long range views. He said the fleet will "take full advantage" of the advanced positions offered in the Marianas.

Nauru Attacked By Planes

Navy planes made several attacks on Nauru, Phisphate Island directly west of the Gilberts, Aug. 6 and 7, Nimitz reported. Airfield runways were the principal targets. Aerial blows also were struck at Wake Island, on the Truk and Ponape in the Carolines and on isolated enemy positions in the Marshall Islands.

The conquest of Guam was speeded by deep advances on Monday, which carried American forces to the northwest point of the island, and the capture of Mt. Santa Rosa on the eastern coast.

A rapid push on the eastern flank had put Mt. Santa Rosa behind the Americans. Fall of that 870-foot eminence, last obstacle in the American path, was assured by the capture of Yigo village, defending the approach to the peak.

Less Than 1,000 Japs

The Japanese who faced extermination or surrender probably numbered considerably less than 5,000. Nimitz reported that more than 10,000 enemy dead had been counted. Many others had been buried by the Japanese in a military cemetery, with indications of a mass interment. The thousands of wounded further reduced the effective strength of the surviving garrison, which originally totaled around 15,000.

In the southwest Pacific, there were increasing signs that the Allied advance would engulf Halmahera, Japanese air and shipping base. It is the last major stepping stone on Gen. Douglas MacArthur's invasion route to the southern Philippines, less than 300 miles to the north.

Halmahera Hammered

Allied heavy bombers attacked two of Halmahera's airdromes Monday, destroying 13 planes on the ground, damaging many others and causing explosions and fires. Significantly, there was no interception.

JAPS ON GUAM NEARING DOOM

Americans Speeding Up Their Destruction.

United States Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Aug. 9 (A. P.).—Japan's hour glass was running out on Guam today.

Extermination of the last Nipponese was under way in the northeast corner of that United States outpost where a garrison of little more than 200 marines was overwhelmed in December, 1941, by 7,000 Japanese who told the natives the Americans never would return. The counted enemy dead already exceeds 10,000.

American warships, planes, Marines and soldiers herded a last ditch group of defenders into a fifteen-square mile area of the 225-square-mile island. Then they drove a center wedge within a mile of the northeast coast, seeking to split up the doomed Japanese and speed their destruction.

While this clincher blow was falliing on the eastern approach to the Philippines, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today at his southwest Pacific headquarters the sapping of Japan's air strength at Halmahera on the southern approach. He said Liberators, defying bad weather, wiped out thirteen parked planes and damaged many others in a forty-eight-ton bombing raid.

On Guam, an American line roughly forming a letter "W" squeezed the enemy against the northeast shore, there to die without air or naval support. Describing the line in a communique last night, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz said it began at Port Ritidian, where the Yanks have plunged the last six and one-half miles to the northwest end of the island. The other end, moved past 870-foot Mount Santa Rosa, is within three miles of the northeast tip—as of August 7, the date the communique covered.

The center of the "W" is within a mile of cutting the cornered Japanese in half.

Thousands of Japanese caught in another trap in the British New Guinea jungles have been cut into three groups for systematic destruction by two American columns punching toward Wewak from Aitape, Gen. MacArthur reported today.

New Air Blows Reported.

"This division of the enemy has weakened his local resistance," the general said concerning an operation which since July 10 has cost the Japanese more than 4,000 men—perhaps as many as 9,000.

Both Gen. MacArthur and Admiral Nimitz reported new air blows. Gen. MacArthur said the power plant on Yap, enemy air base in the Western Carolines which now has been neutralized, was swept by fire and explosions during a Liberator raid.

Japan's phosphate resources were depleted during a three-day raid, August 5, 6 and 7, on Nauru, reported by Admiral Nimitz. He also announced an August 5 raid on Wake Island and attacks August 4 in the Paramushiro area of the Kuriles. Not a raider was lost in these operations.

30. 24 — 17867

Snipers Killed McNair's Son

Guam, Aug. 9 (AP)—Col. Douglas McNair, 36-year-old chief of staff for Maj. Gen. A. D. Bruce and son of the late Lieut. Gen. Leslie McNair, was fatally wounded August 6 in a close-range fight with three snipers. They had hid in a thatched hut near where McNair had gone to look for a spot to set up a command post.

All the snipers were killed, but when the shooting ended, McNair was found lying on the ground with a bullet in his right chest. He died in a jeep on the way to the first-aid station.

His father lost his life on the Normandy beachhead last month.

Thirty-seven snipers were killed the following night as they attempted to sneak into General Bruce's command post.

Japs Are Tracked By Marines' Dogs

By MARINE PFC. BEN RAPPORT
[Distributed by the Associated Press]

Guam (Delayed)—Fourteen Jap snipers were killed in this sector after being tracked down by marine scout dogs.

The hunt began at daybreak and lasted until midafternoon, when the last Jap was shot on the run by Marine Private (first class) Harold S. Duncan, 21, Louisville. Duncan caught the Jap in his sights at 300 yards.

Eighteen dogs were used in the operation. Duncan, who handles Private (first class) Blitz, a 2-year-old German shepherd, says that it would have taken days instead of hours to rid this jungle and cave-ridden area of the snipers without the help of the dogs.

Guam's country wilderness with such bursts of speed that the Japanese were bewildered. Jungle trails were strewn with enemy dead.

Too Few To Make Stand

Most of the Japanese bodies were poorly clad and some were covered only by torn shorts. The bodies were scattered out along trails and roads showing that nowhere had they been able to muster sufficient strength for a stand.

No heights are left on which the remaining Japanese might try to make a final fight.

The First Provisional Marine Brigade of Brig. Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd, Jr., swept up the west coast to Ritidian point and seized 600-foot Mount Machanao as it went.

In the middle of the line Maj. Gen. Allen Hal Turnage's Third Marine Division plunged to within a mile of the north coast at one point, threatening to split the Japanese in two.

Pinches Off Mountain

Maj. Gen. A. D. Bruce's 77th Army Division whirled suddenly to the right yesterday to pinch off 800-foot Mount Santa Rosa, then it lunged ahead to within three miles of Pati point on the northeast tip of the island.

These thrusts in the last 48 hours were strongly supported by naval, air and gunfire along with artillery.

General Bruce, in referring to his infantry's advance, said "I really feel this naval gunfire, air and artillery had as much to do with it as we did."

Enemy dead greatly exceeds the more than 10,000 already buried by the Americans. Other Japanese bodies still lie on forward battlefields, and the Yanks in their progress overran a large Nipponese burial ground.

Main Fight With Snipers

The bulk of resistance during the last few days has been by a handful of snipers who have hurriedly dug in along the roads and trails. About all they have left to fight with are rifles, grenades and machine guns. There have been instances where they have charged with bayonets on the end of poles. Snipers are being flushed from brush so heavy that sometimes it takes an hour for a fighter to move 100 yards through it. Tanks often are used to smash a path for foot soldiers.

"The men not only have to fight the Jap, but the terrain as well," said Lieut. Col. Thomas B. Manuel, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. His regiment squeezed off the Japanese escape corridor on the left of Mount Santa Rosa.

"Actually, I don't know which is worse, the Japs or the terrain," he said.

With Minimum Casualties

Mount Santa Rosa—the American objective ever since Agana and the plateau country to the north and south fell—was taken with a minimum of casualties on our side.

Mud-caked and bearded doughboys, who had been fighting for 15 days and were guarding the escape corridor to the left of the height, relaxed and joked when they saw their buddies standing up and walking around on its crest.

To the rear, marine and army engineers and Seabees are clearing the debris from the villages, making way for the construction of new buildings and installations.

Yanks On Guam Liquidating Ragged Japanese Remnants

By AL DOPKING

Aboard United States Amphibious Attack Force Flagship, Guam Island, Aug. 9 (AP—Via Navy Radio)—The battle of Guam was nearing an end tonight with the defeated ragged remnants of the Japanese garrison cornered in a narrow strip on the north coast where American marines and soldiers were liquidating them pocket by pocket.

American forces raced through

QUEBEC WON BY DUPLESSIS

Union Nationale Party Gets Majority Of One In Assembly

Montreal, Quebec, Aug. 9 (AP)—The Union Nationale party, headed by Maurice Duplessis, 1936-1939 Premier, won a bare over-all majority of one in the 91-seat Quebec legislative assembly, complete unofficial returns for yesterday's election showed tonight.

Thus French Canada, comprising almost a third of the Dominion, placed before the rest of the country an announcement of its displeasure with the wartime regulations of Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King's Liberal Government at the Federal capital of Ottawa.

At the same time, however, the French Canadians, with their usual independence, denounced in even more emphatic terms the ultra-nationalists and their program attacking "imperialism" and Canadian participation in "foreign wars."

Liberals Lose 21 Seats

The election gave the Liberals 38 seats, cutting them from their former 59; gave the Union Nationale party 46, an increase from 15; the new Bloc Populaire, 4; deferred (Charlevoix Saguenay), 1, and others, 2.

This represented a sharp rejection by Quebecc voters of the bid of Liberal Premier Adelard Godbout, provincial partner of the ment of his full cooperation with the federal government's war program. Duplessis' party campaigned on a platform of federal non-interference in provincial affairs and against wartime restrictions as infringements of provincial rights.

New Election Probable

It brought up the question whether Premier Godbout would resign and recommand to Lieutenant Governor Sir Eugene Fiset that Duplessis be called upon to form a new government, or would decide to meet the new legislation with the possibiilty of support of the other members added to his Liberals.

A new election at an early date was more than a mere possibility. Official counts for the next ten days will be watched closely, since in several seats the contests were close and hotly contested, and it was conceivable these official returns might give the Union Nationale something less than the 46 seats indicated in the unofficial returns.

Quebec Vote Protests Against War Policies Of Mackenzie King

By the Associated Press.

MONTREAL, Quebec, Aug. 9.—The voters of Quebec Province, predominantly French and comprising almost one-third of the population of Canada, were on record today with an indirect protest against the war policies of the Dominion government of Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King.

They declined, however, to indorse the ultra-Nationalist view that the war is none of Canada's business.

In the closest general election in the history of the province, former Premier Maurice Duplessis, who campaigned against "federal interference" in Quebec's affairs, apparently was returned to power, overthrowing Premier Adelard Godbout, who had asked the voters to indorse his policy of co-operation with the war program of the Ottawa government.

The Union Nationale party under Duplessis won at least 45 of the 91 seats in the new Legislature, and was leading in one of three undecided constituencies where a victory would give it the required majority of 46.

Liberals Win Only 37 Seats.

Godbout's Liberal party had won only 37 seats, compared to the comfortable majority of 59 it held in the outgoing Legislature. The Liberals were leading in one undecided constituency, and the third voting is to be on August 24.

If the Union Nationale—which had only 17 seats in the last Legislature—wins 46 seats, Godbout would resign and Duplessis, who was Premier from 1936 to 1939, would take over. If the Union Nationale fails to garner 46, Godbout might remain in office despite his minority, but dissolution of the Legislature and another election would be likely to follow soon.

The defeat of the Liberals was viewed with gloom in Ottawa, where neither the Liberal party of Prime Minister King nor the Conservative party opposition feel kindly disposed to the Union Nationale. Although some of its members were former Conservatives, the Union Nationale and the Conservatives in other provinces have drawn widely apart on the issue of the extent of Canada's participation in the war.

While Quebec's voters were giving this rebuke to Godbout's policy of co-operation with the federal war program, they sharply rejected the Nationalistic Bloc Populaire, a new party which, campaigning against "imperalism" and participation in "foreign wars," won only four seats.

Women Vote First Time.

The Socialistic Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, fresh from successes in Western Canada, entered 24 candidates in its first venture into Quebec, but won only one seat, in a mining community.

With Quebec's women voting for the first time in a general election, and with weather fair throughout the province, a record of more than one million votes was cast, nearly double the previous high of 563,297 votes in 1939.

Rioting broke out in a French section of Montreal during the voting when rival Liberal and Union Nationale sympathizers clashed in raids on each other's local headquarters. Pistols were fired and knives were drawn. Scores were injured and 71 arrested before order was restored.

Duplessis pledged himself today to "carry on a policy which will help Quebec to recover all the rights our province relinquished during the past few years."

Wartime Restrictions Attacked.

During the campaign he capitalized on French Canada's traditional isolationism by attacking federal and provincial wartime restrictions and inconveniences.

Duplessis first took office as Premier in 1936, ending 39 years of Liberal rule. Shortly after Canada declared war in 1939 he called a general election to renew his mandate, declaring that federal wartime measures were encroaching on provincial autonomy, but he was soundly defeated by Godbout's Liberals, who won 70 of the 86 seats then comprising the Legislature.

Duplessis, Godbout and Andre Laurendeau, 32-year-old leader of the Bloc Populaire, all were elected from their own constituencies yesterday.

DNB Spelled Hanged General's Name Wrong

New York, Aug. 9 (AP)—The German DNB agency acknowledged today it had made a mistake—in spelling the name of one of the eight executed Army officers hanged yesterday for participating in the Hitler assassination plot.

A dispatch to German papers, intercepted by FCC monitors, said:

"You are requested to spell the name of the hanged criminal not 'Hoeppner' but 'Hoepner'" (Col. Gen. Erich Hoepner).

MORE THAN 500 U-BOATS SUNK

Roosevelt And Churchill Report On War's Toll

Washington, Aug. 9 (AP)—More than 500 German submarine have been sunk by the Allies since the start of the war, it was reported tonight in a joint Anglo-American statement.

Issued under authority of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, the statement added that Nazi U-boats were "ineffective during July, a month which has been so important for the success of continental operations."

The report said that the number of German submarines destroyed in July was "substantially greater than the number of merchant ships sunk."

Text Of Joint Statement

The joint statement follows:

"The number of German U-boats sunk during the war now exceeds 500. It is therefore understandable that the U-boats still operating are extremely cautious. Their efforts have been ineffective during July, a month which has been so important for the success of continental operations.

"The number of U-boats destroyed has been substantially greater than the number of merchant ships sunk. Seventeen U-boats have been sunk while attempting to interfere with our cross-Channel traffic since the first landing of the army of liberation.

Still Of Impressive Size

"The U-boat fleet is still of impressive size. Nevertheless the U-boats remain the hunted rather than the hunters. They have been attacked from the Arctic to the Indian Ocean, aircraft playing a great part with the surface forces. This pressure will be maintained until all chances of revival of the U-boat campaign are killed, whatever may be the new devices and methods developed by the enemy.

"The Nazi claims of sinkings continue to be grossly exaggerated. For instance, their claim for June, the latest month for which complete figures are available, was an exaggeration of 1,000 per cent."

BAKER ISLE AGAIN UNDER U. S. FLAG

Washington, Aug. 9 (A. P.).—American sovereignty has been re-established on Baker Island in the Central Pacific from which American forces were withdrawn early in 1942.

This was disclosed by the Navy today in a citation accompanying award of the Distinguished Service Medal to Rear Admiral Arthur W. Radford for his service as commander of a task force "during the landing activities in Baker, Makin and Tarawa islands in the Pacific."

The Baker landing last fall encountered no opposition.

Re-occupation of the little island, an American possession since 1935, indicates that nearby Howland Island — about sixty miles to the north—also now is occupied by an American garrison. Howland was evacuated at the same time American forces withdrew from Baker. At that time the two islands were considered of insufficient strategic value to warrant maintaining positions in that exposed area.

Both Howard and Baker were of major peacetime importance because of their location near the air line routes from the Hawaiian Islands to the Southwest Pacific.

Admiral Radford now is Assistant Deputy Chief of Naval operations for Air. His home is in Grinnell, Iowa.

OIL PACT FACES SENATE PROBE

Committee To Meet Tomorrow To Take Up Agreement

Washington, Aug. 9 (AP)—Senator Moore (R., Okla.) advocated a full inquiry today as Chairman Maloney (D., Conn.) called the Senate's special petroleum investigating committee to meet Friday to consider the Anglo-American oil agreement.

Maloney acted after the Foreign Relations Committee postponed a decision on the question whether the pact should be subject to Senate ratification as a treaty.

Sets Up Oil Commission

The document, among other things, sets up an oil commission, calls for adequate supplies of oil at fair prices for all "peaceable countries" and provides possible machinery for quick sanctions against aggressors.

"That oil agreement is something the Senate ought to consider," Senator Moore said. "It involves the policy and program of distribution domestically as well as in the foreign field. It ought to be gone into very carefully and be subject to Senate approval."

Moore said he had no knowledge of the agreement until after it was signed, and that it "seems the State Department went ahead on its own power."

Sees One Possible Advantage

Foreign Relations Committee Chairman Connally (D., Texas) said he saw one possible advantage to the United States in the British promise "to let our concessions alone" in Saudi Arabia and elsewhere "and not try to dig in under us."

The members decided to postpone action for a week, he said, "to give all of us time to digest the terms of the agreement." His own view was that it is a temporary, non binding arrangement looking forward to a general agreement later in which other nations would join.

AUG 11 1944

Oil Industry Reaction To Pact Is Favorable

New York, Aug. 9 (AP)—Reaction of oil industry spokesmen today to the newly announced Anglo-American accord on post-war petroleum policies was favorable, but many executives withheld comment.

The agreement was viewed generally as the forerunner of more specific decisions affecting the division of the world's oil resources and markets.

Japs' New War Slogan Both 'Iki' And 'Waki'

Washington, Aug. 9 (AP)—Icky in spirit and Wacky in sound is the new Japanese war slogan, "Iki, waki, konki, sookekki."

The Office of War Information announced that Federal Communications Commission monitors picked up the battle cry in a broadcast from Tokyo which said Hachiro Suzuki, of Aichi prefecture had been awarded a 1,000-yen bond by the Imperial Rue Assistance Association which sponsored the slogan contest.

It means "spirit, harmony, stamina, total action."

They had 176,000 mottoes to choose from, too.

Urges Paying Mexico In Land Dispute

Washington, Aug. 9 (A. P.).—A payment to Mexico to settle a long-standing dispute over territory created at El Paso, Tex., by the shifting of the Rio Grande River channel on the Texas-Mexican border was advocated today by Chairman Connally (D.-Tex.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Twenty-three years ago an arbitration board, with a Canadian jurist as an impartial member, awarded the tract to Mexico, but the United States never accepted the decision. The land, comprising several city blocks, variously is estimated up to $5,000,000 in value. It is the site of many business establishments owned by Americans.

Roosevelt Refused Object Of Human Japanese Bone

Returned Letter Opener and Suggested It Be Buried

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP).—The White House said today some well-wisher had sent President Roosevelt a letter opener which was said to have been carved from the bone of a Japanese soldier. Mr. Roosevelt, the White House said, ordered that it be returned to the sender with the explanation that he did not wish to have such an object in his possession and with the suggestion that it be buried.

The information was made available here after the Vatican News Service in Rome said recent publication of a story about the letter opener had resulted in a request from the Catholic Archbishop of Tokyo for "respect for the laws of humanity even in total war."

United Feature Syndicate, Inc., said in New York the information that President Roosevelt received the letter opener appeared in Drew Pearson's column June 13.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9—Among 1,258 Army and 384 Navy casualties announced today by the War and Navy Departments were the following from New York, New Jersey and Connecticut:

ARMY

Wounded

NEW YORK

European Area

BATALARIS, Pfc. CHRISTOPHER G.; sister Miss Mary Batalaris, 79 Capon Blvd., Buffalo.
CANTWELL, 1st Lt. CALVIN A.; wife, Mrs. Muriel Cantwell, 250 Arsenal St., Watertown.
CARPUS, Corp. EDWARD B.; father, John Carpus, North Collins.
CHMARA, Pfc. PAUL; mother, Mrs. Pauline Chmara, 346 E. 59th St., New York.
CHMIELEWSKI, S/Sgt. STEVE; mother, Mrs. Rose D. Chmielewski, 109-11 Liverpool St., Jamaica.
CICCARELLI, Pfc. THOMAS A.; wife, Mrs. Olga Ciccarelli, 550 Jackson Ave., Bronx.
CIEMNY, Pvt. JOSEPH; mother, Mrs. Pauline A. Ciemny, Rochester.
CIRACO, Pvt. JOSEPH; wife, Mrs. Elvera Ciraco, Beacon.
CLEMENS, Pvt. ALBERT G.; mother, Mrs. Louisa Clemens, 104-48 165th St., Jamaica.
CLOHERTY, Corp. HENRY J.; mother, Mrs. Mary M. Maher, Katonah.
DIETZ, Sgt. CHARLES E., Jr.; wife, Mrs. Helen E. Dietz, 136-16 149th St., South Ozone Park.
DOWGIALLO, Pfc. WILLIAM V.; father, Walter Dowgiallo, Port Chester.
DUFFY, 2d Lt. ANDREW P.; mother, Mrs. Ann V. Duffy, 2566 Bainbridge Ave., New York.
DUGO, Pfc. SALVATORE; father, Pietro Dugo, 871 46th St., Brooklyn.
ERICKSEN, Pvt. GORDON T.; wife, Mrs Coral P. Ericksen, 742 54th St., Brooklyn.
FOX, Pvt. EDWARD F.; mother, Mrs. Ethel Fox, 186 Seeley St., Brooklyn.
HERNANDEZ, Pfc. LEONARD; brother, Frank Hernandez, 878 Macy Pl., New York.
LOGAN, T/4th Gr. HAROLD B.; father, Harry B. Logan, 80-16 170th St., Jamaica.
OTT, Pvt. JOHN G.; father, Walter T. Ott, 597 Park Pl., Brooklyn.
PASCIUTO, Sgt. MICHAEL; father, Anthony Pasciuto, 956 59th St., Brooklyn.
PAWLICZEK, T/5th Gr. ANDREW F., Jr.; mother, Mrs. Mary Pawliczek, Goshen.
PIPIA, Pvt. LEO; mother, Mrs. Rose Pipia, 310 E. 56th St., New York.
TEAL, Sgt. LESLIE F.; father, Harry Teal, Averill Park.
VERAJA, Pfc. JOHN; father, John Vereja, 234 E. 123d St., New York.
WALSH, Pvt. JOHN J.; brother, William J. Walsh, Jamestown.
WEISS, Pvt. SEYMOUR; mother, Mrs. Fanny Weiss, 1540 Sterling Pl., Brooklyn.
YOUNG, 2d Lt. FREDERICK L. Jr.; wife, Mrs. Helen D. Young, Albany.

Mediterranean Area

ALFIERI, Pvt. LOUIS P.; mother, Mrs. Rose Alfieri, Auburn.
ALLOCCA, Sgt. ROBERT L.; father, John M. Allocca, 7116 15th Ave., Brooklyn.
ANDREWS, Pvt. JAMES R.; father, William Andrews, 501 W. 178th St., New York.
BACH, Pvt. ROBERT E.; mother, Mary Bach, Buffalo.
BALL, Pvt. JOHN; wife, Mrs. Lillian Ball, Massena.
BATEMAN, Corp. RICHARD O.; mother, Mrs. Mary E. Bateman, Utica.
BECKER, Pvt. JOHN R.; mother, Mrs. Helga Becker, Binghamton.
BERNARD, Pfc. BRADLEY T.; mother, Mrs. Hazel Bernard, 114-34 139th St., South Ozone Park.
BEYER, Pfc. ANTHONY K.; father, Joseph Beyer, 1911 Bleecker St., Ridgewood.
BLUM, Pvt. PETER H.; mother, Mrs. Erna Newton, Thornwood.
CAMPBELL, Pfc. JAMES C.; mother, Mrs. Thelma Campbell, Buffalo.
CASERTANO, Corp. ANGELO J.; father, Anthony Casertano, 2467 Bedford Ave., Brooklyn.
CHOWN, Pfc. HAROLD M.; wife, Mrs. Marcella A. Chown, 250 E. 35th St., New York.
COHEN, Pvt. HYMAN; mother, Mrs. Anna Cohen, 282 Madison St., New York.
COSTELLO, Pvt. HARRY J.; mother, Mrs. Margaret R. Costello, Floral Park.
FAVA, Corp. ANTONIO A.; mother, Mrs. Antonio Fava, 21-07 33d Ave., Long Island City.
FLOWERS, Pfc. FRANCIS F.; father, Walter I. Flowers, Ontario Center.
FUCH, Pvt. HERBERT B.; father, Louis Fuchs, 2860 Ocean Ave., Brooklyn.
GOODOFF, Pfc. JULIUS; mother, Mrs. Leah Goodoff, 1735 Lafayette Ave., New York.
GRETTANO, Pvt. STEPHEN S.; mother, Mrs. Mary Grettano, 255 Scholes St., Brooklyn.
GUTTERMAN, 2d Lt. AL; wife, Mrs. Florence Gutterman, 76-19 21st Ave., New York.
HARPER, T/4 WILLIAM R.; wife, Mrs. Lois D. Harper, Rome.
HINCK, Sgt. CLAUS; friend, John Munzel, 20-61 29th St., Astoria.
HORAN, Pvt. MARTIN J.; mother, Mrs. Mary K. Horan, 548 E. 82d St., New York.
KAMLER, T/5 EDWARD H.; wife, Mrs. June C. Kamler, Olean.
KARINS, Pfc. JOHN C., Jr.; mother, Mrs. Frances Karins, Albany.
KEOUGH, Sgt. GEORGE J.; mother, Mrs. Nellie Keough, Watervliet.
KEPNER, Pvt. WALTER E.; wife, Mrs. Mabel J. Kepner, Medina.
KINCH, Pfc. DONALD F.; sister, Mrs. Marion Bauer, Niagara Falls.
KORELL, T/4 PAUL R.; wife, Mrs. Lisa Korell, Kings Park Hospital, New York.
KOUKAS, Pfc. NICHOLAS; mother, Mrs. Arety Koukas, 19-18 21st Dr., Astoria.
LASKOWSKI, Pfc. EDWARD J.; father, John Laskowski, Sag Harbor.
LONGOBARDI, Pfc. MICHAEL V.; mother, Mrs. Mary Longobardi, 75 Woodhull St., Brooklyn.
LOPRESTO, Sgt. GIAMBATTISTA; mother, Mrs. Ann Lopresto, 156 W. 168th St., New York.
LOREE, Pvt. RALPH E.; wife, Mrs. Frieda A. Loree, 39-50 60th St., Woodside.
LOWENSTEIN, Pvt. JACOB; father, Joseph Lowenstein, Syracuse.
MAHER, T/5 PHILLIP J.; friend, Miss Marie Cushing Schult, 98 Christopher St., New York.
MARRO, Pvt. SAMUEL J.; father, Anthony Marro, [illegible]
MASHEW, 2d Lt. [illegible]; father, Harvey [illegible]
MICHILOFF, Pvt. GEORGE; mother, Mrs. Pauline Michiloff, 9 Cabrini Blvd, New York.
MOSEMAN, Pfc. GEORGE W., Jr.; mother, Mrs. Naomi T. Moseman, 74-23 93d Ave., Woodhaven.
MULLER, T/3 HENRY C.; mother, Mrs. Frances Muller, 155-48 129th St., South Ozone Park.
MURRAY, Pfc. CECIL G.; sister, Mrs. Kathryn Olden, Canastota.
NASCA, 2d Lt. ANGELO J.; wife, Mrs. Arlouine Nasca, Buffalo.
NETH, Pfc. MARCUS F.; wife, Mrs. Alberta C. Neth, Batavia.
NIKEL, Pvt. EDMUND M.; father, Michael Nikel, Cheektowaga.
O'BRIEN, Pvt. ROBERT; mother, Mrs. Margaret M. O'Brien, Troy.
O'CONNELL, Pfc. DANIEL P.; mother, Mrs. Josephine O'Connell, 512 Sterling Pl., Brooklyn.
ODESSEY, Pvt. PAUL; sister, Mrs. Lilliam O. Rudder, 465 E. 93d St., Brooklyn.
PERROTTA, T/5 RALPH J.; mother, Mrs. Flora Perrotta, 25 Bedford St., New York.
PETRONE, Pvt. EMANUEL; aunt, Mrs. Mary Barlow, South Beach.
POSTORINO, Pvt. JOHN; mother, Mrs. Jennie I. Postorino, 1855 71st St., Brooklyn.
PRICE, Pfc. ALEXANDER D.; uncle, Francis Abbott, 28-27 215th St., Bayside.
PUKAS, Pvt. EDWARD J.; wife, Mrs. Helen A. Pukas, care of Michaelowski, Brooklyn.
RADZIKOWSKI, Pvt. EUGENE; wife, Mrs. Irene Radzikowski, 111 Grand St., Brooklyn.
RAFOFSKY, Pvt. SOL; wife, Mrs. Bella Rafofsky, 284 Madison St., New York.
RAGGIO, Pfc. JOSEPH; mother, Mrs. Anna Raggio, 867 Glenmore Ave., Brooklyn.
RATHBUN, Pvt. FREDERICK W.; father, Frederick R. Rathbun, Rochester.
REITER, Sgt. JACK M.; mother, Mrs. Philip Reiter, 1116 Hollywood Ave., Far Rockaway.
RUBIN, Pvt. IRVING; wife, Mrs. Isabel Rubin, care of Silverstein, 1229 42d St., Bklyn.
SANGUEDOLCE, Pvt. PHILIP F.; father, Joseph Sanguedoice, Rochester.
SANSEVERINO, Pvt. CARLO F.; mother, Mrs. Millie E. Sanseverino, 321a Barbey St., Brooklyn.
SANTILLI, Pvt. ANTHONY A.; father, Michael Santilli, Geneva.
SAVARD, Pfc. RALPH L.; wife, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Savard, Rochester.
SCHWARTZ, Pvt. MURRAY; sister, Miss Barbara Schwartz, 338 Vernon Ave., Brooklyn.
SENAY, Sgt. JOSEPH H.; mother, Mrs. Margaret Senay, 300 E. 73d St., New York.
SLOWIKOWSKI, Pfc. ZDZISLAF I.; mother, Mrs. Mary Niedzielska, 522 4th Ave., Bklyn.
SMITH, Pvt. RICHARD T.; mother, Mrs. Margaret Smith, Troy.
SNELL, S/Sgt. LEONARD E.; mother, Mrs. Martha E. Snell, Rochester.
SORAHAN, Pvt. DANIEL J.; mother, Mrs. Bridget T. Sorahan, 440 E. 146th St., Bronx, N. Y.
SPAYER, Sgt. JOSEPH E.; mother, Mrs. Anna Spayer, Dunkirk.
STEELE, Pfc. GEORGE D.; aunt, Mrs. Flossie Madden, Whitesboro.
STOUTENBURG, Pfc. LAUREN L.; mother, Mrs. Abbigail Stoutenburg, Woodstock.
SUNSHINE, Pfc. Jack; father, Harry Sunshine, 243 Henry St., New York.
SZWEJKOWSKI, Pfc. ALEXANDER; mother, Mrs. Mary Szwejkowski, Old Bethpage.
TABITA, S/Sgt. FRED; wife, Mrs. Joan A. Tabita, 1001 Bryant Ave., New York.
TEPER, 2d Lt. ARTHUR; wife, Mrs. Beatrice F. Teper, 40 Bay 37th St., Brooklyn.
TICCIARONE, Pvt. MARIO A.; sister, Mrs. Tessie Brancato, 623 Cleveland St., Brooklyn.
VACCARINO, Pvt. HARRY C.; mother, Mrs. Josephine Vaccarino, 83 2d Pl., Brooklyn.
VAN DUSEN, T/Sgt. CLIFTON W.; mother, Mrs. Bertha Van Dusen, Skaneateles.
WILLIAMS, Pvt. EDWARD F.; wife, Mrs. Agnes M. Williams, Rochester.
WISNIEWSKI, Pvt. CHESTER H.; wife, Mrs. Jane Wisniewski, Buffalo.
YOUNG, Pvt. WILLIAM E., Jr.; mother, Mrs. Henrietta Young, 118-17 152d St., Jamaica.
YOUNGLING, Pfc. Walter; mother, Mrs. Jennie Youngling, Islip Terrace.

Southwest Pacific Area

CODY, Cpl. FRANCIS J.; mother, Mrs. Barbara Cody, 533 E. 138th St., New York.
GIANAKIS, Pvt. GRIGORIOS; cousin, Mike Jamos, 614 W. 136th St., New York.
GURIAN, Capt. BERNARD; father, Abraham Gurian, 108 Field Pl., New York.
MANCINELLI, Pvt. UMBERTO A.; mother, Mrs. Maria Mancinelli, White Plains.
WEINSTEIN, 1st Lt. CARL J.; wife, Mrs. Shirley R. Weinstein, 1808 Marmigu Ave., Bronx, New York.

NEW JERSEY

Asiatic Area

DOYER, Warrant Officer JOSEPH; sister, Mrs. R. Wilbur Anderson, Clementon.

European Area

BOYD, T/Sgt. KENNETH T.; sister, Mrs. Jeanette Stryker, 9 N. 13th St., Newark.
DICKSON, Pvt. JOHN J.; mother, Mrs. Anna Dickson, Kearny.
FRANCISCO, Pvt. PATSY; mother, Mrs. Marie Francisco, Nutley.
McNAMEE, Pfc. JAMES J.; wife, Mrs. James J. McNamee, Palisades Park.
VELLUCCI, Pvt. Guerrin J.; brother, Phillip Vellucci, Roselle Park.
WEBER, T/4th gr. LOUIS J.; mother, Mrs. Sophie Weber, 344 Clinton Pl., Newark.
ZIPPEL, Pfc. GEORGE X.; mother, Mrs. Catherine Zippel, East Orange.

Mediterranean Area

AUN, Sgt. MICHAEL A; brother, Thomas J. Aun, Paterson.
BENNETT, Pfc. IRA A.; mother, Mrs. Anna Bennett, Asbury Park.
BIDDULPH, Pfc. ERNEST F.; father, Ernest E. Biddulph, Elizabeth.
BOGUSZ, Pfc. JOHN M.; father, John Bogusz, 301 Monmouth St., Jersey City.
BUCSKU, Sgt. MICHEL Jr.; father, Michael Bucsku, Trenton.
BUESING, 1st Lt. GEORGE F.; mother, Mrs. Johanna Buesing, Secacus.
BULOVCSAK, Pvt. MICHAEL G. Jr.; mother, Mrs. Mary Bulovcsak, Trenton.
CHADWICK, T/3d gr. RAY W.; mother, Mrs. Marie F. Chadwick, Dumont.
CHMIELEWSKI, Pvt. STANLEY; mother, Mrs. Phyllis Chmielewski, Trenton.
CIARDELLA, Pvt. RALPH C.; mother, Mrs. Barbara Ciardella, Lyndhurst.
COCKEFAIR, Pvt. ALFRED V.; wife, Mrs. Glen T. Cockefair, Blairstown.
COSSABOON, Pvt. ROLAND J.; grandfather, William Giberson, Millville.
DILEO, Sgt. ALFRED; mother, Mrs. Nancy Dileo, New Brunswick.
FINLAY, Cpl. JOSEPH P.; mother, Mrs. William Finlay, Nutley.
KENDY, Pvt. WILLIAM; mother, Mrs. Ida Kendy, Cliffside Park.
KIELIAN, T/Sgt. STEVEN; father, Joseph Kielian, Sayreville.
KILGOUR, Pfc. EDWARD; mother, Mrs. Helen Kilgour, Mays Landing.
KOZUB, T/5th gr. WALTER J.; mother, Mrs. Mary A. Kozub, 39 Van Wagnen Ave., Jersey City.
KURCUZ, Pvt. JOSEPH; wife, Mrs. Joan M. Kurcuz, Garfield.
LULA, Pfc. WALTER A.; wife, Mrs. Frances M. Lula, Camden.
MILLER, Pvt. STEPHEN D.; friend, Mrs. Louise Miller, 158 13th St., Hoboken.
RIEDELL, Warant Officer JOHN A. Jr.; mother, Mrs. Louise K. Riedell, Upper Montclair.
ROTH, Pfc. ROBERT B.; mother, Mrs. Rose Roth, 25-27 North 14th St., Newark.
SCHNERING, 2d Lt. HERBERT G.; wife, Mrs. Helen G. Schnering, Elizabeth.
SISKOWITZ, Pvt. PERCY I.; wife, Mrs. Bessie Siskowitz, Trenton.
SMITH, 2d Lt. JOSEPH J.; father, John S. Smith, 18 Wade Ave., Jersey City.
SNOW, Pfc. EDWARD J.; mother, Mrs. Mary Snow, Riverside.
STADNICK, Pfc. MICHAEL; brother-in-law, John N. Curry, Williamstown.
STOLAR, Pfc. NICHOLAS; mother, Mrs. Rose Stolar, Millville.
TAGLIALATELA, Pvt. JEREMIO; mother, Mrs. Anna Taglialatela, Belleville.
TAYLOR, S/Sgt. EDWARD W.; mother, Mrs. Helen D. Taylor, Atlantic City.
WILLIAMS, Pvt. COLIN W.; mother, Mrs. Euphemia C. Williams, Trenton.

Southwest Pacific Area

CLEAVER, Pvt. JOHN H.; brother, George R. Cleaver, Gloucester City.
VOORHEES, Pvt. Norman; father, John Voorhees, Princeton.

CONNECTICUT

European Area

CLEAVER, Pvt. STANLEY L.; father, Stanley L. Cleaver, Hartford.
CLYNE, Pvt. PETER P.; mother, Mrs. Gertrude Clyne, New Haven.
GILL, T/5th gr. JOHN D.; mother, Mrs. Joseph T. Gill, Jewett City.
THOMPSON, Pfc. EARL W.; mother, Mrs. Irene E. Thompson, Hartford.

Mediterranean Area

BARKASY, Pvt. STEPHEN; mother, Mrs. Anna Barkasy, Bridgeport.
BIBEAU, Pvt. ANDRE L.; father, Wilfred Bibeau, Waterbury.
GRAMMATICA, Pvt. ALIE; father, Louis Grammatica, Torrington.
GUARNIERI, Pvt. SALVATORE; mother, Mrs. Josephine Guarnieri, New Haven.
LANG, 1st Lt. WILFRED E.; wife, Mrs. Marie R. Lang, Ridgefield.
MARTIN, 2d Lt. ROBERT J.; father, Thomas Martin, Manchester.
MURRAY, Pvt. WILLIAM E.; wife, Mrs. Angelina Murray, Middletown.
ONDRICK, Pfc. JOHN E.; mother, Mrs. Susan Ondrick, New Britain.
PALERMO, Sgt. NICHOLAS J.; stepfather, Joseph Townsend, West Haven.
PAULSEN, Cpl. GUSTAVE H.; father, Gustave A. Paulsen, New Haven.
SANTA CROCE, Pvt. JOHN A.; father, Emilo
HARVEY, Corp. RICHARD W., Marine Corps; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore A. F. Harvey, Bloomfield.
YACYNIAK, Pfc. WASIL, Marine Corps; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Yacyniak, Passaic.

AUG 10 1944

Wounded

NEW YORK

ACAVELL, Painter2c RICHARD D'ARTAGNAN; father, Anthony Acavell, Mamaroneck.
ALEXANDRE, Pfc. LAWRENCE A., Marine Corps; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Alexandre, Cedarhurst.
AMBROSE, Corp. WARREN J., Marine Corps; mother, Mrs. Alice R. Ambrose, 2432 University Ave., New York.
ANDERSON, Pfc. RUDOLPH, Marine Corps; parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson, Little Falls.
ARBOLINO, 1st Lt. JACK N., Marine Corp; mother, Mrs. Rose Arbolino, 2095 Webster Ave., New York.
ARVANITES, Sgt. CHRIST N., Marine Corps; wife, Mrs. Christ N. Arvanites, 886 Longwood Ave., New York.
BAIN, Pfc. JOHN J., Marine Corps; father, William A. Bain Sr., Buffalo.
BUTLER, Pharm3c, DONALD E.; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Butler, South Bangor.
CAGGIANO, Pfc. ANTHONY V., Marine Corps; mother, Mrs. Lucy Delorenzo, 266 Floyd St., Brooklyn; father, Samuel Caggiano, 112-07 Roosevelt Ave., Corona.
CHAPMAN, S2c JAMES M.; mother, Mrs. Edith Chapman, South Glens Falls.
DARATT, Pfc. SAMUEL B., Jr., Marine Corps; father, Samuel B. Daratt, Auburn.
GRUMBACK, S1c JACK; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grumback, 1662 48th St., Brooklyn.
ISACKSON, Pvt. OLE, MYRON S., Marine Corps; mother, Mrs. Gertrude Isackson, Buffalo.
MARTIN, S1c JOHN B.; father, John F. Martin, Central Valley.
STREEVER, Pm2c, HORACE W. A.; mother, Mrs. Edith M. Streever, 26-18 92d St., Jackson Heights.

NEW JERSEY

DYER, Sf2c, FRANCIS J.; sister, Mrs. Anna May McAuley, East Orange.
MINETTO, Pfc. JOSEPH M., Marine Corps; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orlando Minetto, Tenafly.
SPATAFORE, Pfc. WILLIAM, Marine Corps; mother, Mrs. Rose Spatafore, Franklinville.

CONNECTICUT

ALLEN, Pfc. RICHARD S., Marine Corps; mother, Mrs. Lynda Allen, Westport.
GIANOKOS, Sc3c, PETER J.; parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Gianokos, Norwalk.

Missing

NEW YORK

BARTELS, Mmm3c, RICHARD J.; father, Richard D. Bartels, 21-58 35th St., Astoria.
FRITZ, Sic, LESLIE, Coast Guard; father, William E. Fritz, 252 Gordon St., Stapleton, S. I.

NEW JERSEY

WOLFE, S1c, BERNARD L.; Coast Guard; father, Harry Wolfe, 5 Wainright St., Newark.
SWORTZFIGURE, Pvt. FREDERICK R.; wife, Mrs. Mary H. Swortzfigure, Willimantic.
TORRE, T/Sgt. ANGELO J.; father Angelo Torre, Thompsonville.
TUZ, S/Sgt. JOHN; aunt, Mrs. Anne Kuziak, Ansonia.
YERUC, Pvt. WALTER P. JR.; mother, Mrs. Mary R. Yeruc, Stamford.

Southwest Pacific Area

CIBULSKY, Pfc. WILLIAM C.; wife, Mrs. William C. Cibulsky, Bridgeport.

NAVY

Dead

NEW YORK

ADELMAN, Sgt. STUART M., Marine Corps; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Adelman, 2009 Flatbush Ave., Brooklyn.
ARRANDALE, Cpl. RALPH H., Marine Corps; father, Joseph J. Arrandale, Sidney.
FROST, Pfc. DONALD A., Marine Corps; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Frost, Auburn.
KEARLEY, Lt. Cmdr. JACK; wife, Mrs. Elma A. Kearley, Dansville.
RICHTER, S1c RICHARD M. (previously reported missing); father, Walter M. Richter, 1 Chestnut St., Stapleton.
WOJCISON, Pfc. JOSEPH R., Marine Corps. (previously reported wounded); parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wojcison, 134 Butler St., Brooklyn.
WOOD, 1st Lt. PHILIP E. JR., Marine Corps; mother, Mrs. Margretta R. Wood, 120 E. 19th St., New York.

NEW JERSEY

BURKHARDT, Pfc. ALBERT C., Marine Corps; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Burkhardt, 187 Florence Ave., Newark.

CAPT. NORMAN IVES KILLED IN ACTION

Washington, Aug. 9 (A. P.).—Capt. Norman S. Ives, United States director of the port of Cherbourg, France, has been killed in action.

The Navy disclosed this today but gave no indication of how the 47-year-old officer met death.

A veteran of [illegible] submarines and a holder of the Navy Cross, Capt. Ives played a large part in the development of safety devices which have saved the lives of many men serving on submersibles.

30-24 — 17869

He volunteered to command the submarine S-4 after she was raised from the sea bottom off Provincetown, Mass., and fitted out for safety experiments in 1928. The S-4 had been sunk in 1927 in a collision.

Among safety devices developed aboard the S-4 was the "lung" which has made possible the escape of many crew men from sunken submarines.

Capt. Ives, a native of Galesburg, Ill., was named port director at Cherbourg last month. He arrived in Cherbourg only a few hours after the port was captured.

Capt. Ives's wife, Mrs. Florence E. Ives, now lives in Portsmouth, N. H.

SEABEES RESCUE TRAPPED VESSEL

Washington, Aug. 9 (A. P.).—Fighting wind, rain and heavy seas for forty-five hours, a Navy Seabee battalion salvaged 1,150 tons of cargo from a heavily laden Liberty ship trapped in a reef-studded New Guinea bay.

The Seabees under Lieut.-Commander John J. Mason of Philadelphia, the Navy said today, were pressed into service when the freighter ran aground fifty miles from their base.

"Despite torrential rains and high winds which lashed the sea and sent lighters pitching and crashing against the side of the beached vessel," the Navy said, "the Seabee stevedores went to work.

"While the sea threatened to pound the ship to pieces on the coral reefs, Seabees unloaded cargo over the side. . . . With practically no sleep or food during the entire period, the Seabees discharged 300 tons of material, 600 tons of fuel and 250 tons of water before the ship floated free."

ARMY GETS ROHL DATA

House Findings on Hawaiian Contracts Go to Patterson

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—The House Military Committee announced today that its file dealing with Pacific war contracts held by Hans Wilhelm Rohl, German-born contractor, has been turned over to the special War

AUG 10 1944

Department board investigating the attack on Pearl Harbor.

H. Ralph Burton, committee counsel, said the action was taken at the request of Under-Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson.

Mr. Patterson asked to study the files after the committee made a report last June on contracts awarded by Col. Theodore Wyman Jr. to the contracting firm in which Mr. Rohl was interested.

LEND LEASE AID POSES PROBLEM

No Reduction Seen Possible Before Nazi Defeat.

Washington, Aug. 9 (A. P.).—The United States has furnished Britain with about $2,000,000,000 worth of foodstuffs in the three and a quarter years that lend-lease has been in operation. This is the most important element of civilian supply that will require adjustment when only the war with Japan remains.

A steady curtailment in lend-lease aid to the British Isles, paralleled by a return to normal commercial trade, is expected after Germany is defeated.

However, so far as can be learned, no program to that end has been worked out and officials plan to make the curtailment only when they have a real situation to work with.

AUG 10 1944

It is impossible at this time, one authority said, to estimate just what lend-lease help the British will need to concentrate their efforts in the final campaigns to crush Japan. Here, however, is the background against which decisions must be made when the time comes:

Total 17 Billion.

In the first three years of lend-lease, March, 1941, through March, 1944, lend-lease shipments to all nations totaled $17,195,000,000. Of that amount $7,306,000,000 went to the United Kingdom.

The United Kingdom total consisted of $3,169,000,000 of munitions such as guns and tanks, $1,853,000,000 of industrial materials and products such as machinery and processed petroleum, and $2,284,000,000 of agricultural supplies, including both food and farm machinery.

Foodstuffs alone totaled $1,825,000,000, which means that food shipments to the British Isles have averaged about $50,000,000 a month. The volume of food lend-leased is described officially as representing about 10 per cent of Britain's total supply.

Meanwhile, reverse lend-lease, most of it given in the British Isles, amounted to $1,526,170,000 up to last January, the latest period for which figures are currently available.

Reverse Lend-lease.

British reverse lend-lease has been chiefly in grounds, facilities and services for air and military bases.

All the materials lend-leased have been turned over to the British Government, which parceled them out to the Army or Navy, the industrial concerns which needed them or the civilian supply channels. In the case of food, it was sold to the British public through regular grocery stores.

This netted the British Government a profit. Some time ago the Foreign Economic Administration asked for information on how much money the British had received in that manner, but the figures have not yet come through from the British Treasury.

At one time there was discussion of having the British pay the money to the United States, but American lend-lease officials testified at congressional hearings that the proposal was rejected as one which would have disrupted Britain's internal economy to the point of hampering the conduct of the war.

GI VOTING ACT HITS MOVIES

Army Bans Two Films For Distribution To Troops

Washington, Aug. 9 (AP)—The motion picture "Wilson," dramatizing the career of the first World War President, has been banned by the army for distribution to troops, as has the picture "Heavenly Days," starring Fibber McGee and Molly.

The War Department said today both pictures had been banned by a board of the Morale Services Division as containing material which might be construed as violating provisions of the Soldier Voting Act.

"Great Picture For Democrats"

That act prohibits the distribution by the armed forces of books, magazines or other material containing matters calculated to influence the results of national elections.

"Wilson," which was planned by Producer Darryl Zanuck while he was a lieutenant colonel in the Army Signal Corps and filmed when he went on an inactive status, is advertised as costing $4,000,000. Some critics who have seen it describe it as "a great picture for the Democrats," while others say its treatment is objective.

STAFF CHIEFS GET WPB DATA ON ARMY

Controversial Report Goes To Heads Of Services

Washington, Aug. 9 (AP)—The War Production Board referred its suppressed figures on army supplies to the joint chiefs of staff tonight, specifically for a decision on whether they show enough materials on hand to justify changing certain procurement programs.

The Senate's War Investigatiting Committee, meanwhile, considered demanding a look at the report for a similar purpose.

Withholding of the document because of army objections had caused the authors, Lewis Bassie and Irving Kaplan, WPB statisticians, to offer their resignations.

Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the WPB issued a statement saying that because of the army objection and doubts in the minds of the statisticians' superiors, he had not insisted that the study be circulated among top Government officials, but that after reviewing the document, he has decided to send it to the joint chiefs of staff for them to determine whether "certain army stocks" are adequate to justify changing some procurement programs.

General Marshall and Arnold and Admirals Leahy and King comprise the joint chiefs of staff. Contents of the suppressed report are secret, and it never was intended for general circulation.

Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.), a member of the War Investigating Committee, said he had instructed Chief Counsel Rudolph Halley to make a preliminary check in advance of a formal decision by the Senatorial group on whether to inquire into the matter.

Navy Furloughs Tire Makers

AUG 10 1944

Follows Lead of Army in Returning Men to Rubber Industry to Speed Output.

Washington, Aug. 9 (A. P.).—The Navy reported today that it is placing on inactive duty and returning to the rubber industry "a number of rubber workers skilled in the building of tires."

The Army last week announced a similar plan of furloughing former rubber workers to assist in increasing badly needed heavy tire production. In addition, War Production Board officials are seeking a moratorium on factory working practices which they say have hampered production.

Thirty-four men, the Navy said, already have been released to report for work in fifteen plants of nine tire manufacturing companies.

"The shortage of these (airplane and heavy duty) tires is entirely a question of man power, particularly physically qualified and trained tire builders, millmen, calendar operators and vulcanizers," Rubber Director Bradley Dewey wrote to Navy Secretary Forrestal.

"If the tire building companies were to obtain only their pro-rata share of returned men from the Navy, the help would be great and the effect would be felt instantaneously."

The Navy said that the men will be made available to the plants where they formerly worked and all will be over 30 years old. They are at present all on duty in the United States and may be expected to reach the localities of their civil employment in about two weeks. The Navy added that it "has not as yet" recalled any tire workers from overseas.

Compromise Rejected On Unemployment

Senate Engages in Increasing Bitter Debate on Postwar Pattern.

AUG 10 1944

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9—(AP)—Spokesmen for and against uniform federal standards for postwar unemployment pay flatly rejected all talk of a compromise today as the Senate engaged in increasingly bitter debate on the problem of reconverting the American economy to a peacetime basis.

A Foreign Philosophy

Senator Revercomb (R-WVa) said that back of the Murray-Kilgore mobilization and adjustment bill calling for uniform standards of pay up to $35 a week, was "a philosophy of government entirely foreign to America."

(Continued on Page Two)

"We should be thinking of restoring individual freedoms to the people, rather than of setting up a dictator over one segment (labor) of our population," he shouted.

Retorting, Senator Murray (D-Mont) called a rival, Republican-supported "states' rights" proposal offered by Senator George (D-Ga), the product of a "reactionary philosophy."

Murray declared the policy of the George bill, which would leave control of unemployment compensation to the states, is similar to the policy of "those who led this country into the great depression of 1929."

Calls on True Democrats

"I call upon all true Democrats," he said, "upon all members of the Senate who refuse to allow the creation of new "Hooverilles" and 'Deweyvilles' to votes against the pending amendment."

With the administration's hand as yet unrevealed, both Murray and Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich), a supporter of the Republican-Southern Democratic coalition, told reporters there was no ground for a compromise between the conflicting viewpoints.

Asked if the coalition had enough votes to win, Vandenberg replied:

"I'm not worried."

Vandenburg, in a Senate speech, accused Sidney Hillman of the CIO political action committee of "a misstatement — or at least a misconception" of the George bill. He referred to a telegram in which Hillman declared the "states" bill would offer no additional protection to war workers than they now have under state laws.

No Additional Protection

"If it is no additional protection to workers to have the federal government set up a fund to guarantee the solvency of the state funds, then Mr. Hillman has less respect for the necessity of solvency than I have," Vandenburg said.

The Michigan Republican said the plan also contemplated bringing 3,500,000 federal workers under unemployment compensation at federal expense, and broadening the social security act to include workers in small firms.

Vandenberg explained that this would have to be done by an amendment to the social security tax originating in the House, but said the George bill's backers favored that step and that it would bring another 2,500,000 persons under the benefits.

Would Destroy System

He asserted the Murray-Kilgore bill would "destroy the magnificent system of state unemployment insurance" and be another step in the "centralization of social legislation in Washington."

"It would put a premium on low standards," he said. "No state would increase its payroll scale of payments if it knew the federal government would make up the difference in higher rates."

Members grew less optimistic over prospects for a vote tomorrow as a mounting list of senators signified their intention to speak before a final decision between:

1. The Murray-Kilgore bill setting up an office of war mobilization and adjustment embracing a division of programs and products and a production employment board with authority to co-ordinate functions of all agencies of production and employment. It envisions, besides the jobless pay, six months vocational education for workers at government expense and the transportation of workers to new jobs.

AUG 10 1944

The George Bill

2. The George bill, patterned along recommendations of the Baruch-Hancock report, leaving unemployment compensation rates to the states, and setting up an office of war mobilization and adjustment without the reivewing power over other agencies proposed in the rival bill. It eliminates industry-labor-agriculture advisory boards and other features of the Murray-Kilgore bill.

This proposal, Murray declared, "makes hollow mockery of the program that has been proposed on human mobilization."

He threatened to seek repeal of postwar tax relief concessions for business if Congress denies "adequate protection for the American working man."

of the world will be promptly stamped out by international action."

At Earliest Practicable Date

Senator Warren R. Austin of Vermont said, after conferring with Dewey here on July 11, that he and others discussed with Dewey establishment, at the earliest practicable date, of a "general international organization for security and peace." Austin said "the party does not officially advocate a world government or a world army but it does stand for that degree of cooperative effort among nations necessary to prevent military aggression."

The Republican platform refers to a post war cooperative organization among nations which should develop "effective cooperative means to direct peace forces to prevent or repel military aggression."

The New Jersey governor declared that the nation must have a president "who can work with Congress."

Must Not Face Tragedy

"We must not again face the tragedy of a self-willed president who strives to ignore the Congress and to write a personal peace plan," Edge said.

Edge read the statement to reporters on the porch of the executive mansion after he and the New Jersey congressional delegation lunched with Dewey. He said that Dewey had not seen it.

Edge declared that on the economic aspect of international cooperation, Dewey felt "we must work with other nations to promote monetary stability, a wider international exchange of goods and services, and other commercial and economic progress in order that the underlying causes of war may be guarded against."

Rep. Charles A. Eaton, another member of the New Jersey delegation, predicted that Dewey would carry the state and win its 16 electoral votes.

Earlier, Charles M. Dale, New Hampshire Republican gubernatorial candidate, told Dewey he was certain of the four New Hampshire votes.

Dewey Wants Strong Peace Organization

Gov, Edge Says GOP Nominee Wants Equipment to Deal With Any Future Threat to World Peace Set Up—Leaders Give Assurances of Republican Victory.

By Samuel G. Blackman

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 9 (AP) — Republican Presidential Nominee Thomas E. Dewey was described today by Gov. Walter E. Edge of New Jersey as favoring a strong postwar organization "equipped to deal with any future threat to world peace."

Discussed At Length

Edge, a critic of the term "peace forces" in the Republican platform, said he discussed the international situation at length with Dewey and found the nominee "feels that the expression 'peace forces' is all inclusive."

"It embraces everything from an editorial to a 16-inch gun and following Senator Austin's comprehensive elucidation I am sure it cannot be misunderstood," Edge said in a formal statement.

"In short, Governor Dewey is determined that effective means shall be brought into being to assure that any future threat to the peace

ENEMY AGENTS FOILED

Utica, Aug. 9 (A. P.).—Law enforcement agents have stopped every attempt of enemy agents to sabotage the war effort in this country, Hugh H. Clegg, assistant director of the FBI, last night told the concluding session of the New York State Sheriff's Association's third war conference.

W. Norris Paxton, chief of the Albany Bureau of the Associated Press, urged closer co-operation between law enforcement agents and the public press. "You will benefit yourselves if you do cooperate with the newspapers," he said.

Milton V. Saulpaugh, Columbia county, was elected president. Also elected were: Vice-presidents Earl J. Daniels, Broome county and Edward J. Ganter, Westchester.

worked one vacation in the New Haven office of the Department of Justice, earning newspaper mention as "Connecticut's first G-woman."

In Bridgeport her law practice is mixed, but she takes few criminal cases. Despite a substantial clientele she finds time to keep up with tennis and golf, as well as to interest herself in industrial advisory work at the Y. W. C. A.

One of her sisters, Jane, has a radio program over a Hartford station, while another, Geraldine, works for a Federal agency here.

Some New Luce Phrases

Mrs. Luce, in her acceptance speech at Greenwich, pledged herself to a "clear-cut, definite labor policy." At one point the Republican nominee asserted the War Manpower Commission had "fumbled and finagled" the manpower problem; that the new WMC ceiling plan was a "labor draft," and that Communists interests had rooted themselves deep in the Democratic party.

She called Administration officials "ramsquaddled, do-gooding, New Deal bureaucrats," and termed President Roosevelt a "super-duper, highly cultured poliitcal boss—not a real dictator."

Need for Improvement

ments. Very often it is these men who, from their own observation, note defects in ordnance in actual combat.

As a result, tanks and gun mounts have been modified or improved and the accuracy of machine guns and artillery on American tanks, thanks to an ordnance laboratory suggestion, has been stepped up.

Examination of enemy ordnance, Col. Stone said, "has revealed few improvements that could be borrowed by the American army. On the contrary, the enemy is trying to copy our ordnance equipment."

"The policy of the ordnance department," he declared, "is to keep its eyes, ears and mind open. It won't make changes just for the sake of making chanes but it is eager to make changes that have been found necessary or desirable. In this way ordnance can produce weapons and equipment with speed and efficiency for any type of climate, terrain, or tactics that our troops encounter."

Miss Connors And Clare Luce In All-Woman Congress Fight

Bridgeport, Conn., August 9 (AP). Dark-haired, blue-eyed, 5-foot-5 Margaret E. Connors was happy but a bit sleepy today after a night of excitement which saw her chosen unanimously to head the Democratic fight in Connecticut's Fourth Congressional District against its phrase making, author, playwright and actress, incumbent, Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce (R).

Shaping up, with the renomination by acclamation of Mrs. Luce tonight, was the all-woman, major party, Congressional contest in the East since 1942 and one of the few in political history.

"It's too early to make plans and I'm too happy to think about them now," said Miss Connors.

No Stranger To Public Office

Graduate of Wellesley College and of the Yale Law School, Miss Connors is no stranger to public speaking nor to public office. At 25 she was deputy Secretary of State, youngest person ever to hold that job and the first woman.

During her years at Yale she

Causes Changes In Army Ordnance

BOSTON, Aug. 9—(AP)—The everlasting need to improve, improve, improve is causing frequent changes in American army ordnance.

This was announced today by Lieutenant-Colonel Whitney Stone, deputy district director of the Boston ordnance district.

In a statement, he said the ordnance department, which "already is producing and supplying our invasion forces with the finest combat weapons in the world" constantly was striving "to achieve maximum armament perfection."

Modification suggestions and ideas for new weapons come from technical engineering laboratories, factories, battlefield commanders, and from ordnance experts who are ceaselessly examining captured enemy materiel.

Even the ordinary soldier in the field is urged to suggest improve-

Jurors Told to Search For Politics in Strike

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 9 (AP)—Federal Judge George A. Welsh charged a special grand jury of 11 men and nine women today to search out any political motive that may have been involved in the calling of Philadelphia's wildcat transit strike, declaring he could not believe the strikers were actuated solely "by the thought that eight Negroes were going to be upgraded."

Hopes It Wasn't Racial Prejudice

"I hope it (racial prejudice) was not the real reason," he said.

"You have got to be cognizant of the fact that a national election is impending. God forbid that I should bring politics into this investigation but we want to find out what certain men did and why they did it. We have to know what was in their hearts and minds that made them spring into action. Something that happens in Philadelphia today—something wherein the truths did not prevail—could have its repercussions in the length and breadth of the land and have its effect on the national election."

Caused Serious Disruption

The strike, the judge said, "caused serious disruption of wartime preparations," "caused chaos and confusion in a community that was doing its best in a crisis in the nation's history," and "struck a blow at a sacred cause," for which thousands of American boys are fighting.

"You are to determine the identity of the men who engineered such a strike," he said. "They . . . should have madea declaration of any grievance.

"It came, however, as a bolt from the blue. The reason given for it was one of intolerance and racial hatred . . . I hope it was not the real reason. . . .

Must Punish Men

"If race hatred was the real reason, we cannot take it lying down. We must punish the men who called such a strike."

Four of the strike leaders are free on bonds awaiting hearing next Monday on charges of violating the Smith-Connally Act.

"The mere throwing of three or four men to the wolves will not solve this problem, nor will retribution to them, although that is in the picture," Judge Welsh said.

The eight Negroes resumed their training for trolley operating jobs today under protection of the Army which took over the strike-bound transportation company Thursday night. They were ordered upgraded by the Fair Employment Practices committee.

'Deliberately Fomented'

In the Senate, meanwhile, Senator Russell (D-Ga.), asserted the strike was "deliberately fomented" by the President's Fair Employment Practices committee.

"If there had been no FEPC," Russell said, "not a single man-hour of war production would have been lost and there would have been no racial disturbances or bitterness."

Chairman of the committee, Malcolm Ross, from Los Angeles replied, "There is no question involved of an invalidation of a contract between the Philadelphia Transportation company and the union. Both the company and Transportation Workers union which has the contract have expressed their willingness to upgrade Negro employes."

Must Go Into Labor Setup

Litigation in reorganization of the PTC was before Judge Welsh for six years, he recalled in his 40-minute statement to the jury, saying, "in order to get the true picture in this investigation, you must go into the corporate structure of the transit company, and also its labor setup, where you will find that four different labor groups were vying for domination."

Brazil To Get 2 More U. S. Destroyer Escorts

Miami, Fla., Aug. 9 (AP)—Commander Harold E. Cox of the Brazilian navy reported today that two destroyer escorts would be transferred from the United States Navy to Brazil about August 15.

Two similar craft were received by the Brazilians on August 1 and are now in service against Germany, he reported. The transfer was made at Natal, where the additional ships also will be received, the officer said.

These are the largest craft yet transferred from the United States to Brazil.

Medal Of Honor Wearer Wants To 'Chute Home

Miami, Fla., Aug. 9 (AP)—Staff Sergeant Paul B. Huff, winner of the Congressional Medal of Honor for his one-man battle against 125 Germans, arrived in the United States today expressing a hope that he could drop in on his home town at Cleveland, Tenn., by parachute.

The soldier, abashed by the acclaim and attention shown him by military officials and other greeters, said his numerous nieces and nephews in Cleveland expect him to arrive by parachute, since he is a member of the most-decorated parachute battalion in the army.

"I'd hate to disappoint them," he said, adding: "I'd really like to do that. I haven't been home in three years." On February 8, 1944, near the Italian town of Carano, on the Anzio beachhead, Huff volunteered to lead a patrol against German units. Fire from machine guns, rifles and a 20-mm. cannon nailed the patrol down.

Huff advanced alone for 75 yards and killed the crew of a machine gun, with his tommy gun, turned the captured gun on other enemy positions. He observed their positions and strength, returned to his own lines and immediately led another patrol against the Germans, routing 125 men, killing 27 and capturing 21.

30.24— 17871

Huff will go to New York tomorrow, and expects to arrive in Cleveland next week for 30 days' leave.

As a wearer of the highest award, he is entitled to an officer escort, and Lieut. Laverne P. Wess, of Memphis, Tenn., adjutant of his battalion, was assigned to accompany him home.

"One-Man Army Of Anzio" Secures Beachhead In U. S.

Spring Mount, Pa., Aug. 9 (AP)—The "one man army of Anzio" had a firm hold on the home front beachhead tonight.

Private (first class) Alton W. Knappenberger, winner of the Congressional Medal for wiping out 60 Germans on the Italian front, was back with "Mom" for 21 days.

He no longer was broke, as he was when he arrived, but had more money than he did before a Naples pickpocket lifted his wallet the day before he shipped home.

He had passed through the first community celebration and had nothing on the calendar but loafing and fishing until the next big blowout on August 20.

Furlough Unexpected

The 20-year-old, 120-pound, five-foot-four farm boy arrived last night on an unheralded furlough, so surprising his mother, Mrs. Harvey Siebert, that she burst into tears.

The Spring Mount Fire Company, just across the road from Knappenberger's home, organized an impromptu parade, and the "army" was taken on a triumphant tour up the Perkiomen Valley.

Then he mentioned that he had only $20 to see him through his furlough.

"I'd saved up $150," he said, "and I wouldn't even spend a nickel of it when they let me go to see Naples, on account of this furlough coming up. Then while I was in Naples a pickpocket took it all."

Donations Pour In

That was soon remedied. The Norristown Times-Herald started it off with a $50 contribution and the firemen chipped in $100. The newspaper said additional donations were coming in from all over the countryside.

The "army" doesn't care too much for this hero stuff. "I don't like to fight," he said, "but I guess the worst darned ordeal was when I got this medal. It's nice, but I had to stand there while General Clark presented it, and, well I guess I'd almost rather fight."

Knappenberger won the nation highest heroism award for holding off two German companies counter-attacking on Anzio. He covered his comrades' retreat to the rear until he ran out of ammunition; then moved back, took more ammunition from the body of a fallen American, and began firing again. He was credited officially with killing 60 Nazis.

AUG 1 0 1944

TREASON CASE TESTIMONY IN

Arguments For And Against 3 Jap Sisters Due Today

Denver, Aug. 9 (AP)—With all testimony in, Government and defense attorneys lined up their legal artillery tonight to clash in final arguments tomorrow over the guilt or innocence of three Japanese-American sisters charged with treason.

United States District Attorney Thomas J. Morrissey predicted the case will be handed to a Federal Court jury before noon.

The defendant sisters—Mrs. Tsuruko (Toots) Wallace, 35; Mrs. Florence (Flo) Shivze Otani, 33, and Mrs. Billie Shitara Tanigoshi, 32—testified in rebuttal of charges that they provided the means by which two German prisoners of war escaped from the Trinidad (Col.) internment camp. The break was made by Heinrich Haider and Herman August Loescher, both 31, former members of the routed Afrika Korps, last October 16. They were recaptured two days later and testified against the sisters.

3 Witnesses For Defense

Defense Attorney Kenneth Robinson summoned only three witnesses in contrast to a list of approximately 20 called by the prosecution.

These were: Mary Shitara, 28, a resident—like her sisters—of the Granada Relocation Center at Amache, Col., and Mrs. Ethel Sherman, of Compton, Cal., and Mrs. Wilma Anna Readman, of Bloomington, Cal., who said they were close friends of the Shitaras in California before their evacuation from the West Coast.

Robinson asserted the Government had brought out the main point for the defense.

This, he said, was the testimony of one of the escaped prisoners, Heinrich Haider, that he wanted to escape so he "could fight the Hitler gang."

Haider claimed he opposed Hitler before the war and sought his freedom from the prisoners of war camp so he could join an "Austrian legion" of anti-Nazi exiles.

The defense lawyer argued that this proved the sisters had no intent to aid Germany.

Appearing as the first defense witness, Miss Shitara told the jury that German prisoners from the Trinidad encampment "had a free hand" in roaming through the two houses in which the Shitara family lived on the Winger farm near Trinidad and Amache.

The court struck from the treason count two of the four overt acts charged against the sisters. The stricken allegations referred to the road maps. Left intact in the count was the allegation that the California-born defendants transported the prisoners to New Mexico.

AUG 10 1944

Newspaper Guild Votes Indorsement of Roosevelt

But Convention Asserts Action Doesn't Bind Members

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 9 (AP).—Delegates to the American Newspaper Guild convention today indorsed the candidacies of President Roosevelt and Senator Harry Truman, for Vice-President.

The action came on voice vote after the convention had rejected by a 153 2-3 to 73¼ vote a minority report of the government relations committee that opposed indorsement. The resolution favoring indorsement was presented by William Davy, of Cleveland. H. M. Mannigt, of Elizabeth, N. J., presented the minority report.

"Personally, I am glad that the delegates voted this way," President Milton Murray, of Detroit, told the convention. "This will allow the working newspaper men of the country to speak with some authority and to make a small counterblast to the blasts of reactionary publishers.

"It is not the intent, the desire or purpose of the guild as an organization to bind its members to any Presidential candidate," he added. "No matter whom they indorse, our members will retain their freedom of political thought, their right to vote as American citizens, regardless of any recommendation by this convention.

James B. Carey, national secretary-treasurer of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, of which the guild is an affiliate, told the delegates that organized labor is "in politics for keeps and must regard the political front as a year-around job."

"We are gravely disturbed because businessmen on the whole oppose or are indifferent to our proposals," Mr. Carey said. "We want jobs above all else . . . and a minimum annual wage guaranty to translate the idea of full employment into pay-envelope realities."

AUG 10 1944

Draft Quota Cut Unlikely At End of War in Europe

Hershey Says Navy Will Need Men 'for Its Pacific War'

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 9 (AP).—National draft quotas probably will not be reduced when the war in Europe ends, Major General Lewis B. Hershey, national selective service director, said today.

"Draft quotas now are very low," he said at a press conference, "and it is unlikely the end of the European war will result in further reduction. The Navy still will need many men for its Pacific war, and the Army will continue to need replacements for men who have had long service."

Demobilization of the Army, he said, will take many months.

AUG 10 1944

Biddle Asserts Railways Face Anti-Trust Suit

In Spokane, He Says U. S. Will Act in Few Weeks Against Western Roads

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 9 (AP).—United States Attorney General Francis Biddle asked the support of Western business men today for a government suit he said would be started against Western railroads "within a few weeks to halt violations of the Sherman anti-trust act."

Addressing the Spokane Bar Association on the first speaking stop of a west coast tour, the Attorney General said an investigation of the "Western railroads" is being concluded.

It has revealed, he said, "that a commissioner, who is not a representative of the government, but a sort of Will Hays of the railroad industry, says what the railroads may or may not do . . . and they bow to his order."

In Washington Department of Justice officials, who declined to have their names used, said Mr. Biddle, in his reference to a "commissioner" of the western railroads, referred to Charles E. Johnson. The department officials said Mr. Johnson "is the Western commissioner of the railroads."

They said Mr. Johnson's headquarters are in Chicago and stated he held the position of chairman of a western association of railroad officials.

"Some people seem to have the idea that the railroads are exempt from Sherman act control, but the act does apply to them and to freight rates and the Supreme Court has so held," Mr. Biddle said.

In asking support, Mr. Biddle asserted the development of Pacific Coast states had been hampered by "discrimnatory freight rates."

The Attorney General visited Grand Coulee Dam before departing tonight for Seattle.

In Chicago H. M. Sims, public relations director for the Western Association of Railway Executives, said the commissioner agreement, under which the Western railroads had been operating, was discontinued several months ago. He also described Mr. Biddle's charges of discriminatory freight rates as "simply a smear that is being perpetuated by the anti-trust division of the Department of Justice for political reasons." He added:

"Any freight rates that have been challenged are in operation in the United States only because the Interstate Commerce Commission, after full hearings and with the advice of its own rate experts, has held they are not discriminatory.

"The commissioner agreement, to which Mr. Biddle refers, was initiated by the Western railroads following a decision by the Interstate Commerce Commission in the depression era directing the railroads to eliminate what it termed 'competitive waste.'

"Following the decision the Western railroads agreed upon a plan by which a commissioner was selected to mediate on competitive practices. His decisions were not binding on any party.

"When the Justice Department first contended that the commissioner agreement was in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act it was dissolved by the Western railroads and has not been in effect for several months.

"The only offense of the Western railroads, if any, has been their efforts to comply with the interstate commerce act."

AUG 10 1944

42,000 Idle As Strikes Reach Peak

Highest Number of Workers Out Since Invasion Began.

(By the Associated Press)

Government intervention in the strike of midwestern truck drivers and helpers was expected as the number of idle in that and other labor disputes yesterday reached a post-invasion peak of more than 42,000.

Solution Agreed On

A source close to the White House indicated a solution had been agreed upon, and there was a strong hint truck lines would be taken over by the army or the Office of Defense Transportation.

M. M. Krupinsky, chairman of the Truck Operators' Association in Nebraska, one of the eight states affected by the controversy, said he understood the Office of Defense Transportation would assume control of the struck lines in the midcontinent area today.

Operators in Kansas City, Mo., also awaited federal action.

Picketing Reported

Picketing was reported at North Platte, Fremont and Bilar, Neb. V. J. Hons, district ODT manager at Omaha, asserted the tie-up of petroleum carriers threatened fuel supplies for harvest tractors and farm trucks. War labor board officials in the national capital declared they were powerless to direct the strikers to return to their jobs because the operators were ignoring a WLB order for a wage increase of seven cents an hour. Management spokesmen maintained government agencies had failed to afford them "financial relief" to offset the proposed pay hike.

6,000 Drivers Idle

Major Alex Baxter, chief of the highway branch of the Army Transportation Corps in Chicago, figured 6,000 over-the-road truck drivers and helpers were off duty in the area—embracing Nebraska, Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, Kansas, the Dakotas and aprt of Wisconsin. But Thomas Flynn, acting president of the AFL International Brotherhood of Teamsters, estimated at Indianapolis headquarters that "about 30,000" were affected. Major Baxter reckoned 112 trucking firms had suspended operations.

The wide disparity in the truck dispute calculations reflected in a corresponding range in the total of men and women off their jobs in the United States and Canada — between 42,000 and 72,000.

Hearing Today

The WLB summoned leaders of the CIO United Automobile Workers Union to a hearing today to explain continuation of a strike of 7,000 employes of the Chevrolet Gear and Axle division in Detroit despite a regional WLB back-to-work order. WLB Chairman William H. Davis telegraphed CIO officials: "This interruption cannot be tolerated at this critical point in the war."

Production of ball turrets for army bombers was tied up at the Briggs Manufacturing Company's outer drive workers in Detroit in the wake of a walkout based on disagreement over job classification. The trouble originated in the cutter grinder department and affected the entire day shift of 2,200.

Miners Defy Lewis

Four thousand miners remained out of the pits of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company in Shenandoah, Pa., in the face of orders from President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers to end the six-week work holiday. Secretary Ickes demanded that Lewis and R. E. Taggart, head of the concern, move to terminate the stalemate.

A strike at Wright Aeronautical corporation plants in Paterson and Fair Lawn, N. J., was in its third day, and the UAW-CIO estimated 8,500 were idle.

At Buffalo, N. Y., 400 ceased their labors at the Spencer Lens company. The AFL Metal Polishers' union attributed the stoppage to the discharge of three employes for union activity, while the firm said they were dismissed for soliciting union members during working hours.

Work at the Rock Island, Ill., sash and door works was halted when approximately 380 AFL carpenter Unionists stayed home in a disagreement over wages.

The number of idle at the Dodge Chicago plant—Toolmakers, machinists and grinders—increased to 434. The unit produces B-29 bomber engines.

The WLB renewed its back-to-work appeal to 16 striking musicians at Radio Station KSTP in Minneapolis at St. Paul.

Approximately 12,000 others remained away from their tasks in 15 additional disputes, including 4,000 who usually run the tramways in Montreal, Quebec.

LONDON--FIRST ADD EISENHOWER X X X ANNOUNCED TONIGHT.
GEN.EISENHOWER CONFERRED WITH PRIME MINISTER WINSTON CHURCHILL YESTERDAY WHEN THE LATTER VISITED FRANCE DURING THE BANK HOLIDAY. HE ALSO HAS CONFERRED SEVERAL TIMES RECENTLY WITH LT.GEN.SIR BERNARD L.MONTGOMERY, BRITISH COMMANDER IN FRANCE, AND LT.GEN.OMAR N.BRADLEY, COMMANDER OF THE AMERICAN FORCES, AS WELL AS WITH MEMBERS OF THEIR STAFFS.
JJ514PEW

AUG 101944

THIRD NIGHT LEAD AERIAL
BY NED NORDNESS
LONDON, THURSDAY, AUG. 10-(AP)-LARGE FORMATIONS OF RAF HEAVY BOMBERS BATTERED FLYING BOMB INSTALLATIONS IN FRANCE JUST BEFORE DUSK LAST NIGHT AND RETURNED TO THE ASSAULT AGAIN AFTER DARK, WHILE OTHER SQUADRONS OF NIGHT RAIDERS PLASTERED OTHER TARGETS IN OCCUPIED TERRITORY, THE BRITISH ANNOUNCED TODAY.
PRESUMABLY SOME OF THE NIGHT RAIDERS OPERATED IN DIRECT SUPPORT OF ALLIED LAND FORCES BATTERING THEIR WAY TOWARD PARIS.
YESTERDAY WAVE UPON WAVE X X X FIRST GRAF PVS, (MAKING TIME ELEMENT CONFORM TO THURSDAY DATE).

LONDON, AUG 9-(AP)-THE GERMAN NEWS AGENCY TRANSOCEAN SAID IN A BROADCAST TONIGHT THAT THE BULGARIAN PARLIAMENT WOULD HOLD A SPECIAL SESSION AUG.15 "TO DEAL WITH BUDGET MATTERS."
BZ158AEW

NEW YORK, AUG 9-(AP)-THE BULGARIAN PARLIAMENT HAS BEEN CALLED INTO A SPECIAL SESSION AND WILL MEET NEXT TUESDAY, A BERLIN BROADCAST HEARD IN LONDON AND RECORDED BY NBC SAID TONIGHT.
JJ521PEW

LONDON, AUG. 9-(AP)-THE NEWS CHRONICLE SAID TODAY THAT MARSHAL STALIN HAD SUBMITTED TO THE VATICAN "A DOCUMENT WHICH AMOUNTS TO NOTHING LESS THAN A PROPOSAL FOR COORDINATED ACTION BETWEEN MOSCOW AND THE VATICAN FOR THE POST-WAR SOLUTION OF MORAL AND SOCIAL PROBLEMS" WHICH ARE LIKELY TO HAVE IMMEDIATE EFFECTS IN LIBERATED POLAND.
THE ARTICLE SAID THAT STALIN THROUGH HIS AMBASSADOR TO ROME SUGGESTED TO THE POPE AN EXCHANGE OF VIEWS TO FACILITATE ANY ACTION AT THE PEACE CONFERENCE.
"STALIN ASSURES THE POPE," THE ARTICLE SAID, "THAT RUSSIA NOT ONLY DOES NOT SEEK ANYWHERE TO CHANGE THE EXISTING SOCIAL ORDER BY FORCE BUT WOULD EVEN OPPOSE IT. IT IS THE SOVIET AIM TO REACH ITS GOAL BY PROGRESSIVE DEVELOPMENT ONLY, ACCORDING TO DEMOCRATIC AND LEGAL PRINCIPLES, REFERRING TO STALIN'S ADHERENCE IN TEHERAN TO THE WAR AIMS OF THE WESTERN DEMOCRACIES."
THE NEWS CHRONICLE SAID NOTHING YET WAS KNOWN ABOUT THE VATICAN'S ATTITUDE TO THE SOVIET SUGGESTIONS "EXCEPT THE DECISION THAT MONSIGNOR CORTESI, PAPAL NUNCIO TO THE POLISH GOVERNMENT, SHOULD PROCEED TO WARSAW IMMEDIATELY THE POLISH CAPITAL IS FREED."
"IF MONSIGNOR CORTESI GOES TO WARSAW "WHILE THE SOVIET-ASSISTED POLISH NATIONAL LIBERATION COMMITTEE IS IN VIRTUAL CONTROL," THE ARTICLE CONCLUDED, "THIS WOULD BE A SIGNIFICANT MOVE. IT WOULD INDICATE THE VATICAN HAD RECONCILED ITSELF TO THE PROSPECT OF A POST-WAR POLAND ON TERMS OF CLOSE FRIENDSHIP WITH SOVIET-RUSSIA. THIS EQUALLY REFERS TO CZECHOSLOVAKIA, ANOTHER PREDOMINANTLY CATHOLIC COUNTRY."
FA1216AEW

LONDON, AUG 9-(AP)-GREAT BRITAIN HAS ASKED MOSCOW FOR ITS VIEWS CONCERNING THE TREATMENT AND DISPOSITION OF 2,000 RUSSIANS CAPTURED WHILE SERVING AS SOLDIERS OR LABORERS IN THE GERMAN ARMY IN FRANCE, IT WAS LEARNED TONIGHT.
THE CAPTIVES MAINTAINED THAT THE NAZIS FORCED THEM INTO ACTION AGAINST THE ALLIES. THEY HAVE BEEN TREATED AS PRISONERS OF WAR BY THE BRITISH AND AMERICAN ARMIES, BUT HAVE BEEN KEPT SEPARATE FROM THE GERMANS.
UNDER INTERNATIONAL LAW, THEY ARE SUBJECT TO THE DISPOSAL OF THEIR CAPTORS, BUT IT WAS UNDERSTOOD THE BRITISH AND AMERICANS WANT TO LEARN WHETHER MARSHAL STALIN ACCEPTS THEIR STORY OF COERCION AND WHETHER HE IS WILLING TO TAKE THEM OFF THE HANDS OF THE BRITISH AND AMERICANS.
BZ155AEW

AUG 101944

London, Aug. 9-(AP)-The Danish fishing ship Erika was found in a restricted North sea area recently and escorted to a British port, the admiralty announced today.

AUG 101944

BY JAMES F. KING

LONDON, AUG 9--(AP)--GREAT BRITAIN, WHICH REGARDS BRAZIL AS ONE OF ITS BEST CUSTOMERS FOR TEXTILE MACHINERY, IS WATCHING CLOSELY REPORTED NEGOTIATIONS BY THE SOUTH AMERICAN COUNTRY TO IMPORT 9,000,000 SPINDLES FROM THE UNITED STATES OVER THE NEXT 12 YEARS.

THE BRITISH CHAMBER OF COMMERCE AT SAO PAULO HAS SAID THAT IN THE 10-YEAR PERIOD, 1933-42, BRITAIN SUPPLIED BRAZIL WITH MORE THAN 50 PER CENT OF HER LOOMS, MORE THAN 50 PER CENT OF OTHER COTTON TEXTILE MACHINERY AND MORE THAN 60 PER CENT OF ACCESSORIES.

BRAZIL'S EXPORTS OF 270,000,000 SQUARE YARDS ARE BELIEVED THE LIMIT OF HER CURRENT CAPACITY. BRAZILIAN INDUSTRY HAS ABOUT 3,000,000 SPINDLES INSTALLED, BUT ONLY ABOUT 500,000 ARE WORKING AT TOP EFFICIENCY.

IT IS BELIEVED IN TEXTILE CIRCLES HERE THAT IF BRAZIL'S INDUSTRY WERE EQUIPPED PROPERLY IT COULD CONTRIBUTE 200,000,000 SQUARE YARDS TO THE POOL OF THE UNITED NATIONS RELIEF AND REHABILITATION ADMINISTRATION.

AUG 101944

AT THE OUTSET, HOWEVER, BRAZIL IS EXPECTED TO FURNISH THE POOL WITH 90,000,000 SQUARE YARDS, AS WELL AS CERTAIN QUANTITIES FOR FRENCH AFRICA AND TURKEY.
JIMKINGS 00249-JD-928p

ADD SHAEF-XAX RECONNAISSANCE

ROCKET PLANES, FIGHT BOMBERS AND HEAVY BOMBERS HAVE GIVEN "TERRIFIC" SUPPORT TO THE INFANTRY DURING THE INVASION, HE SAID.

"THOUGH IT IS IMPOSSIBLE TO SAY WHAT WILL HAPPEN, WE HAVE IN THE ALLIED AIR FORCES AN INSTRUMENT WHICH, WHEN THE GERMAN BREAK COMES IN FRANCE, WILL TURN THEIR RETREAT INTO A COMPLETE ROUT AND WILL, I HOPE, RESULT IN THE COMPLETE DESTRUCTION OF THE GERMAN ARMY," HE ADDED.

AUG 101944

(BX) HEADQUARTERS, EUROPEAN THEATER OF OPERATIONS-(AP)-(DELAYED) -ONE GROUP OF AMERICAN ARMY ENGINEERS FOUND OUT HOW IT IS TO RUN A HOTEL AS D-DAY APPROACHED. MANY OF THEM CAME FROM MASSACHUSETTS.

WHEN TACTICAL TROOPS ARRIVED AT THE MARSHALLING AREAS THEIR EQUIPMENT WAS ALL PACKED AND SOMEONE HAD TO FURNISH THEM WITH FOOD, BEDDING AND SANITARY FACILITIES. THAT'S WHERE THE ENGINEERS CAME IN. THEY DID ALL THOSE JOBS, ALONG WITH COOKING, KP AND

AUG 101944

GUARD DUTY.

LATER, WHEN THE INVASING FORCES LEFT FOR THE NORMANDY BEACHHEAD, THE ENGINEERS HAD TO GATHER UP ALL MANNER OF SURPLUS SUPPLIES AND STORE THEM AWAY. THESE SUPPLIES HAD BEEN SUBSTITUTED FOR THE PRECISE EQUIPMENT THE VARIOUS UNITS REQUIRED.

INCLUDED AMONG THE ENGINEERS WERE THESE BAY STATERS:

CORPORAL FRANK EDGECOMBE OF ATTLEBORO; PRIVATES LAWRENCE DAWL AND NELSON PIKE OF BROCKTON; PFC'S IVAR LYMAN, OSCAR LEVESQUE AND PAUL DUNN, ALSO ALL OF BROCKTON; PVT.RICHARD PERRY AND CORPORAL ANTONE MEDEIROS. BOTH OF DIGHTON; STAFF SERGEANT CHRISTOS DAGULES, PVT. ANGELO VALLANTE, SGT.LOUIS ALBERT, PVT.FRANK DONNELLY, PVT.LEODORE LAMARCHE, PVT.STANLEY SZARKOWSKI, PFC.RENALDO SCHIRIPO, PVT. HUGH QUEENAN, PVT.JOHN JUSCZAK, ALL OF DRACUT; SGT.ANTONE SILVA, STAFF SGT.THOMAS LA BELLE, BOTH OF EDGARTOWN;

AUG 101944

30. 24— 17873

PVT.GEORGE SILVIA, PFC ANTONE DOMINGOS, BOTH OF FALL RIVER; CORPORAL EDMOND PEPIN, HOLYOKE; CORP.WILLIAM BLAISDELL, LOWELL; CORP.IRVING HASSELTINE, SGT.JAMES GARDNER, CORP.GORDON BEDROSIAN, PFC VICTOR CHARIS, PVT.FRED GISSARO, PVT.CLYDE HART, PVT.RAYMOND ROEGER, CORP.KENNETH CRAIG, ALL OF METHUEN; CORP.LEO C.CASAVANT, NEW BEDFORD; PFC DANIEL DUNN, NORTH ADAMS; CORP.WINTHROP PERKINS, PFC WAYMOUTH VAN DEUSEN, BOTH OF PITTSFIELD.

SGT.RUDOLPH BOUCHER, CORP.JOSEPH O'DAY, PVT.AMERICO PERRY AND PVT. ILLIAM VASILAKOPOULOS, ALL OF SALEM.

AUG 101944

HEADQUARTERS, EUROPEAN THEATER OF OPERATIONS-(AP)-(DELAYED)

THANKS TO THE MILITARY POLICE, AMBULANCES CARRYING AMERICAN CASUALTIES FROM THE NORMANDY BATTLEFIELD TO HOSPITALS JUST HAVE TO WATCH THE HIGHWAY AHEAD AND FORGET ABOUT THE CROSS-ROADS.

WHEN WORD REACHES A CERTAIN U.S.GENERAL HOSPITAL THAT MORE WOUNDED ARE COMING IN, THE MP'S, WITH STEEL HELMETS SPEED TO THEIR POSTS. IT'S HIGH PRIORITY FOR THE AMBULANCES.

THE MPS' JOBS END ONLY WHEN THE LAST WOUNDED SOLDIER HAS REACHED THE HOSPITAL--AND THAT MAY BE MANY HOURS LATER.

ONE OF THOSE MP'S, AT THIS PARTICULAR HOSPITAL, IS PRIVATE AMELITO CIUCCI, 19, OF 321 ;f'37'R.I.,

AAFDRREERMBELLWDBKERB

5210AEW

AUG 101944

BY RUTH COWAN

A NORMANDY BEACH-(DELAYED)-(AP)-THIS FRENCH BEACH HAS EQUALLED THE RECORD OF THE ANZIO BEACHHEAD IN ITALY, WHICH IN ITS HEYDAY BECAME THE WORLD'S SIXTH BUSIEST PORT, SAYS COMDR.EDWARD W.WILSON OF PITTSBURGH, PA., EXECUTIVE OFFICER TO CAPT.JAMES E.ARNOLD OF NATICK, MASS., THE BEACH COMMANDER.

CAPTAIN ARNOLD EXPRESSED THE BELIEF THAT IF THE SUPPLIES KEEP COMI- IN AND ALLIED GAINS ARE DECISIVE IN THE CRUCIAL DAYS JUST AHEAD, THE FALL OF GERMANY MAY BE VERY NEAR.

AUG 101944

ARNOLD, FIRST NAVAL OFFICER ASHORE HERE, SERVED AS A MEMBER OF THE MASSACHUSETTS STATE LEGISLATURE FROM 1930 TO 1934, AND WAS WITH THE NAVY IN THE FIRST WORLD WAR. ALTHOUGH WEARY, SHOWING THE STRAIN OF THE INVASION ORDEAL, HE STILL SEEMED VERY CALM--EVEN WHILE TRYING TO GET A BIG REFRIGERATOR GOING, WITHOUT PROPER ELECTRIC CURRENT.

AS WE TALKED, THE SOUND OF CONSTRUCTION ON THE NEW HEADQUARTERS COMPETED WITH THE BARK OF AMERICAN GUNS ENGAGED IN NEARBY BATTLE.

FOR WILSON, THIS WAS THE FIFTH LANDING. AN INVESTMENT BANKER IN PEACE, HE WAS AT BIZERTE, SICILY, SALERNO AND ANZIO. HE WAS A NAVAL LIEUTENANT IN THE LAST WAR.

BOTH ARNOLD--WHO RETURNED TO THE NAVY FROM HIS EXECUTIVE OFFICE AT WORCESTER, MASS., TOOL MANUFACTURING FIRM--AND WILSON ARE MARRIED. O OF ARNOLD'S THREE CHILDREN IS A WAVE.

ARNOLD IS PROUD OF HIS BEACH. WHEN THE AMERICANS STORMED ASHORE, SAID, "THERE WAS A REGULAR CONVENTION OF SHIPS--AMPHIBIOUS CRAFT, LST' LIBERTY SHIPS, CORVETTES--BIG SHIPS AND LITTLE SHIPS, ALL THAT IT TAKE TO BACKSTOP AN INVASION. NOW THE TONNAGE THAT GOES ACROSS THIS PARTICULAR BEACH IN ONE DAY IS HIGHLY SATISFACTORY."

AUG 101944

WILSON ADDED THAT "ANZIO BECAME THE SIXTH PORT IN THE WORLD FROM TH VIEWPOINT OF CARGO HANDLED AND NOW THIS BEACH IS DOING AS WELL."

TODAY FROM THE BEACH HEADQUARTERS IN A WOODEN SHACK AND CANVAS LEAN-TO'S ON THE EDGE OF SAND DUNES AND DUGOUTS, THE MOVEMENT OF ALL CRAFT IS CONTROLLED.

THE BEACH IS AS SMOOTH AS THAT AT DAYTONA, FLA. BULLDOZERS HAVE LEVELED AND COMBED THE BOMB AND SHELL CRATERS TO MAKE ROOM FOR MULTI- LANED TRAFFIC.

K327AEW

BY EDWARD D.BALL

LE MANS, FRANCE, AUG. 9-(AP)-TANK-RIDING AMERICAN DOUGHBOYS ROLLED INTO LE MANS TODAY AND SWIFTLY RODE DOWN THE LAST ENEMY RESISTANCE AFTER WIPING OUT A MILE-LONG COLUMN RUSHING LAST NIGHT TO THE DEFENSE OF THIS IMPORTANT BASTION 110 MILES FROM PARIS.

THE GERMANS BEGAN WITHDRAWING FROM LE MANS, WHICH WAS AN ARMY BASE, MONDAY NIGHT AND AFTER LAST NIGHT'S DEBACLE THE REMAINING DEFENSE FORCES SENT FLYING SQUADS THROUGH THE CITY TOSSING INCENDIARIES AND GRENADES THROUGH DOORS AND WINDOWS IN AN EFFORT TO FIRE THE CITY.

THE ATTEMPT FAILED, HOWEVER, AND WHEN THE AMERICANS PULLED IN THEY FOUND THE DESTRUCTION FAR LESS THAN AT RENNES. GRENADES AND FIREBOMBS HAD CAUSED COMPARATIVELY MINOR DAMAGE TO SOME BUILDINGS AND STOREFRONTS, BUT THE CATHEDRAL WAS UNDAMAGED AND THE RAILWAY STATION APPEARED TO HAVE SUFFERED ONLY SLIGHTLY, ALTHOUGH THE FREIGHT HOUSES WERE DEMOLISHED.

AUG 101944

FA112AEW

BY WES GALLAGHER

FIRST ARMY HEADQUARTERS, FRANCE, 8:30 P.M. AUG. 9-(AP)-AMERICAN TROOPS ARE HAMMERING FORWARD IN THE CENTER OF THE ALLIED FRONT AND HAVE ADVANCED MORE THAN A HALF MILE SOUTH OF ST.GERMAIN-DE-TALLEVENDE 2 1/2 MILES BELOW VIRE.

A POCKET OF RESISTANCE WAS WIPED OUT AT LE-MESNIL-TOVE, SOME FIVE MILES NORTHWEST OF MORTAIN, BUT ELSEWHERE THERE WAS LITTLE CHANGE ALONG THIS FRONT WHERE THE GERMANS THREW IN THEIR HEAVY TANK COUNTER-ASSAULT A FEW DAYS AGO.

THE GERMANS ARE CLINGING GRIMLY TO POSITIONS IN MORTAIN AND THERE IS CONFUSED FIGHTING IN AND AROUND THE CITY.

NOWHERE HAVE THE GERMANS RESUMED THEIR COUNTERATTACK.

JJ348PEW

AUG 101944

BY WILLIAM SMITH WHITE

WITH THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY IN FRANCE, AUG 9-(AP)-IN AN ADVANCE OF MORE THAN FIVE MILES DURING THE NIGHT, TANKS OF THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY BROKE THROUGH AND BEYOND THE STRONG SECOND GERMAN DEFENSE LINE ALONG THE RIGHT SIDE OF THE CANADIAN ATTACK TOWARD FALAISE.

THE CANADIAN FORWARD LINE THUS HAS SMASHED NEARLY 10 MILES IN LESS THAN 36 HOURS OF FIGHTING.

MK308AEW

HUNDREDS OF PRISONERS WERE TAKEN.

AMONG THE TOWNS THAT HAVE FALLEN TO THE CANADIANS ARE GRAINVILLE, BRETTEVILLE-SUR-LAIZE, BRETTEVILLE LE RABET, HAUTEMESNIL, CINTHEAUX AND ROBERTMESNIL.

OUR FORWARD TANKS BLUDGEONED THROUGH A STRONG GERMAN LINE -- THE SECOND TO BE BROKEN AND DEFENSES EVEN MORE BRISTLING THAN THE FIRST LINE -- IN THE AREA NORTHWEST OF POTIGNY.

THE CANADIAN TANK SPEARHEADS STILL ARE ROLLING FORWARD THIS MORNIN WHILE THE ARMORED TAIL AND BULK OF THE FORCE IS FIRMLY ESTABLISHED ON THE LOST GERMAN LINE ITSELF IN THE REGION OF BRETTEVILLE LE RABET.

ADVANCED ELEMENTS ARE ON THE APPROACHES TO FALAISE ITSELF, WITHIN FIVE MILES OR LESS.

A CANADIAN STAFF OFFICER SAID "OUR OBJECT WAS TO BREAK THROUGH TWO GERMAN DEFENSES, AND WE'VE SUCCEEDED ON A LIMITED FRONT IN DOING THIS

THESE TWO DEFENSE BELTS HAVE BEEN TWO OF THE STRONGEST IN ALL NORMAND ON WHICH THE ENEMY HAD BEEN PILING ARMAMENT FOR WEEKS. THE BREAK THROUGH THEM HAS BEEN ACHIEVED PARTIALLY, AND BY-PASSED POCKETS HAVE BEEN CLEANED OUT THOROUGHLY.

AS MANY AS 20 GERMAN PANTHER TANKS HAVE BEEN MET AT A TIME. THREE WERE DESTROYED IN ONE ACTION, BUT THE ENEMY'S TOTAL LOSSES ARE NOT YET TABULATED. CANADIAN TANK CASUALTIES SO FAR WERE DESCRIBED AS LIG

THE CANADIAN STAFF OFFICER, REFERRING TO THE HEAVY SMASH BY U.S. BOMBERS YESTERDAY, DECLARED "WE WOULDN'T BE WHERE WE ARE NOW IF THE AMERICAN BOMBING HADN'T BEEN SUCCESSFUL."

JJ-FD940AEW

AUG 101944

BY ROGER D.GREENE (200)

ON THE ORNE RIVER FRONT, AUG 9-(AP)-FIELD MARSHAL GEN.GUENTHER VON KLUGE AGAIN WAS JOLTED OFF BALANCE TODAY BY THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY'S NEW DRIVE SOUTH OF CAEN AND MOUNTING BRITISH PRESSURE ON THE CENTRAL FRONT IN NORMANDY.

SMASHING AHEAD ANOTHER 6,000 YARDS FOR A TWO-DAY GAIN OF 12,000 YARDS, LT.GEN.H.D.G.CRERAR'S MIXED CANADIAN AND BRITISH FORCES CAPTURED BRETTEVILLE-SUR-LAIZE, HAUTMESNIL, BRETTEVILLE-LE-RABET AND CINTHEAUX.

SIMULTANEOUSLY THE BRITISH SECOND ARMY CRACKED DEEPER INTO VON KLUGE'S CENTRAL DEFENSES ALONG THE LINE FROM VIRE TO THURY-HARCOURT AND CAPTURED LE PLESSIS-GRIMOULT.

THE CANADIAN CAPTURE OF BRETTEVILLE-SUR-LAIZE COUPLED WITH THE BRITISH THRUST EASTWARD ACROSS THE ORNE RIVER IN THE GRIMSBOSQ SECTOR THREATENED TO TRAP SIZEABLE GERMAN FORCES STILL HOLDING OUT IN THE V-SHAPED WEDGE BETWEEN THE ORNE AND LAIZE RIVERS.

TANK-SUPPORTED BRITISH INFANTRY BEAT OFF STRONG NEW GERMAN COUNTERATTACKS SEEKING TO WIPE OUT THE GRIMBOSQ (CQ) BRIDGEHEAD, AND WI THE ARRIVAL OF REINFORCEMENTS THE TOMMIES STRENGTHENED THEIR HOLD ALONG THE EAST BANK OF THE ORNE AND THE FRINGES OF THE GRIMBOSQ FOREST.

TO THE SOUTHWEST THE GERMANS ARE FIGHTING SAVAGELY TO DEFEND HIGH GROUND ALONG THE ORNE RIVER TRIBUTARY BELOW THURY-HARCOURT.

BZ655AEW

WITH THE FIRST CANADIAN ARMY IN FRANCE, AUG. 9-(AP)- THE GERMANS COUNTERATTACKED CANADIAN POSITIONS TONIGHT AT SEVERAL POINTS NORTH OF FALAISE.

THE ATTACK HAD BEEN ANTICIPATED BY THE CANADIANS AND THEY WERE WELL DUG IN ON HILL POSITIONS. CANADIAN ARTILLERY AND MORTARS REPLIED FURIOUSLY TO THE GERMAN FIRE.

AUG 101944

FA918PEW

BY ROGER D.GREENE

ON THE ORNE RIVER FRONT, AUG.9-(AP)-FOUR DRAMATIC STATEMENTS TOLD THE STORY TODAY OF THE BITTER TWO-DAY BATTLE TO ESTABLISH A NEW BRIDGE HEAD ACROSS THE ORNE RIVER EIGHT MILES BELOW CAEN.

AN ENGLISH BRIGADIER SAID: "OUR COMMANDING GENERAL PLAYED THE BOCHE LIKE A SALMON. HE FIRED A LOT OF 'CHINESE ATTACKS,' MAKING A GREAT NOISE DOWN THE RIVER, AND THEN SLIPPED ACROSS WHERE THE GERMANS DID NOT EXPECT US TO CROSS."

A COLONEL AT DIVISIONAL HEADQUARTERS: "THE GERMANS CAME OUT OF THE WOODS UNDER ORDERS TO WIPE US OUT AT ALL COSTS. THESE WRETCHED CHAPS TOTTERED FORWARD AND GOT WHAT THEY ASKED FOR."

A STAFF CAPTAIN: "WE HAD 48 HOURS OF ABSOLUTE HELL, BUT IT WAS A MAGNIFICENT SHOW. NOW THE BOCHE IS ON THE RUN."

A NEWLY CAPTURED GERMAN PRISONER (LITTERAL TRANSLATION): "WE ATTACKED ACROSS CARNAGE. OUR SOLDIERS WERE CUT DOWN LIKE WHEAT."

JJ258PEW

BY FRANKLIN F.BANKER

A U.S.BOMBER BASE AUG 8-(AP)-DARK AS FLYING FORTRESS CREWMEN BRAVED A HAIL OF FLAK AT 14,000 FEET--8,000 FEET BELOW THE AVERAGE BOMBING RUN--TO PLASTER A TOUGH GERMAN ARMORED CONCENTRATION OPPOSING BRITISH AND CANADIAN FORCES SOUTHEAST OF CAEN TODAY.

LT.COL.ROBERT K.SIMERAL OF PIXLEY, CALIF., DEPUTY GROUP COMMANDER, GRIMLY DESCRIBED THE FLAK AS "NOT ONLY HEAVY BUT INTOLERABLE."

THE FORTRESSES, WHICH MADE A BOMBING RUN OF 20 MILES, NORMALLY FLY AT 20,000 TO 25,000 FEET TO OFFSET THE ACCURACY OF THE GERMANS' 88 AND 105 MILLIMETER ANTIAIRCRAFT GUNS.

AUG 101944

TODAY, HOWEVER, THEY DROPPED TO LOWER ALTITUDE TO PINPOINT TACTICAL TARGETS WITH GREATER ACCURACY, DROPPING BIG LOADS OF FRAGMENTATION BOMBS ONLY 100 YARDS IN FRONT OF THE BRITISH-CANADIAN LINE.

CALMLY PUFFING A PIPE, LT.LESLIE COLEN OF 1573 70TH ST., BROOKLYN, N.Y., A FORTRESS NAVIGATOR, SAID THE FLAK WAS WORSE THAN ANY ENCOUNTERED OVER GERMANY.

"AT BERLIN AND MUNICH IT WAS CONCENTRATED," HE SAID. "HERE IT WAS SPREAD ALL OVER."

"YOU'D HEAR BURSTS EVERYWHERE," CHIMED IN LT.BOB TRIMMER OF 8971 214TH ST., QUEENS VILLAGE, N.Y., ANOTHER NAVIGATOR.

AUG 101944

A BOMBARDIER--WHO ASKED THAT HIS NAME BE WITHHELD BECAUSE HIS PARENTS DO NOT KNOW HE IS IN COMBAT--SAID THAT IF THE FOLKS BACK HOME HAD WITNESSED THE OPERATION THEY WOULD "GET OVER ANY IDEA THIS WAR IS OVER."

LT.BOB WALKER OF 235 NORTON AVE., PONTIAC, MICH., A CO-PILOT, SAID HIS SHIP WAS ALMOST HIT BY BOMBS FROM ANOTHER FORTRESS.

"IT WAS THE BIGGEST SCARE I'VE HAD," HE DECLARED. "THE LEAD SHIP OF THE SQUADRON WAS KNOCKED DOWN BY FLAK." HIS WING SPAN CROWDED US OVER JUST AS BOMBS STARTED DROPPING ON US FROM A SQUADRON ABOVE. I GRADUALLY JUMPED OUR SHIP AHEAD."

KK736AEW AUG 101944

ADD MOSCOW - (LUCE) XX FORCE

FOREIGN MISSIONS IN MOSCOW TOOK THE VIEW THAT "GREAT GOOD" HAS ACCOMPLISHED BY MIKOLAJCZYK'S VISIT.

ONE SOURCE SAID "THERE IS NO REASON THAT I KNOW OF NOW TO ABANDON THE RESERVED OPTIMISM WITH WHICH WE'VE BEEN VIEWING THE SITUATION."

THE SOURCE SAID THAT IT WAS PLAIN THE WEIGHT OF THE RESPONSIBILITY OF SETTLING THE QUESTION RESTS UPON MIKOLAJCZYK. AUG 101944

BY DANIEL DE LUCE

MOSCOW, AUG. 9-(AP)-THE RED STORM OF MARSHAL STALIN'S SUMMER OFFENSIVE RENEWED ITS FURY TODAY SPREADING WEST TOWARD THE LATVIAN PORT OF LIEPAJA; SWEEPING NORTHEAST OF WARSAW, AND SHATTERING ENEMY COUNTERATTACKS AGAINST THE VISTULA RIVER BRIDGEHEAD.

ALTHOUGH THE VICTORY GUNS OF MOSCOW WERE SILENT TONIGHT THE RED ARMY SEIZED OVER 700 SETTLEMENTS IN THE DAY'S FIGHTING IN A VIOLENT BATTLE ZONE STRETCHING FROM CENTRAL LATVIA SOUTHWARD TO THE CARPATHIAN HEIGHTS.

THE RUSSIANS, CARVING A GAPING HOLE IN THE GERMAN BALTIC FLANK, OCCUPIED COMMUNICATIONS AROUND AUCE AND FLUNG TANKS AND SUPPORTING BOMBERS IN THE DIRECTION OF LIEPAJA, 70 MILES WEST.

FA0278EW

MARSHAL KONSTANTIN K.ROKOSSOVSKY'S BLASTING ATTACKS EXPLODED A TROUBLESOME GERMAN SALIENT NORTHWEST OF SIEDLCE AND SEEMED TO BE PREPARING FOR OFFENSIVE TO BY-PASS WARSAW AND HEAD FOR EAST PRUSSIA.

THE HARRIED GERMAN COMMAND ALREADY HAS COMMITTED ITS CAREFULLY HOARDED RESERVES OF ARMOR AND INFANTRY IN AN EFFORT TO STEM MARSHAL IVAN CHERNIAKHOVSKY'S BLOWS AGAINST THE EAST PRUSSIAN FRONTIER FROM LITHUANIA TO THE SUWALKI TRIANGLE. AUG 101944

LIEPAJA IS LOCATED 42 MILES NORTH OF THE FRONTIER CLAIMED BY HITLER FOR EAST PRUSSIA. IT AND NEWEL, WHICH ALSO IS MENACED, ARE AMONG THE MOST IMPORTANT PORTS ON THE BALTIC COAST.

RIGA, AN EVEN GREATER PRIZE, WAS THE GOAL OF ANOTHER RUSSIAN COLUMN BATTLING BEYOND NORTHWARD.

ROKOSSOVSKY, HELD AT BAY WITHIN ARTILLERY SHOT OF WARSAW, FIERCELY DEVELOPED A STRATEGIC BULGE WEST OF THE VISTULA ON HIS LEFT FLANK WHILE THE RIGHT FLANK SHOVED THE GERMANS BACK IN A BIG ARC NORTHEAST OF THE POLISH CAPITAL.

OF ALL SECTORS THE BULGE BEYOND THE VISTULA WAS THE NAZIS SELF-ADMITTED GREATEST TERROR ON THE EASTERN FRONT. IT HAS BEEN EATING LIKE ACID INTO THE GERMAN DEFENSES AND EXTENDS PAINFULLY AGAINST GERMAN LATERAL ROAD AND RAIL LINES CONNECTING KRAKOW AND WARSAW.

DESPITE THE BITTEREST RESISTANCE STAGED BY THE GERMANS THUS FAR IN THE SUMMER CAMPAIGN THE RED ARMY HAS REPELLED VIOLENT CHARGES OF PANZER UNITS AND SLOWLY BUT INEXORABLY INCREASED ITS TERRITORY WEST OF THE VISTULA.

HUNDREDS OF TANKS MARKED EITHER WITH THE RED STAR OR THE BLACK CROSS HAVE PLUNGED INTO ACTION WITH THE SUPREMACY OF SOUTHERN POLAND AT STAKE. THE VISTULA BATTLE ROLLS ALONG ON A SEMI-CIRCULAR FRONT OF OVER 50 MILES UNDER THE SHADOW OF SCORES OF RUSSIAN AND GERMAN AIR SQUADRONS.

SOME RED ADVANCE TROOPS ARE A LITTLE MORE THAN 20 MILES FROM VIELCE AND JEDRZEJO, TWIN COMMUNICATIONS POINTS WHOSE CAPTURE WOULD OPEN A GATEWAY INTO GERMAN SILESIA, OUTFLANK KRAKOW AND SHAKE THE ENEMY'S POSITIONS AT WARSAW.

FA1210AEW AUG 101944

ADD ROME - (NORGAARD) XX OFF

ALLIED MEDIUM BOMBERS YESTERDAY ATTACKED RAILWAYS AND BRIDGES IN SOUTHERN FRANCE FOR THE SIXTH TIME IN SEVEN DAYS WHILE EIGHTH AIR FORCE FORTRESSES AND MUSTANGS LANDED IN ITALY AFTER ATTACKING ROMANIAN AIRDROMES ON A SHUTTLE FLIGHT FROM RUSSIA.

THE FORTRESSES AND THEIR ESCORT LEFT BRITAIN SUNDAY UNDER BRIG. GEN.A.W.KISSNER OF MT.VERNON, VA., BOMBED AN AIRCRAFT FACTORY AT GDYNIA, POLAND, AND LANDED IN RUSSIA. THE CREWS FLEW MORE THAN 30 HOURS IN THREE DAYS AND SHOT DOWN EIGHT ENEMY FIGHTERS.

BZ702AEW AUG 101944

ROME, AUG. 9-(AP)-MORE THAN 500 AWARDS, INCLUDING 324 DISTINGUISHED FLYING CROSSES, WERE PINNED ON VETERAN FLIERS OF THE 64TH TROOP CARRIER GROUP OF THE U.S.AIR FORCE TODAY BY MAJ.GEN.JOHN K. CANNON.

AWARDS WERE MADE FOR HEROISM OF THE FLIERS IN CARRYING PARACHUTE TROOPS, SUPPLIES, WOUNDED MEN AND EVERY SORT OF CARGO IN THEIR UNARMED C-47 TRANSPORT PLANES OVER THE BATTLEZONES OF NORTH AFRICA, SICILY AND ITALY AND SIMILAR OPERATIONS IN THE CHINA-BURMA-INDIA THEATER FROM APRIL 7 TO JUNE 15 OF THIS YEAR. THE GROUP ONLY RECENTLY RETURNED HERE.

COL.JOHN CERRY OF HARRISON, IDAHO, GROUP LEADER, RECEIVED AN OAK

LEAF CLUSTER TO HIS D.F.C. HE HAS MADE FLIGHTS TOTALING MORE THAN 500 HOURS.

AUG 10 1944

AMONG OTHERS WHO RECEIVED CLUSTERS TO THE D.F.C. WERE CAPT.HALM SCRUGHAM OF FRANKFORT,KY., AND LT.ELMERY JOST, 2243 EAST AVE., BERWYN, ILL., WHO WERE ATTACKED OVER BURMA APRIL 25 BY A PAIR OF ZEROS.

THEY WERE "HITTING FOR THE DECK" WHEN THEY GOT THE RADIO WARNING AND THE ATTACKERS SWOOPED DOWN ON THEM. TRYING TO TAKE EVASIVE ACTION THEY SWUNG THE C-47 INTO THE PATH OF ONE ZERO. THE JAPANESE PLANE CUT OFF ALL BUT A FOOT AND A HALF OF THE TRANSPORT RUDDER AND THEN CRASHED.

TODAY THE PATCHED TRANSPORT BEARS A TINY JAPANESE FLAG PAINTED BELOW SCRUGHAM'S LOOKOUT IN TOKEN OF ONE OF THE FEW VICTORIES THE DEFENSELESS TROOP CARRIERS EVER SCORED OVER AN ENEMY FIGHTER.

ANOTHER C-47 PILOTED BY LT.BRANDT MCINTYRE OF NASHVILLE,MICH., HAD TO BELLY-LAND IN THE BURMA JUNGLE AFTER IT WAS ATTACKED BY THREE ZEROS. [redacted] BUT EVENTUALLY WORKED THEIR WAY TO SAFETY THROUGH ENEMY TERRITORY.

THE GROUP BROUGHT BRITISH PARACHUTE TROOPS TO FRENCH NORTH AFRICA AT THE OPENING OF THE CAMPAIGN THERE, PARTICIPATED IN THE E EVACUATION OF HUNDREDS OF WOUNDED FROM THE TUNISIAN BATTLEFIELDS AND DROPPED AMERICAN PARACHUTE TROOPS ON SICILY AND ITALY.

AUG 10 1944

RG100PAEW

ROME AUG 9-(AP)-BRINGING HOME BOMBERS SHOT FULL OF HOLES HAS BECOME A HABIT FOR LT.HAROLD L.INNOFF OF HANNIBAL, MO., A LIBERATOR PILOT, WHOSE WIFE, MRS.HAZEL INNOFF, LIVES AT 3981 HENLO AVENUE, LOS ANGELES, CALIF.

THE U.S.15TH AIR FORCE DISCLOSED TODAY THAT INNOFF MANAGED TO BRING BACK A LIBERATOR FROM HIS 48TH COMBAT MISSION AND LAND IT ON A FRIENDLY FIELD EVEN THOUGH TWO ENGINES WERE SHOT OUT. THE PLANE HAD 52 HOLES IN IT BUT NONE OF THE CREW WAS WOUNDED.

THE DAMAGE SUSTAINED BY THE PLANE HE WAS PILOTING WAS ALMOST AS GREAT ON HIS 49TH AND 50TH MISSIONS, BUT AGAIN ALMOST MIRACULOUSLY NONE OF THE CREW WAS HURT.

INNOFF, WHO FORMERLY WAS AN INSPECTOR IN THE DOUGLAS AIRCRAFT PLANT AT SANTA MONICA, CALIF., IS CREDITED WITH HAVING ENCOUNTERED EVERY TYPE OF GERMAN FIGHTER PLANE. HIS COMMENT: "THE GERMANS ARE STILL RATED THE WORLD'S TOP NOTCH FIGHTERS IN MY BOOKS."

AUG 10 1944

BY GEORGE BRIA

ROME, AUG.9-(AP)-THE ITALIAN COMMUNIST AND SOCIALIST PARTIES HAVE ADOPTED A [redacted] PROGRAM AIMED PRIMARILY AT FORMATION OF A UNIFIED BLOC AGAINST WHAT THEY DESCRIBED AS "INCREASING RESISTANCE" ON THE PART OF CONSERVATIVE ELEMENTS THEY HOLD RESPONSIBLE FOR A FASCISM, A JOINT ANNOUNCEMENT SAID TODAY.

THE STATEMENT SAID THAT THE TWO PARTIES, WHILE RETAINING THEIR INDIVIDUAL CHARACTERISTICS, HAD AGREED ON THESE OBJECTI SPEEDY APPLICATION OF THE FASCIST PURGE LAW, GREATER PARTICIPATION IN THE WAR AGAINST THE GERMANS, THE "URGENT NECESSITY" OF HOUSE CLEANING LOCAL ADMINISTRATIONS, MEASURES FOR RELIEF AND REHABILITATION.

AUG 10 1944

"THE TWO PARTIES BELIEVE THAT THE WORKING CLASSES THEY REPRESENT AND WHICH ARE THE MOST CONSISTENTLY DEMOCRATIC ANTI-FASCIST FORCE HAVE AN XXRX IMPERATIVE DUTY TO CONSOLIDATE FOR UNITY OF POLITICAL ACTION," THE JOINT COMMUNIQUE SAID. "THIS WILL PERMIT THEM NOT ONLY TO FIGHT A WAR FOR DESTRUCTION OF FASCISM TO THE END BUT ALSO TO UNITE IN THE STRUGGLE ALL MANUAL WORKERS AND INTELLECTUALS AND TO ISOLATE, UNMASK AND DEFEAT THE REACTIONARY, PLUTOCRATIC AND IMPERIALISTIC FORCES.

AUG 101944

THERE WAS SOME BELIEF THAT THIS JOINT ACTION WAS A MANEUVER ON THE PART OF THE XX EXTREME LEFTIST PARTIES TO GAIN XXXXXXX STRENGTH FROM THE CHRISTIAN DEMOCRATS, A THIRD WORKERS PARTY.XXXXXX

THE COMMUNIQUE SAID, HOWEVER, IT WAS HOPED THE CHRISTIAN DEMOCRATS WOULD BACK THE COMMUNIST-SOCIALIST PROGRAM.

AUG 101944

-RC BRIAS THRU SECOND 1030 RPS 655A

VATICAN CITY, AUG. 9-(AP)-THE VATICAN NEWS SERVICE SAID TODAY RECENT PUBLICATION OF A STORY THAT AN AMERICAN SOLDIER HAD SENT PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT A PAPER-KNIFE MADE FROM THE ARM BONE OF A JAPANE SOLDIER KILLED IN THE PACIFIC HAD RESULTED IN A REPROACH FROM THE CATHOLIC ARCHBISHOP OF TOKYO, WHO ASKED "RESPECT FOR THE LAWS OF HUMANITY EVEN IN TOTAL WAR."

ANKARA--FIRST ADD BULGARIAN X X X IN BULGARIA.

LATE INFORMATION AVAILABLE HERE INDICATED ROMANIA ALSO MIGHT BE TAKING STEPS TOWARD SURRENDER. ANY ROMANIAN MOVE, HOWEVER, WAS SAID TO HINGE PRIMARILY ON THE TERMS OF A RUSSIAN-FINNISH ARMISTICE THAT MAY COME SOON. IF THE RUSSIAN CONDITIONS FOR FINLAND ARE MODERATE IT IS EXPECTED THAT A NEW ROMANIAN GOVERNMENT WILL BE FORMED AND MOSCOW WILL BE ASKED FOR AN ARMISTICE.

AS FOR BULGARIA, IT IS BELIEVED HERE THAT THE ALLIES ARE DEMANDING THAT THE BULGARIANS OUST GERMAN ARMED UNITS FROM THE COUNTRY BEFORE AGREEING TO AN ARMISTICE. (O'BRIEN)

A TRAVELER FROM BULGARIA SAID IVAN BAGRIANOV, PREMIER OF THE PUPPET GOVERNMENT IN SOFIA, WAS "DETERMINED TO GET THE GERMANS OUT. THE GERMANS WILL EITHER AGREE TO GET OUT BY THE END OF AUGUST OR BULGARIA WILL CHASE THEM OUT."

THIS TRAVELER SAID THERE WAS LESS THAN ONE GERMAN DIVISION NOW IN BULGARIA AND IT IS WIDELY SCATTERED.

FA115AEW

NEW YORK, AUG. 9-(AP)-THE BERLIN RADIO SAID TODAY THAT FRANZ VON PAPEN, FORMER GERMAN AMBASSADOR TO TURKEY, HAD ARRIVED IN GERMANY FROM ANKARA, FOLLOWING TURKEY'S SEVERING OF RELATIONS WITH THE REICH.

THE BROADCAST SAID VON PAPEN WOULD REPORT "IMMEDIATELY" TO FOREIGN MINISTER JOACHIM VON RIBBENTROP.

VON PAPEN, THE BROADCAST SAID, WAS ABROAD THE FIRST SPECIAL TRAIN RETURNING GERMAN NATIONALS TO THE REICH FROM TURKEY.

(A REPORT FROM ISTANBUL SAID A CLOSE PERSONAL FRIEND OF VON PAPEN'S IN TURKEY HAD RECEIVED WORD THAT THE FORMER AMBASSADOR HAD BEEN ARRESTED IMMEDIATELY AFTER HE ENTERED THE REICH. THE INFORMANT, AN OFFICIAL OF AN INTERNATIONAL BANK, HAD NO DETAILS OF VON PAPEN'S ARREST.)

FA1056PEW

ISTANBUL, AUG 9-(AP)-FRANZ VON PANEN, FORMER GERMAN AMBASSADOR TO TURKEY, WAS ARRESTED AS SOON AS HE ENTERED GERMANY YESTERDAY ON HIS RETURN FROM ANKARA, AN OFFICIAL OF AN INTERNATIONAL BANK HERE REPORTED LAST NIGHT. THE BANK OFFICIAL, A PERSONAL FRIEND OF VON PAPEN, RECEIVED NO DETAILS OF THE ARREST.

M519AEW

AUG 101944

ADD CHUNGKING X X ATTACKS

GOVERNMENT SPOKESMAN P.H.CHANG TODAY AFFIRMED CHINA'S DETERMINATION TO FRUSTRATE JAPANESE PLANS TO CONQUER THE WHOLE CANTON-HANKOW RAILWAY AND ASSERTED THE LONG, HEROIC DEFENSE OF HENGYANG, WHICH HALTED THE ENEMY'S ADVANCE IN HUNAN PROVINCE, HAD ALMOST DESTROYED ITS PRESENT STRATEGIC IMPORTANCE.

A FIRM HOLD ON THE REST OF THE CANTON-HANKOW RAILWAY WOULD COMPLETE JAPANESE CONTROL OF A 1,000 MILE STRIP ACROSS CHINA, GIVING THEM AN OVERLAND RAIL ROUTE FROM PEIPING IN THE NORTH TO CANTON.

CHUNGKING, AUG.9-(AP)-CHINESE TROOPS IN WESTERN YUNNAN PROVINCE HAVE DRIVEN THE JAPANESE FROM ALL BUT THREE POSITIONS ON SUNGSHAN MOUNTAIN, WHOSE FALL WOULD CLEAR THE BURMA ROAD FROM THE NEARBY SALWEEN RIVER TO LUNGLING, 25 MILES TO THE SOUTHWEST, A CHINESE COMMUNIQUE SAID TODAY.

THE JAPANESE ARE BATTLING DESPERATELY, THE BULLETIN ADDED.

AT BESIEGED TENGCHUNG, MAIN JAPANESE STRONGHOLD IN WESTERN YUNNAN, THE CHINESE SAID THEIR TROOPS ATTACKING FROM THE NORTHWEST HAD CAPTURED SEVERAL ENEMY PILLBOXES AND WON POSITIONS ON THE RAMPARTS OF THE ANCIENT WALL AROUND THE CITY.

OTHER CHINESE TROOPS WHICH PREVIOUSLY HAD BREACHED THE WALL TO THE SOUTHWEST WERE REPORTED HOLDING THEIR POSITIONS AGAINST FIERCE COUNTER-ATTACKS.

THE U.S. 14TH AIR FORCE CONTINUES TO POUND THE WALLS AND PILLBOXES INSIDE THE CITY, THE COMMUNIQUE SAID.

JJ825AEW

AUG 101944

HEADQUARTERS U.S. 14TH AIR FORCE IN CHINA, AUG. 9-(AP)-A GROUP OF AMERICAN GENERALS HEADED BY LT.GEN.BARNEY M.GILES, CHIEF OF THE AIR STAFF UNDER GEN.H.H.ARNOLD, COMPLETED A THREE-DAY TOUR OF CHINA AIR BASES JULY 31, STUDYING REQUIREMENTS OF THIS THEATER, IT MAY NOW BE DISCLOSED.

AIR TRANSPORT OF SUPPLIES OVER "THE HUMP" FROM INDIA IS NEAR THE SATURATION POINT, GILES SAID, BUT HE ADDED THAT SOME INCREASE IN THE FLOW COULD BE EXPECTED WHEN THE NORTH BURMA CAMPAIGN MAKES POSSIBLE THE USE OF AN EASIER AIR ROUTE.

HE SAID USE OF B-29 SUPERFORTRESSES AGAINST JAPAN'S WAR INDUSTRIES WAS BOUND TO BE FELT IN OTHER SECTORS BY FORCING A REALIGNMENT OF JAPANESE FIGHTER STRENGTH.

BESIDES GILES THE PARTY INCLUDED MAJ.GENS.W.D.STYER, CLAYTON L. BISSELL, JOHN E.HULL AND FRANK O'D.HUNTER, AND BRIG.GEN.O.L.NELSON, JR.

JJ1007AEW

BY CLYDE A.FARNSWORTH

AUG 10 1944

WITH A "Y" FORCE LIAISON GROUP BEFORE TENGCHUNG, AUG. 7-(DELAYED)-(AP)-WE ARE HERE WITNESSING THE FUTILE HARA KIRI-MINDED DEFENSE OF ONE OF THE FEW REMAINING JAPANESE BULWARKS AGAINST REOPENING THE NORTHERN BURMA ROUTE TO CHINA.

WITHIN RIFLE-SHOT RANGE FROM WHERE THIS IS BEING WRITTEN, CHINESE TROOPS ARE PREPARING ANOTHER ASSAULT ON THE WALLED DEFENSES OF TENGCHUNG, THIS PRINCIPAL BASTION OF THE JAPANESE IN YUNNAN PROVINCE. THIS DRIVE MAY BRING THE BREAKTHROUGH, OR MAY MEAN ANOTHER MASSACRE OF THE DEFENDERS, WHO HAVE NO CHOICE BUT DEATH OR CAPTURE.

TENGCHUNG HAS BEEN ENCIRCLED CLOSELY FOR ABOUT A WEEK, BUT THE DEFENDERS--PROBABLY NOT MORE THAN A FEW HUNDRED--HAVE BEEN ORDERED TO SELL THEMSELVES AS DEARLY AS POSSIBLE. THE CHINESE HAVE OFFERED THEM THE CHANCE TO SURRENDER, BUT THE JAPANESE IGNORED THE LEAFLETS DROPPED ON THEM BY PLANE.

SLOWLY THE CHINESE AND THE 14TH U.S. AIR FORCE HAVE BEEN REDUCING THE RESISTANCE AT TENGCHUNG. YESTERDAY THIS WRITER SAW P-38S AND P-40S BOMB AND STRAFE THE DUG-IN POSITIONS FROM WHICH THE JAPANESE CONTROL THE CITY.

AUG 10 1944

THE HIGH GRANITE BLOCK WALL WHICH ENCLOSES MOST OF TENGCHUNG HAS BEEN BREACHED IN SEVERAL PLACES BY BOMBING, BUT EVERY BRAVE CHINESE ATTEMPT TO EXPLOIT THE BREACHES HAS BEEN MET WITH FRIGHTFUL MACHINEGUN FIRE FROM THE DEEP STONE AND TIMBER PILLBOXES.

THE CHINESE HAVE THE DOMINATING POSITIONS OUTSIDE THE CITY FOR THEIR 75 MM. MOUNTAIN GUNS, BUT EVEN THESE CANNOT ROUT OUT THE JAPANESE STRONGPOINTS WHICH ARE EMBEDDED IN THE CITY WALLS, OR ARE FLUSH-SET IN THE GROUND, GOING TO A DEPTH OF TEN OR 20 FEET.

I AM WITH A DIVISION WHICH HAS BEEN MAKING MOST OF THE ATTACKS ON THE WALL. THESE CHINESE ARE DUG IN CLOSE TO THE WALL BEHIND BARBED WIRE.

AUG 10 1944

THERE IS NO QUESTION OF THE BRAVERY OF THE CHINESE ASSAULTS BUT IT SEEMS THAT ONLY COORDINATED ATTACKS FROM ALL POSSIBLE SECTORS CAN TAKE TENGCHUNG, UNLESS THE DEFENDERS YIELD TO ATTRITION OR HUNGER IN A LONG-TERM SIEGE.

FLAME-THROWERS WOULD BE THE REAL WEAPONS OF THIS OPERATION IF THE CHINESE COULD CROSS THE FIELD AND FIRE FROM INTO THE FACE OF THE CITY WALL.

LAST NIGHT THIS CORRESPONDENT SLEPT WITH THE Y-FORCE MEN--AMERICANS WHO HAVE TRAINED AND EQUIPPED THESE CHINESE FOR THEIR SLUGGING SALWEEN RIVER OFFENSIVE--IN A LOFT OF A WELL-TO-DO CHINESE HOME, SITUATED IN A VILLAGE NEAR TENGCHUNG.

AUG 10 1944

A DRENCHING MONSOON RAIN FELL, BUT ABOVE ITS NOISE WE HEARD PLAINLY THE MORTAR FIRE AND THE OCCASIONAL STUTTER OF MACHINEGUNS.

I WAS A GUEST OF LT.COL. FREDERICK B.RAY, OF 60 FRANKLIN AVE., HASBROUCK HEIGHTS, N.J., WHO HEADS THIS Y-FORCE LIAISON PARTY WITH ONE OF THE BESIEGING CHINESE DIVISIONS. I REACHED HIS HEADQUARTERS AFTER A LONG HIKE THROUGH THE RAIN FROM THE IMPROMPTU LANDING STRIP FOR LIGHT PLANES ON A MOUNTAIN TOP.

WE FLEW OVER TENGCHUNG IN A LIAISON PLANE EN ROUTE TO THE STRIP, PILOTED BY STAFF SGT.DAVID F.MUIR, WHOSE WIFE WORKS FOR THE WAR PRODUCTION BOARD IN BIRMINGHAM, ALA. THE PLANE BORE HIS WIFE'S NAME, NITA, ON THE NOSE.

DY910PEW

AUG 101944

AUG 101944

ADD WITH 6TH ARMY, N.G. (DAVIS) XX ATTENTION

WHEN THE PRISONERS WALKED INTO THE AMERICAN STOCKADE THEY HAD A MOMENT OF FRIGHT. THEY SAW SOLDIERS DIGGING FOXHOLES NEARBY AND ASSUMED THEY WERE GRAVES. SOME DROPPED TO THEIR KNEES IN AN ATTITUDE OF PRAYER. OTHERS BEGGED THAT THEY BE SPARED. AMERICAN OFFICERS REASSURED THEM NO HARM WOULD BEFALL THEM.

A CHINESE BOY WAS AMONG OTHER PRISONERS TAKEN NEAR SANSAPOR. HE HAD BEEN CAPTURED IN BURMA. WITHIN AN HOUR OF HIS ARRIVAL AT THE AMERICAN CAMP HE BECAME A FAVORITE. DOUGHBOYS CLOTHED AND FED HIM, AND CALLED HIM JOE.

WW501APW NM

U.S.PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, PEARL HARBOR,AUG.9-(AP)-VF-50 FIGHTER PILOTS, OPERATING FROM AN INDEPENDENCE-CLASS CARRIER IN TASKED TASK FORCE 58, SHOT DOWN 59 JAPANESE PLANES -- AND ACQUIRED FIVE NEW ACES -- DURING THE FIRST THREE WEEKS OF THE MARIANAS CAMPAIGN.-

AUG 101944

THAT'S ONE OF THE BEST RECORDS EVER MADE IN A SHORT COMBAT PERIOD BY THE FIGHTER SQUADRON OF A MEDIUM-SIZED CARRIER, THE NAVY ANNOUNCED TODAY.

WHEN THE JAPANESE ATTACKED TASK FORCE 58 WEST OF GUAM ON JUNE 19, VF-50 -- POPULARLY KNOWN AS FIGHTING FIFTY -- SHOT DOWN 12 PLANES. MORE THAN 400 JAPANESE PLANES WERE DESTROYED THAT DAY, THE LARGEST AIR TOLL EVER EXACTED IN A SINGLE NAVAL ACTION.

TEN HELLCATS OF VF-50 CARRIED BOMBS IN A RETALIATORY ATTACK UPON THE JAPANESE FLEET JUNE 20. PROBABLE HITS WERE SCORED ON A CARRIER AND CRUISER.

FIGHTING FIFTY'S BIGGEST DAY WAS AT IWO JIMA, 600 MILES FROM TOKYO, WHERE IT DESTROYED 17 JAPAANESE PLANES.

LT.CMDR.JOHN C.STRANGE, MERIDAN,MISS., NOW ON AN ADMIRAL'S STAFF, COMMANDED THE SQUADRON DURING THE SAIPAN CAMPAIGN. HE HAS TWO ZEROS AND THREE BOMBERS TO HIS CREDIT.

AUG 101944

THE SQUADRON'S OTHER ACES INCLUDE;

LT.BRUCE H.BARACHMAN, 570 PARK AVENUE, MEADVILLE,PENN.,, FOUR FIGHTERS, ONE BOMBER; LT.(JG) DAN R.RENN,JR., 9934 VICKSBURG STREET, NEW ORLEANS, SIX ZEROS, AND ENS.WILLIAM A.MCCORMICK,JR., 902 ALDINE AVENUE, CHICAGO, FOUR FIGHTERS, ONE BOMBER.

VF-50'S NEW COMMANDING OFFICER IS LT.LAWRENCE W.ABBOTT,JR., 2218 ZENITH AVENUE SOUTH, MINNEAPOLIS. LT.WALTER E.LAKE, 4217 EIGHTH STREET, N.W., WASHINGTON,D.C., WHO BOMBED A JAPANESE CARRIER JUNE 20, IS EXECUTIVE OFFICER.

FJ418ACW

BY STAFF SERGEANT DICK GORDON OF ST.PAUL, MINN., A MARINE CORPS COMBAT CORRESPONDENT, FORMERLY OF THE CHICAGO DAILY NEWS.

GUAM--(DELAYED)--(AP)-FIVE FORMER COLLEGE FOOTBALL STARS WERE FELLOW MEMBERS OF A MARINE ASSAULT UNIT OF THE FIRST PROVISIONAL BRIGADE WHICH MADE THE LANDING ON THIS ENEMY-HELD ISLAND.

AUG 101944

AMONG THEM WERE FIRST LIEUTENANT DANIEL J. MCFADDEN, OF 40 CHOATE ROAD, BELMONT, MASS., AND SECOND LIEUTENANT JOHN V. ROBINSON, OF 233 SYCAMORE ROAD, LEXINGTON, TEX. THE FORMER PLAYED END AT BOSTON COLLEGE AND THE LATTER WAS QUARTERBACK FOR KENTUCKY UNIVERSITY WHEN THOSE ELEVENS MET IN 1937. B.C. WON, 6-0.

FIRST LIEUTENANT RICHARD M.PHUHL, OF 1408 RANKIN DRIVE, RICHMOND

HEIGHTS, MO., LED AN EARLY WAVE ASHORE WITH THE SAME FIRE AND COURAGE HE USED TO SHOW AT RIGHT HALF FOR THE UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI AND ST.LOUIS UNIVERSITY. FIRST LIEUTENANT PHUHL HAD AN OFFER TO PLAY PRO FOOTBALL IN THE NATIONAL LEAGUE SHORTLY BEFORE HE ENLISTED IN THE MARINE CORPS EARLY IN 1942.

AUG 10 1944

TWO OTHER EX-GRID HEROES WHO SAW PLENTY OF ACTION WERE FIRST LIEUTENANT DONALD E. MILLER, OF 116 EAST FIRST STREET, DIXON, ILL., FORMER FULLBACK FOR THE UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN AND THE GREEN BAY PACKERS, AND FIRST LIEUTENANT WILLIAM L. O'BRIEN, OF 221 HIGHLAND STREET, NEW HAVEN, CONN., WHO PLAYED WITH JOHN CARROLL UNIVERSITY OF CLEVELAND, O., IN THE EARLY 1930'S.

MASSAFW

A CHAMORRO REFUGEE CAMP, GUAM,AUG.3-(DELAYED)-(AP)-THE INHABITANTS OF GUAM NEVER GAVE UP HOPE THAT THE AMERICANS WOULD RETURN TO THIS ISLAND.

ONE OF THE REASONS THE JAPANESE CLOSED THE CHURCHES WAS BECAUSE THE NATIVES INSISTED ON PRAYING FOR THE AMERICANS TO RETURN, SAID GAILY A.KAMMINGA, COMMISSIONER OF PITI TOWN.

KAMMINGA, WHOSE FATHER CAME FROM HOLLAND, LAUGHED AS HE TOLD HOW THE JAPANESE LOOKED THROUGH HIS HOUSE FOR AN AMERICAN FLAG. THEY THREW A PILLOW FROM SIDE TO SIDE WITHOUT DISCOVERING THE FLAG SEWED INSIDE. THAT WAS THE WORK OF HIS NIECE, JUANA, A DRESSMAKER WHO SAID SHE HAD TO CUT DOWN AMERICAN MARINES SHIRTS TO FIT THE NIPPONESE.

MRS.ANNA UNDERWOOD, WHOSE HUSBAND WAS POSTMASTER OF GUAM FROM 915 UNTIL THE JAPANESE SEIZED THE ISLAND DEC.10, 1941, RELATED THAT THE NIPPONESE DECLARED LESS THAN A WEEK AGO THAT THE AMERICANS COULD NEVER RETAKE GUAM. JAPAN HAD WANTED THE ISLAND FOR 35 YEARS AND WOULDN'T LET IT GO, SHE QUOTED JAPANESE AS SAYING.

UNDERWOOD WAS INTERNED WHEN THE ENEMY OVERRAN GUAM.

FRANCISCO GUERRERO, FORMER ORDNANCE CLERK FOR THE U.S. MARINES, SAID THAT "DEEP IN THE HEARTS OF ALL OF US WAS THE HOPE, THAT THE AMERICANS WOULD COME BACK. THAT HOPE KEPT US ALIVE."

FJ750ACW NM

AUG 10 1944

BUENOS AIRES, AUG 9-(AP)-THE ARGENTINE GOVERNMENT TODAY LIFTED SUSPENSION OF VARIOUS ARGENTINE PUBLICATIONS.

THE DECREE OF RELEASE APPLIED TO ALL PUBLICATIONS EXCEPT THOSE PENALIZED FOR "DIFFUSING SOCIAL THEORIES CONTRARY TO OUR INSTITUTIONAL ORGANIZATION" AND THOSE "SUSPENDED OR CLOSED AS THE RESULT OF JUDICIAL PROCEEDINGS," IT WAS ANNOUNCED.

THE PRESS INFORMATION UNDER-SECRETARIAT SAID THE DECREE, SIGNED BY PRESIDENT EDELMIRO FARRELL AND INTERIOR MINISTER TEISARE, WAS ISSUED IN CONFORMITY WITH THE RECENT ANNOUNCEMENT THAT PRESS CENSORSHIP HAD BEEN ABOLISHED. IT LIFTED SUSPENSIONS WHETHER IMPOSED BY NATIONAL AUTHORITIES OR SUBORDINATE OFFICIALS THROUGHOUT THE NATION.

"UNDER PRESENT CONDITIONS," THE DECREE SAID, "THE GOVERNMENT HAS COMPLETE FAITH THAT ARGENTINE JOURNALISM IS FULFILLING ITS HONORABLE ROLE AND WOULD NEVER CONSPIRE AGAINST PUBLIC TRANQUILLITY AND THE NATION'S BEST INTERESTS BY EXAGGERATING OR DISTORTING FACTS IN THEIR REPORTS. IT CAN BE EXPECTED THAT THE PRESS WILL CONTRIBUTE TO THE BEST SOLUTION OF PROBLEMS FACING THE PUBLIC, FOR THE COMMON GOOD OF GOVERNMENT AND PEOPLE."

BZ148AEW

AUG 10 1944

BUENOS AIRES, AUG 9-(AP)-MINISTER OF AGRICULTURE DIEGO MASON TODAY ANNOUNCED THE CREATION OF A CORPORATION FOR PRODUCTION OF RUBBER YIELDING PLANTS AND ESTIMATED ARGENTINA WOULD BE ABLE TO SUPPLY HER OWN RUBBER NEEDS WITHIN FOUR OR FIVE YEARS.

HE SAID EXPERIMENTS HAD PROVED THE PRACTICABILITY OF GROWING THE PLANTS OVER A LARGE AREA IN NORTHWESTERN ARGENTINA.

COINCIDENT WITH CREATION OF THE NEW CORPORATION, THE GOVERNMENT DECLARED ALL RUBBER PRODUCING PLANTS SUBJECT TO EXPROPRIATION, AND PROHIBITED EXPORTATION OF THE PLANTS OR SEEDS.

ARGENTINA HAS BEEN FORCED TO ADOPT STRINGENT MEASURES TO CONSERVE ITS DWINDLING RUBBER STOCKPILE IN VIEW OF THE COUNTRY'S INABILITY TO IMPORT MORE THAN 250 TONS ANNUALLY FROM BOLIVIA--LESS THAN A MONTH' PEACETIME CONSUMPTION.

BZ153AEW

A161 (110)

BOGOTA, COLOMBIA, AUG 9-(AP)-REGULATIONS FOR THE COLOMBIAN PRESS WERE DECREED TODAY BY THE GOVERNMENT, WHICH DECLARED THE PRESS TO BE FREE BUT SAID THAT A CODE WAS NECESSARY BECAUSE OF WARTIME CONDITIONS.

THE MEASURE FORBADE NEWSPAPERS TO RECEIVE FOREIGN SUBSIDIES AND MADE VIOLATIONS SUBJECT TO FINES RANGING FROM 500 TO 2,000 PESOS ($285 TO $1,140).

SIMILAR PENALTIES WERE PROVIDED FOR PUBLICATION OF COLOMBIAN DIPLOMATIC NEGOTIATIONS WITHOUT PERMISSION OF THE FOREIGN MINISTRY, OR FOR "INSULTS" TO THE CHIEFS OF FRIENDLY GOVERNMENTS OR DIPLOMATS.

THE DECREE SAID THAT THE PRESS COULD CRITICISE THE GOVERNMENT AT WILL "WITHIN THE LIMITS OF HONOR AND SOCIAL OORDER."

BZ151AEW

rio de janiero, aug. 9--(ap)-- newspapers here headlined this afternoon a dispatch from the brazilian port of recife quoting admiral soares dutra, commander of the naval forces of the northeast, as saying that the united states will deliver at least 15 more warships to brazil the navy in addition to the escort destroyers already transferred.

AUG 10 1944

" the program of transfers involved units of varied tonnage including heavier ships such as cruisers," dutra was quoted as saying.

AUG 101944

diehls 01203/kin/ 613p

ADD MONTREAL - (MONTGOMERY) xx RETURNS

ALTHOUGH THE FRENCH VOTERS EXPRESSED THEIR TRADITIONAL INDEPENDENCE OF OTTAW, THEY STRUCK A SURPRISINGLY HEAVY BLOW AGAINST THE NEWLY-FORMED BLOC POPULAIRE, ULTRA-NATIONALISTIC PROPONENTS OF "CANADA FOR CANADIANS." THE BLOC ENTERED 80 CANDIDATES, AND ELECTED ONLY FOUR.

THE ELECTION WAS REGARDED AS A TYPICALLY FRENCH-CANADIAN ASSERTION OF INDEPENDENCE OF THE REST OF CANADA, BUT AS UNLIKELY TO AFFECT QUEBEC'S ALREADY GREAT PARTICIPATION IN THE WAR EFFORT. THE RESOUNDING DEFEAT OF THE ULTRA-NATIONALISTS, WHO PREACHED ANTI-IMPERIALISM AND CONDUCTED THEIR CAMPAIGN ALONG RACIAL LINES, SEEMED TO INDICATE PLAINLY THAT FRENCH CANADA STILL REGARDS ITSELF AS A MEMBER OF THE DOMINION FAMILY, HOWEVER, DIFFERENT IT MAY BE.

THE VOTE WAS VIEWED IN MANY QUARTERS AS HAVING BEEN A TYPICAL BALLOT "AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT" RATHER THAN ONE FOR THE UNION NATIONALE, WHOSE LEADERS STRESSED ATTACKS ON THE LIBERALS RATHER THAN OFFERING A DETAILED PROGRAM OF THEIR OWN.

THE COOPERATIVE COMMONWEALTH FEDERATION, ENTERING 24 CANDIDATES IN ITS FIRST VENTURE INTO QUEBEC, ELECTED ONLY ONE AND WAS REGARDED AS HAVING FARED BADLY.

AUG 10 1944

EDMONTON, ALTA., AUG 9-(AP)-THE PROVINCE OF ALBERTA'S SOCIAL CREDIT GOVERNMENT AND ALL NINE MEMBERS OF ITS CABINET WERE RETURNED TO OFFICE IN TUESDAY'S VOTING, RETURNS SHOWED TODAY.

THE SOCIAL CREDITERS, LED BY PREMIER E.C. MANNING, CAMPAIGNED ON THE ASSURANCE THEY WOULD CONTINUE THEIR DRIVE FOR MONEY REFORM STARTED IN THIS PROVINCE BY THE LATE PREMIER WILLIAM ABERHART, WHO LED THEM TO VICTORY IN 1935.

THE STILL INCOMPLETE COUNT INDICATED THE SOCIAL CREDIT MAJORITY IN THE NEXT LEGISLATURE WOULD BE GREATER THAN IN 1940, WHEN THE PARTY ELECTED 36 MEMBERS COMPARED WITH 19 FOR THE NEXT STRONGEST PARTY, THE INDEPENDENTS.

M526AEW

NEW YORK, AUG 9-(AP)-THE BRITISH RADIO SAID TODAY THAT THE SWIFT AMERICAN ADVANCE IN BRITTANY "WILL PROBABLY COST THE GERMANS MORE THAN 70 U-BOATS STATIONED IN LORIENT, BREST AND ST. NAZAIRE."

THE BROADCAST, RECORDED BY THE OFFICE OF WAR INFORMATION, SAID THAT IF SOME OF THE SUBMARINES SHOULD SUCCEED IN BREAKING THROUGH THE ALLIED BLOCKADE "THEY COULD ONLY ESCAPE TO BORDEAUX, AND SWISS SOURCES REPORT THE EVACUATION OF BORDEAUX."

M512AEW

NEW YORK, AUG 9-(AP)-AN ABSIE (AMERICAN BROADCASTING STATION IN EUROPE) BROADCAST MONITORED BY CBS TONIGHT SAID THE GERMAN HIGH COMMAND "HAS SENT 16 DIVISIONS FROM NORWAY, ITALY, YUGOSLAVIA, HUNGARY AND THE REICH ITSELF TO THE EASTERN FRONT."

THE BROADCAST ADDED THAT ACCORDING TO REPORTS FROM MOSCOW SIX GERMAN DIVISIONS WERE "DESPERATELY TRYING TO BREAK OUT TOWARDS EAST PRUSSIA" FROM THE BALTIC SECTOR WHERE THEY ARE CUT OFF. IT QUOTED A NAZI COMMENTATOR AS SAYING THAT NEW OFFICERS HAD TAKEN OVER THE EAST FRONT STRATEGY.

BZ157AEW

AUG 101944

NEW YORK, AUG 9-(AP)-THE BRITISH RADIO SAID TONIGHT THAT BOTH THE COUNSELOR AND THE SECRETARY OF THE ROMANIAN LEGATION AT THE VATICAN HAVE RESIGNED, REFUSING TO SERVE ANY LONGER UNDER THE GOVERNMENT OF MARSHAL ION ANTONESCU. THE BROADCAST, BEAMED TO EUROPE, WAS MONITORED BY THE NATIONAL BROADCASTING SYSTEM.

BZ159AEW

NEW YORK, AUG 9-(AP)-A STENOGRAPHIC REPORT OF THE FASCIST WAR COUNC MEETING THAT PLANNED THE ITALIAN INVASION OF GREECE IN 1940 DISCLOSED HOW BENITO MUSSOLINI AND HIS AIDES PLOTTED AN "INCIDENT" AS "JUSTIFICATION" FOR THE ATTACK, THE OFFICE OF WAR INFORMATION REPORTED TODAY.

THE TRANSCRIPT WAS PUBLISHED JULY 13 IN THE ROME NEWSPAPER IL TEMPO.

THE IL TEMPO TEXT SAID MUSSOLINI CALLED THE COUNCIL INTO SESSION AT 11 A.M., OCT. 15,1940, AND SAID HE WISHED TO DISCUSS THE "WAY IN WHICH THE ACTION THAT I DECIDED TO TAKE AGAINST GREECE SHOULD BE CARRIED OUT."

THE COUNCIL PLANNED THE ATTACK FOR OCT. 26 -- IT ACTUALLY OCCURRED TWO DAYS LATER -- AND SET NOV. 15 AS THE TIMETABLE DATE BY WHICH GREECE WAS TO BE KNOCKED OUT. BUT BY NOV.15 MUSSOLINI'S GRANDIOSE SCHEME HAD BACKFIRED, THE ITALIANS HAD BEEN DRIVEN BACK INTO ALBANIA, AND IT EVENTUALLY BECAME NECESSARY FOR HITLER TO COME TO THE AID OF HIS AXIS ALLY.

AMONG THOSE LISTED AS PRESENT BY THE PUBLISHED RECORD WERE COUNT GALEAZZO CIANO, MUSSOLINI'S SON-IN-LAW, AT THAT TIME FOREIGN MINISTER, WHO LATER WAS EXECUTED FOR VOTING TO DEPOSE IL DUCE AS PREMIER, AND MARSHAL PIETRO BADOGLIO, A PRINCIPAL FIGURE IN THE ITALIAN SURRENDER.

IT WAS CIANO WHO PROMISED THAT ON OCT. 24 THERE WOULD BE AN "INCIDENT" TO EXPLAIN THE INVASION TO THE WORLD, IL TEMPO SAID.

A GREEK WHITE BOOK PUBLISHED IN WASHINGTON LAST YEAR SAID THAT WHEN THE ITALIANS ATTACKED, THE FASCIST MINISTER IN ATHENS HANDED THE GREEK PREMIER A NOTE CHARGING THAT THE GREEKS HAD "ACQUIESCED IN THE USE OF THEIR TERRITORIAL WATERS, THEIR COASTS, AND THEIR HARBORS BY THE BRITISH FLEET."

JJ1005AEW

AUG 10 1944

NEW YORK, AUG 9-(AP)-THE BRITISH RADIO, CREDITING REPORTS FROM GERMAN CIRCLES IN COPENHAGEN, SAID TODAY A DANISH BRAIN SPECIALIST, PROF. EDWARD BUSCH, "RECENTLY REMOVED A SHRAPNEL SPLINTER FROM ROMMEL'S HEAD BUT REFUSED TO ACCEPT A FEE." FCC MONITORS RECORDED THE BROADCAST. BY BERLIN ACCOUNT, MARSHAL ERWIN ROMMEL WAS INJURED IN AN IR RAID JULY 17.

DN1151AEW

NEW YORK, AUG. 9-(AP)-MEMO TO GAULT MACGOWAN, NEW YORK SUN WAR CORRESPONDENT WHO IS FOOTSORE THESE DAYS TRYING TO KEEP UP WITH THE U.S. FIRST ARMY ADVANCING TOWARD PARIS:

"YOU WILL NOT HAVE TO EAT YOUR CARRIER PIGEON. IT BEAT THE AP PIGEON TO THE WIRELESS HEAD AFTER A 50-MILE RACE - - - BY ONE MINUTE. MAYBE YOU HAD BETTER EAT THE OPERATOR, INSTEAD, BECAUSE THE AP DISPATCH REACHED NEW YORK FOUR MINUTES BEFORE YOURS GOT TO THE SUN."

MACGOWAN AND AP CORRESPONDENT WES GALLAGHER DISPATCHED BULLETINS BY THE RIVAL PIGEONS FROM NEAR SOURDEVAL, FRANCE, TODAY BECAUSE, AS MACGOWAN PUT IT, "OUR SWIFT ADVANCE IS OUTSTRIPPING OUR COMMUNICATIONS AND I AM RACING ONE OF THE NEW YORK SUN PIGEONS AGAINST WES GALLAGHER'S AP PIGEON AND SHALL EAT OUR PIGEON IF HE LOSES."

THE SUN PIGEON ARRIVED AT THE DISPATCHING STATION AT 6:09 P.M., AFTER FLOPPING THE FIFTY MILES IN ONE HOUR, 54 MINUTES. THE AP BIRD CLOCKED IN A 6:10.

THE DISPATCHES TOLD OF AMERICAN TROOPS DRIVING A GERMAN ATTACK FROM CHERENCE ROUSSEL AND SEALING OFF A GERMAN PENETRATION NEAR MORTAIN.

JJ150PEW

NEW YORK, AUG 9-(AP)-A ROUTINE DISPATCH ON CROP CONDITIONS BROADCAST BY THE JAPANESE DOMEI NEWS AGENCY TO THE CONTROLLED PRESS OF OCCUPIED ASIATIC AREAS AND REPORTED TODAY BY UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT MONITORS DISCLOSED THAT A WIDE AREA IN NORTHERN JAPAN HAD BEEN SUBJECTED TO SEVERE FLOODS SOME TIME LAST MONTH.

"LAST MONTH AKITA AND IWATE PREFECTURES WERE HIT BY THE WORST FLOOD DISASTER SINCE 1894," THE DISPATCH SAID, BUT DECLARED THAT FARMERS NEVERTHELESS "ARE BUSILY ENGAGED IN RAISING THEIR PRODUCTS."

"IN THE FLOODED VALLEYS, WHERE IT WAS IMPOSSIBLE TO RAISE RICE, THE FARMERS HAVE PLANTED BUCKWHEAT," DOMEI EXPLAINED.

M517AEW

AUG 10 1944

(EDITOR'S NOTE: JOHN COLBURN, WHO ANALYZES THE SIGNIFICANCE OF THE LATEST FINNISH CABINET REORGANIZATION IN THE FOLLOWING ARTICLE, RETURNED RECENTLY FROM A 14-MONTH ASSIGNMENT IN THE ASSOCIATED PRESS BUREAU IN STOCKHOLM, DURING WHICH HE SPENT SOME TIME IN HELSINKI MAKING A CLOSE STUDY OF FINNISH AFFAIRS.)

AUG 10 1944

BY JOHN COLBURN

NEW YORK, AUG 9-(AP)-A REORGANIZED FINNISH GOVERNMENT APPEARED SET TODAY FOR NEW PEACE OVERTURES TOWARD RUSSIA. TWO EXPERTS ON RUSSIA TOOK OVER KEY CABINET POSITIONS, REPLACING LEADERS WHO ONLY SIX WEEKS AGO COMMITTED FINLAND TO FULL COLLABORATION WITH GERMANY.

PRELIMINARY PEACE NEGOTIATIONS, IN FACT, ALREADY MAY BE UNDERWAY THROUGH SWEDISH INTERMEDIARIES. SEVENTY-SEVEN YEAR OLD MARSHAL CARL GUSTAV MANNERHEIM, WHO TOOK OVER THE PRESIDENCY A WEEK AGO AND REORGANIZED THE CABINET, WAS UNDERSTOOD IN STOCKHOLM TO HAVE RECEIVED ASSURANCES THAT RUSSIA WOULD BE READY TO CONSIDER PEACE MOVES WHEN FINLAND INDICATED A SINCERE WILLINGNESS TO QUIT THE WAR.

THE DRASTIC GOVERNMENT REORGANIZATION---WHICH RESULTED IN MANNERHEIM REPLACING RISTO RYTI AND IN THE OUSTER YESTERDAY OF PREMIER EDWIN LINKOMIES AND FOREIGN MINISTER SIR HENRIK RAMSAY---GAVE FOR THE FIRST TIME SINCE FINLAND ENTERED THE WAR ALONGSIDE GERMANY IN 1941 DEFINITE EVIDENCE THAT FINLAND WAS ANXIOUS TO MAKE PEAC

THE RECENT INACTIVITY OF THE RED ARMY ON THE FINNISH FRONT, AFTER SOVIET TROOPS HAD STORMED UP THE KARELIAN ISTHMUS AND RECAPTURED VIIPURI, SUPPORTED HINTS FROM STOCKHOLM AND HELSINKI THAT GROUNDWORK FOR ARMISTICE DISCUSSIONS POSSIBLY WAS BEING LAID.

PREVIOUSLY, THERE HAD BEEN PEACE AGITATION AMONG THE FINNISH PEOPLE BUT A SECRET PACT TYRI HAD MADE WITH GERMANY PREVENTED HIM FROM MAKING A MOVE TO QUIT THE WAR. WHEN HE SENT PEACE-MINDED JUHO PAASIKIVI, FORMER FOREIGN MINISTER, TO STOCKHOLM AND MOSCOW LAST SPRING TO DISCUSS ARMISTICE TERMS IT WAS ONLY TO STALL FOR TIME AND TRY TO IMPRESS THE UNITED STATES AND GREAT BRITAIN.

AUG 10 1944

AUG 10 1944.

FINLAND, WHOSE POSITION HAS BEEN COMPLICATED BY AN INHERENT DISLIKE FOR RUSSIA, A DESIRE FOR REVENGE AFTER THE RUSSIAN VICTORY IN THE WINTER WAR OF 1939-40 AND THE PRESENCE OF MORE THAN 85,000 GERMAN TROOPS ON FINNISH SOIL, SAW THE LAST TOWVES OF HER DEMOCRACY SLIPPING AWAY IN JUNE. THEN IT WAS THAT RYTI, LINKOMIES AND RAMSAY OPENEDLY ACCEPTED FULL MILITARY COLLABORATION WITH GERMANY, A MOVE WHICH COST THE FINNS THEIR DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS WITH THE UNITED STATES. THAT ALSO LED TO A CABINET REVOLT WHICH PRECIPITATED RYTI'S RESIGNATION.

HEADING THE NEW CABINET AS PREMIER IS HANTTI HACKZELL, FORMER MINISTER TO RUSSIA. HIS FOREIGN MINISTER IS CARL J.A.ENCKELL, WHO AS FINNISH SECRETARY OF STATE IN RUSSIA SIGNED THE FINNISH INDEPENDENCE AGREEMENT WITH NIKOLAI LENIN AFTER THE LAST WAR.

AUG 101944

OTHER NEW CABINET MEMBERS ANNOUNCED IN HELSINKI YESTERDAY WERE FINANCE MINISTER HILTONEN, INTERIOR MINISTER KAAKO HILLILAE AND MINISTER OF JUSTICE ERNST VON BORN. HILTONEN SUCCEEDED VAINO TANNER, WHO HAS BEEN OUTSPOKEN IN HIS ANTI-RUSSIAN VIEWS.

WHILE FINNS IN STOCKHOLM LABELED THE REORGANIZED GOVERNMENT ONE "WHICH WILL TRY TO NEGOTIATE AN ARMISTICE WITH RUSSIA" THERE WERE INDICATIONS THE NEW CABINET WAS CHOSEN ONLY TO BEAR THE STIGMA OF MAKING A HARD PEACE.

SUCH PROMINENT LEADERS AS PAASIKIVI AND EERO VUORI, CHIEF OF THE FINNISH TRADES UNIONS, REMAINED TEMPORARILY IN THE BACKGROUND. VUORI OFTEN HAS BEEN MENTIONED FOR THE PREMIERSHIP.

MANNERHEIM HIMSELF PERHAPS WILL HOLD THE PRESIDENCY ONLY ON A STOP-GAP BASIS. HE DID NOT WANT TO GET BACK INTO POLITICS. ONLY WIDESPREAD DEMAND FORCED HIM TO MAKE THE MOVE, SINCE HE WAS THE ONLY MAN WHOSE LEADERSHIP COULD SWING A CHANGE IN FINLAND'S POLICY WITHOUT ENDANGERING A CIVIL WAR. ONCE AN ARMISTICE IS MADE HE PROBABL WILL RETIRE.

AUG 101944

SJ945AEW

NEW YORK, AUG 9-(AP)-SPOKESMEN FOR "THE HEBREW NATION" SHOULD BE PERMITTED TO "PARTICIPATE IN THE COUNCILS OF THE UNITED NATIONS WHERE THEIR INTERESTS ARE INVOLVED," SAYS SENATOR ELBERT D.THOMAS (D-UTAH).

"LET US RECOGNIZE THE SURVIVING 5,000,000 HEBREWS AS A RENASCENT NATION WHOSE BANNER WAVES AMONG THOSE OF THE OTHER UNITED NATIONS," HE TOLD THE SECOND NATIONAL CONFERENCE OF THE EMERGENCY COMMITTEE TO SAVE THE JEWISH PEOPLE OF EUROPE LAST NIGHT IN A (CBS) RADIO ADDRESS FROM WASHINGTON.

"LET US PERMIT THEIR SPOKESMEN AND REPRESENTATIVES TO PARTICIPATE IN THE COUNCILS OF THE UNITED NATIONS WHERE THEIR INTERESTS ARE INVOLVED," HE ADDED.

AMONG RESOLUTIONS APPROVED, THE RESCUE OF JEWS IN HUNGARY WAS CLASSED BY THE CONFERENCE "AS A MAJOR AND IMMEDIATE POINT" OF ITS POLICY. DEMOCRATIC AND REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CHAIRMEN WERE ASKED "TO CLARIFY NOW THEIR PLANS TO IMPLEMENT THE RESPECTIVE PLANS IN THEIR PARTIES' PLATFORMS LOOKING TOWARD THE RESCUE OF THE SURVIVING JEWS OF EUROPE" THROUGH EMERGENCY RESCUE SHELTERS. GREAT BRITAIN ALSO WAS URGED TO ISSUE PALESTINE VISAS TO JEWISH REFUGEES IN TURKISH RESCUE CENTERS.

AUG 101944

NEW YORK, AUG 9-(AP)-BASIL HARRIS, PRESIDENT OF UNITED STATES LINES, TODAY URGED THAT EARLY TALKS BE ARRANGED BETWEEN BRITISH AND AMERICAN SHIPPING LEADERS TO AVOID "HARMFUL STRUGGLE FOR POST-WAR SUPREMACY OF INTERNATIONAL SHIPPING TRADE."

IN A STATEMENT ISSUED TODAY, HARRIS SAID THAT THE CONFERENCES "COULD PAVE THE WAY FOR SIMILAR TALKS WITH SHIPPING LEADERS OF OTHER UNITED NATIONS IN THE NEAR FUTURE."

JP1121PEW

WASHINGTON,AUG 9-(AP)-VICE PRESIDENT WALLACE TODAY CABLED PRESIDENT CHIANG KAI-SHEK THAT THE HEROIC DEFENSE OF HENGYANG BY THE CHINESE CAUSED "A SEVERE SETBACK IN THE PLANS OF THE JAPANESE ARMIES" AND MADE POSSIBLE "A MORE SECURE DEFENSE OF OTHER THREATENED AREAS IN SOUTHWEST CHINA."

WALLACE TOLD THE CHINESE LEADER HE WAS "DEEPLY MOVED BY THE PROLONGED AND HEROIC DEFENSE OF HENGYANG BY CHINESE SOLDIERS."

"THE BRAVE SACRIFICE OF THOSE SOLDIERS, AND OF THE SOLDIERS WHO HAVE DEFENDED CHINA FOR THE PAST SEVEN YEARS, HAS NOT BEEN IN VAIN," WALLACE STATED.

HY1158PEW NM SPOT

AUG 101944

30. 24— 17885

WASHINGTON,AUG.9-(AP)-THE QUICK THINKING OF AN UNNAMED RUSSIAN GENERAL PREVENTED AN UNFORTUNATE MISUNDERSTANDING BETWEEN AMERICAN SOLDIERS AND SOME RUSSIAN ENTERTAINERS, AND SAVED ONE RUSSIAN DANCER SOME BADLY HURT FEELINGS.

MAJOR GENERAL JOHN R.DEANE, CHIEF OF THE AMERICAN MILITARY MISSION INMOSCOW, DESCRIBED THE INCIDENT TODAY, WHILE DISCLOSING THAT SHUTTLE-BOMBER BASES IN SOVIET TERRITORY HAVE BEEN PLACED ON THE REGULAR SCHEDULE OF ALL GROUPS OF RUSSIAN ENTERTAINERS TOURING THE FRONT FOR THE RED ARMY.

AUG 10 1944

"AT ONE OF THESE ENTERTAINMENTS," SAID DEANE, "THEY HAD A SHIMMY DANCER, AND SHE WIGGLED PRETTY WELL--OUR BOYS STARTED WHISTLING, SHOUTING, AND STAMPING THEIR FEET.

"UNFORTUNATELY, WHISTLING AND STAMPING YOUR FEET, ARE IN RUSSIAN SIGNS OF VIOLENT DISAPPROVAL.

"BUT A RUSSIAN GENERAL SENSED THE SITUATION IMMEDIATELY, JUMPED ON THE STAGE AND MADE A LITTLE SPEECH EXPLAINING THE RUSSIAN IDEA TO THE AMERICANS AND VICE VERSA.

"IT MADE EVERYTHING ALL RIGHT--THE DANCER CAME OUT AGAIN AND WIGGLED EVEN LONGER AND HARDER."

HY1157PEW

WASHINGTON, AUG.9-(AP)-THE NAVY ANNOUNCED TODAY AWARD OF THE LEGION OF MERIT TO MARINE COLONEL FRANK D. WEIR FOR SERVICE ON THE STAFF OF THE COMMANDER OF AMPHIBIOUS FORCES, SOUTH PACIFIC, FROM THE INITIAL LANDINGS ON GUADALCANAL TO THE NEW GEORGIA CAMPAIGN IN JULY, 1943.

WEIR, VETERAN OF 21 YEARS IN THE MARINES, WAS BORN IN BROOKLYN, N.Y. HIS FATHER, HERBERT WEIR, NOW LIVES AT 445 TENACK ROAD, RICHFIELD PARK, N.J., AND HIS WIFE AND TWO CHILDREN LIVE AT 115 EAST PEBREGOSA STREET, SANTA BARBARA, CALIF.

AUG 10 1944

AB115AEW

WASHINGTON, AUG.9-(AP)-AWARD OF THE LEGION OF MERIT BY NAVY SECRETARY FORRESTAL TO TWO ARMY GENERALS - BOTH OF COLUMBUS, OHIO - WAS ANNOUNCED BY THE NAVY TODAY.

BOTH WERE DECORATED FOR ACTION AGAINST THE JAPANESE AT BOUGAINVILLE.

A GOLD STAR SIGNIFYING A SECOND AWARD OF THE LEGION OF MERIT WENT TO BRIG. GEN. LEO H. KREBER, 250 EAST DUNEDIN ROAD, FOR SERVICES AS COMMANDER OF A FIELD ARTILLERY GROUP DURING ESTABLISHMENT OF THE BEACHHEAD AT EXPRESS AUGUSTA BAY.

MAJ. GEN. ROBERT S. BEIGHTLER, 1850 UPPER CHELSEA ROAD, WON THE LEGION OF MERIT FOR SERVICES AS COMMANDING GENERAL OF AN ARMY DIVISION IN THE SAME ACTION.

AUG 10 1944

AB115AEW

NIGHT LEAD ROAD TO BERLIN
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
1- RUSSIAN FRONT: 322 MILES (MEASURED FROM EASTERN SUBURBS OF WARSAW).
2- ITALIAN FRONT: 603 MILES (MEASURED FROM FLORENCE).
3- FRENCH FRONT: 626 MILES (MEASURED FROM SOIGNOLLES).

FA111OPEW

FOUR YEARS AGO TODAY
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUG 10 1944

AUG.9, 1940--BRITISH GOVERNMENT ANNOUNCES WITHDRAWAL FROM NORTH CHINA AND SHANGHAI OF 1,500 TROOPS STATIONED THERE SINCE 1901, EXPLAINING THEY ARE NEEDED MORE URGENTLY ELSEWHERE.

M520AEW

U.S. Flyers Raid Japan, Philippines, Sumatra; Roosevelt, in Hawaii, Saw Nimitz, MacArthur; Allied Tanks Aim at Chartres in Paris Drive

AUG 11 1944

GIANT BOMBERS BLAST NAGASAKI IN NEW ATTACK

Palembang Oil Refineries in Sumatra, 3,500 Miles Away, Also Hit.

'MEDIUM FORCE' USED

Bases in China and Southeast Asia Employed in Two-Pronged Blow.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 — (AP) The superfortresses of America's 20th Bomber command, lashing at the vitals of Japan's war machine, struck simultaneously today at targets 3,500 miles apart — the enemy homeland port and industrial center of Nagasaki and the great oil refining area of Palembang on the island of Sumatra.

The targets of this strategic mission of huge scope are among the most important in enemy territory. The Pladjoe oil refinery at Palembang is the largest in the Orient, and is believed to have been operating at or near its prewar capacity of 18,000,000 barrels of crude a year. It is an important source of aviation gasoline.

Nagasaki, bombed in the third Superfortress mission against the Japanese mainland, is a military port and shipbuilding center of key value to the enemy military machine, and a center of engine, steel, ordnance, magneto, generator and aircraft production, chiefly by plants of the extensive Mitsubishi interests.

It is located on the west side of Kyushu island in the heavily industrialized area where the Superfortresses previously had hit the steel [illegible] of Yawata and the naval [illegible] at Sasebo. In other missions against enemy territory, the Superfortresses have attacked targets at Bangkok, Thailand, and at Anshan, in the Mukden area of Manchuria, where they hit coke ovens and other factories in a blow against Japan's steel industry.

AUG 11 1944

Use Two Bases

The forces which carried out today's attack against Nagasaki from bases in China and against Palembang from fields in southeast Asia, were described by 20th Air Force headquarters as "medium sized." Pending evaluation of operations reports, no detailed information about the attacks was available.

The text of the announcement of the double blow by headquarters of the 20th Air Force:

"Superfortresses of the 20th Bomber Command today, Aug. 10, struck in two directions against strategic Japanese targets. One medium sized force went for the third time to the Japanese mainland island of Kyushu and attacked industrial targets in the Nagasaki area.

"Medium Sized Force"

"Another medium sized force attacked strategic targets in the vicinity of Palembang on the Japanese-occupied island Sumatra. The attack against Sumatra was carried out from bases of the Southeast Asia command. The attack against Nagasaki was delivered from bases in China. A communique will be issued on these operations as soon as the results can be evaluated."

In addition to its shipbuilding and ship repair facilities, Nagasaki has important naval ordnance and heavy industrial machinery production. It is on the west side of Kyushu about 30 miles south of the Sasebo naval base, which was attacked by Superfortresses July 7.

Twelfth in size among Japanese cities, it has a population of more than 250,000. Among its important industries are the shipbuilding yards of the great Mitsubishi interests, which also produce at Nagasaki aircraft, water and steam power equipment, generators, magnetos, engines and steel products of all kinds. An important chemical works is operated by another concern at Nagasaki.

While a large part of the East Indies oil refining capacity was destroyed before the Japanese moved in, and much of it is still not operating, the Pladjoe refinery at Palembang is believed to have been operating very close to its pre-war capacity.

AUG 11 1944

FDR HOLDS PARLEY AT PEARL HARBOR

President Confers With Pacific Commanders; Map Plans for Jap Defeat.

H. Flieger

HONOLULU, July 29 (Delayed) —(AP) President Roosevelt and top flight American commanders in the Pacific including Gen. Douglas MacArthur mapped plans for smashing the Japanese into unconditional surrender at an historic three-day strategy conference here under the gently waving palms of Waikiki beach.

It was the President's first wartime conference with the southwest Pacific commander, whom he greeted with a cordial "it's good to see you, Doug," and together they went over every phase of the far-flung offensive in the west.

Meets Other Officers

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, Pacific fleet commander, and other top-ranking officers took part in the discussions, which ended today and which were interlarded by a series of inspection trips that took Mr. Roosevelt to many parts of this bristling fortress island.

The President arrived three days ago, on July 26, aboard a new super cruiser. He left the Marine base at San Diego, Calif., amid the utmost secrecy, shortly after his radio speech of July 20 accepting a fourth term nomination.

AUG 11 1944

At a news conference here today Mr. Roosevelt said he had received a nice telegram from his vice presidential running mate, Senator Harry F. Truman of Missouri, but declared he was too far away from politics to discuss the campaign.

He said he will report to the nation at some future date on his trip to the Pacific, which brought him into Pearl Harbor ten years to the day from the time of his last visit.

Obviously moved by the tremendous amount of defense work that has been done since the Japanese blasted Pearl Harbor into flaming wreckage two and a half years ago, Mr. Roosevelt said it was the "most amazing change" he ever had seen.

After talking with Admiral Nimitz and General MacArthur, who wore a leather field jacket when he went aboard the President's ship to greet him, Mr. Roosevelt restated America's war aims: to liberate the Philippines and to force Japan into an unconditional surrender.

We are going back to the Philippines, Mr. Roosevelt said, and MacArthur is going to be a part of the operation. You can't say, he added with a smile, whether the General is going back directly or by way of North Africa—but he is going back and we are going to give the islands their freedom.

New Offensives Soon

In reply to a question, the President said new offensives will develop soon, but he pointed out that soon is a relative term and that strategy is a constantly shifting thing.

One of his inspection trips took Mr. Roosevelt into the jungle mountain training area where combat units receive their final week's instruction before going into the real thing. Asked why American fighters are better than the Japanese at their own specialty—jungle and atoll fighting, the President replied:

"Perhaps it sounds a little like boasting but perhaps it is the difference between our type of civilization and our type of fellow and their type of civilization and their type of fellow.

AUG 11 1944

30. 24— 17887

"We'll take them on at any game —war or pleasure—and we'll beat them at it."

Sea-tanned and smiling, the President rode about in an open touring car, escorted by jeeps, and despite the secrecy surrounding his visit the streets were lined by rows of islanders and service men every time his party appeared.

Seven times he stopped to speak briefly to the men who stood at attention on either side of his car. On his first day here he reviewed the battle-tried 7th division of Attu and Kwajalein fame, commanded by Maj. Gen. Archibald V. Arnold.

To the members of this division, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"Your commander-in-chief brings you greetings from your own families, your own homes, to you here at this spot which, thank God, is still a part of the United States. We are all proud of the Seventh."

Today the President's car happened to be at Hickam field when a huge air transport command ambulance plane arrived with wounded from Saipan. Mr. Roosevelt and his party watched the transfer of the 32 bandaged men from the plane to ambulances. Three of the litters were carried close to his car and he reached out to shake hands with the astonished veterans. He also visited the big navy hospital at Aeia and the army's 147th general hospital, where most of the patients are recovering from wounds received at Saipan or in the Marshalls.

The war councils took place in the beach-side garden of the mansion home of the late Christian R. Holmes, a beautiful Waikiki estate taken over by the navy as a rest home for combat pilots. The lavishly equipped house, fenced off from the public, served as the President's headquarters during his stay.

Many High Officers

Among the many high officers participating in the talks were Admiral William F. Halsey, commander of the Third fleet; Lt. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, Jr., Central Pacific army commander; Lt. Gen. Millard F. Harmon, who directed army operations throughout the Solomons; Vice Admiral Charles A. Lockwood, commander of submarine operations in the Pacific; Rear Admiral Charles A. Pownall, commander of the Pacific fleet air arm, and others.

On his tour of navy yards, army posts, ammunition dumps, supply bases, and airports, the President saw many planes and tanks that bore the scars and trophies of battle—rows of little Japanese flags denoting victories in combat.

Accompanying the President to Hawaii were his White House military aides, Admiral William D. Leahy and Maj. Gen. Edwin M. Watson; his personal physician, Rear Admiral Ross T. McIntire, surgeon general of the navy; and Samuel I. Rosenman, his special counsel and close advisor.

White House reporters for the Associated Press, the United Press, the International News service and a representative of the four major radio networks also traveled with the party from Washington.

AUG 11 1944

with land, sea and air fighting power. He termed the conversion the "most amazing change" he had ever seen.

Admiral Nimitz and General MacArthur—the latter wearing a leather field jacket—went aboard the President's ship to greet the Chief Executive as soon as he arrived at Pearl Harbor.

Crowd Applauded

"It's good to see you, Doug," the President said to MacArthur as the two men came down the gangplank into a navy yard teeming with sailors and workers. The crowd applauded.

Roosevelt Has Talks With Nimitz And MacArthur

H. Flieger

Washington, Aug. 10 (AP)—American submarines operating in Japanese waters have destroyed another 16 enemy vessels, including one warship, the navy announced today. (Details on Page 4.)

AUG

Honolulu, July 29 (AP—Delayed)—President Roosevelt today concluded three days of military conferences and inspections on this fortress island where two and a half years ago Japanese bombs blasted the United States into the war.

The President arrived at Pearl Harbor July 26 from the marine base at San Diego, Cal., where he boarded a cruiser shortly after his July 20 speech accepting renomination for a fourth term.

AUG 11 1944

Here he held his first wartime across-the-table conference with the top strategists of the Pacific—Admiral Chester W. Nimitz and Gen. Douglas MacArthur—and talked with other commanders representing the full scope of the Pacific war from Pole to Pole.

Reiterates War Goals

Later Mr. Roosevelt told reporters the meetings planned new offensives against the Japanese, and he reiterated America's Pacific war goals: To retake and free the Philippines and to drive Japan to unconditional surrender.

The Chief Executive coupled with his conferences detailed visits to Pearl Harbor and other military installations, converted from the Japanese-wrought havoc of December 7, 1941, into an island bristling

We are going back to the Philippines, Mr. Roosevelt said, and MacArthur is going to be a part of the operation. You can't say, he smiled, whether the General is going back directly or by way of North Africa —but he is going back and we are going to give the islands their independence.

Our goal still is unconditional surrender for all our enemies, he said. Whatever is required, he continued, we are going right through to clean up the Japanese.

A reporter asked if new Japanese offensives would develop soon and the President said yes, but reminded his listeners that soon is a relative term and that strategy is a constantly shifting thing.

Visited Wounded

During his stay here the President visited virtually every military operation on the island—from a deadly advanced training course in jungle fighting to the hospital cots of the wounded from Saipan and the Marshalls. He reviewed the Seventh Division, veterans of Attu, Kiska and Kwajalein.

His trip to Hawaii was a closely guarded military secret, but rows of islanders and servicemen lined the streets every time the Presidential party moved through Honolulu headed for one of the many near-by military reservations.

Waved From Open Car

Mr. Roosevelt waved and nodded from his open car as he passed rows of soldiers, sailors, marines and service women.

Virtually all scars of the Japanese attack had disappeared from the island long before the President put into Pearl Harbor, which he last visited 10 years ago. In place of the wreckage were acres of fighting planes, tanks and other battle equipment. Hundreds of sugar cane plantations of two years ago now converted into forests of war equipment, and land reclaimed from the sea to become a huge air base.

During his stay Mr. Roosevelt and his staff talked with Lieut. Gen. Millard F. Harmon, who bossed army operations throughout the Solomons; Vice Admiral Charles A. Lockwood, commander of submarine operations in the Pacific; Rear Admiral Charles A. Pownall, commander of the Pacific fleet air arm, and many others.

Appeared Impressed

The President appeared tremendously impressed by the speedy development of all military functions on the island. He made several references to it both in his news conference and in brief talks he made here and there.

In a speech at the officers' club Schofield Barracks, Mr. Roosevelt said Hawaii through war developments has ceased to be a United States outpost and has become, instead, "one of our rear areas."

"From here we are conducting a campaign," he said, "one more advanced than any other campaign of the past, largely because of the good work you are doing here at this advance base. . . .

Sends Greetings To Yanks

"It is being felt all through this area—all the way down to General MacArthur's area which — thank the Lord—is coming a little closer toward us and automatically closer to the enemy than it was two years ago. . . . I wish everybody back home could see and understand a little more of what's going on here."

AUG 1 1944

Mr. Roosevelt said he asked General MacArthur to take greetings from the Chief Executive to the men on the Pacific fighting fronts and to tell them we are going to bring them back as soon as the safety of the country will permit.

The President was accompanied to Hawaii by White House military aides—Admiral William D. Leahy, who is chief of staff to the President; Maj. Gen. Edwin M. Watson, his military aide; Rear Admiral Wilson Brown, naval aide, and Rear Admiral Ross T. McIntire, surgeon-general of the navy and the President's personal physician.

Within view of the President were some of the buildings hit by the Japanese December 7, 1941.

He added:

"I have heard much of what the Seventh Division has done. We are proud of the Seventh in what it has done and what it is doing—and that is another reason why I give you all the good luck in the world.

The commanding officer of the Seventh, Major-Gen. Archibald V. Arnold, stood on the platform with Lieut.-Gen. Robert C. Richardson Jr., his superior, and Admiral William D. Leahy, the President's naval advisor.

Ten Years Ago and Now.

Ten years ago the reviewed troops were led by Major-Gen. Briant H. Wells, commander of the Hawaiian department. Units of those troops are today serving with the Twenty-fourth Division in the southwest Pacific and with the Twenty-fifth Division which relieved the Marines at Guadalcanal.

At that time Hawaii's air might flew fast in review—eighty planes strong, today a normal carrier's complement.

On this trip, the President arrived on a new supercruiser with tremendous fire power and speed. Then his ship was the Houston, later sunk by enemy action in the Jana Sea. Few Houston men survived as the flagship steamed under, guns blazing.

Escorts, Then And Now

Ten years ago 13 Hawaiian outriggers escored the Houston to Honolulu harbor, which was filled with the fishing fleet manned in the main by alien Japanese. Today hundreds of planes patrolled the seas and the water was alive with battle-gray patrol vessels.

Then, thousands swarmed through the Secret Servicemen's cordon and pressed close to his car—today his coming was supposedly secret and without civilian demonstration. Military police guarded every intersection, hillside and overhead bridge and a twenty-six-motorcycle convoy preceded him.

AUG 11 1944

Roosevelt Has Review at Oahu

Flanked by MacArthur and Nimitz, He Addresses 7th Division Men.

Schofield Barracks, Oahu, July 26 (Delayed) (A. P.).—President Roosevelt, flanked by Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, today reviewed the battle-tested Seventh Division of Attu and Kwajalein fame.

The review was strictly of foot soldiers—no tanks, no air planes, no flame throwers, no artillery.

From the reviewing platform on the parade grounds where ten years ago to a day he had reviewed United States troops, the commander in chief, said:

"Officers and men of the Seventh Division, I want you to feel —at least in theory—I am bringing to each and every man greetings from his family and his own home at this spot which, thank God, is still a part of the United States."

rived on a new super-cruiser with tremendous fire power and speed. Then his ship was the Houston, later sunk by enemy action in the Java Sea. Few Houston men survived as the gallant flagship steamed under, guns blazing.

Ten years ago thirteen Hawaiian outriggers escorted the Houston to Oahu harbor which was filled with the fishing fleet manned in the main by alien Japanese. Today hundreds of planes patrolled the seas and the water was alive with battle-grey patrol vessels.

Then thousands swarmed through the secret service men's cordon and pressed close to his car—today his coming was supposedly secret and without civilian demonstration. Military police guarded every intersection, hillside and overhead bridge and a 26-motorcycle convoy preceded him.

AUG 1 1944

F. D. R. Hawaiian Troop Reviews: '34 And Now

Schofield Barracks, Oahu, July 26 (AP—Delayed)—President Roosevelt today reviewed the battle tested Seventh Division of Attu and Kwajalein fams.

Ten years ago he also reviewed troops of the Hawaiian Department. At that time Hawaii's air might flew past in review—80 planes strong, today a normal carrier's complement.

On this trip the President arrived on a new supercruiser with tremendous fire power and speed. Then his ship was the Houston, later sunk by enemy action in the Jana Sea. Few Houston men survived as the flagship steamed under, guns blazing.

Escorts, Then And Now

Ten years ago 13 Hawaiian outriggers escored the Houston to Honolulu harbor, which was filled with the fishing fleet manned in the main by alien Japanese. Today hundreds of planes patrolled the seas and the water was alive with battle-gray patrol vessels.

Then, thousands swarmed through the Secret Servicemen's cordon and pressed close to his car—today his coming was supposedly secret and without civilian demonstration. Military police guarded every intersection, hillside and overhead bridge and a 26-motorcycle convoy preceded him.

Roosevelt Talks With Wounded

Honolulu, July 29 (AP—Delayed). President Roosevelt got a close look at the realities of war today—and three wounded jungle fighters probably got the surprise of their young lives.

The President's automobile rolled along an airstrip at Hickam Field and came to a stop at the far end almost under the wing of a huge air transport command ambulance plane which was bringing in wounded from Saipan.

Roosevelt and his party looked on as litter-bearers transferred the 32 bandaged men from the plane to ambulances.

Shakes Hands

Three of the litters came in close to the President's car, and he reached out to shake hands with the veterans.

Roosevelt also visited the huge navy hospital at Aeia and the army's 147th General Hospital. Most of the patients were wounded at Saipan or in the Marshalls.

As the President passed along the wards he chatted with the men and discussed the operations of the hospitals with nurses and doctors.

The hospital visits were only a part of the Chief Executive's tour of this island.

Wide Inspection

He traveled almost every section to inspect navy yards, army posts, ammunition dumps, supply bases and huge, sprawling airports studded with fighting craft.

Many of the planes and tanks carried the scars of battle and bore on their sides the miniature Japanese flags showing victories in combat.

Only in one place did Roosevelt have a chance to see a trace of the December 7, 1941, damage—and he may have missed that. There were a few shattered windows in a building at Wheeler Field airport, near Schofield barracks, and a soldier said they were broken during the Japanese bomb raid.

Watches Combat Units

Roosevelt went to a unit jungle training center in the mountains, where combat units are given their final instructions on how to fight and live in the jungle before moving on to actual combat.

Live ammunition chattered and roared in the underbrush. The Presidential party watched one team wipe out a pillbox in less than five minutes and saw another fight door-to-door through a simulated Japanese village to overpower a sham military headquarters with grenades, machine guns and rifles.

Thousands of men have gone through the week's training to prepare them for battle.

Visits Seabees

In hour-on-hour of travel the party saw the marine air station, naval air station, a huge ammunition dump spread out through heavily guarded mountains, a city of navy seabees, Fort Shafter and other installations.

The party stopped in at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel—in peace-time the showplace of Waikiki beach but now a rest center for navy submarine crews.

Seven times in his tours the President stopped to speak to the men who stood at stiff attention on either side of his car. Here are some typical excerpts:

To the Seventh Division: "Your commander in chief brings you greetings from your own families, your own homes, to you here at this spot which, thank God, is still a part of the United States. . . . We are all proud of the Seventh."

"Mighty Proud Of You"

To the Seabees: "The Seabees have come forward as an institution more quickly than any one I know of in the whole of our history, and all of us back home and out at the front are mighty proud of you."

To the fleet marine force: "I am glad to have this chance to see another bunch of marines. . . . I am very, very proud of you."

To the submarine rest center at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel: "I was here ten years ago—lived right here in these quarters, on the top floor. I hope you will be just as comfortable and happy here as I was because you deserve it a lot more."

VISIT WELL TIMED

Pearl Harbor, July 26 (Delayed) (A. P.).—President Roosevelt arrived at Pearl Harbor ten years to the day from the time he last visited this Hawaiian Navy base.

As his ship docked a member of his party handed him a Honolulu newspaper. The principal item in the "Ten Years Ago Today" column told of the President's arrival—the first President to visit here.

F.D.R. Boasts About Yanks

Honolulu, July 29 (AP—Delayed)—A reporter asked President Roosevelt today if he could explain why American soldiers are better than the Japanese at the latter's own specialty—jungle and atoll fighting.

Here is the President's reply:

"Perhaps it sounds a little like boasting, but perhaps it is the difference between our type of civilization and our type of fellow and their type of civilization and their type of fellow.

"We'll take them on at any game—war or pleasure—and we'll beat them at it."

FALA VIEWS WAIKIKI

Honolulu, July 29 (Delayed) (A. P.).—Fala came 2,000 miles aboard the presidential cruiser to Hawaii, but he got only a glimpse of faded Waikiki from the deck.

Recently tightened quarantine laws confining canines were not relaxed even for Fala, and President Roosevelt asked no special favors for his 5-year-old Scottie.

So Fala lolled aboard, well behaved and well loved by officers and crew. A presidential aid kept a close watch over the Scottie's welfare with daily telephone calls to the ship.

Only incident:

A sailor plucked one of Fala's hairs for a souvenir.

GERMANS DECLARE 'BATTLE OF PARIS' IS NOW UNDERWAY

General Bradley's Armored Columns Strike South to Outflank Capital.

GOAL 50 MILES AWAY

American Troops Score New Gains All Along Front Lines in France.

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Friday, Aug. 11.—(AP) Lt. Omar N. Bradley, whose armored columns were striking toward Chartres and the last 50-mile defense zone west of Paris, suddenly sent one force veering off in the direction of Orleans early today, threatening to flank the French capital from the south.

"The battle for Paris has begun," German broadcasts declared as the swift-moving Allied forces rolled toward the historic city's outer defense lines.

(NBC Reporter David Anderson, broadcasting from a rolling Allied transmitter in France, said the drive already had reached within 30 miles of Orleans with the "Americans at this moment" attacking Chateaudun, 70 miles from Paris.)

Yet a third American column was believed rolling south toward Tours, 48 miles southeast of Le Mans on the Loire river, possibly in support of other forces which have stabbed through mine-fields and thin resistance to Nantes and Angers farther downstream on the Loire.

The columns pressing due east toward Paris were deep into the Chartres defense zone, which guards the last 50 miles to the capital.

(The Brazzaville radio, in a broadcast recorded by CBS, said that according to some reports "Chartres is in Allied hands" but added the reports were not confirmed at Supreme Allied Headquarters.)

There still was no evidence that Lt. Gen. Bradley's forces had met resistance, or that the Germans were intending to put up any sort of a stand on the north bank of the Loire, barring the way to southern France.

Seek To Trap Nazis

In the drive on Orleans, the Americans were heading for the gap between the Seine and Loire rivers south of the capital, possibly in an attempt to head off 10 German divisions reported fleeing northward from southwest France.

Far behind these operations, the Americans cut loose a new central front attack on their left flank, presumably between Mortain and Vire, and rolled up gains of a mile to a mile and a half, First Army headquarters said.

This push seemed aimed at ironing out the German positions above Mortain, which the enemy still holds, and strengthening the Avranches corridor.

(The Absie radio, American broadcasting station in Europe, declared that the Canadians had captured Vimont, the Paris road block seven miles southwest of Caen which has held up the British drive along the short route to the capital.

(The station said forward elements of the British army had reached Thury-Harcourt, the Orne river bastion 14 miles southwest of Caen. The broadcast was recorded by CBS.)

Far to the south, U. S. tanks rumbled into Angers, 50 miles up the Loire river from embattled Nantes, impeded at both places only by mine fields, indicating the enemy had no intention of attacking the right flank of the American steamroller from that quarter.

On the northern sector of the blazing, 175-mile front, the Germans fell back slowly before the British and Canadian armies storming the remaining enemy ramparts of Normandy, but lashed back with repeated counter-thrusts.

And the darkening German picture was unrelieved by Supreme headquarters' announcement of the creation of an army of the air—something entirely new in the history of human conflict—a powerful mobile force capable of striking with lightning speed at any point in great force.

Advance Beyond Le Mans

It was known that advanced armor was well beyond Le Mans, and official silence was the clearest indication that the onslaught was still in the open and rolling f[orward].

The Americans were driving ahead so swiftly that headquarters had reason to believe that the Germans did not know where they were.

The Germans acknowledged major gains by American forces driving north from fallen Le Mans, now firmly in Doughboy hands, while claiming stiff resistance was being offered at Montfort-Le Troutrou, 12 miles east of Le Mans and 98 miles from Paris.

The only hint of progress came from an expert observer who said "you may be sure we are not camping outside Le Mans." Doughboy betting was that they would be in Paris by Sept. 1.

One thing was clear. With the fall of Le Mans the enemy had no natural defense line with adequate communications short of one strung northwest from Orleans to the Loire river to Chartres, about 50 miles west of Paris.

The enemy's situation was deteriorating in Brittany, where one of the five main ports—St. Malo—had fallen except for one pocket in the citadel, and the others were cut off by land and sea.

The Canadian attack was halted by an anti-tank screen in front of Falais, 20 miles south of Caen, but late in the day infantry and tanks renewed the attack. There was fierce fighting at Potigny, five miles north of Falais. The Canadian bag of prisoners rose to 2,000.

Drive on Vimont

Other forces lashed out eastward and fought into the outskirts of the Paris highway bastion of Vimont, where a British attack was stalled three weeks ago.

Six miles northwest of Falais a fluid battle raged between Canadian and German tanks, and there was heavy fighting in St. Sylvain, four miles south of Vimont in the same general area.

The British Second army was slowly uprooting the last German resistance southwest of this front along the Orne river, closing in on Thury-Harcourt, 14 miles southwest of Caen.

They all but cut off the stronghold by capturing Croisilles, one mile to the northwest, while other forces planted a new bridgehead across the river three miles north of this point, seized Percouville, and cracked into the pocket of Germans between the Orne and Laize rivers.

They were only three miles away on the southwest after a 2 1-2 mile gain which swept them close to St. Martin-de Sallen.

Between these two forces, tanks and tommies cleaning up the east bank of the Orne below the Grimbosq woods recaptured Brieux, La Bagotiere and La Moissoniere, and took Forge-A-Cambro.

Driving to clean up the west bank of the Orne and straighten the lines between Thury-Harcourt and Vire, 21 miles southwest, the British fanned out over the rolling countryside and captured St. Jean Le Blac, Lenault, Lamotterie, Crepigny, Quesnee, Cauville and Ladquite.

The hard-pressed enemy was being given no chance to rest or dig in, and it appeared that the German hold on the Orne—the best river barrier in Normandy—was fast slipping.

British Take Roullours

One and one-half miles east of Vire the British captured Roullours, but the Germans, still attacking in this front in their now-exploded attempt to cut off the Avranches corridor, fought back into Mortain.

North of Mortain, enemy attacks at Gathemo were checked after five of 25 tanks of his striking force were knocked out.

At the tip of the Brittany peninsula, the fight for Brest mounted in fury as the Germans dug in with the elements of at least three divisions.

German ships steamed into Brest and the submarine base of encircled Lorient on the south Brittany coast, apparently in an attempt for a final try at a little Dunkerque, an adventure that already has ended in three disasters from the guns of blockading Allied warships.

The daily communique said that American columns were converging on Lorient. American forces poured into Nantes, the Loire river port but there was no indication how much of the city was occupied. Nor was there further news from St. Nazaire, the U-boat nest in the Loire estuary, which also was under blockade by land and sea.

It took four days to crush into St. Malo, where the only resistance was now in the port's rocky citadel.

There the remnants held out under Col. Von Auloch, a fanatical leader who ordered the garrison of 10,000 to fight to the last man.

Nazis Shoot Officers

But German troops, weary of the bloodshed, shot their own officers and 4,000 have surrendered. Approximately, 3,000 additional wounded and many dead were found inside the port.

Fighting also flared up in Dinard, across the bay west from St. Malo, but resistance here was equally hopeless.

Supreme headquarters announced that a Fourth army corps was in action in France, the Eighth under Major Gen. Troy Houston Middleton, one of the leaders of the campaign in Sicily. Previously identified were the Fifth, Seventh and 19th.

30. 24 — 17889

Inside what is left of the Seine-Loire rectangle there was no longer any German train movement by day or night.

Troops, tanks and supplies all come up roads, and these are closely watched and heavily attacked by close support of planes based in Normandy.

Allied bombers today kept up their pounding of the communication lines around Paris, and fighter bombers attacked rail lines between Paris and the German border.

French Forces of the Interior, meanwhile, cut the entire main rail system beyond the Loire to the south of France, to block out Nazi reinforcements moving up toward the river.

Spanish dispatches said there was a new French uprising at Bordeaux, 175 miles south of the Loire, as the Germans fled north.

YANKS PIERCE LAST PARIS DEFENSE ZONE

AUG 11 1944

American Tanks Race for Seine Valley—Canadians Veer Directly Toward Capital as Nazis Brace Before Falaise.

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 10 (A. P.).—American armor was believed to be driving into the last fifty-mile zone of defense for Paris today as Supreme Headquarters announced formation of a revolutionary new airborne army—an announcement presaging new blows for victory.

The Germans themselves, confronted by a powerful 175-mile British-Canadian-American arc, called the fight a "Battle for Paris."

They had abandoned without a serious fight the key city of Le Mans, 110 miles from the French capital, apparently giving up all idea of a stand along the Alencon-Le Mans-Tours line, and their next comparable system of lateral communications ran from Orleans northward through Chartres—approximately fifty miles from Paris.

The new airborne organization consolidates all Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's parachutists, glider troops and necessary flying personnel into one outfit approximately the size of a full army. This force, with its unprecedented mobile striking power, was believed capable of delivering some of the most decisive strokes of the war.

Supreme Headquarters hid in official mystery the actual whereabouts of the American spearheads which last were reported by the Germans to be eighty-seven miles from Paris, but one qualified observer declared: "You can be pretty sure they are not just camping outside Le Mans."

Supreme Headquarters' silence on the situation along the Loire, key to German resistance in all Southern France, and beyond Le Mans toward Paris, was one of the clearest indications that the high speed onslaught was still in the open and rolling fast. Once in contact with any main defense line or major force of resistance there would be no further security reason for withholding word on the advanced positions.

Lieut.-Gen. H. D. G. Crerar's Canadian First Army was finding the going harder, but it lunged out to the east toward Vimont and the road to Paris where Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's original push stalled three weeks ago.

On the right of the Canadians, Lieut.-Gen. Sir Miles C. Dempsey's Second British Army gained a new bridgehead across the Orne due east of Amaye and began to crack down on German forces pocketed in a sharp fork between the Orne and Laize Rivers seven miles soutswest of Caen.

The British captured Percouville here and farther south hammered forward more than a mile and took Croisilles, 1,500 yards north of the Thury-Harcourt stronghold, fourteen miles below Caen on the Orne. To the southwest of Thury-Harcoure they began an encircling maneuver, pressing through the Motte Wood near the outskirts of St. Martin-de-Sallen.

[CBS said there were unconfirmed reports that American troops had driven fifty miles beyond captured Le Mans—to a point sixty miles from Paris—and another unofficial and unconfirmed report that the Americans were only forty miles from the French capital.]

Yanks Enter Nantes.

Behind the moving battle line, American infantry and armer, speeding the one-by-one reduction of Brittany's strategic ports, broke into Nantes, according to unofficial reports. Today's official announcements only mentioned the reaching of that city thirty miles up the Loire River.

Both Angers, a city eighty miles up the Loire and just north of that river, and Lorient, German U-boat base on the south coast of Brittany, were surrounded by American forces. St. Malo, famous resort and fishing village, was captured, although today's communique said a few Germans remained to be dealt with.

Brest, French naval base at the western tip of Brittany, and most important prize in the peninsula, was under heavy attack by Americans fighting the remnants of three Nazi divisions who had refused to surrender.

Nazis Risk a 'Dunkirk.'

The Germans apparently were making desperate, and seemingly foolhardy attempts to evacuate both Brest and Lorient, as unofficial reports said German ships had risked Allied air force to enter the harbors.

The Germans were putting up a bitter resistance at Dinard, across the mouth of the Rance River from St. Malo. But at Nantes, France's eighth city with a population of 195,000, the Germans apparently were relying mainly upon minefields and other obstacles rather than active opposition.

Prisoners taken by the Americans around St. Malo rose to 3,000.

Allied naval forces were ready to pounce upon any attempted German evacuation from Brittany by sea. Already they had broken up three convoys apparently engaged in an effort to remove key personnel from St. Nazaire and St. Malo, and today's communique announced three more clashes in which torpodo boats and light coastal forces figured off the channel islands and near Le Havre.

One enemy convoy, intercepted as it was leaving Corbiere, a Jersey island port, escaped with damage, and another, caught as it was leaving Le Mavre, suffered the certain loss of one boat and the probable loss of another. In the third clash the Allied forces penetrated the roadstead of St. Helier in Jersey and hit two minesweepers.

The Germans persisted in counter-attacks, attempting to cut Allied forces into two segments from east of Avranches. The Allied communique said that the enemy again had recaptured Mortain and heavy fighting has been going on north and west of the town. A German counter-attack at Gathemo to the northwest was checked.

Decisive Blows of War

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 10 (A. P.).—Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters announced today the consolidation of its airborne personnel into a new unit approximating the size of a full army, under command of Lieut.-Gen. Lewis H. Brereton.

Both flyers and ground combat personnel are included.

The innovation gives Gen. Eisenhower a large force with unprecedented co-ordination and mobility, which may soon strike some of the most decisive blows of the war.

Gen. Brereton, colorful veteran of the United States Army Air Forces from the Pacific, Mediterranean and European theaters, has been in command of the United States Ninth Air Force which carried American airborne troops on D day. His deputy commander will be Lieut.-Gen. Frederick Browning of the British Army.

Brereton was succeeded as commander of the Ninth Air Force by Major-Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, who was deputy commander in chief of the Allied Expeditionary Air Force. Vandenberg, in turn, was succeeded in his old post by Major-Gen. Ralph Royce.

The new airborne force is composed of both American and British personnel. Airborne combat troops and their transport previously had been distinctly separate with the fighters an integral part of the ground forces and their "chauffeurs" attached to various air forces.

The new combination will tighten their co-ordination, providing a powerful and exceptionally mobile force which may be injected into a tactical situation with lightning speed.

They Will Strike Decisive Blow of War.

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Aug. 10.—(AP) The Allies tonight uncovered a "secret weapon" which may strike some of the most decisive blows of the war against Germany—a revolutionary new American - British airborne force with the size and power of an army, created under the command of Lt. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton.

The new unit, welding both British and American airborne forces with ground combat personnel, was officially announced as "approximating an army in size and importance." An army may have from six to nine divisions with upwards of 10,000 men in each.

Creation of the new army, embodying an unprecedented combination of striking power and mobility, conjures up a picture of a great sky force plummeting down deep behind the German lines, possibly within Germany itself, to land decisive blows.

The components of the army are the same ones which, as respective parts of the ground and air forces, contributed so greatly to the success of the invasion. Their integration under one command promises increased effectiveness.

Gen. Brereton's deputy commander is a Briton, Lt. Gen. Frederick A. M. (Boy) Browning, husband of the novelist Daphne Du Maurier and an alumnus of the Grenadier Guards, an infantry outfit. He is the former commander of the British airborne troops.

"The objective of the new organization," said Supreme headquarters, "is to integrate and make more effective the large airborne forces at the disposal of the Supreme commander. In this command will be combined both the combat troops and the planes and gliders transporting them."

Gen. Brereton has been commander of the U. S. Ninth air force based in Britain, whose troop carrier command flew American parachute troops and glider infantry in the invasion.

Although celebrated as an air leader in the Philippine, India and Egyptian campaigns, he is a veteran warrior who was in both the signal corps and artillery before the World war, and he actually began his military career with an Annapolis Naval commission.

No Official Name

Thus in both Gen. Brereton and Gen. Browning the new airborne army, as yet without an official name, has leaders experienced in both air and ground operations.

Airborne soldiers heretofore have been strictly a part of the ground forces, while the men who flew them were strictly with the air force, with the additional jobs of carrying airborne supplies and evacuating the wounded.

Gen. Brereton was succeeded in command of the American Ninth air force by Maj. Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, who was deputy commander of the Allied expeditionary air forces under Air Chief Marshal Trafford Leigh-Mallory, and Gen. Vandenberg's old post goes to Maj. Gen. Ralph Royce, who was Brereton's deputy.

8th Army Corps in France

Commanded by Gen. Middleton, It Is Fourth U. S. Corps Identified

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 10 (AP).—The United States 8th Army Corps is operating in France under command of Major General Troy Houston Middleton, it was announced today.

The 8th is the fourth full Army corps disclosed in action. Others are the 7th, 5th and 19th. An army corps consists of two or more divisions.

General Middleton commanded the 45th Infantry Division in Sicily, where it was a part of the American 7th Army led by Lieutenant General George S. Patton Jr.

U. S., British Units Join As First Airborne Army

Eisenhower Tells Troops

Allies Form Airborne Unit

'Chute Army May Soon Strike Some of Most

RUSSIANS DRIVE ON EAST PRUSSIA

Russians Battle Nazis Near Niemen River, 11 Miles from Border.

LONDON, Friday, Aug. 11—(AP)—Russian troops, attacking a bitterly-resisting enemy near the Niemen river in Lithuania, yesterday drove another spearhead to within 11 miles of the German east Prussian border, while other Red army units far to the south crossed the historic Narew river in a gigantic pincers move on that imperilled Nazi province.

Berlin said a battle of "very great proportions" was raging on the East Prussian front and again declared that the reinforced German armies were "greatly outnumbered" by the Russian legions.

Vital Highway Cut

Of equal gravity to the Germans was the Soviet extension of a huge Red army bridgehead across the Vistula river south of Warsaw. Moscow's communique announced the cutting of the Sandomierz-Kielce highway with the capture of 20 miles east of Kielce, and 30 miles beyond the Vistula — last Axis water barrier before Germany itself.

With the seizure of 60 more localities in this key area the Russians now occupy nearly 1,500 square miles of territory beyond the Vistula and are within 75 miles of German Silesia. They are threatening to collapse the enemy communications network between besieged Warsaw and Krakow, German-held bastion in southern Poland, while other Red armies clean out a big area northeast of Warsaw, between the Polish capital and the southern side of the East Prussian border.

Opatow, junction town midway between Kielce and Sandomierz, also was threatened by Russian columns which seized Modliborzyce, five miles southwest, and Gojcow, three miles on the south.

Berlin broadcasts again told of fierce fighting against a Red army bridgehead across the Vistula only 30 miles southeast of Warsaw in the Warka sector. Moscow has never confirmed that crossing.

In western Lithuania the Russians went relentlessly forward on a broad front on both sides of the Niemen river. Raseiniai, 53 miles northeast of Tilsit, was captured. Berlin said the town had been abandoned in flames.

The battleline, moving through 9 localities, extended southward to Taudone, on the Niemen at a point only 20 miles east of the Prussian border, crossed to the south bank at Blogoslavenstvo, and ran through Aszmuce and Valyule. Captured Aszmuce is three miles northeast of Sakiai road junction and only 12 miles from the East Prussian frontier, while Valyule, two miles east of Sakiai, is only 11 miles from East Prussia.

Planes Hammer Nazis

Clouds of Soviet airplanes hammered German concentrations along the roads to Memel, Tilsit and Konigsberg.

While the Russians were gaining on both German flanks on the East Prussian front the Nazi center erupted with a series of counter-attacks which Moscow said were hurled back amid savage fighting. The intensity of the battle was apparent in Moscow's statement that 199 German tanks had been destroyed or wrecked in Wednesday's fighting, and 61 Nazi planes shot down.

The accelerated drive on the southern side of East Prussia resulted in the capture of 50 localities on the western side of the Narew, the water barrier where German armies in the first World war forced the Russians to evacuate their Warsaw salient.

Among the towns seized were Wanewo, 30 miles east of Lomza, big German stronghold linking the Axis defenses between Warsaw and East Prussia, and Sokoly, only 28 miles southeast of Lomza.

Closely allied with these attacks by Gen. G. F. Zakharov's Second White Russian army troops were others to the southwest between Sokoly and Warsaw.

Near Railway

Pivoting from their positions just east of Warsaw the First White Russian army under Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky moved steadily northwestward on a 38-mile front. These troops fast were nearing the Bialystok-Warsaw railway. They captured Stanislawow, 20 miles east of Warsaw and 30 other localities running northeast to Sterdyn, which is near the Bug river and 55 miles northeast of Warsaw. Sterdyn is 42 miles southeast of Lomza.

A total of 285 towns and villages were seized during the day, including Jekabpils and 67 other localities on the Latvian front. The capture of Daugava rail station, five milest northwest of Jekabpils, put the Russians within 60 miles southeast of Riga, Latvian capital on the Baltic. Dzelzava, 85 miles east of Riga, also fell as several Russian armies steadily contracted their trap sprung on two German Baltic armies.

Reds Hit Anew At E. Prussia And Warsaw

London, Aug. 10 (AP)—A grave new Russian flanking threat to both East Prussia and Warsaw in the area "west of the upper Narew river," a famous battleground of the last war, was disclosed today in the German communique.

"West of the upper Narew river, repeated Soviet attacks were either beaten off or checked," the Berlin bulletin said.

Miles From Warsaw

The German radio also reported Russian troops were across the Vistula only 25 miles southeast of Warsaw, the nearest crossing to the Polish capital yet reported.

The report said Soviet troops "succeeded in establishing a bigger bridgehead across the Pilica" river, which flows eastward into the Vistula below the capital. The dispatch underlined an immediate flanking threat to the south of Warsaw as well as to the north.

Battle Scene In 1915

The Narew, where Falkenhayn broke Russian lines just 29 years ago and forced armies of the Czar to evacuate the Warsaw salient, meanders near the south border of East Prussia, generally 5 to 15 miles away. It flows through the important communications center of Lomza and joins the Vistula river just northwest of Warsaw. The communique suggested that Lomza might be in Russian hands.

Any appreciable advance west of the Narew would outflank East Prussia and expose German armies there to entrapment, as the 20 to 25 divisions of the 16th and 18th armies have been reported cut off in Latvia and Estonia. Similarly, such a drive would outflank Warsaw to the north, just as the Polish capital has been flanked loosely to the south by a 41-mile bridgehead west of Vistula in the area about 110 miles below Warsaw.

Warsaw Area Thrust

Moscow dispatches said the Red army had driven a "deep thrust" to the German left flank northeast of Warsaw," but did not mention the Narew river.

"The Red army now has East Prussia open to an outflanking movement," Associated Press Correspondent Daniel De Luce reported from the Russian capital.

Russian communiques this week have told of renewed Russian drives in that area west of Bialystok.

East Prussia Reported Shelled

Moscow also reported Russian artillery near the eastern frontier of East Prussia was incessantly shelling German communications and boundary towns.

For a week or so, Marshal Stalin's Russian communiques have shown that Herculean German defense stands have slowed the Red armies along the 1,200-mile front. Other reasons for the pause are the necessities of consolidating the vast summer gains, improving communications and regrouping the Russian divisions and armies.

Renewed Surge Indicated

The German announcement today and the suggestions in last night's Moscow bulletin indicated that the Russian armies between Warsaw and East Prussia were charging forward again. At points the Narew river flows within 315 miles of Berlin.

The Germans told also of Russian deployment and "tank concentrations, particularly in the big Vistula bend," 60 miles or so below Warsaw, and "west of Kaunas," in the area approaching East Prussia.

Balkan Drive Signs Seen

The Berlin radio reported "certain signs" of a new Russian offensive into the Balkans.

"They are bringing up strong reinforcements," the enemy report said. "It may be assumed that they will attempt to bring down the whole German southern wing by a pincer movement."

Pl... For Latvian Port.

Mosco..., Aug. 10 (A. P.).—Soviet tanks, supported by bombers, rumbled forward toward the Latvian port of Liepaja today in a new drive that carved additional chunks out of the Nazis' Baltic flank.

At the same time Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's forces, despite the bitterest German resistance of the entire summer campaign, extended slowly but inexorably their Vistula River bridgehead below Warsaw, and exploded a troublesome Nazi salient northeast of the Polish capital.

Rokossovsky, held at bay within artillery shot of Warsaw, shoved the Germans back northwest of Siedlce, seemingly in preparation for an offensive to by-pass Warsaw and head for East Prussia.

In the drive toward Liepaja, the Russians seized communications lines around Auce, seventy miles east of the Baltic port. Riga, an even greater prize, was the goal of another Russian column battling farther north.

GERMANY'S OIL RESOURCES HIT

U. S. And British Bombers Also Attack Paris Supply Lines

London, Aug. 10 (AP)—American and British heavy bombers attacked Germany's oil resources today, and Allied tactical air units with a few heavies assisting slashed at enemy supply routes in the area around Paris.

Both fuel dumps and bridges in the vicinity of Paris were hit from Britain by a force of some 250 Liberators with a Mustang escort, and at the same time an Italian-based fleet of 500 Liberators and Flying Fortresses bombed military installations in the Ploesti area of Romania, a leading German oil field.

In one of their increasingly frequent daylight raids, four-motored British Lancasters joined in the campaign to wipe out the fuel supply of the German war machine, attacking an oil storage depot at Dugny, adjoining the Lebourget airfield near Paris, this afternoon. All of the bombers, which were escorted by fighters, returned.

Eight Are Shot Down

Fighters escorting the bombers shot down eight German planes in aerial combat and destroyed 26 more on the ground.

Although the targets around Ploesti itself were described only as military objectives, it was disclosed that a second Liberator force bombed oil installations 19 miles to the northwest. The raid on the Ploesti area, the Americans' 13th of the war and the second in 24 hours, left fires burning.

Mustang and Lightning fighters helped the heavies fight their way through a screen of enemy planes, some of which were shot down. The Germans also protected their targets with a heavy anti-aircraft fire and a smoke screen so thick that the bombing had to be done by instrument.

During August British-based bombers alone have made at least 20 attacks on fuel dumps and 14 on refineries and synthetic oil plants in France and Germany, while a number of Balkan oil production points have been blasted by the Mediterranean air forces.

Medium Bombers Out

American medium bombers and fighter-bombers joined in daylong assaults on transport routes to the north and east of Paris. Two Liberators were missing from the force of 250 which hit this region, and nine escorting fighters also failed to return.

With virtually all the rail and road bridges in the sector west of Paris bounded by the Seine and Loire rivers knocked out, the Allied air forces now are shifting the bulk of their efforts to the east to what the air command calls the second and third lines of interdiction.

Rail Bridges Hit

Marauders hit rail spans on lines leading from Paris to the north and east. They were the Nogent-sur-Seine bridge 50 miles east of the French capital, the Anizy-le-Chateau bridge across the Aisne-Oise canal eight miles southwest of Laon, and the Fismes bridge on the Somme canal 27 miles east of Amiens.

The Marauders were escorted by Lightnings and Thunderbolts and met no enemy fighters, but one bomber failed to return.

Big RAF Halifax bombers attacked flying-bomb launching sites in northern France during the night in a follow-up to a dusk attack on the robot lairs. They also blasted a flying-bomb depot in the Nieppe forest in the Pas de Calais area for the second time in four nights.

Dortmund-Ems Canal Mined

London, Aug. 10 (AP)—In a daring blow at German inland water transport, RAF Mosquito bombers drove through bristling defenses to mine the Dortmund-Ems canal in eastern Germany last night, from as low as 80 feet.

Blasting a path for the bombers through the stretch of defenses, including heavy anti-aircraft guns, searchlights, balloon barrages and German airfields, a special squadron of Mosquito fighters accompanied the mission.

The fighters dove in to fight the ground guns and silenced them by the time the minelayers arrived. So effectively were the fighters, the Air Ministry said, that the bombers made their own markers and took plenty of time to swoop low and lay the explosives. The fighters also had time to strafe barges.

The Dortmund-Ems canal connects the Ruhr with the River Ems, which flows into the sea at Emden.

U. S. AIR FLEET STRIKES PARIS

Another Hits a Smashing Blow at Ploesti.

London, Aug. 10 (A. P.).—Some 250 Liberators and as many Mustang fighters of the English-based Eighth United States Air Force attacked Germany's crippled oil supply and transport systems in the Paris area today, while another fleet, composed of 500 Flying Fortresses and Liberators of the Italian-based Fifteenth United States Air Force, accompanied by Mustangs and Lightnings, smashed for the second time in a dozen hours at the great Romanian oil center of Ploesti.

In yet another assault upon the Nazi oil supplies, British heavy bombers attacked a fuel storage depot just outside Paris at Sugny, adjoining the Le Bourget airfield.

Also today fighter-bombers swept over France and Belgium, and American Marauder bombers struck three railway bridges beyond Paris. These were a span across the Seine at Nogent, fifty miles east of the capital, which was smashed completely, one over the Oise-Aisne Canal at Anizy-le-Chateau, eight miles southwest of Laon; and one at Fismes, to the southeast of Anizy.

The heavy bombers of the Fifteenth started fires licking at the Ploesti refineries, docks and derricks thirty-five miles north of Bucharest. Some installations nineteen miles northwest of Ploesti also were bombed in this thirteenth attack from Italy on the major source of Nazi oil. The Germans used smoke screens, causing the flyers to bomb by instrument. Several enemy fighters were destroyed as the armada broke through a screen of interceptors and loosed their explosives amid a storm of intense flak.

Last Night, Too.

Last night Allied bombers striking from both England and Italy, cut into Germany's dwindling oil supply with assaults on storage depots and production centers. Home-based Lancasters of the Royal Air Force smashed at two fuel dumps in France—at Chatellerault, forty miles south of Tours, where supplies were hidden in the woods, and at Fort d'Engles, about five miles west of Lille. These heavy bombers suffered no losses.

30. 24— 17891

At the same time Mediterranean Air Force night bombers struck Ploesti in a swift follow-up to yesterday's daylight assault on a refinery in Hungary.

AUG 11 1944

Perfectly Co-ordinated

Yesterday heavy bombers of the Fifteenth Air Force smashed the Almasfuzito oil refinery, the Gyor aircraft plant and two airdromes in the Budapest area and the Brod railway yards in Yugoslavia, and at the same time American Thunderbolts and Marauders, in what was described officially as "one of the most perfectly co-ordinated attacks ever staged in the Mediterranean theater," hit the big German air base at Bergamo, twenty miles northeast of Milan. Thunderbolts strafed and silenced every one of the sixty anti-aircraft guns guarding the field, enabling the Marauders to bomb at leisure.

In all operations from the Mediterranean yesterday thirteen Allied planes were lost. One German aircraft was destroyed.

English-based American Marauders, returning to the night operations they initiated before D day, pounded a number of enemy installations without loss, including an ammunition dump at Caudebec, twenty-five miles east of Le Havre on the north bank of the Seine.

Ike's Headquarters Moved To France By Air

London, Aug. 10 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme commander of Allied forces in this theater, has moved his advance command post from Britain to Normandy to maintain close contact with the developing Allied offensive.

A dispatch by Associated Press Correspondent Howard Cowan last night from the general's headquarters said the transfer had been effected in the past few days by air.

Officers and enlisted personnel—including WACs—are living in tents in a camouflaged area under constant patrol by military police. From an airfield near by the general makes speedy trips for personal conferences with his subordinate commanders.

From his trailer living quarters telephone communication is available with supreme headquarters in London.

AUG 11 1944

British Press Showering Praise on U. S. Troops

Give 'Americans,' Not 'Allies' Credit for Break-Through

LONDON, Aug. 10 (AP).—The majority of British newspapers are going the whole way to give American troops full credit for their break-through in France. Papers which formerly headlined that the "Allies" captured this or the "Allies" smashed through that are now featuring the Yanks and doughboys in their biggest type.

Says Some Japs Are On Guadalcanal

London, Aug. 10 (A. P.).—The Tokyo radio said today a small Japanese unit is still in action on Guadalcanal.

The broadcast asserted the unit had been left on the island, but that nothing was heard from it until a few members reached a central Pacific base recently and reported some Japanese were hiding in the jungle and waging guerrilla warfare.

Berlin Accuses Americans of Killing Captives

Note Says Soldiers Were Shot and Blasted With Grenades After Yielding

LONDON, Aug. 10 (AP).—Germany, accused by both Britain and Canada of slaying captured Allied soldiers, announced today she was protesting to American authorities that Nazi prisoners had been killed on the Italian front.

A Berlin broadcast said a strong note of protest was being forwarded through Switzerland over the treatment allegedly given to several Germans who "surrendered after they had used up their ammunition and after being encircled by American infantry." One soldier, Berlin asserted, was "shot by an American soldier in a shed with a revolver." Others were "shot at from a distance of seven yards with rifles," Berlin charged, and "heavy hand grenades were also thrown at the prisoners."

A non-commissioned officer, covered by the bodies of his comrades, succeeded in escaping from the shed and returning to his unit," the broadcast said.

Berlin asserted this took place July 5 near Castellina Maritima.

The British protested to Germany several weeks ago over the killing of Allied flyers at a German prison camp. Last week Canada officially announced that German troops "wilfully murdered" nineteen Canadian troops taken prisoner in France.

Stettinius Denies Charge

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP).—Edward R. Stettinius jr., Acting Secretary of State, said today it is untrue that American soldiers have killed German prisoners in Italy. Asked whether the State Department had received a German protest, Stettinius said it had not.

TWO MILLION REFUGEES PREDICTED AFTER WAR

By WADE WERNER

LONDON, Aug. 10—(AP) Approximately 2,000,000 refugees without a country will remain after Europe's uprooted millions are returned to their homes after the war, the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration estimated today.

The war has displaced some 12,000,000 persons in Europe, 9,000,000 of whom have been conscripted by the Nazis to work in the war factories and on the farms in Germany and Austria, Fred Taylor, head of the UNRRA displaced persons divisions, told a press conference.

The remaining 3,000,000 are mostly somewhere in occupied countries other than their own, yet all these do not include a surplus of 2,000,000 Europeans, he said.

These will be former inhabitants of various European countries whose own countries won't take them back or who don't want to go back," he added.

UNRRA will maintain these people until suitable resettlement areas can be found for them by the inter-governmental committee on refugees.

Nazis Claim Sinking Of Eight Allied Ships

London, Aug. 10 (AP)—The German communique said today that "special weapons of the German navy," otherwise undefined, had been used in the Seine Bay to sink six loaded supply vessels totaling 25,500 tons, a destroyer and an escort vessel.

"A large enemy destroyer was damaged badly by a bomb hit in waters west of Brest," the broadcast bulletin said. "Vessels escorting a German convoy sank two American E-boats (motor torpedo boats) south of Jersey Island, one by ramming in close-quarter fighting."

No Allied account of these alleged clashes was available.

Patton In Brittany?

London, Friday, Aug. 11—(AP)—The German Transocean news agency said today that "command of the Third American Army (in France) seems to be in the hands of (Lieut. Gen. George S.) Patton, who is an exponent of mobile warfare," and that "ten fully motorized divisions at present are operating in the coastal regions of Brittany" under him.

YUGOSLAV PARTISANS SMASH NAZI DIVISION

LONDON, Aug. 10—(AP) Marshal Tito reported tonight that partisan Yugoslav troops had smashed part of the first German Alpine division and a Chetnik formation after several days of bloody battle along the Ibar river in Serbia.

The second victorious communique of the day reported clashes on various other fronts which cost the Germans 200 dead and much equipment and transport.

Earlier Tito had reported a drive toward the improtant town of Pec in southern Montenegro, during which Partisan troops seized the strong point of Gusinje. At the same time the Partisans in Eastern Bosnia were reported cutting to pieces the 13th SS Division.

The Free Yugoslav radio said fierce fighting was in progress in Central Bosnia, and that west of Sarajevo the Partisans were engaging the German 21st Division.

Russians Grant Amnesty

LONDON, Aug. 10 (AP).—The Russians have granted amnesty to all Polish citizens sentenced for crimes committed within the Soviet Union, the Moscow radio announced tonight. Exceptions are murder, espionage and banditry.

GERMAN GENERAL SEES NAZI RULE BREAKING UP

LONDON, Aug. 10 — (AP) Gen. Walter von Sidlitz, president of the Free German National committee in Soviet Russia, broadcast by Moscow radio today that "the whole Hitler system is cracking up, militarily and politically," and that many anti-Nazi plotters still were within the ranks of German armed forces.

"We know that large parts of the armed forces were involved in the July 20 revolt," he said, "and those concerned were and still are members of the German army, navy and Luftwaffe and the administration."

NAZI GENERAL CITED

LONDON, Aug. 10—(AP) Adolf Hitler has awarded Gen. Sepp (Joseph) Dietrich, commander of an SS tank corps, the oak leaves with swords and diamonds to the Knight's Cross of the Iron Cross, the highest award of the order, for "repeatedly frustrating British-Canadian breakthrough attempts in the Caen sector," DNB announced from Berlin today.

Dietrich, former commander in chief of Hitler's bodyguard, has been named by the Russians as a war criminal.

MORGENTHAU RETURNS FROM NORMANDY FRONT

LONDON, Aug. 10—(AP) Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau returned today from a visit to the American sector in Normandy and said he found the former German-supported black markets wiped out and Allied currency "being received with complete confidence by the local population and the banks of the area."

"Furthermore," the U. S. cabinet member said, "our troops are not causing inflation. Our troops do not engage in extensive spending nor in the purchase of supplies essential to the local population. Nearly all the money paid our troops is being sent back home voluntarily in the form of family remittances, for the purchase of war bonds and for other savings, leaving less than 10 per cent, according to army records, to be spent in one form or another."

MASS SUICIDES IN FRANCE BARED

Liverpool, Aug. 10 (A. P.).—Jews interned at the Grand Hotel of Vittel, France, were reported by British civilian repatriates today to have committed mass suicide upon hearing a rumor that the Germans were singling them out for further persecutions.

The British civilians arrived here from Lisbon aboard the exchange ship Drottningholm.

Mrs. Annie Harding said that panic broke out among the Jews held at Vittel, 170 miles southeast of Paris, when it was reported that they were being moved elsewhere for more severe treatment.

Many threw themselves from the windows of the Grand Hotel, she said, and others poisoned themselves while some even tried to do away with their children.

Susan Lovell said she had seen many German soldiers in patched uniforms in the last few months.

"They talked to us freely about the progress of the war going favorably for the Allies," she said. "The attacks on Germany have been terrific. I saw a lot of it on the way home. Whole towns have been flattened."

Of the trip from German territory, Mrs. Harding said:

"With Allied bombing the journey became a real nightmare. Once the train was hit by bombs and the engine was smashed to pieces."

British civilian repatriates began disembarking today shortly after the ship's arrival from Lisbon, but a Ministry of Health official said that their number was considerably less than the 900 originally expected.

The official said that inquiries aboard the ship showed some discrepancy between the passenger list and the one which had been supplied earlier.

Himmler's Men Reported Killed By Nazi Officers

Reds Tell of Fight in East Prussia as Gestapo Tried to Arrest Army Chiefs

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Aug. 11 (Friday).—Shooting broke out in East Prussia, West Prussia and the Danzig area when Nazi S. S. Elite Guardsmen attempted to arrest German Army officers, the Moscow radio said early today. "Many S. S. men were killed," the Moscow account, recorded here by Reuters, said.

Earlier a Moscow broadcast quoted General Walter von Seydlitz, president of the Free Germany National Committee in Russia, as saying that "the whole Hitler system is cracking up, militarily and politically," and that many anti-Nazi plotters still are within the ranks of German armed forces.

"We know that large parts of the armed forces were involved in the July 20 revolt," he said, "and those concerned were and still are members of the German Army, Navy and Luftwaffe and the administration."

Nazis Killed Ives In Ambush

London, Aug. 10 (AP)—Capt. Norman S. Ives, United States director of the port of Cherbourg, and other officers and enlisted men were killed recently in a German ambush near Granville while they were en route to St. Malo.

The navy disclosed today the details of Ives' death, which was announced in Washington yesterday.

The 47-year-old port commandant was on his way overland in a convoy of 14 motor vehicles to study damage to the waterfront installations at St. Malo, across the Bay of Mont St. Michel from Granville, when a greatly superior force of Germans struck from positions of hiding. American combat troops previously had speared through the area.

Convoy Halted By Ruse

Survivors reported that the convoy was halted by a ruse.

Two Nazi infantrymen entered the road with raised hands. Captain Ives was suspicious. He stopped the cars but deployed his men along a frontal area extending 200 yards on each side of the road.

Almost immediately a hail of machine-gun and rifle fire came from Germans concealed in the surrounding woods and fields.

Fight Lasts Three Hours

A three-hour fight ensued. Captain Ives' men held off the Germans with small-arms fire while a member of the party escaped to seek aid from a United States armored division a few miles to the rear. Ives and others were shot to death. The total casualties were not announced.

The survivors were relieved by four tanks and two personnel carriers, which blasted enemy positions and covered the withdrawal.

Confirmation Is Lacking On Balkan Peace Moves

Istanbul, Aug. 10 (AP)—Residents of Istanbul, nervously alert at the possibility of attack now that Turkey has severed relations with Germany, were jarred wide awake early today by anti-aircraft fire. Air-raid sirens sounded. The fire was from the direction of the upper Bosporus, but no planes were visible from the city and no bombs were heard. The fire ceased after five minutes.

London, Aug. 10 (AP)—New rumblings that two of Hitler's Balkan satellites, Bulgaria and Romania, are seeking a way out of the war came today from Turkey, but so far there has been no official Allied word to lift this or any of the previous reports out of the category of rumor.

An Istanbul dispatch from Associated Press Correspondent Frank O'Brien said reports, wholly unconfirmed, were circulating there that Bulgaria had asked the Turkish Government to arrange peace terms with the Allies.

Rumor On Romania

At the same time other unsubstantiated Turkish reports represented Romania as carefully watching for any Russian-Finnish peace moves as a guide to whether the time is propitious to quit. It was said that a new government, already formed, would take over and ask Russia for an armistice if the terms to Finland are moderate.

Bulgaria is at war only with the western Allies, not Russia. Romania is fighting with Hitler against all his enemies.

O'Brien said the Bulgarian report was given some color by the fact that Dr. Floyd Henson Black, for 18 years president of the American College in Bulgaria and now president of the American College in Istanbul, had left Istanbul hurriedly for Ankara.

Knowledge Of Bulgaria

O'Brien added that it was believed that the United States Embassy had called Black into consultation because of his intimate knowledge of Bulgaria, his personal friendship with the Bulgarian minister to Turkey, Nikola Balabanov, and the wide respect he commands in Bulgaria.

By the word-of-mouth accounts circulating in Turkey, the western Allies have demanded that Bulgaria oust German armed units before talking about an armistice. A traveler who had just reached Istanbul from Bulgaria declared that Ivan Bagrianov, premier of the puppet government in Sofia, was "determined to get the Germans out" and that Bulgaria would throw them out if they were not gone by the end of August. This source said less than one German division remained in Bulgaria.

Changes In Army Reported

O'Brien said Bagrianov recently made a number of changes in the Bulgarian army command, setting aside known pro-Germans in favor of moderates who would follow orders if told to attack the Nazi forces.

Salvoes Of Robots Again Hit England

London, Aug. 10 (AP)—Daylight alerts today broke the brief lull London enjoyed from the Germans' flying bombs as the Nazis fired robot salvoes from across the Channel and provoked strong defensive fire.

Ground gunners in one sector shot down a pair of the bombs and fighter planes and balloon defenses also joined in thinning down the missiles before they penetrated inland. RAF Lancasters pounded the robot sites in northern France again during the afternoon.

Curious Flock To London

The relative respite from robots posed a problem for authorities in the capital—an influx of people curious to see what the robots are like and what damage they had done.

This reverse flow of traffic into London, at a time when everyone who can get out is being encouraged to do so, caused official concern. One worn-out train passenger remarked that the struggle to get into London was worse than the struggle to get out.

Censorship restrictions regarding the flying bombs have been tightened in the last 24 hours.

Lack Of Information Deplored

Don Iddon, the New York correspondent of the Daily Mail, here on a visit, wrote in his paper:

"It is strange that, in a country as small yet as large of heart as ours, three quarters of the people have only a slight conception of the ordeal which the rest of the population is undergoing.

"I am talking again about the flying bomb after ten days in London and traveling in the provinces. No one seems apparently except to issue a few dry statistics.

"The flying bomb is Britain's biggest story, and it is going largely unreported."

Iddon added that there was nothing alarming in the situation.

Only a few robots came over today, hitting southern England and the London area at daybreak.

Announcement was made today that the flying bombs now carry about a score of incendiaries which are scattered by the force of the robot's explosion. The Ministry of Home Security, after examining the bombs, said that the regular fire-prevention arrangements would be continued.

Reich Scours Home Front For More Troops

London, Aug. 10 (AP)—Propaganda Minister Goebbels banned all public meetings and entertainments in Germany not directly connected with the war today in a series of sweeping decrees seeking troops for the Reich's depleted armies.

Acting in his new capacity as the Reich's plenipotentiary for the total war effort, Goebbels dug deeper into the thinly spread home-front manpower of Germany for reserves.

All domestic servants of foreign extraction were directed immediately into war industry. German servants will go into army uniforms, into war factories or into families with children where servants may be deemed essential.

The decrees reduced the number of employes in railways, postal and cultural services. The Berlin radio said they would soon be published formally.

"Sham Work" Abolished

Women up to 50 were ordered to work and all "sham work" was abolished. A series of age classes of men reserved for industrial jobs was withdrawn and the men were ordered into the armed forces.

"A considerable number of the classes of those hitherto exempt from conscription and particularly needed by the fighting fronts will, with the consent of Armaments Minister Speer, be drawn from war industries and trained," one decree said.

"Those people who hitherto had but little opportunity of participating in the common war effort will be made to serve in armaments production, by the intensification of home work on as large a scale as possible." This apparently applied to physical defectives.

"Cultured Life" Hit

"Cultural life will be restricted considerably," the Goebbels decrees said, "all film theater staffs will be placed at the disposal of the armaments industry.

"Every German citizen will now and still more in weeks and months to come—have to serve the nation with all his strength. Everything that is not in compliance with the hardness of our struggle must be eliminated."

The broadcast closed on the stern note that the German will find "his personal standard of living will necessarily be influenced more by the war."

CORNERED NAZIS SHOOT OFFICERS

ST. MALO, France, Aug. 10 — (AP) Beleaguered Germans within the citadel of St. Malo argued by telephone with besieging Americans today whether the trapped garrison should surrender or continue to fight. But in the city streets, as the Americans moved in, German troops had no doubts, and some of them shot their officers to give up.

The Germans hemmed in the citadel agreed wholeheartedly with the Americans in the telephone discussion that it would be foolish to fight on, but added that was what they intended to do.

No such spirit was found as the Americans smashed into the city yesterday in flaming hand-to-hand fighting and occupied all of it except the port's rocky fortress.

An American officer said the Nazis gave up in batches of 100 or more, among them a lieutenant-colonel wounded by his own men so they could surrender. One German sergeant came out from a strongpoint waving a white handkerchief, and after him 80 more came tumbling out when they saw their comrade taken without being shot. This sergeant told the Americans the men had to shoot their own officer before they could give up.

The argument by telephone was the latest development in the siege of St. Malo, coastal beach resort, which 10,000 Nazi workers converted into one of the strongest fortresses in France in the last two years.

During the day American troops mopped up the strongly-guarded streets, pulled 400 prisoners from Fort Josef, at the outskirts, including Lt. Col. Jaeger, deputy commander of the Port defenses, and across the estuary of the Rance river converged on the garrison trapped in Dinard, another famous watering place.

The capture of Fort Josef raised to more than 5,500 the prisoner total for St. Malo, and several thousand more Germans are believed resisting in the Citadel and Dinard.

Col. Von Auloch, commander of the garrison, held firm in his underground headquarters in the granite citadel, which sheds artillery shells like a tin roof sheds hail.

The Americans unleashed dive bombers and tank destroyers, set up loud speakers which blared ultimatums, and even sent a captured German chaplain to try to shake the obdurate colonel bent on fighting to the last.

The garrison also was believed sustained by the hope that the German attack around Mortain would break through to its relief.

In cleaning up St. Malo troops came across a Nazi communication line leading into the citadel.

"We tapped the wire and asked to speak to Col. Von Auloch," said Major J. M. Alexander, Garth Road, Scarsdale, N. Y. "We couldn't get through to him, but we did reach a group of 15 or 20 Germans in a pillbox so we put in a little missionary work on them.

"Boy, were they startled to hear us. They agreed that a further fight was foolish since they are in a hopeless position, but they said they were under orders to stay at their posts."

French refugees and German prisoners said the colonel suffered delusions as the result of a head wound at Stalingrad and was embittered by the death of his wife and children in a Berlin bombing raid.

'Stalingrad' Of St. Malo: Men Shoot Officers To Surrender

By HAROLD V. BOYLE

St. Malo, France, Aug. 9 (AP—Delayed)—German troops began shooting their own officers today in order to surrender as Americans in hand-to-hand battles occupied all St. Malo except the port's rocky citadel.

Inside this battered granite fortress the garrison still held out under the command of a fanatical leader, Colonel von Auloch, a tall, gray-haired man, who was carrying out his threat to make this fashionable beach resort a "new Stalingrad."

Wounded At Stalingrad

A veteran of the Russian front, seemingly obsessed on the subject of Stalingrad, the commander had sworn his determination to turn St. Malo into a similar siege even if the hopeless fight cost the lives of all his men and himself.

French refugees and German prisoners said the colonel suffered delusions as the result of a head wound received at Stalingrad and was embittered by the death of his wife and children in a Berlin bombing raid.

Streaming back from barricaded streets are remnants of his motley army—hundreds of Todt organization workers, marines, headquarters soldiers, truck drivers, cooks, parachute troops, sailors and "punishment platoons" — a beaten sweaty, dirty misfit group of soldiers who had lost most of their Nazi cockiness.

Many are middle-aged, many are wounded, many limp as they march to the rear.

"A Sloppy Army"

"Their commander just lined up every German in the port area, gave a machine gun to every fifth man and a rifle to the others and threw them all into the front line of combat," said Capt. T. C. Roberts, West Hartford, Conn. "They are a sloppy army."

Many more prisoners have been taken today, raising the total for the four-day siege to 5,800, and another 3,000 wounded are reported in the large hospital within the city.

"They have been giving up in groups of 100 or more," said Captain Roberts. "We bagged a couple of lieutenant colonels and a lot of other officers. One lieutenant colonel had been wounded by his own men so they could give up.

"Several prisoners told us they kept fighting only because the officers held pistols at their backs."

Troops fighting toward the fort were within a quarter of a mile of its site on the bay and advancing slowly under the fire of German naval guns on islands in the harbor.

"We have cut the power line and water main leading to the citadel," said Capt. George White, of Toledo, Ohio, in command of a post in the St. Servan area where snipers still were firing.

Tank Destroyers Attack

"We are shelling them now with tank destroyers, anti-tank guns, artillery and mortars," White continued. "But they are in fortifications 45 feet deep beneath solid rock."

Lieut. Col. Herbert H. Hauge, of Des Moines, Iowa, said the fort's defenses were as tough to crack as Cherbourg's and said there was bitterness among prisoners because high-ranking officers in many cases had pulled back into the safety of the fortress.

Loud speakers induced many to surrender.

"We pound them with artillery for five minutes, then broadcast an ultimatum giving them half an hour to come out," explained Major J. M. Alexander, of Scarsdale, N. Y.

It appeared necessary to shatter the port's fortress with dive bombers before the infantry could storm through the bottleneck entrance covered by Nazi 280-mm. naval rifles.

Enemy torpedo boats in the Rance estuary gave some fire support to the enemy and possibly were standing by to evacuate a few German officers.

"North of St. Malo we have got a group of French volunteers under command of a French army captain cleaning out German snipers," Lieut. Robert J. Fitzgerald said. "It is all we can do to keep this gang from taking on the whole German army."

"This is the heaviest street fighting we ever ran up against," Captain Roberts said. "Our boys had to wade through dugouts in cellars, concrete pilboxes built into the sides of buildings, machine-gun posts in the streets, blockhouses and even air-raid shelters converted into strongpoints.

Heard Of Counterattack

"One reason the

30. 24 — 17893

One reason they have been fighting so hard is that two days ago they were told the Germans in a big counterattack had broken through to Avaranches and cut us in half. At first they wouldn't believe us when we told them the truth."

"One German sergeant came out of a strong point waving a white handkerchief," said Technical Sergeant Harry Downard, former motion picture cameraman from San Diego, Cal. "Then 80 more men came tumbling out as soon as they saw he was taken prisoner without being shot. The sergeant told us that he had to shoot his own officer before he could give up."

The St. Malo garrison is believed to have totaled about 10,000 men.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, appearing before a convocation of paratroopers, airborne infantry and combat crews of the troop carrier command today, informed them of their amalgamation into one great Allied airborne army.

With him was Lt. Gen. Brereton who was named commander of the new team of British and American sky soldiers, heretofore under some half dozen separate commands.

Pointing the way to still greater employment of paratroopers and glider borne infantry, the Supreme commander told two assemblies of D-Day veterans:

Confident of Success

"In airborne operations lies one of our great opportunities for further successes. My unbounded pride in what you have done in the past does not equal my confidence in what you are going to do in the future. Through your effective employment we will end this war far more quickly than we could without you."

The Supreme commander told the airborne troops the great operations now proceeding in France possibly could not have taken place without them. He said he seriously doubted whether the Allies could have landed on the Normandy beaches without the airborne spearhead.

Eisenhower likewise paid tribute to the British Sixth Airborne division which landed its blows at the eastern end of the Allied line. He told the troops he was deeply indebted to them for what they had done but emphasized he was going to owe them more in the future.

This brought a roar of laughs and an awkward silence.

Eisenhower told them quickly he was just as anxious to go home as any of them but that none of them belonged in the airborne branch of service unless he was determined not to go home until we had won the job we had to do.

Then, he said they'd be able to go home and do what they wanted to. Jokingly he added he thought everybody ought to go fishing.

His remarks came in the course of an informal address to the troops after a brief ceremony during which Eisenhower decorated five men with the Distinguished Service Cross and 10 with the Silver Star for gallantry during and subsequent to the D-Day airborne operations.

WITH GEN. EISENHOWER AUGUST 2 - COWAN

FRENCH BOY SAVES SPAN

WITH THE U. S. FIRST ARMY IN FRANCE, Aug. 10.—(AP) Germans planted explosive charges beneath an important bridge as a 14-year-old French lad watched. He later slipped under the span and disconnected the detonator, saving the bridge, it was disclosed today.

DOUGHBOYS BET ON NAZI COLLAPSE

With United States Troops in France, Aug 10 (A. P.).—So intense is the conviction among American troops that Germany is in a state of near collapse that many already are placing bets on her fall anywhere between October and New Year's.

Correspondents with the United States First Army formed a pool bet on when Paris will be captured, with predictions ranging from August 15 to October 1. The favorite date in the pool is September 1.

Negro Trucking Unit Cited By Eisenhower

With the United States First Army in France, Friday, Aug. 11 (AP)—A Negro trucking unit was cited today by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme Allied commander, for superior service on D-day and after, when it fought side by side with the infantry to secure the first motor pool area.

The unit was in a quartemaster truck company which was the only one to land on D-day, and when 12 of the 48 trucks were destroyed, the unit salvaged other abandoned trucks and brought the operating efficiency up to 90 per cent. of capacity.

ALLIED TROOPS ATTACK NAZIS IN ADRIATIC SECTOR

ROME, Aug. 10.—(AP) Polish and Italian troops attacked the Germans in the Adriatic sector of the Italian front today, quickly captured Francavilla and tonight were nearing the Cesano river, 40 miles below Rimini.

(The German radio heard by Reuters in London said tonight "British troops today reopened their great offensive in Italy after regrouping their forces.")

In the Allied-held southern section of Florence, Canadian troops, helped by 250 Italian patriots, cleaned up hostile Fascist pockets and lashed out at snipers.

The Vatican made arrangements to send food and water to the population of Florence, caught between the Allied and German armies.

The Polish-Italian drive in the East was headed toward the line of the Misa river and toward Rimini, Adriatic city of about 30,000, 69 miles southeast of Bologna.

Allied headquarters said the Germans had withdrawn their main force in the Arno river bend east of Florence, leaving the Allies in possession of all high ground in that sector. Only minor operations were reported on the Fifth and Eighth army fronts, where Allied troops presumably were resting preparatory to an assault against the German Gothic line.

Today's announcement that Canadian troops were in action was the first disclosure that they were back in the line. South African troops previously entered and held southern Florence.

On the Fifth army front American artillery fire broke up an attempt of the enemy to build an underwater bridge across the lower Arno near San Giovanni Alla Vena, eight miles east of Pisa. Advancing Eighth army troops confirmed reports that the Nazis had burned the village of Guiliano, nine miles north of Arezzo.

The Italian Gen. Potente of the Partisans' Garibaldi brigade was killed in a brush with enemy snipers south of Florence three days ago, Allied headquarters disclosed.

Naval headquarters announced that the ports of Livorno (Leghorn) on the west coast and Ancona, on the east coast, now were clear and open to shipping. Harbor facilities of both ports had been wrecked by the retreating Germans.

Other important supply points recently restored to use along both coasts include Civitavecchia, San Stefano, Piombino and Ortona.

Pope Seeks To Send Food To Florentines

Rome, Aug. 10 (AP)—The Vatican took steps today to help the Allies relieve the desperate plight of the population of Florence, while Canadian troops, aided by 250 Italian Patriots, mopped up hostile Fascist elements in the Allied-held southern portion of the city.

Transportation facilities to send flour and other necessities to the Archbishop of Florence for distribution to a population suffering from food and water shortages was asked by the Vatican.

At the same time Italian and Polish troops in the Adriatic sector launched a new drive across the Misa river line. The Poles captured Francavilla, only a mile south of the Cesano river.

150 Rounded Up

The Allied command said 150 men and women found in possession of small arms and grenades were arrested in Florence in the roundup of hostile elements who occupied the area between the Via del Serragli and the Via Romana, the working men's quarter.

Snipers have been giving the Eighth Army trouble from the moment the first patrols entered the city.

Florence Is Jammed

Only minor operations were reported along most of the Eighth and Fifth army fronts as the main body of German forces, which has been resisting strongly in the bend of the Arno river east of Florence, withdrew to the northern banks. Infantry moved up to that area.

A part of the population of Florence, including some of the many thousands of refugees who have overcrowded the city, have moved into the near-by countryside, where they were subsisting upon fruits and the first food distributed by Allied authorities.

On the Fifth Army front, enemy attempts to build an underwater bridge across the lower Arno in the vicinity of San Giovanni Alla Vena, eight miles east of Pisa, was frustrated by American artillery fire.

Reports that the Nazis had burned the village of Guiliano, nine miles north of Arezzo, were verified by advancing Eighth Army troops.

Italian General Killed

Headquarters announced the death of Italian General Potente, of the Partisans' Garibaldi Brigade, in a skirmish with enemy snipers south of Florence.

While United States 15th Air Force heavy bombers yesterday smashed the Almasfuzito oil refinery, the Gyor aircraft plant and two airdromes in the Budapest area and the Brod rail yards in Yugoslavia, American Thunderbolts and Marauders, in what was termed officially "one of the most perfectly coordinated attacks ever executed in the Mediterranean theater," hit the big German air base at Bergamo, 20 miles northeast of Milan.

Thunderbolts straffed and silenced every one of the aproximately 60 anti-aircraft guns guarding the field.

In all operations 13 Allied planes were lost.

Italy Ports Cleared

Rome, Aug. 10 (AP)—The important ports of Livorno and Ancona, seized by the Allies in Italy after their harbor facilities were destroyed by the retreating Nazis, have been cleared and are open to shipping, it was announced today.

A naval spokesman said the Livorno harbor, on the west coast, has been swept of mines and opened for receiving supplies for Allied forces along the southern banks of the Arno river.

The Ancona harbor on the east coast also has been cleared and opened to shipping. Other vital supply ports cleared along recently-won sectors on the west and east coasts included Civitavecchia, San Stefano, Piombino and Ortona.

TITO DIDN'T SEE POPE

Vatican City, Aug. 10 (A. P.)—Marshal Tito's trip to St. Peter's Basilica Tuesday was purely as a sightseer, it was learned today.

The Yugoslav partisan leader did not call on any Vatican officials. He and his staff walked through the Basilica, inspected its altars and statues, but did not pray there. Scores of Allied soldiers present did not recognize him.

FASCISTS ARRESTED

ROME, Aug. 10—(AP) Gen. Giuseppe Valle, undersecretary for air under Benito Mussolini for five years, was arrested and interned today by Italian authorities in a roundup of 600 prominent Fascists.

Others arrested included Senator Liugi Russo, former under-secretary of state, and Gaetano Polverelli, Mussolini's last minister of popular culture, who supported the Duce in the grand council meeting which deposed him.

Two Raid Alerts In Day Sounded In Istanbul

Istanbul, Aug. 10 (AP)—Istanbul was jarred for the second time today by an air alert and this time anti-aircraft defenses opened up on what appeared to be an American Flying Fortress passing directly overhead from west to east at about 5,000 feet.

The alert, which came at 1.55 P. M., was followed immediately by an all clear as the plane, apparently undamaged, passed quickly out of sight.

Earlier the city, nervous after the rupture of relations with Germany, had an alert at 2.56 A. M., followed by anti-aircraft fire from the direction of the upper Bosporus, but no planes were visible, and fire ceased after five minutes.

LeonBlumHanged At Lublin, Report To Moscow Says

Moscow, Aug. 10 (AP)—A story that Leon Blum, former Popular Front Premier of France, was forced to help build a gallow upon which he was then hanged, came today from Lublin—once notorious Nazi death factory.

It was reported by Konstantin Simonov, correspondent for the Russian army newspaper, Red Star, and was the first hint that the former Premier might have perished with hundreds of thousands of others, mostly Jews, at Lublin.

[A dispatch July 6 from Irun, Spain, said it was understood the aged Blum was being held in a chateau in central Germany.]

Forced To Help Build Gallows

Simonov said an "extermination camp" had been set up, consisting of crematories and a system of gallows which Blum was forced to help build.

Simonov talked with two Lublin engineers who said they saw Blum dragging planks at the death factory last May, and he was pointed out to them by a Lublin Jew.

One engineer said he stopped the old man and asked:

"Are you Leon Blum?"

"Yes," the old man replied, "I am Leon Blum."

Made No Attempt To Escape

The old man said he had been brought in "with the last group of French prisoners" and had made no attempt to save himself because "I decided to share the fate of my people."

A week later, the engineers told Simonov, they returned to the camp, asked about Blum's whereabouts and were told by the Jew who first pointed him out:

"There," pointing to the sky, "where we will all be soon."

Simonov reported that the Lublin camp, discovered when the Russians captured Lublin July 24, was the biggest "death combine" built by the Germans.

"Dozens Of Thousands" Slain

Russian war prisoners, civilians, 2,000 Jews from Lublin and 12,000 from Czechoslovakia, Austria and Germany were forced to build it, the correspondent reported.

He said he visited death fields where "dozens of thousands" of victims were placed in layers on planks and layers of wood and burned. The Soviet press carried pictures of these "stoves," great piles of victims' shoes, and stacks of tanks of poison gas.

Among them, Simonov asserted, were half-blinded Czechs who had been forced to work for six months underground making flying bombs now being used against Britain and had lost their reason as well as sight and were therefore useless to Hitler.

REPORT LEON BLUM KILLED BY NAZIS

By EDDY GILMORE.

Moscow, Aug. 10 (A. P.).—Konstantin Simonov, correspondent for the Army newspaper Red Star, made public today a story that indicated former Premier Leon Blum of France had died at the Nazis' death factory near Lublin.

Simonov's story of Hitler's biggest enterprise dedicated to the destruction of life said hundreds of thousands of persons, principally Jews, were systematically and methodically killed there since the winter of 1941.

The correspondent said that the "extermination camp" consisted of death fields with scientific crematories and a system of gallows which Blum was forced to help build.

[A dispatch on July 6 from Irun, Spain, said it was understood that Blum and former Minister Georges Mandel were held in a chateau in central Germany. Lublin, in pre-war southeastern Poland, was captured by the Russians July 24.]

Interviewing two Lublin engineers who reported they saw Blum at the death factory in May of last year, Simonov got this story:

"You know who that man is?" asked a Lublin Jew who knew one of the engineers, indicating an elderly man dragging some planks. "He is Leon Blum."

The engineer said that there happened to be no Gestapo men about at the moment so he stopped the old man and asked:

"Are you Leon Blum?"

"Yes," said the old man. "I am Leon Blum."

"The Prime Minister of France?"

"Yes, the Prime Minister of France."

The engineer asked the man how he got to Lublin.

"With the last group of French prisoners," he replied wearily.

"Why did you not try to save yourself there at home? Was it impossible?"

"I do not know," the man replied. 'Perhaps I could not. I decided to share the fate of my people."

Tears rolled down the man's cheeks as he shuffled off with his planks at the appearance of two Storm Troopers. He stumbled with his load and fell. Some one helped him up. He moved on.

A week later the two engineers returned to camp and met the man who had introduced them to Blum. They asked where he was.

The man lifted his hand toward the sky.

"There, he replied, "where we will all be soon."

Reds Say: "Allies Can Do It"

MOSCOW, Oct. 10 (AP).—The Russian press today acclaimed the brilliant Allied successes on the French front with a call for an all-out drive on Paris.

The government newspaper "Izvestia," in its international review, said the big Allied breakthroughs have "demonstrated once more that in the west Hitler did not possess the forces which could seriously prevent an offensive on Paris."

"It is extremely important to chase the German invaders from the west and deprive them of any hope of delaying the war," the review added. "The Allies can do it, which has been proved by the course of operations."

Finns Claim a Victory

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Aug. 10 (AP)—The Finns tonight claimed a major victory over the Russians in the Ilomants sector of the front north of Lake Ladoga, where, a special communique said, two Red Army divisions were partly annihilated and a large amount of booty captured.

CHINESE FORCES ATTACK JAPANESE HENGYANG LINE

CHUNGKING, Aug. 10—(AP) Chinese forces sharply attacked Japanese battle lines around Hengyang today in an apparent attempt to retake the city before the enemy has a chance to dig in and clinch his hold on the newly-captured prize.

In the western Yunnan province campaign to clear the Burma road, American anti-aircraft guns, manned by the first American ground forces to fight in China and depressed for use as field artillery, blasted away at the last Japanese positions on Sungshan mountain.

Capture of the Sungshan mountain stronghold would knock all the Japanese from the Burma road from Salween river to Lungling, 25 miles southwest.

The Chinese high command confirmed that Hengyang was lost to the Japanese Aug. 8. It said the defenders were killed virtually to the last man. Nothing was known of the fate of five Chinese generals who sent a farewell message from the city to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek declaring they would fight to the death with their men.

Heavy fighting was in progress for important heights south of Hengyang. American airmen shot down nine Japanese planes without loss in a fight over the Yangtze. Enemy operations south of Hengyang will become a "march of death," said the National Herald, organ of the Chinese foreign office.

(A Japanese propaganda broadcast called the fall of Hengyang a 'major disaster" for American forces as well as the Chinese and declared that "although the city actually was garrisoned by Chungking soldiers, its defense and desperate resistance offered during the past few weeks was entirely directed by American officers." This declaration was entirely unconfirmed.

(The Domei broadcast quoted Lt. Col. Isao Izbuchi, spokesman for Japanese forces in central China, as saying that with the occupation of Hengyang the major part of 55 Chinese divisions had been smashed by the Japanese offensive in Hunan in less than three months.)

BATTLE RAGING NEAR HENGYANG

Chinese Seek to Contain Japs in City.

Chungking, Aug. 10 (A. P.).—Heavy fighting outside Hengyang, with Major-Gen. Claire L. Chennault's planes strongly supporting the Chinese who recaptured the Canton-Hankow Railway town of Leiyang, thirty miles south of Hengyang, was reported in press dispatches today.

The Chinese were fighting to contain the Japanese within the Hengyang area. The National Herald, mouthpiece of the foreign office, predicted that enemy operations southward would become a "march of death." Heavy fighting was reported for important heights southwest of the city.

Chennault's airmen shot down nine Japanese planes without loss in a battle over the Yangtze area.

The Chinese High Command confirming the fall of Hengyang said that the city was lost on August 8 after the defenders were killed virtually to the last man. The fate of the defending generals was not known here.

Attacking the Japanese ring around the city, the Chinese apparently were attempting to retake the stronghold before the invaders had time to consolidate their positions.

Yanks In Ground Fighting In China

Chungking, Aug. 10 (AP)—American anti-aircraft guns, manned by the first American units to take part in ground fighting in China, have gone into action in support of Chinese troops attempting to blast the Japanese from their last positions on Sungshan Mountain in western Yunnan province, a Chinese communique announced today.

Although designed for vertical fire, the anti-aircraft batteries have been pressed into service as field artillery and are hammering the enemy with point-blank fire, the announcement said.

Advance At Tengchung

Fall of Sungshan would clear the Burma Road from the Salween river to Lungling, some 25 miles to the southwest.

Meanwhile, at besieged Tengchung, main goal of the Chinese offensive in Yunan, fierce fighting raged as the Chinese battled to drive the Japanese from pillboxes and machine-gun nests in the thick, ancient walls encircling the city. Some progress was made at the western corner of the city and several Japanese counterattacks were driven back, the Chinese said.

ALLIES' BURMA PUSH WINS 2 RAIL TOWNS

SOUTHEAST ASIA HEADQUARTERS, Kandy, Ceylon, Aug. 0 (AP)—Taungni, a Japanese strong point ten miles southwest of Mogaung on the Myitkyina-Mandalay railway, has fallen to Allied troops pressing their moonsoon campaign to throw the Japanese out of northern Burma.

Allied headquarters also announced today that Sahmaw, another railway point halfway between Mogaung and Taugni, was taken by units of the Third Indian Division. The Japanese left many dead and much equipment in the village.

The fighting for the Imphal-Tiddim road in eastern India reached a point twelve miles north of the Burma border, where rear guards of the retreating Japanese were under attack by Indian infantry, tanks and artillery.

week of harassing operation "dow" troops across the Burma border have killed nearly 180 and wounded 100 retreating Japanese.

Allied forces penetrating into the Kabaw Valley beyond the border town of Tamu were unable to make contact with enemy remnants believed to be in that area.

Allied Troops Seize Taungni In Burma

Southeast Asia Command Headquarters, Kandy, Ceylon, Aug. 10 (AP)—Allied troops on the road to Mandalay in northern Burma have captured Taungni, 10 miles southwest of Mogaung, after overrunning Sahmaw, Allied headquarters announced today.

Sahmaw, about midway between Taungni and Mogaung on the railroad, fell to troops of the Third Indian Division, who found many Japanese dead and much abandoned equipment in the village, headquarters declared.

In northern India, meanwhile, Indian infantry, supported by tanks and artillery, was reported attacking the rear guard of retreating Japanese forces 12 miles north of the Burma border on the Imphal-Tiddim road.

1,214 AMERICANS REPORTED KILLED IN GUAM BATTLE

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Aug. 10.—(AP) The reconquest of Guam cost 7,247 American casualties, of whom 1,214 were killed in action, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced in a communique today.

Nimitz said 10,971 Japanese dead have been counted on Guam. This brings to 37,551 the total Nipponese killed in ground fighting during the Marianas campaign.

Earlier, Nimitz announced that the last organized resistance on Guam was wiped out yesterday. The finale came after a 20-day battle, and the Nipponese were overcome without being able to try a final suicidal counterattack which has marked such battles as Saipan.

The Pacific commander reported that 5,704 Americans were wounded and 329 missing during the campaign on Guam. Less than the losses on Saipan, although the newly-conquered area is three times as large as the first captured Marianas island.

On Saipan, the American casualties were 3,049 killed, 13,049 wounded and 365 missing.

Bringing up to date the American casualties during capture of Tinian island, the communique reported an additional 190 killed, 1,515 wounded and 24 missing. The totals to date: 398 dead, 2,636 wounded, 56 missing.

On Tinian, 5,544 Japanese were buried and more than 400 prisoners captured.

The final enemy pocket on Guam was overwhelmed near the northeast corner of the island. American Marines and infantry were engaged in mopping up small enemy groups that had fled into the woods. This was expected to take several days.

The finale produced something new—the Japanese ran for their lives when the end was near instead of dying for their emperor in a suicidal "banzai" charge.

ENEMY RESISTANCE COLLAPSES ON GUAM

Over 10,000 Japanese Killed in Recapture of Strategic Base.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Aug. 10—(AP) The last organized resistance on Guam was wiped out yesterday, bringing to more than 10,000 the number of Japanese killed in trying to hold that American possession, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

With completion of the Guam campaign, Nimitz' Pacific forces have won three strategic Marianas island bases—Saipan, Tinian and Guam — from which the admiral has said the Pacific fleet can project its power "farther westward."

Guam's Japanese garrison, softened up by a prolonged aerial bombing and naval shelling before the American assault waves landed July 20, was overcome without being able to try a final suicidal counter-attack such as marked the end of the Saipan fighting.

Some hungry, battle-worn Japanese are hiding in northern Guam's thick jungle bush. These are being mopped up by Marines and army infantry.

This represented reconquest of the first American island since Kiska and Attu in the Aleutians. Guam was taken by the Japanese shortly after Pearl Harbor.

Nimitz, in his communique today, made only the matter of fact statement that "organized Japanese resistance on Guam island ceased during the afternoon of August 9." He added that Marines and army troops "are engaged in mopping up operations."

On last July 26, Nimitz reported that American forces, then still meeting heavy resistance from the Japanese garrison, had formally raised the United States flag on Guam for the first time since the little island fell.

GUAM ISLAND FIGHTING ENDS

Nimitz Reports That Japs Cease Resistance.

Washington, Aug. 10 (A. P.).—All organized resistance has been eliminated on Guam and American forces now are wiping out isolated groups of enemy troops.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, Pacific Fleet Commander in Chief announced this today, twenty-one days after he disclosed that Marines and Army troops had swarmed ashore on the Western Pacific island.

Conquest of Guam, seized by the Japanese in December, 1941, during their initial surge southward through the Pacific, was completed Wednesday, Admiral Nimitz said. The loss of the island to the Japanese was announced by the Navy, December 13, 1941, in a communique which reported that all communications with Guam had been severed.

Admiral Nimitz, in his communique today, made only the matter of fact statement that "organized Japanese resistance on Guam island ceased during the afternoon of August 9." He added that Marines and Army troops "are engaged in mopping up operations."

On last July 26, he reported that American forces, then still meeting heavy resistance from the Japanese garrison, had formally raised the United States flag on Guam for the first time since the little island fell.

30. 24 — 17895

YANK LIBERATORS RAID PHILIPPINES

Jap Airdrome at Davao Hit in First Attack in 27 Months.

Richard W. Berglholz

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Friday, Aug. 11.—(AP) American Liberator bombers, raiding the Philippines for the first time in 27 months, smashed Japanese airdromes at Davao with three successive night attacks, headquarters announced today.

The last of the three assaults was during Tuesday night and Wednesday morning. Results were not announced.

Davao, principal city on Mindanao, main southern island in the Archipelago, was occupied by the Japanese in late December, 1941.

The last American raid on the Philippines was an attack on Clark field, some 40 miles northward of Manila, April 15, 1942. The formation, from Australia, was led by Brig. Gen. Ralph Royce from Australia.

Bataan had capitulated six days earlier, but Corregidor was still holding out.

Mindanao is within bombing range of newly-acquired American airfields in the Schouten islands, off Dutch New Guinea, approximately 900 miles southwest. The newest American beachhead at Sansapor, at the top of New Guinea, is slightly over 600 miles southeast of Mindanao.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur mentioned the Philippines in his July 24 communique for the first time since the fall of Corregidor, reporting the sinking of a small vessel off Davao. Yesterday, he reported the bombing of a 2,000-ton freighter off Davao.

Today's disclosure told of the first assault against land objectives in the lost islands since Royce's raid.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur yesterday reported the sinking of a 2,000-ton freighter off Davao.

Driniumor Japs Flee

Enemy resistance in the Driniumor river battle front of British New Guinea has ceased, the communique reported. "Remnants of the enemy's demoralized forces which escaped our encircling movements are fleeing south toward the Torricelli mountains or trying to make their way back to Wewak.

This crushing defeat has destroyed the combat effectiveness of Gen. (Hatazo) Adachi's 18th army. Its casualties over the past month are conservatively estimated at approximately 18,000 in dead and wounded."

Level Houses As Raid Defense

New York, Aug. 10 (AP)—The Tokyo radio in a broadcast to Germany recorded by United States Government monitors, said today Japanese schoolchildren had torn down "tens of thousands of houses, entire street sections and residential blocks" in the capital as an air-raid-protection measure, bringing about "one of the great levelings since the earthquake of 1923."

Guam Japs First To Run From A Fight

By Charles P. Arnot

(Representing the Combined Allied Press)

Aboard Admiral Conolly's Flagship, Guam, Aug. 10 (AP)—This was black Thursday for Japan in the western Pacific as organized enemy resistance on Guam flickered faintly in the final stages of one of the Pacific war's strangest campaigns.

For the first time in this island-hopping war, Japanese in large numbers have run for their lives instead of fighting to the death.

Small Pocket Remains

It can now be only a matter of hours before powerful United States ground forces overpower the last pocket of Japanese and Guam is proclaimed an American possession.

For more than 24 hours army and marine patrols have been probing the jungle along the north coast without encountering serious opposition, even on high ground where trenches and foxholes indicated the Japanese probably hoped to make a stand.

But there has as yet been neither the usual desperate final stand nor one of those frenzied banzai charges.

This battle has spurted for days and now is about to die, with panic-stricken Japanese remnants fleeing in disorder through the rolling bush country. The Japanese have lost at least ten men for every American killed, but hundreds of disorganized enemy troops may be hiding in caves and thickets.

The United States troops were puzzled by the lack of a banzai charge.

"The Japs are running whenever they see a marine," said Major Hamilton Hoyer, of Avenie, New Jersey.

"Scared To Death"

Brig. Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd, of La Jolla, Cal., commander of the First Provisional Marine Brigade, described enemy remnants as "scared to death and completely demoralized."

There has been no attempt by the Japanese to reinforce the doomed garrison, and not one single enemy plane ventured over the island.

Radioman On Guam Saved After 31 Months

Tells Of Marines' Futile Battle In 1941—Hid In Bush And Caves While Japs Hunted Him

By RICHARD W. JOHNSON AND REMBERT JAMES

Aboard a Joint Expeditionary Flagship, Marianas Islands, July 12 (AP—Delayed) — Chief Radioman George Ray Tweed, 42, a native of Portland, Ore., emerged today from nearly 1,000 days of hiding in the jungled mountains of Guam to relate the story of the tiny marine garrison's valiant defense of that island against the Japanese.

It was a story rivaling the epic on the defense of Wake Island. It was a story of heroic marines, outnumbered 25 to 40 to 1; of Japanese ruthlessness; of personal courage and endurance unexcelled by anyone in this war.

Rescued By Warship

Tweed told us his amazing tale in the admiral's cabin of this ship less than 36 hours after he had been rescued from Guam by a United States warship.

[A Pearl Harbor dispatch said Tweed was rescued ten days before the landings on Guam.]

His Robinson Crusoe rags had been exchanged for a natty uniform, and he looked fit though tired.

Tweed obviously was elated at the admiral's decision to dispatch him immediately to California for a reunion with his wife, Mary Francis Tweed, and their two children who live at Santa Paula, Cal. They have presumed him dead or a prisoner since Guam's fall, December 10, 1941.

Eyewitness Story

This is his own eyewitness story of the battle for Guam and his escape into the bush:

"I was home asleep the morning of December 8, 1941 (December 7, United States time), when the chief radioman woke me up and said, 'Pearl Harbor has been bombed and the Japs are at war with us.' I got up at once and reported for duty.

"Four hours later — about 9 A. M.—the first Jap planes came over Guam. They came continuously for two days, bombing and strafing.

"At sunset of the second day (December 9) Jap transports showed up on the horizon. The Japs began landing about midnight.

Had "So Few Guns"

"We had so few guns, so little ammunition, there wasn't much we could do to defend. We had only about 200 marines, a few scattered naval personnel and the island defense company.

"The marines on Cabras Island, a narrow strip of land off the harbor, armed only with machine guns, actually repulsed the Japs until their ammunition gave out. A couple of one-pound guns on ships in the harbor fired to the last while a single machine gun on Agana height, above the town, the only anti-aircraft battery we had, exhausted its ammunition.

"The Japs forced a landing and rolled into the town shooting.

Fought To The Last

"The marines fought them street by street, house by house. One squad of marines at the civilian jail had two tommy guns. They fought to the last."

Tweed said the Nipponese slowly battled their way to the town plaza, arriving before dawn, and set fire to a native house for illumination. Then they brought up their field pieces and started point-blank shelling of the Governor's palace.

We asked him if the retreating marines tried to defend the palace. Tweed looked surprised.

"Marines Didn't Retreat"

"The marines didn't retreat," Tweed replied; "I was at the Governor's palace with a dozen navy men and about the same number of insular forces as well as the Governor and most of his officers.

"This was about daybreak of the third day.

"The Governor issued an order to surrender.

"I wondered what to do. I could surrender or go to the bush.

"I went to the bush."

Drove Ten Miles From Town

Tweed said he and another navy radioman rounded up canned food, got Tweed's car and drove ten miles from town. They hid the car in the bushes, took to the jungles and soon met three other navy enlisted men.

"Back in Agana," Tweed continued, "the Japs put the American prisoners in the church and kept them there for 30 days and then took them to Japan. During the next 30 days they did not look for us but warned any Americans found on the island after the surrendered Yanks had been shipped out would be killed.

"A lot of Americans surrendered. We didn't.

Four Others Caught

"We ate the food we had and kept out of sight. I never was captured, but on September 12, 1942, the Japs grabbed two of our group and killed them. They located two more in a hiding place the following month and killed them October 22.

"After that I was entirely on my own."

Tweed moved frequently, hiding in ravines, scaling mountains, always ahead of his pursuers, who never gave up the search.

Finally he discovered a high cliff facing the sea. It was such a barren rock he didn't believe the Japanese ever would look there and locate a cave. That became Tweed's hermitage.

He caught rain water for drinking and washing and made weekly nocturnal forays for food. From his vantage point he could see Japanese planes fly off, and could look eastward over the broad Pacific toward home.

He never gave up hope.

When Japanese bombers began their northward missions from Guam, Tweed knew the Yanks were coming. He did not know of American successes in the Gilbert and Marshalls, but felt sure the fleet would come to Saipan. He scanned the sea day and night.

2 Years And 7 Months

His vigil was rewarded and his rescue came exactly two years and seven months after the Japanese landings at Guam.

Rescuers outfitted Tweed with brand new navy grays—a uniform he had not heard of—and tonight the stocky, middle-sized chief was not distinguishable among others of his rating.

Handsome, with light brown hair and gray-blue eyes, Tweed looks five years less than his actual age despite his ordeal.

Tweed actually was a radioman (first class) at the time of his escape and was promoted on the spot upon his rescue.

Better still—his rescuers put him back on the navy pay roll.

Wife Never Lost Hope For Husband On Guam

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 10 (AP)—Mrs. Mary Francis Tweed, 27, reunited with her husband who evaded Japanese on Guam for 31 months before his rescue, said tonight she had never given up hope.

Her husband, Chief Radioman George R. Tweed, 42, arrived here from Saipan last month at a time Mrs. Tweed was en route to her mother's home in Santa Paula. Advised the chief planned to come directly to San Diego, Mrs. Tweed returned to find him under home waiting for her.

She said her husband spent most of the time getting acquainted with [illegible]ald, 9, who was born [illegible] his father, and Robert, 3, who was born in Guam.

Had Been Told He Was Dead

"He had been listed by the navy as missing and another organization told me he was dead, but I knew he would return," Mrs. Tweed said.

"We own our home here and George spent much of his time making repairs and serving as a general handy man," Mrs. Tweed said. "It was a glorious reunion."

Mrs. Tweed and her children left Guam October 10, 1941, three months before it fell to the Japanese.

Ecuador Rail Workers Win Strike Demands

Quito, Ecuador, Aug. 10 (AP)—President Jose Velasco Ibarra today canceled the appointment of Julio Teodoro Salem as Minister of Railways. This action had been demanded by striking workers, who yesterday tied up railroad service in Ecuador. The dispute arose over Salem's discharge of several workers.

Marino Suarez Ventimilla, Finance Minister, meanwhile presented his resignation to the President.

Reds Say Next Summer

Henry Cassidy, chief of The Associated Press bureau in Moscow, brought home yesterday a Russian prediction that it will take until next summer to crush Germany militarily. He quoted an unidentified Soviet authority who, he said, is in as good a position as any one to know what is going on. The prediction was qualified by a statement that the unexpected, such as the next bomb hitting Hitler, would change the outlook.

Suzuki New Head Of Jap Privy Council

New York, Aug. 10 (AP)—Admiral Baron Kantaro Suzuki, vice-president of the Japanese Privy Council and formerly grand chamberlain to Emperor Hirohito, has been appointed president to succeed the late Yoshimichi Hara, the Tokyo radio announced today in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press.

Toru Shimizu, a member of the council, was elevated to vice-president, the broadcast added. Installation ceremonies were conducted in the presence of the Emperor, Tokyo said.

Death of Hara was announced by Tokyo last week.

Japs Call Hengyang's Fall Major Disaster

New York, Aug. 10 (AP)—A Japanese propaganda broadcast boasted today that the fall of the Hankow-Canton railway stronghold of Hengyang was a "major disaster" for the American forces as well as the Chinese.

A Domei transmission recorded by the Associated Press said that "although the city actually was garrisoned by Chungking soldiers, its defense and desperate resistance offered during the past few weeks was entirely directed by American officers." This assertion was totally unconfirmed.

Polish Socialist Named President-Designate

New York, Aug. 10 (AP)—A leader of the Polish underground has succeeded Gen. Kazimierz Sosnkowski, commander in chief of Poland's armed forces, as "successor to the President" in the exiled regime in London, the Polish Telegraph Agency said today.

President Wladyslaw Raczkiewicz accepted the resignation of Sosnkowski, who has been called anti-Soviet by the Moscow press.

as President-designate and named Tomasz Arciszewski for the role. He would take over the Presidency automatically in the event it is vacated.

Arciszewski was identified by the Polish Telegraph Agency as a leader of the Polish Socialist party who had been a chief figure in the underground movement.

The Polish National Council voted in London last May 17 to separate the positions of commander in chief and President-designate. From nominees of the Council for President-designate the President chose Arciszewski.

STETTINIUS HAILS SLAP AT ARGENTINA

Washington, Aug. 10 (A. P.)—Hailing the announced refusal of Colombia and Venezuela to deal with the present Army regime in Argentina, Acting Secretary of State Stettinius declared today, "we don't want Fascism in this hemisphere." He authorized direct quotation of his statement, in which he said:

"The joint statement by Colombia and Venezuela is further proof of the unity of purpose and action among the American republics in maintaining the policy of non-recognition with respect to the present regime in Argentina. As stated by Secretary of State Hull on July 24, there have been constant consultations among the American republics on this problem, which, as the statement of the governments of Venezuela and Colombia makes clear, involved not only the immediate security of the hemisphere, but the future solidarity and well-being of all free peoples of the Americas.

"We don't want Fascism in this hemisphere. As you know, there have been similar public statements by most of the other American governments."

Former Under-Secretary of State Welles wrote in his syndicated column yesterday that there had been no real consultation, but only distribution of information by this country. He called for a consultative meeting of American republics. Mr. Stettinius replied to a question at his press conference that no such meeting is planned, but he added that in the midst of war conferences sometimes are called suddenly.

3 ALLIED NATIONS AGREE TO STUDY RUBBER OUTPUT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—(AP) The United States, the Netherlands and Great Britain have agreed to study post-war world rubber production and requirements as a preliminary to agreeing on some sort of international rubber control program, it was disclosed tonight.

An official announcement said that a "first program of studies has been prepared and arrangements for carrying out the studies are being made."

The announcement was released simultaneously here and in London, where the conference was held. This meeting of American, British and Dutch representatives extends into one more field the program of joint economic action which the United States and the United Kingdom have been developing for many months in preparation for post war economic problems.

Already a formal agreement has been signed to establish a common oil policy for the two governments and conservations are under way toward the evolution of a common aviation program.

Exactly what will come out of the rubber conversations could not be predicted by officials here except for the assertion that some sort of world agreement obviously is the objective.

The United States is in a different position with respect to rubber production from any that it has ever occupied. Its own synthetic rubber capacity now equals almost the entire world export of natural rubber in pre-war years.

This is a threat to British and Dutch natural rubber production which is expected to be restored to a considerable degree soon after the rubber producing lands of the East Indies and Malaya are freed of Japanese domination. In addition there is a small amount of high cost natural rubber production in South America.

The problem of gearing this tremendous capacity to post-war needs so as not to have a permanently unbalanced rubber economy is the main problem of the British and American and Dutch conferees.

EXPECT ACTION ON ARGENTINA

Stettinius Hints at Ban on Allied Navicerts.

Washington, Aug. 10 (A. P.).—Acting Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius hinted today at possible action by the United States and Great Britain against Argentina for a violation of the Allied navicert rules.

The incident occurred when the Farrell government seized a shipment of Swedish newsprint recently and distributed it to newspapers characterized as violently anti-Allied and pro-Axis.

The subject came up at Mr Stettinius's press conference and he was asked what this country was planning to do. He replied that the United States was familiar with the whole situation which was quite involved and was receiving constant and earnest attention.

"Is any thought being given to the withholding of navicerts?" a correspondent asked. Mr. Stettinius replied that it was too soon to tell what the United States position would be. However, he said, he thought that before long the State Department would have something to say on the subject.

Newsprint Mentioned.

In Secretary of State Cordell Hull's denunciation on July 24 of Argentina, the Argentine Government seizure of the Swedish newsprint was mentioned as an indication of the Government's favoritism to Axis forces within the country.

As a result of Argentina's action, the whole subject of granting further Allied navicerts for Swedish newsprint to Argentina was brought under study by the United States and Great Britain.

Previous shipments had been allowed to go through the Allied blockade with the understanding that the newsprint would not be given to newspapers hostile to the United Nations.

CUTBACK ORDERED IN PLANE OUTPUT

Liberator Production Curbed to Build B-29s, Release More Workers.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—(AP) A sweeping aircraft cutback, affecting Liberator bombers, commando transports and Thunderbolt fighters, was ordered by the War department tonight to clear the way for the huge new B-29 and B-32 Superbombers and to release workers for more critical jobs.

Twenty thousand workers will be affected immediately and an estimated 100,000 more will be laid off by the end of this year, said the announcement released by the Office of War Information.

Higgins Output Cut

The Higgins Industries of New Orleans, which lost their Liberty ship contract in 1942 before a ship was built, was cut entirely from production of the C-46 Commando transport before a plane was completed. Higgins' subcontract work on planes will continue, and about half the 6,300 workers may be retained.

Cutbacks after the first of the year will take place in commando plane production at Buffalo, St. Louis and Louisville, Ky., but until that time, expanding schedules are to be met.

Inability of the Luftwaffe to inflict as heavy losses as had been expected account for the cut in transport planes, officials said, and the growing emphasis on the Pacific war was seen behind the shift from Liberators to the B-29 Superfortress, and its big running mate, the B-32, by Consolidated.

Liberator production by North American at Dallas, Texas, will be eliminated gradually.

Production of the Liberator will be reduced at Ford's great Willow Run plant and at the Consolidated-Vultee Aircraft corporation in San Diego.

A reduction of presently unknown depth will be made in the sub-contract work for the P-47 Thunderbolt fighters done by Goodyear at Akron, Ohio, OWI said. It will be sufficient to "ease the manpower situation in Akron."

Other Shifts Planned

These accompanying shifts of sub-contract work are planned:

1. Work will be transferred from Southern California plants to Dallas to relieve the acute labor shortage in Southern California and to provide jobs for the released Dallas workers.

2. Parts production from Akron will be shifted in part to Evansville, Ind., where the P-47 is being manufactured by Republic Aviation comporation.

The latter switch is expected to release 1,400 skilled makers of heavy tires who are now working in Akron aircraft plants. It was expected that their return to tire companies would ease the critical shortage of heavy truck and bus tires.

TWO AUXILIARY WARSHIPS SUNK

Sweeper Osprey, Subchaser Lost In European Waters

Washington, Aug. 10 (AP)—Loss of two American naval vessels—the mine sweeper Osprey and the submarine chaser PC-1261—in European waters was announced by the navy today.

No details were given as to how or where the two craft were sunk by enemy action.

The losses bring to 133 the number of American naval craft lost since the war started. In addition 32 are listed as overdue and presumed lost and nine naval craft were destroyed to prevent their capture.

Number Of Casualties Not Given

The navy gave no indication of the number of casualties on the Osprey, which carried a crew of about 60, or the subchaser, which had a complement of about 30 men.

It reported, however, that the commanding officers of the two craft were survivors.

They were Lieut. Charles Henry Swimm, Medfield, Mass., skipper of the Osprey, and Lieut. Com. Rency F. Sewell, Jr., Atlanta, Ga.

Osprey's Honorable Record

The 700-ton Osprey, built at the Norfolk Navy Yard and commissioned November 16, 1940, performed escort duty in the Caribbean and South Atlantic and engaged in anti-submarine patrol in 1942. She took part in the North African landings in November, 1942, and played a big part in driving off enemy planes attacking American forces as they went ashore. After the landings in North Africa the Osprey was assigned to anti-submarine patrol off Casablanca.

The PC-1261 was commissioned in May, 1943. She was built by the Leathem-Smith Shipbuilding Company at Surgeon Bay, Wis.

500 U-BOATS SUNK BUT MANY REMAIN

Washington, Aug. 10 (A. P.).—Allied bombs, torpedoes and guns have taken a toll of more than 500 German submarines since the war began. But the joint Anglo-American statement, issued under the authority of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, notes that the "U-boat fleet is still of impressive size."

In July, said the report, the number of German submarines destroyed was "substantially greater than the number of merchant ships sunk." [The only figures immediately available on merchant ships sinkings showed that there have been 706 sinkings in the western Atlantic by enemy submarines since December 7, 1941. This area includes only those seas patroled by United States vessels and does not include the British-patroled eastern Atlantic.]

The statement said that "the U-boats remain the hunted rather than the hunters. They have been attacked from the arctic to the Indian Ocean. This pressure will be maintained until all chances of revival of the U-boat campaign are killed, whatever may be the new devices developed by the enemy.

U. S. SUBS DESTROY 16 JAPANESE SHIPS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 — (AP) American submarines have ripped another big gap in Japanese shipping lines, destroying an enemy warship and 15 merchant vessels on their latest forays into Nipponese waters.

The sinkings, reported by the Navy today, brought to 839 the number of Japanese craft sunk, probably sunk or damaged by the submersibles.

These total figures include more than 2,500,000 tons of Japanese merchant shipping — approximately one third of the eenmy's merchant fleet at the beginning of the war. How much construction has been completed since and how many merchant ships might have been acquired in conquered territory is not known officially.

The Navy reported only that the submarines in their latest raids operated in "Pacific and Far Eastern waters." However, it can be assumed that they patrolled well within enemy controlled waters, possibly even along Japan's shoreline, as they have done previously.

Only a week ago, the Navy in announcing a cutback in submarine production reported that "past or prospective advances in the Pacific limit the area in which Japanese ships can operate and correspondingly limit the future hunting grounds for our submarines."

One tanker, a large cargo transport, and 13 other cargo ships were included in the newest bag of Japanese vessels sunk.

Also sent to the bottom was a Japanese escort vessel which might compare with American destroyer escorts [illegible] anti-submarine work.

The sinking of the escort vessel raises to 79 the number of enemy warships sunk, probably sunk or damaged by submarines. That total included 54 definitely sunk. The breakdown of American submarine damage to the Japanese merchant fleet shows 633 enemy craft sunk, 26 probably sunk and 101 damaged.

In return the American submarine fleet has suffered 27 losses.

WAR DEPARTMENT BARS TWO FILMS

Washington, Aug. 10 (A. P.).—Army and Navy officials are to confer with Senators tomorrow on just how much politics should reach the eyes and ears of American troops.

The meeting was given new importance by the War Department's announcement yesterday that two motion pictures have been banned from distribution to the armed forces both overseas and at home. The reason given was that such distribution might be construed as in violation of the soldier voting act.

The pictures are "Wilson," dramatizing the career of the world war I President, and "Heavenly Days," telling of a trip to the nation's capital of radio comedians Fibber McGee and Molly.

The soldier voting act prohibits the distribution by the armed forces of books, magazines or other materials containing matters calculated to influence the results of national elections.

30. 24 — 17897

Spyros P. Skouras, president of 20th Century-Fox, producers of "Wilson," criticized the ban as a flagrant example of willful and unfair censorship and repression of freedom of the screen.

AUG 11 1944

R.-K.-O., which produced "Heavenly Days," said the only "possibly objectionable" feature of the film was a dream sequence in which Fibber McGee floats into the Senate chamber and, in a speech, urges every American to vote.

EXPORTS IN JUNE 80 P. C. LEND-LEASE

Washington, Aug. 10 (A. P.).—With lend-lease shipments accounting for approximately 80 per cent of the total, the United States exported merchandise valued at $1,271,000,000 in June, the second highest monthly total in history.

The June exports, the Census Bureau reported today, were approximately 10 per cent below the record May figure of $1,419,000,000, but 27 per cent above those for June, 1943.

The total value of exports for the first six months of 1944 was $7,204,000,000. The total includes lend-lease shipments but not shipments to United States armed forces overseas. June lend-lease exports amounted to $1,011,000,000, 13 per cent below those for May.

General imports in June totaled $330,000,000, a decline of 14 per cent from May but 12 per cent above those for June, 1943.

In the first six months of 1944 imports amounted to $2,047,000,000, an increase of 32 per cent over the first six months of 1943 and the highest semi-annual total since 1929.

British Paying on Loan

$125,167,187 Received From Pre-Lend-Lease Collateral

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP).—The Reconstruction Finance Corporation reported today it had received payments aggregating $125,167,187 from the collateral securing the R. F. C.'s pre-lend-lease loan to the United Kingdom. A loan of $425,000,000 was authorized in July, 1941, but the R. F. C. said only $390,000,000 was actually disbursed.

Of the total payments, $113,816,350 represents interest, dividends and other income from the collateral securing the loan and $11,350,837 represents the proceeds of the sale by the United Kingdom of a small amount of the collateral.

The collateral includes listed and unlisted securities of United States corporations, the capital stock of forty-one British owned United States insurance companies and assignment of the earnings of the insurance companies. The R. F. C. said payments are applied first to current interest and the balance to reducing the principal of the loan.

Award Navy Cross To Missing Ace

Washington, Aug. 10 (A. P.).—First Lieut. Robert M. Hanson, Marine fighter pilot ace, a recent Congressional Medal of Honor winner who has been missing in action since February 3, has been awarded the Navy Cross, Marine Corps Headquarters announced today. India-born, Hanson, 24-year-old son of the Rev. and Mrs. Harry A. Hanson of Newtonville, Mass., former missionaries, had knocked down twenty-five Jap planes when he was last seen falling into the ocean.

During one streak, he shot down twenty Jap aircraft in six consecutive flying days.

GENTILE TO RECEIVE OAK LEAF CLUSTER

Dayton, Ohio, Aug. 10 (A. P.).—Capt. Don S. Gentile of Piqua, Ohio, a leading American ace of the European theater, will receive an Oak Leaf Cluster for his Distinguished Service Cross on Sunday as a feature of the first open house at Wright and Patterson Field in five years.

The award, said a Material Command announcement today, will be for extraordinary heroism on May 8, last, when with only the support of his wingman, Sergt. Gentile dived into a formation of fifty Nazi fighters which were attacking a group of American bombers. He destroyed three enemy planes, then escorted a crippled American Flying Fortress to safety in England.

The Oak Leaf Cluster is equivalent to the award of a second D. S. C.

Eleven other officers will receive awards.

Major.-Gen. Clements B. McMullen, in the absence of Lieut.-Gen. William S. Knudsen, said open house for both fields was designed as part of a nationwide observance of the 35th anniversary of the Army Air Forces. Originally it was set for August 2, but was postponed, Gen. McMullen said, because of an outbreak of infantile paralysis.

GEORGIA CERTIFIES REPUBLICAN BLOC

Atlanta, Aug. 10 (A. P.).—John B. Wilson, Georgia's Secretary of State, certified a faction of white Republicans today as the official representatives of that party, and, in effect, gave Georgians identical lists of presidential electors on the Republican and independent Democratic tickets. The white Republicans, led by former State Chairman Clint Hager, had lost to a group composed of Negroes and whites at the party's national convention in Chicago.

Identical lists will go on the ballot, and the electors will get cumulative credit for votes of both parties. The Republican party has announced support of the national nominees. A spokesman for the independent Democrats, however, said that electors would be uninstructed.

The losing group of Republicans, which termed itself the regular party, was led by Wilsor Williams, Republican National Committeeman, and Ben Davis Atlanta Negro.

500 German Prisoners Start Sit-Down Strike

Stockton, Cal., Aug. 10 (AP)—A sit-down strike by 500 German prisoners of war housed at the Stockton Ordnance Depot started today with their refusal to work a 9-hour day, Major A. E. Cook, the public relations officer, announced.

The rest of the camp complement of 1,800 war prisoners returned to their normal manual duties this morning. The prisoners have been working an 8-hour day. According to the Geneva conference, the prisoners of war may be worked 12 hours a day.

Camp officials have placed the recalcitrants on reduced rations and confined them to quarters.

Truman Explains Magazine Suit

Senator Tells How He Sought to Block Article Critical of the President.

AUG 11 1944

Washington, Aug. 10 (A. P.).—Senator Truman (D.-Mo.) has disclosed that he once filed a suit to prevent publication of an article critical of some phases of the war effort, but that the article was revised and the suit dropped.

The article had been sought by the American Magazine and was based on findings of the Senate's war investigating committee, the chairmanship of which the Democratic vice-presidential candidate recently relinquished.

Senator Truman said that the article, prepared and published about two years ago, had been revised after the suit was instituted and that it finally was "published as I wanted it." A check for $750 was turned over to the committee to be used for expenses, he said.

What Truman Asserted.

Records of the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York disclosed that the magazine publishers claimed nearly 4,000,000 copies of the magazine were ready for distribution when the Senator filed the suit.

Mr. Truman's counsel contended the article "had not been consented to and approved" by the Senator and "contained not only conclusions to which Senator Truman could not subscribe, but also factual content which he believed erroneous."

Counsel for the magazine offered, at a court hearing, to produce evidence that Senator Truman, in his own handwriting, had approved publication of the article.

The article, asserting that the United States was "in danger of losing the war in Washington," contained the statement: "We owe it to ourselves to insist that the President act promptly to halt the selfish fights for power, the endless bickering and dissension, which have so far blocked the complete utilization of our productive energies."

Seizure Of Truck Lines In West Indicated

[By the Associated Press]

Between 58,000 and 74,000 workers were idle today on the nation's labor front, with President Roosevelt reported ready to act to end an eight-State trucking strike involving army-estimated 25,000 drivers.

Washington and industry sources indicated Government intervention was probable in the strike, which has halted truck shipments in at least eight mid-West States.

Seizure Forecast

In Omaha, Chairman M. M. Krupinsky of the Nebraska Operators Association said some delay has been encountered in putting into effect an order for the ODT to seize the truck lines, but the order has been "written and signed" and the ODT will "take over by Sunday."

Krupinsky said his information from Washington sources was that the delay was to perfect ODT plans to handle the transportation system.

Meanwhile army men have begun unloading some war supplies tied up at Omaha docks with the intention of shipping them to their destination by train, Krupinsky said.

Spreads To Tulsa

In Tulsa truck shipping came to a standstill as hundreds of drivers staged a spontaneous "sympathy walkout."

Eddie Stith, chairman of a local operators' negotiating committee, said drivers had been drifting off the job as quickly as freight docks were cleared. No new cargoes were accepted yesterday or today.

Two Hurt In Melees

The country's next largest strike was at five plants of the Wright Aeronautical Corporation in the Paterson (N. J.) area, where company spokesmen estimated the number idle at more than 3,200, while union officials placed the figure at 20,000. Two men were injured, one stabbed with a screw driver, in quarrels outside the plants.

Meanwhile the War Labor Board summoned officials of the United Automobile Workers' Union and its Local 235 to a hearing in Washington to explain why a strike of 7,000 employes at the Chevrolet gear and axle division plant of General Motors, in Detroit, continued despite a back-to-work order.

Union Blames Company

The UAW accused the General Motors Corporation of "full responsibility" for the strike and declared that the integrity of the WLB "is at stake" in the case.

The statement by Walter P. Reuther, vice-president of the UAW, was presented to the board.

Ultimatum Issued

The army issued an ultimatum to more than 700 striking employes of the Pennsylvania truck lines in the Harrisburg area, ordering them to start moving war materials immediately or have the army take over.

A walkout of 523 persons at the Todd-Houston Shipbuilding Corporation, Houston, Texas, ended today.

There were at least two dozen more disputes in the United States, and the Montreal (Quebec) tramway system continued idle.

Truck Strike Spreads.

Washington, Aug. 10 (A. P.).—President Roosevelt may act today or tomorrow to end the trucking strike, which has spread to eight States and been joined by 25,000 drivers. The report that he might act soon came from a source close to the White House who refused to permit the dislosure of his identity.

He said that the case, certified on July 12 by the War Labor Board as beyond its power to solve, has cleared all concerned agencies and that a solution has been hit upon. The estimates of the extent of the strike were made by the Army.

The Office of Defense Transportation, however, reported that all military movements are proceeding on schedule except at Omaha, where, it said, military protection has been ordered to stand in readiness. The WLB has ordered a 7-cents-an-hour pay increase for over-the-road drivers, but the Midwestern Truck Operators Association, which represents the struck lines, says that the companies cannot pay the increase.

Officials of the United Auto Workers' Union and the union's Local No. 235 have been summoned from Detroit to a WLB hearing to explain why a strike of 7,000 employees at the Chevrolet gear and axle division plant continues, despite a back-to-work order.

"This interruption cannot be tolerated," said William H. Davis, WLB chairman, in telegrams to the union officials. The strikers are protesting the discharge of seven officers of the local union.

AUG 11 1944

New stoppages included 520 at the Tennessee Products Corporation Mines, Whitwell, Tenn., and 523 at the Todd-Houston Shipbuilding Corporation, Houston, Tex. There were at least two dozen more disputes in the United States and the Montreal, Que., tramway system continued idle.

Countess Sforza Soon To Join Count In Italy

New York, Aug. 10 (AP)—Countess Valentina Sforza, wife of Count Carlo Sforza, minister without portfolio in the new Italian Government headed by Ivanoe Bonami, will return to Italy soon after 17 years of exile, the office of American Relief for Italy announced today.

Joining her husband, who returned to Italy after the fall of Mussolini, Countess Sforza will be accompanied by her daughter, Flametta Sforza. Her son, formerly a private in the United States Army, now is serving in an Italian army unit fighting with the Allies.

The Sforzas left Italy in 1927 after the Count and his family were persecuted because of his leadership of liberal elements.

Sights Thrill Aussies' British Wives

New York, Aug. 10 (AP)—Excited by the sight of bananas and ice-cream sodas and thrilled at the thought of being able to buy stockings, 35 Scotch and English wives of Australian soldiers and sailors arrived here today en route to Australia to join their husbands.

Their husbands, whom they married in England, have since been transferred to the Pacific area or discharged from service.

Included in the group were 14 children, some of whom never have seen their fathers and one of whom was adopted by the wife after the husband gave consent by mail.

AUG 11 1944

Senate Debates Post-war Jobless Payments Plan

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—(AP) Proponents of the Murray-Kilgore Demobilization bill were disclosed tonight to be considering an appeal to President Roosevelt in an effort to overcome Senate opposition to a provision calling for post-war unemployment payments ranging up to $35 a week.

One of the group, who declined to allow the use of his name, said the Chief Executive might be asked to throw White House pressure behind the measure either by a personal appeal or by asking Senator Truman (D-Mo.) to take the floor in its behalf.

Truman, the Senator said, has been working behind-the-scenes for the measure, which he supported in the military committee, but as democratic vice presidential nominee, he has avoided speech-making until he has had a chance to confer with the President.

Meanwhile, the bill was alternately described as an agency for "state socialism" and as a "recipe for prosperity" as the Senate put off a vote on controversial reconversion legislation.

Majority Leader Barkley (Ky.), who told reporters he did not know President Roosevelt's attitude, nor that of any other administration officials, said he was hopeful of a vote tomorrow.

Meanwhile, Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the Republican whip, told reporters he had asked the Byrd economy committee to investigate the lending of departmental personnel to Senate committees.

The request was an aftermath of his protest yesterday against the presence on the Senate floor of Herbert E. Schimmel, $8,000-a-year WPB attorney, acting as clerk of the Kilgore Military subcommittee. Wherry said Schimmel had been in "constant contact" with the CIO Political Action committee during reconversion debate.

Wherry said today that about 22 other employes had, like Schimmel, been loaned to Senate committees. He wanted to know whether "they are representing special interests."

Republican-Southern Democratic coalition supporting a modified version of the Murray-Kilgore bill boasted tonight that they had sufficient votes to assure victory without compromising on their proposal to leave jobless pay fixing to the states.

Senator Kilgore (D-W.Va.) told a reporter that Senator George (D-Ga.), author of the modified measure, had refused to talk to him about composing differences.

On the floor, Senator Taft (R-Ohio) told his colleagues that the tax burden under the AFL-CIO supported Murray-Kilgore measure would be so heavy "it would gradually destroy private enterprise" and force the country into state socialism.

New deal Senator Pepper (D-Fla.), replying, declared that it is not the profits of the corporations," but the purchasing power of a nation at work that is the recipe for prosperity."

He declared that unemployment and other provisions of the Murray-Kilgore bill would prevent a costly depression by stimulating production and purchasing power.

The Senate shouted down a motion by Senator Aiken (R-Vt.) to recommit both bills to committee on the ground that both ignored "post-war security for the American farmer."

AUG 11 1944

JAP SISTERS' FATE WEIGHED

Prosecutor Labels Trio "Benedict Arnolds In Skirts"

Denver, Aug. 10 (AP)—A United States District Court jury late today was deliberating the fate of three California-born Japanese sisters whom the Government charges with having committed treason by helping to free two German prisoners of war.

Judge J. Foster Symes handed the case to the all-male jury with the admonition that "this is a most important case."

Four hours later the jury returned for additional instructions. Judge Symes complied and then directed that if the jurors reached a verdict during the night it was to be sealed and read in court at 9.30 A. M. tomorrow.

Sisters Remain Calm

The women — Mrs. Tsuruko (Toots) Wallace, 35; Mrs. Florence (Flo) Shivze Otani, 33, and Mrs. Billie Shitara Tanigoshi, 32—remained as calm at the trial's end as they had throughout the three and a half days of testimony and argument, and the prosecutor's denunciation of them as "Benedict Arnolds in skirts."

The jury was asked to decide whether the Government had proved either or both its charges—treason and conspiracy to commit treason. The maximum penalty under conviction of treason is death, while punishment of two years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine is allowable on conviction of conspiracy.

Germans Among Witnesses

The Government sought to prove treason with the dramatic tales told by the escaped prisoners—Heinrich Haider, 31, and Herman August Loescher, also 31—and with the testimony of nearly 20 other witnesses. The Germans escaped October 16, 1943, from the Trinidad (Col.) prisoner of war camp, only to fall into the FBI's arms two days later at Watrous, N. M.

The sisters, evacuated from Inglewood, Cal., to the Granada Relocation Center at Amache, Col., worked on a farm alongside prisoners from the Trinidad camp. The Government charged they not only furnished maps, clothing and other equipment for the flight, but transported the two men across the New Mexico line.

AUG 11 1944

Sedition Jurors Told Of 'Pope, F. D. R. Deal'

Washington, Aug. 10 (AP) — A letter purportedly written by a defendant in the mass sedition conspiracy trial, asserting that Pope Pius XII—then Cardinal Pacelli Papal Secretary of State—discussed with President Roosevelt and others "delivery" of the Catholic vote in 1936, has been admitted to trial records.

The letter, attributed to defendant Eugene N. Sanctuary, of New York, retired army colonel, was addressed to another defendant, William Dudley Pelley, former leader of the Silver Shirts.

"Deal Made On A Pullman"

Dated July 21, 1941, it said:

"The deal which you referred to about the delivery of the 1936 Catholic vote was made on a Pullman when Roosevelt, Farley, Mundelein, Gallagher, Pacelli (now Pope) and a Congressman were present. I am sworn to secrecy about the name of the member of Congress."

Other than Pacelli, none of those named was identified further.

The letter, one of more than 200 documents seized by the FBI in a raid on Pelley's publishing plant at Noblesville, Ind., was admitted in evidence over the objections of defense counsel.

Protests "Religious Issue"

Pelley's attorney, William J. Powers, of Chicago, said that as a Catholic he protested against injecting a religious issue which had no bearing on the charge in the indictment that the 26 defendants conspired to undermine the loyalty of the armed forces.

The Government has charged that the defendants employed the Nazi technique of stirring up racial and religious intolerance to prepare the way for a revolt designed to set up a national socialist state in this country.

AUG 11 1944

MOSCOW DISPATCHES SAID THE GERMANS HAD HURLED 16 FRESH DIVISIONS Add London Russian (Hercher) xx armies INTO THE BATTLE FOR EAST PRUSSIA, AND THE COMMUNIQUE SAID STRONG ENEMY TANK AND INFANTRY COUNTERATTACKS HAD BEEN BEATEN OFF NORTHWEST OF MARIAMPOLE. THIS IS THE CENTRAL SECTOR OF THE BROAD FRONT, AND THE GERMANS CLAIMED THE RECAPTURE OF VILKAVISKIS, 12 MILES FROM THE BORDER.

AUG 11 1944

WARSAW WENT THROUGH ITS 11TH DAY OF SIEGE, AND THE POLISH GOVERNMENT HERE ISSUED AN "URGENT APPEAL" FOR IMMEDIATE AID FOR THE POLISH PATRIOTS WHICH THEY SAID WERE FORCED TO GIVE UP CAPTURED AREAS WITHIN THE CITY. "WE HAVE BEEN LEFT TO OUR OWN FATE," THE POLISH UNDERGROUND LEADER, GENERAL BOR, WAS QUOTED AS SAYING. "HELP MUST BE SENT BY SUPPLYING US WITH AMMUNITION AND WEAPONS ON A LARGE SCALE AND BY BOMBARDING ENEMY POSITIONS."

ON THE SUN-BAKED PLAINS OF POLAND FAR SOUTH OF BESIEGED WARSAW DENSE CLOUDS OF SMOKE HUNG OVER HUNDREDS OF SQUARE MILES OF BATTLELAND WEST OF THE VISTULA RIVER--LAST NATURAL AXIS DEFENSE LINE SHORT OF GERMANY--AS THE RUSSIANS STEADILY EXPANDED THEIR BIG BRIDGEHEAD, WHICH IS AT LEAST 42 MILES WIDE AND 30 MILES DEEP.

RUSSIAN FRONT DISPATCHES SAID TWO GERMAN DIVISIONS RUSHED UP FROM KRAKOW AND THE CARPATHIAN MOUNTAINS HAD BEEN [illegible] AUG 11 1944 BEATEN IN THE BARANOW AREA. THE GERMANS HAD THOUGHT THEY COULD CUT OFF THE RUSSIANS WEST OF THE RIVER BY STRIKING UP THE EAST SIDE OF THAT STREAM, MOSCOW SAID. INSTEAD THEY COLLIDED WITH STRONGER SOVIET TROOPS DESCENDING THE EAST BANK TOWARD TARNOW AND KRAKOW.

VON HAMMER TERMED THE SECTOR BEYOND THE VISTULA A MENACING ONE FOR GERMANY, AND SAID THE RUSSIANS WERE POURING REINFORCEMENTS INTO THE AREA IN AN OBVIOUS EFFORT TO "BRING DOWN THE WHOLE GERMAN SOUTHERN WING BY A PINCER MOVEMENT."

THE GERMANS ALSO REPEATED THE STATEMENT THAT THE RUSSIANS HAD ESTABLISHED A BRIDGEHEAD ACROSS THE VISTULA IN THE WARKA SECTOR, ONLY 30 MILES SOUTHEAST OF WARSAW. THE GERMANS HAVE BEEN TALKING OF THIS BRIDGEHEAD NOW FOR MORE THAN A WEEK, BUT MOSCOW HAS NEVER CONFIRMED IT. HEAVY GERMAN COUNTERATTACKS HAD NARROWED THIS PENETRATION, BERLIN SAID.

BOTH SIDES WERE FIGHTING A BATTLE OF EXHAUSTION UNDER SOARING SUMMER TEMPERATURES ON THE ROLLING TREELESS TERRAIN FAR SOUTH OF WARSAW. THE GERMANS WERE FIGHTING WITH GREAT TENACITY. ONE CAPTIVE QUOTED IN MOSCOW DISPATCHES SAID THE GERMANS REALIZED THAT A STRONG SOVIET BREAK-THROUGH WOULD BE CLIMAXED BY A RUSSIAN CROSSING INTO GERMAN SILESIA. AUG 11 1944

BITTER FIGHTING ALSO RAGED IN THE CARPATHIAN MOUNTAINS AT THE EXTREME SOUTHERN END OF THE FRONT WHERE THE GERMANS ADMITTED THAT NAZI AND HUNGARIAN TROOPS WERE BEING TAXED ON THE APPROACHES TO THE

30 24— 17899

TATAR PASS. AMONG THE LOCALITIES SEIZED ON A 150-MILE CARPATHIAN FRONT THE RUSSIANS SAID PODBUZ, 11 MILES WEST OF THE CAPTURED OIL CENTER OF DROHOBYCZ, HAD BEEN TAKEN. PODBUZ IS 27 MILES FROM THE CZECH FRONTIER.

GH538PEW

Add London UNRRA xxxx refugees

A DRAFT OF AN AGREEMENT FOR CARING FOR DISPLACED NATIONALS, WHICH SETS FORTH WHAT EACH GOVERNMENT AGREES TO DO AND WHICH DEFINES THE WORK OF THE UNRRA, NOW AWAITS THE SIGNATURE OF THE UNITED NATIONS GOVERNMENTS.

AUG 11 1944

TAYLOR SAID MUCH OF THE WORK WOULD BE DONE BY THE MILITARY WHILE LIBERATED AREAS ARE STILL UNDER MILITARY CONTROL. PRISONERS OF WAR ARE NOT CLASSIFIED AS DISPLACED PERSONS AND WILL BE HANDLED ACCORDING TO MILITARY PROCEDURE.

[illegible] THAU X X) [illegible] ANOTHER."

MORGENTHAU SAID THAT "AS A PART OF THE PRIMARY COMBAT MISSION, IN ORDER TO PREVENT INFLATION AND TO MEET LOCAL NEEDS, THE ARMY IS BRINGING INTO THE AREA QUANTITIES OF FOOD AND OTHER SUPPLIES FOR THE CIVILIAN POPULATION."

LONDON, AUG. [illegible]-BRITONS, JITTERY UNDER THE FALL OF GERMAN ROBOT BOMBS, WERE WARNED TODAY TO GO EASY ON SEDATIVES LEST THEY "END UP BY JUMPING AT THE SOUND OF SLAMMED DOORS, OR TENSING THEMSELVES AT BUMBLEBEES."

SAID THE MEDICAL PUBLICATION LANCET:

"FOR LON[illegible]RS WHO ARE STRAINED AND UNEASY IT SEEMS UNDESIRABLE FOR DOCTORS [illegible] PRESCRIBE SEDATIVES IN SUCH QUANTITIES OR WITH SUCH INSTRUCTIONS [illegible] WOULD ENABLE THE PATIENTS TO TAKE DRUGS WHENEVER THEY FEEL THEY NEED IT." AUG 11 1944

GH540PEW

. 10-(AP)-LIGHT BRITISH NAVAL FORCES DISPERSED TWO GERMAN FORMATIONS JUST NORTH OF LE HAVRE YESTERDAY IN A SHIFTING BATTLE IN WHICH ENEMY SHIPS SOON WERE FIRING AT EACH OTHER, THE ADMIRALTY ANNOUNCED TONIGHT.

THREE GERMAN VESSELS WERE TORPEDOED AND ONE WAS LEFT BURNING. THE ADMIRALTY SAID BRITISH SUFFERED NO LOSS OR DAMAGE.

AUG 11 1944

The German communique said today that "special weapons of the German Navy," otherwise undefined, had been used in the Seine Bay to sink six loaded supply vessels totaling 25,500 tons, a destroyer and an escort vessel.

"A large enemy destroyer was damaged badly by a bomb hit in waters west of Brest," the broadcast bulletin said. "Vessels escorting a German convoy sank two ~~an~~ E-boats (motor torpedo boats) south of Jersey Island, on by ramming in close quarter fighting."

No Allied account of these alleged clashes was available.

FIRST BOMBARDMENT DIVISION HEADQUARTERS, ENGLAND, AUG. 10-(AP)- A PRESIDENTIAL CITATION HONORING THE FIRST BOMBARDMENT DIVISION FOR DESTROYING THE FOCKEWULF AIRPLANE PLANT AT OSCHERSLEBEN JAN. 1 WAS RECEIVED HERE TODAY.

THE DIVISION COMMANDED BY MAJ. GEN. ROBERT B. WILLIAMS OF ALBANY, TEX., WAS CITED FOR "EXTRAORDINARY HEROISM AND TENACIOUS SPIRIT" IN BATTLING THROUGH TO HIT THE TARGET WITHOUT EFFECTIVE FIGHTER PROTECTION.

IN 400 ENCOUNTERS WITH GERMAN PLANES THAT DAY, THE DIVISION DESTROYED 210 OF THEM-- THE LARGEST BAG BY ANY EIGHTH AIR FORCE DIVISION ON ONE MISSION--AT A COST OF 42 FORTRESSES.

AUG 11 1944

BRIG. GEN. ROBERT F. TRAVIS OF SAVANNAH, GA., A COMBAT WING COMMANDER, LED THE OSCHERSLEBEN ATTACK BY THE DIVISION WHICH STARTED AND CARRIED ON THE ENTIRE AMERICAN AIR WAR IN EUROPE FOR NINE MONTHS. THE PRESIDENTIAL CITATION ENTITLED DIVISION PERSONNEL TO WEAR A BLUE UNIT CITATION RIBBON. THE DIVISION WAS PUBLICLY IDENTIFIED AS ~~XRIXXXX~~ THE "FIRST."

invasion separaee

AUG 11 1944

london, aug. 10--(ap)--germans on the channel islands of jersey and guernsey have been cut off completely from their nazi comrades in france by the american grip on the cherbourg and ~~xxx~~ brest peninsulas and the allied naval control of surrounding waters.

they have heavy guns, ~~xxx~~ however, which they are using to invalidate, largely, the american-captured ports of ~~xxxxx~~ st. malo, on the brittany peninsula, and granville, on the norman.

the islands, which the germans ~~xx~~ seized a few days after the fall of france and turned into radar and anti-aircraft outpos s, are of importance to the british, an ~~xxxxxxx~~ importance outweighing their now diminished military significance.

AUG 11 1944

they are the first a"d only parts of ~~xxxxxxxxxxx~~ english soil

30-24— 17901

held by the erstwhile invader. the english are no more likely to let them stay there than the americans would let the japanese loll in the philippines.

AUG 111944

a head-on attack, however, is regarded at this moment as probably more costly than wise. the islands' value for radar and anti-aircraft almost has been wiped away since the allies no longer need that route for flights over france.

commandos ~~have~~ raided the islands without much resistance, but the ~~the~~defenses have been intensified since that time.

gen. dwight d. eisenhower, supreme allied commander, is in a positio to wait and bide his time. he can let the pinch of a total blockade weaken the defenses and demonstrate to the defenders the futility of their position.

wr-- apl eighth 1841 -525p AUG 111944

BULLETIN
LONDON, FRIDAY, AUG. 11-(AP)-RAF MOSQUITOS BATTERED BERLIN LAST NIGHT WITH 4,000-POUND BOMBS WHILE LANCASTERS AND HALIFAXES PLASTERED OIL STORAGE DEPOTS AT BORDEAUX AND LA PALLICE AND A RAILWAY JUNCTION AT DIJON, THE BRITISH ANNOUNCED TODAY.
EV121AEW

THE OVERNIGHT HEAVY BOMBER ASSAULTS CONTINUED A SYSTEMATIC CAMPAIGN TO DESTROY GERMANY'S VITAL FUEL RESOURCES.
YESTERDAY BOTH FUEL DUMPS XXX 2ND GRAF.
JS125AEW

LONDON, AUG 10-(AP)-FRANTISEK NEMEC, CZECHO-SLOVAK MINISTER OF RECONSTRUCTION, WILL DEPART SOON FOR HIS HOMELAND BY WAY OF RUSSIA AS A DELEGATE TO LIBERATED TERRITORIES, IT WAS ANNOUNCED TONIGHT.

HE WILL BE ACCOMPANIED BY GEN.RUDOLF VIEST, TWO OTHER OFFICERS, REPRESENTATIVES OF VARIOUS MINISTRIES AND FOUR MEMBERS OF THE CZECHO-SLOVAK STATE COUNCIL, THE PARLIAMENT-IN-EXILE, AS POLITICAL ADVISERS.

AUG 111944

IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE AGREEMENT BETWEEN CZECHO-SLOVAKIA AND THE SOVIET, HE WILL COLLABORATE WITH SOVIET AND CZECH FORCES LIBERATING THE COUNTRY AND RESTORE CZECH CIVIL ADMINISTRATION AFTER THE MILITARY PHASE HAS BEEN CONCLUDED.

SN452PEW

WITH MOSCOW POLISH
LONDON, AUG. 10-(AP)-THE "POLISH DAILY" WHICH REFLECTS THE VIEWS OF THE LONDON POLISH GOVERNMENT, ASSERTED TONIGHT THAT THE POLISH UNDERGROUND FIGHTING IN WARSAW HAD BEEN LEFT IN THE LURCH BY ALLIED "POLITICS."

THE ACCUSATION CAME AS THE LONDON POLISH CABINET ISSUED AN "URGENT APPEAL" FOR IMMEDIATE HELP IN THE BATTLE FOR WARSAW.

AN EDITORIAL IN THE "POLISH DAILY" SAID:

"POLAND WAS THE FIRST ALLY OF BRITAIN WHO PLEDGED TO COME TO OUR ASSISTANCE WITY ALL SHE HAD AT HER DISPOSAL. RUSSIA HAS CALLED AND IS STILL CALLING THE POLISH NATION TO OPEN AN UPRISING AND WARSAW HAS RISEN AGAINST THE GERMANS. IN SPITE OF THIS WARSAW HAS BEEN FIGHTING ALONE AGAINST THE GERMANS FOR 10 DAYS WITHOUT HELP FROM ANYONE."

EV111AEW

AUG 111944

NIGHT LEAD GERMAN (280)
BY RICHARD KASISCHKE
LONDON, AUG. 10-(AP)-WITH TENS OF THOUSANDS OF CIVILIANS IN EASTERN GERMANY ALREADY DIGGING TRENCHES FOR WAR ON THE HOME SOIL, PAUL JOSEPH GOEBBELS, SUPREME NAZI MOBILIZER, DECREED TODAY THE REGIMENTING OF ALL PUBLIC AND PRIVATE LIFE INTO A TOTAL WAR MOLD TO FILL THE COUNTRY'S WAR FACTORIES AND REINFORCE THE DEPLETED ARMIES.

DECLARING "EVERY GERMAN CITIZEN WILL NOW HAVE TO SERVE THE NATION WITH ALL HIS STRENGTH IN A STRUGGLE FOR EXISTENCE," GOEBBELS WITH FIVE ORDERS VIRTUALLY ELIMINATED PUBLIC ENTERTAINMENTS, SHARPLY CURTAILED PUBLIC SERVICES AND ORDERED THOUSANDS NOW IN NON-ESSENTIAL JOBS TO GO INTO WAR PLANTS OR INTO UNIFORM.

IN ADDITION TO THESE MEASURES, BERLIN BROADCAST TONIGHT THAT NEWSPAPERS WERE WITHIN THE SCOPE OF THE "GREATLY INTENSIFIED, ALL-OUT WAR EFFORT" AND WOULD BE CURTAILED. THE BROADCAST SAID GERMAN NEWSPAPES WOULD BE LIMITED TO ON

PAPERSWOULD BE LIMITED TO ONE PER CITY EXCEPT FOR PAPERS WOULD BE LIMITED TO ONE PER CITY EXCEPT FOR THE LARGEST CITIES AND THAT PICTURE MAGAZINES AND TECHNICAL PUBLICATIONS WOULD BE CUT SHARPLY.

GOEBBELS DECREES, PUBLISHED IN "DAS REICH," PROVIDED:

AUG 11 1944

1--DRAFTING OF ALL FOREIGN DOMESTIC SERVANTS INTO WAR PLANTS AND ORDERING GERMAN SERVANTS EITHER INTO FACTORIES OR HOUSEHOLDS WITH CHILDREN.

2--CANCELING OF EXEMPTIONS FOR WHOLE AGE GROUPS "BADLY WANTED AT THE FRONT."

3--WAR PRODUCTION WORK AT HOME FOR THOSE WHO CAN'T GO TO FACTORIES.

4--BANNING OF ALL PUBLIC MEETINGS AND ENTERTAINMENTS NOT DIRECTLY CONNECTED WITH THE WAR AND "SENDING OF ALL THE YOUNGER GENERATION FILM AND THEATER ACTORS EN MASSE TO WAR INDUSTRY."

5--FURTHER TRIMMING OF RAIL, POSTAL AND GOVERNMENTAL SERVICES FOR MANPOWER.

A163

BERLIN ALSO BROADCAST THAT ALL DRAMATIC TRAINING SCHOOLS WOULD BE SHUT AND THAT STANDARD PRICES WOULD BE ENFORCED AT MOST THEATERS "SO THERE WILL BE NO NEED FOR TICKETS AND ALL USHERETTES AND ATTENDANTS WILL BE RELEASED FOR THE FACTORIES."

EV1043AEW

FIRST LEAD ROBOTS

LONDON, AUG 10-(AP)-GERMAN ROBOT BOMBS NOW ARE CARRYING INCENDIARIES, THE MINISTRY OF HOME SECURITY ANNOUNCED TODAY.

EXAMINATION OF THE NEW WEAPONS SHOWED THAT EACH OF THE FLYING BOMBS WHICH FELL RECENTLY IN SOUTH ENGLAND CARRIED ABOUT 20 INCENDIARIES. THE FIRE MISSILES ARE SCATTERED BY THE FORCE OF THE FLYING BOMB EXPLOSION AFTER THE ROBOT TOUCHES EARTH.

THE MINISTRY SAID PRESENT METHODS OF FIGHTING BOMB-SET FIRES WOULD BE CONTINUED.

AUG 11 1944

THE HOME SECURITY MINISTRY REPEATED TODAY A GRIM WARNING THAT THOSE EVACUATING LONDON SHOULD TAKE THEIR GAS MASKS WITH THEM.

LONDON, AUG 10-(AP)-AFTER A 24-HOUR LULL, ONE OF THE LONGEST SINCE THE GERMANS FIRST LAUNCHED THEIR FLYING BOMB ATTACKS ON BRITAIN, A FEW OF THE ROBOTS DROMED OVER LONDON AND THE SOUTHERN COUNTIES SHORTLY AFTER DAYBREAK TODAY.

AN OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT SAID "A NUMBER OF PEOPLE WERE INJURED."

M354AEW

LONDON, FRIDAY, AUG. 11-(AP)-THE GERMAN TRANSOCEAN NEWS AGENCY SAID IN A BERLIN BROADCAST TODAY THAT POLISH TROOPS HAD GONE INTO ACTION ON THE FRENCH FRONT BESIDE THE AMERICANS, BRITISH AND CANADIANS.

THERE WAS NO IMMEDIATE ALLIED CONFIRMATION OF THE REPORT, BUT POLISH TROOPS HAVE BEEN TAKING ACTIVE PART FOR SOME TIME IN THE ITALIAN CAMPAIGN, WHERE THEY HAVE SCORED NOTABLE SUCCESSES ON THE ALLIED RIGHT FLANK ALONG THE ADRIATIC.

THE TRANSOCEAN BROADCAST SAID:

"POLISH TROOPS HAVE BEEN THROWN IN FOR THE FIRST TIME IN FRANCE UNDER THE ALLIED HIGH COMMAND AGAINST THE GERMAN WEHRMACHT SOUTH OF CAEN TO MAKE UP FOR THE LOSSES AMONG THE CANADIANS, WHO HAVE BEEN PRESSED BACK ON THE GERMAN FRONT UNDER HEAVY CASUALTIES."

EV1232AEW

AUG 11 1944

LONDON, FRIDAY, AUG 11-(AP)-THE BERLIN RADIO SAID TONIGHT 30 RAF BEAUFIGHTERS ATTACKED A GERMAN CONVOY OFF WANGEROOG ISLAND, NEAR THE NORTH GERMAN COAST. THE BROADCAST SAID FIVE OF THE PLANES WERE DOWNED AFTER ONE SHIP WAS TORPEDOED AND THE CONVOY MADE PORT. THE ISLAND GUARDS THE APPROACHES TO WILHELMSHAVEN.

SK1103PEW

LONDON, AUG. 10-(AP)-THE POLISH GOVERNMENT IN EXILE URGENTLY APPEALED TODAY FOR ARTILLERY SUPPORT AND ARMS AND AMMUNITION FOR GEN. BOR'S UNDERGROUND ARMY FIGHTING IN WARSAW, STATING THAT "WE HAVE BEEN LEFT TO OUR OWN FATE."

"IF OUR BLOODY EFFORT SHALL NOT BE IN VAIN, IF SOLDIERS AND CIVILIANS CAN BE SAVED FROM TOTAL EXTERMINATION, IMMEDIATE HELP MUST BE SENT BY SUPPLYING US WITH AMMUNITION AND WEAPONS ON A LARGE SCALE AND BY BOMBARDING ENEMY POSITIONS," THE STATEMENT SAID.

THE GOVERNMENT PRONOUHKMPOLISH HOME ARMY" SPRANG TO ARMS IN WARSAW NINE DAYS AGO, RUSSIAN AND GERMAN FORCES HAD BEEN DEADLOCKED ON THE EASTERN OUTSKIRTS OF THE CAPITAL.

GH1045AEW

AUG 11 1944

SHAEF-~~SECOND ADD SECOND~~ LEAD INVASION XXX MARTIN-DE-SALLEN.

Insert (D)(H.11)

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS' SILENCE ON THE SITUATION ALONG THE LOIRE, KEY TO GERMAN RESISTANCE IN ALL SOUTHERN FRANCE, AND BEYOND LE MANS TOWARD PARIS, WAS ONE OF THE CLEAREST INDICATIONS THAT THE HIGHSPEED ONSLAUGHT WAS STILL IN THE OPEN AND ROLLING FAST.

ONCE IN CONTACT WITH ANY MAIN DEFENSE LINE OR MAJOR FORCE OF RESISTANCE THERE WOULD BE NO FURTHER SECURITY REASON FOR WITHHOLDING

WORD ON THE ADVANCED POSITIONS.

THERE HAD BEEN NO OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT ON THE ADVANCE FROM LE MANS FOR NEARLY 36 HOURS, BUT IT WAS KNOWN THAT AMERICAN ARMOR WAS WELL BEYOND THAT AUTO MANUFACTURING CITY IN THE DIRECTION OF CHARTRES, WHICH LIES 37 MILES FROM THE PARIS SUBURB OF VERSAILLES WHERE THE FIRST WORLD WAR PEACE TREATIES WERE SIGNED.

AUG 111944

(CBS SAID XXX 3RD GRAF AS BEFORE.

Insert SHAEF Invasion (D) (H.11) xxx to 30,000

AT THE NORTHERN END OF THE ALLIED ARC, THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY, HAVING SMASHED COUNTERATTACKS FROM ROMMEL'S BREACHED LINES, EDGED TOWARD THE LAST HILLOCK PROTECTING FALAISE, LESS THAN FIVE MILES AWAY AND A LITTLE OVER 100 MILES FROM PARIS. IN THIS SECTOR 2,000 MORE PRISONERS HAD BEEN TAKEN.

HERE THE GERMANS WERE WITHDRAWING INTO THE TOWN FOR A SHOWDOWN BATTLE AFTER HAVING BEEN FORCED BACK 16 MILES FROM CAEN.

TYPHOONS, WITH THEIR ROCKET GUNS, PLAYED A GREAT PART IN THE SHATTERING OF GERMAN COUNTERATTACKS HERE, KNOCKING OUT 33 TANKS, AND DAMAGING, DESTROYING OR LEAVING ABLAZE 212 OTHER ENEMY VEHICLES.

ROMMEL WAS BELIEVED TO HAVE LOST ABOUT 300 TANKS, THE COMPLEMENT OF ABOUT TWO ARMORED DIVISIONS, SINCE SUNDAY.

THE CANADIANS HERE WITHIN 1,500 YARDS OF POTIGNY.

ON THE CANADIANS' RIGHT THE BRITISH SECOND ARMY OF LT. GEN. SIR MILES C.DEMPSEY WIDENED ITS BRIDGEHEAD ACROSS THE RIVER ORNE IN A 4,000-YARD ADVANCE ABOVE THURY-HARCOURT, 14 MILES SOUTHWEST OF CAEN, AND IN ANOTHER COORDINATED THRUST THREATENED TO CUT OFF THAT STRONGHOLD ON THE ORNE.

AUG 1 1944

Add SHAEF Invasion (H.11) (D) xx.)

HEADQUARTERS CONFIRMED THE CAPTURE OF THE MAJOR RAIL [illegible] OF LE MANS (POP: 84,525) BUT DID NOT DISCLOSE THE WHEREABOUTS OF SWIFT AMERICAN ARMORED COLUMN WHICH SWEPT THROUGH THAT CITY, 110 MILES FROM PARIS. THERE SEEMED LITTLE DOUBT THIS SPEARHEAD WAS DRIVING DOWN THE LAST 100 MILES TO THE FRENCH CAPITAL. A GERMAN BROADCAST REPORTED U.S. TANKS ONLY 87 MILES AWAY.

AUG 111944

AT CAPTURED ST.MALO, BRITTANY'S SEA FORTRESS, ONLY ONE HOLDOUT STRONGPOINT REMAINED. THE AMERICANS TOOK 3,000 PRISONERS THERE IN THE LAST FEW DAYS. THE GERMANS ARE PUTTING UP A HARD FIGHT AT DINARD, A FEW MILES ACROSS THE BAY FROM ST.MALO, BUT IT APPEARED DOOMED.

THE BRITISH ATTACK WEST OF THE ORNE OVERRAN LE QUESNEE THE SECOND ARMY DRIVE REACHED CLOSE TO IF NOT ACROSS THE MA AEN-THURY HIGHWAY.

THE BRITISH TOMMIES STRIKING SOUTH FROM THE GRIMBOSQ SECTOR CAPTURED BRIEUX, LA BAGOTIERE AND LA MOISSONIERE AND SEIZED THE CROSSROADS TOWN OF FORGE A CAMBRO, SOUTHWEST OF THE DE GINGLAIS FOREST. ANOTHER BRITISH COLUMN CAPTURED TREMBLAY, SIX MILES NORTH OF CONDE-SUR-NOIREAU.

FARTHER SOUTHWEST, BRITISH TANKS BURST THROUGH GERMAN DEFENSES AND CAPTURED ROULOURS, 3,500 YARDS SOUTHEAST OF VIRE. THE GERMANS STILL CLUNG DESPERATELY TO ESTRY.

AUG 111944

THE GERMAN ANNOUNCEMENT THE AMERICANS WERE WITHIN [illegible] MILES OF PARIS--SOME 20 MILES FURTHR THAN OFFICIALLY REPORTED--MAY HAVE BEEN ATTEMPT TO GET INFORMATION, A MOVE TO PREPARE THE HOMELAND FOR LOSS OF THE FRENCH CAPITAL, OR AN EFFORT TO GIVE THE IMPRESSION THE INTERVENING GROUND WOULD NOT BE DEFENDED.

THE SURRENDER OF LE MANS INDICATED ABANDONMENT OF ANY IDEA OF AN ALENCON-LE MANS-TOURS DEFENSE LINE--AN ARC ABOUT 100 MILES FROM PARIS. AVAILABLE INFORMATION INDICATED THE ENEMY'S NXT POTENTIAL LINE WITH COMPARABLE LATERAL COMMUNICATIONS WAS ONE RUNING ORLEANS NORTHWARD THROUGH CHARTRES--A LINE THAT WOULD BE ONLY 50 MILES FROM PARIS.

AUG 111944

THE SCANTY GERMAN FORCES IN SOUTHERN FRANCE FOR SEVERAL DAYS HAVE BEEN REPORTED HURRYING TOWARD THE LOIRE, PRESUMABLY TO ASSAIL THIS SOUTHERN FLANK.

THE GERMANS ARE BELIEVED TO HAVE FEW MORE THAN 10 DIVISIONS TO HOLD ALL OF SOUTHERN FRANCE. CONCENTRATION OF ENOUGH FORCE TO DENT THE ALLIED SOUTHERN FLANK WOULD MEAN OPENING UP THE WAY FOR A SOUTHERN INVASION FROM THE MEDITERRANEAN.

N843AEW

WITH THE U.S.FIRST ARMY IN FRANCE, FIRST ADD NEGRO TRUCKERS X X X OF CAPACITY.

THREE MEN, SGT.WILLIAM CASHAW, JR., 249 NEW ST., JOHNSTOWN, PA.; PVT.SHELBY G.STOKES, MOYOCK, N.C., AND SGT.WALTER COBB, RFD 6, BUTLER, PA., DISTINGUISHED THEMSELVES ON THE FIRST DAY BY RESCUING NUMEROUS CASUALTIES FROM THE WATER AND UNDER FIRE.

THE COMPANY SUFFERED ONE CASUALTY, A SERGEANT WHO WAS THE LAST MAN TO LEAVE THE LANDING CRAFT AFTER DIRECTING ALL VEHICLES TO THE BEACH.

SEVERAL WHITE OFFICERS IN THE COMPANY RECEIVED BATTLE PROMOTIONS. THE COMPANY IS COMMANDED BY CAPT.THOMAS P.DOUGHERTY, 37 POPLAR ST., KINGSTON PA

AUG 111944

ST.MALO--FIRST ADD NL EYEWITNESS (BY BOYLE) X X X ~~STONE WALLS~~ bombing raid,

THERE WERE DEFENSES IN SUBURBAN ST.SERVAN IN WHICH A BETTER CLASS OF TROOPS THAN THE HODGE PODGE MILITARY ELEMENTS DEFENDING ST.MALO MIGHT HAVE HELD OUT FOR WEEKS INSTEAD OF DAYS.

"WE HAD TO CHIP THEM OUT OF ONE OF THOSE BUNKERS," SAID MAJ.CHARLES M.PACK, LIVE OAK, FLA. "ONE OF OUR 57 MILLIMETER ANTITANK GUNS DENTED IT WITH ARMOR PIERCING SHELLS AND THEN BEGAN FIRING HIGH EXPLOSIVE STUFF INTO THE OPENING. THE GERMANS CAME RUNNING OUT. WE TOOK SEVEN OFFICERS, 15 NONCOMS AND 80 MEN PRISONER FROM THAT SINGLE BUNKER."

LT.HANSEL L.LORD, ALLIANCE, OHIO, HAD AN EASIER TIME REDUCING A SIMILAR BUNKER. HE HAD HIS TANK FIRE ONE SHELL--AND THE ENTIRE GARRISON OF 80 MEN CAME OUT HANDS UP.

Aid With Gen. Eisenhower (Cowan) x x AUG 11 1944

THEY INCLUDED:

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS--LT.COL.RAYMOND D.MILLENER, TAYLOR TOWN, LA., NEAR SHREVEPORT; T/4 ROBERT F.LANGEN 160A SOUTH 10TH ST., SAN JOSE, CALIF.; LT.WALTER G.AMERMAN, PASTON, ILL.; LT.CHARLES J. SANTARSIERO, DUNMORE, PA., AND PVT. LEE N.ROGERS, ABERDEEN, WASH.

SILVER STAR--SGT.DAVID L.BEARD, LEBANON, TENN.; PVT.RAYMOND L. MILLER, 607 EAST 24TH ST., NATIONAL CITY, CALIF.; PVT. HOMER R. JOHNSON, MASON CITY, W.VA.; LT.COL.ROBERT A.BALLARD, 2953 RIVERSIDE AVE., JACKSONVILLE, FLA.; MAJ.RICHARD L.ALLEN, 868 ROSEDALE RD., ATLANTA, GA.; T/4 RICHARD V.AMAN, 111 SOUTH HOOVER, LOS ANGELES, CALIF.; LT.RALPH A.PAYNE, ALEXANDRIA, VA.; SGT.ALLEN JONES, 1512 NORTH 12TH ST., BIRMINGHAM, ALA.; PVT.GEORGE W.BLACKBURN, 701 OLIVE ST., HOUSTON, TEX.; AND PVT.FRED T.SMITH, BLUE RIDGE, GA.

SN840PEW

AUG 111944

BULLETIN

BY HAL BOYLE

AMERICAN FIRST ARMY HEADQUARTERS, AUG 10-(AP)-AMERICAN TROOPS SCORED A GENERAL ADVANCE OF FROM A MILE TO A MILE AND A HALF ON THEIR LEFT FLANK TODAY, REPULSING AN ATTACK BY ENEMY INFANTRY SOUTH OF MORTAIN.

(REUTERS, ALSO REPORTING THAT THE AMERICANS GAINED A MILE TO A MILE AND A HALF ON THEIR LEFT FLANK, SAID THAT THE DOUGHBOYS HAD BEGUN "A GENERAL OFFENSIVE.")

GERMAN RESISTANCE CONTINUED WITHIN MORTAIN ITSELF.

IN THIS SAME SECTOR THE GERMANS SHELLED THE TOWN OF VIRE AND FRONT LINE TROOPS WITH LIGHT ARTILLERY.

GH531PEW

AUG 111944

BY WILLIAM SMITH WHITE

WITH THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY IN FRANCE, AUG 10-(AP)-CANADIAN ARMOR IS EDGING TOWARD THE LAST HUMP OF GROUND PROTECTING FALAISE AND GERMAN FORCES WITHDRAWING INTO THE CITY FOR A SHOWDOWN BATTLE HAVE FALLEN UNDER THE ATTACKS OF ROCKET CARRYING TYPHOONS WHICH ALREADY HAVE KNOCKED OUT 33 OF THEIR TANKS.

MK707AEW

CANADIAN INFANTRY WAS CLEANING UP VILLAGE AFTER VILLAGE BEHIND THE ARMORED LINES.

A CANADIAN STAFF OFFICER ANNOUNCED THAT ONE ENTIRE GERMAN DIVISION, THE 89TH INFANTRY, HAD BEEN SO BLED AS TO BE NO LONGER EFFECTIVE UNLESS IT COULD BE HEAVILY REINFORCED.

THE 89TH HAD COME INTO THE BATTLE FRESH AND WITHOUT PREVIOUS SERVICE ON THIS FRONT.

SE859AEW

WITH THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY, AUG. 10-(AP)-CANADIAN TROOPS BROKE INTO VIMONT, SEVEN MILES SOUTHEAST OF CAEN, IN A TWO-MIL THRUST TODAY, BUT THE FIGHTING WAS CONFUSED AND IT WAS NOT CERTAIN WHETHER THEY HELD THE TOWN.

TWO CANADIAN BATTALIONS MADE THE THRUST INTO VIMONT, WHERE GEN. SIR BERNARD L.MONTGOMERY'S BIG OFFENSIVE THREE WEEKS AGO WAS HALTED BY A STRONG ENEMY ANTI-TANK SCREEN.

GH327PEW

CANADIANS

AUG 111944

BY ROSS MUNRO

CANADIAN PRESS CORRESPONDENT

(DISTRIBUTED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS)

WITH THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY IN FRANCE, AUG 10--CANADIAN TROOPS HAVE BEATEN OFF A SRIES OF GERMAN COUNTERATTACKS NORTH OF FALAISE, THE HEAVIEST ENEMY THRUSTS BEING MADE AGAINST THE CANADIAN SPEARHEAD AND AGAINST OTHER TROOPS ON THE LEFT FLANK.

NO PENETRATION WAS MADE BY THE GERMANS, ACCORDING TO LATEST REPORTS.

BZ606AEW

BRITISH

BY ROGER D.GREENE

ON THE ORNE RIVER FRONT, AUG 10-(AP)-BRITISH TROOPS HAVE WIDENED THE STRATEGICALLY IMPORTANT BRIDGEHEAD ACROSS THE RIVER ORNE IN A 4,000-YARD THRUST THAT HAS POISED A SHARP NEW FLANKING THREAT TO THE GERMAN RIVER BASTION AT THURY-HARCOURT.

KEEPING PACE WITH THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY OFFENSIVE FARTHER EAST, THE BRITISH TOMMIES STRIKING SOUTH ALONG THE ORNE FROM THE GRIMBOSQ SECTOR RECAPTURED BRIEUX, LA BAGOTIERE AND LA MOISSONIERE AND SEIZED THE CROSSROADS TOWN OF FORGE-A-CAMBRO, SOUTHWEST OF THE DE GINGLAIS FOREST.

SIMULTANEOUSLY ANOTHER BRITISH COLUMN, TIGHTENING A PINCERS SWEEP AROUND THURY-HARCOURT, CAPTURED TREMBLAY, ABOUT SIX MILES NORTH OF CONDE-SUR-NOIREAU.

AUG 111944

A68

FARTHER TO THE SOUTHWEST, LT.GEN.MILES C.DEMPSEY'S TANKS AND INFANTRY BURST THROUGH GERMAN DEFENSES BARRING THE VIRE-VASSY ROAD AND CAPTURED ROULOURS, 3,500 YARDS SOUTHEAST OF VIRE.

FIELD MARSHAL VON KLUGE STILL WAS HANGING ON LIKE GRIM DEATH TO ESTRY, AS THE GERMANS FOUGHT WITH FANATICAL FURY IN THE RUINS OF THAT RUBBLED VILLAGE ON THE AUNY-VIRE ROAD.

"GERMAN MOVEMENT BEHIND THE LINES WEST OF THE ORNE IS CONFUSED," A BRITISH STAFF OFFICER SAID. "ENEMY TRANSPORT IS SHUTTLING BACK AND FORTH WITH NO CLEAR INDICATION OF WHAT IS GOING."

BZ609AEW

AUG 111944

AMERICANS (370)

BY EDWARD D.BALL

LE MANS, FRANCE, AUG 9-(DELAYED)-(AP)-AMERICAN DOUGHBOYS MADE THEMSELVES AT HOME IN SIDEWALK CAFES AND RESTAURANTS TODAY WITHIN AN HOUR AFTER THEY ROLLED INTO THIS CITY ATOP TANKS, BUT RIFLEFIRE STILL SOUNDED IN THE SOUTHERN RESIDENTIAL SECTIONS LATE IN THE DAY AS MOPUP SQUADS DEALT WITH A FEW REMAINING GERMAN SNIPERS.

THE AMERICAN ENTRY FOLLOWED DESTRUCTION OF A MILE-LONG ENEMY COLUMN WHICH WAS HURRYING TO THE DEFENSE OF THE CITY LAST NIGHT.

THE GERMANS BEGAN WITHDRAWING FROM THIS IMPORTANT BASTION 110 MILES FROM PARIS MONDAY NIGHT. AFTER TUESDAY NIGHT'S DEBACLE THE REMAINING DEFENSE FORCES SENT FLYING SQUADS THROUGH LE MANS TOSSING INCENDIARIES AND GRENADES THROUGH DOORS AND WINDOWS IN AN EFFORT TO FIRE THE CITY.

AUG 111944

BUT THE ATTEMPT FAILED, AND THE AMERICANS FOUND DESTRUCTION FAR LESS THAN AT RENNES.

PVT.CORLISS WALKER, 134 LA VUELTA ST., SANTA BARBARA, CALIF.,

KILLED A COUPLE OF SNIPERS IN QUICK SUCCESSION DURING THE AFTERNOON.

WHILE THE COMMANDING GENERAL WAS HAVING MESS EARLY TONIGHT AMONG THE PINES, PALMS AND FLOWER BEDS OF THE GRASSY CITY PARK, SNIPERS' GUNS POPPED WITHIN EARSHOT.

AUG 111944

LT.WILLIAM KOLTOVSKY, 817 E. 182ND ST., THE BRONX, NEW YORK CITY, A MEMBER OF THE TANK FORCE THAT WAS PURSUING THE ENEMY COLUMN LATE YESTERDAY AND LAST NIGHT, SAID: "OUR AIR FORCE GAVE US WONDERFUL COOPERATION IN DRIVING THE GERMANS INTO A TRAP. THEY HARASSED THEM AND GAVE US A PLAY-BY-PLAY DETAIL ON THEIR PROGRESS."

MAJ.THOMAS P.BROOKS, 235 WALTON ST., SAN ANTONIO, TEX., WHOSE FORCE RAN INTO ANOTHER ENEMY COLUMN, DECLARED: "THE GERMANS FOUGHT PLENTY HARD BUT THEY DIDN'T HAVE A CHANCE TO MAKE A STAND."

THE RECEPTION THE DOUGHBOYS GOT HERE WAS EQUALLY AS MOVING AS THE ONE AT RENNES AND ON A BIGGER SCALE, BECAUSE THIS IS A LARGER CITY.

A HALF DOZEN GI'S GALLOPED DOWN MAIN STREET ASTRIDE BEAUTIFUL SORRELS. THEY WERE HAVING THE TIME OF THEIR LIVES AND WHEN SOMEBODY ASKED WHAT WAS THE IDEA THEY YELLED: "WE'RE MOUNTIES."

CHEERS OF TOWNSPEOPLE CROWDING THE STREETS TURNED TO CATCALLS AND WHISTLES EVERY TIME A TRUCKLOAD OF SULLEN GERMAN PRISONERS LUMBERED BY.

AUG 111944

ON THE APPROACHES TO LE MANS I COUNTED AT LEAST 20 GERMAN TANKS, SOME FIRE-BLACKENED AND THE OTHERS APPARENTLY UNTOUCHED. IT WAS LIKELY THAT THE CREWS OF THE LATTER ABANDONED THEM WHEN THE TANKS RAN OUT OF GAS. MANY FELL VICTIMS TO OUR AIR FORCE.

MK646AEW

by wes gallagher

in a u. s. army observati n plene overlooking lorient, france, aug. 10--(ap)--this sullen nazi spawning ground of u-boats is dying slowly and stubbornly under a rain of shells and bombs from the besieging american army.

AUG 111944

a ring of american armor is squeezing the life out of the gestapo- and naval-held undersea fortress, which lies fanned out beneath the wings of this tiny piper cub. to the left, in the n n sun, the concrete and iron forts of the once french seaport belch orange defiance, and at the same time lick their wounds from 155mm american long toms, slashing into the city defenses.

up here in this artillery spotting plane, piloted by capt. charles d. damon of ames, iowa, it feels quite lonesome. this is EXEP especially so when you know that a few thousand yards away are some of the most formidable flak defenses in europe, with battery after battery of 88mm. guns which open up on inquisitive cubs when they get too close.

AUG 111944

and shooting at a cub with an x 88 is x just like swatting a fly with a coal shovel.

"sometimes they let us come in close and don't shoot , but when we try to turn to get out, they send up everything. they are like cats waiting for mice," capt. damon said before we started.

lorient is cut off and contained, with no hope but surrender for the garrison, which is headed by a group of fanatical navy officers who have refused the americans' ultimatum and apparently are determined to fight to the last man.

the naval men there are the backbone of the defense. lorient is interlaced with large concrete forts built by the french, fire either out to sea or inland. in addition flak batteries, which the u-boat den one of the hottest spots in europe for american and bombers, form the outer perimeter of defenses and they ar formidable against tanks, as the 88's can be turned down and can deal devastating fire against attacking forces.

AUG 111944

in addition all the german troops in the area have retreated under american and fighting french pressure into the fortress, making th garrison a division or more within the powerful forts.

the famed u-boat pens were invisible today from the air but french and germans said the american and british bombings had failed to pierce their 16-foot layers of concrete and they were unharmed. a large part of the naval garrison, complete with huge stocks of food designed to replenish the u-boats, and a water-filtering set, now are making their headquarters in the pens, safe from artillery and bombing, coming out to fight only when required.

AUG 111944

AUG 111944

are columns of smoke rising from the water front now as we swing away from the city, while other columns farther inland testify to the formidable batteries of 88's present. as we flew inland brittany showed little ruin of war. the advance has been too fast for the germans to turn small towns into strongholds for delaying actions, and when they were so inclined, the fighting french was underground too fast for them.

friday,

with the u. s. first army in france, aug. 11--(ap)-- thirteen officers and men from one infantry regiment of the 19th infantry division received distinguished service crosses, it was disclosed tonight.

they included sgts. carlos ritter, rfd one, white post, va.; ralph s. coffman, route 1, sidney, va.; l. m. armstrong, box 566, staunto va.; howard w. rogers, mc gaheysville, va.; lyman k. patterson, warr nton, va.

also lts. leonard a. anker, lovelock, nev.; verne w. morse, 320 fourt st., reynoldsville, pa.; capts. archibald sprould, millbrook, va.; john j. cotter, 285 west 8th street, wyoming, pa; forest zantow, 4313 hillcrest drive, madison, wis.; lt. col. sidney v. bingham, 4408 hanove st., dallas, tex.; col. charles d.w. canham,1225 michigan ave., howell, mich.; brig. gen. norman d. cota, 836 holly st., gainsville, fla.

(IN A DISPATCH FROM THE TENGCHUNG SECTOR LAST NIGHT, ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENT CLYDE A.FARNSWORTH SAID THE JAPANESE GARRISON WAS MAKING A FIERCE, SUICIDAL DEFENSE OF THE CITY. THE ENEMY FORCES, HE SAID, APPARENTLY NUMBER ONLY A FEW HUNDRED, BUT THEY ARE STRONGLY ENTRENCHED AND APPARENTLY DETERMINED TO FIGHT TO THE LAST MAN.)

Add Moscow Russian (Luce) xxx farther north.

THE RED ARMY SEIZED MORE THAN 700 SETTLEMENTS YESTERDAY, A RUSSIAN WAR BULLETIN SAID, KILLING MORE THAN 3,800 NAZIS AND KNOCKING OUT OR DESTROYING MORE THAN 120 ENEMY TANKS. IT WAS THE NINTH STRAIGHT DAY THE RUSSIANS HAD RECORDED LOSS OF MORE THAN 100 TANKS BY THE GERMANS.

AUG 11 1944

THE GERMANS WERE REPORTED COUNTERATTACKING SAVAGELY AS THE PROSPECT OF RED ARMY INVASION OF EAST PRUSSIA MOUNTED HOURLY. THE MOST FREQUENT GERMAN THRUSTS WERE MADE AT THE ADVANCING SOVIET FORCES COMING EAST OF THE BORDER TOWN OF SCHIRWINDT AND NORTHWEST OF MARIAMPOLE, AND ALONG THE FLANK OF THE WIDENING LATVIAN CORRIDOR.

(GERMAN BROADCASTS SAID EVERY ABLE-BODIED MAN AND WOMAN FROM 15 TO 65 WAS DRAFTED TO DIG TRENCHES AGAINST THE IMMINENT ENTRY OF THE RED ARMY ONTO THE "HOLY" SOIL OF EAST PRUSSIA.)

OF ALL THE SECTORS ON THE EASTERN FRONT, HOWEVER, THE BULGE BEYOND THE VISTULA APPARENTLY HELD THE GREATEST TERROR FOR THE NAZIS. IT HAS BEEN EATING LIKE ACID INTO THE GERMAN DEFENSES, AND IT EXTENDS PAINFULLY AGAINST GERMAN LATERAL ROADS AND RAIL LINES CONNECTING KRAKOW AND WARSAW.

AUG 11 1944

HUNDREDS OF TANKS PLUNGED INTO ACTION WITH THE SUPREMACY OF SOUTHERN POLAND AT STAKE. THE BATTLE ROLLED ALONG ON A SEMI-CIRCULAR FRONT OF MORE THAN 50 MILES, UNDER THE SHADOW OF SCORES OF RUSSIAN AND GERMAN AIR SQUADRONS.

SOME RED ARMY ADVANCE TROOPS WERE REPORTED A LITTLE MORE THAN 20 MILES FROM KIELCE AND JEDREZJOW, RAIL COMMUNICATION POINTS WHOSE CAPTURE WOULD OPEN A GATEWAY INTO GERMAN SILESIA, OUTFLANK KRAKOW AND SHAKE THE ENEMY'S POSITIONS AT WARSAW.

IN THE FIGHTING AT THE SOUTHERN END OF THE FRONT, THE TOWN OF SKOLE WAS CAPTURED. THE TOWN IS IN THE NARROWING CARPATHIAN VALLEY, WHERE THE ROAD AND RAILROAD WIND UP TO THE BESKID PASS AND THE CZECHOSLOVAKIAN BORDER 20 MILES AWAY.

M401AEW

NIGHT LEAD PLISH (250)

AUG 111944

BY EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, AUG 10-(AP)-PREMIER STANISLAW MIKOLAJCZYK SPED BACK TOWARD LONDON TONIGHT SHOULDERED WITH THE RESPONSIBILITY OF TRYING TO WELD TWO RIVAL POLISH REGIMES INTO ONE STRONG, INDEPENDENT GOVERNMENT.

FOREIGN OBSERVERS, EAGER FOR A SOLUTION TO THE POLISH QUESTION NOW THAT LIBERATION SEEMS NEAR, NOTED THESE TWO DEVELOPMENTS BEARING UPON DIFFERENCES BETWEEN THE GOVERNMENT-IN-EXILE IN LONDON AND THE SOVIET-BACKED NATIONAL COMMITTEE OF LIBERATION:

1. PREMIER MARSHAL STALIN, DESPITE HIS PREOCCUPATION WITH THE RED ARMY OFFENSIVES, TOOK TIME OFF LAST NIGHT FOR A SECOND VISIT WITH THE POLISH EXECUTIVE.

2. MIKOLAJCZYK WAS GIVEN A HOSPITABLE RECEPTION IN MOSCOW AND A FRIENDLY FAREWELL, INDICATING THAT HE IS ACCEPTABLE TO THE SOVIETS.

AUG 1 1944

THE POLISH PREMIER IS REPORTED TO HAVE TOLD FRIENDS THAT HIS CONVERSATION WITH STALIN HAD CONVINCED HIM THE SOVIETS WERE NOT SEEKING A COMMUNISTIC POLAND BUT A FRIENDLY NEIGHBOR.

"THE MARSHAL IS A STRONG, SINCERE MAN," HE TOLD A FRIEND. "I LIKE TO TALK TO HIM."

A PERSON IN SOME AUTHORITY HERE WHO HAS FOLLOWED THE POLISH TALKS CLOSELY SAID: "WE MUST ALL BE PATIENT, FOR NOTHING SENSATIONAL IS LIKELY TO HAPPEN FOR SEVERAL WEEKS."

MIKOLAJCZYK HIMSELF RADIATED CONFIDENCE AND APPEARED GRIMLY DETERMINED THAT A WAY OUT WOULD BE FOUND.

BOTH THE COMMITTEE AND THE PREMIER AGREED THAT THE PEOPLE WHO STAYED BEHIND TO FIGHT THE GERMANS SHOULD LEAD POLAND BUT BOTH HELD THAT THEIR GROUPS BEST REPRESENTED THE UNDERGROUND.

AUG 111944

UNTIL THE RED AND POLISH ARMIES LIBERATE MOST OF POLAND THIS POINT WILL BE DIFFICULT FOR EITHER TO PROVE.

SN414PEW

ALGIERS,AUG.10-(AP)-HENRI BONNET, INFORMATION MINISTER OF THE FRENCH COMMITTEE OF NATIONAL LIBERATION, ANNOUNCED TODAY THE ADOPTION BY THE COMMITTEE OF AN ORDINANCE GOVERNING THE REORGANIZATION OF THE FRENCH PRESS ALONG LINES APPROVED LAST MARCH BY THE ASSEMBLY.

THE ORDINANCE SAYS THE OBJECT OF THE REORGANIZATION IS "TO ESTABLISH A CLEAN AND FINANCIALLY HONEST PRESS."

"NO ANONYMOUS NAMES ARE PERMITTED IN THE OPERATION OF NEWSPAPERS," THE ORDINANCE SAID. "PEOPLE MUST KNOW THE REAL OWNERS OF PAPERS. IN THE FUTURE ALL NEWSPAPERS MUST CARRY UNDER THE MASTHEADS THE NAMES AND PROFESSIONS OF MANAGERS AND SUB-MANAGERS. EVERY THREE MONTHS A COMPLETE LIST OF STAFF OR OCCASIONAL EDITORS MUST BE PUBLISHED. THE LARGEST SHAREHOLDER MUST ASSUME THE NEWSPAPER'S RESPONSIBILITY, ALTHOUGH HE DELEGATES POWERS TO OTHERS. IF THE MAJORITY OF SHARES ARE NOT OWNED BY ONE PERSON THE MANAGER MUST BE CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD, COMPANY PRESIDENT OR PARTNER, DEPENDING ON THE TYPE OF COMPANY.

"THE MANAGER OF A NEWSPAPER OF ANY IMPORTANCE MUST DEVOTE HIS TIME TO THE NEWSPAPER, AND THE NEWSPAPER MUST BE THE PRINCIPAL SOURCE OF HIS INCOME. NEWSPAPERS MUST PUBLISH FINANCIAL STATEMENTS PERIODICALLY AND ALSO THEIR ADVERTISING RATES. NEWSPAPERS ARE NOT ALLOWED TO ACCEPT ADVERTISING FROM HIDDEN SOURCES OR TO RECEIVE ANY FORM OF SUBSIDY FROM FOREIGN GOVERNMENTS."

THE COMMITTEE SAID THE ORDINANCE COMPLETES THE LIST OF SUCH REGULATIONS GOVERNING THE PRESS.

AUG 1 1944

A134

BERN, SWITZERLAND, AUG 10-(AP)-AN ITALIAN FRONTIER DISPATCH TO POPOLOPE LIBERTA OF BELLINZONA REPORTED TODAY THAT FASCISTS HAD MASSACRED 73 POLITICAL PRISONERS AT THE FOSSOLI CONCENTRATION CAMP. THE ACCOUNT SAID THE VICTIMS INCLUDED ATTORNEY GALILEO VECESSI, PROVINCIAL SECRETARY OF THE POPULAR PARTY IN MILAN IN 1925.

BY EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, AUG. 10-(AP)-THE RED ARMY THREW A ONE-TWO PUNCH INTO THE GERMAN LEFT FLANK NORTHEAST OF WARSAW TONIGHT, A BIG FORCE SOUTHEAST OF BIALYSTOK SWARMING ACROSS THE NAREW RIVER TO JOIN UP WITH SOVIETS PUSHING UP FROM THE SOUTH TOWARDS EAST PRUSSIA.

THIS MANEUVER, TOGETHER WITH THE CAPTURE OF RASEINIAI, 50 MILES NORTHEAST OF TILSIT, BROUGHT INCREASED DANGER TO MANY THOUSANDS OF GERMANS STRUGGLING WITH MARSHAL IVAN CHERNIAKHOVSKY'S UNITS ON THE EAST PRUSSIA-LITHUANIAN-SUWALKI TRIANGLE FRONTIER.

(MORE)

THERE WAS NO MISTAKING THE DIRECTION OF THE RUSSIAN DRIVE NORTHEAST OF WARSAW WHERE IN THE SECTOR NORTH OF SIEDLCE THEY SWEPT INTO 30 VILLAGES AND MOVED SWIFTLY TOWARD THE SOUTHERN BORDER OF EAST PRUSSIA.

A LARGE SCALE BREAKTHROUGH WOULD BRING SERIOUS CONSEQUENCES TO THE MASSED THOUSANDS OF GERMANS MOVED INTO THE WILD BORDERLAND BETWEEN EAST PRUSSIA AND LITHUANIA AND THE SOVIETS ARE IN A POSITION TO REALIZE JUST SUCH A BREALTHROUGH WITH FORCES MOVED FROM SOUTHWEST OF BIALYSTOK.

EXPERIENCING SOME OF THE FINEST FLYING WEATHER IN RECENT WEEKS, WAVES OF STORMOVIKS WERE OUT IN FORCE TODAY ASSISTING IN THE IMPRESSIVE TOLL OF 199 TANKS DESTROYED OR PUT OUT OF COMMISSION ON THE EASTERN FRONT FROM THE UPPER BALTICS TO THE CARPATHIAN FOOT-HILLS.

AUG 11 1944

TWO GREAT TANK BATTLEFIELDS REMAINED IN THE SECTOR WEST OF THE VISTULA WHERE THE SOVIETS BEAT OFF FURIOUS GERMAN PANZER BLOWS AND IN THE BORDERLAND AREA BETWEEN EAST PRUSSIA AND LITHUANIA.

SOME OF THE FIERCEST FIGHTING SINCE KURSK IS TAKING PLACE BETWEEN HEAVY TANK GROUPS OF BOTH ARMIES, BUT THE STORMOVIKS--THE SOVIETS' FLYING ARTILLERY--SEEMED TO BE MAKING THE DIFFERENCE.

WE818PEW

POLISH (290)

BY EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, AUG 10-(AP)-PREMIER STANISLAW MIKOLAJCZYK OF THE POLISH GOVERNMENT-IN-EXILE RADIATED OPTIMISM TODAY AFTER A SECOND CONFERENCE WITH PREMIER STALIN HE SAID THE TWO RIVAL POLISH REGIMES PROBABLY WOULD MEET IN WARSAW AGAIN AFTER IT IS CAPTURED TO SEEK THE RECONCILIATION AGREEMENT THEY FAILED TO REACH HERE.

"I THINK WARSAW, WHICH IS FIGHTING NOW A TERRIBLE FIGHT, WOULD BE THE BEST PLACE," THE PREMIER TOLD A PRESS CONFERENCE. "IT WOULD BE THE EASIEST PLACE TO FIND AN AGREEMENT."

HE EXPRESSED BELIEF MEMBERS OF THE POLISH UNDERGROUND SHOULD LEAD POLAND AND REMARKED THAT "THIS IS THE COMMON FRONT OF EVERY POLE."

MIKOLAJCZYK SAW STALIN FOR AN HOUR LAST NIGHT AND REPORTED THE RUSSIAN PREMIER HAD GIVEN ASSURANCE OF "HIS DESIRE FOR A STRONG, INDEPENDENT, DEMOCRATIC POLAND."

THE POLISH PREMIER SAID HE WAS "VERY GLAD TO LEARN THAT SOVIET RUSSIA WISHES THE COOPERATION OF ALL POLES," AND ADDED:

"THE THINGS WITH WHICH WE ARE DEALING ARE VERY DIFFICULT. THEY CONCERN THE FUTURE OF POLAND AND THE U.S.S.R. THIS IS ONE OF THE TEST CASES OF EUROPE."

HE PAUSED DRAMATICALLY, THEN SAID, "FOR SUCH A CASE THERE MUST BE A WAY OUT."

NEGOTIATIONS BETWEEN THE RIVAL REGIMES, THE EXILE GOVERNMENT AND THE SOVIET-SPONSORED NATIONAL COMMITTEE OF LIBERATION, BROKE UP YESTERDAY WITH BOTH SIDES INDICATING A DESIRE THAT THEY BE RESUMED SOON.

MIKOLAJCZYK, ALTHOUGH INDICATING PROGRESS HAD BEEN MADE, DECLINED TO DISCUSS THE PATHS THE DISCUSSIONS FOLLOWED.

AUG 11 1944

"WE HAVE AGREED NOT TO MAKE STATEMENTS AND COUNTERSTATEMENTS," HE SAID, BUT ADDED THAT CERTAIN PROPOSALS HAD BEEN ADVANCED BY BOTH SIDES WHICH WOULD BE "CONSIDERED IN LONDON" AFTER HE RETURNS THERE SHORTLY.

MIKOLAJCZYK SAID HE WOULD CONFER WITH BRITISH AND AMERICAN REPRESENTATIVES IN LONDON AS HE HAD CONFERRED HERE WITH SIR ARCHIBALD JOHN CLARK KERR, BRITISH AMBASSADOR, AND W. AVERELL HARRIMAN, AMERICAN AMBASSADOR. HE SAW BOTH LAST NIGHT BEFORE VISITING STALIN.

M453AEW

~~OF AN AMERICAN SOLDIER.~~ Add USPFHQ, Pearl Harbor (Ericksen) xx change.

IT WAS A STRANGE CONTRAST WITH SAIPAN, FIRST ISLAND IN THE MARIANAS TO BE CONQUERED, WHERE THE JAPANESE FOUGHT TO THE LAST, EXACTING THE HIGHEST AMERICAN CASUALTIES OF ANY GROUND CAMPAIGN IN THE PACIFIC TO DATE.

BRIG.GEN.LEMUEL C.SHEPHERD, JR., OF LA JOLLA, CALIF., COMMANDER OF THE FIRST PROVISIONAL MARINE BRIGADE, WAS QUOTED IN ONE DISPATCH AS SAYING THAT NEVER BEFORE HAD HE ACTUALLY SEEN JAPANESE "PICK UP AND RUN" WHEN AMERICAN TROOPS ADVANCED.

AUG 11 1944

"THE JAPS HAVE BEEN KNOWN TO WITHDRAW FROM POSITIONS FOR TACTICAL REASONS BUT NEVER TO RUN FOR THEIR LIVES LIKE THESE ENEMY STRAGGLERS ON GUAM," SAID THIS VETERAN OF THE TOUGH NEW BRITAIN CAMPAIGN IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC.

"THE JAPS ARE RUNNING WHENEVER THEY SEE A MARINE," SAID MAJ. HAMILTON M.HOYLER OF AVENEL, N.J. HIS BATTALION HAD SPENT FRUITLESS HOURS IN BEATING THE BUSH FOR SIGNS OF THE ENEMY.

DOUGHBOYS AND MARINES WHO HAD BEEN AWAITING THE CLIMACTIC BANZAI CHARGE ADMITTED THEY WERE PUZZLED.

CHARLES P.ARNOT, REPRESENTING THE COMBINED ALLIED PRESS, WHO REPORTED THIS NEW DEVELOPMENT IN THE PACIFIC WAR, CONCLUDED THE JAPANESE HAD BEEN COMPLETELY DISORGANIZED BY THE TERRIFIC PRE-INVASION BOMBARDMENT, THE MOST INTENSIVE OF PACIFIC INVASIONS.

THE COLLAPSE OF ORGANIZED RESISTANCE IN THE NORTHEAST CORNER OF THE ISLAND, WHERE THE ENEMY HAD BEEN SQUEEZED, CAME QUICKLY AFTER AN INFANTRY-SUPPORTED MOTORIZED COUP DESTROYED HASTILY CONSTRUCTED BLOCKS ALONG THE NARROW WINDING ROAD ALONG WHICH THE YANKS ADVANCED.

AUG 11 1944

THE JAPANESE THEN BROKE INTO SMALL GROUPS AND TOOK COVER IN THE DENSE UNDERBRUSH. DAYS WILL BE NEEDED TO FERRET THEM OUT.

GG223PCW NM

A HEAVY RAID ON TRUK ATOLL IN THE CAROLINES TUESDAY, DURING WHICH 60 TONS OF BOMBS WERE DROPPED BY SEVENTH ARMY AIR FORCE HEAVY BOMBERS, WAS ANNOUNCED TODAY BY NIMITZ. SOME TEN ENEMY INTERCEPTORS AROSE TO CONTEST THE STRIKE AND ONE WAS SHOT DOWN AND TWO DAMAGED. TWO AMERICAN BOMBERS WERE DAMAGED.

NAVY PLANES MEANWHILE STRUCK AT NAURU FOR THE FIFTH CONSECUTIVE DAY. THEIR TARGETS ON THAT PHOSPHATE ISLAND, A BRITISH MANDATE CAPTURED BY THE JAPANESE TWO YEARS AGO, WERE GUN EMPLACEMENTS.

PONAPE IN THE CAROLINES AND MALOELAP IN THE MARSHALS ALSO WERE RAIDED TUESDAY.

VB742PCW

~~SONAL PHYSICIAN.~~ Add Honolulu FDR (Flieger) xx Physician

ALSO IN THE GROUP WERE SAMUEL I. ROSENMAN, SPECIAL COUNSEL TO THE PRESIDENT AND ONE OF MR. ROOSEVELT'S CLOSE PERSONAL ADVISORS, AND ELMER DAVIS, DIRECTOR OF THE OFFICE OF WAR INFORMATION. DAVIS SAID HE WAS NOT A MEMBER OF THE PRESIDENTIAL PARTY AND EXPLAINED HE CAME TO THE PACIFIC TO REVIEW OWI OPERATIONS. HOWEVER, HE HELPED HANDLE PRESS RELATIONS.

HONOLULU WAS ALIVE WITH RUMORS--ALL OF THEM WRONG--THAT THE CLOSELY GUARDED NAVY COMPOUND WHERE THE PRESIDENT STAYED WOULD BE THE SITE OF A MEETING WITH PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL OR GENERALISSIMO CHIANG KAI SHEK. ACTUALLY THE WHOLE AFFAIR WAS AN AMERICAN HUDDLE.

TO REPORTERS WHO ASKED THE PRESIDENT ABOUT AN ANGLO-AMERICAN MEETING MR. ROOSEVELT REPLIED THAT CHURCHILL IS NOT HERE AND ISN'T EXPECTED HERE. A CHURCHILL CONFERENCE, HE SAID, IS A QUESTION FOR FUTURE DETERMINATION.

A110WX

MR. ROOSEVELT SAID HE WILL REPORT TO THE NATION ON HIS PACIFIC TRIP--HIS FIRST WAR JOURNEY THIS YEAR--BUT GAVE NO INDICATION

30.24— 1791

OF A DATE. IN HIS SPEECH ACCEPTING DEMOCRATIC RENOMINATION, HE SAID HE HAS NO TIME FOR POLITICAL CAMPAIGNING IN THE USUAL SENSE, BUT SAID HE WOULD REPORT TO THE PEOPLE FROM TIME TO TIME.

AT TODAY'S NEWS CONFERENCE THE PRESIDENTSAID HE HAD RECEIVED A NICE TELEGRAM FROM SENATOR HARRY F. TRUMAN OF MISSOURI, HIS VICE PRESIDENTIAL RUNNING MATE, BUT HE TURNED ASIDE OTHER CAMPAIGN QUESTIONS BY SAYING HE WAS TOO FAR AWAY FROM POLITICS.

(END ADVANCE FOR USE AT 10 A.M., EASTERN WAR TIME, THURSDAY, AUG. 10; NOT TO BE TRANSMITTED OUTSIDE THE UNITED STATES BEFORE THAT TIME)

AUG 11 1944

SU828AEW

FDR

(ADVANCE FOR USE AT 10 A.M., EASTERN WAR TIME, TODAY, THURSDAY, AUG.10; NOT TO BE TRANSMITTED OUTSIDE THE UNITED STATES BEFORE THAT TIME)

(ADVANCE) HONOLULU, JULY 29-(DELAYED)-(AP)-PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AND THE CAMPAIGN CHIEFS OF THE PACIFIC SAT UNDER COOL PALMS ON THE FAMED BEACH AT WAIKIKI TO TALK ABOUT THE WAR.

THEY WERE IN THE BEACH-SIDE GARDEN OF THE MANSION HOME OF THE LATE CHRISTIAN R.HOLMES, A BEAUTIFUL ESTATE TAKEN OVER BY THE NAVY AS A REST HOME FOR COMBAT PILOTS. THE RAMBLING HOME AND GROUNDS, SHUT OFF FROM THE PUBLIC BY HIGH FENCES ON ONE SIDE AND THE BEACH ON THE OTHER, BECAME PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S HEADQUARTERS WHEN HE ARRIVED IN HONOLULU.

THE HOUSE IS EQUIPPED WITH AN ELEVATOR, SOUND MOVIE EQUIPMENT AND SIMILAR COMFORTS OF A LAVISH HOME. THE PRESIDENT MADE HIS QUARTERS ON A LARGE SLEEPING DECK OVERLOOKING THE LONG, ROLLING SURF OF WAIKIKI.

(END ADVANCE FOR USE AT 10 A.M., EASTERN WAR TIME, TODAY, THURSDAY, AUG.10; NOT TO BE TRANSMITTED OUTSIDE THE UNITED STATES BEFORE THAT TIME)

FR925AEW

SUPERFORTRESS
BY JOHN GROVER

A SECRET NEW SUPERFORTRESS BASE NEAR THE EQUATOR, FRIDAY, AUG 11-(AP-IN A WIDESPREAD DOUBLE-HEADER RAID AGAINST EXTREMLY VITAL JAPANESE WAR INDUSTRY, GIANT AMERICAN B-29 SUPERFORTRESSES STRUCK HARD TODAY AT NAGASAKI, IN THE JAPANESE HOMELAND KYUSHU ISLANDS, AND AT PALEMBANG IN SUMATRA.

CHINA-BASED AIR BEHEMOTHS OF THE U.S. 20TH BOMBER COMMAND RAINED INCENDIARIES ON NAGASAKI IN THE FIRST FIRE-BOMB RAID AGAINST THE JAPANESE HOMELAND.

AT THE SAME TIME OTHER SUPERFORTRESSES WERE WINGING FROM THEIR NEW SECRET BASE IN THE LONGEST BOMBING MISSION OF THE WAR--[illegible] MILES ROUND TRIP--TO THROW HIGH EXPLOSIVES AT THE FINEST PETROLEUM TARGET IN THE JAPANESE EMPIRE, PALEMBANG.

AUG 11 1944

BOTH MISSIONS HIT STRATEGIC TARGETS OF "MOST VITAL IMPORT" IN DEVELOPING THE BROAD RANGE OF DESTRUCTION OF KEY JAPANESE INDUSTRIES.

THE PALEMBANG PETROLEUM INSTALLATIONS INCLUDE THE PLADJOE REFINERY, LARGEST IN JAPAN'S POSSESSION. THE BOMBED REFINERY PRODUCED 78 PER CENT AVIATION FUEL AND 22 PER CENT FUEL OIL.

SK1156PEW

THE FIRST REPORT FROM THE RETURNING R[illegible]CATED TH[illegible]STRIKES ON BOTH NAGASAKI AND PALEMBANG WERE SUCC[illegible]

CREWS FROM THE GIANT PLANES THAT RAID[illegible]ALEMBANG RADIOED THAT "LARGE FIRES WERE OBSERVED" ON THE TARGET, WITH TOWERING FLAMES MASKING THE ENTIRE STORAGE TANK AND REFINERY AREA.

REPORTS FROM THE NAGASKI RAIDERS SAID LARGE FIRES STARTED IN THE SHIPYARDS SPREAD RAPIDLY TO OTHER SECTIONS OF THE FLIMSY WOOD AND PAPER METROPOLIS.

THE NAGASAKI SHIPYARDS PRODUCE MUCH JAPANESE MERCHANT SHIPPING, ONE OF THE ENEMY'S PRIME REQUIREMENTS IN VIEW OF LOSSES SUFFERED TO HIS LONG LINES OF COMMUNICATIONS.

AN OFFICIAL VIEW WAS THAT THE DOUBLE BLOW WAS LIKELY TO HASTEN JAPANESE RETIREMENT TO THE "INNER ZONE OF DEFENSES."

THE RAID ON PALEMBANG WILL FORCE THE JAPANESE TO TRANSPORT CRUDE OIL TO THE REFINERY FROM JAPAN, IT WAS SAID. RESHIPMENT OF AVIATION GAS TO THE FIGHTING FRONT IS IMPOSING A NEW STRAIN ON JAPANESE SHIPPING ALREADY GROGGY AND CUT TO PIECES BY AMERICAN SUBMARINES.

EV108AEW

BOTH THE RAIDS, AT NIGHT, WERE [illegible]ED SIMULTANEOUSLY, WITH THE WIDE RANGE OF THE B-29 AND THE ABILITY TO SPLIT JAPANESE DEFENSES APART DRAMATICALLY DEMONSTRATED BY THE DOUBLE SMASH ON THE TARGETS.

AUG 11 1944

THE ONE-TWO PUNCH BY THE COORDINATED SQUADRON WAS A COMPLEX AND UNIQUE OPERATION, PLANNED FOR WEEKS. THE SQUADRON WINGED TO BASES APPROXIMATELY 2,500 MILES APART FOR BRIEFING, GASSING AND LOADING OF BOMBS, THEN PROCEEDED TO THE TARGET 1,000 MILES AWAY.

THE NEW BASE IN THE SOUTHEAST ASIA COMMAND AREA IS ONE OF THE BEST KEPT SECRETS OF THE WAR.

EV114AEW

(EDITOR'S NOTE: HERE IS THE STORY OF THE FIRST AMERICAN AIR RAID ON THE PHILIPPINES SINCE THE FALL OF CORREGIDOR IN MAY, 1942)
BY SPENCER DAVIS

(AN ADVANCED BOMBER BASE OFF DUTCH NEW GUINEA, AUG. 6-(DELAYED)-(AP)-A BIG NIGHT-FLYING LIBERATOR WITH A PICTURE OF BUGS BUNNY PAINTED ON THE FUSELAGE DELIBERATELY CIRCLED OVER THE DAVAO AIRPORT.

THE LIGHTS OF MINDANAO'S CAPITAL CITY GLOWED ON ONE SIDE AS THE PILOT, LT.GRANT JENSEN, KENOSHA, WIS., STEADIED FOR HIS RUN. BUT LIGHTS WERE NOT NECESSARY TO ILLUMINATE THE BUILDINGS AND JAPANESE SETTLEMENT IN THE BRILLIANT MOONLIGHT.

A119FX

AS THE PLANE GATHERED SPEED, JENSEN SAW A SHIP ANCHORED IN DAVAO RIVER TO THE LEFT OF THE AIRPORT, DISCHARGING CARGO UNDER FLOODLIGHTS. THE BOMB BAY DOORS CREAKED OPEN.

"BOMBS AWAY, SIC," REPORTED SECOND LT.DANIEL MAHONEY, ITHACA, N.Y., IN MATTER-OF-FACT TONE.

MOMENTS LATER A FAINT THUD OF FOUR 500-POUNDERS COULD BE HEARD AS THEY CRASHED ON AN AIRSTRIP FAR BELOW, THEY WERE THE FIRST AMERICAN BOMBS TO FALL IN THE BATTLE OF PHILIPPINE LIBERATION.

AUG 11 1944

"THEY'RE AWFULLY DAMNED COMPLACENT DOWN THERE," JENSEN SHOUTED INDIGNANTLY TO HIS CO-PILOT, SECOND LT.THEODORE HUFFMAN, WILKESBORO, N.C.

"THEY DIDN'T EVEN BLACK OUT THE CITY."

A120FX

"AFTER TONIGHT, THINGS ARE GOING TO BE DIFFERENT," HUFFMAN REPLIED WITH A BROAD GRIN.

"THE JAPS WERE TOO SURPRISED TO FIRE A SHOT AT US," JENSEN SAID LATER.

"WE DIDN'T KNOW WHAT TO EXPECT WHEN WE FLEW UP DAVAO GULF. THE ONLY THING WE HAD TO GO BY WAS CIVILIAN PHOTOGRAPHS TAKEN IN 1938. IT SURPRISED HECK OUT OF ME WHEN THEY LEFT CITY LIGHTS ON DURING THE WHOLE RUN."

FIVE SHIPS WERE SPOTTED EN ROUTE TO THE TARGET. THE [illegible]

PILOT SAID THEY WERE NOT HUGGING THE SHORE BUT WERE LAYING OUT IN MID CHANNEL AND EASY TO SPOT. A JAPANESE NIGHT FIGHTER TRACKED THE LIBERATOR ON RETIREMENT BUT FAILED TO ATTACK.

A121FX
OTHER CREW MEMBERS WHO MADE THE FIRST BOMBING RUN ON THE PHILIPPINES WERE: SECOND LT.ANDREW KOTORA, MONESSEN, PA., NAVIGATOR; TECH.SGTS.WILLIAM KELLY, SOUTH BOSTON, ENGINEER; JAMES WELCH, NORTH LIMA, OHIO, RADIO TECHNICIAN; STAFF SGTS.MAYNARD MARCUS, MILFORD, MASS., ASSISTANT ENGINEER; FRANK ALBERT, OLD TOWN, ME., RADIOMAN; ROBERT KENNEDY, WEST PALM BEACH, FLA., TAIL GUNNER; AND WILLIAM LANE, METHUAN, MASS., NOSE GUNNER.
AFTER THEIR 13 HOURS 45 MINUTE FLIGHT, THEY BREAKFASTED AND WENT TO BED TO SLEEP THE SLEEP OF THE JUSTLY PROUD.
MM736PPW NM

AUG 11 1944

U.S. ARMY HEADQUARTERS, PACIFIC OCEAN AREAS, AUG 7-(DELAYED)-(AP)-THE DISTINCTION OF BEING THE FIRST ARMY ENLISTED MAN IN THIS WAR THEATER TO BE GRANTED A DIRECT COMMISSION AS SECOND LIEUTENANT FOR OUTSTANDING SERVICE IN COMBA HAS GONE TO S/ SGT. DARWIN V.MACPHERSON, OF EASTON,ME., IT WAS ANNOUNCED HERE.

AS A RESULT OF MERITORIOUS SERVICE IN THE BATTLE OF SAIPAN, IN WHICH HE TOK PART AS A PLATOON LEADER OF AN AMPHIBIAN TANK BATTALION, MACPHERSON'S COMMISSION WAS ORDERED BY LT.GEN. ROBERT C.RICHARDSON, JR9, COMMANDING U.S.ARMY FORCES, PACIFIC OCEAN AREAS.

MACPHERSON, PLATOON LEADER OF AMPHIBIOUS TANKS IN THE FIRST ASSAULT WAVE, TOK COMMAND OF A PLATOON, THEN THE ENTIRE COMPANY, AS HIS SUPERIOR OFFICERS AND NONBACOMS BECAME CASUALTIES.

AUG 11 1944

MACPHERSON TAUGHT ELEMENTARY SCHOOL AT EASTON PRIOR TO ENTERING THE ARMY 34 MONTHS AGO. HE IS A GRADUATE OF AROOSTOOK STATE NORMAL SCHOOL IN MAINE AND STUDIED TWO YEARS AT BENJAMIN FRANKLIN UNIVERSITY, WASHINGTON, D.C.

VB845PCW

(THE FOLLOWING WAS WRITTEN BY SERGEANT ALVIN M. JOSEPHY JR., OF WASHINGTON, D.C., A MARINE CORPS COMBAT CORRESPONDENT, AND DISTRIBUTED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS).

(ADVANCE)-(WX)..GUAM--(DELAYED)--THE ROAD IS TWISTED AND NARROW. MARINES ARE PUSHING ALONG IT IN COLUMN FORMATION. THE MEN HUG THE BAMBOO THICKETS ALONG THE SIDES.

AUG 11 1944

A JAP SNIPER OPENS UP FROM A BANANA GROVE AT THE EDGE OF A CLEARING. THE MEN PAUSE. A PATROL GOES OFF AFTER HIM.

AN ADVANCE IS TAKING PLACE UP AND DOWN THE LINE. THIS COLUMN, DRIVING STRAIGHT ALONG THE ROAD, PASSES VIVID EVIDENCE OF THE BREATHLESSNESS OF THE JAP RETREAT. COMFORTABLE WOODEN HOUSES, OCCUPIED BY JAP OFFICERS, ARE FILLED WITH FOOD AND CLOTHING.

JAP ROAD SIGNS ARE STILL STANDING. A BRIDGE HAS NOT EVEN BEEN MINED.

ON A HILLSIDE A BATTERED VILLA IS SCATTERED WITH OFFICER'S EFFECTS.

ON THE FLOOR IS AN OFFICIAL SOUVENIR PROGRAM OF THE CHICAGO WORLD'S FAIR OF 1933. A BROKEN HOME PROJECTION MACHINE STILL HAS A FILM IN IT, A SILENT PICTURE MADE YEARS AGO IN THE UNITED STATES ENTITLED "BARNEY GOOGLE."

AUG 11 1944

THERE IS MUCH AMERICAN EQUIPMENT AROUND, EVERYTHING FROM MUNITIONS TO BREAKFAST FOOD, SEIZED WHEN THE JAPS TOOK GUAM IN 1941.

OUTSIDE, ON THE ROAD, THE COLUMN IS STILL PUSHING FORWARD. TANKS ARE BACKED ALONG THE SIDES, WAITING FOR ORDERS. A RADIO JEEP MAKES ITS WAY CAREFULLY THROUGH A UNIT OF MARINE DOGS. A SHEPHERD DOG NAMED PRINCE DONATED BY ENS.CHARLES F.ELLINGER, COUNTRY CLUB HOME, FAIRVIEW AND LEESVILLE ROADS, RALEIGH, N.C.,

IS STANDING WITH ITS MASTER BESIDE AN EVACUATED JAP FOXHOLE. HE SNIFFS AT A BLOOD-STAINED JAP HELMET.

IT BEGINS TO RAIN. THE ROAD IS BECOMING MUDDY. A MARINE AUTOMATIC RIFLEMAN OPENS A JAP PARASOL AND TRUDGES ALONG WHILE THE MEN AROUND HIM LAUGH.

ON THE FLANKS, THERE IS ONLY SMALL ARMS FIRING. THE JAPS ARE STILL GIVING WAY QUICKLY. THEIR DEFENSE IN THIS SECTOR SEEMS DISORGANIZED.

AUG 11 1944

BUENOS AIRES, AUG. 10-(AP)-THE FEDERAL PROSECUTOR ASKED THE COURT TODAY TO REVOKE THE CITIZENSHIP OF FERNANDO ORTIZ ECHAGUE, NEW YORK CORRESPONDENT FOR LA NACION AND FORMER CHIEF OF LA NACION'S EUROPEAN STAFF, BECAUSE OF AN ARTICLE PUBLISHED JULY 29 IMMEDIATELY AFTER THE ANNOUNCEMENT THAT CENSORSHIP HAD BEEN LIFTED.

THE ARTICLE DEPLORED THAT THE MEASURE HAD NOT BEEN TAKEN PREVIOUSLY, ARGUING THAT CENSORSHIP HAD CAUSED THE ARGENTINE PEOPLE TO REMAIN IGNORANT OF FOREIGN OPINION.

AUG 11 1944

THE PROSECUTOR'S ACTION WAS THE RESULT OF A COMPLAINT BY A PRIVATE CITIZEN.

ORTIZ, A NATIVE OF SPAIN, WAS GRANTED ARGENTINE CITIZENSHIP IN 1938 AND LONG HAS BEEN UNDER FIRE OF NATIONALIST RADIO ORGANS.

THE PROSECUTOR CONTENDED ORTIZ' LONG ABSENCE FROM THE COUNTRY--HE WAS LAST HERE IN 1940--WAS A VIOLATION OF CITIZENSHIP REGULATIONS.

AQ ROSS 01500 RGB 5P

AUG 11 1944

GUAYAQUIL, ECUADOR, AUG 10-(AP)-RAILWAY TRAFFIC THROUGHOUT ECUADOR WAS PARALYZED TODAY AS WORKERS WALKED OUT IN SYMPATHY WITH A STRIKE WHICH YESTERDAY CLOSED THE MAIN LINE BETWEEN GUAYAQUIL AND QUITO.

A STRIKERS' COMMITTEE DEMANDED THAT TRANSPORTATION MINISTER JULIO TEODORO SALEM RESIGN AS A PRELIMINARY TO NEGOTIATIONS FOR SETTLEMENT OF THE DISPUTE WHICH APPARENTLY STEMMED FROM HIS DISMISSAL OF SEVERAL EMPLOYES ON THE GUAQUIL-QUITO LINE.

THE STRIKE STRAND

DISMISSAL OF SEVERAL EMPLOYES ON THE GUAYAQUIL-QUITO LINE.

THE STRIKE STRANDED A GROUP OF PARLIAMENTARY DEPUTIES AT ALAUSI, AND EFFORTS WERE BEING MADE TO REACH WITH THE STRIKERS SOME ARRANGEMENT WHICH WOULD ENABLE THEM TO REACH QUITO TODAY IN TIME FOR THE OPENING OF THE ASSEMBLY.

STRONG DETACHMENTS OF POLICE WERE ASSIGNED TO GUARD RAILWAY PROPERTY.

M506AEW

gi[ht lead strike

guayaquil, ecuador, aug. 10--(ap)--rail workers announced tonight they would end a strike which paralyzed rail traffic throughout ecuador during the day, and would resume work in confidence that president velasco ibarra would consider grievance apparently arising from dismissal of several employes of the guayaquil-quito mail line. the line was closed by a strike yesterday and the tie-up became complete today when other rail workers walked out in sympathy.

AUG 11 1944

NEW YORK, AUG. 10-(AP)-AMERICAN TANK SPEARHEADS WHICH PASSED THROUGH LE MANS HAVE BEEN "STOPPED AT MONFORT," 10 MILES EAST OF LE MANS AND ABOUT 100 MILES FROM PARIS, THE GERMAN RADIO COMMENTATOR ALEX SCHMALFUSS, REPORTED TODAY. PREVIOUS GERMAN BROADCASTS PUT AMERICAN FORCES 87 MILES FROM PARIS.

ABOUT 10 DIVISIONS OF THE FULLY MECHANIZED "AMERICAN THIRD ARMY" ARE OPERATING IN THE COASTAL AREA OF BRITTANY, SCHMALFUSS SAID.

(EDS: ABOVE MAY BE BRACKETED IN SHAEF, FIRST LEAD INVASION IF DESIRED.)

GH1010AEW

NEW YORK, AUG 10-(AP)-THE BRITISH RADIO SAID INA GERMAN-LANGUAGE BROADCAST TODAY THAT STOCKHOLM HAD REPORTED 35 EMPTY GERMAN VESSELS SIGHTED IN THE BALTIC, TRAVELING IN THE DIRECTION OF ESTONIA AND LATVIA.

"THIS SEEMS TO INDICATE THAT THE GERMANS MAY ATTEMPT TO EVACUATE TROOPS AND MATERIALS BY SEA," SAID THE BROADCAST, RECORDED BY THE OFFICE OF WAR INFORMATION.

MK737AEW

NEW YORK, AUG 10-(AP)-THE TOKYO RADIO SAID TODAY THAT JAPANESE COASTAL TORPEDO PATROL PLANES HAD ATTACKED "TWO ENEMY SUBMARINES IN WATERS NEAR THE JAPANESE MAINLAND" YESTERDAY AND ASSERTED THAT BOTH HAD BEEN "ACCOUNTED FOR."

ONE, THE JAPANESE SAID, WAS SPOTTED SURFACING OFF OSHIMA, IN THE IZU ISLANDS GROUP SOUTH OF TOKYO BAY. THE OTHER "WAS SUNK IN THE WATER SOUTHEAST OF TAIWAN (FORMOSA)," SAID THE BROADCAST, RECORDED BY THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION.

BZ657AEW

--95--

PHILIPPINES

NEW YORK, AUG 10-(AP)-A BBC BROADCAST TONIGHT SAID THAT ALL THE AMERICAN LIBERATOR BOMBERS PARTICIPATING IN THE MINDANAO RAIDS THE PAST THREE NIGHTS RETURNED SAFELY ALTHOUGH THEY FLEW TO THE PHILIPPINES WITHOUT FIGHTER ESCORT.

THE BROADCAST, RECORDED BY THE NBC, SAID RETURNING PILOTS RELATED THEY HAD STARTED FIRES, SEVERAL OF THEM VERY BIG ONES, AND HAD CAUSED EXPLOSIONS ON THE GROUND

SUPERFORTRESSES

NEW YORK, AUG. 10-(AP)-THE TOKYO RADIO TONIGHT ACKNOWLEDGED AMERICAN B-29 SUPERFORTRESS RAID ON THE JAPANESE HOMELAND DURING THE DAY.

A BROADCAST IMPERIAL COMMUNIQUE RECORDED BY NBC MONITORS SAID 20 OF THE BIG PLANES FROM CHINA BASES ATTACKED IN SEVERAL FORMATIONS OVER KYUSHU ISLAND AND OTHER JAPANESE AREAS, BUT ADDED THAT "JAPANESE AIR FORCES IMMEDIATELY TOOK TO THE AIR TO WARD OFF THE ATTACK," AND "RESULTS OF OUR INTERCEPTION AND OUR LOSSES ARE BEING INVESTIGATED. IT IS BELIEVED THAT OUR LOSSES ARE NEGLIGIBLE."

WE744PEW

A68FX

NEW YORK, AUGUST 10-(AP)-THE HERALD-TRIBUNE SAYS THAT MAJ.GEN. ALEXANDER SURLES, HEAD OF THE ARMY BUREAU OF PUBLIC RELATIONS, TODAY CONFIRMED A REPORT THAT THE ARMY HAD BANNED FROM SALE IN POST EXCHANGES A GUIDE TO THE AIR FORCE WHICH HAS AS ITS FRONTISPIECE A PORTRAIT OF PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT WITH THE CAPTION: "COMMANDER IN CHIEF OF THE ARMY AND NAVY."

EDITIONS OF THE "OFFICIAL GUIDE TO THE ARMY AIR FORCE" IN WHICH THE FRONTISPIECE APPEARS WERE BANNED, THE PAPER SAYS, AS "POSSIBLE POLITICAL PROPAGANDA IN VIOLATION OF THE MUCH CRITICIZED TITLE FIVE OF THE SOLDIER'S VOTE LAW."

IT SAYS THE BOOK, "REGARDED AS ONE OF THE FINEST GUIDES PUT OUT BY THE ARMY," HAS BEEN PRINTED IN THREE EDITIONS, OF WHICH TWO EDITIONS TOTALING 525,000 COPIES BEAR THE BANNED PORTRAIT AND MAY NOT BE SOLD IN POST EXCHANGES.

SURLES IS QUOTED AS SAYING THE TWO EDITIONS WERE BEING WITHHELD PENDING CLARIFICATION OF THE LAW WHICH PROHIBITS DISTRIBUTION BY THE ARMY OF FEDERALLY-FINANCED MATTER WHICH MIGHT AFFECT THE FEDERAL ELECTION.

EV1225AEW

FOUR YEARS AGO TODAY

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUG.10, 1940--BRITISH BOMB CHANNEL ISLAND OF GUERNSEY, RECENTLY SEIZED BY THE GERMANS. OTHER OBJECTIVES OF BRITISH NIGHT BOMBERS ARE SEAPLANE BASE AT BREST, OIL TANKS NEAR FLUSHING AND MUNITIONS FACTORIES AT COLOGNE AND LUDWIGSHAFEN; BRITISH SAY GERMANS DROPPING "WHISTLING" BOMBS INTENDED TO TERRIFY THOSE NOT KILLED.

M351AEW

NIGHT LEAD THE ROAD TO BERLIN

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

1-RUSSIAN FRONT: 322 MILES (MEASURED FROM EASTERN SUBURBS OF WARSAW).

2--ITALIAN FRONT: 603 MILES (MEASURED FROM FLORENCE).

3-FRENCH FRONT: 626 MILES (MEASURED FROM SOISSONLES).

SE1113PEW

HITLER PROMOTES PARATROOP COMMANDER TO COLONEL GENERAL

(OWI) Aug 11 1944

THE NAZI DNB AGENCY SAID TODAY THAT ADOLF HITLER HAD PROMOTED LT. GEN. KURT STUDENT, WHOM IT IDENTIFIED AS COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF OF GERMAN

30.24— 17915

paratroops, to the rank of Colonel General.

In an English-language wireless dispatch to East Asia recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, DNB commented that the 54-year-old General was the youngest officer of his rank in the German air force and that he had been badly wounded on the first day of the Nazi invasion of the Netherlands.

8/11/44 BED 128PEW. . .

AUG 111944

A154WX (200)

Washington, Aug. 10--(AP)- An army officer stricken with infantile paralysis while in a remote corner of the Chinese hinterland was kept alive for 14 days by artificial respiration--long enough for him to be flown out to help.

The War Department, reporting the incident today, said he is 2nd Lt. Robert Wesselhoeft, Jr., 27, of Westwood, Mass., who became ill while on an AAF mapping party. He managed to hold himself in the saddle of a mount for two days, until the party could reach the home of a missionary.

AUG 111944

A wireless message was sent to the nearest station of the China-India-Burma wing of the air transport command. Meanwhile, Wesselhoeft was kept alive by artificial respiration administered by others in the party and by six Chinese hired and taught how to keep up the treatment.

Wesselhoeft's companions then built a 1,500 foot runway. On this make-shift strip a light liaison-type plane was landed, its seat removed and most of the equipment jettisoned to allow for the patient's 200-pound weight.

Major Fred G. Welsh of West Englewood, N.J., serving with the 14th airforce composite wing, flew the plane--a three and a half hour flight through weather so thick that other planes were grounded, over mountain ranges 17,000 feet high. And while Welsh flew the plane with one hand he pumped a lever to operate an improvised artificial respirator which kept Wesselhoeft alive.

Latest information said that the patient, in an iron lung at the Calcutta hospital, was "holding his own."

HY1215AEW

AUG 111944

(230) Washington, Aug.10--(AP)--President Sergio Osmena of the Philippines, who assumed office recently after the death of President Quezon, announced a reorganization of the Philippine Commonwealth war cabinet today.

At the same time he appointed Col. Carlos P. Romulo, colorful newspaper editor and publicist, as Philippine resident commissioner to the United States, succeeding Joaquin M. Elizalde, resigned. Romulo is secretary of information and public relations in the New Cabinet.

The only new member of the cabinet is Ismael Mathay, appointed to the newly created post of budget and finance commissioner. Two men were dropped from the old cabinet, Elizalde and Andreas Soriano, who was succeeded as Secretary of Finance by Jaime Hernandez. The latter was auditor general in the old cabinet, a post which now is abolished.

Maj. Gen. Basilio J. Valdes was retained in his position as Secretary of National Defense, Dr. Arturo B. Rotor keeps the title of Secretary to the President, and Col. Manuel Nieto changes his title from secretary to the cabinet to that of Secretary of Agriculture and Industry.

AUG 111944

Elizalde, a former Spanish citizen who was naturalized a Philippine citizen about 10 years ago, was a close personal friend of President Quezon, who died last week. He has never been an associate of Osmena.

AUG 111944

FR1133AEW

BLANK

i

BLANK

30. 24— 17917

Americans Race to Trap 100,000 in France, Tanks Turn North to Hem In Fleeing Germans

New York, Aug 11 (AP)—NBC Reporter Ed Haaker, broadcasting from London, said tonight he had learned on the best authority that the American drive in France had carried all the way to the outskirts of Paris.

ALLIES BEWILDER ENEMY WITH SWIFT ARMORED ATTACKS

Nazis in Retreat West of Paris; Tanks Closing 33-Mile Escape Gap.

TROOPS CROSS LOIRE

Spearhead from Nantes Gains 10 Miles; Montgomery Hails Advance.

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Saturday, Aug. 12.—(AP) U. S. tanks battled to close a 33-mile escape gap on an estimated 100,000 Germans reported in retreat west of Paris last night while other wide-ranging armor struck out suddenly from Nantes, burst across the Loire river barrier to southern France and plunged 10 miles beyond.

American armor, in apparent control of the field, was lashing out in every direction across the northern plains of France and nowhere did the Germans seem able to parry the rain of blows, such as this new one across the Loire.

"The great bulk of the German forces in northwest Europe are in a bad way," Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, chief of Allied ground forces, messaged his troops in France. "We are 'round behind them in many places and it is possible some of them may not get away."

(NBC Reporter Ed Haaker, broadcasting from London, said he had learned on the best authority that the American drive in France had carried all the way to the outskirts of Paris.)

Close in on Enemy

Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's forces striking north from Le Mans were closing in on the entire German Seventh army—which once boasted over 30 divisions—and the Paris radio declared they already had driven through Alencon, 33 miles south of where Canadian forces were fighting before Falaise.

At the southern end of the front his thrust across the broad reaches of the Loire within 24 hours after the river port of Nantes fell still had encountered no resistance in strength.

American troops were mopping up along the north bank between Nantes and Angers, which also was captured yesterday, but there was no word of any crossings.

As the Germans were confronted with the same sort of peril with which they bewildered the French in the 1940 lightning war, captured troops reported that Field Marshal Gen. Guenther von Kluge had given the signal for a general retreat.

This was apparent from an array of field dispatches reporting a march of conquest through Normandy, including British advances along a six-mile front east of Vire and their capture of the hilltop fortress of Thury-Harcourt, 14 miles south of Caen in the rugged country known as "Normandy's Switzerland."

Bombers Pound Foe

Allied medium bombers pounded away at the German anti-tank screen which has held up the Canadians before Falaise, but even this enemy stand might be a covering action for a general withdrawal.

Gen. Bradley kept his drives radiating from Le Mans cloaked by almost complete silence, leaving the enemy guessing at which might be feints and which the big punch capable of dealing them a knockout.

(Available information indicated Paris might not be one of the immediate objectives of the sweeping American advance and that the Allied command was pursuing the primary aim of any well directed campaign, to destroy the enemy armies.

(Thrusts in the Paris direction might be merely feints to divert enemy forces from more important battlefields. Headquarters maintained a close and mysterious silence concerning reports of progress on the road to Paris which named several cities as having been reached but which remained without official confirmation.)

Rail Points Blasted

British and American heavy bombers in strong force blasted rail concentration points north and east of Paris as air reconnaissance showed Von Kluge was trying desperately to bring supplies and reinforcements from deep in Germany for the battle of France.

Up to 500 other U. S. heavies bombed German troops, armor and coastal gun positions at Brest in close support of doughboys fighting into the port's perimeter defenses.

(The German communique declared the column traveling northward — the lower jaw of the potential trap — was a powerful one under strong air suport and declared it had been engaged in heavy fighting, the first intimation of any stout resistance since American armor began rolling over the Paris plain.)

A second column struck toward Chartres, guardian city of the last 50-mile defense zone before the capital, but there was no confirmation here of reports carried in the British press that Chartres had been reached. Chartres is 45 miles from Paris.

Another was reported rolling due east on Chateaudun, guarding the road to Orleans and the open country between the Seine and Loire rivers south of Paris. Here again, unofficial British reports said Chateaudun had been reached.

Head Toward Tours

The fourth column was believed heading toward Tours to solidify the hold on the Loire river, guarding the right American flank. This hold already was firm from the mouth to 50 miles upstream with the capture of Nantes and Angers, which fell with only token resistance.

There was still some resistance between Nantes and Angers, but it was without strength, and it was on the south bank that the enemy was reported bringing up elements of 10 divisions from southern France for a stand.

Montgomery Optimistic

Gen. Montgomery's assertion that the bulk of the Germans were "in a bad way" was contained in a message to the Allied armies in France. The general added:

"Today all is well . . . our armies are moving relentlessly eastward into France. Many hundreds of towns and villages have been liberated.

"These are momentous days and complete victory lies ahead and certain—so long as we do not relax."

The British and Canadians were bearing down steadily from the north to keep the enemy preoccupied and the storming of Thury-Harcourt further weakened the enemy grip along the Orne.

Thury Harcourt not only was the nerve center for seven good roads, but it protected the left wing of the Germans resisting the British-Canadian advance due south of Caen.

Two and one-half miles below Thury-Harcourt British patrols stabbed to the east bank of the Orne and were in position to throw a fourth bridgehead across the river barrier. Three already are well established above the town.

Stalled about five miles north of Falaise in the area above Pontigny, the First Canadian army—now disclosed to include an armored Polish division as well as British units—reached into Vimont, the town eight miles southeast of Caen, which has resisted all British efforts to push on toward Paris.

There was heavy fighting in Vimont, but its capture was not claimed.

Even the German bulge against the Avranches corridor—where a British staff officer said the enemy was throwing in more troops at a time when "any normal army would be pulling out"—was steadily being reduced.

Doughboys and tanks recaptured Gathemo, eight miles north of German-held Mortain, while other forces three miles east advanced on Vengeons, seven miles north of Mortain.

British Tommies also pressing down against this bulge captured Malsoncelles-La Jordan, five miles southeast of Vire and 12 miles northeast of Mortain.

Between these forces and British troops fighting around Thury-Harcourt, German tanks and troops were struggling to escape from untenable positions west of the Orne river, late front dispatches said.

From Mayenne, midway between Mortain and Le Mans, American patrols were operating well beyond the town but there were no details of operations.

The battle of the Brittany ports raged on unabated with Americans storming the main port of Brest joined by a new column which had driven along the north coast for 125 miles. Elements of three divisions were holding out from strong positions in Brest.

The submarine nest of Lorient on the south coast was under artillery attack and was cut off from the landward side but a garrison of fanatic Nazis and naval units was holed up in the submarine pens, protected by 16-foot covers of reinforced concrete.

The citadel of St. Malo, the north Brittany port, was steadily being reduced, and there was fierce fighting in Dinard, across the bay.

There was no news from the second south Brittany submarine base of St. Nazaire. (The Germans said the Americans had launched an attack.)

The Allied communique said mopping up was proceeding at Hennebont, five miles northeast of Lorient, and at Auray, between Lorient and St. Nazaire, and at Quiberon, which sits at the tip of a point of land jutting out into the sea south of Auray.

Sweep North May Trap 300,000

On the Orne River Front, France, Aug. 11 (AP)—Masses of German troops with tanks were fighting for their lives tonight in the great bulge west of the river Orne and Field Marshal Guenther von Kluge's plight hourly was growing more acute.

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 11 (AP)—Roaming American tank forces were reported throwing the main weight of their attack to the north today after a deep mystery thrust toward Paris, and Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery declared tonight that "the great bulk of the German forces in northwest Europe are in a bad way."

The commander of Allied ground troops in France announced in a message to his soldiers:

"We are around behind them in many places and it is possible some of them may not get away.

"These are momentous days and complete victory lies ahead."

Reported Past Alencon

There still was no official inkling as to the depth of penetration toward Paris or the progress of the northward thrust, but the Paris radio said the Americans had passed Alencon, 30 miles north of Le Mans. At Alencon the spearhead would be but 42 miles from Canadian-Polish forces to the north above Falaise.

Two days had passed, however, since the Americans took Le Mans, 110 miles southwest of Paris, and latest advices from the front said no solid opposition had yet been encountered by the fast-geared armored and motorized formations.

An American dash to the Seine west of Paris might trap up to 300,000 German troops. In the 24 hours ended at Wednesday midnight the Americans captured 4,322 of the enemy.

Nazis Risk Destruction

Montgomery was hammering at German resistance below Caen so fiercely that the Germans risked destruction if they eased up for a getaway.

The British, supporting the Canadian-Polish attacks toward Falaise and toward Vimont, below Caen, captured the German stronghold of Thury-Harcourt, 15 miles southwest of Caen.

Below them, the Americans also were closing in around the eastern side of the German pocket at Mortain below Vire, taking Gathemo and advancing to points near Vengeons, three miles to the east.

90 Miles From Versailles

The Americans reached points only a little more than 90 miles from Versailles, a Paris suburb, without meeting serious resistance, field dispatches said, but today's Allied communique announced the destruction of 15 German tanks by aircraft somewhere in the area.

(The German communique said the American thrust had turned northward from Le Mans with srong air support. The Germans said the Americans had run into heavy fighting in that direction.

Interception Reported

(Transocean, the German news agency, said that Americans in the Le Mans area are driving northward and northeast in an attempt to link up with the Canadians in the Falaise area. It added that three to four American divisions pressing eastward from the Le Mans area had been intercepted at Montfort, ten miles to the east, and at Beaufay, a dozen miles to the northeast.)

(A broadcast of the International Information Bureau, German agency, said today the Americans were swinging the main weight of their attack north and northeast from Le Mans and had gained ground in a move to encircle German forces in northern France.)

It was obvious that the Paris-pointed spearhead at Le Mans had the choice of swinging northward toward the English Channel short of Paris, swinging south of the capital in an encircling move, or splitting and passing on both sides of it.

Might Cross Seine

A swing northward of the scythe would threaten the rear of the German's stubbornly held swivel position below Caen and approximately 20 German divisions or remnants of divisions—upward of 300,000 men. If the sweep crossed the Seine it would threaten the isolation of Le Havre and other Channel ports as well as the rocket bomb coast.

Unofficial reports said other armored columns meanwhile had veered off to the southeast from Le Mans toward Orleans on the Loire below Paris.

(An NBC broadcast from France said Americans in this drive were attacking Chateaudun, 62 miles from Versailles and 30 miles from Orleans. Chateaudun is 52 miles east of Le Mans. The Brazzaville radio said there were reports Chartres, 37 miles from Versailles, was in Allied hands, but German broadcasts specifically denied it, and there was no Allied confirmation.

Brest Under Attack

Combat teams made rapid progress in the Brittany peninsula to the rear, completing the capture of the Loire river cities of Nantes and Angers, and wiping out all resistance except at one stronghold, the Citadel, in St. Malo on the north coast, thus cleaning up three of the six large centers of Nazi resistance on the Brittany rim.

This was the situation elsewhere in Brittany:

Brest, French naval base at the western tip of Brittany was under heavy attack by the Americans. The force which attacked the city directly from the rear had been joined by another column which had swept the entire northeast. The Americans were confronted by elements of three divisions manning seven strong inland forts and 20 artillery batteries and hundreds of anti-aircraft guns which could be used as artillery. The besieging force apparently had a task as difficult as that at Cherbourg.

Assault On Lorient

(Transocean, the German news agency, declared that the hold-out German garrison at Brest had repulsed a United States tank attack, knocking out 30 tanks.)

At Quimper, 33 miles south of Brest on another tip of land, French resistance forces had wiped out a garrison of 1,500 to 2,000 Germans in a seven-day fight.

Lorient Under Attack.

Lorient, German U-boat nest on the south coast—under a rain of bombs and shells from American planes and Long Tom guns and heavy attack from encircling armor. The garrison, headed by a group of fanatical German naval officers, apparently was determined to fight to the last man, and had the refuge of the U-boat pens, whose sixteen-foot thick concrete and steel roofs had not yet been pierced by the heaviest bombs. The Americans were mopping up Hennebont, five miles northeast of Lorient.

To the east of Lorient, the Americans were mopping up Quiberon, on a seven-mile tongue of land, and Auray, to the north.

St. Malo—the "mad" commander, Col. von Auloch, a wounded veteran of Stalingrad, held on with the remnants of his 10,000-man garrison pinched into the citadel. Nearly 7,000 of his men had been captured or wounded, and his men were shooting their officers in order to surrender in groups.

St. Nazaire, the other big U-boat base on the south coast—no news. The Americans last were reported attacking a few miles from the city.

Nazis On Channel Islands Cut Off

London, Aug. 11 (AP)—Germans on the channel islands of Jersey and Guernsey have been cut off completely from their Nazi comrades in France by the American grip on the Cherbourg and Brest peninsulas and the Allied naval control of surrounding waters.

They have heavy guns, however, which they are using to invalidate, largely, the American - captured ports of St. Malo, on the Brittany Peninsula, and Granville, in Normandy.

The islands, which the Germans seized a few days after the fall of France and turned into radar and anti-aircraft outposts, are of importance to the British, an importance outweighing their now diminished military significance.

They are the first and only parts of English soil held by the erstwhile invader.

Nazis Say 1,500,000 Are in Battle of France

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP).—The German Transocean news agency estimated today that, in all, 1,500,000 men are involved on the two sides in the fighting in France, and acknowledged that the American breakthrough at Avranches placed the Germans "in a difficult position."

In a Berlin broadcast, the agency said General Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, Allied ground commander, was throwing fresh tank formations into the Canadian sector east of the Orne, where "the German high command has to reckon with a perpetual force of 200 to 1,000 tanks."

Polish Armored Unit In Caen-Falaise Push

With the Canadians in France, Aug. 11 (AP)—A Polish armored division with some Americans among the personnel is operating on the Canadian sector of the front in France, correspondents were permitted to disclose today.

The division, put together under some of the grimmest circumstances of the war, advanced about five miles as its contribution to the Canadian Caen-Falaise push and captured at least three towns.

About 1,000 members of the division come from a motorized brigade which fought the German Second Armored Division in Poland. They have asked and have received permission to fight it again if it is met on this sector.

British Are in Bastion.

On the Orne River Front, France, Aug. 11 (A. P.).—British troops today stormed into the stout German bastion of Thury-Harcourt, at the top of a steep wooded valley along the Orne River known as "the Switzerland of Normandy."

By smashing into the Thury-Harcourt hinge, Lieut.-Gen. Sir Miles C. Dempsey broke the backbone of one of Field-Marshal Gen. Guenther von Kluge's major defense sectors in southeastern Normandy. The small riverside resort town, which boasted two hotels with combined accommodations of twenty-seven rooms, was abandoned by the Germans during the night.

Only fifty-odd "death or glory" snipers were left in the ruins to cover the German retreat.

Key Rail and Road Center.

Thury-Harcourt is a key rail and road center. The British Second Army earlier made a new crossing of the Orne immediately north of the town.

Although small in population, Thury-Harcourt is strategically important because seven major roads meet there. The fleeing Germans blew up bridges, but British engineers already were throwing across a new span this afternoon.

"The fall of Thury-Harcourt is a real blow to the Germans, who used it as a major switching center in shuttle movements across the front," Staff Capt. Hatton Croome said at advanced headquarters. "Even before the invasion, it always was considered by us as a major objective."

NAZIS CONTINUE FIGHT AT ST. MALO

Gallagher

WITH THE U. S. FIRST ARMY IN FRANCE, Aug. 11—(AP) St. Malo's mad commander, Col. Andreas Von Aulock, fought on today, squandering the lives of his men in a futile battle despite the third truce since the siege of St. Malo citadel began.

During this morning Von Aulock appealed for medical supplies and parties bearing white flags crossed 200 yards of no-man's-land.

As an American jeep with supplies drove up to the citadel a small party appeared at a tunnel, including a medical officer, six German orderlies and seven American soldiers who had been captured and now were released.

All the Americans were blindfolded until they came out into the sunlight.

They said no doubt the garrison, except for the commander, wanted to give up as "German losses are frightful" and wounded lie everywhere. The wounded are being attended by nurses and some Frenchwomen, consorts of German officers.

Five minutes after the truce the battle was resumed amid a roar of cannon fire.

U. S. Bombs Wound Canadian General

With the Canadian First Army in France, Aug. 8 (AP—Delayed). Maj. Gen. R. F. Keller, commander of the Canadian Third Division, was wounded today when a formation of United States heavy bombers dropped a group of fragmentary bombs short of their mark and into the Canadian troops' area.

Lieut. Gen. Lesley J. McNair of the United States Army was killed in Normandy recently under similar circumstances.

Arm, Leg, Chest Hit

Keller was hit in the left arm and leg and also suffered a minor chest wound.

The bombs, dropped a short distance south of Caen, caused a number of casualties among personnel. None of the troops had time to take cover before the bombs started to explode.

Keller commanded the Third Division in its assault landing on the Normandy beaches and in its attack through Caen.

REDS PENETRATE NAZI BALTIC LINE

FOR 15 MILE GAIN

Germans Hurled Back Northeast of Warsaw; Big Guns Daze Enemy.

IMPERIL EAST PRUSSIA

Soviet Army Opens Drive Aimed at Trapping 300,000 Nazis in Baltic.

Hercher

LONDON, Saturday, Aug. 12.—(AP) A Red army yesterday smashed 15 1-2 miles through German lines in southern Estonia in a renewed offensive aimed at strangling possibly 300,000 trapped Nazi Baltic troops, while other powerful Soviet units hurled back the enemy on a 100-mile front northeast of Warsaw in a great wheeling movement that swept to within 15 miles of imperilled German East Prussia.

Gen. Ivan Maslennikov's Third Baltic army collapsed German lines on a 43-mile front in Estonia from the edge of Lake Peipus to a point within 115 miles from the gulf of Riga, and captured 200 localities, among them the important rail and highway junction of Petseri, Moscow said.

Nazi Troops Trapped

His troops now were in a position to swing around Lake Peipus and force a German withdrawal in the Narva sector north of the lake, and drive straight westward to the Baltic and split in two the 30 German divisions estimated to be trapped in Estonia and Latvia by other Russian spearhead driving through to the gulf west of Riga, Latvian capital.

A midnight bulletin said the fresh spurt in the north was begun after a massive artillery preparation which dazed the Germans in their strong dugouts. Then Red infantrymen swarmed in and dislodged them, killing at least 1,500 and capturing 300. The 30th Nazi infantry division was among the units routed, the supplementary communique said.

Besides taking Petseri junction the Russians also seized Litovitsi on Lake Peipus 12 miles north west of Petseri; Lintsi, seven miles west of the junction; Tyuilike, 16 miles southwest of Petseri and 125 miles northeast of Riga; and Stukolovo, five miles southeast of Tyuilike and near the Latvian border.

In northern Poland the adjoining second and first White Russian armies under Gen. G. F. Zakharov and Marshal Konstantin K. Rossovsky leaped forward as much as 15 miles and captured 250 villages in decisive actions that immediately menaced Lomza and Ostro-Mazowiecki, two strong German communication centers linking the enemy's front between Warsaw and the southern edge of East Prussia.

Advance Through Jaglowo

Striking northwest along both sides of the Bialystok-Lyck highway running into East Prussia in the area of the Masurian lakes, several of Zakharov's columns fought their way through Jaglowo, only 15 miles from the pre-war German frontier. Other units several days ago had seized localities just a few miles north of Jaglowo and only 11 miles from the border.

Boguszewo, 19 miles northwest of Bialystok, also was captured, and the seizure of Tykocin, and Cieszymy put the Russians 27 miles east and 26 miles southeast of Lomza, which is only 20 miles from the bitterly-defended German border.

On a 42-mile front to the southwest Marshal Rokossovsky's troops plunged on ahead and were only eight miles from Malkinia junction on the Warsaw-Bialystok railway, a 115-mile stretch of trackage that soon will be engulfed at the present Red Army pace.

Rokossovsky's men not only intended to straighten the Russian lines in this area, but also to snap German defenses northeast of Warsaw prior to an all-out attack on the Polish capital.

Ruski, eight miles from the railway, fell to one Russian column which thus advanced nearly 15 miles in 24 hours to a point only 18 miles southeast of Ostro-Mazowiecki. The other localities taken extended from Kossoki, on the Bug river 60 miles northeast of Warsaw, in a line paralleling the railway down to Rudzienko, 25 miles east of embattled Warsaw.

The situation of Polish guerrillas inside Warsaw was grave, the Polish government in exile here said. General Bor, guerrilla commander, was quoted as saying that unless help arrived "our heroic fight must soon come to a disastrous end."

Enemy Uses Reserves

Moscow did not announce the progress of operations on the Western Lithuanian front opposite German East Prussia, but dispatches from the Soviet capital said the Germans had thrown in hundreds of tanks and planes in an effort to prevent a squeeze play from the north by troops under Generals Ivan Bagramian and Ivan Cherniakhovsky, first Baltic and Third White Russian army commanders, respectively. Great battles of attrition were raging on their fronts.

The German high command bulletin said that Vilkaviskis, a road junction 11 miles from East Prussia, had been recaptured by the Germans. A later Berlin broadcast suggested it had been lost again to the Russians because the German communiqué began belittling its strategic importance.

Maslennikov's operations in the north were linked closely with the operations of three other Soviet armies which have ringed the Germans and are attempting to effect a "Baltic Stalingrad."

In Latvia, below Maslennikov's front, the Second Baltic army of Gen. Andrei Yeremenko captured 50 localities, including Gravenderi, only 55 miles southeast of Riga. A midnight Soviet bulletin said Russian troops in the area had crossed the Viesite river along its entire length and killed 600 Germans in one single area. Two German battalions also were dispersed, their survivors fleeing into forest hideouts.

Nazi Attacks Repulsed

On the hot Polish plains 100 miles south of Warsaw, where the Russians now hold a huge wedge in German lines west of the Vistula river, other Soviet units beat off German tank and infantry attacks and continued to fight to expand their bridgehead, Moscow said. In this area the Russians were reported within 20 miles of Kielce, Axis communications stronghold linking the threatened Krakow - Warsaw line.

Both sides were fighting under exhausting Summer temperatures, and the Russians were shuttling reinforcements across the Vistula. Berlin broadcasts told of German air attacks on Soviet boats in the river, and also acknowledged a German withdrawal in an unidentified area in order to prevent encirclement.

Veteran mountain troops from the Caucasus were fighting in the Carpathian mountains, climbing steadily toward the Czech frontier on a broad front, but Moscow did not report any new gains at that southern end of the long front.

Inside besieged Warsaw, Polish patriots were reported endangered by a dwindling of their ammunition supply. A communique distributed here by the Polish government-in-exile said elite German troops had lost up to 30 per cent of their effectives in a battle with Polish guerrillas in the northwestern suburbs of Warsaw, but for several days the Poles here have been pleading for Allied aid to the Partisans.

German tank units still are holding three main east-west thoroughfares in the Polish capital, the Poles said, and the Poles in Warsaw were quoted as saying they had not heard any gunfire on the Soviet-German battle line east of Warsaw since Aug. 3.

Russian Pincers Tightens About East Prussia

Moscow, Aug. 11 (AP)—Russian armies applying a great pincers upon East Prussia swept today within 50 miles of Tilsit and Memel and threatened the southern boundary of that home of the Junkers with a plunge across the Narew river.

Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky, besieging Warsaw for the 12th day, thrust a threatening army group toward East Prussia from positions northeast of the Polish capital. This group increased the menace to Warsaw, too, because it could curve to the Vistula and outflank the Polish city from the north.

Seven Miles In Triangle

Russian troops already were seven or more miles inside the Suwalki triangle. In the north, the Soviet army group of 37-year-old Gen. Ivan Cherniakovsky sent bombs and artillery shells into the German province and fought bitter and repeated counterattacks at several gateways to East Prussia.

(In this great action the Germans started reporting that they were greatly outnumbered. On the threat to the south of East Prussia, the official German news agency DNB said, the Russians started a new offensive yesterday between Warsaw and Augustow.)

Vistula Breach Widened

A hundred miles or so south of Warsaw, the Russians widened the breach across the Vistula river to 42 miles and advanced doggedly to within 26 miles of Kielce. In that area the Red army stood within 75 miles of German Silesia and within 35 of Krakow, ancient capital of Poland and her fifth city.

(The Germans repeated that another bridgehead had been established over the Vistula.)

Chance To Flee By Water

The extermination of Germans trapped in the upper Baltic States neared its final phase. However, some thousands of the Germans, whose land communications were cut by a Russian plunge to the Baltic 25 miles west of Riga, still may be extricated by sea. The Red Air Force continued to pound on any shipping seen moving from Baltic harbors.

Of equal peril to Hitler's eastern divisions was an extension of the Soviet bridgehead across the Vistula south of the Polish capital, which cut the Sandomierz-Kielce highway with the capture of Lagow and put Red Army troops only twenty miles from the vital Warsaw-Krakow railway.

In the drive northeast of Warsaw, a big Soviet force south of Bialystok swarmed across the Narew River in a move to join other Red Army columns pushing up from the south in a drive on the southern border of East Prussia.

New Peril for Nazis.

This move, together with the capture of Raseinia in Lithuania, fifty-three miles northeast of Tilsit, brought increased danger to Nazi troops struggling with Gen. Ivan Cherniakhovsky's units close to the eastern borders of the Junker province.

The Russians advanced on a broad front on both sides of the Niemen river. The battle line moved through 40 localities and extended south to Raudone.

50 Localities Captured

The drive on the southern side of East Prussia netted 50 localities on the western side of the Narew.

Closely allied with these attacks was the drive by Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's First White Russian Army from positions east of Warsaw in a northwesterly direction along a 38-mile front.

'Surrender Or Die,' Nazis Tell Bor

London, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Germans have sent an ultimatum to General Bor's underground troops holding parts of Warsaw that they must surrender or die, the Polish Telegraph Agency said today.

Bor announced in a radio message to the Polish Government in exile in London that unless help arrived "our heroic fight must soon come to a disastrous end."

Appeals For Arms

The exiled government issued an appeal yesterday for arms, ammunition and artillery support for these units of its underground army in the street battle at the rear of German forces opposing Russian siege lines at the eastern suburbs of the Polish capital.

Coupled with the ultimatum was a Nazi order for the Polish population to evacuate Warsaw. All the able-bodied were instructed to enroll for labor with the Germans, the Polish telegraph agency said.

Six professors in the University of Warsaw were reported in a Polish underground broadcast to have been executed by the Germans as a reprisal for the underground uprising.

The Germans now control the three main east-west lines of communication in Warsaw, the patriots are being shelled constantly, and the "population is discouraged," General Bor said.

From the Soviet-German battle line "we have heard no gunfire since Aug. 3," General Bor said.

Waves of Allied Bombers Smash Nazi Lines in France

Nearly 2,000 Planes Hammer Enemy Targets from Belgian Border to Brittany—Choke Freight Yards —Hammer Port of Brest.

LONDON, Saturday, Aug. 12—(AP) Nearly 2,000 Allied heavy bombers, blackening the skies from the Belgian border to the tip of Brittany, smashed at Germans throughout Friday, with attacks ranging from front-line support to great movements against distant, choked German freight-yards.

Wave after wave of heavies of the Eighth U. S. Air force and the RAF roared through clear skies against fuel dumps and transport routes far behind the battlelines in France, and in the afternoon the Americans, in a spectacular operation, rained armor-piercing explosives on strong German forces still holding out in the besieged port of Brest.

Fighter bombers, medium and lighter craft ranged the length and breadth of the front and stabbed against the enemy rear, blasting at his movements.

Nearly 500 Flying Fortresses and Liberators raced to the big port at the tip of the Breton peninsula, hitting coastal guns, anti-aircraft batteries and radio stations as well as cascading explosives by the hundreds of tons on the stubborn Germans who for days have held off American ground forces almost at the city's gates.

Excellent flying weather aided the aerial blow to hasten the fall of the big port.

There was little fighter or anti-aircraft opposition from the enemy during this and other operations during the day, which included steady flights by medium bombers and fighters and fighter bombers which ranged the front in close support of ground forces, especially those spearheading the advance north of Le Mans.

Up to 500 American heavies attacked fuel dumps at St. Florentin and Pacy on the Armancon river 75 miles southeast of Paris, railway yards at Mulhouse and Belfort in Alsace Lorraine, and three airfields in the vicinity of Paris.

Then in a second operation both Fortresses and Liberators flew to the French-German border and loosed explosives on vital Nazi freight yards at Saarbrucken and Strasbourg and a fuel depot at the latter city. Bombing was done visually, with results reported from good to excellent.

(German broadcasts and News broadcasts from Berlin reported, with no confirmation, that the Americans raiding Strasbourg had "directly hit" the city's ancient cathedral, built from the 11th to the 15th centuries. It added that the city's casualties were heavy.)

Late this afternoon British heavy bombers resumed their new daylight assaults—Lancasters and Halifaxes, with a fighter cover, attacking heavily railway yards at Lens and Douai and a locomotive depot at Somain, all in northeastern France.

These daylight heavy operations followed a busy night of Allied air activity in which RAF Lancasters and Halifaxes approximately 1,000-strong blasted enemy oil, U-boat and rail transport installations at Bordeaux, La Pallice and Dijon, and the swift British Mosquito bombers dumped two-ton blockbusters on Berlin.

The Bordeaux and La Pallice submarine bases, the only ones the Germans have left on the Bay of Biscay coast, were hit by Lancasters late this afternoon in a heavy follow-up to the night assault.

Marauders and Havocs of the U. S. Ninth Air force flew to both ends of the German line in France throughout the day and plastered an ammunition dump east of Rouen and a fuel dump east of Tours. Another force of Marauders hit temporary bridges over the Seine at Oissel. No planes were lost in the medium operations.

Yanks Bomb Oil And Airfields Near Paris

London, Aug. 11 (AP)—American heavy bombers smashed in force today at oil dumps and airfields near Paris and at rail yards in the German border city of Saarbrucken and the Alsace-Lorraine cities of Strasbourg, Mulhouse and Belfort.

All the rail yards were bottlenecks for German troops which invasion headquarters reported earlier today were moving "westward" toward the French front. Railway facilities through Strasbourg, Antwerp, Brussels, Metz, Lille and Sedan were bombed during the night.

Marauders, Havocs Active

American Marauders and Havocs bombed an ammunition dump in the Roumare forest five miles east of Rouen at midday. Another group of Marauders bombed a temporary bridge over the Seine at Oissel. All returned.

Before dawn, up to 1,000 heavy British bombers attacked oil supplies for submarines, trains and other targets while Mosquitos gave Berlin another restless night.

Up to 1,000 American planes, half Fortresses and Liberators, bombed and strafed these objectives:

Fuel dumps at St. Florentin and Pacy on the Armancon river 75 miles southeast of Paris.

Airfields Hammered

Airfields at Villacoublay on the outskirts of Paris, Toussus-le-Noble southwest of the capital, and Coulommiers, 30 miles east.

The latest attacks apparently were part of a rapidly shaping campaign to isolate Paris. The weather was clear and "good results" were reported.

The British heavies struck at oil depots at Bordeaux and La Pallice—the only bases left to Hitler's submarines.

Others Virtually Useless

Brest, Lorient and St. Nazaire, the oft-battered lairs for the one time terrors of the sea, are threatened so closely now by the American army that they are virtually useless to the enemy.

Bordeaux, at the mouth of the Gironde, and sheltered La Pallice nearly 100 miles to the north, must supply and refit a submarine force too large for them at a time when previous attacks on oil depots and rail and road communications have made it almost impossible for the enemy to bring up supplies.

Halifaxes attacked the railway junction of Dijon, 160 miles southeast of Paris. With railways farther north largely disorganized, this roundabout route from Southwest Germany to the battlefield is vital to the enemy.

Slav Rails Raided

Mediterranean Air Force bombers, making their second straight night foray into Yugoslavia, attacked rail yards at Kraljevo.

The trip to Berlin was the first for the Mosquitos since July 25.

The Germans said Bremen and southern Hungary also were attacked.

Day Flurry of Robots

Fog Hinders Air Warfare Against Bombs; Gunners Pick Off Some

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP).—Clusters of flying bombs dropped on southern England and the London area today in another daylight flurry, after yesterday's day and night lulls had been broken by sporadic barrages.

Foggy weather in France handicapped the aerial warfare against the robots, but anti-aircraft gunners on the coast picked off some.

A motion-picture theater which had not been used recently was ruined by a direct hit in the night. A number of persons were sleeping on the stage, but they were saved by a lowered safety curtain.

England Is Hit By Two Robot Attacks

London, Aug. 11 (AP)—German flying bomb attacks on Britain last night were limited to two flurries of activity—one early in the evening and another shortly after midnight.

An official announcement said casualties and damage had been caused by the robots, some of which fell in the London area.

1,000 Germans Reported Held

Stockholm, Aug. 11 (AP)—The newspaper Tidningen in an undated dispatch today, quoted a person with close connections in Germany as saying 1,000 Germans had been arrested and 100 executed since the reported attempt on Hitler's life July 20.

Two Negro Soldiers Hanged For Rape

London, Aug. 11 (AP)—Two Negro privates, Willie Smith, 21, Birmingham, Ala., and Eliga Brinson, 25, Tallahassee, Fla., were hanged today for the rape of a 16-year-old girl, American army headquarters announced.

They were convicted by a court-martial April 29 following the rape of the English girl near their base. Their sentence was reviewed and confirmed by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

London, Saturday, Aug. 12 (AP)—Greater Paris has been placed under an 11:15 P. M. curfew, beginning tonight, by order of the German command, the Paris radio said today.

Says Law Causes Restrictions.

London, Aug. 11 (A. P.).—Col. Thomas Kerschner, United States Voting Officer in the European theater of operations, said today that the prohibition against the sale of British publications inside United States Army reservations before the November election was in accord with strict interpretation of the Hatch act. The act prohibits Government agencies and officials from sponsoring political activity or propaganda.

The colonel told a press conference that the Army had no choice, but he emphasized there was nothing to prevent soldiers from buying newspapers, magazines and anything else outside an Army post.

He also said troops could subscribe and have British papers sent in by mail and that there was nothing to prevent them from getting political propaganda in private mail from home.

The order banning the sale of newspapers went into effect yesterday, but newsboys were allowed to sell their papers in the streets outside the encampment bases. Col. Kerschner said that permission for direct sale within a post was interpreted as Army sponsorship.

YUGOSLAVS REPORT NAZIS BURN VILLAGES

LONDON, Aug. 11—(AP) A communique from Marshal Tito's headquarters tonight claimed that the Germans, unable to beat the Yugoslav partisans in the field, had burned 30 Bosnia villages, killed more than 100 women and children and plundered many farms.

In Eastern Bosnia, the War bulletin said, partisans took a heavy toll of the 13th SS division and in Herzegovina reinforced Germans attempting to break through toward Niksix were meeting bloody resistance.

NAZIS ADAPT NEW MANPOWER DECREE

LONDON, Aug. 11—(AP) Nazis applied new pressure today to wring the last bit of manpower out of Germany amid new continental reports that both the German army and production fronts were strained to the utmost.

New decrees by Paul Joseph Goebbels, Hitler's total mobilization minister, took private telephones from millions of Germans and drastically curtailed mail and telegraph services.

Goebbels estimated his new service curtailments would free "tens of thousands" for the army and factories.

His new order followed a series of decrees yesterday aimed at releasing thousands of privately employed for war work.

The German radio broadcast that new drastic restrictions on German courts would release "several tens of thousands" officials and employes of German courts for war production or the army.

Reports from Bern, Switzerland, said 700,000 Italian prisoners of war in Germany were being hurried into Reich's mobilization effort.

In Stockholm the newspaper Tidningens in a "private" dispatch quoting a person with close connections in Germany, said German war leaders were withdrawing troops from the Calais area and rushing them to the seine-Loire river region for the defense of Paris. It also said thousands of Germans had been arrested and a hundred executed since the attempt on Hitler's life.

Moscow broadcasts named Baron Von Neurath, once one of Hitler's close associates, and Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, former minister of economics, as purge victims.

Deny Petain Has Left Vichy

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP).—Denying reports that Marshal Petain's government had left Vichy, the German-controlled Paris radio today said Petain conferred there yesterday with his War Secretary

Nazis 'Heil Hitler' or Die

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP).—The Moscow radio said today that Adolf Hitler had issued a decree to all judges of courts martial directing that the death penalty must be imposed on German officers who insist on using the army salute instead of the "Heil Hitler" salute.

TokyoSees Philippine Blow

Says Landing on an Uninhabited Island is Possible

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP).—The German radio broadcast a Tokyo dispatch today quoting a Japanese government spokesman as saying that in view of the fact that the Philippines consist of 7,000 islands, it is quite possible for a landing to be made on one of the uninhabited small islands.

Commenting on President Roosevelt's conference in Hawaii, the Japanese spokesman was quoted as saying the real invasion of the Philippines would be a different matter and would meet the "fiercest resistance" of Japanese fighting with Filipinos "for the independence of the young republic."

Dane Becomes An Exile To Save Fortress Crew

A United States Bomber Base in Britain, Saturday, Aug. 12 (AP)—The crew of a Flying Fortress rescued at sea after a recent raid has been brought to England by a Danish fisherman who left his home, family and business to do so.

The pilot, Lieut. Charles Canfield, of St. Joseph, Mo., said "the fisherman told us he could not go back to Denmark, after having been absent for several days, because the Germans would arrest him."

The airmen were drifting in a dinghy 13 miles from the enemy shore when the Danish skipper took them aboard his 35-ton boat.

Royalty Spends Day With Canadian Airmen

With a Canadian Bomber Group, Aug. 11 (AP)—England's King and Queen, accompanied by Princess Elizabeth, spent today touring air stations in the Canadian bomber group, one of the largest groups of the Bomber Command.

Their Majesties, starting early in the morning, visited four stations in all. At each, King George held investitures, decorating more than 150 Canadian airmen.

Never before had the King and Queen spent a full day with the RCAF and it was the first official visit of Princess Elizabeth to the Canadian personnel.

Doolittle Cites Air Cameramen

United States Air Force Headquarters, Britain, Aug. 11 (A. P.).—Lieut.-Gen. James H. Doolittle cited the United States Eighth Air Force photographic reconnaissance group today for extraordinary heroism, gallantry and determination during June before and after the invasion of France started.

The group, commanded by Lieut.-Col. C. A. Shoop of Beverly Hills, Cal., obtained pictures of German fortifications and activities just before the landings in France and for several days afterward.. Bad weather forced the photographing pilots to work from treetop levels to 5,000 feet, despite intense ground fire. Their normal altitudes are up to seven miles.

Bombings Block Escape Of U-Boats To Japan

London, Aug. 11 (AP)—Allied bombings of U-boat nests at Bordeaux and La Pallice and their fuel-storage ports are designed to prevent escape of the raiders to other havens, including Japan, where they might be a factor in prolonging the Pacific war.

Authoritative air and naval sources said today it was "entirely likely" Hitler might be consigning part of his undersea fleet to his Far Eastern ally when European havens are lost.

POLES DRIVE TO THE CESANO

Advance To Within 17 Miles Of Pesaro On Adriatic

Rome, Aug. 11 (AP)—An offensive by Polish troops on the Adriatic flank of the Eighth Army has rolled forward to the Cesano river only 17 miles from Pesaro and the eastern end of the Germans' Gothic Line across northern Italy, Allied headquarters announced today.

Polish patrols already were across the river and field dispatches said all German forces had decamped under pressure from the southern bank of the Cesano, 40 miles below Rimini.

Five Nazi Attacks Fail

In an intial advance of two miles, this two-day-old Allied thrust had seized the towns of Scapezzano, Monterado and Corinaldo and the Poles were about half way between captured Ancona and the next major port, Pesaro.

Five unsuccessful counterattacks cost the Germans further heavy casualties. The enemy used many mortars and self-propelled guns. At the very start of the offensive 300 prisoners were taken.

Severe storms hampered the push and limited activity along most of the remainder of the Eighth and Fifth Army front.

Explosions In Florence

Even so, Allied units moved up to the south bank of the Arno river east of Florence. Inside Florence some sniping, mostly attributed to Fascists, continued. Enemy long range artillery continued to shell Allied communications in the southern outskirts of Florence.

There were unverified reports that explosions had been heard in the northern side of Florence, leading to fears that the Germans were blocking roads with demolitions but an official spokesman had no comment on this subject.

The food situation of the populace in southern Florence eased, with AMG sending an average of 60 tons of foodstuffs daily to the 80,000 persons there. Transportation of this food was complicated by Nazi fire on the roads leading into the city.

East of Florence, Indian troops which have terrorized the Germans continued their patrolling. A letter written by a captured Nazi sentry said the Indians "creep up on one slowly and unobtrusively, their knives between their teeth, and kill us unawares."

POLES MAKE GAIN ALONG ADRIATIC

Rome, Aug. 11 (A. P.).—Polish troops, launching an infantry and tank offensive along a six-mile front on the Adriatic coast, have captured high ground overlooking the Cesano Valley and have sent patrols across the Cesano River after a two-mile initial advance, Allied Headquarters said today.

The towns of Scapezzano, Monterado and Corinaldo were seized as the Poles swept through the Nazi defenses. The drive to the south bank of the Cesano put the Poles about half way between the captured port of Ancona and the next major town of Pesara, where the outposts of the Adriatic end of the Gothic Line are believed to begin.

Heavy storms slowed but failed to halt the onslaught. The hard-pressed Germans were reported to have withdrawn entirely from the south bank of the Cesano.

Heavy continuous rain fell along the entire Fifth Army front and thunderstorms were common on most of the Eighth Army front, with the result that activity was limited to artillery fire and patrol actions.

Gen. Sir Harold Alexander's headquarters said the situation in Florence "remains the same."

In the bend of the Arno river east of Florence British units occupied areas south of the river from which the enemy had withdrawn and were within two miles of the junction town of Pontassieve.

Six German planes were shot down over Ploesti yesterday when up to 500 United States 15th Air Force heavy bombers raided Romanian oil targets. One formation of Liberators bombed the Steaua Romano refinery at Campina, 19 miles northwest of Ploesti.

CHURCHILL VISITS ITALIAN FRONT

ROME, Aug. 11 — (AP) Allied headquarters announced tonight the arrival of Prime Minister Winston Churchill in Italy on his first trip to this war theater. The purpose of the trip or how long he would stay were not disclosed.

Earlier this week Britain's Prime Minister visited the Normandy beachhead in France.

Churchill's visit to Italy gave the Germans a new case of jitters—this time bringing Nazi predictions that the Allies are on the verge of new invasion of Europe. The Germans have been forecasting repeatedly Allied landings on the Ligurian coast of north Italy or in southern France.

In London, officials were noncommittal, but it was noted the Premier's trip followed closely that of King George VI, who toured the Italian front where the German radio has said the Allies were regrouping for new offensives and new invasion operations.

CHURCHILL IN ITALY

Rome, Aug. 11 (A. P.).—Prime Minister Churchill has arrived in Italy.

Allied headquarters announced tonight his arrival, but did not disclose the purpose or the probable length of his visit—his first to the Italian war theater, following closely upon a trip earlier this week to the Normandy beachhead.

Lieutenant Drops Bomb On Enemy Plane

Rome, Aug. 11 (AP)—Bombardier Lieutenant Lloyd W. Brown brought down an enemy plane with a 500-pound bomb.

Fellow-crewmen and photographs verified today Lieutenant Brown's report that a bomb he released over an aircraft factory at Gyor, Hungary, hit and demolished a fighter plane below his Fortress and then went on to the target. Burning fragments were all that was left of the fighter.

Brown, 20, is from Boise, Idaho.

Vatican Silent On Soviet Move

Vatican City, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Vatican News Service stated today that "nothing is known" concerning a report that the Soviet Government had submitted a proposal to the Vatican for coordinated action in the solution of post-war problems.

At the same time the Vatican City newspaper Osservatore Romano commented on a speech Pope Pius XII made Jun. 28 at an audience of Polish troops in which the pontiff said it was hoped that all nations would acknowledge their debts to the Polish nation.

30.24— 17921

The Vatican News Service said the report of a Soviet proposal was only a repetition of a rumor. It added, however, that it "is not impossible to imagine from the practican standpoint that Stalin might at any moment take up a surprise position before which the Vatican itself must be prepared."

Pope Receives Sarnoff.

Vatican City, Aug. 11 (A. P.).—Pope Pius XII today received Col. David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America, who is on military leave.

capacity of 1,400 bodies.

The Germans, Simonov reported, employed prisoners of war in the crematory and killed them in turn after one month of service.

Russian newspapers published additional photographs of Lublin "atrocities," including stacks of skeletons near the crematory ovens.

Simonov said that scores of thousands of childrens' shoes and even some soft knitted footgear for babies were found in the warehouse where possessions of the dead were collected.

Nazis Try To Shift Blame For Pole 'Death Factory'

Moscow, Aug. 11 (AP)—The army newspaper Red Star said today that German SS and Gestapo captives were trying desperately to shift responsibility for the Lublin "death factory" where, the Russians say, the Nazis executed a program of extermination against Poles and Jews

Blum Reported A Victim

Correspondent Konstantin Simonov, in another eyewitness dispatch from Lublin, reported that SS men accused the Gestapo of running the death factory, while captives from the Gestapo declared it was the work of the Schutzstaffel.

His dispatch yesterday quoted a survivor as saying that Leon Blum, former French Premier, died there.

Remembering the Kharkov trial which punished German war criminals by hanging, Red Star said the prisoners pleaded they had no part in the horrors in Lublin, now the seat of the Polish Committee of National Liberation.

Pravda, however, specifically accused the following:

SS Officer Tuman, assistant manager of the death establishment.

Chief of the Crematory Monfeld.

Located Near Highway

SS Officer Shouldin, manager of the warehouse where doomed persons left their clothing, shoes and other effects.

Surrounded by electrified wire, the death factory was reported located a few hundred yards from the Lublin-Chelm highway. The Moscow press said, preliminary figures indicated hundreds of thousands of persons were killed there.

He said the Germans built a new crematory after development of the Katyn Forest case, in which the Soviets exhumed the bodies of thousands of Polish officers after the Germans retreated from Smolensk. The crematory was said to have had five stoves and a total

NEW SPANISH MINISTER

MADRID, Aug. 11—(AP) Jose Felix Lequerica, a diplomat who acted as intermediary between the Germans and French in arranging the 1940 armistice was sworn in today as Spain's foreign minister. He succeeds Gen. Francisco Gomez Gordana y Sousa, who died Aug. 3.

The diplomat has been Francisco Franco's minister to Vichy.

EX-VICHY ENVOY GETS FRANCO POST

Madrid, Aug. 11 (A. P.).—Jose Felix Lequerica, Francisco Franco's ambassador to Vichy, was named Foreign Minister today. He succeeds Gen. Francisco Gomez Jordana y Sousa, who died on August 3.

Lequerica, 53 years old, recently has been national counselor of the Falange, Spain's state party. He was an intermediary between France and Germany in arranging the armistice of 1940. He later was honored at Vichy in a double ceremony, receiving the Grand Cross of the French Legion of Honor from Chief of State Petain, and the Grand Cross, German Eagle.

Irun, Spain, Aug. 11 (AP)—Intermittent heavy explosions and columns of smoke today from the Bayonne-Biarritz area indicated the Germans were destroying munitions, oil used to refuel submarines operating in the Bay of Biscay, and other supplies ahead of efforts to evacuate the region before advancing American columns block escape routes.

Barcelona, Aug. 11 (AP)—French Partisan forces surrounding Vichy have cut all direct railroad, highway and telephone communications between the collaborationist capital and Paris, reports reaching here today said.

Greeks Raid Mytilene, Free Gestapo Hostages

CAIRO, Aug. 11 (AP).—A Greek Aegean raiding force has struck successfully at Mytilene, Greek island west of the Turkish mainland, it was announced officially tonight.

The raiders released hundreds of hostages from Gestapo headquarters and in a brief fight killed two Germans, wounded eight, and set afire and destroyed Gestapo buildings. They withdrew without casualties after nearly three hours on the island.

Nazis Kill 11 Danes In Cellar, Report Says

Stockholm, Aug. 11 (AP)—Dagmarhus, free Danish press service, quoting unconfirmed reports from the Denmark capital, said today Germans had executed 11 Danes during the night in the cellars of the Copenhagen Gestapo headquarters, presumably in reprisal for the slayings of German policemen.

Meanwhile, reports here said sabotage continued in Denmark, railway tracks in Jutland being blasted and two German ships under repair in Danish shipyards being damaged by explosions.

NAZI SOLDIERS JOKE ON MORALE

Irun, Spain, Aug. 11 (A. P.).—The Germans themselves joke about morale in Hitler's armies.

A Frenchman who crossed the frontier said that he had heard a drunken German officer remark that the Nazi secret weapon V-2 consisted of millions of civilian coats and bicycles. The officer then added:

"That's all the German Army needs to vanish."

Stockholm, Aug. 11 (AP)—Twelve Nazi troop trains were reported by the Free Danish Press service today to have passed southward through Aarhus in the last 24 hours, indicating a heavy movement of German troops from Denmark probably toward France.

Nazis In South France 'Sots'

Irun, Spain, Aug. 11 (AP)—Sixteen-year-old Jean T'Kindt who crossed the Spanish frontier a month after he fled from his home in Belgium, said today the bulk of German troops have been transferred from coastal cities of southwestern France and that those who remain are "drunk most of the time."

"They sell every piece of German army equipment they can get to buy more wine," he added. "Each night they sing German songs while drinking. They tell anyone who will listen they are afraid they won't get back alive."

Russians Call Nazis Drunkards

Five Russians, once prisoners of war who were forced to volunteer for service in the German navy, told similar stories after fleeing into Spain. They described the remaining German garrisons in southwestern France as "drunkards, men plotting desertions and a handful of young fanatics."

The young Belgian said he left Biarritz, just north of the frontier, last Wednesday.

He declared that the German soldiers he saw while traveling from Brittany to the frontier "have no morale."

"Near the German front line," he added, "they still are disciplined, but in the south only a few are left and they know the war is lost for them. They all fear the French and are planning to escape as soon as the Gestapo and military police give them the opportunity."

Occasionally deserters are shot in the presence of the troops.

"I saw one shot in Biarritz Tuesday," young T'Kindt said.

Plenty Of M. P.'s

He said that although there are few troops in Biarritz, hundreds of military police remain and he expressed the view that "the Germans would all quit if it were not for the police."

Most of the arms have been taken from the German fortifications along the French coast, he said, but the Nazis are having little success in trying to send them north to the battle front because of wrecked rail lines.

CHINESE FORCES MAKE NEW EFFORT TO THWART JAPS

CHUNGKING, Aug. 11—(AP) Chinese forces, striking in a new area in their effort to thwart the Japanese in central China, have recovered the stronghold of Pingsiang, about 100 miles northeast of Hengyang, and pushed the enemy westward 30 miles to the outskirts of Liling, a Chinese spokesman said today.

In the immediate area of fallen Hengyang the Chinese gave the enemy no respite to exploit the prize, continuing attacks against the Japanese ring three to six miles from the city, the Chinese high command announced.

Both sides were suffering heavy casualties as the Chinese pursued their announced campaign to restrain the Japanese from complete control of the Hankow-Canton railroad. Having captured Leiyang, 30 miles south of Hengyang, the Chinese still were battling reinforced Japanese units in its suburbs.

A Chinese-American wing of Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault's 14th air force yesterday destroyed or damaged 50 planes at Taiyuan, in Shansi province. Two were destroyed in the air and 24 on the ground; 24 were damaged. All the Allied planes returned.

This loss was the heaviest the Japanese have suffered in a single raid in China.

Chinese planes also flew a number of missions in support of ground operations outside Hengyang and reported they inflicted heavy casualties on the enemy. Other planes operating further north destroyed a railroad station and sank more than 20 supply boats on the Siang river.

On the western Yunnan front Chinese troops repulsed a heavy counter-attack by which the Japanese sought to relieve their hard-pressed positions on Sunghsan mountain, astride the Burma road west of the Salween river, a Chinese high command communique reported.

In the siege of Tengchung Chinese troops beat back seven counter-attacks and clung to the portion of the ancient city wall they had seized previously.

Chinese Hurl Back Japs West Of Salween River

Chungking, Aug. 11 (AP)—Chinese troops have thrown back a strong Japanese counterattack designed to relieve isolated enemy positions astride the Burma road west of the Salween river in western Yunnan province, a Chinese communique announced today.

At besieged Tengchung, Chinese troops who previously had seized the western corner of the ancient wall around that city were reported to have hurled back seven counter-attacks.

A communique from Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters announced that the Chinese-American composite wing of the 14th Air Force yesterday carried out one of its most successful missions, destroying or damaging 50 enemy planes in an attack on Taiyuan airdrome in Shansi province.

Two planes were downed in combat, the announcement said, 24 were destroyed on the ground and another 24 were damaged—all without loss to the attackers.

The Chinese continue to press attacks three to six miles from fallen Hengyang, with both sides suffering heavy casualties in the fight for the Canton-Hankow railway, the communique also said. The Chinese, after capturing Leiyang, thirty miles south of Hengyang, were still battling the enemy in the suburbs.

JAPS REPORTED SENDING TROOPS TO PHILIPPINES

CHUNGKING, Aug. 11—(AP) The Japanese are pouring reinforcements into the Philippines and Formosa to meet an American onslaught and are believed to be bolstering defenses in the Canton area against a feared landing on China's coast, a Chinese army spokesman said today.

Chinese quarters regarded President Roosevelt's conference with Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Admiral Chester W. Nimitz at Honolulu as the forerunner of expanded and accelerated operations against Japan.

New Japan Expected

(A Japanese government spokesman, speaking over the Tokyo radio in a possible attempt to prepare the Japanese people for a new American assault, said it was quite possible for a landing to be made on one of the smaller, uninhabited of the Philippines' 7,000 islands.

(Turning to the Honolulu conference, the spokesman declared a "real" invasion of the Philippines would be quite a different matter and would meet "fiercest resistance" from Japanese and Filipinos.)

The feeling in Chungking was that the American drive through the Pacific must have revealed some unexpected enemy weaknesses enabling a speedier execution of plans to defeat Japan by land, sea and air.

Major Gen. C. C. Tseng, the army spokesman, said in addition to sending reinforcements to the Philippines and Formosa, the Japanese were making other preparations to defend these islands.

He quoted unconfirmed reports that the Japanese had transferred troops from Canton to other occupied ports in that stretch of the southwest China coast looking southeastward to the Philippines.

Other forces from Canton have been shifted to the big island of Hainan, which flanks the Canton area on the southwest, these advices said, and the Japanese were planning local mopping up operations to eliminate Chinese support or any landings on the Chinese coast.

Despite the loss of Hengyang, the last main city they held on the Canton-Hankow railway, the Chinese were generally optimistic and were convinced that measures were under way to reduce to a minimum the time lapse between the defeat of Germany and Japan.

Jap Document Taken

Gen. Tseng said a captured Japanese document showed that the Japanese lost 25,000 in casualties in July alone in the battle of Hengyang, which fell Tuesday. He estimated the entire Hunan campaign, of which Hengyang was a part, cost the Japanese 50,000 casualties.

The Japanese drive from Canton northward to link forces with those at Hengyang and complete the occupation of the Canton-

Hankow railway has been stalled, he said, possibly by the shift of forces from Canton to the other south China ports.

But the general was convinced the Japanese would not abandon their plan to occupy the whole railway, because this would provide the enemy with a comparatively safe line of retreat.

He predicted the Japanese would pause at Hengyang long enough to regroup, reorganize and reinforce themselves for a fresh move, possibly to clear all Chinese troops within a 30-mile radius of Hengyang.

Japs' Hengyang Claims

London, Aug. 11 (AP)—A broadcast Japanese communique today said Japanese forces had killed more than 4,100 Chinese troops and captured 13,300 in seizing the strategic Hunan rail center of Hengyang.

Among the prisoners, said the bulletin, was Gen. Fang Hsenchiao, commander of the Tenth Army, and four divisional commanders.

CHINESE PUSH ON BHAMO BASE

Drive Seven Miles South From Myitkyina In Burma

Southeast Asia Command Headquarters, Kandy, Ceylon, Aug. 11 (AP)—Chinese troops and Kachin (Burmese) levies have driven seven miles south of captured Myitkyina in a new push toward Bhamo, Japanese base on the Irrawaddy river 73 miles farther south, Allied headquarters announced today.

[A Chinese spokesman in Chungking said the Japanese were preparing for the coming battle of Bhamo by rushing reinforcements there from Malaya.]

At the same time Allied troops in another North Burma drive were fighting more than 17 miles south of Mogaung on the Mogaung-Mandalay railroad, having pressed on through captured Taungni.

10 Miles From Frontier

To the west Allied forces had all but completed clearing the last Japanese invaders out of India, having chased them down the Tiddim road to a point within 10 miles of the Burma-India frontier.

In the past two weeks Allied raiding parties harassing the Japanese on the Tiddim road have killed more than 400 of the enemy and wounded 150, headquarters said.

Forces which have pursued the Japanese out of India through the border town of Tamu and into the Kabaw Valley, of Burma, still were unable to make contact with the fleeing enemy.

RAF planes attacked Japanese river craft and other targets without loss.

ALLIES IN BURMA PUSH FOR MOGAUNG

Southeast Asia Command Headquarters, Kandy, Ceylon, Aug. 11 (A. P.).—Allied troops, in a swift seven mile advance in twenty-four hours, have reached a point seventeen miles southwest of Mogaung on the railway to Mandalay, allied headquarters announced today.

At the same time Chinese forces and Kachin levies operating further to the east battled their way southward seven miles from captured Myitkyina toward Bhamo, the announcement said.

In India, Allied forces pursuing the retreating Japanese southward along the Tiddim Road were said to have reached a point within ten miles of the Burma frontier.

MARIANAS-BASED PLANES BOMB IWO

Island 750 Miles From Tokyo Is Target

United States Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Aug. 11 (AP)—Heavy bombers of the Seventh Army Air Force bombed Iwo Island in the Volcano group Wednesday in the first full-scale heavy strike from newly won airfields in the Marianas. Iwo is 750 miles from Tokyo.

The Liberators dropped 47 tons of bombs on the Iwo airfield and adjacent installations, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz said in a press release today announcing the raid.

This first army heavy-bomber strike at Iwo starts a new stage in the Seventh AAF's leapfrogging air neutralization campaign across the Pacific.

Began From Midway

That campaign started with raids on Wake Island from a base on Midway Island and worked over the Gilberts, Marshalls and Carolines en route to the Marianas.

Iwo, 725 miles northwest of conquered Saipan, is situated about halfway from Saipan to Tokyo. It was first bombed from the Marianas by navy Liberator search planes in a series of strikes starting July 19.

Those comparatively light raids had been preceded by attacks by carrier-based planes, the first of which hit the Bonin and Volcano islands on June 14.

Fighters Tried Interception

Several enemy fighter planes attempted to intercept Wednesday's raid, Nimitz reported, but did no damage. Anti-aircraft fire, however, caused minor damage to three of the Liberators.

A dive-bombing and strafing attack was made the same day on Mili atoll in the Marshall Islands by more than 100 planes of the Fourth Marine Aircraft Wing. They met only meager ground fire from Japanese who have been bypassed for months.

Navy Man Kept Eluding Japs for 31 Months of Enemy Occupation

WAS HUNTED AS WILD ANIMAL

Refused to Surrender in 1941, Escaped to American Naval Craft Last Month.

Pearl Harbor, Aug. 11 (A. P.).—Fortune's wheel came full circle round today for Chief Radioman George Ray Tweed, graying, 42-year-old Oregonian who outlasted Japanese squads remorselessly hunting him for thirty-one nightmare months on now-liberated Guam.

He escaped and was picked up by an American naval vessel ten days before the Americans invaded Guam July 20. His story and that of Guam's reconquest were announced almost simultaneously by the Navy yesterday.

From the day—December 10, 1941—when the Japanese overwhelmed a handful of Americans on the island, Tweed lived in precarious flight on the 250-square mile island far out in the Pacific. The Japs hunted him like an animal; finally detailing a fifty-man patrol to capture him—and capture, often near, would have meant death.

The story he told after his rescue July 10 was released to the United States almost coincidentally with announcement that recapure of Guam had been completed.

Tweed had seen proud, cruel, vindictive Japanese forces rolling to victory past his buddies' bodies. The conquerors' final remnants were ragged and emaciated; fleeing instead of fighting back.

Reinstated in the United States Navy and promoted from radio man first class aboard the rescue ship, Tweed was returned to the United States. He was reunited in San Diego, Cal., with his wife, Mary Frances Tweed, 27, and their sons, Ronald, 9, and Robert, 3. They had not seen him since October, 1941, when they left Guam.

"It was a glorious reunion," said Mrs. Tweed, adding she never doubted that her husband would return.

Lost 30 Pounds.

During his ordeal the Portland, Ore., Navy man's hair silvered and he lost 30 pounds. He gained back 10 of these in the first five days after his rescue, by a combatant ship off Guam, ten days before the American landings. An American pilot previously had spotted him standing near the remote cave where he spent the latter part of his hermitage. He lived on rain water and food obtained in night forays.

Tweed said the Japanese landed on Guam December 9, after two days' bombing and strafing.

"We had so few guns, so little ammunition," he said, "there wasn't much we could do to defend. We had only about 200 Marines, a few scattered naval personnel and the island defense company.

Ammunition Gave Out.

"The Marines on Cabras Island, a narrow strip of land off the harbor, armed only with machine guns actually repulsed the Japs until their ammunition gave out.

"A couple of one-pound guns on ships in the harbor fired to the last, while a single machine gun on Agana Heights, above the town—the only 'anti-aircraft' battery we had—exhausted its ammunition."

Tweed said the Japanese forced a landing and shot their way into Agana, against the street-by-street, house-by-house opposition of Marines.

With a buddy, Tweed escaped to the "bush," after the American Governor ordered surrender on the third day.

The Japanese warned that all Americans who gave themselves up within thirty days would be interned in Japan; others found later would be killed.

Tweed's companion and three other Navy men they met all were captured and killed by the Japanese.

"Several times they learned where I was hiding, but each time I managed to escape, once by less than a minute," Tweed said.

Fleet Base Set Up At Saipan

Aboard Admiral Turner's Flagship in the Marianas, Aug. 11 (AP)—Vice-Admiral Richmond Kelly Turner announced today he has established headquarters for his Pacific fleet at Saipan Island—an advance of more than 3,000 miles from Pearl Harbor—and said it will be maintained there until "I can move further forward."

Turner disclosed that headquarters are under construction, both for his force and for the commander of Pacific amphibious troops, bringing tactical direction of the transpacific offensive less than 1,500 miles from Japan.

"Greatest Naval Victory"

The admiral's announcement followed completion of the conquest of Guam. Hailing the final capture of this Marianas base, Turner sent congratulations to Admiral Raymond A. Spruance, commander of the Fifth Fleet, terming it "the greatest naval victory the United States ever won."

Turner commanded the amphibious forces which captured the Gilberts, the Marshalls and now the Marianas. He took the marines into Guadalcanal in the first Pacific offensive.

"Got Their Number"

"We're got these Japs' number," he said, "and now we know how to do it. General MacArthur knows how, the navy knows how, the soldiers and the air (forces) know how. We're going to walk down the Ginza (one of Tokyo's main districts) before too long because we've got their number!"

From the standpoint of Japanese security, the situation reverses what our own plight would be if the Hawaiian Islands, only 2,000 miles off San Francisco, were in Japanese control.

Speaking for all amphibious forces, Turner offered Spruance cheers for splendid leadership in the Marianas fight and expressed hope he would be associated with him in future victories.

Praises General Smith

The admiral highly praised Lieut. Gen. Holland M. Smith of the Marine Corps for his direction of the ground campaign, declaring "he not only has my confidence but the confidence of every navy officer and probably every army officer because he knows how to do this job."

Citing the near-perfect coordination and cooperation of all forces involved in the Marianas operation, Turner said:

"We've come a long way in two years' time, both from the standpoint of cooperation and distance."

Meets Vandegrift

The admiral met Lieut. Gen. Alexander A. Vandegrift, commandant of the marines, at the Saipan airport. They recalled their joint operation had begun at Guadalcanal almost exactly two years ago.

Turner also disclosed that, with completion of the mission of the amphibious forces, Vice Admiral John H. Hoover, of Great Falls, Mont., assumes command of the Marianas as part of his command of the forward area in the Central Pacific. Hoover is here now to accept the command.

Yanks On Guam 'Rabbit Hunting'

[Representing the Combined Allied Press]

Third Amphibious Corps Headquarters, Guam, Aug. 12 (Aug. 11, United States Time) (AP—Via Navy Radio)—Fighting on Guam developed into a human rabbit hunt today after Maj. Gen. Roy Geiger officially pronounced the island "secure."

Scattered remnants of Japanese troops, hiding in jungle thickets and caves of northern Guam, were the rabbits. Third Amphibious Corps marines and soldiers were the hunters.

Geiger ordered his men to comb the area for Japanese, who apparently were determined to hold out until death.

Thousand Soldiers At Large

Throughout the northern reaches of Guam, leathernecks and doughboys spread out to beat the bushes like country kids on a Saturday rabbit hunt; and they were just as happy, knowing the hard work of battle was finished. All they needed to complete the picture was hound dogs. Instead, they had trained Doberman pinschers to help flush the hiding Japanese.

It was estimated that more than a thousand enemy soldiers, some alone, some in small groups, were at large in the hills north of Agana. It may take several weeks to wipe them all out. But the unshaved, unbathed American troops, still wearing the sweaty, dirt-stained utility uniforms of combat, were making good headway.

Two Marines told how they had halted their work of building a latrine to dispose of one Japanese who had crawled out of a nearby thicket. Most of the stray Japs, however, are being found in small groups.

"Our boys are flushing the Nips, then opening up on them," said Col. W. A. Wachtler of Washington, D. C. "Sometimes one or two scamper away into thickets before they are cut down."

In the final maneuver of the twenty-one-day campaign, Gen. Geiger's troops cleaned up scattered pockets of resistance near Tarague Beach on the northern coast. About 200 Japanese were killed.

Geiger, summoning correspondents at 11.30 A. M. on August 10, told them: "We can now say the island is secure." He said the campaign was completed ahead of schedule. He recalled that four good-sized battles were fought, mentioning the fight of Adelup Point on the original beachhead north of Orote; a strong enemy counterattack against the Third Marine Division; conquest of the Orote peninsula and capture of Harmon road.

54 Tanks Destroyed

Fifty-four enemy tanks were destroyed or captured, six more were probably destroyed, and 117 field-pieces were wrecked or captured.

Capture of Guam's 250 square miles gave the United States the largest land mass yet wrested from the Nipponese in the Central Pacific.

Guamanians taken into the re organized insular naval guard force are again on duty, proudly wearing blue denims as if proclaiming the Star-Spangled Banner is here to stay.

30. 24— 17923

Owes Life To Big Feet, Navy Flyer Declares

United States Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Aug. 11 (AP)—"Thank God my feet are big," said Ensign Carl Eugene Smith, of Houston, Texas, in recounting today how they saved his life over the Pacific.

Smith baited out of his fighter plane at 5,000 feet while returning from the Task Force 58 strike at Palau July 27.

His parachute harness slipped off his shoulders as he plumetted from the plane. But the harness caught around his feet and ankles, saving him from a plunge to death.

He was forced to bail out because he could not release a bomb before landing on his carrier. A destroyer picked him up 10 minutes later.

Morgan Grandson Bombed Jap Cruiser

Pearl Harbor, Aug. 11 (A. P.)—Lieut. Paul Geddes Pennoyer Jr. of Locust Valley, L. I., grandson of the late John Pierpont Morgan, was one of four Navy torpedoplane pilots who attacked a Japanese airplane carrier June 19. He and his mates from Torpedo Squadron 28 let go sixteen 500-pound bombs on a 12,000-ton class carrier, setting it afire in the battle of the Philippines Sea.

The carrier was listed officially as probably sunk.

JAPS ALL AROUND, YANKS PLAY DEAD

Wounded By Grenade, They Fool Enemy, Are Rescued

A United States Naval Hospital, Hawaii, Aug. 11 (AP)—Husky Fred Hofmann, Jr. of Hoboken, N. J., a marine corporal, and three other Yank fighting men successfully "played possum" in a shell hole on Guam the night of July 25-26.

Hofmann told the story in a hospital here. He was among the first wounded evacuated from Guam.

His companions were a machine-gun section chief named Mike, a medical corpsman named Malone and a runner.

The afternoon of July 25 the men used lumber and sheet metal from a Japanese supply dump to roof their shell hole at an advanced position near Agana. They had a telephone but didn't dare use it because they were surrounded by Japanese.

"Blew His Head"

Just before midnight Hofmann detected a Japanese soldier looking into the hole. "He didn't do a thing," said the corporal. "He just stared like he was doped or crazy. I stuck my 45 out to the edge of the hole and let go. I guess it blew his head off. He was on his hands and knees and just settled down flat."

The corporal said he killed another Japanese with his rifle. Then the Nipponese started to heave hand grenades. Hofmann's right shoulder was fractured and cut when one went off in the hole. Malone was wounded in the chest, the runner in a heel. Mike was unhurt.

Then the four decided to play "possum."

They "Play Possum"

"One Nip walked on the roof and poked his rifle butt through," continued Hofmann. "He jabbed me in the leg. I didn't let out a peep and the Jap went away. He was silly. If he had been a marine he would have done his jabbing with a bayonet."

For six hours Japanese soldiers crawled by the hole thinking all inside were dead.

At 6 A. M. Hofmann got a chance to telephone. The call brought help—and rescue.

JAPANESE SNIPER KILLED COL. M'NAIR

WITH U. S. ARMY FORCES AT GUAM, Aug. 7.—(Delayed)—(AP) Col. Douglas McNair, 36, chief of staff of the 77th army division, was killed yesterday in the northern Guam area at a point where 4,000 troops had safely passed shortly before.

(The War department announced McNair's death Aug. 7).

McNair, 1928 graduate of West Point, was a son of Lt. Gen. Leslie McNair who lost his life last month on a Normandy battlefield in France.

The colonel, seeking his new command post, was fatally wounded when he approached a native hut where Sgt. Alfred Cawley, of Swansea, Mass., had noticed a Japanese. Two tanks later ran over the shack killing two Nippon occupants. A third was killed by Cawley.

Maj. Gen. Andrew Bruce, commander of the 77th, said he had instructed McNair not to go off the road without a tank escort but that his aide, with characteristic desire to get things done, quickly went ahead accompanied by the sergeant and Maj. Harry S. Cutting Jr., of Worcester, Mass., commander of special troops.

Cawley said the colonel approached to within 20 feet of the hut after the sergeant sighted a Japanese inside. McNair fired four shots from his pistol while Cawley emptied two rifle clips into the shack. The Japanese threw a grenade but it was a dud. During a fierce exchange of shots McNair was hit just above the breast bone.

Maj. Robert J. McKithren, of Temple, Tex., division signal officer, who accompanied McNair to the hospital in a jeep, said the colonel died enroute.

McNair is survived by his widow, whose home is at Santa Barbara, Calif., and an infant daughter.

HE'S DEATH TO 20 JAPS

Guam, July 31 (Delayed) (A. P.).—Corporal Martin Scanlon, a big 24-year-old Irishman of Pittsburgh, stood on the crest of a hill, his 200-pound frame silhouetted against the tropical moon and dared the Japanese to fight. That was the first night of the invasion battle.

And Second Lieut. William H. Crissim of Nashville, Tenn., telling about it today, said that Scanlon must have killed twenty Japanese, maybe more.

"All we know is that all that night he lifted his big body out of his foxhole onto the hill and cursed and fought Japs," he said—and the startling thing was that Scanlon is not an infantryman, but an artillery forward observer.

JAP DARES YANKS AND YANKS REPLY

Guam, Aug. 11 (A. P.).—A Japanese soldier leaped up on the crest of a ridge and shouted down at several American Marines: "One, two, three—you can't catch me!"

The Marines caught him—with a dozen bullets.

Blow Was Devastating.

A Secret New Superfortress Base Near the Equator, Aug. 11 (Aug. 10, American Time; delayed) (A. P.).—First reports to this base from Superfortresses returning from today's twin raids on Nagasaki in Japan, and at Palembang in Sumatra, indicated the gigantic bombers had struck devastating blows at two vital Japanese war industries—oil and shipping.

The Superfortresses flew against Palembang from this secret base of the southeast Asia Command on the longest bombing mission of the war, 3,600 miles round trip, and dropped high explosives on the finest petroleum target in the hands of the Japanese. Large fires were observed there, with towering flames masking the entire storage tank and refinery area, it was stated. At the outset of the raid the flak was "light but accurate."

At the same time Superfortresses of the China-based Twentieth United States Bomber Command rained incendiaries on Nagasaki in the first fire-bomb raid on the Japanese homeland. Reports from the Nagasaki raid crews said that they started large fires in the shipyards that spread rapidly to other sections of the metropolis.

Both assaults were made under cover of darkness, and our losses, if any, were not stated.

Crews of the Superfortresses from this base were loud in praise of the air-and-sea rescue system established by the British to protect them over the water sectors of their record bombing mission. An executive of the Twentieth Air Force said: "British generosity in establishing a chain of rescuers far at sea, at a considerable peril to their own crews, is heart-warming. It is one of the finest examples of Allied co-operation and is deeply appreciated by the B-29 crews."

B-29 SUPERFORTS CHALKED UP GOOD RESULTS IN RAID

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 —(AP) B-29 Superfortresses chalked up "good" results in their twofold smash yesterday at Japanese war industry in Sumatra and the Nipponese homeland, the 20th bomber command reported today. It said three of the aerial giants are missing and a fourth was forced down in enemy territory.

A "medium" force of the great planes was used in each attack, one hitting Japan's greatest source of oil, the Pladjoe refinery at Palembang, Sumatra, and the other industrial targets at the shipbuilding center of Nagasaki on Kyushu, one of the enemy's home islands.

The assault on Palembang was described officially as "the longest bombing mission ever undertaken." The attackers took off from "bases in the South East Asia command," the communique said. Dispatches from abroad reported these planes flew 3,600 miles round trip.

The planes that hit Nagasaki were from China bases and both attacks were made at night. The communique reported that three aircraft "are not accounted for from this double mission," and that one plane made an emergency landing at a forward Allied base in China. This plane was strafed after landing by four enemy fighters. Fighter planes attached to the base shot down at least two of the enemy planes.

The communique did not explain whether the three unreported planes represented a loss for the two forces or whether the loss was sustained by one unit alone. The latest mission raised to 9 the total of B-29's lost in four missions, beginning with the attack on Kyushu last June. The total includes one plane forced down and destroyed by American airmen after parts had been salvaged. The over-all percentage of loss for the four operations was considered unusually low.

Significantly, the communique mentioned that the Superfortresses attacked Nagasaki "for one and a half hours." It was assumed this might represent the time interval from the arrival of the first bomber until the last plane made its run over the target. Presumably the planes flew more or less in file rather than in the box or pattern formation used by the smaller B-17's and B-24's in European operations. This in turn would suggest that the bombers took off from their China bases at different times.

trial strength 3,500 miles apart in raids yesterday that left three of the planes unaccounted for and a fourth down in friendly territory.

At least three enemy craft were destroyed in carrying out the missions under cover of darkness.

The 20th Bombing Command announced this data today in providing additional details on the raids—the fourth major strike of the B-29s—with bombing results reported "good" both at Palembang in southern Sumatra and at Nagasaki on the Japanese island of Kyushu.

Longest Bombing Mission

The Palembang attack, officially described as "the longest bombing mission ever undertaken," was directed against the Pladjoe refinery, whence comes a major portion of Nippon's high octane gasoline.

Over Japanese home territory itself, the bombers spent 90 minutes, plastering that 12th largest Nipponese city.

Anti-aircraft opposition at Pladjoe was described as "weak to moderate" and at Nagasaki as "meager to moderate and inaccurate."

Fighter opposition similarly was weak to moderate at Pladjoe and "weak" over Sumatra, where B-29 crews reported they downed one fighter.

Forced Landing

At least two others were shot down by fighter aircraft attached to a forward base in China where one of the Superforts made a forced landing, only to be pounced upon and strafed by four Japanese ships.

Previous raids resulted in the loss of six B-29's although all planes returned from the July 7 attack on the Sasebo naval base.

The text of the 20th Air Force communique No. 8:

"Superfortresses of the 20th Bomber Command struck at two centers of Japanese industrial strength yesterday in night missions against widely separated targets.

"In the longest bombing mission ever undertaken, a medium force of B-29 aircraft attacked the Pladjoe refinery at Palembang in southern Sumatra, from bases in the Southeast Asia Command.

Major Oil Base

"Pladjoe is the largest Japanese source of oil in the Far East and is a major Japanese supplier of high-octane motor fuels. Observed bombing results were reported to be good. Several crews observed large fires and explosions at the target. Anti-aircraft opposition was weak to moderate, and enemy fighter opposition was weak to moderate.

"Visibility varied, with cloud formations encountered.

"Simultaneously, from bases in China, a medium force attacked for one and one half hours industrial targets at Nagasaki, on the Japanese mainland island of Kyushu.

Three Planes Bagged

"Here again the observed bombing results were good. Poor visibility prevented some elements of the mission from obtaining highly accurate visual observation of bombing results.

"Anti-aircraft was meager to moderate and inaccurate. Fighter opposition was weak. Our crews claim one enemy aircraft destroyed. One plane made an emergency landing at a forward base in China and was strafed after landing by four enemy fighters, of which at least two were shot down by fighter aircraft attached to that base.

"Three of our aircraft are not accounted for from this double mission."

3 B-29s On Jap Raid Reported Missing

Washington, Aug. 11 (AP)—Execution of three American prisoners of war by the Japanese was reported by the navy today.

AUG 121944

Tokyo Drafts New Home Defense Plan

New York, Aug. 11 (AP)—After studying detailed reports on yesterday's Superfortress raid on the Nagasaki area in Japan, the Japanese Cabinet decided today to prepare by August 15 a plan for "strengthening home defense," the Tokyo radio announced.

The announcement, made in a broadcast to the empire and reported by the Federal Communications Commission, contrasted strongly with Japanese attempts to minimize the effect of the raid in broadcasts beamed abroad.

The simultaneous Superfortress attack on Palembang, vital oil refinery center in Sumatra, was not immediately reported by the Tokyo radio, but a belated broadcast finally announced that Palembang had been raided.

Two Raiders Claimed

The announcement said six planes participated in this attack. It acknowledged that "the manner in which the enemy carried out his attacks was extremely fierce" but reported "just one oil tank was set afire."

Tokyo asserted that at least two of the Palembang raiders were downed. No claim was made of any being destroyed over Nagasaki, not disclose losses, if any.

United States official reports did

Detailed reports on the raid on the Japanese homeland were said to have been submitted to the Cabinet by War Minister Marshal Gen. Sugiyama and Home Affairs Minister Shugeo Odachi.

"They said the damage had been very negligible," the Tokyo radio said.

"Then Odachi," the broadcast added, "proposed a measure concerning the strengthening of domestic defense in parallel with the national movement for total armament. As a result, it was decided that each affiliated ministry will make a concrete study to form a plan and the measure will be completed in outline by the next Cabinet meeting on August 15."

An imperial headquarters communique dealing with the raids said:

"This morning single planes based in China flew over the southern part of Korea and the northwestern part of Kyushu as well as the western area of Honshu. Energetic Japanese anti-aircraft intervention drove the enemy raiders to flight, so very little damage was caused."

YANK PLANES HIT HALMAHERA BASES

Six Freighters and Two Airfields Hit in Raid Near Philippines.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Saturday, Aug. 12—(AP) American planes, in a double-barrelled strike at Halmahera island, southern guardian of the Philippines, sank or damaged six freighters and plastered two of the enemy's main air bases, headquarters reported today.

The aerial arrow toward the Philippines also struck a new objective when patrol planes bombed and seriously damaged a 2,000-ton freighter near the Talaud islands, within 200 miles of Mindanao.

Japs Caught in Prade

Australian fighter pilots added another highlight to intensive aerial activity throughout the southwest Pacific area Thursday. They caught approximately 500 Japanese on Prade at the Samate airdrome near Sorong, Northwest Dutch New Guinea, killing many of them as they fled in confusion from the open field.

Four freighters, a coastal vessel and a number of smaller craft were sunk and two other freighters seriously damaged or sunk. The ships ranged from 1,000 to 2,000 tons and the total sunk was approximately 6,000 tons. Wasile bay has been used by the Japanese for concentrating ships.

Heavy units then swept over the Galela and Lolobata airfields, two of the main Japanese airbases on the important island. These two strips, in the northern part of the island, also were prime targets in the two previous heavy American attacks on Halmahera July 27 and August 7.

Headquarters announced that continued mopping up on Biak island, in Geelvink bay off Dutch New Guinea, resulted in a further 210 Japanese killed and 85 captured. The total known Nipponese dead on the island is 4,161.

Yank planes harassed retreating Japanese in the Aitape-Wewak area of British New Guinea. Yesterday's communication announced conclusion of organized Japanese resistance in this region, where the enemy fruitlessly attempted to break Allied encirclement, losing an estimated 18,000 dead and wounded.

Yap Island Hit

Liberator bombers again hit airdromes on Yap island, in the Western Carolines, Thursday with 53 tons of bombs.

The Halmahera strike continued aerial assaults against this barrier, some 300 miles south of the southern Philippines and a barrier to the push to the archipelago.

Three successive night raids on airdromes at Davao, Mindanao, were announced yesterday, the first strike against the Philippines since April, 1942.

The Japanese were caught by surprise as the heavy bombers swept over Davao, most important city in Mindanao, and cascaded their bombs on enemy airdromes. Lights of the city glowed throughout the first raid, last Sunday, and not a shot was fired at the American planes.

Air Phase Of Fight For Isles Opens

General Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, Aug. 11 (AP)—The air phase of the battle for reconquest of the Philippines has begun just as the ground fight for reconquest of Guam ended in triumph.

The first bombing of the Philippines since the fall of Corregidor to the Japanese May 6, 1942, was announced today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, back at headquarters after a historic Pacific war conference with President Roosevelt.

MacArthur gave point proof to President Roosevelt's Pearl Harbor comment on forthcoming offensives by announcing three successive night attacks on airdromes at Davao, on Mindanao in the southern Philippines, by patrolling Liberators.

Pattern Of Attack

(MacArthur's familiar pattern of attack in the past has been to open with night air raids while his bombers are based too far away to have a fighter escort, switch to powerful daylight assaults when fighters can go along, then move in his invasion forces.)

MacArthur's report today also [illegible] aerial blasts along the south[illegible] approaches to the Philippines—Halmahera, off which two enemy fighters were hit; Ceram, where new fires were started in oil stores; Amboina and Boeroe, where airfields were cratered.

MacArthur got in position to open the air war on the Philippines by leapfrogging up the tortuous New Guinea coast. He thus bypassed enemy garrisons which had hoped to make it a long-drawn-out advance.

MACARTHUR MUM ON HONOLULU TALK

General Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, Aug. 11 (A. P.).—Gen. Douglas MacArthur today declined to comment on his conference with President Roosevelt at Honolulu, saying that all information must come from the White House.

The conference came at a time when Gen. MacArthur had concluded his New Guinea campaign, and the Honolulu trip was his first from this sector since he arrived from the Philippines. He now stands poised on the northern tip of New Guinea, 600 miles from Mindanao from which he flew to Australia more than two years ago.

Today he announced the first air attacks on land targets in the Philippines—at Davao in Mindanao—since Corregidor fell.

Changed Pacific Plans Seen In F. D. R. Visit

Washington, Aug. 11 (AP)—Establishment of close cooperation between Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Admiral Chester W. Nimitz in preparation for coming offensives in the western Pacific presumably was one of President Roosevelt's objectives in going to Hawaii.

The fight to split Japan's island empire has reached the point where Nimitz, Pacific area commander, and MacArthur, Southwest Pacific chief, will not much longer work in separate spheres.

Drives About To Converge

The lines of their swift offensives, headed up now in western New Guinea and in Guam and Saipan, are approaching the point of convergence in the Philippines.

In a similar situation in the Solomon Islands a year ago MacArthur met Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr., and, by order of the joint chiefs of staff, himself assumed strategic direction of the successful Solomons-New Guinea drives on Rabaul.

Assignment of their respective roles to Nimitz and MacArthur, and determing positions of leadership was a delicate task which might well call for the prestige of the President himself.

Speculation On Jurisdiction

Speculation has been that MacArthur would, in [illegible] command of [illegible] Guinea-based assault on the Philippines and that Guam would be the jumping-off place for a westward drive by Nimitz.

Once in the Philippines, MacArthur would have command of the doubtlessly prolonged land campaign to reconquer the islands while Nimitz would carry on with amphibious operations elsewhere.

One of these other operations, Nimitz has already said, will be a drive to the coast of China to open up a port and supply route to the Chinese armies. It would appear that this must await at least the partial conquest of the Philippines and establishment of a secure base.

Question Of Strategy

One of the big questions of Pacific strategy, for instance, has been whether the surprising success of the drive across the Central Pacific from Tarawa Island to Guam would lead sooner than previously planned to an attack on Japan itself.

Nimitz, in Guam, stands at a turning point of Pacific strategy: Guam is about 1,500 miles from both the Philippines and Tokyo.

ROOSEVELT PAYS SURPRISE VISIT TO THE ALEUTIANS

FDR Accompanied by Officials Makes Inspection Tour of Installations.

PRAISES ARMED FORCES

'Thrilled and Gratified' by Island's Defenses, President Says.

ALEUTIAN ISLAND BASE, Alaska, Aug. 3—(Delayed) (AP) President Roosevelt paid this Aleutian base a surprise visit today and, in turn, was surprised by what he saw. He said he was thrilled and gratified.

It was the President's first trip to the Aleutians, made on his first Pacific traveling of the war. He came by warship, by way of Honolulu. The chief executive praised members of the armed forces participating in the Aleutian campaign and construction program. He said they had driven out the enemy and had built new military, naval and air bases on once remote, barren islands in an incredibly short time.

Accompanied By Officers

Accompanied by Vice Admiral Frank Jack Fletcher, commander of the north Pacific, the President made a tour of the island's installations.

He expressed a wish that the people back home could see what had been done.

The Japanese, he said, would never again be able to threaten North America with an Alaskan invasion.

Mr. Roosevelt's impromptu remarks were made at an informal lunch at an enlisted men's mess, where he made a noon stop during the inspection tour.

He said he considered some parts of the United States overpopulated and predicted that many soldiers and sailors would seek new homes in Alaska after the war. The territory's great size and known resources, he added, invited settlers.

The President did not discuss any specific war plans for this or any other theaters. Neither did he comment on the national political campaign, in which he is the national Democratic nominee for a fourth term.

All of those eating lunch with the chief executive—except the Navy base commandant and the Army post commander—were enlisted soldiers, sailors and marines. A proportionate number of Negroes were mixed throughout the long mess hall.

The chatty, smiling commander-in-chief ate from the Navy [illegible] tion, metal serving trays, seated between two young privates first class—a red-haired marine from Arkansas and a trim soldier from New Jersey.

William Goff, the 19-year-old marine whose father is foreman of the ice company at Batesville, Ark., conversed easily with the President, in response to questions.

The 20-year-old soldier, Ferdinand Rutscher of Irvington, N. J., provided and lighted an after-lunch cigarette for the President. He grinned happily when his flint lighter worked on the first try.

Commends Army Nurse

Another member of the armed forces singled out by the President during the day for special notice was a navy nurse. She was Lieut. (jg) Margaret Richards whose family, formerly of Baltimore, now lives at Woodside, Long Island, N. Y.

Mr. Roosevelt stopped the line of inspection tour automobiles in front of the Navy dispensary, where the blue-uniformed nurses stood at attention with other officers and men of the hospital unit.

Lieutenant Richards, called to the side of the President's automobile, answered questions concerning operation of the dispensary.

The President asked her if she was happy here and she said she was.

Mr. Roosevelt and his party, which included Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of staff to the commander-in-chief, came north in one of the Navy's cruisers.

The Presidential party, in addition to Admiral Leahy, included Vice Admiral Ross T. McIntire, the President's physician; Major General Edwin M. Watson, military aide, and Rear Admiral Wilson Brown, naval aide.

Mr. Roosevelt, wearing a gray suit and tan shirt and sweater with black navy tie, came ashore shortly after tugs had brought the cruiser alongside the dock. His brown fedora hat was turned up in front.

His black Scotch terrier, Fala, was along.

The Aleutians gave the visitors a sample of weather as usual, of the milder sort common at this season—fog and rain, driven by shifting winds and williwaw gusts; with occasional fleeting sunshine and glimpses of blue sky.

Ignores Rain

Ignoring the [illegible] and [illegible] underfoot, the armed forces turned out in the biggest dress-up day, of Navy blue and Army brown, in the history of the base.

Tokyo Drafts New Home Defense Plan

New York, Aug. 11 (AP)—After studying detailed reports on yesterday's Superfortress raid on the Nagasaki area in Japan, the Japanese Cabinet decided today to prepare by August 15 a plan for "strengthening home defense," the Tokyo radio announced.

The announcement, made in a broadcast to the empire and reported by the Federal Communications Commission, contrasted strongly with Japanese attempts to minimize the effect of the raid in broadcasts beamed abroad.

The simultaneous Superfortress attack on Palembang, vital oil refinery center in Sumatra, was not immediately reported by the Tokyo radio, but a belated broadcast finally announced that Palembang had been raided.

Two Raiders Claimed

The announcement said six planes participated in this attack. It acknowledged that "the manner in which the enemy carried out his attacks was extremely fierce" but reported "just one oil tank was set afire."

Tokyo asserted that at least two of the Palembang raiders were downed. No claim was made of any being destroyed over Nagasaki. not disclose losses, if any.

United States official reports did

Detailed reports on the raid on the Japanese homeland were said to have been submitted to the Cabinet by War Minister Marshal Gen. Sugiyama and Home Affairs Minister Shugeo Odachi.

"They said the damage had been very negligible," the Tokyo radio said.

"Then Odachi," the broadcast added, "proposed a measure concerning the strengthening of domestic defense in parallel with the national movement for total armament. As a result, it was decided that each affiliated ministry will make a concrete study to form a plan and the measure will be completed in outline by the next Cabinet meeting on August 15."

An imperial headquarters communique dealing with the raids said:

"This morning single planes based in China flew over the southern part of Korea and the northwestern part of Kyushu as well as the western area of Honshu. Energetic Japanese anti-aircraft intervention drove the enemy raiders to flight, so very little damage was caused."

YANK PLANES HIT HALMAHERA BASES

AUG 12 1944

Six Freighters and Two Airfields Hit in Raid Near Philippines.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Saturday, Aug. 12—(AP) American planes, in a double-barrelled strike at Halmahera island, southern guardian of the Philippines, sank or damaged six freighters and plastered two of the enemy's main air bases, headquarters reported today.

The aerial arrow toward the Philippines also struck a new objective when patrol planes bombed and seriously damaged a 2,000-ton freighter near the Talaud islands, within 200 miles of Mindanao.

Japs Caught in Prade

Australian fighter pilots added another highlight to intensive aerial activity throughout the southwest Pacific area Thursday. They caught approximately 500 Japanese on Prade at the Samate airdrome near Sorong, Northwest Dutch New Guinea, killing many of them as they fled in confusion from the open field.

Four freighters, a coastal vessel and a number of smaller craft were sunk and two other freighters seriously damaged or sunk. The ships ranged from 1,000 to 2,000 tons and the total sunk was approximately 6,000 tons. Wasile bay has been used by the Japanese for concentrating ships.

Heavy units then swept over the Galela and Lolobata airfields, two of the main Japanese airbases on the important island. These two strips, in the northern part of the island, also were prime targets in the two previous heavy American attacks on Halmahera July 27 and August 7.

Headquarters announced that continued mopping up on Biak island, in Geelvink bay off Dutch New Guinea, resulted in a further 210 Japanese killed and 85 captured. The total known Nipponese dead on the island is 4,161.

Yank planes harassed retreating Japanese in the Aitape-Wewak area of British New Guinea. Yesterday's communication announced conclusion of organized Japanese resistance in this region, where the enemy fruitlessly attempted to break Allied encirclement, losing an estimated 18,000 dead and wounded.

Yap Island Hit

Liberator bombers again hit airdromes on Yap island, in the Western Carolines, Thursday with 33 tons of bombs.

The Halmahera strike continued aerial assaults against this barrier, some 300 miles south of the southern Philippines and a barrier to the push to the archipelago.

Three successive night raids on airdromes at Davao, Mindanao, were announced yesterday, the first strike against the Philippines since April, 1942.

The Japanese were caught by surprise as the heavy bombers swept over Davao, most important city in Mindanao, and cascaded their bombs on enemy airdromes. Lights of the city glowed throughout the first raid, last Sunday, and not a shot was fired at the American planes.

Air Phase Of Fight For Isles Opens

General Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, Aug. 11 (AP)—The air phase of the battle for reconquest of the Philippines has begun just as the ground fight for reconquest of Guam ended in triumph.

The first bombing of the Philippines since the fall of Corregidor to the Japanese May 6, 1942, was announced today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, back at headquarters after a historic Pacific war conference with President Roosevelt.

MacArthur gave point proof to President Roosevelt's Pearl Harbor comment on forthcoming offensives by announcing three successive night attacks on airdromes at Davao, on Mindanao in the southern Philippines, by patrolling Liberators.

AUG 12 1944

Pattern Of Attack

(MacArthur's familiar pattern of attack in the past has been to open with night air raids while his bombers are based too far away to have a fighter escort, switch to powerful daylight assaults when fighters can go along, then move in his invasion forces.)

MacArthur's report today also ...ed aerial blasts along the south list.

approaches to the Philippines—Halmahera, off which two enemy fighters were hit; Ceram, where new fires were started in oil stores; Amboina and Boeroe, where airfields were cratered.

MacArthur got in position to open the air war on the Philippines by leapfrogging up the tortuous New Guinea coast. He thus bypassed enemy garrisons which had hoped to make it a long-drawn-out advance.

MACARTHUR MUM ON HONOLULU TALK

General Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, Aug. 11 (A. P.).—Gen. Douglas MacArthur today declined to comment on his conference with President Roosevelt at Honolulu, saying that all information must come from the White House.

The conference came at a time when Gen. MacArthur had concluded his New Guinea campaign, and the Honolulu trip was his first from this sector since he arrived from the Philippines. He now stands poised on the northern tip of New Guinea, 600 miles from Mindanao from which he flew to Australia more than two years ago.

Today he announced the first air attacks on land targets in the Philippines—at Davao in Mindanao—since Corregidor fell.

Changed Pacific Plans Seen In F. D. R. Visit

AUG 12 1944

Washington, Aug. 11 (AP)—Establishment of close cooperation between Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Admiral Chester W. Nimitz in preparation for coming offensives in the western Pacific presumably was one of President Roosevelt's objectives in going to Hawaii.

The fight to split Japan's island empire has reached the point where Nimitz, Pacific area commander, and MacArthur, Southwest Pacific chief, will not much longer work in separate spheres.

Drives About To Converge

The lines of their swift offensives, headed up now in western New Guinea and in Guam and Saipan, are approaching the point of convergence in the Philippines.

In a similar situation in the Solomon Islands a year ago MacArthur met Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr., and, by order of the joint chiefs of staff, himself assumed strategic direction of the successful Solomons-New Guinea drives on Rabaul.

Assignment of their respective roles to Nimitz and MacArthur, and determing positions of leadership was a delicate task which might well call for the prestige of the President himself.

Speculation On Jurisdiction

Speculation has been that MacArthur would, in Guinea-based assault on the Philippines and that Guam would be the jumping-off place for a westward drive by Nimitz.

AUG 12 1944

Once in the Philippines, MacArthur would have command of the doubtlessly prolonged land campaign to reconquer the islands while Nimitz would carry on with amphibious operations elsewhere.

One of these other operations, Nimitz has already said, will be a drive to the coast of China to open up a port and supply route to the Chinese armies. It would appear that this must await at least the partial conquest of the Philippines and establishment of a secure base.

Question Of Strategy

One of the big questions of Pacific strategy, for instance, has been whether the surprising success of the drive across the Central Pacific from Tarawa Island to Guam would lead sooner than previously planned to an attack on Japan itself.

Nimitz, in Guam, stands at a turning point of Pacific strategy: Guam is about 1,500 miles from both the Philippines and Tokyo.

ROOSEVELT PAYS SURPRISE VISIT TO THE ALEUTIANS

FDR Accompanied by Officials Makes Inspection Tour of Installations.

PRAISES ARMED FORCES

'Thrilled and Gratified' by Island's Defenses, President Says.

ALEUTIAN ISLAND BASE, Alaska, Aug. 3—(Delayed) (AP) President Roosevelt paid this Aleutian base a surprise visit today and, in turn, was surprised by what he saw. He said he was thrilled and gratified.

AUG 12 1944

It was the President's first trip to the Aleutians, made on his first Pacific traveling of the war. He came by warship, by way of Honolulu. The chief executive praised members of the armed forces participating in the Aleutian campaign and construction program. He said they had driven out the enemy and had built new military, naval and air bases on once remote, barren islands in an incredibly short time.

Accompanied By Officers

Accompanied by Vice Admiral Frank Jack Fletcher, commander of the north Pacific, the President made a tour of the island's installations.

He expressed a wish that the people back home could see what had been done.

The Japanese, he said, would never again be able to threaten North America with an Alaskan invasion.

Mr. Roosevelt's impromptu remarks were made at an informal lunch at an enlisted men's mess, where he made a noon stop during the inspection tour.

He said he considered some parts of the United States overpopulated and predicted that many soldiers and sailors would seek new homes in Alaska after the war. The territory's great size and known resources, he added, invited settlers.

The President did not discuss any specific war plans for this or any other theaters. Neither did he comment on the national political campaign, in which he is the national Democratic nominee for a fourth term.

All of those eating lunch with the chief executive—except the Navy base commandant and the Army post commander—were enlisted soldiers, sailors and marines. A proportionate number of Negroes were mixed throughout the long mess hall.

The chatty, smiling commander-in-chief ate from the Navy regulation, metal serving tray. He was seated between two youthful privates first class—a red-haired marine from Arkansas and a trim soldier from New Jersey.

William Goff, the 19-year-old marine whose father is foreman of the ice company at Batesville, Ark., conversed easily with the President, in response to questions.

The 20-year-old soldier, Ferdinand Rutscher of Irvington, N. J., provided and lighted an after-lunch cigarette for the President. He grinned happily when his flint lighter worked on the first try.

Commends Army Nurse

Another member of the armed forces singled out by the President during the day for special notice was a navy nurse. She was Lieut. (jg) Margaret Richards whose family, formerly of Baltimore, now lives at Woodside, Long Island, N. Y.

Mr. Roosevelt stopped the line of inspection tour automobiles in front of the Navy dispensary, where the blue-uniformed nurses stood at attention with other officers and men of the hospital unit.

Lieutenant Richards, called to the side of the President's automobile, answered questions concerning operation of the dispensary.

The President asked her if she was happy here and she said she was.

Mr. Roosevelt and his party, which included Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of staff to the commander-in-chief, came north in one of the Navy's cruisers.

The Presidential party, in addition to Admiral Leahy, included Vice Admiral Ross T. McIntire, the President's physician; Major General Edwin M. Watson, military aide, and Rear Admiral Wilson Brown, naval aide.

Mr. Roosevelt, wearing a gray suit and tan shirt and sweater with black navy tie, came ashore shortly after tugs had brought the cruiser alongside the dock. His brown fedora hat was turned up in front.

His black Scotch terrier, Fala, was along.

The Aleutians gave the visitors a sample of weather as usual, of the milder sort common at this season—fog and rain, driven by shifting winds and williwaw gusts; with occasional fleeting sunshine and glimpses of blue sky.

AUG 12 1944

Ignores Rain

Ignoring the ... and the mud underfoot, the armed forces turned out in the biggest dress-up day, of Navy blue and Army brown, in the history of the base.

30.24— 17925

history of the base.

Officially the President's visit was a secret. But soldiers and sailors, instructed to police up their areas, guessed several days ago that some one of unusual importance was coming.

Some speculated it would be Mrs. Roosevelt.

The doubt was removed for the thousands of soldiers, sailors, marines and civilian workers as they lined the roads and watched the President's car pass by.

Mr. Roosevelt left the warship at 10 a. m. and did not finish his tour until 4 p. m., six hours later. Except for the time out for lunch, he was on the go practically the entire time.

At the end, he passed before long ranks of white and Negro troops, drawn up at attention in warehouses of the Army quartermaster's depot. The warehouses protected the soldiers from the rain.

No newspaper reporters accompanied the President's party.

War correspondents, on assignment with Admiral Fletcher's North Pacific force, were allowed to follow the inspection tour and attend the lunch. Secret service men said, unofficially, that the President was just on a vacation.

Roosevelt's Fish—Who Caught 'Em?

Aluetian Island Base, Alaska, Aug. 3 (AP—Delayed)—About those fish the President did or didn't catch here.

One "scuttlebutt" (navy for rumor) was that he caught them in the harbor, fishing from the fantail of his cruiser.

Another was that he fished but failed and that the fish—some fine salmon caught in an inlet—were sent aboard as a consolation.

For... Latvian President Dies

New York, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Nazi-controlled Riga radio announced tonight the death of Albert Kviesis, 62, President of Latvia from 1920 to 1936. The broadcast did not say when Kviesis had died but said the Latvian Government had decided yesterday to honor him with a state funeral.

BULLETINS

New York, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Stockholm newspaper Svenska Dagbladet, as reported to the Office of War Information, said today that French Gascoigne Partisans were approaching Bordeaux from "all sides," and that fall of the city was "expected shortly unless the Germans decide to send reinforcements."

Antonescu Quits, Report

New York, Aug. 11 (AP)—Reports from Berne, the British radio said today, say that Premier Ion Antonescu of Romania has resigned. There was no confirmation.

Japs Execute Three U. S. Prisoners Accused of Killing Police Officer

Seaman From Brooklyn and Two Marine Non-commissioned Officers Put to Death After Attempted Escape.

Washington, Aug. 11 (A. P.).—Three fleeing American prisoners, charged by the Japanese with killing a police officer, were recaptured, tried and executed, the Navy said today.

The executed prisoners were two Marine Corps non-commissioned officers and a Navy seaman. The Navy said they were slain by the Japanese on July 31, 1943.

They were Seaman Frank Meringolo, Sergt. Joe B. Chastain and Corporal Victor Paliotti.

The International Red Cross relayed through Switzerland to the State Department and the Navy information from the Japanese Foreign Office that the three Americans had been held prisoners of war in a camp in Manchuria.

The Navy said it was informed that the Red Cross had been told by the Japanese Foreign Office that:

AUG 12 1944

"The night of June 21, 1943, the prisoners escaped camp and fled in the direction of Russia. On July 2, 1943, they accosted a police inspector and endeavored to obtain food, stating they were starving. The inspector questioned them and they tried to pass as German aviators, explaining that their plane had crashed. "The inspector and two Mongols went with the men to the scene of the supposed accident. En route, according to the Japanese version, one of the prisoners killed the inspector with a kitchen knife and another seriously wounded one of the Mongols.

"The other Mongol fled and later succeeded in arresting the prisoners with the aid of local inhabitants. The three prisoners were tried before a military court and were condemned to death.

Meringolo, 21 years old, was the son of Demetrio Meringolo, 570 East Second street, Brooklyn. He elisted in the Navy in December, 1940, and was listed as a prisoner of war on March 2, 1943, after having been listed as missing since May 11, 1942.

Chastain, 44, the son of Sterling Chastain of Waco, Tex., enlisted in the Marines at Dallas, in April, 1939 and has been listed as a prisoner of war since June 18, 1943.

Paliotti, 23, son of Mrs. Julia Paliotti, Cranston, R. I., enlisted in the Marines in Denver, Col., in September, 1939, and has been listed as a prisoner since June 22, 1943.

Children Razing Tokyo Houses

By Morris J. Harris

[Chief of the former Associated Press Bureau at Shanghai and long time resident of Japan]

Washington, Aug. 11 (AP)—When Tokyo's war lords begin telling the children to tear down the houses preparatory to American air raids, they know they're whipped.

"Tens of thousands of homes" in the Mikado's capital have been destroyed by Japanese school children "bringing one of the greatest levelings since the earthquake of 1923," says a Tokyo broadcast aimed at Berlin and overheard by United States Government monitors.

Tokyo Is Firetrap

By and large Tokyo is a firetrap, notwithstanding its vaunted "modernization" since the great quake of 1923. Burning Japanese homes constituted the major damage in Tokyo from that earthquake.

So the school children have been turned into demolition crews to cut paths of open ground through the capital's closely built structures, hoping to lessen the toll American fire bombs will take when they start falling like leaves.

Tokyo is in a shape of a giant wheel. The hub is the Imperial Palace, a collection of inflammable structures. From there to the rim, most streets run in almost any and all directions, narrow and crooked.

These streets, thousands of them narrower than many of our alleys, are lined with pine wood and paper structures, the homes of Tokyo's millions.

RUSSIANS NAME ENVOY TO ATTEND PEACE SESSIONS

AUG 12 1944

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—Ambassador Andrei A. Gromyko was appointed today to be Russia's delegate to the world peace agency talks here late this month. This completed the cast for a diplomatic performance which may greatly influence the course of world peace for generations to come.

The selection of Gromyko instead of some one more prominent in Moscow's inner councils led to speculation that the Soviet foreign office itself intends to keep in closest touch with the talks. This conclusion was based on the belief that had the Russian government intended its representative to make a series of independent decisions here, Foreign Affairs Commissar Molotov probably would have chosen one of his top home officials, such as vice commissar Litvinov or Vice Commissar Vishinski.

Gromyko is regarded as a hard-working young diplomat who generally keeps in most intimate touch with Moscow on all problems involving his responsibilities in this country.

Those with whom he will meet in the old Georgetown mansion, Dumbarton Oaks, where the exploratory conversations on how to preserve world peace will be held, are Undersecretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., for the United States; Sir Alexander Cadogan, permanent undersecretary of foreign affairs for Britain; and Dr. Victor Hoo, political vice minister of foreign affairs for China.

Each of these men will be accompanied by a staff of advisors and in the sessions which probably will be opened by Secretary of State Hull August 21, they may rely heavily on work of their assistants.

The talks are aimed at a tentative agreement among the big four powers on the form of organization which would try to maintain permanent peace.

AUG 12 1944

U. S. SEIZES 103 MID-WEST TRUCK FIRMS

25,000 Strikers Ordered Back To Jobs As ODT Takes Control

Four-day strike at General Motors is called off.....Page 3

Washington, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Government tonight seized 103 mid-Western truck companies embroiled in a strike of 25,000 drivers, established a Federal manager, and ordered all the men back to work immediately to avert a traffic bottleneck that was rapidly endangering movement of military supplies.

President Roosevelt ordered the seizure at 5.30 P. M. He assigned the Office of Defense Transportation to conduct the $50,000,000 segment of the truck industry until the controversy is settled and said the weight of the army would be behind the ODT in its task.

The strikers quit work last week after the companies refused to pay a 7-cents-an-hour wage increase ordered by the War Labor Board. The operators said they couldn't afford it unless they got financial relief from the Government.

Effective At Midnight

Col. J. Monroe Johnson, director of the ODT, said his organization was taking over actual operations at midnight and from that time on the men would be paid the authorized wage boost. Back pay from November, when the WLB order was handed down, will be given to the drivers only from the future net operating revenue of each company, Colonel Johnson said.

The ODT chief named Ellis T. Longenecker, of the highway transport division, as Federal manager of the truck companies, which handle 5,000,000 tons of freight annually in Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri and parts of Wisconsin and Oklahoma.

William H. Davis, chairman of the WLB, informed President Roosevelt of the non-compliance by the operators and said transport of material for 300 major war plants was jeopardized.

Order Of Seizure

The army said it had been able to get by, up to now, but Mr. Roosevelt in his order of seizure remarked:

"There are threatened interruptions of the operation of transportation systems as a result of a labor disturbance. . . . The war effort will be unduly impeded or delayed by such interruptions. . . . It has become necessary in the national defense to take possession and assume control for needful and desirable purposes connected with the prosecution of the war."

The ODT thereupon wired union leaders to get the men back on the job "with all speed possible" and Mr. Longenecker left Washington immediately to set up headquarters in the Metropolitan Life Building, Minneapolis. The telegrams were sent to Daniel Tobin, president of the AFL Teamsters' Brotherhood, and Dexter L. Lewis, director of the Central States Drivers' Council.

Telegram To Companies

To the trucking companies, Johnson sent this telegram:

"By order of the President and on behalf of the United States I have today issued an order taking possession and control as of 12.01 A. M., August 12, 1944, of your motor carrier transportation system and of property used or useful in the operation thereof. Pending receipt of operations orders placed in the mail today you should continue to manage and operate or resume operations if possible in the usual manner. Operations orders will contain further directions.

"On behalf of the Government and armed forces I bespeak the full and hearty cooperation of both management and labor in the continuance or resumption of transportation service so sorely needed at this time to avoid imperiling an earlier conclusion of the war."

Certain Of Work

Colonel Johnson said each company would be returned to private operation as it complied with the War Labor Board wage order.

He said he was certain the strikers would report back to work promptly and would "assist the Federal manager in promptly and efficiently moving the vast tonnage of essential freight in the mid-West area."

In Chicago Major Alex Baxter, chief of the highway branch, Army Transport Corps, Sixth Transport Zone, said his men would continue to stand by in ODT offices in this area.

"The soldiers," Major Baxter said, "will advise ODT officials what should be moved. They have been ordered to remain in these offices, at least until after a conference of army and ODT officials tomorrow."

AUG 12 1944

SENATE APPROVES 'STATE RIGHTS' IN RECONVERSION ACT

Republicans and Southern Democrats Pass Measure by 55 to 19.

KILGORE ACT REJECTED

New Agency Set Up on Baruch Plan Under 'Surveillance' of Congress

AUG 12 1944

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11—(AP) With a Republican-southern Democratic coalition in command, the Senate passed overwhelmingly tonight a "states rights" post-war reconversion bill after rejecting, 49 to 25, the Murray-Kilgore measure setting up Federal standards of unemployment compensation. The vote for passage was 55 to 19.

The approved measure, sponsored by Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the Finance committee, sets up an Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion under a presidentially appointed director to co-ordinate planning for the gigantic switch back to a peacetime economy.

It embraces a provision extending post-war unemployment compensation coverage to 3,500,000 employes of the government, in addition to the millions now covered, but leaves the fixing of rates to the states. Under it the government would reimburse states for payments to ex-Federal workers and set up a Federal fund to guarantee the solvency of state unemployment systems.

The rejection of the Murray-Kilgore bill, setting up a much broader office of war mobilization and adjustment, came on an indirect vote by which the Senate substituted provisions of the George bill for sections of the rival measure which included the Federal jobless pay plan.

Offered to Cut Benefits

In an eleventh-hour effort to overcome opposition, the Murray-Kilgore bill proponents reduced from $35 to $25 a week the proposed maximum benefits payable under its terms.

But, with the votes in their pockets, and the White House keeping hands off, the opponents of the measure were in no mood for a compromise.

The George bill now goes to the House for action with indications that it will be referred to the Ways and Means committee for consideration early next week.

It provides for a demobilization setup which sponsors say carries out recommendations of the Baruch-Hancock report drafted at the suggestion of President Roosevelt. The director of the agency would work with an advisory board of 12 members, three each from industry, labor, agriculture and the public.

A joint committee of Congress would maintain a "continuous surveillance" over the demobilization program.

Absent from the bill were A.F.L.-C.I.O. proposals under which workers would be given six months vocational education at government expense with payments for subsistence while going to school.

Also missing were labor-proposed regional and industry advisory councils which Republicans said would mean "another NRA."

Barkley Backs Bill

Joining in the vote for final passage of the modified George bill, Majority Leader Barkley (Ky.) deplored a parliamentary situation which did not permit a direct vote on the Murray-Kilgore bill itself.

"I had hoped I could vote affirmatively for the Murray-Kilgore bill," he said. "I hope the George bill will be amended and expanded in the House to make it satisfactory—legislation that will amply provide for dealing with the unemployment problem."

Sharing Barkley's view that the George bill was inadequate, Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) declared that nevertheless it "is a step in a very long journey towards the reconversion of the United States to a peace time basis."

The fact that advocates of the Murray-Kilgore bill lost, he said, "does not mean that the philosophy" behind their fight "has been abandoned."

Senator Hatch (D-N.M.) retorted that "the philosophy of that bill is being killed now."

The voting started after white-haired George told the Senate the main issue was whether the Senate wanted to "preserve the integrity of the states."

Among those voting for the bill on final passage were Senators Maloney (D), and Danaher (R), of Connecticut.

AUG 12 1944

SENATE GROUP TO INVESTIGATE WAR SUPPLIES

Mead Committee Seeks to Determine if There Is a Materiel Scarcity.

GETS BASSIE-KAPLAN REPORT

Will Question Nelson and Clay, Then Take Up Issue of Surplus Property Disposal.

Washington, Aug. 11 (A. P.).—Senator Mead (D.-N. Y.), chairman of the Senate War Investigating Committee, disclosed plans today for an inquiry to determine "whether or not there is a scarcity of supply of war material for the armed forces."

He told the Senate that the committee had obtained a copy of an unpublished section of the War Production Board's monthly report, prepared by Lewis Bassie and Irving Kaplan who later sought to resign when their summary was withheld.

He said that Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the WPB, and Major-Gen. Lucius D. Clay, WPB director of material, would be questioned at a closed hearing next Wednesday.

Senator Mead said open hearings would follow Thursday and Friday on the general question of surplus property disposals.

The Bassie-Kaplan section of the WPB report was held up, officials said last week, for fear that indications of a surplus of some materials might be misinterpreted as meaning that no shortages exist.

Mead Criticizes Service Chiefs.

In his report to the Senate Mr. Mead said that to the extent that the armed forces contract for supplies in quantities greater than are needed "they not only increase the cost of war, but they also impair and delay our conversion to peace.

"The committee believes that a reasonable amount of over-purchasing provides insurance against the possibility of 'too little too late,' but it also wishes to emphasize that reasonable balance is required."

While the nation cannot stop production on the "theory that the war with Germany will be over within a few months," Mr. Mead continued, "we can and must take every precaution to limit purchases to those articles for which there is some reasonable expectancy of their being required and used."

Asserting that while there is a lack of such items as heavy artillery, heavy trucks and bombs and other important types of material, "and we need 50,000 to 200,000 workers very badly right now," he said this constituted a small percentage of the work force.

AUG 12 1944

"We must do all that we can to provide the workers, but the military opposition to the use of material clearly surplus in areas not declared to be actually short of manpower is unjustified."

Col. Eddy Confirmed as Envoy

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP).—The Senate confirmed today the nomination of Colonel William A. Eddy, of New Hampshire, of the Marine Corps, as special envoy and minister plenipotentiary to Saudi, Arabia.

Navy to Launch 2 Cruisers and Carrier at Once

AUG 12 1944

Ships Built at Philadelphia Displace 53,000 Tons; Will Be Named Aug. 20

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11 (AP).—The 27,000-ton aircraft carrier Antietam and the 13,000-ton cruisers Chicago and Los Angeles will be launched in a triple ceremony at the Philadelphia Navy Yard Sunday, Aug. 20, Rear Admiral M. F. Draemel announced today.

Naming of the three fighting ships, totaling more than 53,000 displacement tons, will mark the largest launching of warships at one time and place in American history and probably in the world, the Navy reported.

The three vessels, built simultaneously in neighboring drydocks, will be named in consecutive ceremonies which will take the place of the customary launchings in which ships slide down the ways. Water will be let into the drydocks beforehand, and the ships will be floated out later.

Both the Chicago and Los Angeles were paid for by the war bonds purchased by residents of the respective cities. The Antietam, first aircraft carrier ever built at the Navy Yard here, will be named by Mrs. Mildred E. Tydings, wife of the senior United States Senator from Maryland. The vessel is named after the bloody battle of Antietam, Maryland, in 1862, in which 5,000 were killed and 20,000 were wounded in one day. The carrier will be the second United States ship named Antietam.

The Chicago, third Naval vessel to bear the name, will be named by Mrs. Edward J. Kelly, wife of Chicago's mayor. The new cruiser, mounting a main battery of eight inch guns, will replace the 10,000 tonner of the same name which was torpedoed by the Japanese while convoying reinforcements to Guadalcanal in January, 1943.

The Los Angeles, second surface ship to be so named, will be sponsored by Mrs. Fletcher Bowron, wife of the mayor of Los Angeles.

Roosevelt to Talk On Radio This Evening

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP).—President Roosevelt will broadcast from the Bremerton Navy Yard, Seattle, Wash., tomorrow at 5 p. m. Seattle time (8 p. m. Eastern war time the White House announced tonight.

Disclosure that the President is to speak from Bremerton followed within a few hours publication of delayed dispatches revealing that he had been at an Aleutian base.

His last broadcast was made July 20 from California, at a naval base he inspected. At that time he formally accepted the nomination as the Democratic party's candidate for President for a fourth term.

There was no indication in the White House announcement of the subject which the President might discuss tomorrow.

CONFEREES DECIDE TO RELAX CURB ON NEWS FOR TROOPS

Back Voting Law Change to Allow Party Propaganda in Word and Picture.

Washington, Aug. 11 (A. P.).—Relaxation of tight official controls of the news, pictures and speeches which the armed forces may read, see and hear appeared in prospect today.

Interested Senators and representatives of the services agreed on an amendment to the soldier voting law as applied to political propaganda. Congressional action will be pressed.

In the latest Army application of the law, the "Official Guide to the Army Air Force" was barred from sale at post exchanges because it carries a pen portrait of President Roosevelt captioned "Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy."

Under strict application of the soldier voting law enacted last winter to prohibit the distribution of political propaganda through official channels, the Army has banned circulation within its jurisdiction of various newspapers, movies, books and speeches.

Agreement for a relaxing amendment was reached today at a conference among Senator Taft (R.-Ohio), Senator Green (D.-R. I.) and Army and Navy officers.

Difficulties Ironed Out.

Both Senators agreed after the conference that virtually all of the difficulties encountered thus far by the Army and Navy in interpreting the bill's limitations had been ironed out.

Senator Green, who has introduced an amendment to clarify the provisions governing dissemination of political propaganda overseas, said that a Senate legislative draftsman attended the conference and went to work immediately to perfect his amendment.

Senators Taft and Green, who have represented in general the Republican and the Democratic thinking on the subject, said that they were in agreement and that their joint view was being written out for inclusion in the Green amendment. Representatives of the Army and Navy, they said, "had no objection to our agreement and we feel that most of the difficulties are taken care of."

The only limitation to be placed on the circulation of newspapers, magazines, books, &c., is that whenever transportation or other difficulties interfere with full distribution, the choice of publicationss shall be made impartially by methods devised by the Army or Navy.

AUG 12 1944

No Limit Otherwise.

Senators Green and Taft, who sponsored the present legal restriction, said there is no limit otherwise on the number or kind of newspapers and publications of general circulation. British newspapers, they said, also could be read by overseas men and women, if available, under the amendment.

The selections of films likewise was left for the services to work out, on an impartial basis. Senator Taft said they now were selecting four of every six feature films which came out weekly.

Political speeches also may be broadcast overseas but the time must be divided equally between major opponents, Taft said. This provision of the law would not be touched in the amendment.

Senator Taft thought that the use of President Roosevelt's picture on the cover of the new Air Forces booklet, over which considerable controversy developed in the past two days, was "out" under the proposed amendment.

Would Leave It to Services.

Senator Green, on the other hand, thought that it was up to the Army and Navy to interpret the act on issues like that.

Major-Gen. Alexander D. Surles, chief of Army Public Relations, said that the distribution of those copies of the Air Forces book bearing the Roosevelt picture and caption is being held up pending legal clarification, because "there is a question as to whether the picture violates Title V (of the soldier vote law) now that the President is a candidate."

AUG 12 1944

Gen. Surles added that it was "difficult" for the Army to interpret the section, which contains a prohibition against Federal-financed political material designed to affect a national election.

Legion Petition Seeks Ban on 30.24—17927

War Criminals

AUG 121944

New York Delegates Urge Sanctions Against Any Country Offering Haven

BUFFALO, Aug. 11 (AP).—The New York Department of the American Legion today petitioned the United Nations to declare and enforce economic sanctions against any nation which gives sanctuary to "international war criminals" and refuses to deliver them to the United Nations for trial.

In a resolution adopted at its twenty-sixth annual state convention the Legion described the "criminals", as "Hitler and his Nazi and Fascist partners, cohorts, satellites and hirelings," and declared they should be prosecuted and appropriately punished as an aid to lasting peace.

Before adjourning the abbreviated war-time convention until tomorrow the Legion heard pleas for compulsory military training from representatives of both the Army and Navy.

"We know from experiences gained in this war that the youth of the country would have been far better off had they had a year of military training in their late teens," asserted Lieutenant Colonel Raymond J. Kelly, former national commander of the Legion and representative of Under Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson at the convention.

Commander J. L. Collis, assistant director of public relations for the Navy, added his indorsement, declaring the country must "eradicate distrust of armed forces by creation of a citizen Army and Navy."

The success of American participation in world problems after the war "depends almost entirely upon our strength here at home," Lieutenant General Hugh A. Drum, commanding general of the New York Guard, told the convention, adding that care of veterans is a "very important" phase of the home front program.

The legionaires adopted a resolution which recommended a Congressional investigation of New York City radio station WMCA's alleged refusal to broadcast an address by State Senator Frederic Coudert jr. to the New York County American Legion "relative to the dangers inherent in certain subversive activities in the United States."

War Risk Voyage Bonus In Pacific Zone Boosted

Washington, Aug. 11 (AP)—An increase in war risk voyage bonuses paid to merchant seamen on ships operating in the Pacific war zone was ordered today by the Maritime War Emergency Board, effective August 25.

The bonuses, payable to masters, officers and crews on vessels operating east of 136 degrees west longitude, are boosted from 25 per cent. of salaries with a $30 monthly minimum to 33⅓ per cent. of salaries with a $40 minimum.

The board also announced it was considering establishment of "a world-wide bonus floor in areas of minimum risk during the latter stages of the war and initial stages of the peace."

AUG 121944

1800 Nazi Prisoners On Short Rations

Stockton, Cal., Aug. 11 (A. P.)—Eighteen hundred German prisoners of war remained on short rations today after 500 of them had staged a strike to protest against the lengthening of their work day to 9 from 8 hours at the Stockton Army ordnance depot.

Major Arthur E. Cook, Army public relations officer, said many of the strikers had agreed to resume work, but all would be kept under discipline until everyone receded from the strike position.

SHITARA SISTERS AWAIT SENTENCE

Trio Convicted Of Conspiracy To Commit Treason

AUG 121944

Denver, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Shitara sisters, Japanese-American women branded by a United States District Court jury as conspirators who plotted to commit treason, waited in the Denver county jail today for Judge J. Foster Symes to pass sentence on them.

A jury of men deliberated behind locked doors for ten hours then voted to convict Mrs. Tsuruko (Toots) Wallace, 35; Mrs. Florence (Flo) Shivze Otani, 33, and Mrs. Billie Shitara Tanigoshi, 32, on the second count of an indictment charging treason and conspiracy to commit treason. The Government alleged they aided in the escape of two German prisoners of war.

Acquitted On Treason Count

The women, who had been evacuated from Inglewood, Cal., to the Granada Relocation Center at Amache, Col., were acquitted of the treason charge, under which they had faced a possible death sentence.

Now the maximum punishment that may be imposed upon them is two years in Federal prison and $10,000 fine. This was the third treason case of this war.

Judge Symes did not indicate when he will sentence the sisters. He allowed Defense Attorney Kenneth Robinson three days in which to file a new-trial motion. Whether the convictions will be appealed was undecided.

Robinson speculated that the verdict was a "compromise."

"It would look like the jury felt some punishment should be meted out and took the only course open to mete it out," he said.

Toots Asks "How Come?"

The sisters, two of whom are mothers, received the verdict without flinching. Then Mrs. Wallace, wife of a white shipyard worker in California, demanded:

"How come they find us guilty of conspiracy when we are not guilty of treason?"

The verdict brought only this observation from District Attorney Thomas J. Morrissey: "The jury has spoken."

Symes told the jury its verdict was "very fair."

Back to internment at Camp Campbell, Kentucky, have gone the two prisoners who the Government said were helped in their break last October from the Trinidad (Col.) prisoner of war inclosure by the Shitara sisters. The prisoners—Heinrich Haider and Herman August Loescher, both 31, who foguht for Rommel in North Africa until their capture—testified for the Government in the four-day trial.

Prisoners Try Hara Kiri

Denver, Aug. 11 (AP)—Lieut. Col D. H. Kelly, executive officer at Fitzsimons General Hospital, said three Japanese prisoners of war who were being treated at the institution for tuberculosis attempted to commit hara kiri today.

"They cut their wrists, necks and stomachs," said Colonel Kelly, formerly a Des Moines (Iowa) physician. "However, we stopped them before each finished his job and we believe each will recover." Two are non-commissioned officers and one a private.

It was the first disclosure that Japanese prisoners are confined at the hospital.

Three Ask Delay of Honors

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP).—Three Marine Corps battalion commanders have temporarily refused Silver Stars which they won for their work in the capture of the Marshall Islands. The men—Lieutenant Colonels Walfried H. Fromhold, of Pensacola, Fla.; Donn C. Hart, of Grand Forks, N. D., and Clair W. Shisler, of Canton, Ohio—have asked that presentation of the awards be delayed until the men they commanded receive theirs.

GOLDSTEIN WITHDRAWS WRIT AGAINST FISH

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 — (AP) Former Magistrate Joseph Goldstein today withdrew a summons Charging Representive Hamilton Fish (R-NY) with disorderly conduct.

Goldstein said the withdrawal was made because the summons had only local jurisdiction and added he would apply to a U. S. commissioner for a warrant for Fish.

The summons had been obtained on the grounds that a threat of violence to Jews was implied in a newspaper interview which quoted Fish as saying it would be better for Jews to split their vote instead of voting solidly for President Roosevelt.

Ga. Anti-Roosevelts Form GOP Coalition

Atlanta, Aug. 11 (AP)—Anti-Roosevelt forces, effecting a coalition which one spokesman said would give dissatisfied Democrats a ticket to support, offered Georgia voters today twin slates of Presidential electors and promised to "spend considerable money" in the forthcoming campaign.

The tickets, composed identically of six Republicans and six Democrats, were accepted for the November general election ballot by Secretary of State John B. Wilson under the tags "Republican" and "Independent Democrat." The regular Democratic entry, supporting the Roosevelt-Truman ticket, was the only other group admitted to the ballot.

Calls Action Unprecedented

"The Republican party at the present time is unrepresented on the ticket in Georgia," declared Republican National Committeeman Wilson Williams, who said Wilson's action was unprecedented.

The Republican group certified by Wilson, a Democrat, was headed by Clint Hager, former State Chairman, and Mayor R. G. Foster, of Wadley, who said he was "chairman of the real Republican party in Georgia," although his faction had been denied recognition by the party's national convention.

After Wilson rejected a slate offered by Williams' bi-racial group, Hager said the action meant "Negro leadership is out." His group then altered its list of electors to conform name-for-name with one filed earlier by the Independent Democrats, an unpledged faction that opposed Roosevelt in 1940.

GOP 'Peace Forces' Explained

AUG 121944

Washington, Aug. 11 (AP)—Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.) said today that the term "peace forces" employed in the Republican platforms' foreign plank "means whatever force—whether moral, economic, diplomatic or military—may be necessary to keep the peace whenever such emergency arises."

Vandenberg, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the principal draftsman of his party's foreign policy declaration, asserted in a statement:

"I have never been able to understand the charge of ambiguity which has been made against the language in the Republican national platform which pledges the use of 'peace forces' by a post-war international organization to dispel military aggression.

No Ambiguity, He Says

"I believe that all of us who participated in writing the pledge would concur in the definition of the phrase. 'Peace forces' means whatever force—whether moral, economic, diplomatic or military—may be necessary to keep the peace whenever such emergency arises.

"It is an infinitely broader term than 'military forces.' It recognizes that peace rests upon many sanctions other than force. But it ultimately includes military force.

"'Peace forces' are all the 'forces' necessary to keep the 'peace.' Nothing could be plainer. We recognize 'force' as a last resort. We decline the militarist conception that it is the only resort."

Roosevelt-Willkie Parley Plan Reported

New York, Aug. 11 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie, 1940 Republican Presidential nominee, has been invited to discuss foreign affairs with President Roosevelt, two New York newspapers say.

The Times and the Herald Tribune reported that the President wrote a letter about July 13 inviting Willkie to a discussion.

Asked to confirm it Willkie said "no comment."

Wallace Job Report

AUG 121944

Washington, Aug. 11 (AP)—An associate of Vice-President Wallace said today Wallace had been told by President Roosevelt that an important Government post will be available to him if the Roosevelt-Truman ticket is elected in November.

Wallace declined to comment or to indicate whether he would accept.

At the same time friends said there had been no change in his plans to campaign for Mr. Roosevelt's reelection.

Earlier in the week, Senator Pepper (D., Fla.) told an interviewer that Wallace would make "several talks" during the campaign.

Post-War News Seen Broadcast in Facsimile

Television, FM Also Discussed at U. S.-Industry Meeting

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP).—A State Department committee met with representatives of telecommunications industries today in an attempt to reach agreement on questions with which the government will deal at forthcoming international communications conferences.

The State Department's announcement said that short-wave broadcasting was the chief problem discussed, but attention also was given to the future of television and frequency modulation broadcasting.

A prediction that facsimile broadcasting will be among the "phenomenal advances in science" to come out of the war was made at the meeting by George Henry Payne, vice-president and director of Finch Telecommunications Company and a former Federal Communications Commissioner.

Asserting that facsimile will supplement, rather than supplant, the newspaper and radio, Mr. Payne declared: "Through facsimile a man will receive a narrow strip of paper fed from a small transmitter attached to his radio, carrying the news of the moment, instantaneously transmitted hours in advance of newspaper or radio reporting."

Diary Of The War

AUG. 12, 1944 (AP).

American troops thrust north from Le Mans yesterday to close a 33-mile gap through which some 100,000 Germans were reported retreating.

Three other American armored thrusts were:

Toward Chartres, 45 miles from Paris.

East toward Chateaudun and the open country between the Seine and Loire rivers south of Paris.

Toward Tours to guard the American right flank.

The Americans also crossed the Loire and drove ten miles south of Nantes.

—o—

On the northern end of the Russian front the Third Baltic Army advanced fifteen and one half miles on a 43-mile front.

Moscow said Soviet troops had expanded their Vistula river front 100 miles south of Warsaw and made further gains northeast of Warsaw just below the drive on East Prussia.

—o—

In daylight yesterday American and British bombers hammered German dumps and transport routes behind the French battle front. Nearly 500 United States Fortresses and Liberators attacked Brest.

AUG 121944

In its second day the offensive by Polish troops on the Adriatic sector of the Italian front gained the Cesano river 17 miles from Pesaro, eastern anchor of the Germans' Gothic Line.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill arrived in Italy for the first visit to that front.

—o—

The 20th United States Bomber Command, reporting on Thursday's Superfortress strikes, said medium flights of the sky giants registered good results. Three of the Superfortresses were listed as missing. Another was forced down in friendly territory.

One target was Japan's chief oil supply center, the Pladjoe refinery at Palembang, Sumatra. The other was the Nagasaki shipbuilding district on Kyushu Island, about 600 miles southwest of Tokyo.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz reported yesterday that American land-based army bombers pounded Iwo Island, 600 miles from Japan proper, hitting airfields and other targets.

—o—

A Chinese army spokesman at Chungking said the Japanese were pouring reinforcements into the Philippines and Formosa and were believed to be strengthening their defenses in the Canton region against a possible American landing on the China coast.

The Chinese in Hunan province recaptured Pingsiang, about 100 miles north of Hengyang, and drove the Japanese westward 30 miles to the outskirts of Liling. Chinese forces continued to attack in the Hengyang region.

In China's Yunnan province, in the Burma border area, the Chinese repulsed heavy Japanese counterattacks on Sungshan Mountain and at besieged Tengchung.

Chinese troops, operating with Burmese levies, have advanced seven miles south of captured Myitkyina, in north Burma.

AUG 121944

LEAD DAY RUSSIAN

LONDON, AUG.11-(AP)-RUSSIAN FORCES ON THE SOUTHERN ESTONIAN FRONT BROKE THROUGH WEST AND SOUTHWEST OF PSKOV FOR A DISTANCE OF 15 1/2 MILES ON A FRONT 43 MILES WIDE IN A RENEWED OFFENSIVE, THE SOVIET COMMUNIQUE SAID TONIGHT.

AUG 121944

UM446PEW

RED TROOPS CAPTURED THE TOWN OF PETSERI, A DISTRICT CENTER OF ESTONIA, AND MORE THAN 200 POPULATED PLACES. PETSERI IS A ROAD JUNCTION 140 MILES NORTHEAST OF RIGA.

WEST OF KRUSTPILS RED TROOPS TOOK 50 POPULATED PLACES, AND ON THE FRONT BEYOND BIALYSTOK TROOPS TO THE NORTH AND NORTHWEST, DRIVING TOWARD EAST PRUSSIA, SEIZED 150 MORE COMMUNITIES.

OTHER RUSSIAN TROOPS THREW BACK GERMAN COUNTERATTACKS BY INFANTRY AND TANKS AND CONTINUED THE BATTLE TO EXPAND THEIR BRIDGEHEAD ON THE LEFT BANK OF THE VISTULA RIVER SOUTH OF WARSAW.

EAST OF WARSAW NEW ADVANCES WERE CHALKED UP BY THE RED FORCES FIGHTING THEIR WAY FORWARD NORTH AND NORTHWEST OF SIEDLCE. IN THIS AREA 100 POPULATED PLACES WERE TAKEN.

WM457PEW

Insert London Russian (Hercher) xxx long front

RIGA ALREADY IS MENACED BY TWO OTHER SOVIET ARMIES MUCH NEARER THAT CITY. GEN. IVAN BAGRAMIAN'S FIRST BALTIC ARMY, WHICH CUT THE NAZI LANE ESCAPE ROUTES WEST OF RIGA MORE THAN A WEEK AGO, LAST WAS REPORTED ONLY 20 MILES SOUTH OF RIGA. GEN.ANDREI YEREMENKO'S SECOND BALTIC ARMY WAS WITHIN 60 MILES OF RIGA ON THE SOUTHEAST.

AUG 121944

MARSHAL LEONID A.GOVOROV'S LENINGRAD FORCES LAST WERE REPORTED FIGHTING WEST OF NARVA IN NORTHERN ESTONIA, STRIKING ALONG THE BALTIC COAST, BUT MOSCOW HAS NOT MENTIONED THAT SECTOR FOR SOMETIME.

THE GERMAN BROADCAST SAID MASLENNIKOV'S TROOPS WERE SUPPORTED BY HERDS OF TANKS AND HUNDREDS OF YAK AND STORMOVIK PLANES.

AUG 121944

TWO CAPTURED GERMAN GENERALS WERE REPORTED IN MOSCOW DISPATCHES AS SAYING THE NAZI BALTIC FORCES WERE DOOMED, AND THAT THE EVENTUAL BAG MIGHT BE MORE THAN 300,000 MEN. THE GERMANS STILL HAVE A CHANCE TO ESCAPE BY SEA FROM THE PORTS IN ESTONIA AND LATVIA, BUT THUS FAR THERE HAS BEEN NO INDICATION THAT THEY WERE DOING ANYTHING BUT FIGHTING TO THE LAST AS ORDERED BY ADOLF HITLER. SOVIET RECONNAISSANCE PLANES PATROLLED THE BALTIC WATCHING FOR ANY SEAWARD EVACUATION ATTEMPT.

NORTHEAST OF WARSAW, WHERE THE RUSSIANS WERE CLEANING OUT A BIG AREA BETWEEN THE VISTULA AND BUG RIVERS, BERLIN SAID THE RUSSIANS HAD THROWN THREE MORE DIVISIONS INTO BATTLE. SMALL BREACHES IN THE GERMAN LINE WERE ADMITTED, PRESUMABLY ON THE APPROACHES TO LOMZA, GERMAN T STRONGHOLD LINKING THE AXIS LINE BETWEEN WARSAW AND EAST PRUSSIA.

DA415PEW

AUG 121944

LONDON--~~THIRD ADD FIRST (CORRECT)~~ LEAD Insert AERIAL X X X WERE REPORTED.

THE RAF FOLLOWED UP THESE ATTACKS THIS AFTERNOON (D) WITH LANCASTER AND HALIFAX RAIDS ON RAIL YARDS AND A LOCOMOTIVE DEPOT AT LENS, DOUAI AND SOMAIN IN NORTHEASTERN FRANCE, AND THE U-BOAT SHELTERS AT LA PALLICE AND BORDEAUX. THE POSSIBLE REFUGES OF ENEMY SUBMARINES ESCAPING FROM BREST, ST.NAZAIRE AND LORIENT.

THE BERLIN RADIO REPORTED DAYLIGHT FIGHTER BOMBER FORMATIONS OVER SOUTHWESTERN GERMANY, AND SINGLE PLANES OVER NORTHWESTERN GERMANY, FRANCONIA AND BAVARIA.

AUG 121944

WEATHER OVER THE FRENCH BATTLE AREA WAS UNUSUALLY GOOD THIS MORNING AND SHOWED PROMISE OF REMAINING THAT WAY.

IN AERIAL COMBATS YESTERDAY AND LAST NIGHT, 16 GERMAN PLANES WERE DESTROYED, AND 26 OTHERS WERE DESTROYED ON THE GROUND. THE ALLIES LOST 22 PLANES.

AUG 121944

433

FIGHTER BOMBERS HAMMERED INCESSANTLY AT ENEMY RAIL MOVEMENTS FROM ANTWERP, BRUSSELS, METZ, STRASBOURG, THE LITTLE SEDAN AND OTHER POINTS EAST OF THE SEINE.

U.S. EIGHTH ARMY AIR FORCE FIGHTERS ALONE DESTROYED OR DAMAGED 126 LOCOMOTIVES AND MORE THAN 1,200 RAILROAD CARS, MANY OF THEM CARRYING FUEL AND AMMUNITION TO THE FRONT. TACTICAL UNITS NEAR LE MANS DESTROYED 15 TANKS.

U.S.NINTH ARMY AIR FORCE BOMBERS AND FIGHTERS CONCENTRATED ON RAIL BRIDGES AND LINES AROUND PARIS AND TO THE WEST.

MK751AEW

Add London Channel Is xxxxx erstwhile invader.

~~ERSTWHILE INVADER~~. THE ENGLIS ARE NO MORE LIKELY TO LET THEM STAY THERE THAN THE AMERICANS WOULD LET THE JAPANESE LOLL IN THE PHILIPPINES.

AUG 121944

A HEAD-ON ATTACK, HOWEVER, IS REGARDED AT THIS MOMENT AS PROBABLY MORE COSTLY THAN WISE. THE ISLANDS' VALUE FOR RADAR AND ANTI-AIRCRAF ALMOST HAS BEEN WIPED AWAY SINCE THE ALLIES NO LONGER NEED THAT ROUTE FOR FLIGHTS OVER FRANCE.

COMMANDOS RAIDED THE ISLANDS WITHOUT MUCH RESISTANCE, BUT THE DEFENSES HAVE BEEN INTENSIFIED SINCE THAT TIME.

GEN.DWIGHT D.EISENHOWER, SUPREME ALLIED COMMANDER, IS IN A POSITION TO WAIT AND BIDE HIS TIME. HE CAN LET THE PINCH OF A TOTAL BLOCKADE WEAKEN THE DEFENSES AND DEMONSTRATE TO THE DEFENDERS THE FUTILITY OF THEIR POSITION.

AUG 121944

MK7AEW

Add London Petain xxxxxxx secretary

~~CONFERRED THERE YESTERDAY WITH HIS WAR SECRETARY~~, LT. GEN. EUGENE BRIDOUX, AND OTHER CABINET MEMBERS.

THERE HAVE BEEN REPORTS FROM NEUTRAL CAPITALS RECENTLY THAT THE NAZIS HAD MOVED THE VICHY REGIME TO NANCY, NEARER THE GERMAN BORDER, BECAUSE OF THE ALLIED ADVANCE IN FRANCE.

M519AEW

AUG 121944

Add London German broadcast xxxx tanks."

TRANSOCEAN SAID POLISH TROOPS HAD GONE INTO ACTION ON THAT FRONT "TO MAKE UP FOR THE LOSSES OF THE CANADIANS."

THE BERLIN BROADCAST SAID THE CANADIANS AND THEIR POLISH REINFORCEMENTS HAD ADVANCED 3 1/2 MILES THROUGH TERRITORY "COMPLETELY DEVASTATED BY THE ALLIED ARTILLERY BARRAGE OF THE LAST FEW DAYS AND BY ALLIED AIR BOMBARDMENTS."

AMERICANS IN THE LE MANS AREA, 60 MILES TO THE SOUTH, ARE DRIVING NORTHWARD AND NORTHEAST IN AN ATTEMPT TO LINK UP WITH THE CANADIANS IN THE FALAISE AREA, TRANSOCEAN SAID. IT ADDED THAT THREE TO FOUR AMERICAN DIVISIONS PRESSING EASTWARDS FROM THE LE MANS AREA HAD BEEN INTERCEPTED AT MONTFORT, 10 MILES TO THE EAST, AND AT BEAUFAY, A DOZEN MILES TO THE NORTHEAST.

AUG 121944

TRANSOCEAN DECLARED THAT THE HOLD-OUT GERMAN GARRISON AT BREST HAD REPULSED A UNITED STATES TANK ATTACK, KNOCKING OUT 30.

FD945AEW

A&E U.S. Bomber Base (Bonker) xxx 35-ton loot

"HE HEADED FOR US SO FAST HE CRACKED A CYLINDER HEAD," SAID.

LT. CLARENCE E.ROSS OF FRANKLIN, NEB., THE CO-PILOT.

THE CREW WAS GIVEN COLD MILK, FRESH EGGS, HAM, BEER AND SODA POP, AND LT. WARREN SUDDATH OF 2139 ELLIOTT AVE., TOLEDO, OHIO, THE NAVIGATOR PRONOUNCED IT "THE BEST FOOD WE EVER HAD IN THE EUROPEAN THEATER OF OPERATIONS."

AUG 121944

THE OTHER CREW MEMBERS ARE SGTS. THOMAS NORTON, 1822 ALPINE DRIVE, SAN MARINO, CALIF.; WILLIAM R.CAIN, MURRAYVILLE, ILL.; FRED E. LAWYER, FREDONIA, PA.; ALVIE KIRKENDALL, 4234 NORTH 60TH ST., LINCOLN, NEB., AND HERB BARTE, 3505 PERRY AVE., BRONX, N.Y.

TA908PEW

A46

LONDON, AUG 11-(AP)-THE DAILY MAIL, IN A DISPATCH FROM STOCKHOLM, TODAY QUOTED AN AUSTRIAN RESEARCH WORKER WHO FLED FROM GERMANY AS SAYING 250,000 TO 500,000 PERSONS ARE MAKING "SECRET WEAPONS" FOR THE NAZIS.

HE SAID MANY OF THE PERSONS EITHER FIRING THE FLYING BOMBS OR BEING TRAINED FOR THE PURPOSE WERE FORMER AIRMEN GROUNDED FOR LACK OF AIRCRAFT.

AUG 121944

M515AEW

LONDON, AUG 11-(AP)-ADOLF HITLER'S NEWSPAPER VOELKISCHER BEOBACHTER WAS QUOTED TODAY BY THE BERLIN RADIO AS SAYING THE NEW GERMAN SCRAPE-THE-BARREL MANPOWER DECREES WERE ONLY THE BEGINNING AND DECLARED THAT "THIS TIME WE MEAN BUSINESS."

"WITHOUT VENTURING LOOSE PREDICTIONS, IT CAN BE SAID THAT TOTAL MOBILIZATION OF THE GERMAN PEOPLE WILL BARE UNPRECEDENTED RESULTS," THE PAPER SAID IN REFERENCE TO THE SERIES OF DECREES ANNOUNCED YESTERDAY BY NAZI PROPAGANDA MINISTER PAUL JOSEPH GOBBELS.

THE DECREES BANNED NORMAL ENTERTAINMENT, ORDERED DOMESTIC SERVANTS INTO INDUSTRY OR THE ARMY, REQUIRED WOMEN UP TO 50 TO WORK, AND ORDERED MANY INDUSTRIAL WORKERS INTO THE ARMY.

A MOSCOW BROADCAST REPORTED "MASS ARRESTS IN GERMANY NOT ONLY AMONG GENERALS AND SENIOR OFFICERS BUT ALSO AMONG IMPORTANT CIVIL SERVANTS" AS HEINRICH HIMMLER CONTINUED HIS PURGE.

MOSCOW SAID SHOOTING BROKE OUT IN EAST PRUSSIA AND DANZIG WHEN NAZI SS ELITE GUARDSMEN ATTEMPTED TO ARREST ARMY OFFICERS, AND THAT "MANY SS MEN WERE KILLED."

THE SOVIET RADIO REPORTED THE LATEST VICTIMS OF THE PURGE INCLUDED DR.HJALMAR SCHACHT, NAZI ECONOMIST, BANKER AND MINISTER WITHOUT PORTFOLIO, AND BARON KONSTANTIN VON NEURATH, A HIGH NAZI ONCE REPORTED BEING GROOMED AS HITLER'S SUCCESSOR. PREVIOUS UNCONFIRMED REPORTS SAID SCHACHT HAD BEEN ARRESTED AND POSSIBLY KILLED.

MK708AEW

LONDON, AUG 11-(AP)-RAF BEAUFIGHTERS TORE INTO A GERMAN CONVOY OF FIVE MERCHANT SHIPS AND 10 ESCORT VESSELS LAST EVENING OFF HELGOLAND, THE AIR MINISTRY ANNOUNCED TODAY, AND SANK OR DAMAGED AT LEAST SIX OF THE CRAFT.

ONE OF THE MERCHANTMEN WAS TORPEDOED AND LEFT BURNING FIERCELY WHILE ANOTHER WAS BELIEVED HIT AND SET AFIRE, THE ANNOUNCEMENT DECLARED. OF THE SCORT SHIPS, ONE WAS BLOWN UP WHEN HIT WITH ROCKET PROJECTILES AND FOUR OTHERS WERE SET ABLAZE.

FOUR PLANES WERE LOST IN THE FRAY.

BZ637AEW

AUG 121944

-99-

THIRD NIGHT LEAD AERIAL

BY NED NORDNESS

LONDON,SATURDAY,AUG.12-(AP)-BRITISH MOSQUITOS BOMBED BERLIN DURING THE NIGHT, FOR THE SECOND SUCCESSIVE NIGHT, AND SIMULTANEOUSLY A FORCE OF FOUR-ENGINED LANCASTERS ATTACKED A RAILWAY JUNCTION AT GIVORS IN FRANCE, IT WAS ANNOUNCED TODAY.

EVEN AS THIS PRELIMINARY ANNOUNCEMENT OF THE NIGHT OPERATIONS CAME FROM THE AIR MINISTRY, THE LUXEMBOURG RADIO SOUNDED A WARNING THAT PLANES WERE APPROACHING, INDICATING DAYLIGHT ATTACKS WERE GETTING OFF TO AN EARLY START.

THE WEATHER BROKE FAIRLY CLEAR OVER THE STRAITS THIS MORNING, AFTER A MISTY NIGHT DURING WHICH THE GERMANS KEPT UP FLYING BOMB ATTACKS ON SOUTHERN ENGLAND, INCLUDING THE LONDON AREA.

NEARLY 2,000 X X X PICK UP PREV AT START.

EV115AEW

AUG 121944

LONDON--FIRST ADD FIRST LEAD NEWSPAPERS X X X SPONSORSHIP.

KERSCHNER IS A FIELD ARTILLERY VETERAN FROM SAN ANTONIO, TEX.

THE HATCH ACT AMENDMENT, UNDER WHICH HE SAID THE ARMY WAS ACTING IMPARTIALLY, BECAME EFFECTIVE APRIL 1, 1944, BUT DID NOT CLEAR THROUGH ARMY CHANNELS UNTIL YESTERDAY, WHEN ORDERS WENT OUT TO UNIT COMMANDERS.

"WE HAD ANOTHER IMPORTANT JOB FIRST--TO MEET THE ENEMY," HE SAID, YVLQ,8,& 5£3 $3)-6. "THIS CAME NEXT."

ALTHOUGH

"WE HAD ANOTMSGWUMPORTANT JOB FIRST--TO MEZT YHZSSMBXY," HE SAID, EXPLAINIMM HPE BQUK "

"WE HAD ANOTHER IMPORTANT JOB FIRST--TO MEET THE ENEMY," HE SAID, EXPLAINING THE DELAY. "THIS CAME NEXT."

ALTHOUGH ALL MATERIAL IN RADIO BROADCASTS GOING TO TROOPS UNDER ARMY SPONSORSHIP--BOTH BRITISH AND AMERICAN-- IS SCREENED, THE SOLDIERS MAY TURN ON THEIR RADIOS TO ANY BRITISH OR OTHER BROADCAST THEY WISH, HE SAID.

ONLY NEWSPAPERS WITH GENERAL CIRCULATION IN THE UNITED STATES ARE PERMITTED NOW IN POST EXCHANGES IN THE EUROPEAN THEATER OF OPERATIONS, AND THESE CURRENTLY ARE CONFINED TO THE OVERSEAS EDITIONS OF THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE AND NEW YORK TIMES. NO EXCEPTIONS ARE ALLOWED FOR ANY FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS.

AUG 121944

LT.COL.J.B.LAWRENCE, PUBLIC RELATIONS OFFICER FOR THE EUROPEAN THEATER OF OPERATIONS, IS ASKING AMERICAN CORRESPONDENT IN LONDON TO ASSIST IN PICKING A LIST OF 15 REPRESENTATIVE U.S.NEWSPAPERS, ON WHICH SOLDIERS WILL BE POLLED. OF THESE, THE LEADING THREE WILL BE CHOSEN AND WILL BE PERMITTED TO COME IN AND BE SOLD IN POST EXCHANGES WITHOUT CENSORSHIP, SCREENING OR OTHER INTERFERENCE.

KERSCHNER SAID ANY BOOKS ON THE SHELVES OF ARMY INSTALLATIONS BEFORE APRIL 1 WERE CONSIDERED "PURE" AND NOT NOW AFFECTED BY ANY POLITICAL BAN.

AUG 121944

30.24—17931

~~LONDON, AUG 11-(AP)-~~AN ARTICLE IN STARS AND STRIPES, QUOTING AN ARMY SUPPLY OFFICER AS SAYING SALE OF BRITISH NEWSPAPERS WAS BANNED IN U. S.ARMY CAMPS BECAUSE OF A SHORT SUPPLY, BROUGHT A STATEMENT TODAY FROM MAJ. EDWARD STRODE, EXECUTIVE PUBLIC RELATIONS OFFICER IN THIS THEATER, THAT THE ORDER ACTUALLY WAS ISSUED UNDER THE SOLDIER VOTE LAW.

MAJOR STRODE SAID FLATLY THAT WHETHER IT WAS A SUPPLY PROBLEM OR NOT THE BRITISH NEWSPAPERS CAME UNDER THE U.S. LAW WHICH PRESCRIBES THAT POLITICAL NEWS PROVIDED AMERICAN SOLDIERS MUST BE "BALANCED."

THE PUBLIC RELATIONS OFFICER SAID HE HAD NOT HEARD OF ANY COMPLAINT FROM THE BRITISH NEWSPAPERS, AND HE ADDED THAT IT WAS OBVIOUS THAT THE ARMY HAS NO CONTROL OVER SOLDIERS BUYING THE PAPERS OUTSIDE THE ARMY STORES.

THE NEW YORK TIMES AND CHICAGO TRIBUNE ARE SOLD IN THE ARMY STORES, BUT STRODE SAID THEY WERE SPECIAL EDITIONS CARRYING NO POLITICAL NEWS.

LONDON NEWSPAPERS HAVE HAD NOTHING TO SAY EDITORIALLY ABOUT THE BAN, BUT ALL HAVE GIVEN PROMINENCE TO STORIES FROM NEW YORK CORRESPONDENTS TELLING OF AMERICAN CRITICISM. THE PAPERS THIS MORNING CARRIED THE AMERICAN CRITICISM UNDER SUCH HEADLINES AS "NEWS BAN CALLED STUPID" AND "U.S. CAMP BAN ON BRITISH PAPERS MAY BE LIFTED."

THE LONDON DAILY EXPRESS SAID "IT WAS STATED LAST NIGHT THAT CONSIDERATION ALSO WAS BEING GIVEN TO THE POSSIBILITY THAT SOME BBC BROADCASTS MAY ALSO 'UNDULY INFLUENCE A SOLDIER'S VOTE.'" THE PAPER DID NOT GIVE ANY AUTHORITY FOR THE STATEMENT.

M511AEW

AUG 121944

LONDON, AUG 11-(AP)-BULGARIAN PLANES ASSISTED GERMAN AND ROMANIAN FIGHTERS IN DESTROYING 13 OF THE AMERICAN AIRCRAFT WHICH ATTACKED THE PLOESTI OIL REGION OF ROMANIA YESTERDAY, THE BROADCAST GERMAN COMMUNIQUE ASSERTED TODAY.

YUGOSLAV (100)

LONDON, AUG 11-(AP)-YUGOSLAV PARTISANS, DRIVING ON A 70-MILE FRONT, HAVE CUT RAILROAD TRACKS AT SEVERAL PLACES BETWEEN NIS AND SKOPLJE, A COMMUNIQUE FROM MARSHAL TITO'S HEADQUARTERS ANNOUNCED TODAY.

BRUS, 43 MILES WEST OF NIS, WAS RECAPTURED, AND AREAS BETWEEN BRUS AND ALEKSANDROVAC CLEARED OF THE ENEMY, GIVING THE PARTISAN ARMY A FRONT OF SOME 20 MILES HEADED TOWARD NIS, OFTEN A TARGET OF ALLIED BOMBERS.

AUG 121944

WEST OF LESKOVAC AND VRANJE BELOW NIS A 30-MILE WIDE SECTOR WAS DEVELOPING, WITH THE DRIVE AIMED TOWARD THE RAILWAY AND THE MARAVA RIVER.

SKOPLJE HAS ALSO BEEN POUNDED SEVERAL TIMES BY ALLIED PLANES.

GERMAN GARRISONS AROUND NIKSIC AND DANILOV GRAD IN MONTENEGRO HAVE BEEN PENNED IN, THE COMMUNIQUE SAID.

AUG 121944

MK 704AEW

U.S. 8TH AIR FORCE HDQ--FIRST ADD CITATION X X X SEVEN MILES.

SOME PICTURES WERE TAKEN SO LOW THAT SIGNS ON STORE FRONTS WERE LEGIBLE. A PICTURE OF A BATTERED FRENCH VILLAGE, TAKEN BY LT. COL. MORRIS E.HARTWELL, CHEYENNE, WYO., SHOWED AN OLD WOMAN KNEELING IN PRAYER IN A GARDEN.

LT.ROBERT E.MOSS, HUNTINGTON PARK, CALIF., CLIPPED A CHURCH STEEPLE WITH THE TAIL BOOM OF HIS P-38 AND LANDED WITH A TREE BRANCH STUCK IN A WING.

LT. JOHN L.ANDERSON, LITTLETON, COLO., FLEW SO LOW NEAR THE COAST THAT ONE WING DIPPED INTO THE WATER.

CAPT. HUBERT CHILDERS, LOS ANGELES, CALIF., HAD AN ENGINE KNOCKED OUT BY FLAK WHILE PHOTOGRAPHING FRENCH BRIDGES, AND HE FLEW HIS P-38 HOME FOR 300 MILES ON ONE ENGINE.

WM1017AEW

BULLETIN

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, AUG 11-(AP)-AMERICAN FORCES CAPTURED 4,322 GERMANS IN FRANCE IN 24 HOURS ENDED AT MIDNIGHT WEDNESDAY.

DA1157PEW

AUG 121944

SHAEF--INSERT ~~SECOND~~ NIGHT ~~LEAD~~ INVASION AFTER 16TH GRAPH BEGINNING "A SECOND COLUMN" AND ENDING (Long) "FROM PARIS."

(THE SWISS RADIO, HEARD BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS IN LONDON, SAID BRADLEY'S FORCES HAD REACHED CHARTRES, BUT GAVE NO DETAILS OR AUTHORITY FOR THE REPORT.)

ANOTHER WAS REPORTED, ETC. 17TH GRAPH.

AUG 121944

Add SHAEF Invasion (Long) (N) xxx of Nuray.

A TOTAL OF 4,322 PRISONERS WERE TAKEN, MOST OF THEM IN BRITTANY, IN 24 HOURS ENDING AT MIDNIGHT WEDNESDAY, IT WAS ANNOUNCED.

IT WAS BELIEVED THE AMERICANS IN BRITTANY WERE WORKING IN CLOSE CO-ORDINATION WITH THE FRENCH FORCES OF THE INTERIOR.

ALLIED WARPLANES, WHILE SWEEPING OVER THE BATTLEFIELD IN SUPPORT OF THE GROUND FORCES, ALSO RANGED FAR AFIELD, HAMMERING GERMAN NERVE CENTERS OF ANTWERP, BRUSSELS, METZ AND OTHER POINTS EAST OF THE SEINE OVER WHICH THE GERMANS MAY BE RUSHING REINFORCEMENTS FROM GERMANY.

THE ALLIED LINE IN FRANCE, BASED ON LAST CONFIRMED REPORTS, BEGINS AT ANGERS, ON THE LOIRE, RUNS NORTH TO AN UNDETERMINED POINT BETWEEN LE MANS AND CHARTRES, BACK NORTHWEST TO MORTAIN, NORTHEAST TO THURY-HARCOURT, SOUTHEAST TO A POINT JUST NORTH OF PONTIGNY, NORTH TO THE WEST EDGE OF TROARN AND ON TO THE CHANNEL.

DA359PEW

SHAEF--~~FIRST ADD SECOND LEAD~~ INVASION X X X IN THE AREA.

Insert (Hill)

A PRISONER CAPTURED ON THE CAEN FRONT SAID FIELD MARSHAL GUENTHER VON KLUGE, GERMAN COMMANDER IN THE WEST, HAD ORDERED A GENERAL RETREAT.

AUG 121944

(THE GERMAN COMMUNIQUE X X X 4TH GRAF AS BEFORE.

Add SHAEF Invasion (Hill) xxx the city.

THE GERMAN RADIO SAID 1,500,000 MEN WERE ENGAGED ON BOTH SIDES IN THE FAR-FLUNG BATTLES RANGING FROM BRITTANY, THROUGH THE PARIS-POINTED SALIENT TO THE CAEN SECTOR.

THE LARGE-SCALE ENCIRCLEMENT THAT APPEARED TO BE IN THE MAKING BY THE AMERICANS' REPORTED NORTHWARD SWEEP FROM LE MANS OBVIOUSLY THREATENED TO BE FAR MORE DISASTROUS TO THE GERMANS IF IT SUCCEEDED IN TRAPPING THEIR FORCES AROUND CAEN THAN WOULD BE A MERE PUSHING OF THEIR LINE BACK TO PARIS AND THE SEINE.

AUG 121944

THE LATEST FIELD DISPATCHES FROM THE LE MANS FRONT SAID THE AMERICANS HAD THRUST 10 MILES PAST THAT CITY AND TO WITHIN 100 MILES OF PARIS WITHOUT MEETING ANY SERIOUS GERMAN OPPOSITION.

A94

THE BRITISH RENEWED PRESSURE ON THEIR END OF THIS HUGE MANEUVER BY THROWING A THIRD BRIDGEHEAD ACROSS THE ORNE RIVER AND STORMING TO WITHIN HALF A MILE OF THURY-HARCOURT, 15 MILES BELOW CAEN.

TWO OTHER POWERFUL BATTERING RAMS, SET UP BY THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY, WERE DRIVING AGAINST ROMMEL'S GUN-STUDDED ANTI-TANK SCREEN -- ONELAST REPORTED WITHIN FIVE MILES OF THE GERMAN STRONGPOINT CITY OF FALAISE, 21 MILES SOUTH OF CAEN, AND THE OTHER THRUSTWARD EASTWARD IN THE VIMONT AREA BELOW TROARN.

THE DAILY HEADQUARTERS COMMUNIQUE SAID THAT HARD FIGHTING RAGED ALL DAY YESTERDAY IN THE VIMONT AREA.

THE COMMUNIQUE MADE ONE INDIRECT REFERENCE TO THE AMERICAN TANK SPEARHEADS ADVANCING BEYOND LE MANS TOWARD THE INNER DEFENSES OF PARIS.

"ALLIED AIRCRAFT CONTINUED CLOSE SUPPORT OF THE ARMIES, ESPECIALLY NEAR LE MANS, WHERE 15 TANKS WERE DESTROYED," THE BULLETIN SAID.

THUS IT APPEARED THAT THE AMERICANS HAD RUN UP AGAINST RESISTANCE THERE. GERMAN BROADCASTS HAVE REPORTED FIGHTING 10 MILES EAST OF LE MANS.

ALTHOUGH THE AMERICAN GROUND TROOPS MAY STILL HAVE MILES TO TRAVEL AND MANY BATTLES TO FIGHT BEFORE MARCHING INTO PARIS THE AMERICAN AIR FORCES YESTERDAY KEPT THE ENEMY HOPPING AROUND THE FRENCH CAPITAL.

AUG 121944

ON THE BRITTANY PENINSULA, AMERICAN FORCES STILL WERE BESIEGING THE BIG WESTERN PORT OF BREST AND THE ENCIRCLED SUBMARINE BASE OF LORIENT, AND WERE BATTERING ONE FINAL NEST OF STAND-AND-DIE GERMAN RESISTANCE IN ST.MALO, ON THE NORTH. THE SITUATION AT ST.NAZAIRE, THE BIG U-BOAT NEST IN THE LOIRE ESTUARY, REMAINED CLOAKED IN OFFICIAL SILENCE.

FRENCH RESISTANCE FORCES REPORTED THEY LIBERATED QUIMPER, 33 MILES SOUTH OF BREST, THE REMNANTS OF A GARRISON OF 1,500 TO 2,000 GERMANS BEING WIPED OUT YESTERDAY AFTER A SEVEN-DAY FIGHT.

THE GERMANS ARE SEEKING TO RUSH REINFORCEMENTS AND SUPPLIES FROM BELGIUM, GERMANY AND EASTERN FRANCE, BUT THIS TRAFFIC CAME UNDER HEAVY AERIAL ATTACK.

FIGHTER BOMBERS STRUCK WITHOUT LET-UP AT RAIL MOVEMENTS WESTWARD FROM ANTWERP, BRUSSELS, METZ, STRASBOURG, LILLE, SEDAN AND OTHER POINTS EAST OF THE SEINE, THE COMMUNIQUE ANNOUNCE.

THERE WAS NO OFFICIAL NEWS OF THE REPORTED FANNING OUT OF THE AMERICAN CHARTRES DRIVE TOWARD ORLEANS AND TOURS. THE LATTER CITY IS 48 MILES SOUTHEAST OF LE MANS. IT WAS BELIEVED THESE TWO COLUMNS MIGHT BE ATTEMPTING TO HEAD OFF THE THIN GERMAN FORCES IN

30.24 - 17933

SOUTHWESTERN FRANCE, ESTIMATED TO TOTAL ABOUT TEN DIVISIONS, WHICH WERE SAID TO BE RUSHING TOWARD THE BATTLE ZONE.

CONSOLIDATION OF THEIR POSITION AT NANTES AT THE BASE OF BRITTANY 30 MILES UP THE LOIRE ESTUARY GIVES THE AMERICANS A SOLID FLANK AT LEAST 50 AND POSSIBLY 100 OR MORE MILES DEEP AT THE SOUTHERN EDGE OF ROMMEL'S DEFENSE AREA.

THE COMMUNIQUE SAID ENEMY RESISTANCE TO THE CANADIAN DRIVE TOWARD FALAISE "INCREASED CONSIDERABLY YESTERDAY.."

AUG 121944

IT WAS DISCLOSED THAT A POLISH ARMORED DIVISION IS FIGHTING IN THAT SECTOR AND THAT THE CANADIAN SECOND INFANTRY DIVISION, VETERAN OF THE DIEPPE RAID TWO YEARS AGO, FORMS PART OF THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY.

GAINS OF UP TO A MILE AND A HALF BY ALLIED FORCES DRIVING SOUTH OF VIRE ON THE AMERICAN LEFT FLANK WERE REPORTED BY THE COMMUNIQUE AND A BRITISH STAFF OFFICER DECLARED THAT "ANY NORMAL ARMY WOULD BE PULLING OUT OF THE WIRE SALIENT. BUT CURIOUSLY ENOUGH, THE GERMANS SEEM TO BE THROWING MORE TROOPS INTO THE FIRE."

WHILE THE BRITISH SERIOUSLY MENACED THURY-HARCOURT THE AMERICANS TO THE WEST RECAPTURED GATHEMO IN HEAVY FIGHTING IN THE ENEMY'S MORTAIN-VIRE SALIENT.

VANNES, ON THE SOUTH COAST OF BRITTANY, PREVIOUSLY WAS REPORTED CLEARED OF THE ENEMY.

THE FIGHT FOR BREST MOUNTED IN INTENSITY AFTER AN AMERICAN COLUMN WHICH HAD FOLLOWED THE PENINSULA'S NORTH COAST DREW UP BEFORE THE PORT AND JOINED OTHER FORCES WHICH HAVE BEEN THERE NEARLY A WEEK.

ELEMENTS OF THREE GERMAN DIVISIONS MAINTAINED A STRONG RESISTANCE IN THE BIG PORT AND FIELD REPORTS SAID IT SEEMED LIKELY THAT ITS REDUCTION WOULD TAKE AS LONG AS CHERBOURG.

ITS INLAND DEFENSES INCLUDE FOUR FORTS AND EIGHT BIG BATTERIES NORTH OF THE HARBOR AND THREE FORTS AND 12 BATTERIES SOUTH OF THE HARBOR ACROSS THE ELORN RIVER. THE GERMANS THERE ALSO HAVE SOME 100 HEAVY ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNS AND MORE THAN 250 LIGHT ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNS, ALL USABLE AS LAND ARTILLERY.

THE AMERICANS APPARENTLY HAVE REACHED BRITTANY'S SOUTH COAST BETWEEN LORIENT AND ST.NAZAIRE FOR THE COMMUNIQUE SAID MOPPING UP WAS IN PROGRESS IN THE AREA OF QUIBERON ANDNAURAY. QUIBERON IS DIRECTLY ON THE COAST.

AUG 121944

INSIDE ST.MALO'S ROCKY FORTRESS, WHICH SHEDS ARTILLERY SHELLS LIKE A TIN ROOF SHEDS HAIL, THE GERMAN GARRISON STUBBORNLY HELD OUT.

A DISPATCH FROM ASSOCIATED PRESS WAR CORRESPONDENT HAL BOYLE SAID THAT IN A TELEPHONE CONVERSATION YESTERDAY WITH AMERICAN OFFICERS THE GERMANS THERE AGREED IT WOULD BE FOOLISH TO FIGHT ON BUT ADDED THAT WAS WHAT THEY INTENDED TO DO.

SOME OF THE GERMAN SOLDIERS, HOWEVER, WERE REPORTED SHOOTING DOWN THEIR OFFICERS.

AUG 121944

BOYLE SAID IT SEEMED LIKELY THAT DIVEBOMBERS WOULD BE THE MOST SUCCESSFUL IN BLASTING THE GERMANS OUT SINCE THEY ALONE HAVE THE SHATTERING POWER NEEDED TO BLAST THE CITADEL'S MASSIVE STONE WALLS.

A GERMAN POCKET ALSO WAS STILL HOLDING OUT AT DINARD, NEAR ST.MA

(THE GERMAN NEWS AGENCY TRANSOCEAN EARLY TODAY MADE THE WHOLLY UNCONFIRMED ASSERTION THAT THE AMERICAN THIRD ARMY IS OPERATING IN BRITTANY "AND SEEMS TO BE IN THE HANDS OF" LT.GEN.GEORGE S.PATTON, JR., "AN EXPONENT OF MOBILE WARFARE."

(ALLIED OFFICIALS HAVE ANNOUNCED THAT THE AMERICAN FIRST ARMY IS FIGHTING IN FRANCE, BUT NEVER HAS MENTIONED ANY THIRD ARMY. NOR HAS THERE BEEN ANY WORD OF THE ASSIGNMENT OF PATTON, ONCE COMMANDER OF THE AMERICAN SEVENTH ARMY IN SICILY, SINCE IT WAS REVEALED WEEKS AGO THAT HE WAS IN BRITAIN.

AUG 121944

(TRANSOCEAN SAID "TEN FULLY MOTORIZED DIVISIONS AT PRESENT ARE OPERATING IN THE COASTAL REGIONS OF BRITTANY.")

JS811AEW

Add With Canadians in France (Wilson) xx sector

THE AMERICANS IN THE DIVISION ARE THOSE OF POLISH DESCENT WHO VOLUNTEERED IN 1939 AT RECRUITING CENTERS IN CANADA, BEFORE THE UNITED STATES WAS IN THE WAR. MOST HAVE HAD TO LEARN POLISH SINCE THEY HAVE BEEN IN SERVICE.

MANY OF THE MEMBERS ARE MEN WHO ESCAPED FROM POLAND TO HUNGARY AND ROMANIA AND ACTUALLY BEGAN THEIR TRAINING FOR THIS FIGHT IN INTERNMENT CAMPS THERE. SOME FLED TO FRANCE BEFORE THE GERMAN INVASION AND FOUGHT THERE, LATER WITHDRAWING TO ENGLAND AND PORTUGAL.

SOME ARE FORMER RUSSIAN PRISONERS RELEASED WHEN RUSSIA WAS ATTACKED BY GERMANY. SOME FOUGHT IN NORWAY WITH THE BRITISH AND FRENCH, AND NOW IN SOME INSTANCES ARE FIGHTING THEIR OWN COUNTRYMEN DRAGOONED INTO THE GERMAN ARMY.

AUG 121944

TA830PEW

Add On the Orne River Front (Greene) aka objective."

ALL ALONG THE BRITISH AND CANADIAN FRONTS, THERE WERE REPORTS OF FRESH SUCCESSES TODAY. THE CLEAR, SUN-SPARKLING SKIES WERE ALIVE WITH ALLIED ROCKET PLANES AND BOMBERS SMASHING AT ENEMY COMMUNICATIONS, TROOP CONCENTRATIONS AND GUN POSITIONS.

IN A V-SHAPED WEDGE BETWEEN THE ORNE AND LAIZE RIVERS SOUTH OF CAEN, THE BRITISH PUSHED AN ARMORED SPEARHEAD SOUTHWEST FROM BRETTEVILLE-SUR-LAIZE TO BARBERRY, LEAVING ONLY A 4,000-YARD "ESCAPE GAP" --- ENEMY TROOPS STILL SKULKING IN EITHER THE INGLAIS FOREST OR THE GRIMBOSQ FOREST TO THE NORTH.

OTHER BRITISH TROOPS EARLIER CAPTURED ESPINS ON THE WEST SIDE OF THE GAP.

AUG 121944

IN A SIMULTANEOUS DRIVE DOWN THE EAST SIDE OF THE ORNE FROM THE NORTH ANOTHER BRITISH COLUMN SEIZED HILL 128, SOME 1,500 YARDS NORTHEAST OF THURY-HARCOUT WHICH THUS APPEARED DOOMED TO EARLY CAPTURE.

THE FALL OF THIS CITY WOULD MEAN ANOTHER STAGGERING BLOW TO THE ENEMY'S FRAZZLED ORNE RIVER DEFENSE SYSTEM. LARGE GERMAN FORCES STILL ARE FIGHTING A HOPELESS BATTLE WEST OF THE ORNE.

COINCIDENT WITH THE MOUNTAIN THREAT TO THURY-HARCOURT THE BRITISH OPENED A CONCERTED ATTACK THIS MORNING ON THE SOUTHERN FLANK, STRIKING TOWARD THE SOUTHEAST IN THE VIRE SECTOR.

"ANY NORMAL ARMY WOULD BE PULLING OUT OF THE VIRE SALIENT," A BRITISH STAFF OFFICER SAID, "BUT CURIOUSLY ENOUGH THE GERMANS SEEM TO BE THROWING MORE TROOPS INTO THE FIRE."

M554AEW

WITH THE U.S.FIRST ARMY IN FRANCE--FIRST ADD ST.MALO CITADEL (BY GALLAGHER) X X X CANNON FIRE.

THE GERMAN TROOPS IN THE FORTRESS--AND EVEN THE MAD COLONEL HIMSELF --HAD LITTLE DOUBT AS TO THE FUTILITY OF THEIR STAND. AMERICAN OFFICERS ARGUED WITH THEM BY TELEPHONE YESTERDAY, POINTING OUT THE USELESS WASTE OF LIFE, AND THE GERMANS FREELY ADMITTED IT WOULD BE FOOLISH TO CONTINUE THE FIGHT. BUT CONTINUE IT THEY DID.

SINCE THERE WAS NO EVIDENCE OF SUCH SPIRIT AMONG THE TROOPS IN THE CITY STREETS WHEN THE AMERICANS STORMED INTO ST.MALO, THE STAND MUST BE A PERSONAL MATTER WITH COL.AULOCK, WHO WEARS THE KNIGHT'S CROSS OF THE IRON CROSS FOR SERVICE ON THE EASTERN FRONT AND ON THE KUBAN BRIDGEHEAD IN THE CAUCASUS. GERMAN PRISONERS TOLD THE AMERICANS THE COLONEL SUFFERED DELUSIONS AS THE RESULT OF A HEAD WOUND.

GERMANS SURRENDERED IN BATCHES OF 100 OR MORE IN THE STREETS BEFORE THE SIEGE OF THE CITADEL BEGAN. SOME HAD TO SHOOT THEIR OWN OFFICERS TO DO SO. WHEN THE SIEGE WAS LAID THE AMERICANS SET UP LOUD SPEAKERS WHICH BLARED ULTIMATUMS, AND THEY EVEN SENT A CHAPLAIN TO TRY TO SHAKE THE OBDURATE COLONEL. THEN MORE DIVE BOMBERS ROARED IN AND BLASTED THE GRANITE FORTRESS.

JP1058PEW

AUG 121944

U.S.NINTH AIRFORCE HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, AUG.11-(AP)-THE NINTH AIR DEFENSE COMMAND, HEADED BY BRIG.GEN.NED SCHRAMM OF LARGO, FLA., IS IN ACTION HERE DEFENDING BASES OF THE NINTH AIR FORCE WITH FIGHTERS AND MM ANTIAIRCRAFT BATTERIES, IT WAS ANNOUNCED TODAY. BGNM SCHRAMM RECENTLY MMMMMMMMMM SUCCEEDED BRIG.GEN.WILLIAM L.RICHARDSON, WHO HAS TAKEN OVER THE NINTH ANTIAIRCRAFT DEFENSE COMMAND.

AUG 121944

BU940A.APRA

BY EDWARD D.BALL

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS ON THE ROAD TO PARIS, AUG. 10--(10 P.M. DELAYED)-(AP)-AMERICANS SURGED TO WITHIN APPROXIMATELY 100 MILES OF PARIS (ABOUT 10 MILES BEYOND LE MANS) TODAY WITHOUT MEETING ANY SIZEABLE OPPOSITION FROM THE GERMANS.

PROGRESS WAS UNIMPEDED BY THE ENEMY AND MORALE SOARED AMONG THE DOUGHBOYS, WHO WERE TALKING NOW IN TERMS OF WHEN THE WAR WILL BE OVER, INSTEAD OF WHEN WILL THEY TAKE THE NEXT HEDGEROW.

FD10AEW

30.24 — 17935

6

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS-FIRST ADD PARIS ROAD (BY BALL) XXX NEXT MEDGERON.

AUG 121944

PVT. EDWARD B.BAGI OF LATROBE, PA., REMARKED:

"LET'S BE ON WITH IT. WE'VE GOT THEM ON THE RUN NOW."

OF THE SAME FRAME OF MIND WERE PFC. WARREN WHITVER OF STERLING, ILL., AND PFC. JOE GINN OF SEDALIA, MO., THE LATTER A FORMER DAREDEVIL MOTORCYCLIST WITH JIMMY LYNCH.

AT A FIELD CEREMONY TODAY THE SILVER STAR WAS PINNED ON PVT. FRED C.MESKE OF BISMARCK, N.DAK., WHO CLEANED OUT AN ENEMY MACHINEGUN NEST YESTERDAY AFTER HIS MOTORCYCLE WAS SHOT FROM UNDER HIM WHILE HE WAS RIDING ESCORT FOR A GENERAL.

THE GERMANS LAST NIGHT SENT OVER A PAPER BOMBARDMENT OF LEAFLETS WHICH TOLD OF THE BUZZ-BOMB ATTACK ON LONDON, AND OTHERS TELLING THE GIS THAT THEIR "HAPPY DAYS ARE DONE." BOTH LEAFLETS WERE PASSED AROUND WITH CHUCKLES AND APPROPRIATE COMMENTS.

LT.WILLARD TAYLOR OF CLINCHPORT, VA., SAID THE IDEA ONCE FOUND AMONG GERMANS--THAT THE ALLIES SHOOT PRISONERS--NO LONGER PREDOMINATED AMONG CAPTURED NAZIS. THEIR ONE AIM NOW, HE SAID, WAS TO GET IT OVER WITH AND TO ACCEPT AMERICAN PROTECTION.

WM1040AEW

A116

FIRST LEAD CANADIANS-POLES (200)

BY ROBERT C.WILSON

AUG 121944

WITH THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY IN FRANCE, AUG. 11-(AP)-A POLISH ARMORED DIVISION WENT INTO ACTION WITH THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY THREE DAYS AGO AND ALREADY HAS ADVANCED FIVE MILES, IT WAS DISCLOSED TODAY.

IT WAS ALSO REVEALED THAT THE CANADIAN SECOND DIVISION, WHICH TOOK PART IN THE 1942 RAID ON DIEPPE, HAS BEEN FIGHTING IN NORMANDY.

THE CANADIANS, WITH THEIR POLISH AND BRITISH CONTINGENTS, HAVE BEEN CHECKED TEMPORARILY IN THEIR DRIVE UPON FALAISE BY FRESH GERMAN INFANTRY RESERVES FIGHTING BEHIND A HASTILY CONSTRUCTED ANTI-TANK SCREEN ABOUT FIVE MILES NORTH OF THAT BIRTHPLACE OF WILLIAM THE CONQUEROR. THE MOMENTUM OF THE CANADIAN OFFENSIVE SOUTH OF CAEN WAS CHECKED IN THE POTIGNY AND QUESNAY AREAS.

ON THE LEFT FLANK THE CANADIANS FINALLY GOT POSSESSION OF SOIGNOLLES YESTERDAY AFTER IT HAD CHANGED HANDS SEVERAL TIMES.

THE ENEMY INFANTRY REINFORCEMENTS ARE CONCENTRATED MAINLY ON CONTAINING THE CAEN-FALAISE THRUST. THE ENEMY LINES RUNS FROM POTIGNY AND QUESNAY, WHERE THEY ENJOY THE COVER OF A HEAVY FORESTED AREA, TO VIMONT AND TROARN.

THE NAZIS HAVE SUCCEEDED IN BACKING UP THEIR IMMEDIATE TANK SCREEN WITH STRONGPOINTS ON THE NORTH AND WEST BANKS OF THE LAISON RIVER.

ALTHOUGH THE CANADIAN FRONTAL THRUST TOWARD FALAISE HAS BEEN TEMPORARILY HALTED, THE CITY FACES THREATS FROM TWO OTHER DIRECTIONS--FROM THE BRITISH EASTWARD EXPLOITATION OF A BRIDGEHEAD ACROSS THE ORNE AND FROM THE AMERICAN NORTHWARD DRIVE FROM THE LE MANS SECTOR.

(NO PICKUP)

FD908AEW

AUG 121944

ON THE BRITISH FRON IN FRANCE, AUG 11-(AP)-"THE GREAT BULK OF THE GERMAN FORCES IN NORTHWEST EUROPE ARE IN A BAD WAY, WE ARE'ROUND BEHIND THEM IN MANY PLACES AND IT IS POSSIBLE THAT SOME OF THEM MAY NOT GET AWAY," GEN.SIR.BERNARD L.MONTGOMERY DECLARED TONIGHT.

DA1?P

THE SUPREME COMMANDER OF ALL ALLIED GROUND TROOPS IN FRANCE, IN A MESSAGE TO THE ALLIED ARMIES HE COMMANDS UNDER GEN.EISENHOWER, SAID:

"TODAY, ALL IS WELL. X X X

"OUR ARMIES ARE MOVING RELENTLESSLY EASTWARD INTO FRANCE.

"MANY HUNDREDS OF TOWNS AND VILLAGES HAVE BEEN LIBERATED.

"THESE ARE MOMENTOUS DAYS AND COMPLETE VICTORY LIES AHEAD AND CERTAIN--SO LONG AS WE DO NOT RELAX."

BY WES GALLAGHER

IN A U.S.ARMY OBSERVATION PLANE OVERLOOKING LORIENT, FRANCE, AUG 10-(AP)-THIS SULLEN NAZI SPAWNING GROUND OF U-BOATS IS DYING SLOWLY AND STUBBORNLY UNDER A RAIN OF SHELLS AND BOMBS FROM THE BESIEGING AMERICAN ARMY.

A RING OF AMERICAN ARMOR IS SQUEEZING THE LIFE OUT OF THE GESTAPO- AND NAVAL-HELD UNDERSEA FORTRESS, WHICH LIES FANNED OUT BENEATH THE WINGS OF THIS TINY PIPER CUB. TO THE LEFT, IN THE NOON SUN, THE CONCRETE AND IRON FORTS OF THE ONCE FRENCH SEAPORT BELCH ORANGE DEFIANCE, AND AT THE SAME TIME LICK THEIR WOUNDS FROM 155 MM.AMERICAN LONG TOMS, SLASHING INTO THE CITY DEFENSES.

UP HERE IN THIS ARTILLERY SPOTTING PLANE, PILOTED BY CAPT.CHARLES D.DAMON OF AMES, IOWA, IT FEELS QUITE LONESOME. THIS IS ESPECIALLY SO WHEN YOU KNOW THAT A FEW THOUSAND YARDS AWAY ARE SOME OF THE MOST FORMIDABLE FLAK DEFENSES IN EUROPE, WITH BATTERY AFTER BATTERY OF 88 MM.GUNS WHICH OPEN UP ON INQUISITIVE CUBS WHEN THEY GET TOO CLOSE.

LORIENT IS CUT OFF AND CONTAINED, WITH NO HOPE BUT SURRENDER FOR THE GARRISON, WHICH IS HEADED BY A GROUP OF FANATICAL NAVY OFFICERS WHO HAVE REFUSED THE AMERICANS' ULTIMATUM AND APPARENTLY ARE DETERMINED TO FIGHT TO THE LAST MAN.

THE FAMED U-BOAT PENS WERE INVISIBLE TODAY FROM THE AIR BUT FRENCH AND GERMANS SAID THE AMERICAN AND BRITISH BOMBINGS HAD FAILED TO PIERCE THEIR 16-FOOT LAYERS OF CONCRETE AND THEY WERE UNHARMED.

AUG 121944

THE LITTLE GROUP OF CUB PILOTS WHICH HAS BEEN LEADING THE AMERICAN ARMORED COLUMNS SPEARHEADING INTO BRITTANY HAS BEEN DOING THINGS WITH THEIR OBSERVATION PLANES WHICH WOULD TURN THEIR ARTILLERY-SPOTTING INSTRUCTORS AT FORT SILL BACK IN THE UNITED STATES GRAY.

THEY ARE NOT SUPPOSED TO FLY OVER THE ENEMY LINES, BUT IN ACTING AS LOOKOUTS FOR ADVANCING ARMORED COLUMNS THEY FLY OVER ENEMY TERRITORY ALL THE TIME.

"WE'RE SORT OF CLAY PIGEONS," EXPLAINED LT.JOHN MAHER OF COLFAX, IOWA. "WE FLY ALONG UNTIL SOMEBODY SHOOTS AT US, AND THEN OUR COLUMNS KNOW THERE ARE GERMANS AROUND."

AUG 121944

AMONG THE PILOTS, WHO AGREE LORIENT IS ABOUT THE HOTTEST SPOT THEY HAVE ENCOUNTERED, ARE MAJ.CHARLES CARPENTER OF MOLINE, ILL.; LT.HARLEY MERRICH, 5627 SAN JOSE AVE., RICHMOND, CALIF.; LT.ROY CARSON, 1318 PAIGE ST., SAN FRANCISCO; LT.CLAUDE W.ATKINSON, ROUTE 3, MESQUITE, TEXAS, AND LT.BERNARD BOWER, 1139 EAST 49TH ST., KANSAS CITY.

IS320AEW

Add Moscow Russian (Gilmore) XXX 38-mile front.

HIS TROOPS, NEARING THE WARSAW-BIALYSTOK RAILWAY, CAPTURED STANISLAWOW, 20 MILES EAST OF WARSAW, AND 30 OTHER LOCALITIES NORTHEAST TO STERDYN, NEAR THE BUG RIVER AND 55 MILES NORTHEAST OF WARSAW. STERDYN IS 42 MILES SOUTHEAST OF LOMZA.

MOSCOW HAD NO FRESH NEWS FROM WARSAW ITSELF, BUT THE BATTLE THERE WAS BELIEVED GROWING IN VIOLENCE WITH THE DEVELOPMENTS NORTHEAST OF THE CITY AND THE MOVEMENT WEST OF THE VISTULA. TROOPS WHICH DO NOT CONTINUE NORTHWARD TOWARD EAST PRUSSIA AND NORTHWEST POLAND APPEARED LIKELY TO JOIN WITH THE RED ARMY FORCES BATTERING AT WARSAW ITSELF.

A TOTAL OF 285 TOWNS AND VILLAGES WERE REPORTED CAPTURED YESTERDAY BY THE RUSSIANS, INCLUDING JEKABPILS AND 67 OTHER LOCALITIES ON THE LATVIAN FRONT. THE CAPTURE OF DAUGAVA RAIL STATION, FIVE MILES NORTHWEST OF JEKABPILS, PUT THE RUSSIANS WITHIN 60 MILES SOUTHEAST OF RIGA, LATVIAN CAPITAL ON THE BALTIC. DZELZAVA, 85 MILES EAST OF RIGA, ALSO FELL.

AUG 121944

IN THE OIL COUNTRY OF THE CARPATHIAN FOOTHILLS, AT THE SOUTHERN END OF THE LONG FRONT, THE RUSSIANS TOOK PODBUZ, 11 MILES SOUTHEAST OF THE CAPTURED OIL CENTER OF DROHOBYCZ AND ONLY 27 MILES FROM THE CZECHOSLOVAKIAN BORDER. FORTY OTHER SETTLEMENTS IN THE RICH OIL FIELDS WERE LIBERATED.

AUG 121944

KK402AEW

NIGHT LEAD (160)

MOSCOW, AUG 11-(AP)-RED TANKS AND FIGHTER BOMBERS SMASHED WITHIN 15 MILES OF EAST PRUSSIA TODAY FROM THE BROKEN GERMAN LINE EAST OF THE BIEBRZA RIVER IN POLAND IN A GIGANTIC NUTCRACKER OFFENSIVE.

FORCES UNDER MARSHAL KONSTANTIN K.ROKOSSOVSKY AND GEN.G.F. ZAHKAROV RIPPED AHEAD NORTHEAST OF WARSAW IN WHAT POSSIBLY WAS THE GREATEST STRATEGIC MANEUVER OF THE SUMMER CAMPAIGN. AT THE SAME TIME, IN THE BALTIC, A NEW DRIVE ACROSS SOUTHERN ESTONIA CUT TO PIECES ISOLATED GERMAN FORCES LEFT TO THEIR FATE BY HITLER.

GEN.IVAN MASLENNIKOV, STRIKING FROM THE PSKOV AREA SOUTHWEST OF LAKE PEIPUS, SHATTERED THE ENEMY FRONT ON A SECTOR 43 MILES WIDE AND MORE THAN 15 MILES DEEP AND SENT AN ARMORED VANGUARD RACING PAST PETSERI, 115 MILES EAST OF THE GULF OF RIGA.

MORE THAN 200 ESTONIAN BORDER CITIES AND TOWNS AND VILLAGES FELL TO THE MASSIVE NEW ATTACK, DOMMING 30 GERMAN DIVISIONS WHICH CAPTURED ENEMY GENERALS SAY ARE TRAPPED IN THE BALTIC REPUBLICS.

MASLENNIKOV CAREFULLY BUILT UP HIS OFFENSIVE POWER FOR SEVERAL WEEKS.

JP1101PEW

BY DANIEL DE LUCE

MOSCOW, AUG 11-(AP)-TWO CAPTURED GERMAN GENERALS, IN STATEMENTS APPEARING ABOVE THEIR SIGNATURES TODAY IN THE SOVIET PRESS, CALLED UPON THE GERMAN PEOPLE AND THE ARMY TO END THE WAR.

"OVER 30 GERMAN DIVISIONS ARE DOOMED TO EXTERMINATION OWING TO AN IRRESPONSIBLE HITLER'S STRATEGY," SAID THE STATEMENT, BY LT. GEN. VON KUROWSKI OF THE 110TH INFANTRY DIVISIONS AND MAJ. GEN. LINDEMANN OF THE 361ST INFANTRY DIVISION.

"THERE IS BUT ONE ISSUE -- IT IS TO STOP THE STRUGGLE AND LAY DOWN ARMS," THE STATEMENT SAID. "IT IS TIME TO FINISH WITH HITLER AND HIS CLIQUE. HE WHO FIGHTS AGAINST HITLER FIGHTS FOR GERMANY."

THE DECLARATION, DATED AUG.6, PROFESSED COMPLETE AGREEMENT WITH A MANIFESTO WHICH 60 OF THEIR FELLOW GENERALS REPORTEDLY SIGNED JULY 22 REPUDIATING HITLER.

MK735AEW

AUG 121944

MOSCOW, AUG. 11-(AP)-THE SOVIET UNION'S DELEGATION TO THE TRIPARTITE SECURITY CONFERENCE AT WASHINGTON AUG. 21 WAS ANNOUNCED TODAY.

THE COUNCIL OF PEOPLE'S COMMISSARS APPOINTED ANDREI A.GROMYKO, SOVIET AMBASSADOR TO WASHINGTON, CHAIRMAN. HE WILL BE ASSISTED BY REAR ADMIRAL RODIONOV AND MAJ.GEN.N.V.AVIN; FOREIGN OFFICE OFFICIALS A.A.SOBOLEV AN S.K.TZARAPKIN; AND PROFESSORS S.A.GOLUNSKY, S.B. KRYLOV AND G.G.GOBLIN.

M.M.JUNIN WILL BE THE DELEGATION'S SECRETARY AND V.M.BEREZKHKOV, TRANSLATOR.

AUTHORITATIVE SOVIET WRITERS HAVE MADE CLEAR THAT THE RUSSIANS BELIEVE THE BIGGEST ALLIES MUST SHOULDER THE BIGGEST RESPONSIBILITY FOR MAINTAINING PEACEM THERE IS LITTLE BACKING HERE FOR AN INTERNATIONAL POLICE FORCE.

FD959AEW

3024-17937

STOCKHOLM--FIRST ADD HOSTAGES EXECUTED (A45) XXX BY EXPLOSIONS.

(LATER THE GERMAN AGENCY TRANSOCEAN, IN A BERLIN BROADCAST, QUOTED THE DANISH FOREIGN OFFICE AS DENYING THE STOCKHOLM REPORT THAT THE 11 DANES HAD BEEN EXECUTED, OR HAD EVEN BEEN ARRESTED.)

JS123AEW

AUG 121944

BERN, Aug. 10--(AP)---ITALIAN PRISONERS OF WAR IN GERMANY ARE BEING ASSIGNED INDUSTRIAL WORK IN THE REICH'S FINAL "TOTAL MOBILIZATION" OF MANPOWER, A BERLIN DISPATCH TO THE CORRIERE DELLA SERA OF MILAN SAID TODAY.

THE DISPATCH SAID THE SHIFT OF THE RAGGEDLY UNIFORMED MEN FROM PRISON CAMPS TO MACHINES WAS AGREED UPON AT A RECENT MEETING OF HITLER AND MUSSOLINI. IT IS TO BE COMPLETED THIS MONTH.

APL 110 BRUTTOS 01245 JRT 84 ACW

Lisbon, Aug. 11-(AP)-Two Portugese ~~BLENHEIM~~ Blenheim planes collided today m while six squadrons maneuvered above Lisbon and three fliers were killed. One plane crashed into the Tagus river, the other landed safely.

AUG 121944

apl 01012-Lupi rides again-rm-1127a

Insert Guam (Henry) - 3rd Amphibious Corps HQ XXX Harmon road.

~~CAPTURE OF HARMON ROAD~~. HE ALSO CITED SEIZURE OF THREE MOUNTAIN HEIGHTS--MENJO, BARRIGADA AND SANTA ROSA.

THE JAPANESE NEVER RECOVERED FROM THE FIRST IMPACT OF AMERICAN BLOWS, SAID LT. COL. W.F. COLEMAN, 5429 FAIRHILL, PHILADELPHIA, GEIGER'S INTELLIGENCE OFFICER. AFTER A RECORD PRELIMINARY BOMBARDMENT BY NAVY SHIPS AND PLANES, THE MARINES AFFECTED A COMPARATIVELY BLOODLESS LANDING JULY 21. THE JAPANESE HEAVILY COUNTER ATTACKED THE BEACHHEAD BUT COULDN'T WIPE IT OUT.

"THEY WERE SO BADLY BEATEN," SAID COLEMAN, "THEY NEVER WERE ABLE TO REORGANIZE."

AUG 121944

WITH ARTILLERY UNDER BRIG. GEN. PEDRO AUGUST O. DEL VALLE ADDED TO THEIR LETHAL POWER, NAVY WARSHIPS AND CARRIER PLANES OFFERED STRONG SUPPORT TO THE GROUND TROOPS, ADDING TO THE ENEMY DEBACLE WHICH ENDED IN JAPANESE FLEEING IN WILD DISORDER FOR THE FIRST TIME IN ANY PACIFIC ENGAGEMENT.

~~CALIF.~~, AND AN INFANT DAUGHTER. Add Guam McNair to ... slighter,

BRUCE NAMED LT.COL.GUY V.MILLER, OF (1105 SOUTH AVE) ...BURGH, PA., AS ACTING CHIEF OF STAFF. MILLER, FORMER DIVISION SUPPLY CHIEF, WAS HEAD EDITORIAL WRITER FOR THE PITTSBURGH PRESS BEFORE ENTERING THE SERVICE IN THE FALL OF 1940.

EA542PPW

ADD PEARL HARBOR PENNOYER XXXXX SUNK

PENNOYER IS FROM LOCUST VALLEY, LONG ISLAND, N.Y. THE OTHER PILOTS WERE LT. RONALD PAUL GIFT OF MARLETTE, MICHIGAN, ENS. ROBERT WESLEY BURNETT OF OAKLAND, CALIF., AND ENS. THOMAS GEORGE DREIS OF CHICAGO.

CG7Q8 ACW NM

ADD GUAM SCANLON XXXXX OBSERVER

DURING THE FIRST WEEK OF BITTER FIGHTING, EVERYBODY WHO WAS NOT FIRING A BATTERY GRABBED A RIFLE.

MARINE COMBAT CORRESPONDENT JAMES E. HAGUE, 82 SIXTH STREET, BRIDGEPORT, CONN., A FORMER ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORTER AT BALTIMORE, LED ONE GROUP OF MARINES OVER A HILL, LOOKING FOR THE ENMEY.

AUG 121944

"IT WAS ABOUT AS WILD A NIGHT AS YOU CAN IMAGINE," JIMMY SAID LATER, "BUT WHEN IT WAS ALL OVER ARTILLERYMEN HAD KILLED 17 JAPS."

GG 843 ACW NM

GUAM,AUG 11 (AP)-SEEING AND ACTING ON GUAM:

JOE TANNER, PHARMACIST'S MATE 1/C FROM DACUSVILLE, S.C., PEEKED OVER THE EDGE OF HIS FOXHOLE ONE NIGHT AND PEEKING RIGHT BACK AT HIM WAS A JAPANESE.

TANNER FIRED FIRST.

AUG 121944

PFC EDWIN J.JOHNSON, 19, OF 2371 HOWLAND AVE., FLINT, MICH., WAS ON NIGHT PATROL AT A MARINE OUTPOST. HE SAW A SHADOW AMONG THE TREES.

HIS CHALLENGE BROUGHT THE REPLY, "OH, SO SORRY," AND THE FIGURE DARTED AWAY JUST AS JOHNSON FIRED.

THE NEXT MORNING THE BODY OF A JAPANESE CAPTAIN WAS FOUND AT THE SPOT.

---

with the u. s. army on guam, aug. 7 (delayed)--(ap)--maj. winthrop rockefeller, 32, son of john d. rockefeller, jr., regimental supply offic pulled a panicky soldier out of a tight spot when the doughboy fell into coral reef ~~mud~~ hole during the landing on guam.

AUG 121944

rockefeller, who told of the incident only after he was reminded of it, said he helped the soldier reach a spot where he could stand up.

asked his impression of his first combat experience, maj. rockefeller said he had done so much maneuvering and firing with live ammunition it wasn't difficult to get used to the real thing.

BY FRED HAMPSON.

WITH U.S.TROOPS AT MAFFIN BAY, DUTCH NEW GUINEA, AUG.2-(DELAYED)-(AP)-WHEN THE MEN OF THIS AMERICAN FIGHTING OUTFIT SPEAK THE NAMES OF PARSIOLA AND STEWART THEIR VOICES DEVELOP UNDERTONES OF REVERENCE AND DEVOTION.

PARSIOLA AND STEWART ARE HEROES TO THE MEN WHO TOOK ROCKY POINT WHOSE JUNGLE-BORDERED FLANKS AND ITS FACE ON THE BEACH WAS THE SCENE OF BLOODY FIGHTING FOR THIS REGIMENT.

PVT.CARL PARSIOLA, OF LINDEN,MICH., TRULY A ONE-MAN ARMY, AND LT.ROBERT STEWART, OF BATON ROUGE,LA., ARE THE HEROES OF THESE HEROIC YANK FIGHTERS.

AUG 121944

THE REGIMENT APPROACHED THE POINT FROM THE EAST AND MET WITHERING SNIPER, MACHINEGUN, MORTAR AND CANNON FIRE FROM CAVES. THE AMERICANS FOUGHT BLINDLY THROUGH THE JUNGLE SCREEN UNTIL THEIR AMMUNITION WAS ALMOST GONE.

THE MICHIGAN SOLDIER WENT BACK WITH A COMPANY TO BRING UP MORE AMMO HE RETURNED ONLY TO FIND HIS PLATOON PINNED DOWN BY HEAVY FIRE.

PARSIOLA TOOK A QUICK LOOK AT THE SITUATION, MUTTERED "HERE GOES NUTHIN" AND LOADED HIMSELF DOWN WITH GRENADES, A CAN OF GASOLINE, SOME DYNAMITE AND A RIFLE. MACHINEGUNS CHATTERED EACH TIME HE CROSSED A CLEARING BUT HIS LUCK HELD. HE GOT ABOVE THE JAPANESE CAVES AND CLEANED THEM OUT WITH DYNAMITE, GRENADES AND BURNING GASOLINE.

OTHERS OF THE PLATOON JOINED HIM WITH MORE DYNAMITE AND GASOLINE.

WHEN THE CLEANUP WAS WELL UNDER WAY PARSIOLA WAS AMONG THE FIRST TO VENTURE INTO A LARGE CAVERN. HE REPORTED HE KILLED THREE OR FOUR STUNNED JAPANESE THERE.

AUG 121944

THE DIVISION COMMANDER WHO WITNESSED PARSIOLA'S DEEDS MADE HIM A

30.24 - 17939

SECOND LIEUTENANT ON THE SPOT.

STEWART, A BATTALION MOTOR OFFICER, LED AN "ALLIGATOR" IN AN AMPHIBIOUS FLANKING MOVEMENT AGAINST THE POINT. A JAPANESE 77 MM SHELL HIT THE CRAFT, KILLING EIGHT MEN AND THROWING THE WOUNDED INTO THE WATER. IGNORING CANNON AND MACHINEGUN FIRE, STEWART SWAM ASHORE AND BACK SEVEN TIMES, EACH TIME RESCUING A WOUNDED OR STUNNED SOLDIER.

AUG 121944

DV835PCW

MELBOURNE,AUG.10-(DELAYED)-(AP)-OWNERS OF A FORMER LUXURY LINER WHICH IS TAKING MORE THAN 300 AUSTRALIAN WIVES OF AMERICAN SERVICEMEN AND ABOUT 70 BABIES TO THE UNITED STATES LOOKED TO THE FUTURE BEFORE THE SHIP SAILED.

THEY SOLVED THE DIAPER PROBLEM BY LAYING IN A RESERVE OF 12,000 PAPER ONES.

PANTRY SHELVES WERE LINED WITH ALL TYPES OF BABY FOODS.

THE DAY BEFORE THE DEPARTURE, YOUNG MOTHERS WALKED UP THE GANGWAYS WITH BABIES CRADLED IN THEIR ARMS.

IN A COUPLE OF HOURS, THE MOTHERS HAD CHANGED INTO SOMETHING COMFORTABLE, BABIES WERE CRAWLING HAPPILY AROUND THE DECKS AND ROWS OF DIAPERS WERE FLUTTERING FROM IMPROVISED CLOTHESLINES STRUNG BETWEEN GUN MOUNTING AND LIFEBOAT DAVIT.

MAMYHOF THE HUSBANDS ARE FIGHTING THE JAPANESE IN NEW GUINEA.

HW716PPW NM

MELBOURNE, AUSTRALIA, AUG.11-(AP)-AUSTRALIA'S 4,500,000 VOTERS, INCLUDING CIVILIANS AND SERVICE PERSONNEL, WILL BALLOT AUG.19 ON PROPOSALS WHICH WOULD CONCENTRATE P

MELBOURNE, AUSTRALIA, AUG.11-(AP)-AUSTRALIA'S 4,500,000 VOTERS, INCLUDING CIVILIANS AND SERVICE PERSONNEL, WILL BALLOT AUG.19 ON PROPOSALS WHICH WOULD CONCENTRATE IN THE NATIONAL PARLIAMENT MANY POWERS NOW HELD BY THE SIX COMMONWEALTH STATES.

THE PROPOSALS COMPRISE 14 POINTS COVERING PROJECTED PARTICIPATION BY THE NATIONAL GOVERNMENT IN POSTWAR RECONSTRUCTION, INCLUDING CONTROL OVER EMPLOYMENT, PROFITEERING AND PRICES AND OTHER RELATED SUBJECTS.

PROTECTIVE PROVISIONS ARE ALSO PROVIDED FOR FREEDOM OF RELIGION AND SPEECH.

THE ELECTION IS THE OUTGROWTH OF A MEETING OF THE NATIONAL CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION IN 1942, AT WHICH IT WAS AGREED UNANIMOUSLY TO CONCENTRATE THE POWERS IN THE NATIONAL GOVERNMENT.

NON-LABOR PARTIES SUBSEQUENTLY DECIDED TO OPPOSE THE MEASURES ON THE GROUNDS THEY WOULD PERPETUATE THE WARTIME BUREAUCRACY.

THE POWERS ASKED WOULD CONTINUE FOR FIVE YEARS AFTER THE WAR WHEN ANOTHER REFERENDUM WOULD BE HELD TO CONSIDER INCORPORATION OF THE POWERS PERMANENTLY IN THE CONSTITUTION, MAKING SUCH CHANGES AS EXPERIENCES WOULD INDICATE NECESSARY.

SERVICEMEN AND WOMEN IN CAMPS AND AT COMBAT STATION WILL BE INCLUDED AMONG THOSE VOTING.

JP545APW

AUG 121944

(WX)..ALEUTIAN ISLAND BASE, ALASKA, AUG.3-(AP)-DELAYED)-WHAT DOES A PRIVATE FIRST CLASS SAY TO HIS COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF DURING LUNCH AT AN ALEUTIAN MESS?

WILLIAM GOFF, RED-HAIRED, 19-YEAR-OLD MARINE OF BATESVILLE,ARK., SAID HE MISSED SEEING HIS GIRL FRIEND.

FERDINAND RUTSCHER, 20-YEAR-OLD SOLDIER OF 19 LINDSLEY AVE., IRVINGTON,N.J., SAID THE "CHOW" WAS GOOD ENOUGH BUT THAT HE COULD DO BETTER AT HOME.

THE TWO SAT AT THE RIGHT AND LEFT HAND, RESPECTIVELY, OF PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AT LUNCH DURING A V[illegible] BY THE PRESIDENT TO THIS BASE TODAY.

AUG 121944

THEY WERE CHOSEN FROM AN ARMY-NAVY LINEUP OUTSIDE THE MESS HALL TO SIT WITH THE PRESIDENT.

GOFF, WHOSE FATHER IS FOREMAN OF THE ICE COMPANY AT BATESVILLE, SAID HE TOLD THE PRESIDENT THAT MEN OF THE ARMED FORCES IN THE ALEUTIANS MISSED THEIR WIVES AND SWEETHEARTS MORE THAN ANYTHING ELSE. HE ADDED IN HIS CASE THERE WAS "A VERY SPECIAL GIRL."

RUTSCHER, WHO PROVIDED THE PRESIDENT WITH A CIGARETTE AND LIGHT FOR AN AFTER-LUNCH SMOKE, SAID THE PRESIDENT TOLD SOME GOOD JOKES.

"HE ASKED A LOT OF QUESTIONS ABOUT HUNTING AND FISHING," THE YOUNG SOLDIER SAID. "I THINK HE'D LIKE IT UP HERE."

EG803PEW

(ADVANCE)(WX)..ALEUTIAN ISLAND BASE,ALASKA,AUG.3-(AP)-DELAYED)-PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT FOUND THE ALEUTIANS IN THEIR MOST ATTRACTIVE STATE.

THEY WERE GREEN, WITH THE SOLID MATTING OF TUNDRA AND SHORT GRASS SPRINKLED WITH MANY VARIETIES OF SMALL WILDFLOWERS.

RAIN HAD SETTLED THE DUST BUT HAD NOT YET PRODUCED THE MUD THAT SUCKS AND FLOATS.

THE SUMMER FOGS WERE LIFTING AND THE WINTER STORMS WERE YET TO COME. THE WILLIWAWS WERE STILL ONLY MILDLY GUSTY.

AN OCCASIONAL PATCH OF BLUE SKY OR RAY OF SUNSHINE WERE SEEN.

(END ADVANCE FOR USE AT 8 P.M. EASTERN WAR TIME, FRIDAY, AUG.11).

WITH EG75[illegible]PEW

AUG 121944

(ADVANCE)(WX)..ALEUTIAN ISLAND BA[illegible], ALASKA, AUG.[illegible]-(AP)-(DELAYED)-FALA, THE PRESIDENT'S SCOTCH TERRIER, WOULD HAVE FOUND LOTS OF COMPANY IF HE COULD HAVE FOLLOWED THAT IMPULSE TO STAY IN THE ALEUTIANS.

THE FRISKY, BLACK PET WAS STILL ON THE DOCK AFTER THE PRESIDENT'S PARTY HAD GONE BACK ABOARD THE WARSHIP THAT BROUGHT THEM HERE. HE HAD TO BE SHOOED UP THE GANG PLANK.

DOGS ARE THE MOST COMMON PETS AND MASCOTS OF THE ARMED FORCES IN THIS THEATER. AND THE CLIMATE SEEMS TO AGREE WITH THEM.

VICE ADMIRAL FRANK JACK FLETCHER, COMMANDER OF THE NORTH PACIFIC, HAS A CHESAPEAKE RETRIEVER.

MAJOR GENERAL DAVENPORT JOHNSON, COMMANDER OF THE ELEVENTH AIR FORCE, OWNS A SPRINGER SPANIEL.

THE CANINE FAD HAS EVEN SPREAD TO THE FORCES AFLOAT. NEARLY EVERY DEST[illegible]OYER, DESTROYER ESCORT, PATROL CRAFT, SEAPLANE TENDER, MINESWEEPER OR TUG NOW HAS A DOG MASCOT, OR IS TRYING TO BEG OR [illegible]ORROW ONE.

(END ADVANCE FOR USE AT 8 P.M. EASTERN WAR TIME, FRIDAY, [illegible]UG.11).

EG751PEW

AN ALEUTIAN ISLAND BASE,AUG 7-(AP)-(DELAYED)-
ARMY AND NAVY COOPERATION SUPPLIED TRANSPORTATION FOR PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT DURING HIS ALEUTIAN VISIT, THE ARMY PROVIDING AN AUTOMOBILE AND THE NAVY THE DRIVER FOR HIS TOUR OF THIS BASE.

THE AUTOMOBILE, A PACKARD SEDAN, BELONGING TO THE ARMY'S ALASKAN DEPARTMENT, WAS DRIVEN BY A NAVY LIEUTENANT WHO SAID IT WAS HIS FIRST JOB OF CHAUFFEURING.

HE SAID THE PRESIDENT, WHO SAT IN THE FRONT SEAT WITH HIM, WAS FRIENDLY AND ENTERTAINING. HE ADDED THAT THE DRIVING DUTY, AFTER SEVERAL REHEARSALS, WAS EASY.

EG820PEW AUG 121944

SANTIAGO, CHILE, AUG 11-(AP)-FIFTY-THREE BODIES HAVE BEEN RECOVERED FROM SEWELL, ANDINE COPPER TOWN WHICH WAS ENGULFED BY A SNOWSLIDE, PROVINCIAL AUTHORITIES ANNOUNCED TODAY. ABOUT SIXTY OTHERS ARE BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN BURIED BY THE SLIDE.

DA1012AEW

BUENOS AIRES, AUG 11-(AP)-THE LAST VESTIGES OF GOVERNMENT CONTROL OF THE ARGENTINE PRESS WERE REMOVED LAST NIGHT WHEN INTERVENTORS STATIONED IN PRESS ASSOCIATION AND CABLE COMPANY OFFICES WERE ADVISED OFFICIALLY THAT HENCEFORTH THEY WILL LACK AUTHORITY TO CENSOR NEWS.

ALTHOUGH THE INTERVENTORS HAVE REMAINED AT THEIR POSTS SINCE FOREIGN MINISTER GEN.ORLANDO PELUFFO ANNOUNCED THE LIFTING OF CENSORSHIP ON JULY 26, THEY HAVE NOT INTERFERED WITH THE PUBLICATION OF NEWS.

DA1054AEW

MEXICO CITY,AUG.11-(AP)-JULIAN CARRILLO, MEXICAN CLASSICAL CONDUCTOR, SAYS HE HAS INVENTED A NEW MUSICAL SYSTEM, AND AN ORGANIZATION CALLED "METROPOLITAN GROUP 13" HAS BEEN ORGANIZED TO SPREAD AND TEACH IT.

CARRILLO CALLS HIS MUSIC THE "THIRTEENTH SOUND SYSTEM" BECAUSE OF HIS DISCOVERY OF A "THIRTEENTH SOUND" IN MUSIC LED HIM TO A "NEW OCTAVE."

EACH TONE IS DIVIDED INTO 16 PARTS INSTEAD OF TWO, AS IN ORDINARY MUSIC, MAKING 96 SOUNDS IN ALL.

IN WRITING THE MUSIC NUMBERS FROM ZERO TO 95 ARE USED INSTEAD OF NOTE SYMBOLS. MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS MUST BE ESPECIALLY ADAPTED FOR THE MUSIC.

FJ623ACW

MEXICO CITY,AUG.11-(AP)-THE $38,000,000 MEXICAN FILM PRODUCTION INDUSTRY, WHICH SUPPLIES MOST OF LATIN AMERICA, IS BESET WITH THE MOST SERIOUS AND DISCORDANT SITUATION IN ITS AUG 121944 HISTORY AS THE RESULT OF A CONFLICT BETWEEN A UNION OFFICIAL ONE ONE HAND AND THE NO.1 FUNNY MAN AND NO.1 TENOR SINGER OF THE SCREEN ON THE OTHER.

THE PRODUCTION OF 32 FILMS WAS SUSPENDED THREE WEEKS AGO, AND NO NEW PRODUCTION HAS BEEN STARTED, IN VIEW OF THE UNION DEADLOCK.

MEANWHILE, THIS REPUBLIC'S 1,164 CINEMAS ARE SHOWING MORE HOLLYWOOD-MADE PICTURES, AND RIVAL BUENOS AIRES IS GAINING IN ITS BID AS "THE HOLLYWOOD OF LATIN AMERICA."

IT WAS WHEN CANTINFLAS, POPULAR COMEDIAN, AND JORGE NEGRETE, SINGING LOVER OF THE MEXICAN SCREEN, WERE ELECTED SECRETARIES OF THE ACTORS' DIVISION OF THE NATIONAL CINEMA WORKERS' UNION THAT THE TROUBLE CAME TO A HEAD. AUG 121944

CANTINFLAS AND NEGRETE OPPOSED ENRIQUE SOLIS, HEAD OF THE TECHNICAL WORKERS' GROUP OF 1,200, WHICH HAD ABSORBED THE ACTORS' UNIT OF 2,400, AND UNDER THEIR LEADERSHIP THE ACTORS "SECEDED." THE ACTORS CHARGED THAT THEY HAD NO VOTES ALTHOUGH THEY PAID 5 PER CENT UNION DUES, AND THAT 5,000 EXTRAS NOT REGULAR MEMBERS ALSO WERE REQUIRED TO PAY THE DUES.

THE TECHNICAL GROUP, LOYAL TO SOLIS, REPLIED BY "SEIZING" MEXICO'S THREE PRODUCTION STUDIOS AND PARALYZING THE INDUSTRY.

PRESIDENT MANUEL AVILA CAMACHO AND THE LABOR MINISTRY INTERVENED AND RULED AGAINST SOLIS, WHO THEN PROMISED TO RESIGN.

HOWEVER, AFTER A MEETING OF HIS GROUP, HE ANNOUNCED THAT HIS FOLLOWERS DID NOT PERMIT HIM TO RESIGN.

MEMBERS OF THE 46 OTHER UNITS OF THE UNION THEN "CAPTURED" THE STUDIOS FROM THE TECHNICIANS' GROUP IN A BLOODLESS COUP.

BUT SALARY SCALES AND OTHER DIFFERENCES CAME TO THE FRONT, AND THE INDUSTRY REMAINS AT A STANDSTILL. AUG 121944

DV855PCWNM

KAMSACK,SASK.,AUG.11-(CANADIAN PRESS)-TWO HUNDRED SOLDIERS [illegible] ARRIVED TODAY TO HELP TOWNSMEN AND SCORES OF VOLUNTEERS FROM NEARBY COMMUNITIES CLEAR THE STORM-LITTERED STREET OF KAMSACK, WHERE WEDNESDAY MIDNIGHT'S CYCLONE CAUSED DAMAGE ESTIMATED BY THE TOWN CLERK AT $2,000,000.

30.24 —17941

THE FIRST STORM FATALITIES WERE REPORTED TODAY. EVELYN PADELY, 9, DIED OF HEAD INJURIES. A 2-YEAR-OLD BROTHER IS IN CRITICAL CONDITION.

LIGHTNING KILLED TWO OTHER PERSONS AS STORMS CUT A WIDE SWATH ACROSS THE PRAIRIES.

DV1037PCW

CARACAS,VE"EZUELA, AUG.11-(AP)-JACOB WILLIAM SCHMIDT, 45, TECH"OLOGIST FOR THE U.S.FOREIG" ECO"OMIC ADMI"ISTRATIO", DIED YESTERDAY AUG 12 1944 HEMORRHAGES AFTER HE WAS FLO"N HERE FROM THE ISLA"D OF MARGARITA BY LT.CO[illegible] HERVEY Y.WHITFIELD, HEAD OF THE U.S.AIR MISSIO" TO VE"EZUELA.

FOUR [illegible] TRANSFUSIO"S WERE SCHMIDT, WHOSE WIFE A"D TWO DAUGHTERS LIVE AT 1219 CAMERO" AVE., PLAI"FIELD,".J. FUNERAL SERVICES WERE HELD TODAY, WITH PRESIDE"T MEDI"A SE"DI"G FLOWERS. THE BODY WILL BE TAKE" TO THE U"ITED STATES.

BB337P....CARACAS 01300 AP24

A80 Add New York Japanese xxx caused."

DOMEI, JAPANESE PROPAGANDA AGENCY, IN A WIRELESS DISPATCH TO THE CONTROLLED PRESS IN OCCUPIED ASIA, SAID THAT "AT ONE SECTION OF KYUSHU FARM HOUSES WERE SET AFIRE, BUT THE FIRES WERE IMMEDIATELY CONTROLLED BY THE CIVILIAN UNITS WITHOUT THE HELP OF THE REGULAR FIRE BRIGADE." AUG 121944

ANOTHER JAPANESE BROADCAST SAID "ENEMY FIGHTERS AND BOMBERS HAD ATTACKED HALMAHERA AND YAP ISLANDS, AND MANOKWARI ON NEW GUINEA IN A SERIES OF RAIDS YESTERDAY AND WEDNESDAY.

THE BROADCAST SAID WASILE ON HALMAHERA, IMPORTANT JAPANESE STRONG-HOLD NORTHWEST OF NEW GUINEA, HAD BEEN HIT BY MORE THAN 50 PLANES IN A TWO-DAY ASSAULT. DOMEI CLAIMED SEVEN OF THE ATTACKING PLANES HAD BEEN SHOT DOWN.

YAP ISLAND WAS RAIDED YESTERDAY BY 19 HEAVY BOMBERS, DOMEI SAID, ADDING THAT JAPANESE GARRISON UNITS ON THE ISLAND HAD SHOT DOWN ONE PLANE AND "THEY WERE THUS REPULSED."

MANOKWARI, ON THE WESTERN TIP OF NEW GUINEA, WAS HIT BY "SIX LARGE ENEMY PLANES," DOMEI SAID, CLAIMING THAT ONE PLANE HAD BEEN SHOT DOWN.

BZ747AEW AUG 121944

NEW YORK AUG 11-(AP)-POPULATIO" OF TOKYO [illegible] O" AUG. 1 WAS 6,496,613, THE DOMEI AGE"CY SAID TODAY I" A DISPATCH REPORTED TO OWI.

THE POPULATIO" AUG.1,1940 WAS 6,778,804.

A168

NEW YORK,SATURDAY,AUG.12-(AP)-THE JAPANESE DOMEI AGENCY DIRECTED AN ENGLISH-LANGUAGE WIRELESS DISPATCH TO NORTH AMERICA TODAY REPORTING THAT THE AREA AROUND CANTON, CHINA, HAD BEEN THE TARGET FOR AN "ATTEMPTED RAID" THURSDAY NIGHT.

THE DISPATCH, RECORDED BY THE F.C.C., WAS DATE-LINED CANTON, AUG.11, AND SAID THE ATTACK HAD BEEN MADE ABOUT 9:30 P.M.

"DUE TO THE STRONG DEFENSE TAKEN BY THE JAPANESE," DOMEI CLAIMED, "THE ENEMY WARPLANES FLED WITHOUT BEING ABLE TO ENTER THE CITY OR ITS VICINITY."

EV1242AEW

NIGHT LEAD THE ROAD TO BERLIN

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS AUG 121944

1--RUSSIAN FRONT: 322 MILES (MEASURED FROM EASTERN SUBURBS OF WARSAW).

2--ITALIAN FRONT: 603 MILES (MEASURED FROM FLORENCE).

3--FRENCH FRONT: 626 MILES (MEASURED FROM SOIGNOLLES).

ME958PEW

FOUR YEARS AGO TODAY

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUG 121944

AUG.11, 1940--SEVERAL HUNDRED GERMAN PLANES BOMB ENGLISH CHANNEL COAST FROM DOVER TO PORTLAND; BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN CAIRO SAYS: "IT IS NOT OUR INTENTION TO DEFEND EVERY INCH OF SOIL IN SOMALILAND BUT RATHER TO MAKE THE ENEMY USE UP HIS PRECIOUS SUPPLIES OF FOOD, PETROL AND AMMUNITION, WHICH HE CANNOT REPLENISH, IN WHAT IS A STRATEGICALLY WASTEFUL ENTERPRISE."

M507AEW

WASHINGTON,AUG.11-(AP)-THE PHILIPPINE COMMONWEALTH SAID TODAY THAT COLONEL ANDRES SORIANO WILL NOT BE A MEMBER OF THE NEW WAR CABINET OF THE COMMONWEALTH, BECAUSE HE HAD SUBMITTED HIS RESIGNATION AS SECRETARY OF FINANCE BEFORE THE NEW PHILIPPINE PRESIDENT, SERGIO OSMENA, TOOK OFFICE.

COL.SORIANO, THE PHILIPPINE INFORMATION SERVICE SAID, HAD RESIGNED FROM THE CABINET AS SECRETARY OF FINANCE ON APRIL 13, 1944, BUT PRESIDENT QUEZON, WHO DIED RECENTLY, HAD ASKED THAT HE STAY ON.

HE AGAIN INSISTED ON SUBMITTING HIS RESIGNATION, IN ORDER TO RETURN TO ACTIVE MILITARY DUTY AND IS SOON TO LEAVE FOR THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC.

THE CABINET, ON JULY 14, EXPRESSED APPRECIATION OF HIS SERVICES.

THE PHILIPPINE COMMONWEALTH GAVE THIS EXPLANATION IN COMMENTING UPON AN ASSOCIATED PRESS STORY WHICH SAID THAT SORIANO HAD BEEN DROPPED FROM THE NEW CABINET.

FR1134PEW NM

AUG 121944

A171

THIRD LEAD SHIP FIRE (300)

NEW YORK,SATURDAY,AUG.12-(AP)-A FIRE WHICH ALMOST COMPLETELY DESTROYED PIER NO. 4 IN THE HUDSON RIVER AT HOBOKEN,N.J., WAS BROUGHT UNDER CONTROL AT 12:30 A.M. TODAY AFTER A FOUR-HOUR BATTLE.

UNOFFICIAL REPORTS SAID THE BLAZE HAD CAUSED $4,000,000 DAMAGE, INCLUDING DESTRUCTION OF GOODS STORED ON THE PIER AND THREE LIGHTERS AND A DERRICK MOORED ALONGSIDE WHICH BURNED TO THE WATERLINE.

FIVE MEN WHO SUFFERED BURNS OR HAD BEEN OVERCOME BY SMOKE WERE TAKEN TO ST.MARY'S HOSPITAL AT HOBOKEN, AND SOME 12 OTHERS WERE TREATED AT THE SCENE.

FIRE APPARATUS WAS CALLED FROM NEW YORK AND FROM SURROUNDING NEW JERSEY CITIES AFTER A GENERAL ALARM HAD BEEN SOUNDED BY THE HOBOKEN FIRE DEPARTMENT.

NINE HUNDRED COASTGUARDSMEN AND HUNDREDS OF REGULAR AND CIVILIAN DEFENSE AUXILIARY POLICE WERE CALLED TO AID IN KEEPING THOUSANDS OF SPECTATORS A SAFE DISTANCE FROM THE BLAZING PIER.

POLICE CHIEF EDWARD L.MC FEELEY OF HOBOKEN SAID HE WAS INFORMED THE FIRE STARTED ON THE PIER WHEN DRUMS CONTAINING NITRO-CELLULOSE EXPLODED, BUT OTHER REPORTS SAID THE DRUMS CONTAINED A CHEMICAL USED IN PAINT, WHILE THE UNION CITY HUDSON DISPATCH SAID IT HEARD THAT THE EXPLODING MATERIAL WAS HIGH OCTANE GASOLINE.

MC FEELEY SAID THE FIRE WAS PRECEDED BY A SERIES OF MUFFLED EXPLOSIONS AND THAT THE ENSUING BLAZE SPREAD IN THE WOODEN UNDERSTRUCTURE OF THE PIER.

TWO SHIPS, AN AMERICAN LIBERTY STHIP AND A FOREIGN CARGO VESSEL, TIED UP AT THE PIER WERE TOWED TO SAFETY BEFORE THE FLAMES REACHED THEM, THE POLICE CHIEF REPORTED. A REPORT THAT ONE SHIP WAS LOADED WITH AMMUNITION COULD NOT BE CONFIRMED.

THE FIRE WAS AT ITS HEIGHT AT 10 P.M., WHEN THE FLAMES TOWERED ABOUT 500 FEET AND THREATENED TO SPREAD TO ADJOINING PIERS.

THE PIER, GOVERNMENT CONTROLLED, IS 1,000 FEET LONG AND HAS TWO FLOORS. BEFORE THE WAR IT WAS THE BERTH FOR SOME OF THE LARGEST TRANS-ATLANTIC LINERS.

(200)

AUG 121944

NEW YORK--FIRST ADD THIRD LEAD SHIP FIRE X X X TRANS-ATLANTIC LINERS.

THE LIGHTERS AND DERRICK WHICH BURNED HAMPERED FIREMEN BECAUSE THEY WERE TIED UP BETWEEN THE PIERS AND BLOCKED EFFORTS TO FIGHT THE BLAZE FROM THE SIDE. FOR SEVERAL HOURS FIREMEN WERE FORCED TO WITHDRAW COMPLETELY FROM THE PIER BECAUSE OF INTENSE HEAT AND ONLY FIREBOATS COULD BE EMPLOYED.

THE ADJOINING PIER NO. 3 WAS SLIGHTLY DAMAGED.

MC FEELEY DENIED REPORTS THAT "EIGHT PERSONS WERE MISSING" AS A RESULT OF THE FIRE. "I HAVE CHECKED THOROUGHLY," HE SAID, "AND NO LIVES WERE LOST."

MORE EXPLOSIONS WERE HEARD IN THE VICINITY OF THE PIER BETWEEN 10 AND 11 P.M., BUT THEY WERE NOT SO SEVERE AS THE FIRST BLASTS, 15 OF WHICH WERE HEARD ON BOTH SIDES OF THE RIVER.

A COASTGUARD OFFICER WHO DECLINED TO GIVE HIS NAME SAID THE EXPLOSIONS WERE CAUSED BY SPONTANEOUS COMBUSTION IN 45 DRUMS CONTAINING OIL AND CHEMICALS STORED ON THE PIER.

THE INJURED TREATED AT ST.MARY'S HOSPITAL IN HOBOKEN WERE LISTED AS:

JOHN KOSWAASKEY, 46, OF (211 WEBSTER AVENUE), JERSEY CITY, AND ALFRED DONNAULLE, 52, OF (522 26TH STREET) UNION CITY, LONGSHOREMEN WHO SUFFERED BURNS, AND COASTGUARDSMEN PAUL RAGE, (CQ) 19, JOHN TRECCA, 20, RUSSELL BROURREN, 31, DAVID SCHITER, 19, NORMAN JAMESON, 20, FRED BERRYHILL, 21, AND ANTHONY FORREY, 20, ALL OF WHOM WERE TREATED FOR SMOKE POISONING.

(EDS: IN THIRD GRAPH THIRD LEAD MAKE NINE MEN INJURED INSTEAD FIVE.)

AUG 121944

(NO PICKUP)

EV203AEW

PARATROOPS, TO THE RANK OF COLONEL GENERAL.

IN AN ENGLISH-LANGUAGE WIRELESS DISPATCH TO EAST ASIA RECORDED BY THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION, DNB COMMENTED THAT THE 54-YEAR-OLD GENERAL WAS THE YOUNGEST OFFICER OF HIS RANK IN THE GERMAN AIR FORCE AND THAT HE HAD BEEN BADLY WOUNDED ON THE FIRST DAY OF THE NAZI INVASION OF THE NETHERLANDS.

AUG 12 1944

AUG 12 1944 DUP

8/11/44 BED 128PEW...

A154WX (200)

WASHINGTON,AUG 10-(AP)-AN ARMY OFFICER STRICKEN WITH INFANTILE PARALYSIS WHILE IN A REMOTE CORNER OF THE CHINESE HINTERLAND WAS KEPT ALIVE FOR 14 DAYS BY ARTIFICIAL RESPIRATION--LONG ENOUGH FOR HIM TO BE FLOWN OUT TO HELP.

THE WAR DEPARTMENT, REPORTING THE INCIDENT TODAY, SAID HE IS 2D LT.ROBERT WESSELHOEFT,JR., 27, OF WESTWOOD,MASS., WHO BECAME ILL WHILE ON AN AAF MAPPING PARTY. HE MANAGED TO HOLD HIMSELF IN THE SADDLE OF A MOUNT FOR TWO DAYS, UNTIL THE PARTY COULD REACH THE HOME OF A MISSIONARY.

A WIRELESS MESSAGE WAS SENT TO THE NEAREST STATION OF THE CHINA-INDIA-BURMA WING OF THE AIR TRANSPORT COMMAND. MEANWHILE, WESSELHOEFT WAS KEPT ALIVE BY ARTIFICIAL RESPIRATION ADMINISTERED BY OTHERS IN THE PARTY AND BY SIX CHINESE HIRED WHO KNEW HOW TO KEEP UP THE TREATMENT.

AUG 12 1944

WESSELHOEFT'S COMPANIONS THEN BUILT A 1,500 FOOT RUNWAY. ON THIS MAKE-SHIFT STRIP A LIGHT LIAISON-TYPE PLANE WAS LANDED, ITS SEAT REMOVED AND MOST OF THE EQUIPMENT JETTISONED TO ALLOW FOR THE PATIENT'S 200-POUND WEIGHT.

MAJOR FRED G.WELSH OF WEST ENGLEWOOD,N.J., SERVING WITH THE 14TH AIRFORCE COMPOSITE WING, FLEW THE PLANE--A THREE AND A HALF HOUR FLIGHT THROUGH WEATHER SO THICK THAT OTHER PLANES WERE GROUNDED, OVER MOUNTAIN RANGES 17,000 FEET HIGH. AND WHILE WELSH FLEW THE PLANE WITH ONE HAND HE PUMPED A LEVER TO OPERATE AN IMPROVISED ARTIFICIAL RESPIRATOR WHICH KEPT WESSELHOEFT ALIVE.

LATEST INFORMATION SAID THAT THE PATIENT, IN AN IRON LUNG AT THE CALCUTTA HOSPITAL, WAS "HOLDING HIS OWN."

DUP

HY1215AEW

(230) WASHINGTON,AUG.10-(AP)-PRESIDENT SERGIO OSMENA OF PHILIPPINES, WHO ASSUMED OFFICE RECENTLY AFTER THE DEATH OF PRESIDENT QUEZON, ANNOUNCED A REORGANIZATION OF THE PHILIPPINE COMMONWEALTH WAR CABINET TODAY.

AT THE SAME TIME HE APPOINTED COL.CARLOS P.ROMULO, COLORFUL NEWSPAPER EDITOR AND PUBLICIST, AS PHILIPPINE RESIDENT COMMISSIONER TO THE UNITED STATES, SUCCEEDING JOAQUIN M.ELIZALDE, RESIGNED. ROMULO IS SECRETARY OF INFORMATION AND PUBLIC RELATIONS IN THE NEW CABINET.

THE ONLY NEW MEMBER OF THE CABINET IS ISMAEL MATHAY, APPOINTED TO THE NEWLY CREATED POST OF BUDGET AND FINANCE COMMISSIONER. TWO MEN WERE DROPPED FROM THE OLD CABINET, ELIZALDE AND ANDREAS SORIANO, WHO WAS SUCCEEDED AS SECRETARY OF FINANCE BY JAIME HERNANDEZ. THE LATTER WAS AUDITOR GENERAL IN THE OLD CABINET, A POST WHICH NOW IS ABOLISHED.

30. 24— 1943

MAJ.GEN.BASILIO J.VALDES WAS RETAINED IN HIS POSITION AS SECRETARY OF NATIONAL DEFENSE, DR.ARTURO B.ROTOR KEEPS THE TITLE OF SECRETARY TO THE PRESIDENT, AND COL.MANUEL NIETO CHANGES HIS TITLE FROM SECRETARY TO THE CABINET TO THAT OF SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE AND INDUSTRY.

AUG 12 1944

ELIZALDE, A FORMER SPANISH CITIZEN WHO WAS NATURALIZED A PHILIPPINE CITIZEN ABOUT 10 YEARS AGO, WAS A CLOSE PERSONAL FRIEND OF PRESIDENT QUEZON, WHO DIED LAST WEEK. HE HAS NEVER BEEN AN ASSOCIATE OF OSMENA.

FR1133AEW

DUP.

Blank

AUG 12 1944

AUG 12 1944

U. S. Tanks Hit Nazi Flank in Encirclement, Others Driving South as Riviera Is Bombed

OFFICIAL MYSTERY CLOAKS PROGRESS OF ALLIED FORCES

Germans Use All Available Reserves in Effort to Slow Drive.

10 MILE ADVANCE

Armored Thrust Pushes Toward Southern France Below Loire River.

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Sunday, Aug. 13 — (AP) The Allies, with official mystery cloaking the American swing around the left flank of the half-encircled German Seventh army in northwestern France, pounded forward slowly at five points in the bulge between Mortain and Caen yesterday and American armor pushed toward southern France well below the Loire to the portentous accompaniment of bomb bursts on the Mediterranean coast.

One German salient six miles wide and four miles deep was rubbed out by coordinated British-Canadian drives below Caen.

The Germans, reversing their previous withdrawal tactics, hurled all available reinforcements into the Normandy bulge which American, British and Canadian troops were battering from three sides.

The vast regions of France below the broad Loire river already had been penetrated by American ground forces which stabbed more than 10 miles southward after liberating Nantes.

News Lacking

But lack of news concerning that front and on activity beyond Le Mans on the Paris road — a place which the Americans had passed four days previously — reached the proportions of a complete blackout. Dispatches from the front were heavily censored, and at the late night headquarters press conference there was no word of developments.

The speed, extent and objectives of the American drives so befuddled the Germans that the Allies rigidly continued the four-day clamp-down on word of progress, announcing, "the situation must remain obscure purely for security reasons."

It asked public patience "because on secrecy depends the success of the Allied plan and the lives of American, British, Canadian and other Allied soldiers."

On the remainder of the active front, the British driving four miles east of Thury-Harcourt, reached Fresney-Le-Vieux and linked up with Canadians who pushed down from Bretteville-sur-Laize. This gave the British control of the Caen-Thury highway.

The Canadians took the road junction town of Barbery and advanced a mile and a half southward to Bois Halbout.

These drives eliminated the German salient between the Laize and Orne rivers. Whether any sizable German forces were trapped in the area was not disclosed.

Advance Half-Mile

East of Bretteville, across the Caen-Falaise road, the Canadians advanced a little over a half-mile in the St. Sylvain area against fierce opposition.

Southwest of Thury, the British captured St. Pierre La Vieille and pressed on southward within three miles north of Conde-sur-Noireau, an anchor point of German positions west of the Orne.

West of Conde the British were battling crack German troops in the town of Chenedolle six miles east of Vire. The heavy fighting here as well as that southeast of St. Sylvain involved both German SS. troops and paratroops and the Allies found thickly mined each bit of territory they were able to gain.

South of Vire the Americans recaptured Mortain, thus adding to the pressure on the Germans' Vire salient, but progress beyond that bitterly contested point was slowed by stubborn resistance.

Coming up from the south, 33 miles below the British positions, the Americans were meeting stiffer resistance, east of Mortain and Sourdeval field dispatches said.

Aim Kept Secret

Only the Supreme command and the participants knew whether the American drive was aimed primarily for Paris or to close the trap on the German Seventh army, estimated at about 100,000 men. Exact whereabouts of the Americans, who four days ago swept past Le Mans, 110 miles from Paris, remained undisclosed.

One unconfirmed radio report said the Americans were in the outskirts of Paris, but there was no supporting evidence, and headquarters declined to give a hint.

Field dispatches from the British front called the German reinforcement below Caen one of the strangest moves of the war and quoted British staff officers as being frankly puzzled at Field Marshal Gen. Guenther Von Kluge's gamble in throwing the bulk of the German armed forces in northwest Europe into such a threatening corridor.

"Undoubtedly, reinforcements are reaching the hard-pressed German divisions," one staff officer said. "Their quality is uncertain, but in some cases, at least, they are produced by milking other divisions or by switching reinforcements meant for other divisions."

German transport all around the front continued to take a heavy pounding from the air, but the Germans even sent back their vitally-needed front-line transport to bring up reinforcements as the battle flamed on in sweaty midsummer heat. Repeatedly the Germans put in counterattacks to keep the "roof" from caving in on them, but the British in each case held firm or made bloody gains.

The Germans officially acknowledged that they had withdrawn from Mortain and Sourdeval, on their left flank, in the face of an American drive spearhead by two tank divisions and three motorized infantry formations.

Yanks Beyond Aencon

The Germans also admitted the Americans were beyond Aencon, 30 miles north of Le Mans.

Field dispatches from the American First army said gains of one to two miles had been made on a 15-mile front from Mortain northeastward below Vire, with another American column pushing southeastward from Vire past Maisoncelles-la-Jourdan.

Mortain itself was by-passed and now well behind the American lines. Whether any small body of Germans was trapped there was not known.

On the Brittany peninsula the methodical American cleanup continued. The Germans made a sortie out of Brest during the day but were driven back, and their maneuver was described as a reconnaissance in force rather than a counterattack. Allied planes continued to bomb the besieged Brittany ports.

The Americans took 10,000 prisoners in 48 hours, it was disclosed, mostly on the Brittany peninsula.

The unexplained American thrust southward across the broad reaches of the Loire river was last reported 10 miles below Nantes. The Germans acknowledged that they had withdrawn generally from the north banks of the river between Angers and Nantes.

The German commander for southern France, Col. Gen. Johannes Blaskowitz, is believed to have less than 10 divisions to defend his extensive territory.

U. S. COLUMN RACES TOWARD SOUTH FRANCE

Operations West of Paris Are Shrouded in Deep Mystery.

GERMANS ARE KEPT GUESSING

Von Kluge Hurls More Nazis Into Orne-Caen Trap— Move Baffles Allies.

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 12 (A. P.).— The Americans developed a threat to southern France today, as Supreme Headquarters announced that the four-day mystery operations west of Paris had the Germans so much in the dark that strictest secrecy was of paramount importance.

Field Marshal Gen. Guenther von Kluge was reported recklessly throwing the bulk of his West Wall forces into the area below Caen, despite the development of an Allied encirclement threat.

The menace to southern France was an American armored thrust ten miles southward across the Loire River, while up to 750 United States heavy bombers from Italy blasted Nazi coastal defenses along the Mediterranean.

Keeping Nazis Baffled.

Supreme Headquarters formally announced that the Allies' sweep across northwestern France — last officially reported on Wednesday to be driving beyond Le Mans, 110 miles from Paris—was calculated so to baffle the Germans with its speed and extent that "the situation must remain obscure purely for security reasons."

The only news since then has been front reports of a push northward toward the Channel—which might cut off the great German concentration locked in heavy fighting south of Caen and north of Falaise, forty-two miles from the reported tip of the American spearhead.

British and Canadian armies along the northern flank punched out new gains. The British advanced 2,500 yards to within 5,000 yards of the enemy bastion of Conde-sur-Noireau, 11 miles southwest of Thury-Harcourt and 26 from Caen, heightening the peril to Germans in the Caen pocket. The enemy, however, recaptured a bitterly fought hill farther north.

Resistance To Yanks

The squeeze on this area was continued by Americans from the south, but a front dispatch said this United States thrust above of Le Mans was meeting strong resistance.

German reports said the Americans had reached Alencon, 30 miles above Le Mans.

Even as the Allies pressed in on this coffin-shaped, 30-mile corridor extending west of the Orne, the Germans were reported pouring in reinforcements despite crippled transport. Front dispatches said they had orders to withdraw only on authorization from Hitler's headquarters.

Sourdeval Entered

J. W. Gallagher, Associated Press correspondent, reported from the front that Americans, driving forward from one to two miles on a 15-mile front running roughly from Mortain toward Vire, sent patrols into Sourdeval and engulfed half a dozen small towns today.

Another column pushed out from Maisoncelles-la-Jourdan, four miles southeast of Vire, and made satisfactory progress.

In the area between Mortain and Sourdeval, the air force struck at German tanks and vehicles. Doughboys by-passed Mortain, now behind American lines, but it is not known if any small body of Germans was trapped in the town itself, Gallagher reported.

Counterattack At Brest

On the Breton peninsula the Germans hit out from besieged Brest this morning in a small counterattack. They were apparently reconnaissance thrusts to test United States offensive positions at the big port, hammered by RAF heavy bombers this morning.

Headquarters said United States troops had taken more than 10,000 prisoners in 48 hours up to Thursday midnight.

The break across the Loire ten miles into southern France was made Friday simultaneously with sudden raids by a special force of tactical bombers along the Mediterranean coast, 450 miles to the southeast.

AUG 13 1944

Costal Defenses Hit

It was timed with a bomb-rain along more than 40 miles of the French and Italian Rivieras by Italy-based warplanes striking at pillboxes, gun emplacements and radio stations of enemy coastal defenses. This blow was reminiscent of pre-invasion air raids on the French Channel area.

Lieut. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's drive across the Loire had great implications, but the possibilities of the Allies' course in this area may not be speculated upon at present.

It was the first sign, however, that the Allies did not intend to base their southern flank on the Loire river, stretching inland from the base of Brittany almost to Paris, but were starting to bite a chunk out of huge and thinly defended southern France—an area roughly four times that of the northwest Seine-Loire corner which they now dominate.

Communication Cut Told

(Barcelona reports said French Partisans had cut all direct railroad, highway and telephone communications between Vichy and Paris.)

General Sir Bernard L. Montgomery in a message to his troops yesterday asserted "the great bulk of the German forces in northwest Europe are in a bad way. We are around behind them in many places, and it is possible some of them may not get away."

Battle For Alencon

(The German high command communique today said the United States drive north of Le Mans had been reinforced, and that heavy fighting was in progress for Alencon, only 35 miles below Canadian-menaced Falaise.

(The Berlin radio said Americans reached Alencon yesterday—a point about 30 miles north of Le Mans—and pushed on north for several miles. The Berlin broadcast, picked up in London, said the Germans had evacuated Mortain and Sourdeval in the pocket behind Le Mans and Alencon.

"Most Important Thrust"

(Reuter reported that the German DNB news agency today described the reported American thrust north of Le Mans as "the most important of all the Allied thrusts."

(The agency said: "With powerful tanks and infantry mounted on tanks, the Americans here are pushing to the north. There can be no doubt that the Allies are attempting to pry open our front between the Orne and Vire by a wide-flung pincer attack."

Troop Shift Reported

(A Stockholm report said the enemy was pulling troops from the Calais area to the north and rushing them into the Seine-Loire sector.

(The Paris radio declared the Americans already had punched through Alencon, battling closer to a possible juncture with the Canadian First Army.)

London afternoon newspapers played up an unconfirmed report by an American broadcaster in London that American advance units were in the Paris outskirts. This came on top of a Swiss broadcast that the Americans had reached Chartres, the guardian city of the last 50-mile defense zone before Paris. But there was no official information of anything beyond a push of undetermined depth east of Le Mans, which is 110 miles from Paris.

Primary Objective

(The Paris radio said today the German command had placed Paris under an 11.15 P. M. curfew beginning tonight.

(Available information indicated Paris might not be one of the immediate objectives of the sweeping American advance and that the Allied command was pursuing the primary aim of destroying enemy armies.)

Nazi broadcasters took cognizance of the encirclement possibility in the drive north of Le Mans and forecast a German withdrawal from the narrow 30-mile Orne-Mortain salient where, amid steady and heavy fighting, the Allies were pressing the Germans back and threatening to squeeze the salient to extinction between the major northern, southern and eastward drives.

East Of Le Mans

In addition to the arms extending to the north and northeast, one American column was reported rolling due east of Le Mans on Chateaudun, guarding the road to Orleans and the open country between the Seine and Loire rivers south of Paris. Unofficial British reports said Chateaudun had been reached.

A fourth column striking out from Le Mans was believed headed toward Tours to the southeast to solidify the hold on the Loire river guarding the American right flank.

At General von Kluge's shattered hinge in Normandy, where the Canadian 1st Army still was halted outside Falaise, 21 miles south of Caen, the Germans withdrew from the dangerous six-mile-wide salient between the Orne and the Laize rivers.

British-Canadian Junction

Canadian patrols moving westward into the Cinglais forest met British patrols from the Orne bridgehead, making the junction without opposition.

A front dispatch said that the Canadian First Army pushed a mile and a half west over the Laize river near Barbery south of the forest, tightening the squeeze on the Germans between the Orne and Laize. The thrust was made from Bretteville-sur-Laize.

British troops on the Canadian First Army, who had plunged into Vimont, seven miles southeast of Caen, found the town too hot to hold.

British Second Army troops pressing from west of the Orne toward a junction with the Canadians attacking Falaise took Esson, across the river and just below the newly captured road junction town of Thury-Harcourt, putting them within 13 miles of the Canadian line.

Drive Near Conde

Front-line dispatches said that the British Second Army today captured high ground within 5,000 yards of the German bastion of Conde-sur-Noireau, 11 miles southwest of Thury-Harcourt and 26 from Caen.

The Tommies opened their attack just after dawn, and four hours later the enemy had been thrown back 2,500 yards in bitter close-quarter fighting. The threat to Conde heightened the peril of masses of German troops in the Orne river sector.

Farther north inside the tightening noose, however, the Germans delivered a violent assault, recapturing Hill 229 just west of St. Pierre la Vieille.

Evidently the American siege forces in Brittany were taking time in order to save manpower in cleaning up the doomed strongholds in the cut-off peninsula. The communique said only that the situation remained unchanged at Brest and Lorient.

A small part of the Germans' last strong point at St. Malo, north coast port, still was holding out and heavy fighting was continuing for the little cape town of Dinard, just across the inlet.

(The German radio said the "whole town of St. Malo is ablaze.")

Relentless Bombing

Closely keyed to the ground fighting were the relentless bombing attacks made by Allied aircraft on the Germans' fuel dumps, transportation routes and choked freight yards far behind the battle lines in France.

The primary objective of these attacks was the isolation of the zone of ground fighting. They were aimed at countering German attempts to rush reinforcements to their hard-pressed divisions from Belgium, Germany, and other areas of France.

Typical of this series of Allied air blows was the bombing attack carried out by four-engined RAF Lancasters last night on the railway junction at Givors, about 200 miles southeast of Paris and today's blow by American heavy bombers on Metz to the east.

Throughout the day yesterday nearly 2,000 Allied heavy bombers ranged from the Belgian border to the tip of Brittany in attacks ranging from front-line support to great movements against German supply lines.

Cut Off For ~~Five~~ Days, 'Lost Battalion' Saved

AUG 13 1944

Nazis "Had A Hell Of A Nerve" Demanding Surrender, Yanks' Commander Says After Rescue

By WILLIAM SMITH WHITE

With an American Infantry Battalion near Mortain, France, Aug. 12 (AP)—This battalion was rescued this afternoon after being cut off by the Germans for five and one-half days on an ear-shaped hill just east of Mortain.

The Germans repeatedly had demanded that the battalion surrender, but at the blackest hour, on Wednesday night, the captain in command sent this message back to the SS troops surrounding his force.

"I will surrender when every one of our bullets has been fired and every one of our bayonets is sticking in a German belly."

The captain was R. A. Kerley. He told about it tonight after a relief regiment had cut its way to the battalion's isolated position.

"A Hell Of A Nerve"

The captain stood gaunt and blackbearded against the wall of an old stable that now is the battalion command post and related his reply as calmly as if he were repeating some casual street-corner conversation from his home town of Houston, Texas.

An officer standing near by said, "You had a hell of a nerve to tell them that."

"They had a hell of a nerve to put a proposition like that up to me," replied Kerley with a grin.

Relieved By Counterattack

He and the survivors of the lost battalion came down the hill this afternoon after being relieved by the counterattack of two other infantry battalions, one of them commanded by the colonel of this regiment, who since Monday morning had sweated in silent agony to free his trapped men.

Now they are free and are holding another hill, which is quiet, and they can rest.

In the successful relieving assault, the colonel went up the hill in his jeep.

"The German doesn't make me walk often, but I had to hit the dirt from that jeep three times going up because of his fire," the colonel said.

Nazi Was "Very Polite"

Acting commander of the battalion was Capt. Reynolds C. Erickson, a Miles (Iowa) farmer until the war, but it was Kerley to whom the Germans delivered the ultimatum Wednesday.

"He (the German emissary) was an officer in shiny boots and very polite," said Kerley.

"He came up under a white flag and told me the battalion was surrounded and he would give us until 8 o'clock to quit, and if we didn't he would destroy us all."

Gesturing with one hand and digging into a can of field rations with the other, the thin, tough-looking American said, "I told him to go to hell."

Wounded Yell Approval

Then Kerley told him the only terms under which the battalion would surrender, and even the wounded lifted their heads and yelled approval at the captain's defiance.

The men of this battalion had been up there since early Monday, and the best efforts to help them had delivered them by air only enough food for two meals, while field guns shot medicines into them in the cases of smoke shells.

They got blood plasma bandages, sulpha powders and morphine, and all arrived safely except the morphine, which was too battered for use.

Caught Some Meat

The men also managed to catch a few rabbits and chickens, and said some indomitable French civilians slipped up the hill at night and gave them fresh milk.

Captain Erickson said the Germans also sneaked close to the top of the hill each night, "but in the daytime they stayed back from us."

"There were Germans on all sides of us," he said. "When they came out with their flag of truce our men were in fine spirits. We had just been killing some rabbits and chickens.

What He Remembers

"One thing I remember most of all was once when we were alerted that the Germans were going to attack by air. I was walking around up there and one of my men said to me, 'Is this it?'

"I don't know why, but that sticks in my mind more sharply than anything else in all of it."

The battalion held the hill beyond every reasonable hope, standing firm even when battalion and regimental command posts were overrun and medical officers captured and with the full force of an entire German SS division ranged against it.

Besides Captains Erickson and Kerley and their companies, others who came back with their companies, but not in the strength in which they went out, were Capt. Delmont K. Bryn, of Brookings, S. D.; Lieut. Joseph F. Reaser, of Gettysburg, Pa., and Lieut. Elmer C. Rohmiller (home address unavailable).

AUG 13 1944

ALLIES IN FRANCE HEARTEN RUSSIANS

Moscow, Aug. 12 (A. P.).—The Russians, overjoyed at the Allied victories in France, rushed all the latest news of the advances to the Red Army fronts today by planes, radio and telegraph. Newspapers took the tidings to the men on the march.

"Our soldiers are rejoicing with all their hearts at the good work of the Allied soldiers," commented Ilya Ehrenburg, author and journalist. "We are walking along different roads but we are going to the same place, Berlin."

Guns Shoot Sulfa, Plasma To U. S. 'Lost Battalion'

By J. W. Gallagher

AUG 131944

On the Mortain Sector in France, Aug. 12 (AP)—American Long Tom 155s, delivering life instead of death, fired shells filled with blood plasma, morphine and sulfa drugs to a "lost battalion" fighting on a hill behind German lines.

For five days the battalion of an American infantry division fought behind enemy lines, causing great havoc and refusing two demands to surrender from Hitler's prize SS troops. They were supplied with food in "dive-bombing" by Thunderbolts, and with medical supplies by Long Tom artillery shells.

In Line Over 40 Days

The battalion was part of a division which has been in the line more than 40 days. Although tired, it bore the brunt of an attack by more than four Nazi armored divisions, standing firm even when battalion and regimental command posts were overrun and switchboard operators had to use bazookas to drive off the enemy.

The battalion command directed artillery fire on German positions, and the infuriated Germans retaliated with mortar fire and a renewed counterattack. But the battalion held.

Yesterday during daylight the Germans, striving desperately to withdraw, took to a road with a large convoy of fanks and guns. The lost battalion on the hill spotted the column, called on artillery, and every American gun along that sector of the front rained shells down while the battalion corrected their fire.

Column Destroyed

The total destruction of the column was told in these words by an observer on the fading radio:

"Tired as we are and hungry as we are, there is not a man who is not happy as can be at the sight."

Late today a regiment fought its way to the battalion position, opening up a relief route.

While the problem of feeding the battalion was solved from the air, getting medical supplies there was a different question.

Morphine Battered

This was solved when someone thought of taking smoke shells, cutting out the insides, packing medical supplies in cotton and firing them to the hilltop with 155s from miles back.

The battlaion reported all except the morphine arrived in good shape, even to the blood plasma in glass containers. Some of the mophine was too battered for use.

Wild West Days Are Reborn in Battle of France

Roaming Nazi Bands Are 'Indians,' Hunted Down by American 'Federals'

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS IN FRANCE, Aug. 12 (AP).—The battle for France has become a twentieth century version of the winning of the American West, with roaming bands of Germans marked for extermination.

"Indian territory"—and that's the term used by Army officers to describe it—includes great blocks of forest and farm land from Brest to Le Mans and from Angers, by the River Loire, north to Mortain.

Although American armored columns have cut this great block of France away from the main body of the German Army there still are wandering and pocketed enemy groups ranging from small squads to units of some size still intact and fighting like roving Indian tribes.

Many of these enemy units now are breaking into French farm homes and stealing eggs and livestock to keep from starving.

Only from Mortain north to the sea is there anything like a stabilized front. Elsewhere American mechanized cavalry is thrusting and patrolling like Federal bluecoats of old Indian war times.

Playing the part of Indian scouts, armed members of the French resistance movement hunt out hidden bands of marauding Germans and either clash with them or ride back posthaste to report their presence to "Federal troops."

Troops ride to the noise of grinding tank treads instead of the music of hooves and cut up the enemy with shells instead of sabers, but they charge with all the thrill of a horse opera. Everything is there but the bugle.

Resistance fighters are so careless of dress as were the old-time Indian scouts—and they are just as reckless.

They ride about the secondary roads in diminutive vintage model automobiles, flying Tricolor flags visible for miles, and it takes a stout-hearted German to tangle with these wild young men carrying potato masher grenades and captured German rifles.

Some American armored columns between Le Mans and Brest are patrolling sixty-mile stretches. Some of these flying spearheads have run wild since the American break-through punctured the solid German Lessay-Periers-St. Lo line late in July and plunged the war into a period of razzle-dazzle fighting.

"The break-through ended that 1918 type of fighting in the Normandy hedgerows which was costly on both sides," said Captain James Campbell, of Memphis.

"Our reconnaissance units have light tanks, halftracks and light artillery, and if opposition isn't too strong they rush on through it. If it is more than they can handle they withdraw or fight a delaying action until heavy armored support arrives."

Like settlers of the covered wagon days, truck convoys moving through the "Apache country" need protection and they are getting it now, although in the first days of spectacular advance through Normandy they had to run a gantlet of enemy ambushes.

A number of trucks were shot up by hidden German machine-gunners who employed the old Indian trick of waiting until most of the convoy was past and then picking off stragglers.

In this wildwest warfare in Brittany motorcycle messengers have had a tougher time than the pony express riders.

Main roads now are safe, even to jeeps and unarmed traffic—except for perhaps an occasional fanatical sniper—but for days after the peninsula first was cut messengers were ambushed by lurking Germans.

AUG 131944

Rommel Used Pershing's Old 1918 Chateau

German General Worked at the Same Table, but Without Same Success

By Edward D. Ball

WITH THE AMERICANS ON THE ROAD TO PARIS, Aug. 11 (Delayed) (AP).—Field Marshal Erwin Rommel plotted his futile anti-invasion plans in the same stately stone chateau and at the same table where General John J. Pershing worked in the World War, and where British Army Headquarters was situated for a time early in this war.

The chateau, which now is behind our lines, also was headquarters for Colonel General Friedrich Dollmann, commander of German forces in western France, who was found dead at Le Mans in mysterious circumstances after the Allied invasion.

Rommel, Dollman, Field Marshal Karl Rudolf Gerd von Sundstedt, Admiral Karl Doenitz, Air Force Field Marshal Hugo Sperrle and other high command leaders put their heads together in the richly furnished study until the Nazi army command decamped less than a month ago.

The plump, merry-eyed head housekeeper showed me through the ornate place today. She explained that her mistress, seventy-eight-year-old Comtesse du Houssoix, the owner, and her staff had remained in part of the chateau during the two years of German occupancy. The Comte du Houssoix died in 1939. The ailing comtesse was confined to her bed today.

The housekeeper showed me the second-floor study with its beautiful hand-carved oak paneling where the Nazi command pored over maps.

"And that table over there was where Pershing worked during visits to the chateau, which quartered forty of his staff officers in the last war," she said.

It was a solid, highly-polished table in the center of a room, walls which were covered with oils by old masters. Chairs about the room were covered with priceless tapestry.

"Dollmann," she continued, "arrived here Feb. 7, 1942, and lived here until they found him dead in Le Mans recently. He had stayed in town overnight and after his death the Germans announced he had committed suicide, but word got around that he was made a goat and put out of the way because the Germans couldn't stop the Allied invasion."

[The Berlin radio said on June 30 that Dollmau, commander of the 7th Germany Army, had been killed in action. It was speculated in London that he might have been a bomb victim. Hitler later gave Dollmann a posthumous decoration.]

Rommel made his first appearance at the chateau last March in great secrecy, the housekeeper said. After his first visit, Rommel came often.

For protection against air attack, the Nazis had within sprinting distance of the chateau a formidable shelter. Made of concrete blocks six feet square, it was equipped with anti-gas doors, running hot and cold water, beds, electric lights and air conditioning.

AUG 131944

Russians Smash Nazi Lines In Drive on East Prussia

Soviet Army Reaches Last Big Obstacle Before German Border

LONDON, Sunday, Aug. 13.—(AP) Gen. C. F. Zakharov's Second White Russian army yesterday smashed six miles through strong German fortifications northeast of Warsaw, and reached the Bobrua river marshes, last big obstacle separating the Russians from the famous First World War battleground of the Masurian lakes inside German East Prussia.

In the north three other powerful Soviet armies tightened their trap on possibly 300,000 German troops pinned against the Baltic sea, and one of them, Red Army units suddenly lashed out westward toward Liepaja, west Latvian port and toward Memel, German seaport at the northern tip of German East Prussia.

610 Towns Captured

A Moscow communique announced the capture of 610 towns and villages, more than half of them by the adjoining armies of Generals Zakharov and Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's First White Russian troops.

The latter army was within four miles of the Warsaw-Bialystok railway on a broad front between the besieged Polish capital and beyond the Bug river as the Russians wheeled toward East Prussia.

Driving northwest along both sides of the Bialystok-Lyck railway, leading to East Prussia's southeastern corner, Zakharov's troops captured Mlawyanka, only seven miles east of the railway where it crosses the Bielsza river. Mlawyanka itself is only 14 miles from the East Prussian border, and other troops fighting along the Augustow canal farther north are within 12 miles of the frontier.

West of Bialystok other units under Zakharov rolled to within 20 miles east of Lomza with the capture of Szafranki, and 24 miles southeast of that big German stronghold with the seizure of Nowy Lud railroad station.

Rokossovsky's troops, spread out over a broad front between the Bug river and Warsaw, also were threatening to outflank the last big German defenses before the southern border of East Prussia, Ostrowirca, 19 miles northeast of Warsaw, and less than four miles from the Warsaw-Bialystok railway, fell to the Soviet forces in a wheeling movement.

Other villages captured on a battleline extending towards the Bug river, included Olechanow, 12 miles northeast of Warsaw, and only 14 miles southeast of Ostrowiecka. The latter city, with imperilled Lomza, is a main German bastions before East Prussia.

Berlin broadcasts said the German situation west of the Bug river, 100 miles south of Brest, where the Russians have established a great bridgehead toward German Silesia beyond, "still was grave," but the bulletin did not mention any change in that vital sector but said the troops successfully repulsed numerous counterattacks by large infantry and tank forces.

Nazis Resist Furiously

The Germans, threatened with a splitting of their front between Warsaw and Krakow in Southern Poland, were putting up a furious fight on the sun-baked plains, realizing that a Soviet breakthrough here would find the Russians soon spilling into Germany itself. The intensity of the fighting on all fronts was indicated by Moscow's announcement that 71 German tanks had been wrecked during Friday.

In Southern Estonia Gen. Ivan Maslennikov's Third Baltic army rolled on westward beyond Petseri, important rail junction which fell under the impact of his resumed offensive Friday. His troops covering around Lake Pskov too, Molozys in a three-mile advance along the lake, and the units striking due westward captured Tabina, 11 miles beyond Petseri and only 105 miles from the gulf of Riga.

Among the 60 localities taken by Maslennikov's troops was Sosa, 16 miles southwest of Petseri, and their apparent aim was to further chop up the 30 German divisions cut off in Latvia and Estonia.

Gen. Andrei Yeremenko's [illegible] Baltic army, sweeping toward the Gulf of Riga from the east, captured more than 50 [illegible] including Gaudzese, only 18 from Riga, Latvian [illegible]

In western Latvia [illegible] Bagramian's [illegible] suddenly yesterday combined [illegible] and again [illegible] cut [illegible] two [illegible]

dications that the Soviet high command might await further line-straightening operations northeast of Warsaw before launching an all-out attack on East Prussia.

The Germans hold a big bulge between Warsaw and East Prussia. This is being whittled down as the Russians roll close to Lomza, main German stronghold linking the two areas.

AUG 131944

2 Soviet Armies Advance Upon East Prussia

Luce

Moscow, Aug. 12 (AP)—Two Soviet armies, moving through 250 captured settlements over a 100-mile front, advanced upon the Masurian lake country of East Prussia today in a maneuver which seriously endangered the Germans' entire left flank.

Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's troops driving northward from positions northeast of Warsaw and General Zakharov's forces striking out from west and northwest of Bialystok toward the World War I battle theater in East Prussio were applying severe pressure on the Germans.

DAY

Nazis Shift Forces

The Germans who had massed reserves of armor in the East Prussia-Lithuanian frontier began a feverish shifting to meet the new danger.

Dispatches from the field northwest of Bialystok to the army newspaper Red Star said the Russians beat back—often in hand-to-hand clashes — initial counterattacks launched by the reserves. Ten to 12 counter-blows were hurled against separate sectors, but these were said to have slackened, with the enemy retreating westward.

Job For Infantry

This is difficult country for tanks and Russian infantry largely is winning the battle, marching ever closer to East Prussia.

Two swift-flowing deep rivers were the scene of today's hot battleground south of the Masurian lakes—the Bug, where it falls into the Vistula north of Warsaw, and the Biebrza, a tributary of the Narew, west and northwest of Bialystok.

There we[illegible]ndicatfons that the Russians have crossed either river, but if not, these operations are in the offing.

This smash into the Germans' left flank stands out as one of the best maneuvers of the war for Marshal Stalin, who always plays the game of a crafty boxer. A blow was thrown in after the enemy had been forced to move his main defense to the East Prussian-Lithuanian frontier.

Gains On Estonian Front

Sensational news poured in from the Estonian front as Gen. Ivan Maslennikov followed up his breakthrough southwest of Pskov and penetrated "deep in the enemy rear," a Red Star dispatch said.

Correspondents said the Germans threw in a new division in the region of captured Petseri and that it received one of the worst beatings of the campaign.

"The Hitlerites who resisted were exterminated and the rest capitulated," Red Star said. That, according to the count of captured German generals, left 29 more divisions in the Baltics. Perhaps 300,000 enemy troops faced destruction.

Car Strike At Riga

The Red Army advanced 15 to 20 miles through its 45-mile wide gap on the Estonian front and today was in a position to strike southwestward at Riga and move northward upon Tallinn.

The capture of 150 settlements northwest and west of Bialystok put the Soviets in some places 18½ miles southeast and east of the Prussian border and 29 miles from Lyck, in the Masurian lake region.

The push northeast of Warsaw which swept in 100 settlements and railway stations advanced the Russians in some places to less than 50 miles from the southern East Prussian border.

The steady advance toward Lomza carried past Tykocin, with the Russians 39 miles to the south and 25 miles away to the east.

3 Defense Points Captured

Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky, fighting one of the toughest engagements of his brilliant career, has not only spurred on the great East Prussian attack, but has wiped out German nests of resistance at Dobre, Pniewnik and Korytnica, 25 to 30 miles from Warsaw.

Between Warsaw and Bialystok the Red army has developed the threat of ultimate encirclement against both the Germans defending East Prussia and those engaged in the siege of Warsaw.

This was matched by the advance west of the Vistula bend in southern Poland, where other Red army forces, despite counterattacks by new panzer brigades, edged nearer to the enamy's lifelines between Warsaw and Krakow.

BOMBERS BLAST NAZIS IN FRANCE

AUG 131944

Allied Warplanes Rake Enemy Lines, Hammer Southern France.

Nordness

LONDON, Aug. 12—(AP) Clouds of Allied tactical warplanes plunged into the battle to annihilate Germany's army in Normandy today while possibly 750 American heavy bombers lashed at airfields and communication targets in northern France in an attempt to block off any enemy forces coming to its relief.

NIGHT

There was no rest for enemy air defenses anywhere in France, for in addition to all this, 750 four-engined bombers from Italy raked the southern coast of France and the Italian Riviera for a distance of 125 miles and British heavyweights rained six-ton earthquake bombs on Brest's U-boat pens.

Return to Britain

Then shuttle bombers, which had been to Russia, thundered back to Britain from Italian bases, plastering an air field five miles southwest of the southern French communications center of Toulouse enroute.

Late in the day RAF Lancasters swooped upon the Bay of Biscay U-boat shelters at Bordeaux—last good enemy base on the Atlantic coast—and La Pallice in a continuation of the anti-submarine offensive and Halifaxes bombed a fuel dump in the Forest de Montrichard, 60 miles from Le Mans.

Hunting down Nazi shipping in the Bay of Biscay, RAF coastal command bombers destroyed or damaged six vessels fleeing from Brittany ports. Halifaxes and Mosquitos scored a direct hit on a medium-sized merchant vessel, blew up a mine sweeper and damaged an armed escort vessel and three trawlers. Two aircraft were lost.

Reports Night Raids

The German radio said enemy bomber formations were over western and northwestern Germany tonight.

The enemy's much hammered railway yards at Metz were pounded during the morning by Fortresses and Liberators.

Heavyweights also loosed their cargoes on seven northern French air fields near Paris, Reims and Laon, and bombardiers said results were good in perfect flying weather.

Wave on wave of medium and light bombers and fighters roamed the battlefront, bent on making good the prediction of Air Chief Marshal Sir Trafford Leig-Mallory that any German army in retreat would face annihilation from the air.

These tactical forces swarmed on behind the enemy lines, blasting at communications and other vital targets which prompted staff officers to assert that Allied ground forces had been given the most widespread and efficient air support in the history of warfare.

The Mediterranean heavy bombers flung against the military installations along the bomb-pocked underbelly of fortress Europe followed up closely the first tactical attacks on pill boxes, gun batteries and radio installations yesterday.

The Fortresses which returned from Italy with a round-trip escort of Mustangs today came back with the remarkable record of not losing a man.

Aircraft Factory Hit

They hit an FW-190 components factory near Gdynia in the Polish corridor on their eastward run last Sunday, then struck an oil refinery at Trzebina in Poland the next day and went back to Russian bases without loss.

They headed for Italy Tuesday and bombed German air fields at Zilestea and Buzau in Romania enroute.

Today's tactical attacks among other things blew up the last bridge across the Seine between Paris and the sea, making retreat as difficult for the enemy as has been his problem of reinforcement.

Allies Hit U-Boat Pens, F[illegible]ch Airfields

AUG 131944

L.Hawkins

London, Aug. 12 (AP)—Up to 750 American heavy bombers and 500 fighters tore at the rail yards of Metz and airfields in northern France today a few hours after a force of four-engined Lancasters poured six-ton factory busters into the U-boat shelters of besieged Brest.

Airfields attacked by the Americans included those at Le Perthe and Chamant, about 30 miles east of Paris, and Athies, Couvron and Juvincourt, near Laon.

Third Bombing In Week

The bombing of Brest was its third by heavy aircraft in a week.

American Fortresses, homing to British bases, also bashed an airfield near Toulouse on the final leg of a three-way shuttle run from Britain to Russia and back through Italy.

It was announced that Allied fighter-bombers, climaxing a week's campaign against German transportation in France since 6 A. M. today, had disabled 12 locomotives and 1,059 railroad cars. In the week they had destroyed or damaged 587 locomotives and 4,459 railroad cars.

Factory Bombed

The shuttle bombers hit the Focke-Wulf components factory at Ramel near Gdynia in the Polish corridor on the eastward run on August 6, struck an oil refinery at Trzebina in Poland on August 7 and returned to Russian bases without loss. They sped to Italy on August 8, hitting Romanian oil fields at Zilistea and Buzua on the way, and completed that leg also without loss.

The blows followed RAF night attacks on Berlin and Givors, a rail junction 200 miles southeast of Paris.

5th Blow In Twelve Hours

The German radio reported daylight battle formations approaching southwestern Germany, and single planes over the upper Danube and upper Silesia.

It was the second consecutive night Berlin was hit by two-ton bombs.

Givors, on the bank of the Rhone 14 miles south of Lyons, is a vital rail center. The attack by Lancasters was the fifth by the RAF bomber command in 12 hours against railways in France. The assaults are aimed at preventing the Germans moving reinforcements north from the Mediterranean area.

Railway Bridge Hit

Main tracks from the south and north run on each side of the Rhone river at Givors, and one branch of the main Marseille-Lyons-Paris line crosses the river and connects with other main lines in the yards.

Four bomber-command attacks by daylight yesterday were intended to prevent German reinforcements and supplies from rolling down from the Pas-de-Calais area. Special attention was given the railway bridge at Etaples, which had been damaged severely in previous raids.

The bridge has been under constant repair by the Nazis, who were able to throw only a single line across it.

Riviera Invasion Defense Lines Blasted by 1,000 U. S. Bombers

120-Mile Mediterranean Strip Reaching From Marseille to Nice Into Italy Gets a Pre-D-Day Style Raid; Area Held by Thin Nazi Force

AUG 131944

By Cable to The Associated Press

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 12.—Nearly 1,000 American heavy bombers operating from Italian bases today gave point to the words of Prime Minister Churchill, author of the term, "underbelly of Europe."

Possibly momentous holes were blown in a 120-mile strip of German coastal fortifications along the French Riviera and the Italian Riviera as Churchill toured Allied war bases in Italy.

In a sudden significant shift of weight in the Allied victory drive, the spotlight again is on the Mediterranean, where two years ago the Allies started unraveling the Nazis' fabric of conquest.

The bombings came after many weeks of attacks against coastal strips, inland communications and specialized installations and a preliminary operation was carried out yesterday by medium and light bombers and other tactical aircraft which pinpointed gun posts, radio installations and like targets.

[London dispatches pointed out that similar targets were selected by air forces from Great Britain just prior to the Allied invasion of Normandy.]

Adding to the attention suddenly turned on this sector, Flying Fortresses today returned to Britain, after a round trip to Russia and Italy, and bombed the important airfield at Toulouse in southwestern France on the final leg home.

These aerial thrusts coincided conspicuously with a surprise American armored invasion of southern France by a crossing of the Loire which penetrated to at least ten miles.

While the Loire crossing is 450 miles to the northwest of the Mediterranean coast target area it is a part of the same German defense unit directed by Field Marshal Johannes von Blaskowitz.

Large and thinly garrisoned, this region has been increasingly vulnerable since D Day.

Troops Quit Riviera

Only two days ago it was disclosed that two of the infantry divisions which the Germans had rushed to bolster the Normandy front were from Blaskowitz's Riviera defense.

The American drive across the Loire further disrupted his forces, which were believed now to be far under half the twenty-five-division force given Marshal Erwin Rommel to defend an area only one-quarter as large in northwestern France.

For several days reports from Spain have told of the Germans streaming up from southern France in disordered masses by bicycle and buggy and their armament, hastily dismantled, evidently with the purpose of improvising a Loire River defense line.

The new wounds were punched in the "under belly" at a point offering an avenue into Europe past the western wing of the Alps.

Allied Troops Waiting

In the Mediterranean theater was the same formidable array of Allied power that set the stage for the northern invasion—great depots of soldiers and supplies, both in Africa and Italy, dominance of sea lanes and air supremacy.

The distances were greater than those across the English Channel, but the Germans faced equally difficult problems of defense, and in view of their defeats in northwestern France, their strategic possibilities were less.

The Germans, in broadcasts, admitted an awareness that Churchill's visit to Italy might have "military as well as political significance."

Rome dispatches said that besides Churchill, Lieutenant General Brehon B. Somervell, American chief of Army Service Forces, and Robert P. Patterson, Under Secretary of War, had arrived in Italy to inspect military installations.

YANK PLANES RAID RIVIERA

Strike Along French And Italian Coast Defenses

Rome, Aug. 12 (AP)—Allied air might was thrown against the southern approaches to Hitler's European fortress today for the second time within 24 hours, with 750 United States heavy bombers scourging German military defenses along the southern coast of France.

High Officers in Rome

There was a feeling among the public that momentous developments in the Mediterranean were impending as high American military figures arrived to join Prime Minister Churchill, who already is in Rome. The arrival of Churchill alone was interpreted by Popolo, organ of the Christian Democrat party, as a sign of the importance the Italian theater of war "may assume in the near future."

It was announced that Robert P. Patterson, Under Secretary of War, and Lieut. Gen. Brehon S. Somervell, commander of United States Army Service Forces, had arrived to inspect military installations in the Mediterranean theater.

Allied concentration on such enemy coastal targets as pill boxes, radio stations and gun emplacements along the French coast and the Italian Riviera coincided with a plastering of the southern French transportation center of Toulouse by United States bombers shuttling from Russian bases via Italy on the way home to Britain.

Already Badly Damaged

Yesterday's big attack along the coast by tactical units struck a section of France whose communications with the Rhone Valley already were badly damaged by repeated air raids.

For the first time medium Mitchell and Marauder bombers, Thunderbolts and RAF Spitfires blazed away over a long stretch of southern France and for 40 miles of the neighboring Italian Riviera, singling out targets of German defenses.

Mitchells in considerable strength pounded gun positions near St. Tropez and St. Raphael, respectively 15 and 30 miles southwest of the French port of Cannes. Explosions and fires indicated ammunition stores had gone up in smoke.

Maurauders Unopposed

Without encountering flak or fighter opposition, Marauders bombed four gun batteries east of the naval base of Toulon, including one on Ile du Levant.

Spitfires, some roaring in no more than 10 feet above the ground, strafed radio and gun positions at Cap d'Antibes, St. Raphael, Cap Benat and Cap Camarat, all between Marseille and Nice, caught Germans running for their guns, drove some back and killed others.

Today's raids by heavy bombers also spread out to coastal defenses of northwest Italy, and while some enemy fighters were encountered, flak was light to moderate on all operations and good results were reported.

High Officers in Rome

Hugh R. Wilson, former United States Ambassador to Germany and Admiral William H. Standley former United States Ambassador to Moscow, already were in Rome.

Members of the Patterson-Somervell party included Col. V. H. Connors of the War Department General Staff; Lieut. Col. Leland S. MacPhail, assistant to Mr. Patterson; Lieut. Col. B. Q. Van Cott of the Army Air Force; Maj. Renato Francillo, Mr. Patterson's aide, and Maj. Edward Martin Jr., General Somervell's aide.

U. S. PLANES LASH MEDITERRANEAN INVASION COAST

Coastal Defenses Battered for Second Straight Day —Enemy Off Guard.

Rome, Aug. 12 (A. P.).—Fifteenth Air Force heavy bombers, numbering upward of 750, delivered a blistering attack on enemy military installations in the coastal areas of southern France today, following up an opening attack yesterday by the tactical air force.

Coastal defenses in northwest Italy also were hard hit in the second day of heavy hammering of Nazi defenses guarding the Mediterranean coast approaches to Europe. Mustang fighters strafed targets in the same areas.

American Fortresses, flying back to British bases after a shuttle trip to Russia and Italy, joined in the attack, hitting an airfield at Toulouse, also in southern France. This latter force was accompanied by fighters which made the three-point circuit with the Fortresses.

Bombers returning to Italy said some enemy fighters were encountered by the raiding formations, but good results were reported from the attack.

Yesterday German defenses along an eight-mile stretch of the southern French coast and a forty-mile section of the southern French coast and a forty-mile section of the neighboring Italian Riviera were hit by tactical bombers and fighters which concentrated on smashing pillboxes, radio facilities, gun emplacements in water-front areas. The enemy was caught off guard and only one Allied plane was lost.

BRITISH RAID NORWAY COAST

Carrier Planes Pound U-Boat Havens On 75-Mile Stretch

London, Aug. 12 (AP) — Carrier-borne planes of the British navy yesterday attacked shore installations on a 75-mile stretch of the Norwegian coast southwest of Trondheim, the Admiralty disclosed today.

Submarine havens along this coast were among the targets and their destruction would increase the supply problem of Nazi U-boats which were forced to flee from bases at St. Nazaire and Lorient by American advances in Brittany.

Tirpitz Again Bombed

Simultaneously, the Norwegian Government information service announced that the much-battered Nazi batfleship Tirpitz was again attacked by Allied aircraft July 16, 70 planes also smashing the quays and barracks.

The big warship, damaged seriously by British bombs April 3 but later reported repaired, was moored under a cliff-side in Alten fjord and suffered only light damage.

Yesterday's raid by planes from a carrier fleet commanded by Rear Admiral McGrigor was concentrated on the sector between Alesun and Kristiansund.

Hangars Set Afire

The Admiralty said aircraft hangars and large storehouses on an airfield at Gossen were heavily bombed and set afire, and six Messerschmitt 110's were destroyed on the ground and a seventh damaged in the surprise raid.

Other targets included radio stations and gun positions in the Lepsoy area, the communique said. A large oil tank was set afire and three armed vessels were left burning there. The raid cost the British two aircraft.

CARRIER PLANES HIT NORWEGIAN COAST

LONDON, Aug. 12 (AP)—Naval planes operating from a carrier force attacked shore installations on a sixty-five-mile sector of the Norwegian coast, the British Admiralty disclosed today.

The attack was carried out yesterday. It was concentrated against German coastal defenses and shipping between Aalesund, and Kristiansund, southwest of Trondheim.

The Admiralty said that aircraft hangars and large storehouses on an airfield at Gossen had been heavily attacked and set afire. Six enemy planes were destroyed on the ground and another was damaged. Radio stations and shore gun positions were successfully attacked, the communiqué said, and a large oil tank was set afire. Three armed vessels were left burning.

The attack cost two aircraft.

The Norwegian Government Information Service announced that the Allies' aircraft had again attacked the battered German battleship Tirpitz on July 16. The warship was moored under a cliffside and suffered only light damage, reports from Norway said. About seventy planes took part in the attack in the Altenfjord, smashing the quay and barracks.

The Tirpitz was reported to have been severely damaged in an attack by British planes on April 3. A Stockholm report on Aug. 1 said that the ship had been repaired.

Robots Stir Coast Barrage

London, Aug. 12 (AP)—The Germans fired a salvo of robots across the Channel late tonight, provoking a fierce coastal anti-aircraft barrage.

The sky was red with bursting shells as the gunners blasted at the missles. Explosions indicated some were brought down.

NAZIS INCREASE ROBOT ASSAULTS

London, Aug. 12 (A. P.).—Flying bomb attacks on London and the southern counties increased from midnight until after dawn today, with the assaults in the south heavier than they have been for some time.

Some of the robots appeared to be coming in on a new route over the French coast from behind Boulogne.

Anti-aircraft defenses shot down a number in the coastal area. One flaming mass, after being hit over the sea, crashed into a residential district. Property was damaged and a fire started but only one person was injured.

Meanwhile London holiday seekers crowded station platforms for trains to the north and a week end respite from the bombs, as well as the usual Englishman's excursion.

Throngs waiting for the Flying Scotsman gave rail officials their busiest morning since peacetime. Additional trains were placed on northbound routes.

Poles Controlling Part Of Warsaw

London, Aug. 12 (AP)—General Bor's Polish underground forces have regained control of the Stawki area of Warsaw, through which runs the railway to Danzig, the commander reported to the Polish Government in exile today.

The hard-pressed Patriots also hold the suburb of Zoliborz and heavy German artillery is being directed against the area, Bor said.

Optimistic Trend

The statement struck a faint note of optimism, asserting "enemy losses grow bigger and his actions show signs of diminishing." Fires still blazed in underground-held sections because the Germans seized all fire-fighting apparatus.

Bor said the underground saved 1,000 internees and prisoners of war from deportation July 31 and many of them, including officers and men of the British Royal Air Force, now are fighting alongside the Patriots.

Wladyslaw Banaczyk, Minister of Home Affairs, declared in a broadcast from London last night that the underground army was a combat unit of the Polish armed forces and German murders and atrocities among its members would be punished.

Lend-Lease Aid Asked For Bor Forces

Washington, Aug. 12 (AP)—Declaring the Polish underground army faces the possibility of "extermination," the executive board of the Polish-American Congress appealed to the United States Government today to grant full lend-lease assistance to General Bor, commander of Polish forces in Warsaw.

The board, completing a two-day session, declared Bor had made "frantic but unavailing appeals for necessary equipment." The Polish-American body declared "it is difficult for us to understand why, at a moment which can readily mean the turning point of the war . . . the Polish underground . . . should find itself disowned and exposed to the possibility of complete extermination."

Transportation Suggestion

Replying to a question at a news conference, Charles Rozmarek, president of the Congress, asserted weapons and munitions could be sent to the beleaguered Poles through an "underground transmission system."

The Congress reiterated its stand that the Polish Government in London is the sole legal authority to represent the nation.

NETHERLAND NAZIS WARNED BY MINISTER

LONDON, Aug. 12 (AP)—Dr. G. J. van Heuver Goedhart, the new Netherlands Minister of Justice, promised "Dutch justice" tonight for collaborationists who have been "filling their pockets" working for the Germans or trading on the black market.

He also disclosed a plan to ban the press "which now is daily dishing out German lies, until it is cleansed from the stained heritage left on it by the present editors and directors." In a broadcast to the Netherlands, he added:

"Justice must be done—not murder. The Government is prepared for quick and severe justice. It is ready to hear, sentence and execute traitors.

"The military authority must know how to respect the people's liberties. Immediately after the liberation of our European territory, we must go with all our strength for the Japanese in order to free Indonesia.

"All officials who have collaborated intolerably with the enemy must disappear, apart from further punitive measures."

The Minister said that the present exiled Government would, after liberation, "gladly give way to another Government selected by a man whom Queen Wilhelmina will select for that purpose after consultation with the liberated country."

Strike Hard Now, Order To French

London, Aug. 12 (AP)—French Forces of the Interior in 18 French departments, including two near Paris, were told tonight by Brig. Gen. Joseph Koenig to "strike hard now."

General Koenig, head of the FFI, in a broadcast over the London radio, told the partisans to strike ahead of the advancing Allied armies.

"Attack immediately all enemy elements directed toward the front," the French leader ordered. "Not a German soldier or lorry should be allowed to reinforce the enemy fighting against our Allies.

"Not a single German soldier should be allowed to withdraw without having to fight."

MARTIAL LAW IN SLOVAKIA

30-24—17949

Nazis' Balkan Wall Also Shows Signs Of Cracking

Singleton

London, Aug. 12 (AP)—Slovakia, partitioned victim of Adolf Hitler's dream of empire, was placed under martial law today in an effort to quell a rising revolt while Germany's Balkan wall showed signs of cracking under Red army pressure and the prospect of being deserted by the Nazis.

Transocean, German news agency, announced that martial law, the iron rule which the Germans used without avail in Yugoslavia, Poland and France, had been imposed on the doorstep country of Slovakia. It carries the death penalty for "revolutionary activities," murder, robbery and sabotage.

NIGHT

Extensive Havoc Indicated

The terse announcement indicated the extent of havoc by Partisans behind the lines of the backtracking German armies and officially discredited previous claims of Slovakian collaborators that the resistance movement was only a slight affair in which most of the forces had been "liquidated."

Slovakia, a remnant of Czechoslovakia, was declared an independent state under German "protection" in March, 1939. Russian troops already are near its eastern border, climbing the Carpathian Mountains south of Sanok in pre-war Poland.

Signs Of Balkan Crackup

The development there coincided with significant reports from various parts of the Balkans.

A report from Belgrade, Yugoslavia, relayed via Switzerland, said that Field Marshal Gen. Maximilian von Weichs, German commander in chief in the Balkans, had been wounded by a young Nazi lieutenant in an assassination attempt—presumably part of the feud between the Nazi party and the German army.

From Istânbul came an apparently well-founded report that a group of Romanian political leaders under Juliu Maniu, Peasant party chief had formed a provisional government, seeking a way out of war.

This peace movement was being solidified, it was said, with the full knowledge of Premier-Marshal Ion Antonescu. He was represented as unable to interfere.

[The British radio broadcast Friday night an unconfirmed Bern dispatch that Antonescu had resigned.]

Romanian Armistice Program

Communists, Socialists, Liberals and Peasant party members all were actively represented in the group, which was said to have virtually accomplished a program suitable to all major parties whereby an armistice would be asked of Russia, Britain and the United States.

With Hungary quivering under Allied air lacings, rumors came from Zurich that the Hungarian Government and the Germans were at odds over Hungary's desire to declare Budapest an open city. The Germans were said to be erecting fortifications in the capital and mining streets.

The Germans were going to great pains to deny that the Hungarian Cabinet shakeup was caused by anything beyond a domestic situation.

Berlin also declared that persistent rumors that Bulgaria was seeking an armistice with the Allies were ill-founded.

GOEBBELS TELLS NAZI FARMERS TO GROW MORE FOOD

AUG 13 1944

Goldberg

LONDON, Aug. 12—(AP) Goading groggy Germans into a last-ditch "total war," Mobilization Chief Paul Joseph Goebbels told representative farmers gathered in Berlin today that they must somehow produce more food to offset new shortages which he said were due to the fact that "we have lost vast territories in the East."

NIGHT

His speech as reported by the official German News agency DNB praised the farmers for helping to avoid a recurrence to date of "the conditions of 1917-18," but he added that "now new difficulties confront us. This means we have to make good this loss at home."

Goebbels is now making a virtue out of necessity in some of his drastic decrees.

An example is the growing difficulty of publishing German newspapers in bomb-shattered cities. It has been noticed in neutral countries that a number of metropolitan dailies have been appearing only twice or three times weekly.

But Gobbels' decree limiting newspapers and sharply reducing other publications is camouflaged as a voluntary decision.

Similarly, the sharpest reduction in railway freight and passenger traffic already has been enforced by Allied bombers blasting at communication lines, although Goebbels is trying to make the Germans believe curtailment is to provide a margin of reserve facilities.

Even his decree curtailing public meetings is superfluous since city transportation systems are so badly smashed that some of the most important "loyalty rallies" had to be held in convenient air raid shelters.

The ban on meetings also may be useful at this critical period when the Nazis have reason to suspect any gathering of more than a half dozen persons.

Goebbels is even taking the glamor out of movies. Germans can't buy or sell picture postcards of the stars any more and henceforth movie theater usherettes must be over 50 years of age.

Another decree forbids shopkeepers from displaying in windows goods that they cannot deliver inside.

AUG 13 1944

CUSTOMS IN RUSSIA BAFFLE AMERICANS

A BOMBER BASE, in England, Aug. 12 (AP)—What with putting the wong end of Russian cigarettes in their mouths and having the tears brought to their eyes by vodka, the Americans who flew on the second three-way shuttle flight to Russia and Italy found it took a while to get acclimated in a strange country.

Lieut. Anthony Salvia of Brewster, N. Y., a Fortress pilot, explained that Russian cigarettes have one hollow end you put in your mouth. The other end is filled with tobacco.

"Most of us put the tobacco end in our mouths and tried futilely to light the hollow end before we caught on," he said. "It gave the Russian soldiers a good laugh."

When the Americans arrived at the Russian base, tired from a ten-hour ride from England, the Russians gave them vodka.

"Boy that stuff is terrific," said Lieutenant Salvia. "It'll knock your top off." I took one gulp and it brought tears to my eyes. I turned away so the Russians wouldn't see the tears."

Lieutenant Salvia praised the Russian women.

"They have swell figures," he said, "and they are very becoming in their gray uniforms. I didn't see a frail girl among them."

He praised the generosity of the Russian troops. He said they gave the Americans five rubles apiece as souvenirs and would not take any money in return.

Marines Use Old Method To Explode Sea Mines

London, Aug. 12 (AP)—The English Channel was cleared of hundreds of Nazi floating mines on D-day by United States marines armed with rifles stationed in the rigging of auxiliary naval craft in the van of the invading fleet. Sharpshooters popped off the mines on the horizon as fast as they hove into view.

This expedient was chosen since it was impossible to sweep the waters clear of floating mines before D-day without giving away the secret. Although novel in this war, the role of marine sharpshooters in the rigging of vessels is as old as the corps.

Japs Expect More.

London, Aug. 12 (A. P.).—Superfortress raids on Japan so far are but attempts on the part of the enemy to gather experience for future raids on a major scale, a Berlin broadcast quoted Japanese newspapers as warning the people today.

German Acknowledges Eisenhower Success

London, Aug. 12 (AP)—Max Krull, military commentator for the German news agency DNB, said tonight the American break-through and mobile offensive in France was "a major success for Eisenhower."

The German radio speaker added that "the battles are still in the initial stages of a great war of movement, and cannot yet be said to have reached the stage of an open battle.

"It is not even clear yet where von Kluge thinks of taking up the battle with his operational reserves, which already are employed on a minor scale near Le Mans and on the Loire."

Allied 'Ghost' Voice Heckles Broadcaster

London, Aug. 12 (AP)—A "ghost Heckler" broke in during pauses in the Berlin overseas radio news cast today shouting comments on Allied advances.

At the first pause the voice came in with "The Russians are advancing. The Americans are advancing. The British are advancing."

When the station announcer said a Russian unit was surrounded the heckler interrupted: "It's not true. That's a lie."

At the conclusion the announcer said: "I hope you had good reception."

The voice countered with "unite against Hitler."

FEARS GERMANS WILL RUIN PARIS

London, Aug. 12 (A. P.).—Fear that the Germans will attempt to destroy Paris before retreating, in retaliation for the bombing of Berlin, was expressed today by a French official.

He also disclosed that Gen. Charles de Gaulle's French Committee of National Liberation will delay establishing an administration in France until it can "go back home" to the capital. The original plan was to set up shop in the first big city liberated. He said the speed of the Allied advance and a belief that Paris might be freed within a few weeks caused the change.

This official observed gloomily that the Germans would be determined to extract all possible vengeance "because they would not be likely to leave intact the capital of a country they consider conquered while their own Berlin is in ruins."

Tito's Men Wreck Big Railway Tunnel

London, Aug. 12 (AP)—Marshal Tito's troops have demolished the big Smarje tunnel, cutting off railway communications between Ljubljana, at the northern end of Yugoslavia, and the Adriatic, a communique from the Partisan leader's headquarters said today.

Railway lines leading into Zagreb, about 70 miles southeast of Ljubljana, have been cut in several places, the communique added.

The Partisans have halted an offensive attempted by Germans, Bulgarians and Chetniks west of Leskovac and Vranje, where Tito's forces are fighting toward the Nis-Skoplje railway at the southern end of Yugoslavia, the communique said.

Florence Freed From War As Nazi Troops Withdraw

AUG 13 1944

Kennedy

Rome, Aug. 12 (AP)—The Germans have pulled out of Florence, releasing Italy's most beautiful city after a week in which contending armies stood on opposite banks of the Arno river, which runs through it.

NIGHT

A German withdrawal, made under cover of darkness, permitted officers of the Allied Military Government to enter the main part of the city north of the Arno river today to assist the stricken population. There were no official reports that the Eighth Army had yet crossed the stream.

Snipers Left Behind

The Germans withdrew north of the Mugnone Canal, which skirts the northern edge of the city, but some snipers were left behind.

In the modern suburbs on the eastern extremity of the city, where wide streets separate apartment houses, there was machine-gun fire from German parachute troops stationed on roofs.

Neither army shelled Florence, and only its rail yards and installations in the immediate vicinity were bombed. There were machine-gun duels across the Arno, but these caused little or no damage.

Civilian Plight Worse

First reports from officers crossing the Arno indicated the situation of the population was even worse than had been believed.

Food, water and medical supplies were short, and the entire male population—exept for Fascist combatants—had been confined to their homes by the Germans.

While it was too early to fully assess Florence's priceless art treasures and monuments, they apparently were virtually intact, except for the bridges across the Arno. There was known to have been some looting.

Only One Bridge Intact

Of Florence's famous bridges, only its most noted one of Ponte Vecchio is intact. This one was merely blocked by the wrecking of buildings at both ends.

An official report failed to say whether AMG officials had been able to verify that the Germans had carried out demolitions in the northern part of the city.

Action along the Arno west of Florence, where the Eighth Army is bringing up its forces to attempt a crossing, was confined largely to patrols.

Yield On Adriatic Front

On the Adriatic front, the Germans have withdrawn across the Cesano river from Monte Porzio to the coast, a distance of more than seven miles, and the Poles threw a bridgehead across the stream two miles from the sea.

A German prisoner, reporting on the tenacious fighting in Italy, said officers were advising the troops they must fight to the death against the Eighth Army Indian forces because the Indians kill all prisoners.

Rain closed down on the Fifth Army sector at the opposite end of the front, and there was only patrol action and scattered artillery and small-arms fire.

AUG 13 1944

Nazis Withdraw Forces From Florence

Heinzelin

Rome, Aug. 12 (AP)—The Germans withdrew all their forces from Florence today, and the ancient cradle of Italian art and culture was spared from the ravages of battle.

DAY

Allied troops, who have refrained from firing on the northern part of the city lying beyond the Arno river, remained on the south bank of the stream, but officers of the military government crossed over to assist the hungry civilian population.

Mass For Assault

It was apparent, an official announcement said, that the enemy withdrew the bulk of his forces during the night to the north of the Mugone canal.

The Eighth Army, bringing up its lines on the west for a crossing of the Arno and an assault on the German Gothic Line beyond, reached a number of villages west and northwest of Empoli against stiffening German resistance.

Snipers Still Active

An official source said Colonel Fuchs, who was the German garrison commander at Florence, had fighting under him parachutists, engineers and "various Fascist squads organized by the notorious Pavolini" (Alessandro Pavolini, Mussolini's' Minister of Culture) who infiltrated into houses south of the river as snipers.

The Allied command announced that it now was possible for the Allies to help civilians in the northern part of the city who under the Germans had been short of food, water and medical supplies.

Some snipers still were being encountered inside the city.

The Germans have pushed back from 500 to 1,000 yards on both sides of Fibbiana, between Empoli and Montelupo, but action in general on the Italian front yesterday was confined largely to patrolling, headquarters said.

Meanwhile German shelling caused the Fifth Army to withdraw a half mile to the southwest of San Colombano.

In the Polish sector near the Adriatic the Germans have withdrawn over the Cesano river below Pesaro. On the left, advance Polish elements have reached points two miles east and northeast of Castelleone di Suasa. Forward troops faced heavy enemy shell fire. Polish troops have reached a lateral road one mile beyond the river.

Rains slowed road movements and hampered other activity on the Fifth Army front, where patrols were unable to make contact with the enemy.

WHITTEN IN NEW POST

General Heads Air Force Service Command in Mediterranean

ROME, Aug. 12 (AP)—The assignment of Brig. Gen. Lymon P. Whitten to command the United States Army Air Forces Service Command in the Mediterranean theatre, succeeding Brig. Gen. Harold Z. Bartron, was announced today.

General Whitten headed the Air Services Division of the General Staff of the Army Air Forces in Washington before his arrival in Italy. General Bartron is leaving the Mediterranean for an undisclosed assignment.

The award was not made because he was the first to land on the beaches but was in recognition of his one-man fight against the Germans when they attempted to hurl the American 36th Division back into the sea some hours after it landed.

He was hospitalized for six months with a broken arm suffered at Salerno.

After landing at Salerno his company advanced 800 yards inland. Shortly before dawn the Germans attacked with tanks and infantry. Logan scrambled up a canal in full view of the Nazis and took three carefully aimed shots, killing three German machine-gunners.

He advanced under fire across the open terrain to a wall and crouched behind it. He picked off two more German gunners, hurdled the wall, seized a machine gun and turned it on the other fleeing members of its crew.

Then he hurled the weapon against the wall, smashing it, and a moment later captured two more Germans who were trying to sneak away. He brought them back to his company.

Learning that snipers had been inflicting casualties on his men, Logan then advanced on a house containing a sniper, shot the lock away, kicked open the door and killed the sniper.

Moscow Denies Project For Vatican Discussions

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 12—The Moscow radio broadcast tonight an official denial of reports that Russia had suggested to the Vatican a coordination between Moscow and the Vatican in post-war handling of social and religious problems.

The broadcast, recorded by the Soviet monitor here, ascribed the reports to the foreign press, particularly The News Chronicle and The Daily Telegraph of London.

"Tass is authorized to state that these reports are unfounded," said the Moscow broadcast.

Brazilian General Sees Clark

ROME, Aug. 12 (AP).—Major General Joao Batista Mascarenhas de Moraes, commander of the 1st Brazilian Expeditionary Force in Italy, visited 5th Army headquarters yesterday and conferred with Lieutenant General Mark W. Clark it was announced today.

Pope Grants Audience To American Diplomats

Vatican City, Aug. 12 (AP)—Hugh R. Wilson, former United States Ambassador to Germany, and Admiral William H. Standley, former United States Ambassador to Moscow, were given an audience by Pope Pius XII today.

The Pope also recently received the Bishop of Litchfield, of the Church of England, for more than 45 minutes. This was the first time the pontiff had given a private audience to a bishop of that faith.

Italian Liberal Parties Agree On Programs

Rome, Aug. 12 (AP)—In a move generally interpreted as strengthening the rightist forces, the Liberal party of Rome and Liberal Democratic party of southern Italy have agreed on virtually the same program, it was announced today.

The fusion of the two groups followed a recent meeting in Naples and came almost at the same time as the Socialists and Communists decided on close collaboration.

Polish Committee Gets Lublin Power, Report

London, Aug. 12 (AP)—The Moscow radio broadcast a Lublin dispatch today that the National Council of Poland, sitting in that liberated Polish city, had delegated legislative powers to the Soviet-sponsored Polish Committee of National Liberation until November 1, subject to revocation at any time.

All the committee's acts are subject to the council's ratification, however, the broadcast said.

The committee and council are at odds with the Polish Exiled Government in London over establishment of a permanent regime for Poland after the country is freed.

the victims who died in the Nazi extermination camp there, Soviet dispatches from that city said today. Assembled in the great square before the Lublin Castle, the mourners, led by Father Krusinski, sang the traditional "Saint Virgin" song of the Poles, these reports said, adding:

Polish troops stood with uncovered heads. Women and girls, overcome with emotion, flung themselves on the ground. Prayers for the dead continued for hours in the hot sun.

German captives dug up many bodies of the victims as hostile Poles watched.

There were screams of "murderers!" and "degenerates!" from the crowd as prisoners lifted the corpse of a child from an opened ditch.

The Committee of Liberation unveiled a tablet on a wall of Lublin Castle and masons sealed an urn with ashes of the Nazi victims into the wall.

The memorial tablet carried this inscription:

"To the millions of the victims killed by the German criminals at Maidanek (the suburban village where the extermination camp was situated) and in the castle . August 6. The Polish people."

A Ghastly Vista.

Huge crowds flocked to the extermination camp, looking with frightened and angry faces at scenes of half-burned bodies and piles of ashes of hundreds of others.

"The people don't cry," said a Pravda dispatch. "They have no tears left."

German prisoners dug silently.

"They shudder when they hear the crowd shout and scream at some fresh new atrocity," the dispatch said.

Correspondent Boris Gorbatov said one of the torture instruments was a weighing chamber, where the Germans recorded the slow starvation of victims who fore the castle, closeups of crematories full of bones, piles of victims and shoes.

The investigation showed the Germans had strung charged wires around the camp after the escape of thirty men early in its history.

Prisoners sometimes were allowed to bathe in a filthy pool, correspondents were told, and when they had finished the guards would amuse themselves by ordering them to dress in three seconds. Those who failed were thrown back into the pool, ordered to submerge, and when they came up for air, were beaten over the head with rifle butts, eyewitnesses were quoted.

Soviet Engineer Poitr Denisov told correspondents of two prisoners who begged a guard to hang them. He said one was strangled to death on the spot.

Vladilaw Skavronok, a worker at the camp, told investigators that German women guards were used to carry out acts of sadism. He said he saw one of these women march six children to a crematory, strip them, shoot them and then stuff their bodies in the stove.

The Germans, he added, often turned on loud speakers playing fox trots when they carried out mass hangings of Jews.

Norwegian Freighter Sunk

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 12 (AP).—The 1,000-ton Norwegian freighter Erling Lindoe, carrying iron pyrites to Germany, struck a mine and sank off the Swedish coast last night. Twenty seamen were lost, five saved.

No Change In Spain's Foreign Policy Seen

Madrid, Aug. 12 (AP)—There will be no change in Spain's foreign policy, Foreign Minister Jose Felix Lequerica said today in his first public declaration after being named to succeed Gen. Francisco Gomez Jordana y Sousa, who died Aug. 31.

De Gaulle Asks French To Join Interior Units

Algiers, Aug. 12 (AP)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle today again urged Frenchmen to join the French Forces of the Interior.

A communique said the French leader had also appointed a former delegate general to the consultative assembly as Minister of the Interior of France. The communique did not give the new Minister's name.

Few Nazis Left In Lower France

Irun, Spain, Aug. 12 (AP)—Southwestern France was reported almost bare of German troops today.

The last contingent of German troops in the Hendaye region left the border area during the night, a report said, and today even the over-age German sentinels no longer stood guard on the French side of the International bridge.

The German Ambassador to Spain, Hans Dieckhoff, paid a visit to German-occupied France yesterday but returned to Spain before sundown.

Stay On Spanish Side

Several German railroad officials assigned to the international station here spent last night on the Spanish side instead of returning to Hendaye as usual to sleep.

Before sundown yesterday anti-aircraft batteries at Biarritz shot off a few rounds, presumably disposing of the last few shells on hand following heavy explosions heard previously indicating the Germans were demolishing munitions in the area.

A Frenchman who crossed the border during the night said the Hotel du Palaiz in Biarritz which has served as German headquarters in this region since 1940 now is empty. He said orderlies burned records several days ago and all the high officers left yesterday.

Madrid, Aug. 12 (AP)—Escaped prisoners of war and foreign laborers have begun guerrilla warfare inside Germany, the German press revealed today in a dispatch from Nazi Correspondent Werner Gilles, who wrote from "In the Mountains of Southern Germany."

The correspondent said "terrorists and guerrillas" were waging a war of destruction on Germans in the mountain regions, wiping out entire families, burning homes and stealing food and arms.

Prisoners Fight To Last

He described an expedition against the guerrillas which led far above snowline, and said heavily armed German police finally isolated one group of escaped Russian prisoners and foreign laborers who fought to the last.

"It was astonishing that they were able to withstand the intense cold in their thin clothes for hours and days," the correspondent wrote.

Policemen Overpowered

Another dispatch from Austria said four policemen who sought storm shelter in a mountain hut were overpowered by "terrorists" and only one policeman escaped.

Adolf Hitler's own newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, reported guerrillas killed four Germans in one village, and commented:

"Even in the smallest village everything must be prepared for defense against air raids, marauding foreign workers and armed prisoners of war who have escaped."

Romanian Peace Unit Reported

Istanbul, Aug. 11 (AP—Delayed)—Romanian political leaders under Peasant party chief Juliu Maniu have formed a provisional peace government, according to information obtained today from a source in close contact with Bucharest.

The peace movement was declared solidifying with the full knowledge of Premier Marshal Ion Antonescu, who was represented as powerless to interfere. (The British radio broadcast last night an unconfirmed Bern report that Antonescu had resigned.)

The political chieftains, meeting regularly in Bucharest, are in contact with former Romanian Minis-

Highest Honor To Yank Who Halted Nazi Attack

Rome, Aug. 12 (AP)—Technical Sergeant James M. Logan, of Luling, Texas, said to be the first American soldier to jump ashore at Salerno last September, has been awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor.

25,000 Mourn at Mass for Lublin Nazi Victims

Moscow, Aug. 12 (A. P.).—The wailing of 25,000 mourners swelled over Lublin as the Polish Committee of National Liberation carried out a huge Mass for were not hanged. The average weight for prisoners was reported to have been 70 to 80 pounds as they were fed solely upon soup made from grass.

The Moscow press carried pictures of tremendous crowds be-

He said the policy "defined by Caudillo (Francisco Franco, chief of State) continues without the slightest alteration, but with natural developments dictated by circumstances and necessities of the country."

Guerrillas Are Active In Germany

Zurich, Switzerland, Aug. 12 (AP)—A reliable report from Belgrade today said Field Marshal Baron Maximilian von Weichs, German commander in chief in ters to Moscow and Berlin who are slated for posts in the surrender government, said this source. Four parties were reported represented.

Form Of Succession

The party leaders are "trying to arrive now at a form of succession to the present government," the source said. His information was that Antonescu would be asked to step down into the position of army chief of staff.

The aim of the party leaders is said to be a program acceptable to all major parties in Romania for an armistice and peace with Russia, Britain and the United States. This has been virtually accomplished, it was asserted. This was the information from Bucharest:

At present the proposed replacement government includes Communists, Socialists, Liberals and members of the Peasant parties.

The aged Maniu, an advocate before the war of settling Romania's differences with Russia, is the guiding spirit and slated for the Premiership.

Communists' Leaders

The Communists are represented by Basile Constantinescu, an Iasi man in his late forties who in the past was imprisoned as a Communist, and the younger Victor Patrascanu of a Romanian literary family.

Representing the Socialists are Titel Petrescu, a lawyer in his fifties who is a former minister of justice, and another lawyer named Siana.

Dinu Bratianu, 70, and his nephew, George Bratianu, represent the Liberal party.

These are the main figures within the country.

The peace group, according to this report, is ready to sacrifice Bessarabia to the Russians.

MORE GROUND WON BY ALLIES IN INDIA

Expulsion of All the Japanese Expected Soon—British Seize Town in North Burma

J. Grover

SOUTHEAST ASIA COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, Kandy, Ceylon, Aug. 12 (AP)—The expulsion of the final remaining Japanese from Northeastern India was imminent tonight with the Allied capture of the last large village on the Tiddim Road before the Burma border.

NIGHT

Allied troops on the Tiddim Road were only a few miles from the Burma border, which on this front [illegible] sixty miles south of Imphal, the Allied base which the enemy defied jungle and monsoon to assault.

To the east other Allied forces drove the Japanese across the border, plunged deeper into Burma and at some points were within ten miles of the Chindwin River.

Marching east from the Kabaw Valley, these forces have encountered no opposition and have counted 500 enemy dead in the valley, a communiqué announced. The Japanese are believed to be clearing out of the area after a series of disastrous defeats.

The Japanese Imperial Headquarters communiqué, broadcast from Tokyo, reported the Japanese in the areas of Imphal and Kohima "regrouped and made preparations for further operations."

Tokyo said Allied attempts to reopen the Burma Road were being frustrated by strong resistance in the area of the Chinese-Burma border town of Lukiang, thirty-one miles southeast of Myitkyina and west of the embattled Japanese base of [illegible] Tengchung

Japs Almost Cleared From All Of India

Southeast Asia Command Headquarters, Kandy, Ceylon, Aug. 12 (AP) — Allied troops have almost cleared Japanese forces from northeastern India by occupying the last large village before the Burma frontier on the Tiddim road, headquarters announced today.

The Allied troops are only a few miles from the border.

Other forces which pursued the Japanese out of India through the border town of Tamu and into the Kabaw Valley of Burma have advanced within ten miles of the Chindwin river without meeting any opposition, the daily communique said.

B 29'S NOW PERIL VITALS OF JAPAN

AUG 1 3 1944

New Southeast Asia Base Opens Vast War Industry in Colonies to Destruction

J. Grover

SOUTHEAST ASIA COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, Kandy, Ceylon, Aug. 12 (AP)—Wide possibilities for the destruction of the most important Japanese installations in the conquered colonies of southeast Asia have been opened with the establishment of a Superfortress base in the southeast Asia command territory, unveiled with this week's smashing B-29 raid against Palembang on Sumatra.

The growing importance of the Twentieth Bomber Command's huge flying destroyers in the strategic picture of the Far Eastern war was high-lighted by the destruction at Palembang of the largest refinery producing bulk aviation gasoline for the Japanese.

Extension of the range of the B-29's in a southeasterly arc from the new roost endangers the most vital Japanese production reservoirs at a time the enemy can least afford their elimination.

Throughout the two years since their seizure, the enemy has been busily employed exploiting Thailand, Indo-China, Malaya and the Netherlands Indies.

Photos Show Expansion

Allied photographers have brought back evidence that the Japanese have rebuilt and expanded production facilities on which they have depended to maintain supply of both the home and war fronts.

Location of these production facilities in the hinterland eased the strain on shipping, which has been decimated by the American submarine campaign. The short haul from the colonial production centers to the fronts has compensated somewhat for the deadly submarine attrition.

Allied naval strikes have hit coastal installations but have been unable to reach inland factories. Now, however, the super-bombers operating from the Southeast Asia Command Base can reach production centers previously safe.

The smashing of such centers as Palembang makes it necessary for the Japanese to ship raw materials to factories in Japan, more than doubling the load of shipping, and creates an additional drain on the home front manpower.

Japanese Feebleness Shown

The series of pinpoint raids by the superbombers on specific industrial targets suggests that the Twentieth Bomber Command is proceeding with a systematic, piecemeal destruction of industrial outposts.

The attack on Palembang again demonstrated the feebleness of the Japanese defense against air strikes. Not a man or plane was scratched in this longest bombing mission in history. The pilots reported that anti-aircraft fire was "weak to moderate" around the enemy's biggest refineries, and that air opposition was nothing to weak. Enemy night fighters encountered were green and wary. Only one plane pressed an attack against a Superfortress, and this one quickly broke off.

The superbomber is so contemptuous of opposition that one "Big Bee" pilot impudently used his multiple-ton monster as a fighter bomber, strafing a 5-,000-ton tanker from low level with big secret guns.

AUG 13 1944

VITAL RAIL TOWN IN BURMA FALLS

Hoosa

CHUNGKING, Aug. 12 — (AP) British troops, after a one-week drive in difficult weather have captured the strategic north Burmese railway town of Taungni, 17 miles south of the former Japanese base of Mogaung, the Chinese command announced tonight.

DAY

(Expulsion of the last remaining Japanese from northeastern India along the Burma border was reported imminent in a dispatch from southeast Asia command headquarters at Kandy, Ceylon. Allied troops on the Tiddim road below Imphal were only a few miles from the Burma border).

The British found Taungni wrecked, disease rampant and the stench of dead Japanese so great that the Allied troops found it impossible to enter the city in force, a Chinese communique stated. There was much evidence of malaria and beriberi, and the stench of the city was "distant even two miles to the north," the bulletin declared.

The British drove to Taungni through Nampadaung and Sahmaw, beginning the push by capturing strongly-defended "Hill 60" controlling a good stretch of the railway.

"Most of the countryside in the Taungni area is flooded," the Chinese communique said. "In many places the water is three to four feet deep. Bridges are cut and the transportation of equipment and artillery is almost impossible.

"After the first bitter fight, the Japanese seemed to realize their position was hopeless and they offered little resistance. Many of the enemy dead were left unburied and much equipment was abandoned."

The bodies of 200 Japanese were counted between Hill 60 and Taungni, and many more were found in the town itself. "Our officer who walked through the filth and stench of the Hukawng and Mogaung valleys described the situation at Taungni as the worst he has encountered," the communique said.

AUG 13 1944

Chinese Still Fight In Hengyang Sector

Chungking, Aug. 12 (AP) — The Chinese high command said today heavy fighting continued on the approaches to Japanese-held Hengyang, and in the suburbs of Leiyang, 30 miles to the south, where the Chinese are in possession of the town.

The Chinese were pressing attacks near Liling, 75 miles northeast of Hengyang, and repelled attacks in the suburbs of Yiyang, 60 miles northwest of Changsha.

Yanks Bomb Changsha

Earlier, Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters announced that American Liberators dropped a heavy load of bombs yesterday on targets in the eastern section of Japanese-held Changsha, Hunan provincal capital, and fires followed a series of explosions.

It was the second large-scale American air attack on the city since it fell to the Japanese in June in their southward drive along the Hankow-Canton railway.

The communique also said that fighter aircraft of the Chinese-American wing knocked down two enemy planes, while on patrol over the Yellow river sector and another was left burning on the ground near Puchow.

All the Allied aircraft returned.

AUG 13 1944

Jap Troop Shifts Seen

Chungking, Aug. 12 (AP) — The Japanese are shuffling forces all over conquered areas to meet as best they can the American attacks now drawing steadily nearer Japan itself, a Chinese army spokesman said last night.

Troop reinforcements are being poured into the Philippines and Formosa. Defenses also are reported being strengthened in the Canton area, apparently in fear of an Allied landing on China's coast.

30-24—17951

Land Bombers Pound Iwo Jima First Time

AUG 13 1944

London, Aug. 12 (AP)—Superfortress raids on Japan so far "are but attempts on the part of the enemy to gather experience for future raids on a major scale," a Berlin broadcast quoted Japanese newspapers as warning the people today.

Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Aug. 12 (AP)—Big United States Army Liberators on Saipan have opened the same deadly campaign of attrition against enemy islands south of Japan as that of New Guinea-based bombers already weakening bases guarding the Philippines.

While Gen. Douglas MacArthur added five more ships today to the 11 in his August reports have listed as sunk by planes south of Mindanao, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz disclosed the first heavy land-based strike at the Volcano Islands, 750 miles from Tokyo.

47 Tons Dropped

Nimitz did not say from whence the Liberators carried their 47 tons Wednesday to Iwo Jima but he identified the bombers as elements of the Seventh Army Air Force, previously reported to have moved its advanced base to Saipan.

MacArthur's report today from the Southwest Pacific told of the sinking of four freighters and a coastal vessel near Halmahera, the biggest Japanese defense base between New Guinea and the Philippines, with two other freighters probably sunk. There was no interception by Nipponese planes based on Halmahera's airfields.

3 Hit By Flak

Nimitz' press release on the raid at Iwo Jima, an island about halfway between Saipan and Tokyo, said, "several enemy fighters attempted to intercept our force but did no damage, although anti-aircraft fire caused minor damage to three Liberators."

He also reported an attack by more than 100 marine planes on Mili, an enemy-held atoll in the Marshalls which has been by-passed since last February.

MacArthur also reported that Australian-flown fighters surprised 500 Japanese staging a parade at the Samate airdrome near Sorong, northwest Dutch New Guinea, flew low to kill many of them and chased the rest in panic.

HALMAHERA

Vessels Caught There And Off Vogelkop Peninsula; Davao Hit Again

Richard Bergholz

General Headquarters, South west Pacific, Sunday, Aug. 13 (AP)—A new air raid on the Philippines and a strong aerial sweep against Halmahera Island, in which 41 parked Japanese planes, were de stroyed or damaged and shipping was heavily hit, were reported by headquarters today.

In the Halmahera attack and air sweeps along Vogelkop peninsula, Dutch New Guinea, four 1,000-ton freighters were sunk, a 3,000-ton freighter-transport destroyed or severely damaged and coastal vessels were sunk or damaged.

NIGHT

Hit Davao Waterfront

Night air patrols bombed the water front at Davao on Mindanao, main southern island in the Philippines, Thursday night and Friday morning. Results were not announced. Two days previously, the first raids against the Philippines since April, 1942, were made in three successive night attacks against Davao airdromes.

During two-day intensive attacks on Halmahera, southern guardian of the Philippines, heavy and medium bombers struck shipping and aircraft. For the second time, no Japanese interception was reported.

Liberators smashed the Galel airdrome Thursday, destroying or damaging at least 31 parked planes

Sink 10 Jap Seaplanes

Mitchell mediums the next day sank 10 seaplanes at their moorings in Wasile Bay, at the northern part of Halmahera. The Mitchells also sank a 1,000-ton freighter, seriously damaged the heavier freighter-transport and five coastal vessels and 28 barges.

STRONG RAID REPEATED AT

Night patrols bombed the Miti airdrome and blew up a near-by ammunition dump.

This was the heaviest bag of aircraft at Halmahera, some 300 miles south of Mindanao, which was brought under intensive American aerial attack in late July.

Hit Vogelkop Shipping

Boston attack planes hit shipping around Vogelkop, sinking three freighters and damaging another. Five coastal vessels and eight barges also were damaged.

A week's bombing in this theater has cost the Japanese ten freighters sunk and 11 freighters and 11 coastal vessels damaged. A total of 20 ships have been sunk thus far in August.

In what the communique called "final mopping up operations" in the Aitape area of Zritish New Guinea, an additional 1,057 Japanese killed were reported. Nipponese dead now total 8,064 since the trapped 18th Imperial Army attempted to break Allied encirclement July 12.

Davis Pays Guam Visit, Studies Propaganda

Guam, Aug. 7 (AP—Delayed)—Elmer Davis, chief of the Office of War Information, visited Guam's battlelines today and observers felt he was making a first-hand study of ways to encourage Japanese soldiers to surrender.

Conceding that American propaganda in the Pacific area was less successful than in Europe, Davis predicted its effectiveness would grow as defeats of the enemy mount. He added "victory is after all the best propaganda."

Notes Break In Fanaticism

Davis said there were signs that Japanese fanatical resistance is breaking. He cited Hollandia, Dutch New Guinea, where, he asserted, a sizeable percentage of the Japanese gave themselves up.

The OWI chief lunched at Orote airfield. He had field rations and then a bumpy jeep trip to the headquarters of Maj. Gen. Roy S. Geiger, veteran officer of marines.

Flies swarmed over the food and there was a nauseating smell of Japanese dead in the shattered building where Davis ate. Neither seemed to bother him.

At war-ravaged Agana City Davis viewed the ruins of the Governor's palace. He picked up a piece of broken concrete for a souvenir.

Help Start Radio Station

Davis conferred with General Geiger, commander of all land forces in the Guam campaign. Then he visited the battle front with Col. Merton H. Silverthorn, of Minneapolis.

At Saipan Island Davis participated in the inauguration of radio station WXLD. The station is for American troops. Davis said.

Baker Island Revealed As Year-Old U. S. Air Base

Occupied While Japan Held Gilberts, 600 Miles Away

ARMY AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS, Central Pacific, Aug. 10 (Delayed) (AP).—Brigadier General Robert W. Douglas jr., commander of the 7th United States Air Force, disclosed today that Baker Island, 2,000 miles southwest of Honolulu, has been an important American air base for almost a year.

General Douglas said a Central Pacific American task force moved bases of the 7th to the little island, within 600 miles of the Gilbert Islands while they still were dominated by the Japanese. He added: "Our occupation of Baker Island was one of the best-kept secrets of Central Pacific operations. Jap reconnaissance planes which attempted to penetrate the defense screen were shot down."

10,000 Americans Wed Aussie Girls

Sydney, Australia, Aug. 12 (AP)—Nearly 10,000 Australian girls have married American servicemen since the latter started coming here in large numbers in early 1942, and already 4,000 of these war brides and some 200 babies have gone to the United States.

Another 134 brides are awaiting transportation and 2,000 others have applied for permits to enter the United States.

The largest single contingent—296 wives and 72 babies—recently embarked on a pre-war American luxury liner.

Japan Takes Steps To Shift Industries

New York, Aug. 12 (AP)—The Tokyo radio said today the Japan Industrial Machinery Control Association had decided to set up a supervisory and "efficiency" office empowered to order "divisional shifts and other emergency shifts" in machine tool factories "to cope with the enemy air raids."

In the broadcast, directed to North America in English and recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, Tokyo said the office would be a "sub-structure" of the control association and would be a "war production corporation."

Japs Take U. S. Officers At Hengyang, DNB Says

New York, Aug. 12 (AP)—The Nazi DNB agency transmitted a dispatch to the controlled European press today quoting Japanese "military quarters" as saying that "about 20 United States army officers were made prisoner when the Japanese captured Hengyang" in China's Hunan province.

The DNB dispatch, reported by the Federal Communications Commission, declared the American officers had been sent to Hengyang "a few months ago to direct defense."

AUG 13 1944

LOG OF TOUR BY PRESIDENT

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 12 (A. P.).—President Roosevelt's Pacific war tour at a glance:

July 13—Left Washington accompanied by White House military advisers.

July 19—Arrived at Marine base, San Diego, Cal.

July 20—Accepted fourth-term nomination in speech broadcast from train in base.

July 21—Boarded cruiser for Pearl Harbor.

July 26—Arrived at Pearl Harbor for military conferences and inspections.

Aug. 3—Visited a military base in Alaska.

The High Lights Of F. D. R. Speech

Bremerton, Wash., Aug. 12 (AP)—High lights of President Roosevelt's speech at the Puget Sound Navy Yard tonight:

"We are utterly opposed to aggression or sneak attacks—but we, as a people, are insistent that other nations must not under any circumstances through the foreseeable future commit such attacks against the United States. Therefore it is essential that we be fully prepared to prevent them for all time to come."

"The word and honor of Japan cannot be trusted."

"We have no desire to ask for any possession of the United Nations, but I am confident (they will) be glad to join with us in protection against aggression and in machinery to prevent aggression."

"It is important that we have forward bases nearer to Japan. The same thing is true in regard to the defenses of all the American republics from Mexico past the Panama Canal and all the way down to Chile."

"The war is well in hand, but I cannot tell you, if I knew, when the war will be over either in Europe or in the Far East or the war against Japan.

"It will be over the sooner if the people or this country will maintain the making of the necessary supplies and ships and planes. By so doing we will hasten the day of peace."

AUG 13 1944

Roosevelt For A Permanent Curb on Japan

Back in U.S. From Alaska and Hawaii, He Asserts Tokyo Can't Be Trusted

Says America Asks No Allied Territory

Planned for Victory With MacArthur and Nimitz; Million Men in Pacific

The President's address—Page 33

By The Associated Press

BREMERTON, Wash., Aug. 12.—President Roosevelt came home from a 15-day inspection of the Pacific war zone tonight to declare the United Nations must prepare permanent defenses against any future aggressions by the Japanese.

"The word and the honor of Japan cannot be trusted," he declared.

The President came into dock at this huge navy yard about 4 p. m., ending a war tour that begun when he left the marine base at San Diego, Calif., on July 21—a day after his fourth-term nomination by the Democrats.

During his absence he visited Pearl Harbor, where he conferred with the war chiefs of the Pacific, and inspected military bases in the Aleutians.

He brought a laugh when he said he played hookey near Juneau, Alaska, long enough to sneak in three hours of fishing. The result: one halibut and one flounder.

Urges Permanent Defenses

Permanent Pacific defenses must be obtained, Mr. Roosevelt said, to protect this hemisphere from Alaska to Chile. It is important, he added, that we have permanent bases nearer to Japan. He declared the war was "well in hand in the vast area" of the Pacific where, he said, "more than a million of our troops" are on duty.

"We have no desire to ask for any possessions of the United Nations," he said, "but the United Nations who are working so well with us in the winning of the war will, I am confident, be glad to join with us in protection against aggression and in machinery to prevent aggression.

"With them and their help, I am sure that we can agree completely so that Central and South America will be as safe against attack from the South Pacific as North America is going to be from the North Pacific itself."

As for Japan, the President said:

"It is an unfortunate fact that years of proof must pass before we can trust Japan and before we can classify Japan as a member of the society of nations which seek permanent peace and whose word we can take."

The President said that during his absence—he left Washington July 13—he kept in close touch with developments in the Capital and on all war fronts. But he did not offer a guess on the war's end.

"I cannot tell you, if I knew, when he war will be over either in Europe or in the Far East or the war against Japan," he said.

"It will be over the sooner," he said, "if the people of this country will maintain the making of the necessary supplies and ships and planes. By so doing we will hasten the day of peace. By so doing we will save our own pocketbooks and those of our children; by so doing we will run a better chance of substantial unity among the United Nations in laying more securely the foundation of a lasting peace."

No word of politics entered his speech, delivered from the base on a gun mount of the destroyer which brought him into the heart of this bustling navy yard. His visible audience, consisted of sailors, Navy officers and workers who lined the dockside to hear the Chief Executive's first speech since he accepted the Democratic renomination on July 20.

The Chief Executive, wearing a felt hat and dark suit, chatted with those on shipboard as the vessel came in. He puffed on a cigarette and conversed with his daughter, Anna Boettiger, who went out to meet the President's ship early afternoon. He appeared tanned from his sea voyages of recent days.

While the President sat aboard the vessel before time for his speech the Puget Sound Navy Yard Band played swing tunes from a temporary bandstand thrown up on the dockside. As he stood to speak, a cheer and applause went up from the audience. He waved a return greeting.

He told of his military conferences in Honolulu with "my old friend General Douglas MacArthur," and said he had participated in "interesting and useful conferences accompanied by Admiral Nimitz and my own chief of staff, Admiral Leahy, and General Richardson, the commanding general of Army forces in the Hawaiian area, and Admiral Halsey, commander of the 3d Fleet."

The three days of conferences, he said, "developed complete accord both in the understanding of the problem that confronts us and in the opinion as to the best method for its solution."

The Chief Executive interrupted his prepared text to comment on what he termed "a modern marvel"—the fact that newspapers did not break security to discuss his trip although they were in on the secret from the time he left Washington.

The President said the Hawaiian Islands have been converted from a mere outpost to a major base for front line operations in the Pacific. He brought a cheer from his audience when he declared "the islands will make possible future operations in China—make possible the recapture and independence of the Philippines, and make possible the carrying of war into the home islands of Japan itself, and its capital city of Tokyo."

Mr. Roosevelt said upon his return to Washington he intends to set up a study of Alaska and the Aleutian Islands as "a place to which many veterans of this war, especialy those who do not have strong roots in their own homes, can go to become pioneers."

AUG 13 1944

President's Bremerton Address

BREMERTON, Wash., Aug. 12 (AP).—Following is the text of President Roosevelt's address delivered at the Puget Sound Navy Yard here:

It is just thirty days since I left Washington, but I have been at all times in close touch with the work there and also in daily communication with our forces in the European and Far Eastern theaters of war. It is good to come back to the Puget Sound Navy Yard, for, as you know, I have been coming here off and on since 1913 or 1914. Since my visit here nearly two years ago I am glad to know of the splendid progress that is being maintained both here and at many places on the Pacific Coast in turning out ships and planes and munitions of almost every other variety and in the training of men for all of the armed services. So I have thought that you would be interested in a brief summary of my visit to Hawaii and to the Aleutian Islands and Alaska, from which I am about to step foot on shore in the continental United States.

When I got to San Diego, and for three days before going on board ship, I had the opportunity to visit many of the patients in the hospital there, a large number of whom were just back from the fighting in the Marshall and Marianas Islands, and also I witnessed a large practice landing operation on the beaches of southern California between Los Angeles and San Diego, the kind of warfare which has been so successfully developed by us during the last two years. This is of a wholly new type requiring all kinds of new equipment and new training, and I think I can safely say that no other nation in the world has worked it out as successfully as we have shown within the last few years in the capture of Saipan and Tinian and the recapturing of Guam, resulting in new threats against Japan itself and against all of their operations in the southwest Pacific.

30.24— 17953

AUG 13 1944

Describes Operation

It takes a personal observation of a landing maneuver such as I saw from a high bluff overlooking the shore below to understand how well the application of experience is being carried out. The landing craft—a wholly new type of ship—came to the beach from the transports offshore under a cover of fog. They came on in waves, the marines and infantry getting the first toe hold, followed by other waves and then by all manner of equipment, ammunition and wire and tanks, all protected by air coverage, and preceded theoretically by a devastating bombardment from heavy ships lying offshore. When a beachhead was obtained to a depth of a mile or two there followed the unloading of great quantities of supplies of all kinds, including tanks and trucks and jeeps.

Timing is of the utmost importance in an operation of this kind, together with instantaneous communication from the shore to the ships and planes. Here was demonstrated the perfect co-operation between all of the services—Army, Navy and marines—and to this should be added the teamwork for the immediate care of the wounded and their quick transfer back to the hospital ships. We, in our comfortable homes, ought to realize that to all troops and marines who are to conduct a new landing expedition on some far distant island in the Pacific, as well as on the coast of France, this amphibious training is being given at a number of places in the United States before the expedition even starts. Hundreds of instructors are required, nearly all men who have participated in actual combat operations beforehand. Many of these instructors will, of course, accompany the troops in the actual operations of future landings.

The cruiser on which I went from San Diego to Hawaii is one of a number of what we call "post-treaty cruisers," much larger and more powerful and faster than the pre-war cruisers, which were limited by treaty to 10,000 tons. This particular ship joined the Pacific Fleet less than a year ago, but has already engaged in fifteen operations in the western and southwest Pacific. Hers is a magnificent record. Her skipper and crew have brought her through all of these many offensive missions unscathed, and because of the experience thus gained she is an even more powerful weapon than she was the day she joined the fleet.

The voyage was uneventful and we arrived at Pearl Harbor on July 26.

What an amazing change since my visit there ten years ago. Up to that time the Pearl Harbor Navy Yard had maintained a steady growth like most of our other navy yards, but today it is capable of making repairs to the heaviest ships and employs a force nearly ten times as great, many of the mechanics coming from the west coast. All of the battleships and smaller craft which were sunk or damaged in the attack on Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941, have been raised with the exception of the Arizona. In her case, because of the explosion of her forward magazine, salvage was impossible, but in her case her main battery of heavy guns was removed and remounted and now forms a part of the coastal defenses on the Island of Oahu.

All of the other ships are afloat and in service, most of them having been put back into commission here at Puget Sound and all of them greatly improved in fire power. They have been used in action in the Pacific and elsewhere—one of them indeed, the Nevada, having taken part in the bombardment of the coast of Normandy prior to and during the landing operations there as late as the sixth of June.

I spent three days on the Island of Oahu, and everywhere, as at the navy yard, the war activities have multiplied almost beyond belief.

AUG 14 1944

On the afternoon of my arrival my old friend, General Douglas MacArthur, arrived by air from New Guinea, and we began a series of interesting and useful conferences, accompanied by Admiral Nimitz and my own chief of staff, Admiral Leahy, and General Richardson, the commanding general of Army forces in the Hawaiian area, and Admiral Halsey, commander of the 3d Fleet.

In these three days we talked about Pacific problems and the best method of conducting the Pacific campaign in the future. The discussions developed complete accord, both in the understanding of the problem that confronts us and in the opinion as to the best methods for its solution. All of us must bear in mind the enormous size of the Pacific area, keeping a mental map of the whole ocean in mind.

AUG 1 1944

Hawaii Once an Outpost

The Hawaiian Islands used to be considered an outpost. We were not allowed to fortify Guam nor did we fortify Wake or Midway or Samoa.

Today the Hawaiian Islands are no longer a mere outpost. They constitute a major base from which, and from the Pacific Coast, front-line operations are being conducted twice as far away as the distance between the coast and Hawaii. The Hawaiian Islands have helped to make possible the victories at Guadalcanal and New Guinea and the Marshalls and the Marianas. The islands will make possible future operations in China—make possible the recapture and independence of the Philippines, and make possible the carrying of war into the home islands of Japan itself and its capital city of Tokyo.

In a few minutes I want to say another word about the future of the Pacific.

During the rest of my stay in Hawaii I visited many activities, including the great airfields, the hospitals, and an ambulance plane at Hickam Field which had just come in with wounded men from Saipan; and I saw a large Army group which was going through a complete course on jungle warfare—an art which we have developed so expertly that our troops are more than a match in the jungle for any Japanese whom we have yet to meet. I am very proud of the basic training and the final training our sons are getting at home and overseas.

Rejoining our ship, we headed for the Aleutian Islands, four days later arriving at Adak and one of the more westerly islands of the group. There again I found intense activity at what might be called a nearly completed advance base. It was from here that a great part of the expeditions for the recapture of Attu and Kiska started. Adak two years ago was a bleak and practically uninhabited island which, with the other Aleutian Islands, seemed relatively unimportant in the plans for the security of our own continent.

You here can well realize the commotion which followed the Japanese occupation of Attu and Kiska and you may have thought that the chiefs of staff in Washington were not paying enough attention to the threat against Alaska and the coast. We realized, of course, that such a Japanese threat could become serious if it was unopposed, but we knew also that Japan did not have the naval and air power to carry this into effect without greater resources and a longer time to plan. Preparations to throw the Japanese from their toeholds had been laid even before the Japanese got there, and the rest of the story you know. It took great preparations and heavy fighting to eject them from Attu and by the time the great expedition to recapture Kiska got there the Japanese had decided that discretion was the better part of valor; they decided retirement, and retreat was better for them than hara-kiri. They abandoned the Aleutians.

The climate at Adak is not the most inviting in the world, but I want to say a word of appreciation to the thousands of officers and men of all the services who have built up this base and other bases in the extreme northwest in such a short time to a point where the people of our Pacific Coast, of British Columbia, and of Alaska can feel certain that we are safe against Japanese invasion on any large scale.

Delayed by Fog and Rain

Delayed by fog and rain, we had to give up putting in at Dutch Harbor, but we did stop at Kodiak, a large island off the end of the Alaskan peninsula. Here, also, the three services have completed a very excellent, though smaller, base. The first little town we had seen in Alaskan waters and the first trees made me think of the coasts of Maine and Newfoundland.

We were told that a number of officers and men at this and other ports are considering settling in Alaska after the war is over. I hope that this is so because the development of Alaska has only been scratched and it is still the country of the pioneer. Only a small part of its mineral resources have been explored and there is, of course, an abundance of fish and game and timber, together with great possibilities for agriculture. I could not help remembering that the climate, the crops and other resources are not essentially different from northern Europe—Norway, Sweden and Finland—and the people of these countries in spite of the cold and, in winter, the darkness have brought their civilizations to a high and prosperous level. On my return to Washington I am going to set up a study of Alaska and the Aleutian Islands as a place to which many veterans of this war, especially those who do not have strong roots in their own homes, can go to become pioneers. It is a land with a small population but which I am convinced has great opportunities for those who are willing to work and to help build up all kinds of new things in new lands.

This trip has given me a chance to talk over the social and economic future of the Hawaiian Islands with Governor Stainback, and the future of the people of Alaska with Governor Gruening. He asked me to assure you that the tan which I have acquired in the last few days has come from the Alaska sun. Near Juneau I played hookey for three hours, went fishing and caught one halibut and one flounder.

AUG 13 1944

Opposed to Sneak Attacks

Speaking again of the future of the defense of the Pacific and the use of its strongpoints in order to prevent attacks on us. You who live in the Pacific Northwest have realized that a line for sea and air navigation following the Great Circle course from Puget Sound to Siberia and northern China passed very close to the Alaskan coast and thence westward along the line of the Aleutian Islands. From the point of view of national defense, therefore, it is essential that our control of this route shall be undisputed. Everybody in Siberia and China knows that we have no ambition to acquire land on the Continent of Asia. We, as a people, are utterly opposed to aggression or sneak attacks—but, we as a people, are insistent that other nations must not, under any circumstances, through the foreseeable future commit such attacks against the United States. Therefore, it is essential that we be fully prepared to prevent them for all time to come. The word and the honor of Japan can not be trusted.

That is a simple statement from the military, naval and air point of view. But with the end of a Japanese threat there is an excellent outlook for a permanent peace in the whole of the Pacific area. It is, therefore, natural and proper for us to think of the economic and commercial future. It is logical that we should foresee a great interchange of commerce between our shores and those of Siberia and China—and in this commercial development Alaska and the Aleutian Islands become automatic stepping stones for trade, both by water and by cargo planes. And this means the automatic development of transportation to Alaska via British Columbia and as far north as the Yukon.

It is as long as ten years ago that I talked with Mr. Mackenzie King, Prime Minister of Canada, in regard to the development of highways and air routes and even a railroad to Alaska via British Columbia and the Yukon. Great interest in both nations was aroused but it took the war to get quick action. Today the Alcan highway is practically completed and an air route to Fairbanks enables us to deliver thousands of planes to our ally Russia by way of Alaska, Bering Straits and Siberia. These planes are an important factor in the brilliant and brave advance of the Russian armies on their march to Berlin. And I might observe also that our close relations and true friendship with Canada during these years has proved to be an illustrious example of working hand in hand with your neighbor for the general good.

Island Bases Important

South of the Alaska-Aleutians route the use of island groups must also be considered for defense and for commerce in getting to and from the American and Asiatic continents. We understand at last the importance of the Hawaiian Islands. It is important that we have other bases—forward bases nearer to Japan than they lie. The same thing is true in regard to the defense of all the American republics from Mexico past the Panama Canal and all the way down to Chile. There are hundreds of islands in the South Pacific which bear the same relation to South America and the Panama Canal as Hawaii bears to North America. These islands are possessions of the British Empire and the French. They are important commercially just as they are from the defense point of view for they lead to New Zealand, Australia, the Dutch Indies and the southern Philippines. With all these places we shall undoubtedly have a growing trade.

We have no desire to ask for any possessions of the United Nations. But the United Nations who are working so well with us in the winning of the war will, I am confident, be glad to join with us in protection against aggression and in machinery to prevent aggression. With them and with their help I am sure that we can agree completely so that Central and South America will be as safe against attack from the South Pacific as North America is going to be from the North Pacific itself.

Gains Seen for Allies

The self-interests of our allies will be affected by fair and friendly collaboration with us. They, too, will gain in national security. They will gain economically. The destinies of the peoples of the whole Pacific will for many years be entwined with our own destiny. Already there is stirring among hundreds of millions of them a desire for the right to work out their own destinies and they show no evidence of seeking to overrun the earth—with one exception.

That exception is and has been for many, many years that of Japan and the Japanese people—because whether or not the people of Japan itself know and approve of what their lords have done for nearly a century, the fact remains that they seem to be giving hearty approval to the Japanese policy of acquisition of their neighbors and their neighbors' lands and a military and economic control of as many other nations as they can lay their hands on. It is an unfortunate fact that other nations cannot trust Japan, it is an unfortunate fact that years of proof must pass before we can trust Japan and before we can classify Japan as a member of the society of nations which seek permanent peace and whose word we can take.

In removing the future menace of Japan to us and to our continent we are holding out the hope that other people in the Far East can be freed from the same threat; the people of the Philippines never have wished and never will wish to be slaves to Japan. And the same thing is true of the peoples of Korea, that ancient kingdom which was overrun by the Japanese half a century ago. The peoples of Manchuria and all the rest of China. The same thing is true of the peoples of Indo-China, the people of Siam, the peoples of Java and even the most primitive peoples of New Guinea and of the so-called mandated islands which we are in the splendid process of throwing the Japanese out of.

Million Troops In Pacific

I am glad to have the opportunity of taking this short trip, first for the conferences with General MacArthur and Admiral Nimitz and secondly for the first-hand view of certain bases which are of vital importance to the ending of the war and to the prevention in the future of any similar attack.

More than a million of our troops are overseas in the Pacific. The war is well in hand in this vast area, but I cannot tell you, if I knew, when the war will be over, either in Europe or in the Far East or the war against Japan.

It will be over the sooner if the people of this country will maintain the making of the necessary supplies and ships and planes. By so doing we will hasten the day of peace. By so doing we will save our own pocketbooks and those of our children; by so doing we will save the lives of our sons, and by so doing we will run a better chance of substantial unity among the United Nations in laying more securely the foundation of a lasting peace.

Easier Jap Censorship Seen As Possible Window Dressing

AUG 131944

By RUSSELL BRINES

[Former AP Correspondent in Tokyo]

San Francisco, Aug. 12 (AP)—A new policy for Japan's controlled press, promising the end of the Government's "indirect guidance" and more regard for public opinion, has been reported by the official Domei news agency.

United States Government monitors recorded a Domei broadcast which said Tokyo newspapers prominently reported the new policy. It added the hope of Japanese editors that the chance would permit them to infuse "fresh air" into news columns which evidently have lost public confidence.

Newspaperman In Post

Taketora Ogata, recently appointed president of the Cabinet Board of Information, announced the Koiso Government's "new wartime information policy," Domei said. Ogata, president of the powerful Mainichi newspaper chain, is the first active newspaperman to occupy this key propaganda position.

Ogata was quoted as saying the Government henceforth will abandon its policy of "controlling public opinion" and will "duly respect" it, as reflected through the newspapers.

To Remove Public Doubt

The Government will refrain from "giving indirect guidance" to the press on wartime publicity, and will assist newspapers in acquiring "accurate information speedily."

"The Government is prepared," Ogata added, "to make such corrections in its wartime information as may become necessary . . . to remove the slightest inclination on the part of the general public to disbelieve what the newspapers report, especially with reference to the military situation."

Domei's report was in English, beamed to America. Therefore it may be only window-dressing to picture Japan as becoming liberal in advance of potential overtures for a compromise peace.

Nevertheless, a short time previously the army and navy ministers jointly recommended that the Government consider permitting "free expression of public opinion with the object of enhancing home-front morale."

Decade Of Censorship

For more than a decade the Government's "indirect guidance" of the press has meant strict censorship. Government propaganda was fed through the newspapers in large and monotonously repetitious doses.

The Japanese are avid newspaper readers. Leading papers have circulations reaching into the millions. The militarists, reaching power, capitalized upon this pathway to control over the gullible people.

But popular disillusionment with war leadership evidently has given newspaper owners an opening to convince the Koiso "goodwill" government that more candor is required to quiet public restlessness.

HOUSE TO TAKE UP WAR GOODS BILL

Surplus Property Legislation Given Right of Way Over George Measure.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 — (AP) The House leadership gave the go-ahead signal today to surplus property disposal legislation, sidetracking temporarily the George unemployment - demobilization bill passed yesterday by the Senate.

Three days of debate, starting Tuesday, were allotted tentatively to the surplus property measure which was approved today by the house expenditures committee, the final decision to be made Monday by the Rules committee.

Doughton Calls Meeting

Chairman Doughton (D - NC) meanwhile called a meeting of the Ways and Means committee for Tuesday to determine the line of action on the George measure, which the Senate passed by a 55 to 19 vote after rejecting the revised Kilgore bill calling for unemployment benefits up to $25 weekly.

The committee will decide whether to divorce from the bill a provision establishing an Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion headed by a presidentially-appointed director at $15,000 a year.

Earlier house plans called for creation of an office of reconversion, unemployment compensation and surplus property disposal.

Chairman Colmer (D-Miss) of the House Postwar Economic committee, said he believed the three-point program could be expedited by leaving in the George bill the provision setting up the reconversion machinery.

A postwar subcommittee headed by Representative Cooper (D-Tenn) has agreed on a separate bill embodying the main principles of the Senate's reconversion proposal. By leaving both subjects in one bill, in the opinion of House leaders, a pre-election Congressional adjournment starting around September 1 might be possible.

There was little controversy in sight on the Surplus Property bill, written by a committee headed by Representative Manasco (D-Ala), it provides for appointment of a surplus property director with broad authority to supervise the orderly disposition of government-held surpluses that will be salable in the domestic markets. Similar legislation is being studied by a Senate military subcommittee.

May Renew Fight

There was a prospect that Kilgore bill backers would renew in the House their fight for liberal unemployment benefits for civilian workers thrown out of jobs after the war and for returning veterans. The same coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats that defeated the Kilgore bill in the Senate was confident it could hold its ground in the House.

The George bill leaves entirely in the hands of the states the standards for unemployment benefits, adds several million government workers to coverage and guarantees the solvency of state social security systems. It does not boost existing state compensation levels averaging about $20 weekly.

It also sets up a bi-partisan Congressional committee and a committee representing industry, labor, agriculture and the public to help determine questions of policy. In addition, the measure authorizes loans and grants to states and municipalities to finance job-providing public work

AUG 131944

BAN ON 2 FILMS ERROR, SAYS ARMY

List Of Forbidden Books Rises To 15, It Is Disclosed

Right of the press to criticize censorship rules upheld by New Zealand court.....Page 11

Washington, Aug. 12 (AP)—The army, admitting tonight that two motion pictures it had said were banned from distribution to troops were never even considered, disclosed at the same time that its list of forbidden books has grown to 15, including Raymond Clapper's "Watching the World."

Three days ago, the War Department Bureau of Public Relations informed reporters that the movies "Wilson," based on the career of President Woodrow Wilson, and "Heavenly Days," which takes the radio stars, Fibber McGee and Molly, to Washington, had officially run afoul of the soldier-vote law's prohibition against army-sponsored distribution of political propaganda.

Tonight, after high-ranking officers had spent most of the day conferring on a report of what actually had occurred, a cautiously worded statement was issued that information which reached the press . . . "was in error."

"Failed Of Selection"

"Upon investigation by the bureau of public relations," said the announcement, "it is found that only informal discussions of the pictures have taken place. No occasion has yet arisen for the War Department to determine whether these particular pictures are available or eligible for showing to troops."

Inquiry about the present status of books which have "failed of selection" (army officers recoil from the word "banned") because of decisions that they might be held to violate the no-propaganda section of the soldier vote law, produced the information that 15 titles are now on the list.

In addition to "Watching The World," a collection of the late Raymond Clapper's daily columns, the list includes "Lend Lease" by Edward R. Stettinius, Under Secretary of State; "Time For Decision," by Stettinius' predecessor, Sumner Welles, and Eric Johnstons' "America Unlimited."

Grew's Book On List

Senator James M. Mead's "Tell the Folks Back Home" is banned, as is "My Ten Years in Japan," by Joseph C. Grew, former Ambassador in Tokyo. Others on the list, including the few previously announced, are:

"Yankee From Olympus," by Catherine Drinker Bowen; E. B. White's "One Man's Meat"; Charles and Mary Beard's "Basic History of the United States"; Charles A. Beard's "The Republic" (Beard is the only author on the list twice); Chang's biography of "Chang Kai-Shek"; John Dos Passos' "State Of The Nation"; Stuart Chase's "Rich Land, Poor Land"; John Carlson's "Under Cover"; and "The Official Guide to the Army Air Forces."

Roosevelt Sketch Reason

The last named got thumbs-down when the air forces themselves proposed to purchase it in quantity for official distribution, the decision being based on a ruling that a pen-portrait of President Roosevelt, commander in chief, which was the frontispiece of the volume in some editions might be considered political propaganda.

All the other titles were given unfavorable rulings under the soldier-vote law when submitted to the army and navy by the council on books in wartime, as suggested volumes to be distributed as recreational reading.

Congress To Discuss Law

The section of the law under which these actions were taken—or, as in the case of the motion picture, not taken—is scheduled to get a going over in Congress next week. Senator Taft (R., Ohio), author of the original section, and Senator Green (D. R. I.) have agreed on a new draft which the army officials expect to eliminate all the bans so far imposed, and obviate similar prohibitions in the future.

Declaring that America's fighting men overseas are "not idiots," Maury Maverick, smaller war plants corporation chairman, said today that legislative restrictions on what the army and navy may distribute to them in moving pictures, newspapers and other publications should be "immediately repealed."

He Has A Son

Maverick told a news conference that he "has the right" to express himself on this subject because he has a son and 23 nephews in service, and that he "feels deeply and sincerely about it."

"We've got to quit making mom's boys out of these fellows," Maverick asserted. "They're grown up. They're tough. And a whole lot less susceptible to propaganda of any nature than we civilians are."

before it was submitted to them by Twentieth Century-Fox.

Saw It In New York

"I understand some of the members saw the picture at a New York theater and then went out and told the newspapers it could not be shown to the troops," Chandler said.

"It was a gratuitous insult to the producers. The established procedure is for the review board to make its decisions after pictures are submitted to them."

Senator Taft (R., Ohio), who worked out with Senator Green (D., R. I.) amendments to permit freer circulation of news, pictures and speeches among the troops, said he did not know what procedure the army had employed, but asserted "the film evidently is strong pro-Roosevelt propaganda."

Fight For League

The picture deals with the life of the First World War President and his fight for the League of Nations.

The Green-Taft amendments are designed to give army and navy authorities wider discretion in the selection of material for the troops. Taft said they would permit showing of the Wilson film.

In one of the latest applications of the law several hundred thousand copies of "The Official Guide to the Army Air Force" were prohibited from sale at post exchanges because they contain a pen portrait of President Roosevelt captioned "Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy."

DESTROYER ESCORT SUNK IN ATLANTIC

Navy Discloses Fiske Destroyed by Torpedo from Nazi Submarine.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—(AP) The Destroyer Escort Fiske was sunk by an enemy torpedo recently in the Atlantic, the navy announced today.

The brief announcement gave no indication of where the Fiske was hit by the torpedo launched from a German U-boat.

Next of kin of all casualties aboard the vessel which was under

Procedure Of Ban On 'Wilson' Film Called Irregular

AUG 131944

Washington, Aug. 12 (AP)—A complaint that the army followed an "irregular course" in banning the showing of the movie "Wilson" to overseas troops was raised today in the midst of efforts to modify anti-political propaganda restrictions of the soldier voting law.

Senator Chandler (D., Ky.) said he had asked War Secretary Stimson to investigate reports that members of an army review board turned thumbs down on the picture command of Lt. John A. Comly, 27, have been notified, the navy said. Comly is listed as a survivor.

30. 24— 17955

The 300-foot Fiske is one of the hundreds of new destroyer escorts being turned out with production-line speed for operation in both the Atlantic and Pacific.

Small but deadly, the destroyer escorts are used principally for convoy operations against submarines, but little information has been disclosed about this type of ship.

The navy gave no indication of the number of casualties among the approximately 150 men aboard the Fiske.

The Fiske was built by the Consolidated Steel corporation at Orange, Texas, and was commissioned, Aug. 25, 1943.

Lt. Comly's wife lives at Meetinghouse Lane and Prescott Row, Marion Park, Pa.

The loss of the Fiske raises to 175 the number of American warships lost since the war started. This includes 134 sunk, 32 listed as overdue and presumed lost, and nine destroyed to prevent capture.

EMPLOYES VOTE AGAINST STRIKE

AUG 13 1944

But Electric Boat Workers Will Quit Tomorrow, Union Official Insists.

GROTON, Aug. 12 — (AP) The Electric Boat company, builder of submarines for the Navy, reported tonight that its employes had voted 6,334 to 1,717 against a strike called for 6 a. m. Monday by the Shipbuilding and Marine Engineers union, an independent.

Charles Suisman of New London, counsel for the union which says it has 34 grievances, repeated a previous statement that the strike, notice of which was given by the union 30 days ago, would go on as scheduled, regardless of the result of today's vote taken under supervision of the National Labor Relations board.

The result of the vote as announced by a company spokesman: present and eligible to vote 9,591; voting 8,118; yes, 1,717; no, 6,344; void ballots, 67.

Suisman said the 1,717 voting for the strike represented a "bare majority" of the union members taking part in the election, the legality of which was questioned in advance by the union which asserted the company misrepresented the situation in sample ballots mailed to workers.

The attorney, asked how many members the union had, said "normally" five or six thousands but that many were "on vacation."

The NLRB has summarized the union's contentions thus:

1—That bargaining between it and the company with respect to certain grievances has not been carried on in good faith by the company and that the company has violated certain provisions of the existing collective bargaining agreement;

2—That the company has by acts of intimidation and coercion and by suspending the union president and by other unspecified acts discouraged union activities and affiliation, and

3—That the company has violated certain provisions of the public contracts act and of a Connecticut statute pertaining to the payment of wages.

After the vote was announced, O. Pomeroy Robinson, Electric Boat vice-president, issued this statement:

"We are very happy to have had this definite proof that the majority of our employes were not misled by the propaganda issued against the company by a few union men. We have full confidence in our employes and are not surprised that they voted to back the war effort."

FREIGHT SERVICE BEING RESUMED ON MIDWEST LINES

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 12—(AP) With both unions and truck operators giving complete cooperation, the government tonight moved rapidly toward resumption of complete over-the-road freight service on 103 midwestern lines by Monday.

Ellis T. Longenecker, federal manager of the lines under government control, said he had received word that trucks were ready to roll at Sioux Falls, S. D., Omaha, Neb. and Sioux City, Iowa with operators and unions having agreed to acceptance of federal rules.

Ready to Start Hauling

He reported that 50 per cent of Chicago truckers were set to start hauling with the remainder held up only because the situation had not yet cleared up in the twin cities' area, whence their loads were destined.

"There is no middle road in this situation," Longenecker said. "Either the operators haul the freight or the ODT will, even to the extent of furnishing the necessary personnel. With the present evinced spirit of cooperation of both unions and operators we do not anticipate having to take over any firm physically and we hope to have congested midwest terminals cleared within a few days after things really get rolling Monday."

His prediction came as he scheduled week-end meetings with both groups at which he and corps of government transport experts will explain the federal directive. Under present plans, the companies will be operated by their owners. Longenecker said, and he anticipated no necessity for calling the military help made possible in the presidential order.

Insures Pay Raise

The directive insures payment to the drivers of the seven-cent-an-hour pay raise given them last February by the War Labor board under government operation, a move the operators have said was impossible for them with present revenue. The order also directs that back pay due under the WLB ruling be made from net operating profits.

P. E. Field, Chicago, traffic consultant for the Maritime commission, one of the first men to meet with Longenecker after he arrived by plane from Washington, warned that the truck tieup was threatening construction of 100 ships in three midwestern yards.

Longenecker assured him that all essentials would receive immediate attention under a system of what he called "automatic priorities" already given war goods by the companies.

Field said two shipyards at Superior, Wis., and one at Milwaukee faced shutdowns in some departments unless needed parts were delivered soon.

One-day Alaska Round Trip.

Seattle, Aug. 12 (A. P.).—One-day round-trip commercial air service to Alaska was scheduled for the first time today. Pan American World Airways announced that four days a week an air traveler will be able to fly from Seattle to Juneau in six hours, disembark for half an hour and return to Seattle the same night.

Certain Radio Scripts Subpœnaed By FCC

Washington, Aug. 12 (AP)—The Federal Communications Commission issued subpoenas today for certain radio scripts by Upton Close, Fulton Lewis, Jr., Boake Carter, Dewitt Emery, Sheelah Carter, and Col. Robert McCormick broadcast over Station WHKC, Columbus, Ohio.

The subpoenas were issued at the request of the CIO United Automobile Workers, who are asking that the station's license be revoked on the ground that WHKC has been unfair in allotting time for discussion of various issues, principally those concerning organized labor.

Close, Lewis, Boake Carter and Sheelah Carter are radio commentators. Emery is president of the National Small Businessmen's Association, and Colonel McCormick is publisher of the Chicago Tribune.

120,000 Planes Predicted for 1944

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 12 (A. P.).—Harry Woodhead, president of Consolidated-Vultee Aircraft Corporation, believes that the nation's aircraft industry is capable of producing 120,000 planes this year.

Speaking to the American Society of Tool Engineers last night, Mr. Woodhead did not elaborate on the opinion he expressed, but recalled the industry regarded as fantastic President Roosevelt's call in 1940 for an annual output of 50,000 planes.

Chiang Replies to Wallace

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP).—President Chiang Kai-shek of China cabled to Vice-President Henry H. Wallace today that the Chinese defense of Hengyang may prove to be the turning point in the Japanese attempt to break through "the inexorably constricting Allied ring."

Replying to a cable from Mr. Wallace praising the defense of fallen Hengyang, the Chinese leader said: "I am deeply grateful for your tribute to the heroic defense of Hengyang. History may yet say that the grim and tenacious defense put up by our brave soldiers there against overwhelming odds proved to be the turning point in the last desperate attempt of the Japanese to break through the inexorably constricting Allied ring, and, if so, our dead would not have died in vain."

Prisoner Of Japs Well, He Writes

Long Beach, Cal., Aug. 12 (AP)—The wife of Capt. George Johnson McMillin, naval governor of Guam prior to his capture by the Japanese five days after Pearl Harbor, said last night he had written her that he is in "splendid health" in a Formosa prison camp.

Mrs. McMillin said she received three letters from him Thursday, the first since August, 1942.

Mrs. McMillin christened the cruiser Guam at Camden, N. J., last autumn.

Mirror Saved American Trapped on Guam by Foe

He Used It to Signal to U. S. Warship From Cave

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Aug. 12 (AP).—A mirror that Chief Radioman George R. Tweed, forty-two years old, took with him when he fled to the wilds of Guam after the Japanese invaded the island in December, 1941, played a major role in his rescue last July 10 by a party from an American warship.

First details of Tweed's remarkable exploits were related today by his wife, Mary Francis Tweed, whom he visited here from July 17 to Aug. 1.

Mrs. Tweed said that during the last few months on Guam her husband lived in a cave facing the sea. It was from here that he signaled an American warship with a mirror.

AUG 13 1944

Add London Bomber Base
"THEY CAME ONLY 30 MILES (ABOUT 60) A MONTH, YET THEY WOULDN'T TAKE ANY OF OUR MONEY IN RETURN," SAID LT. EUGENE GABONSKI, OF MILWAUKEE, WIS., A NAVIGATOR.

AMONG THE DEPARTMENTS MENTIONED WERE EURE AND EURE ET LOIRE.

EURE IS BETWEEN PARIS AND CAEN WHILE EURE ET LOIRE IS LOCATED BETWEEN PARIS AND LE MANS. THE EASTERN BORDERS OF BOTH DEPARTMENTS ARE WITHIN 30 MILES OF THE FRENCH CAPITAL.

THE EASTERN BORDERS OF BOTH DEPARTMENTS ARE WITHIN 30 MILES OF THE FRENCH CAPITAL.

LONDON--INSERT NIGHT LEAD AERIAL AFTER 11TH GRAF (INCLUDING PREVIOUS INSERT) ENDING X X X HISTORY OF WARFARE. (Nordness)

SO SWIFT AND SUSTAINED WAS THE PACE OF THE PLANES ON TACTICAL BOMBING MISSIONS OVER NORMANDY THAT NO RECAPITULATION OF THE NUMBER OF SORTIES WAS AVAILABLE BY MIDNIGHT BUT THE TOTAL UNDOUBTEDLY WAS IN THE THOUSANDS. THE EIGHTH AIR FORCE ALONE HAD FLOWN MORE THAN 1,000 SORTIESHEE

TMOTTTT

AUG 13 1944

A85SE

SECOND NIGHT LEAD AERIAL
BY NED NORDNESS

LONDON, SUNDAY, AUG. 13-(AP)-RAF BOMBERS IN GREAT STRENGTH HAMMERED BRUNSWICK IN CENTRAL GERMANY AND RUSSELSHEIM, 15 MILES SOUTHWEST OF FRANKFURT, LAST NIGHT, IT WAS ANNOUNCED TODAY.

OTHER NIGHT RAIDERS ATTACKED UNSPECIFIED OBJECTIVES IN NORTHERN FRANCE. THESE BLOWS CAME AS THE GERMANS SEND MORE FLYING BOMBS THROUGH THE NIGHT INTO SOUTHERN ENGLAND AND THE LONDON AREA CAUSING MORE DAMAGE AND CASUALTIES.

THE BRITISH NIGHT BOMBING PLANES TOOK OFF AFTER CLOUDS OF ALLIED TACTICAL WARPLANES PLUNGED INTO THE BATTLE TO ANNIHILATE GERMANY'S ARMY IN NORMANDY YESTERDAY WHILE POSSIBLY 750 AMERICAN HEAVY BOMBERS LASHED AT AIRFIELDS AND COMMUNICATIONS TARGETS IN NORTHERN FRANCE IN AN ATTEMPT TO BLOCK OFF ANY ENEMY FORCES COMING TO ITS RELIEF.

THERE WAS NO X X X SECOND GRAPH.

JS129AEW

-95-

LONDON, AUG 12-(AP)-LONDON AFTERNOON NEWSPAPERS GAVE PROMINENT HEADLINES TODAY TO A WHOLLY UNCONFIRMED REPORT THAT AMERICAN ADVANCED UNITS HAD REACHED THE "OUTSKIRTS OF PARIS."

THE REPORT WAS ATTRIBUTED TO AN AMERICAN BROADCASTER. THE NEWSPAPERS EMPHASIZED THE REPORT WAS UNCONFIRMED.

BZ557AEW

LONDON, AUG 12-(AP)-THE GERMAN NEWS AGENCY TRANSOCEAN SAID IN A BROADCAST TONIGHT THAT THE "GERMAN GARRISON AT BREST NOW HAS RECEIVED TWO ULTIMATUMS TO SURRENDER."

THE BROADCAST ALSO SAID "ENEMY WARSHIPS HAVE TRIED TO ENTER THE HARBOR OF LORIENT."

AMERICAN ADVANCE UNITS REACHED BREST LAST SATURDAY BUT HAVE ENCOUNTERED STIFF RESISTANCE FROM THE GERMAN GARRISON.

KAAAOPEW

LONDON AUG 12-(AP)-THE GERMAN RADIO SAID TODAY THAT NAZI PATROL BOATS SANK ONE BRITISH MOTOR TORPEDO BOAT AND DAMAGED SEVERAL OTHERS IN A MORNING CLASH IN THE ENGLISH CHANNEL. THERE WAS NO ALLIED CONFIRMATION.

THE BROADCAST ASSERTED THE BRITISH MTB'S WERE WITH A NUMERICALLY SUPERIOR FORCE THAT INFLICTED NO LOSSES ON THE GERMANS.

KK536AEW

-95-

LONDON, AUG. 12-(AP)-GERMAN BROADCASTS TODAY SAID ALLIED WARSHIPS HAD TRIED TO INVADE THE HARBOR OF LORIENT, GERMAN BASE ON THE SOUTH COAST OF BRITTANY WHICH IS UNDER ATTACK.

THE GERMANS DECLARED THE SEA THRUST WAS TURNED BACK.

THE GERMAN COMMUNIQUE DECLARED GERMAN U-BOATS OFF THE FRENCH COAST AND IN OTHER WATERS SANK FOUR ALLIED FREIGHTERS TOTALLING TONS AND TWO MINESWEEPERS, AND TORPEDOED ANOTHER THREE SHIPS AND A DESTROYER.

THERE WAS NO ALLIED CONFIRMATION.

FD913AEW

AUG 13 1944

NIGHT LEAD YUGOSLAV (60)

LONDON, AUG.12-(AP)-MARSHAL TITO'S PARTISANS, SMASHING A GERMAN DRIVE WEST OF LESKOVAC, IN SERBIA, KILLED 200 OF THE ENEMY AND CAPTURED 300 ALONG WITH MUCH BOOTY, THE FREE YUGOSLAV COMMUNIQUE BROADCAST TONIGHT SAID.

THE WAR BULLETIN ALSO REPORTED FIERCE CLASHES IN MONTENEGRO AND CROATIA AND THE SLASHING OF THE ZAGREB-SISAK AND THE ZAGREB-KARLOVAC RAIL LINES.

WM&AK833PEW

AUG 13 1944

LONDON, SUNDAY, AUG. 13-(AP)-~~GEORGE BERNARD SHAW~~, IN AN ARTICLE IN THE SUNDAY OBSERVER, TODAY SET $3,200 TO $4,800 A YEAR AS THE BASIC INCOME NECESSARY TO KEEP CIVILIZATION SAFE AND STEADY."

SHAW ARGUED FOR EQUALITY OF INCOME "WITH THE BASIC INCOME LARGE ENOUGH TO PRODUCE A PRIME MINISTER, HIGHER MATHMETICIANS, HISTORIANS AND PHILOSOPHERS, AUTHORS AND ARTISTS AS WELL AS PLOUGHMEN AND DAIRYMAIDS."

HE SAID $3,200 A YEAR IN A "SCIENTIFICALLY ORGANIZED SOCIETY" WOULD GO FARTHER THAN THE $16,000 ESTIMATED BY H.G.WELLS RECENTLY AS THE NECESSARY BASIC INCOME.

AK1102PEW

LONDON, SUNDAY, AUG. 13-(AP)-THE VICHY RADIO, POSSIBLY FISHING FOR INFORMATION, SAID TODAY AMERICAN TROOPS WERE THRUSTING ALONG ROADS TO CHATEAUDUN AND VENDOME.

CHATEAUDUN IS 52 MILES EAST OF LE MANS, FROM WHICH FOUR AMERICAN COLUMNS ARE DRIVING, AND VENDOME IS 43 MILES SOUTHEAST OF LE MANS.

THE BROADCAST SAID IT "SEEMS THAT THE THIRD AMERICAN ARMY TEMPORARILY HAS INTERRUPTED ITS MARCH ON PARIS TO TAKE THE GERMAN FORCES IN NORMANDY IN THE REAR," AND ADDED THAT ALENCON, 30 MILES NORTH OF LE MANS, HAD BEEN OCCUPIED BY AMERICAN TROOPS AFTER STIFF FIGHTING.

ALLIED SUPREME HEADQUARTERS HAS CLOAKED THE DRIVES RANGING OUT FROM LE MANS IN MYSTERY TO KEEP INFORMATION FROM THE GERMANS. THERE HAS BEEN NO CONFIRMATION FROM ALLIED SOURCES THAT THE THIRD AMERICAN ARMY WAS ENGAGED IN FIGHTING IN FRANCE.

(EDS: MAY BE BRACKETED IN SECOND NIGHT LEAD INVASION.)

JS240AEW

LONDON, AUG. 12--(AP)--DNB, GERMAN NEWS AGENCY, REPORTED TODAY THAT AMERICAN FORCES IN BRITTANY WERE BEING SUPPLIED WITH FUEL AND AMMUNITION BY AIR TRANSPORT, rather than by highway traffic from the Normandy supply bases.

APL 1348 CCC 909A

AT A U.S. BOMBER BASE IN BRITAIN, AUG. 12 (AP)— 1-Lt. RUSSELL HALL, A BOMBARDIER ON A FLYING FORTRESS WHO LIVES AT 2170 JEFFERSON AVE., DETROIT, MICH. ENJOYED THE LONG SHUTTLE FLIGHT TO RUSSIA AND ITALY BUT STILL HE WAS GLAD TO GET BACK TO HIS HORSE AND BUGGY IN ENGLAND TODAY.

AUG 131944

"I'VE GOT A DARN GOOD HORSE," HE SAID.

"ONE DAY WHEN" HE AND XXXXX LT. (FIRST NAME UNAVAILABLE) BRODERSEN OF HERNAN, NEB., A PILOT, COULD NOT GET A JEEP TO RIDE AROUND IN THEY CHIPPED IN AND BOUGHT A HORSE AND BUGGY FROM AN ENGLISH FARMER.

THE BEST PART OF THE SHUTTLE TRIP WAS A THREE-DAY STOPOVER IN ITALY.

"WE WENT SWIMMING EVERY DAY AND GOT A GOOD TAN," HE SAID, ADDING "IT WAS FUN TO FORGET THE ARMY FOR THREE WHOLE DAYS."

AUG 131944

AP-LONDON-AUG13-3P

Insert SHAEF Invasion (Hill) xxxx the inlet.

THE GERMAN GARRISON IN THE CITADEL OF ST. MALO WAS SUFFERING HEAVY LOSSES AND WAS SAID TO BE WILLING TO GIVE UP BUT WAS BEING KEPT IN THE STRUGGLE BY ITS COMMANDER, THE "MAD" COLONEL ANDRES VON AULOCK.

THERE WAS A TRUCE YESTERDAY MORNING, THE THIRD SINCE THE SIEGE BEGAN, TO ENABLE AN AMERICAN JEEP TO DELIVER MEDICAL SUPPLIES FOR WHICH VON AULOCK HAD APPEALED. DURING THAT TRUCE SEVEN AMERICAN SOLDIERS WHO HAD BEEN CAPTURED WERE RELEASED.

A VETERAN OF THE EASTERN FRONT, VON AULOCK WAS SAID BY GERMAN PRISONERS TO SUFFER DELUSIONS AS THE RESULT OF A HEAD WOUND. TWO DAYS AGO AMERICAN OFFICERS ARGUED WITH THE GERMAN GARRISON BY TELEPHONE TO SURRENDER. THE GERMANS SAID THEIR CONTINUANCE OF THE FIGHT WAS FUTILE, BUT THEY CONTINUED IT JUST THE SAME.

Add SHAEF Invasion (Hill) xxxx suppl. losses

RAIL CONCENTRATION POINTS IN THE VICINITY OF PARIS WERE BLASTED AND BOMBS WERE CASCADED ON VITAL NAZI FREIGHT YARDS AT SAARBRUCKEN AND STRASBOURG AND A FUEL DEPOT AT THE LATTER CITY.

(THE STOCKHOLM NEWSPAPER TIDNINGENS IN A DISPATCH QUOTING A PERSON WITH CLOSE CONNECTIONS IN GERMANY, SAID GERMAN WAR LEADERS WERE WITHDRAWING TROOPS FROM THE CALAIS AREA--THE PORTION OF FRANCE CLOSEST TO BRITAIN--AND RUSHING THEM TO THE SEINE-LOIRE RIVER REGION FOR THE DEFENSE OF PARIS.)

AUG 161944

(THE GERMAN HIGH COMMAND COMMUNIQUE TODAY SAID THE U.S. 3RD ARMY HAD BEEN REINFORCED, AND THAT HEAVY FIGHTING WAS IN PROGRESS FOR ALENCON, ONLY 35-MILES BELOW CANADIAN-MENACED FALAISE.)

(THE BERLIN RADIO SAID THE AMERICANS HAD REACHED ALENCON FRIDAY AND PUSHED ON SEVERAL MILES NORTH. THIS, FOLLOWING REPORTS OF A TANK ATTACK ON THE TOWN, INDICATED ADVANCED FORCES HAD BY-PASSED IT.

(THE SAME BROADCAST ADMITTED NAZI EVACUATION OF THE TOWNS OF MORTAIN AND SOURDEVAL IN THE POCKET TO THE WEST, WHERE THE GERMANS HAD MOUNTED FIERCE ARMORED ASSAULTS SEEKING TO SPLIT THE ALLIED ARMIES.)

A DISPATCH FROM THE BRITISH ORNE RIVER FRONT DECLARED FIELD MARSHAL GEN. GUENTHER VON KLUGE WAS APPARENTLY JAMMING MORE TROOPS AND ARMOR INTO HIS NARROWING ORNE POCKET INSTEAD OF TRYING TO WITHDRAW.

THIS WAS VIEWED AS A SUPREME GERMAN GAMBLE TO HOLD THEM, EVEN THOUGH THREATENED WITH A DEATH TRAP.

(A STOCKHOLM REPORT SAID THE ENEMY WAS PULLING TROOPS FROM THE CALAIS AREA TO THE WEST AND RUSHING THEM INTO THE SEINE-LOIRE SECTOR.

AUG 131944

SHAEF Invasion (H.11) xxxx now dominate

THE BEST INFORMATION IS THAT FIELD MARSHAL GEN. JOHANNES BLASKOWITZ, GUARDING SOUTHERN FRANCE, NOW HAS CONSIDERABLY LESS THAN 20 DIVISIONS. WHEN THE AMERICANS APPROACHED THE LOIRE, SPANISH REPORTS SAID A LARGE PORTION OF BLASKOWITZ' UNITS WERE RUSHING NORTHARD, WITH ARMAMENT DISMANTLED FROM KEY POINTS SUCH AS BORDEAUX, 175 MILES SOUTH OF THE LOIRE, EVIDENTLY TO ESTABLISH A LOIRE LINE. THE LIGHTNING AMERICAN PENETRATION APPARENTLY QUICKLY THREW A MONKEYWRENCH INTO THIS EFFORT.

AUG 131944

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS REMAINED COMPLETELY SILENT ON THE U.S. DRIVES REPORTED SPEARING NORTH, EAST AND SOUTH OF LE MANS, POSSIBLY BECAUSE THE GERMANS THEMSELVES WERE CONFUSED AS TO THE EXACT DIRECTION OF THESE OPERATIONS, AND DID NOT KNOW WHETHER THEY WERE SIMPLY FEINTS.

A FRONT DISPATCH SAID THE GERMANS WERE STIFFLY OPPOSING A PUSH NORTH OF LE MANS, AN OFFENSIVE WHICH THREATENS TO SAW IN BEHIND THE ENEMY IN THE CAEN AREA BEFORE FALAISE.

AFTER [illegible] DECORATION).

Insert On the Road to Paris (Ball) xxx decoration).

SHORTLY BEFORE THE OUTBREAK OF THIS WAR, THE HOUSEKEEPER CONTINUED, BRITISH FIELD MARSHAL LORD GORT AND HIS STAFF CAME TO THE CHATEAU SECRETLY TO DISCUSS DEFENSE PLANS WITH THE FRENCH. WHEN HOSTILITIES BEGAN, LORD GORT SET UP HEADQUARTERS HERE WITH THE DUKE OF GLOUCESTER AS HIS AIDE.

CAME OFTEN.

Insert On the Road to Paris (Ball) xxx came often

"HE WOULD BRING DOENITZ, SPERRLE, VON RUNSTEDT AND OTHERS, AND THEY'D ALWAYS GO TO THE SECOND FLOOR FOR LONG CONFERENCES," SHE SAID. "THEY WOULD LEAVE IN SEPARATE PARTIES FOR INSPECTION TOURS OF COAST DEFENSES."

Add On The Main Sector in France (Gallagher) xxx for use.

TYPICAL OF THE FIGHTING ACTION THE DIVISION ENGAGED IN IN HOLDING THE NAZI ATTEMPT TO [illegible] TO THE SEA WAS THAT OF CAPT. W.W. DRUCKENMILLER, OAK[illegible]OHIO, WHO RUSED FROM A COMMAND POST WITH A BAZOOKA--A TWO-MAN WEAPON--LOADED AND FIRED IT AND KNOCKED OUT A 45-TON PANTHER TANK. THEN HE PICKED UP A CARBINE AND SHOT THE TANK CREW ONE BY ONE AS THEY TRIED TO ESCAPE.

LT.-COL. ROBERT FRANKLIN OF JACKSON, TENN., STEPPED OUT OF A COMMAND POST AND SHOT TWO GERMANS WITH A PISTOL BEFORE THE TIDE OF ADVANCE WAS STOPPED.

SB253PEW

AUG 131944

BULLETIN

BY WILLIAM SMITH WHITE

WITH AN AMERICAN INFANTRY BATTALION NEAR MORTAIN, FRANCE, AUG. 12 -(AP)-THIS BATTALION WAS RESCUED HIS AFTERNOON AFTER BEING CUT OFF BY THE GERMANS FOR FIVE AND ONE-HALF DAYS ON AN EAR-SHAPED HILL JUST EAST OF MORTAIN.

FD427PEW

CANADIANS

BY ROBERT C. WILSON

WITH THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY, AUG 12-(AP)-LT.GEN.H.D.G.CRERAR'S CANADIAN FIRST ARMY PUSHED A MILE AND A HALF WEST OVER THE LAIZE RIVER NEAR BARBERY TODAY, TIGHTENING THE SQUEEZE ON THE GERMANS BETWEEN THE ORNE AND LAIZE RIVERS.

THE GERMANS IN THAT AREA ALSO ARE UNDER PRESSURE FROM THE BRITISH SECOND ARMY.

THIS EFFORT OF THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY TO LINK UP WITH THE BRITISH WHO ARE FANNING OUT FROM THURY-HARCOURT AND WHO HAVE BEEN IN THE FOREST OF CINGLAIS WAS MADE WHILE A LULL CONTINUED OVER OTHER SECTORS OF THE FRONT.

BZ634AEW

[illegible]E BRITISH TROOPS WHO HAD PLUNGED INTO VIMONT FOUND THE TOWN TOO HOT TO HOLD.

THE CANADIAN BULGE WESTWARD OVER THE LAIZE WAS MADE IN A THRUST FROM BRETTEVILLE-SUR-LAIZE AND IT WAS REGARDED AS POSSIBLE THAT THE CANADIANS SOON WOULD BE LINKED THERE WITH THE BRITISH WHO FORCED A NEW BRIDGEHEAD OVER THE ORNE.

THE GERMANS SAT TIGHT IN AN ARC ABOUT FIVE MILES NORTH OF FALAISE.

THE RAF CONTINUED TO POUND GERMAN TRANSPORT IN THIS SECTOR, AND YESTERDAY IT DESTROYED 31 VEHICLES AND DAMAGED 33.

JS747AEW

30.24— 17959

BULLETIN

BY DON WHITEHEAD

MORTAIN, FRANCE, AUG. 12-(AP)-THIS TOWN WAS RECAPTURED TODAY BY THE AMERICANS WHO ARE PPUTTING HEAVIER PRESSURE ON THE GERMANS IN THE VIRE SALIENT.

AUG 131944

FDA14PEW

BY WES GALLAGHER

WITH THE U.S.FIRST ARMY IN FRANCE, AUG. 12-(AP)-DRIVING FORWARD FROM ONE TO TWO MILES ON A 15-MILE FRONT RUNNING ROUGHLY FROM MORTAIN TOWARD VIRE, AMERICANS SENT PATROLS INTO SOURDEVAL AND ENGULFED HALF A DOZEN SMALL TOWNS TODAY.

ANOTHER COLUMN PUSHED OUT FROM MAISONCELLES-LA-JOURDAN, FOUR MILES SOUTHEAST OF VIRE, AND MADE SATISFACTORY PROGRESS.

IN THE AREA BETWEEN MORTAIN AND SOURDEVAL, THE AIR FORCE STRUCK AT GERMAN TANKS AND VEHICLES. DOUGHBOYS BYPASSED MORTAIN, NOW BEHIND AMERICAN LINES, BUT IT IS NOT KNOWN HERE IF ANY SMALL BODY OF GERMANS WAS TRAPPED IN THE TOWN ITSELF.

JJ207PEW.

BY ROGER D.GREENE

ON THE ORNE RIVER FRONT, AUG. 12-(AP)-FIELD MARSHAL GEN. GUENTHER VON KLUGE IS SENDING REINFORCEMENTS INTO THE GERMAN BULGE WEST OF THE ORNE IN ONE OF THE STRANGEST MOVES ON THE WESTERN FRONT, IT WAS DISCLOSED TODAY.

INSTEAD OF TRYING TO ESCAPE FRO THE EVER-TIGHTENING NOOSE--A COFFIN-SHAPED CORRIDOR RESEMBLING THE GERMAN DEATH TRAP SALIENT AT STALINGRAD---THE NAZI COMMANDER APPARENTLY WAS JAMMING MORE TROOPS AND ARMOR INTO THE POCKET.

"UNDO

AUG 131944

UBTEDLY REINFORCEMENTS ARE REACHING THE HARD-PRESSED GERMAN DIVISIONS," A BRITISH STAFF OFFICER SAID. "THEIR QUALITY IS UNCERTAIN BUT IN SOME CASES AT LEAST THEY WERE PRODUCED BY MILKING OTHER DIVISIONS OR BY SWITCHING REINFORCEMENTS MEANT FOR OTHER

OTHER DIVISIONS OR BY SWITCHING REINFORCEMENTS MEANT FOR OTHER DIVISIONS."

BRITISH STRATEGISTS WERE FRANKLY PUZZLED BY VON KLUGE'S AMAZING GAMBLE IN THROWING THE BULK OF GERMAN ARMED FORCES IN NORTHWEST EUROPE INTO THE BATTLE CAULDRON WHERE FLAMES ARE LICKING AT THEM FROM ALL SIDES.

THERE OBVIOUSLY IS GRAVE DANGER--AS GENERAL MONTGOMERY SAID LAST NIGHT--THAT "SOME OF THEM MAY NOT ESCAPE."

"WHAT IS THE BOCHE GOING TO DO?" A HEADQUARLERS OFFICER ASKED. "IT IS A WEIRD SITUATION BUT PERHAPS ONE ANSER IS THE STORY TOLD BY A GERMAN PRISONER WHO SAID NOBODY WAS ALLOWED TO WITHDRAW WITHOUT A DIRECT ORDER FRO HITLER. THE PRISONER SAID HIS UNIT WITHDREW ONE KILOMETER AND GOT HELL. THERE'S NO DOUBT THE GERMANS HAVE BEEN ORDERED TO STAND AND FIGHT TO THE DEATH."

ANOTHER EXPLANATION IS THAT GERMAN GENERALS ARE TOO TERRIFIED OF HITLER TO TELL HIM THE TRUE PICTURE--PARTICULARLY IN VIEW OF THE CURRENT BLOOD PURGE OF THE NAZI MILITARY HIERARCHY SUSPECTED OF COWARDICE--AND THAT GERMAN FIELD COMMANDERS PREFER THE RISK OF BEING SHOT IN BATTLE TO THE CERTAINTY OF BEING SHOT IF THEY RETREAT.

ON THE FIGHTING FRONT, TANK-LED BRITISH TROOPS SMASHED THE GERMAN PIVOT CENTERING ON HIGH GROUND SOUTHEAST OF VIRE, AND DROVE 3,000 YARDS SOUTH OF THE VIRE-VASSY ROAD.

POCKETS OF GERMAN SUICIDE SQUADS "CAME TO LIFE AGAIN" IN THE REGION OF THURY-HARCOURT AFTER THE BRITISH HAD OCCUPIED THE TOWN, AND FINAL MOPPING-UP IS IN PROGRESS THERE. WHILE FIGHTING STILL BLAZED IN THE STREETS, BRITISH SAPPERS THREW BRIDGES ACROSS THE ORNE UNDER FIRE.

MEN FROM FIVE GERMAN DIVISIONS WERE CAPTURED ON THE BRITISH FRONT YESTERDAY.

FD1007AEW

BY ROGER GREENE

ON THE ORNE RIVER FRONT, AUG. 12-(AP)-THE BRITISH SECOND ARMY, CRACKING DEEP INTO FIELD MARSHAL VON KLUGE'S NORTHERN FLANK, TODAY CAPTURED HIGH GROUND WITHIN 5,000 YARDS OF THE GERMAN BASTION OF CONDE-SUR-NOIREAU, 11 MILES SOUTHWEST OF THURY-HARCOUT AND 26 FROM CAEN.

THE TOMMIES OPENED THEIR ATTACK IN THE POST-DAWN COOLNESS, AND FOUR HOURS LATER THE ENEMY HAD BEEN THROWN BACK 2,500 YARDS IN BITTER CLOSE-QUARTER FIGHTING.

THE THREAT TO CONDE HEIGHTENED THE PERIL OF MASSES OF GERMAN TROOPS FIGHTING IN BLIND OBEDIENCE TO HITLER'S "STAND OR DIE" ORDER IN THE BULGE WEST OF THE ORNE RIVER.

FARTHER NORTH INSIDE THE TIGHTENING NOOSE, HOWEVER, THE GERMANS DELIVERED A VIOLENT ASSAULT, RECAPTURING HILL 229 JUST WEST OF ST.PIERRE LA VIEILLE, SCENE OF BITTER AND BLOODY FIGHTING FOR THE LAST 36 HOURS.

N1125AEW

~~LEGEND~~. BACK IN ACTION, HE DISTINGUISHED HIMSELF AGAIN IN THE BATTLE FOR ROME, WHERE HE WAS WOUNDED AS THE DIVISION MADE ITS BREAKTHROUGH AT VELLETRI.

Insert Rome Logan (Kennedy) Salerno AUG 131944

THE ONLY SON OF MRS. MAGGIE M.LOGAN OF LULING, THE FIGHTING SERGEANT WAS MOBILIZED WITH THE FAMOUS TEXAS DIVSION IN 1940.

Add Rome Logan (Kennedy) xxx sniper.

HE REJOINED HIS BATTALION AT ANZIO AFTER RELEASE FROM THE HOSPITAL IN MAY AND AT VELLETRI STOOD UP AGAINST A GERMAN COUNTER-ATTACK WITH AN AUTOMATIC RIFLE, EMPTYING FIVE MAGAZINES. THE WEAPON JAMMED AS TWO GERMANS CAME WITHIN 20 YARDS OF HIM. HE HURLED GRENADES WHICH FELLED BOTH.

THEN HE LED HIS SQUAD INTO VELLETRI AGAINST FURTHER DESPERATE GERMAN OPPOSITION.

TA921PEW

Add Rome Aerial (Norgaard) xxxx was lost

FOR THE FIRST TIME AMERICAN MITCHELLS, MARAUDERS AND THUNDERBOLTS AND RAF SPITFIRES CONCENTRATED ON SMASHING ANTI-AIRCRAFT POSITIONS, PILLBOXES, RADIO FACILITIES AND GUN EMPLACEMENTS IN THESE WATERFRONT AREAS.

THE ATTACK COINCIDED WITH THE ARRIVAL IN ITALY OF PRIME MINISTER WINSTON CHURCHILL AND COMMENT IN THE ITALIAN PRESS THAT HIS VISIT WAS A SIGN OF THE IMPORTANCE THE ITALIAN WAR THEATER "MAY ASSUME IN THE NEAR FUTURE."

AUG 131944

THE AMERICAN MITCHELLS, IN CONSIDERABLE STRENGTH, HAMMERED GUN POSTS NEAR ST.TROPEZ AND ST.RAPHAEL, 15 AND 30 MILES RESPECTIVELY WEST OF CANNES. EXPLOSIONS AND FIRES INDICATED AMMUNITION STORES WERE HIT.

FOUR OTHER COASTAL GUN BATTERIES EAST OF TOULON, INCLUDING ONE ON THE ILE DU LEVANT, WERE BLASTED BY MARAUDERS, WHICH FAILED TO ENCOUNTER EITHER FLAK OR FIGHTER OPPOSITION.

SPITFIRES STRAFED RADIO INSTALLATIONS AND GUN POSTS AT CAP D'ANTIBES, ST.RAPHAEL, CAP RENAT AND CAP CAMARAT, ALL BETWEEN MARSEILLE AND NICE.

COMING IN AT 10 FEET ABOVE THE GROUND AT ONE PLACE, THE SPITFIRES CAUGHT GERMAN SOLDIERS RUNNING FOR THEIR GUNS, DROVE MANY BACK INTO SHELTER AND KILLED OTHERS.

ENEMY DEFENSES BETWEEN SAVONA AND IMPERIA ON THE ITALIAN RIVIERA WERE RAIDED BY THUNDERBOLTS.

AUG 131944

ISTANBUL, AUG. 12-(AP)REPORTS REACHED HERE TODAY INDICATING THE BULGARIAN COMMUNIST AND DEMOCRATIC PARTIES ARE FORMING A COALITION INTENDED TO EXERT PRESSURE TO GET BULGARIA OUT OF THE WAR.

DETAILS OF THE NEW PRESSURE ALLIANCE, BELIEVED HERE THE FIRST FRUITS OF IMPROVING BULGARIAN-SOVIET RELATIONS, WERE EXPECTED TO BE AVAILABLE SOON.

MEANWHILE, BULGARIAN OPPOSITION PARTIES' LEADERS, HEADED BY THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY CHIEF AND FORMER PREMIER NIKOLA MUSHANOV HAVE BEEN MEETING DAILY IN SOFIA. THEY HAVE BEEN IN CLOSE TOUCH WITH THE GOVERNMENT HEADED BY IVAN BAGRIANOV. RELATIONS BETWEEN THE OPPOSITION AND THE GOVERNMENT APPARENTLY CLEARED CONSIDERABLY THE PAST FEW WEEKS.

ROBERT KELLY, UNITED STATES CHARGE D'AFFAIRS, ARRIVED AT ISTANBUL FROM ANKARA, ACCOMPANIED BY DR. FLOYD BLACK, FOR MANY EARS PRESIDENT OF AN AMERICAN COLLEGE IN BULGARIA AND WELL ACQUAINTED WITH MOST OUTSTANDING BULGARS.

IT WAS BELIEVED BLACK AND KELLY ARE CONTINUING TO PARTICIPATE IN EXPLORATORY PEACE TALKS BETWEEN BULGARIANS AND THE ALLIES. TALKS APPARENTLY HIT THEIR CHIEF SNAG OVER THE QUESTION OF THE BULGARIAN EVACUATION OF MACEDONIA AND THRACE AS A PRELUDE TO ARMISTICE STEPS.

THERE WAS SOME INDICATION OF A BULGARIAN WITHDRAWAL FROM THE FLORINA REGION OF GREECE TOWARDS BULGARIA PROPER, THOUGH IT WAS IMPOSSIBLE TO ASSESS THE EXTENT OF THE MOVEMENT AS YET.

EV1205AEW

BERN,AUG.12-(AP)-THE NEWSPAPER BERNER TAGWACHT, ATTRIBUTING THE INFORMATION TO DIPLOMATIC CIRCLES, SAID TODAY 4,000 TO 5,000 GERMANS, NEARLY ALL OFFICERS, WERE SHOT JULY 21 AND 22 AS A RESULT OF THE ATTEMPT ON HITLER'S LIFE.

THE PLOT AGAINST HITLER, SAID THE PAPER, EXTENDED INTO MANY CIRCLES, INCLUDING COMMERCE AND INDUSTRY, AND INCLUDED MANY MAYORS OF LARGER CITIES. IT SAID THE MANYR OF COLOGNE HAD BEEN SHOT AND OTHERS WERE IN HIDING.

AUG 131944

AK1017

NIGHT LEAD (150)

BY EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, AUG. 12-(AP)-THE RUSSIANS' BIG WEDGE INTO HITLER'S LEFT FLANK DEVELOPED INTO A SERIOUS BREAKTHROUGH TONIGHT NORTHEAST OF WARSAW AND RED ARMY TROOPS, EXPLOITING THEIR SUCCESS, CAPTURED 350 SETTLEMENTS, DROVE WITHIN 27 MILES OF THE EAST PRUSSIAN FRONTIER AND EDGED CLOSE TO THE COMMUNICATION CENTERS OF LOMZA AND OSTROW.

THE VICTORIOUS RED ARMY CROSSED BOTH THE UPPER BUG AND BIEBRZA RIVERS--LAST TWO MAJOR OBSTACLES BEFORE THE SOUTHERN BORDER OF EAST PRUSSIA.

SWARMS OF INFANTRY SUPPORTED BY WAVES OF FIGHTERS, STORMOVIKS AND MEDIUM BOMBERS POURED THROUGH THE BIG OPENING TOWARD THE FRONTIER.

CROSSING THE BUG RIVER NORTH OF SIEDLCE THE SOVIETS LIBERATED MATKOVENTA, 10 MILES SOUTH OF OSTROW.

WEST OF BIALYSTOK ACROSS THE BIEBRZA THE RUSSIANS CAPTURED SOKOLE, 27 MILES FROM THE EAST PRUSSIAN FRONTIER AND ABOUT NINE MILES SOUTHEAST OF LOMZA.

IN THIS AREA MARSHAL KONSTANTIN K.ROKOSSOVSKY'S RIGHT WING WAS IN CONTACT WITH GEN. G.F. ZAKHAROV'S LEFT WING FORMING A DOUBLE FORCE STRIKING INTO THE GERMANS' FLANK.

AK856PEW

A111 Add Istanbul Romanian (O'Brien) xxx Russians

IN SWITZERLAND ARE GRIGORE GAFENCU, THE FORMER FOREIGN MINISTER AND LAST ROMANIAN MINISTER TO MOSCOW, AND RAOUL BOSSY, UNTIL A YEAR AGO ROMANIAN MINISTER TO BERLIN, WERE BELIEVED IN TOUCH WITH ALLIED REPRESENTATIVES IN SWITZERLAND. ONE POSSIBLE ROMANIAN-

30.24— 17961

SOVIET CONTACT WOULD BE THROUGH THE ROMANIAN MINISTER TO ANKARA, GEORGE CRETZIANO.

THIS SOURCE DECLARED ALSO THAT THE GERMANS ARE DEFINITELY WITHDRAWING THEIR AIR FORCES FROM THE BUCHAREST AND PLOESTI AREAS, AND HAVE MOVED FOUR DIVISIONS TO THE WARSAW FRONT FROM IASI.

AUG 31944

IRUN--[redacted] ADD SOUTHWEST FRANCE X X X LEFT YESTERDAY.

ONE REPORT SAID THE GERMANS, FOLLOWING THE WITHDRAWAL OF REGULAR TROOPS, HAD TURNED OVER THE JOB OF POLICING SOUTHWESTERN FRANCE TO GESTAPO AGENTS AND MILITARY POLICE PLUS A "TRANSITION ARMY" COMPOSED OF 15-YEAR-OLD GERMAN BOYS AND MEN 55 TO 60.

THE REPORT ADDED THAT THE GESTAPO AGENTS AND MILITARY POLICE WERE EXPECTED TO LEAVE THE AREA MOMENTARILY, LEAVING ONLY THE "TRANSITION ARMY" TO HOLD OFF THE MAQUIS AS LONG AS POSSIBLE.

AFTER COMPLETING EVACUATION OF ALL GERMAN CIVILIANS FROM THE BORDEAUX AREA THE NAZIS SYSTEMATICALLY TURNED THEIR ATTENTION TO TOULOUSE, ORDERING ALL THEIR NATIONALS TO PREPARE TO LEAVE AT A MOMENT'S NOTICE.

AUG 131944

AD CHINESE (140)
MOOSA

CHUNGKING, AUG. 12-(AP)-FIGHTING IN HUNAN PROVINCE RAGED WITH UNDIMINISHED FURY TONIGHT WITH THE JAPANESE IN POSSESSION OF THE VITAL RAIL CITY OF HENGYANG TRYING TO DISLODGE DIE-HARD CHINESE FROM THE SOUTHERN SUBURBS.

HEAVY FIGHTING WAS REPORTED IN AND AROUND THE PERIMETER OF PROVINCE TOWNS ON THE NORTH AND SOUTH OF THE CITY WHERE THE CHINESE HOPE TO FORESTALL JAPANESE CONQUEST OF THE CANTON-HANKOW RAILWAY.

(THE TOKYO RADIO CLAIMED 20 AMERICAN OFFICERS, DELEGATED SOME MONTHS AGO TO ASSIST IN PREPARING DEFENSES OF THE CITY, WERE CAPTURED IN THE FALL OF HENGYANG.)

THE CHINESE HIGH COMMAND SAID CHINESE PLANES KNOCKED OUT A NUMBER OF STRONGLY FORTIFIED POINTS AROUND HENGYANG, AND A COMMUNIQUE FROM GEN. JOSEPH W. STILWELL'S HEADQUARTERS REPORTED AMERICAN LIBERATORS TOUCHED OFF GREAT EXPLOSIONS IN A RAID ON THE HUNAN PROVINCIAL CAPITAL OF CHANGSHA.

THE HIGH COMMAND SAID JAPANESE COUNTERATTACKS IN THE SUBURBS OF HENGYANG WERE BEATEN OFF.

AK931PEW

MONTREAL, AUG 12-(AP)-GOVERNMENT INTERVENTION IN THE 11-DAY-OLD STRIKE OF 4,000 TRAMWAY COMPANY WORKERS IS EXPECTED TO RESULT IN RESUMPTION OF PUBLIC TRANSPORTATION HERE MONDAY.

LABOR MINISTER MITCHELL TODAY ANNOUNCED APPOINTMENT OF TWO CONTROLLERS TO TAKE CHARGE OF THE TRANSPORTATION SYSTEM AND OPERATE IT ON BEHALF OF THE GOVERNMENT.

TRAMWAY EMPLOYES WHO LEFT THEIR JOBS TO ENFORCE A DEMAND FOR A UNION SHOP CLAUSE IN A NEW AGREEMENT WITH THE COMPANY WERE ORDERED TO REPORT FOR WORK MONDAY MORNING. BOTH THE COMPANY AND THE UNION, THE CANADIAN BROTHERHOOD OF RAILWAY EMPLOYEES, ANNOUNCED THEY WOULD COMPLY WITH THE GOVERNMENT ORDER.

KA11PEW

AUG 131944

Add 7th AAF HQ XXX shot down."

"IT IS DOUBTFUL IF THE JAPS EVER DISCOVERED THAT WE WERE THERE. AS WE WERE ONLY 600 MILES FROM THEIR GILBERT ISLAND BASES, WE EXPECTED THAT THEY WOULD BOMB US. THEY DID NOT DO SO ALTHOUGH THEY DID ATTACK OUR INSTALLATIONS ON OTHER ISLANDS SOMEWHAT FARTHER AWAY."

AVIATION ENGINEERS OF THE 7TH OVER CAME GREAT PHYSICAL OBSTACLES IN LANDING AT BAKER AND BUILDING THE AIRSTRIP. THE INHABITANTS OF THE ISLAND WERE UNINTERESTED IN THE OPERATIONS. THEY ARE CLUMSY BOOBY BIRDS, COUSINS OF MIDWAY'S GOONEYS. SIX DAYS AFTER THE LANDING THE AIRSTRIP WAS IN USE.

THE U.S. FLAG WENT UP ON BAKER IN 1839. IN THE EARLY YEARS IT WAS KNOWN AS THE "WHALERS' POSTOFFICE." MAIL AND NOTES WERE LEFT THERE BY PASSING SHIPS FOR OTHER VESSELS. THE ISLAND HAS NEVER HAD A PERMANENT COLONY.

WNRWYPCW

BY ELMONT WAITE (320)

ABOARD U.S. CARRIER FLAGSHIP OFF BONIN ISLANDS, AUG 5-(DELAYED)-(AP)-PILOTS OF THIS MIGHTY CARRIER TASK FORCE WERE ONLY TWO FLYING HOURS AWAY FROM TOKYO DURING THEIR GREAT STRIKE INSIDE JAPAN'S INNER DEFENSE RING AUG. 3-4.

THEIR TARGETS WERE A JAPANESE CONVOY AND THE STRATEGIC BONIN ISLANDS. THE ISLANDS ARE 600 MILES SOUTH OF JAPAN BUT THE AMERICAN FLIERS AND SURFACE SHIPS CHASED THE CONVOY NORTHWEST OF THE BONINS AND VIRTUALLY WIPED IT OUT.

(ADM. CHESTER W. NIMITZ, PACIFIC FLEET COMMANDER, REPORTED THE RESULTS OF THIS TASK FORCE OPERATION IN HIS COMMUNIQUE OF AUG. 6).

VICE ADM. MARC A. MITSCHER, THE HARD FIGHTING CHIEF OF THIS OUTFIT, VIEWED THE RESULTS OF THE TWO-DAY OPERATION AND THEN ONCLUDED "THE JAPS SEEM TO BE CALLING THEIR AIR PERSONNEL BACK FROM THESE OUTLYING ISLANDS TO THE EMPIRE."

AIR OPPOSITION OVER THE BONINS WAS ALMOST NIL. THE DEFENSE WAS ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE.

CARRIER PLANES HIT THE CONVOY YESTERDAY, SINKING FOUR FREIGHTERS AND FOUR BARGES. CRUISERS AND DESTROYERS UNDER REAR ADM.L.T. DUBOISE REACHED THE SCENE BY NIGHTFALL. THE SHIPS SANK A BIG NEW DESTROYER, A FREIGHTER AND SOME BARGES.

TODAY SURFACE UNITS SANK A SMALL OILER WHILE PLANES DESTROYED AN ESCORT VESSEL AND OTHER SHIPS INCLUDING TWO BARGES LOADED WITH PERSONNEL. THE FLIERS PROBABLY SANK A CRUISER AND FIVE SMALLER SHIPS. ALL WERE BURNING WHEN LAST SEEN.

THESE ASSORTMENTS OF LUGGERS, FREIGHTERS, BARGES, SAMPANS AND OLD DESTROYERS ARE WORTHY OF NOTE BECAUSE THEY REVEAL SO CLEARLY HOW DESPERATE IS JAPAN'S NEED FOR SHIPS.

THICK GRAY SKIEYLOAMPERED THE BOMBS BUT GROUND INSTALLATIONS AT IWO JIMA, ANI JIMA, HAHA JIMA AND MUKO JIMA ALL WERE DAMAGED AUG 131944 AND OMURA TOWN ON CHICHI JIMA WAS DEMOLISHED.

LESS THAN 25 JAPANESE PLANES WERE FOUND AGROUND AT IWO FIELDS. ONLY TWO ZEROS GOT INTO THE AIR. LT.LUTHER PRATER, OF (RT. 1) ADA,OHIO, AND ENSIGN ROBERT W.BLAKESLEE, OF (805 MAIN ST.) THREE RIVERS,MICH., POUNCED ON ONE AT THE SAME TIME AND IT BLEW UP. ENSIGN BURRAS ALLEN CRITCHER, JR., OF WILLIAMSTON,N.C., SHOT DOWN THE OTHER.

U.S. PATROL PLANES AND SEARCH PLANES ALSO SHOT DOWN THREE BIG FOUR-ENGINE FLYING BOATS AND ONE MEDIUM BOMBER WITHOUT OPPOSIION.

EXCEPT FOR MAKESHIFT CONVOYS, THESE LAST OUTPOSTS OF THE JAPANESE IN THE BONINS APPARENTLY HAVE BEEN LEFT TO THEIR OWN DEVICES.

HW726PPW NM

AUCKLAND, NEW ZEALAND, AUG. 12-(CANADIAN PRESS)-THE RIGHT OF THE PRESS TO CRITICIZE CENSORSHIP REGULATIONS WAS UPHELD HERE TODAY WITH THE VERDICT OF THE FULL COURT IN FAVOR OF NEWSPAPER EDITOR ROBERT HEWITT BILLENS CONVICTED EARLY THIS YEAR OF A BREACH OF NEW ZEALAND CENSORSHIP REGULATIONS.

BY A MAJORITY DECISION, THE FULL COURT, WITH TWO JUDGES IN FAVOR AND LORD CHIEF JUSTICE SIR MICHAEL MYERS DISSENTING, UPHELD BILLENS' APPEAL. AUG 131944

LAST DECEMBER BILLENS, EDITOR OF THE MANAWATU TIMES, PALMERSTON NORTH, IN AN EDITORIAL ENTITLED "THE GAG," CRITICIZED THE CENSORSHIP AND THE DIRCTOR OF PUBLICITY J.T. PAUL. BILLENS DESCRIBED THE DIRECTOR AS "SUPREME ARTIST IN SUPPRESSION IN THE ANGLO-SAXON WORLD TODAY" AND STATED THAT WHAT DROVE THE "GAGGING MACHINE" INTO TOP GEAR WAS SOLICITUDE FOR THE GOVERNMENT.

"THE GOVERNMENT'S GAGGING EXPERT CAN BE RELIED UPON TO FIND AN EXCUSE AT ANY MOMENT OF THE DAY OR NIGHT, AND ON ANY MATTER FROM GROWING ONIONS TO COAL MINERS' STRIKES" TO FURTHER THAT SOLICITUDE, SAID BILLENS.

HE CHARGED THAT ON THREE SPECIFIC OCCASIONS "THE GAG" HAD BEEN APPLIED AND THAT IN ALL THREE CASES THE SUPPRESSION "CONCERNED THE WORKERS FOR WHOSE SPECIAL INTERESTS THE GOVERNMENT EXISTS, OR CLAIMS TO EXIST."

BILLENS WAS CONVICTED UNDER CENSORSHIP AND PUBLICITY EMERGENCY REGULATIONS WHICH PROHIBIT ANY STATEMENT OR INDICATION THAT ANY MATTER HAD BEEN REQUIRED TO BE SUBMITTED TO CENSORSHIP, OR THAT THE CENSOR REFUSED HIS AUTHORITY FOR PUBLICATION OF ANY MATTER.

JUSTICE JOHNSON, ONE OF THE TWO JUDGES WHO UPHELD THE APPEAL, WROTE IN HIS JUDGEMENT:

"THE PRESS HAS WON ONLY BY MANY HARDFOUGHT BATTLES THE FREEDOM OF PUBLICATION WHICH EVERY EDITOR THINKS IT HIS BOUNDED DUTY TO PRESERVE. LIKE PANTRYMAIDS WHO IN THE PRESENCE OF CROCKERY SEEM SEIZED WITH AN IRRESISTIBLE URGE TO DESTRUCTION, THE CENSORSHIP, WHEN IT FACES THE PRESS, SEEMS POWERLESS TO RESTRAIN AN INBORN LUST FOR SUPPRESSION.

"IN THIS INFLAMMABLE ATMOSPHERE THE CENSOR STRUCK A MATCH BY ISSUING A SET OF DIRECTIVES TO WHICH--UNLESS IT WAS CONTENT TO SURRENDER ITS FREEDOM--THE PRESS COULD WELL FEEL OBLIGED TO MAKE PROTEST. THE DIRECTIVES WHICH PROVED THE LAST STRAW EXPLAIN THE INDIGNATION THEY AROUSED IN BILLENS' BREAST AND ILLUSTRATE THE PROPENSITY ON THE PART OF THE DIRECTOR OF PUBLICITY TO EXPAND HIS SPHERE OF ACTIVITY TO AN ASTONISHING EXTENT."

AK740PEW

NEW YORK, AUG. 12-(AP)-A LONDON BROADCAST RECORDED BY CBS TONIGHT QUOTED THE ALGIERS RADIO AS SAYING THAT "THE ABOLITION OF VICHY'S LAWS WILL BE CARRIED OUT GRADUALLY AS FRANCE IS LIBERATED," ADDING THAT GRADUAL ABOLITION WAS NECESSARY "TO AVOID THE TOTAL DISORGANIZATION OF THE ADMINISTRATION."

AK950PEW

NEW YORK, AUG 12-(AP)-A NAZI TRANSKONTINENT AGENCY DISPATCH MONITORED BY THE FCC SAID TODAY THAT ALESSANDRO PAVOLINI, SECRETARY OF STATE IN MUSSOLINI'S PUPPET FASCIST REGIME IN NORTHERN ITALY, WAS WOUNDED WHILE DIRECTING OPERATIONS AGAINST ITALIAN PATRIOTS IN THE MOUNTAINS OF PIEDMONT.

G540PEW AUG 131944

(300)

BOMBAY, AUG 11-(AP)-THE OLD ECONOMIC LAW OF SUPPLY AND DEMAND HAS BEEN BROUGHT INTO PLAY IN THE SILVER MARKET HERE IN AN ATTEMPT TO FORCE DOWN THE PRICE OF THE WHITE METAL USUALLY HOARDED BY INDIANS BUT, AFTER A SLIGHT DROP, THE PRICE STILL RUNS FAR ABOVE THAT IN THE UNITED STATES.

THE SILVER IS BEING LEND-LEASED BY THE UNITED STATES TO INDIA, WHICH HAS RECEIVED 100,000,000 OUNCES. THE METAL IS TO BE RETURNED TO THE UNITED STATES OUNCE FOR OUNCE.

SILVER HAD BEEN SELLING FOR 135 RUPEES PER HUNDRED TOLAS, ROUGHLY $1.09 AN OUNCE. THE AVERAGE UNITED STATES PRICE IS 44 3/4 CENTS FOR FOREIGN SILVER AND 71.11 CENTS FOR DOMESTICALLY-MINED SILVER.

A FEW DAYS AFTER ANNOUNCEMENT AMERICA WAS LENDING SILVER THE PRICE DROPPED TO THE EQUIVALENT OF 98 CENTS AN OUNCE, BUT THEN IT BOUNDED UP AGAIN TO $1.09 AS FARMERS AND SMALL SHOPKEEPERS INCREASED THEIR HOARDS.

SILVER COINS, THE ONLY MONEY THE NATIVE INDIAN TRUSTS, IS REPLACING PAPER CURRENCY. FINANCIAL OFFICIALS HOPE THE READY AVAILABILITY OF COINS WILL DISCOURAGE HOARDING.

MOST AMERICAN SILVER, IT WAS EXPECTED, WILL BE SOLD IN THE OPEN MARKET. THE INCREASED SUPPLY IS EVIDENCED BY THE DAILY OFFERINGS OF 200 SILVER BARS OF 1,000 OUNCES EACH BY THE RESERVE BANK OF INDIA. THE BANK HOPES BY THIS INCREASED SUPPLY TO RE-ESTABLISH THE DOWNTREND IN PRICES THAT FIRST ANNOUNCEMENT OF THE AMERICAN LOAN BROUGHT.

THE AMERICAN GOVERNMENT CAME TO THE RESCUE OF INDIA'S FINANCES ONCE BEFORE WHEN, AFTER THE FIRST WORLD WAR, IT LOANED 1,000,000 OUNCES OF SILVER TO STABILIZE CURRENCY HERE.

DURING THIS WAR, INDIA HAD RECEIVED PRACTICALLY NO SILVER SINCE THE FIRST SHOTS WERE FIRED, UNTIL THE UNITED STATES AGAIN TOOK A HAND. U.S. TREASURY FIGURES LAST YEAR SHOWED THAT IN THE FIRST 11 MONTHS OF 1943, AMERICA LEND-LEASED 40,897,000 OUNCES OF SILVER, MOSTLY BULLION, AND IT WAS BELIEVED THAT GREAT BRITAIN AND INDIA WERE THE PRINCIPAL BENEFICIARIES.

JJ258PEW

PRONUNCIATION GUIDE

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS,

FRENCH

LAIZE.....LAYZ
BARBERY.....BAHR-BAY-REE'
ST. MARTIN-DE-SALLEN.....SEHN MAHR-TEHN-DER-SAH-LEHN'
MULHOUSE.....MULE-OOZ'
GIVORS.....JEE-VOHR'
TOUSSUS LE NOBLE....TOO-SOO-LER-NOHBL'
COLOMMIERS.....KOO-LOHM-YAY'

RUSSIAN, BALTIC, POLISH

BIERZA.....BEE-EB-SHAH
PETSERI.....PET'-SAY-REE
TYKOCIN.....TEE'-KOHT-SEEN

WD102 CAEW

AUG 131944

FOUR YEARS AGO TODAY

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUG. 12, 1940--MORE THAN 450 GERMAN PLANES RAID 200 MILES OF BRITISH SOUTH COAST AND REPORT DAMAGING NAVAL BASE AND CITY OF PORTSMOUTH; RUSSIA ABOLISHES POLITICAL COMMISSAR SYSTEM IN RED ARMY.

JP310AEW

AUG 131944

A107

NIGHT LEAD THE ROAD TO BERLIN

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

1--RUSSIAN FRONT: 322 MILES (MEASURED FROM EASTERN WARSAW).
2--ITALIAN FRONT: 603 MILES (MEASURED FROM FLORENCE).
3--FRENCH FRONT: 626 MILES (MEASURED FROM SOIGNOLLES).

AK949PEW

NEW YORK, AUG. 12-(AP)-THE AMERICAN MERCHANT MARINE INSTITUTE TODAY ANNOUNCED THAT NEARLY ONE-FIFTH OF THE NATION'S PRE-WAR FLEET OF 129 OCEAN-GOING PASSENGER LINERS HAS BEEN LOST SINCE PEARL HARBOR.

IN RECAPITULATING WAR LOSSES, THE INSTITUTE REPORTED ONLY TWO CASUALTIES AMONG THE ELEVEN LARGEST AMERICAN-FLAG LINERS OF 17,000 OR MORE GROSS TONS.

961

30. 24— 17963

FOUR LOSSES WERE NOTED AMONG THE 22 SHIPS BETWEEN 10,000 AND 17,000 TONS AND 17 AMONG FORMER PASSENGER LINERS OF LESS THAN 10,000 TONS.

AUG 131944

DECLARING THAT ALL OF AMERICA'S FAMOUS LINERS WERE NOW SERVING AS TROOP TRANSPORTS OR HOSPITAL SHIPS, THE INSTITUTE SAID NONE OF THE LOST SHIPS WOULD BE REPLACED UNTIL THE WAR ENDS.

THE REPORT SAID THE REBUILT TRANSATLANTIC LINER MANHATTAN, 24,289 TONS, NOW THE ARMY TRANSPORT OAKFIELD, WAS AGAIN IN ACTIVE SERVICE ALTHOUGH EARLIER IT HAD BEEN LISTED AS A TOTAL LOSS AFTER BURNING AT SEA.

THE MANHATTAN AND THE 21,936-TON PRESIDENT COOLIDGE, SUNK BY A MINE IN THE SOLOMONS IN OCTOBER, 1942, WERE THE LARGEST LINERS LOST, THE INSTITUTE SAID.

AUG 131944

FOUR "PRESIDENT" LINERS COMPRISED THE TOLL OF MEDIUM-SIZED LINER LOSSES. INCLUDED AMONG THESE WERE THE PRESIDENT PIERCE AND THE PRESIDENT CLEVELAND, WHICH AS THE ARMY TRANSPORTS HUGH L.SCOTT AND TASKER H.BLISS, WERE LOST IN THE NORTH AFRICA INVASION.

ALSO NAMED WERE THE PRESIDENT HARRISON, DESTROYED BY AN AMERICAN SUBMARINE AFTER ITS SEIZURE BY THE JAPANESE, AND THE PRESIDENT GRANT, LOST ON A SUBMERGED REEF BARELY TEN MILES FROM ITS PACIFIC DESTINATION.

AK1140PEW

BY BONNIE BILEY

SAN FRANCISCO, AUG. 12-(AP)-A BIG, GRAY SEA-GOING NURSERY, BRINGING 299 AUSTRALIAN WAR WIVES WITH 74 CHILDREN TO THEIR HUSBANDS' NATIVE LAND, DOCKED HERE TODAY AT A PIER LINED WITH PINK AND BLUE BABY BASSETS, PROVIDED BY THE RED CROSS.

TYPICAL OF THE LATEST CONTINGENT OF AUSTRALIAN WAR BRIDES WAS MRS.ALFRED BUCKSBAUM, WIFE OF A U.S.ARMY PRIVATE, WHO IS HEADED FOR (8256 BURLINGAME AVE.) DETROIT.

AUG 131944

"IT'S WONDERFUL TO BE HERE," SHE SAID, "BUT IT'S ALL LIKE A DREAM, ACTUALLY BEING IN AMERICA. I'M LOOKING FORWARD SO MUCH TO SEEING MY HUSBAND'S HOME IN DETROIT.

"THE GIRLS ARE ALL SO GLAD TO BE HERE, ONLY SOME OF THEM ARE JUST A LITTLE BIT HOMESICK, I'M AFRAID."

MORE INTERESTED IN A BATH THAN IN ANYTHING ELSE WAS MRS.GROVER B.GHOLSON, BOUND FOR PORTLAND, ORE. SHE WAS A MILLINERY DESIGNER IN SYDNEY, AUSTRALIA, UNTIL SHE MET HER HUSBAND, A CAPTAIN IN THE ARMY AIR FORCE.

AUG 131944

"I'M GOING TO GO RIGHT OUT AND SPEND ALL OUR RED POINTS ON BUTTER AND EAT AND EAT AND EAT, ALL OF IT I WANT," ONE SHILLING WAR BRIDE DECLARED. "AND THEN I'M GOING OUT TO BUY ME SOME RATION-FREE CLOTHES."

MAKING THE TRIP HOME WITH HIS WIFE AND SEVEN-MONTHS-OLD DAUGHTER, PAULINE, WAS CHARLES L.TIDD, MAIL SPECIALIST 3/C, OF THE NAVY, ON THEIR WAY TO HOLLAND, MICH. ANOTHER COMPLETE FAMILY WAS CHIEF MACHINIST MATE DANIEL J.SLOSSER (3323 W. PIERCE ST.) MILWAUKEE, WIS., MRS.SLOSSER AND THEIR DAUGHTER, VERONICA ANN, 11 MONTHS.

AGES OF THE WIVES RANGED FROM 18 TO 36 YEARS AND OF THE CHILDREN FROM TWO MONTHS TO TWO YEARS.

EA509PPW MM

AUG 131944

BY WADE WERNER

LONDON, AUG 12-(AP)-HINTS OF HOHENZOLLERN COMPLICITY IN THE PLOT TO KILL HITLER ARE BEGINNING TO APPEAR IN GERMAN PRESS COMMENTS ON THE HANGING THIS WEEK OF FIELD MARSHAL GEN.ERWIN VON WITZLEBEN AND OTHER OFFICERS IN CONNECTION WITH THE JULY 20 BOMBING.

EDITORIAL ATTACKS ON FORMER LEADERS OF VARIOUS MONARCHIST ORGANGA IZATIONS, AS WELL AS ON THE ONCE-POWERFUL STAHLHELM NATIONALIST MOVEMENT, FOR DREAMING AND PLANNING A RESTORATION OF THE HOHENZOLLERN DYNASTY OBLIQUELY SUGGEST THAT THEY INSTIGATED THE CONSPIRACY TO REMOVE HITLER.

ONE EAST PRUSSIAN PAPER RECALLS THAT HITLER SOON AFTER HE CAME TO POWER FOUND IT NECESSARY TO SUPPRESS MONARCHIST ORGANIZATIONS SUCH AS THE KAMERADSCHAFT HOHENZOLLERN (HOHENZOLLERN FELLOWSHIP), AND THEN ADDS THAT NEVERTHELESS THE MONARCHISTS "CONTINUED THEIR SUBVERSIVE ACTIVITIES," WORKING CLEVERLY UNDERGROUND AND BEHIND THE SCENES.

IT SAYS THAT GEN.KURT VON SCHLEICHER (KULLED IN HITLER'S 1933 BLOOD BATH) WAS PLOTTING A RESTORATION OF THE MONARCHY, BUT DESPITE HIS FATE, THE PAPER ADDS, ARISTOCRATIC SCHEMERS FAILED TO LEARN.

"IN CLUBS, AROUND THEI

DRINKING TABLES AND AT HUNTING DINNERS THE ETERNALLY RETROGADE JUNKERS NAGGED AT THE LAWS AND DECREES OF THE VERY STATE TO WHICH THEY OWED THEIR POSSIBILITIES OF CONTINUED EXISTENCE," THE PAPER SAID.

TEN YEARS AFTER "SCHLEICHER'S ABORTIVE CRIME," COL.COUNT CLAUS VON STAUFFENBERG ON JULY 20 "PLACED A BOMB DESIGNED TO UPSET THE NAZI REGIME ---- THE SAME SCOUNDRELS OPERATING WITH THE SAME METHODS," THE ARTICLE CONTINUED. IT ADDED:

"THE NATIONAL SOCIALIST STATE NOT ONLY GUARANTEED THE LIFE AND PROPERTY OF THE REACTIONARY CIRCLES, BUT ALSO LEFT THEM THEIR TITLES AND GAVE THEM NEW UNIFORMS, REGIMENTS AND DIVISIONS.

"THE STAUFFENBERGIANS THANK US FOR THIS WITH TREASON AND PERJURY."

HITLER'S BIG NEWSPAPER, THE VOELKISCHER BEOBACHTER, SAID THAT THE JUNKERS WERE "DISPLEASED BECAUSE UNDER THIS REGIME THOUSANDS OF ORDINARY PRIVATES BECAME OFFICERS AND EVEN GENERALS."

THE "FRONT UND HEIMAT," A NEWS SERVICE FOR THE GERMAN ARMED FORCES, ALSO TAKES UP THE THEME THAT ARISTOCRATIC CONSPIRATORS "NEVER FORGAVE THE FUEHRER" BECAUSE HE DISREGARDED THE ARISTOCRATIC TRADITIONS AND "OPENED THE WAY TO AN OFFICER'S CAREER TO THE MAN-IN-THE-STREET."

JJ339PEW

AUG 131944

30. 24— 17965

AUG 14 1944

Bomb-Rent Nazis Retreat Toward Paris; Main Escape Road Cut by American Tanks

AUG 14 1944

AUG 14 1944

ARGENTAN SEIZED, ARMORED FORCES CLOSING IN ON FOE

Allied High Command Discloses 55-Mile Advance Beyond Le Mans.

ENEMY IN FLIGHT

Von Kluge Tries to Save 200,000 on Route Open to Artillery Fire.

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Aug. 13.—(AP) U. S. armored columns, in a scythe-like sweep northward behind the enemy line, have stormed into Argentan, cutting the last direct escape highway towards Paris for the bulk of the German Seventh army retreating in bomb-rent columns through an escape hatch now narrowed to 18 miles.

One good road, leading northeast from Falaise to Lisieux and indirectly to Paris, remained in Nazi control, but was made hazardous by Canadian artillery fire. (The Brazzaville radio, heard by CBS, said the Allies were only one and one-quarter miles from Falaise).

Official Secrecy Lifted

Lifting five days of secrecy, Supreme Allied headquarters disclosed that the U. S. drive in France beyond Le Mans had pounded 55 miles north to Argentan, within some 18 miles of the British and Canadians pinching in from the north of the Germans in the 30-mile-deep "coffin corner" of Normandy.

Front line dispatches said the German Seventh army was in full retreat all the way to Paris through the narrowing corridor. Thousands of Allied bombers and fighters ripped, with frightful toll, at the congested columns of tanks, trucks and troops falling back all along the road to Paris.

There was no indication of how many of up to 200,000 Germans engaged in that sector were getting out.

The whole escape corridor was within artillery range of the Americans on the south and the Canadians and British to the north. The Allied northern flank was closing in on Falaise, key road hub only 15 miles above Argentan.

Coupled with these blows from north and south to spring the Normandy trap shut, the U. S. First army at the western end of the bulge opened a general offensive at dawn Sunday, advancing some miles on a front between Vire and Mortain. The Germans fled before them in every conceivable type of vehicle, a front dispatch said, and these enemy columns too were being cut to pieces from the air.

The American armor forming the southern jaw of the trap—carrying a threat of Stalingrad proportions to the Germans—had plunged more than 100 miles through Nazi lines since it slashed eastward from the Breton peninsula. Then one column hammered northward, from Le Mans, seized Alencon 30 miles away, and punched another 25 miles to Argentan. Argentan perhaps already had been passed.

For five days, while this Le Mans-to-Argentan drive covered 55 miles, Supreme headquarters had cloaked the operation in strictest secrecy. There still was no announcement on whether other columns had fanned out east closer toward Paris or in other directions from Le Mans. LeMans is 110 miles southwest of Paris.

Canadians Push Ahead

Even as the U. S. push was smashing up from the south, Canadian and British troops pressed deeper into the German corridor from the north.

Overhead bomber and fighter fleets including more than 1,250 heavy bombers churned and blocked the Nazi retreat with a wall of explosive ruin. These blows—with unprecedented use of heavy bombers hitting at highway traffic—clearly were intended to fulfill Allied predictions the enemy would be destroyed from the air once he broke cover and attempted a general retreat.

It still was a fighting retreat, and not yet a rout. But with 20 German divisions hard pressed and tight hemmed it had the potentiality of another Stalingrad trap.

Allied armies already had taken 115,000 prisoners since D-day and contacted 40 Nazi divisions—the cream of the German army in northwest Europe. Since Saturday 5,760 prisoners had been taken.

An Associated Press front line dispatch declared this wholesale withdrawal was the greatest German concession of defeat since the invasion.

(A German broadcast said Nazi bombers had struck at Le Mesle on the Sarthe river, 13 miles northeast of Alencon and 83 miles west of Paris. It declared there were heavy forces of American tanks and troops at Le Mesle).

Even without the bomb seal-off, it was a race between German retreat and Allied attack to determine whether the Germans got out with tattered tag-ends of what once was a great German army—or went to death in an entrapment that would open up the whole west of France.

Mass Nazi Retreat

A dispatch from the British front described the German retreat as a mass trek toward the Seine by tens of thousands of vehicles, many fired and torn by bombs.

There was no indication whether Field Marshal Guenther von Kluge hoped to rally for a major stand on the Seine, or even Paris.

The greatest of the new assaults to crush the Germans inside their broken bulge was uncorked at daylight by the American First army along the whole half-moon-shaped westernmost tip of the wedge, from which the Nazis a week ago tried to split the Allies in Normandy and Brittany.

Front reports described it as a general attack all the way from Vire to Mortain and said the initial thrust had carried forward several miles, sweeping up hundreds of prisoners. Here, too, the Germans were observed withdrawing. At the same time, they rushed up at least one rested division in a frantic effort to block a U. S. breakthrough.

The American push was slowly rolling back the last of some nine German divisions against assault positions of the British and Canadians in a squeeze play which left some forces already hopelessly trapped and others facing prospects little brighter.

The Canadian 1st Army lunged ahead two miles to Le Mesnil and Le Biquet in a flanking thrust northwest of Falaise, and there were reports of extensive German movements out of that enemy stronghold.

2d Army Surges On

The British 2d Army, on the right of the Canadians stabbed in toward Falaise from both sides of the River Orne, forging an almost solid front from five to eight miles from that road center.

British forces were within 5,000 yards of the supporting German bastion at Conde, midway between Falaise and Vire. But enemy resistance continued stiff, suicide stands were made in Thury-Harcourt, where fighting still continued, and in other localities.

British Gain 10 Miles

Despite the formidable defenses, the British and Canadians had gained five to 10 miles all along a 25-mile front during the last week.

A spokesman for General Eisenhower, broadcasting to French civilians, declared "the liberating armies are pouring across France, and the enemy is changing the disposition of his troops and armaments each hour." It warned them to take cover when Allied planes approach, to avoid enemy routes of travel and bridges, and not to travel on bicycles during daylight because so much German transport had been destroyed that "the enemy now is moving troops on bicycles."

Airmen reported seeing streams of German truck convoys heading eastward—toward Paris and Germany. On jammed roads and rail lines behind the front Eighth air force fighter-bombers alone destroyed or damaged almost 4,000 railway cars, over 500 locomotives, and nearly 300 trucks in two days of relentless, continuing attacks.

Since D-Day, Supreme headquarters, the planes have hit 70 German headquarters, the army's nerve centers, and are known to have killed one general—Maj.-Gen. Ritter von Elber von Dawams.

MAQUIS RALLY TO TRAP NAZIS

Seek To Seal Off South France Escape As Planes Hit Again

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 13 (AP)—For the third successive day Allied air might hammered at German defenses along the Mediterranean coast of France today while inland the Maquis rallied to a new campaign in a bid to seal off escape of Nazi forces or Vichyites in the region below the Loire river now shakily held by forces of Gen. Johannes Blaskowitz.

The Allied security ban on speculation of possible developments in the fight for France prevented any enlargement on Allied opportunities in southern France or the likelihood of their exploitation, but it was clear that the fate of the once Vichy-ruled region had reached the stage where the decision no longer rested with the defense—but with Allied strategy.

Nazis Admit Withdrawal

There was no indication from supreme headquarters that the American breach of the Loire river line below Nantes had been deepened beyond the ten miles disclosed two days ago, but Germans who admitted a withdrawal south of Nantes said tonight their troops had been pulled back to the southern bank of the river barrier from below Angers to 50 miles upstream.

There was no suggestion either of a German stand in strength or that General Blaskowitz could make one without draining his whole Mediterranean coast in an exposure, tactically at least, equally as dangerous.

By this two-way threat he is forced to split his 10-division defense force so badly that he is left with insufficient strength to hold against a major onslaught from either direction.

His ten di isions thus have been turned by a single great strategic stroke into potentially little more than a garrison of suicidal prospects. He had little hope of reinforcement.

Instructions Broadcast

The Algiers radio all day today broadcast the French provisional government's instructions to the Maquis to cut off Germans who might try to flee north to Paris between the Loire and the Garonne and to seal the Pyrenees passes to keep Germans or Vichy French from flight to Spain.

The air attack on military defenses of the French Riviera was the second in two days by forces up to 750 heavies, adding the thunder of their big bombs to the pinpoint destruction of medium bombers Friday.

up to 750 heavies. The bombers came from bases in Italy, where Prime Minister Churchill watched at first hand the whole great vista of the rip of the "underbelly" of Nazi Europe.

RETREAT ONLY NAZI COURSE

AUG 14 1944

British Officer Cites Problem Faced By Von Kluge

By ROGER D. GREENE

With the British Forces in Normandy, Aug. 13 (AP)—A British staff general, recapitulating today what he termed a very good week, said the Germans were now jumping to our tune.

NIGHT

Nazi Field Marshal Guenther von Kluge has committed his resources up to the hilt and is having to scratch around to keep his fighting divisions up to strength, this officer said.

Several Nazi divisions were said to have been broken up to provide replacements for badly mauled units.

No Choice But Retreat

The officer said von Kluge had no choice except to pull out, and already was trying to ward off combined American and British thrusts against his narrowing escape gap south of Falaise.

The staff officer said the Germans were staging a bitter, deliberate fighting withdrawal rather than a headlong retreat, but he declared there were great possibilities ahead.

Even though there are no signs of panic, the Germans face the greatest difficulties and danger under the Allied aerial whiplash and are suffering heavy losses in this new and humiliating drang nach osten—march to the east.

Points To Dilemma

In a summary of the situation the officer said:

Only one small escape gap is left open for von Kluge to try to extricate his battered forces.

Von Kluge's greatest dilemma is that the German army is only about 50 per cent. mobile. Consequently, it is virtually impossible for him to break out of the Orleans gap. All he can try to do is to hold here and give there and slowly pull back.

Lacks Reconnaissance

Von Kluge also is severely handicapped in determining the strength and direction of the Allied thrusts because of his almost complete lack of aerial reconnaissance.

The staff officer said von Kluge's abortive thrust against the Americans toward Avranches was the German staff college's solution for a critical situation, based on the hope a lightning drive would split Lieut. Gen. Omar Bradley's forces and create confusion and cause delay.

Apparently, he said, the German high command failed to realize the true picture in the field and ignored the fine fighting spirit of the United States troops, with the result the Americans knocked the enemy out.

RETREATING ENEMY SIGHTED AT PARIS

Germans Fleeing From Mortain Cut to Pieces From Air as U. S. Troops Attack

White

WITH AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Aug. 13 (AP)—In every sort of military vehicle, withdrawing German forces were racing back toward Paris tonight before the sustained and powerful advance of Lieut. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's American forces along the clawlike arched front extending from the Vire region to Mortain.

The withdrawing Germans—with Gestapo agents well up among them—are being cut to pieces by Allied air forces, and no one can estimate what losses they are suffering. They have been observed all along roads from the front to Paris itself.

There were streams of this frantic traffic all the way into Paris. The Allied air forces threw fighter bombers into the battle and appeared to be having one of the greatest field days.

Along the upper part of the front only were the Germans fighting stubbornly. However, even these were not trying to hole up in foxholes but being driven back without prepared positions in the rear.

The Germans have been withdrawing through an open gap. How many will get back it is impossible to estimate now.

On the upper arc of the American front—roughly from Vire down to the region of Mortain—the Germans fought only delaying actions. Sourdeval has been captured by American arms and Mortain now is firmly in American hands.

The pattern was nearly the same everywhere—a back-stepping defense by the Germans with a delaying stand here or there in an effort to buy a little time.

American troops were hacking powerfully and effectively at the network of roads controlling movement to the east.

Already, no really favorable road network still existed out of the area.

German prisoners have been taken from five divisions, including Panzer units.

NAZIS CONTINUE RESISTANCE IN FORT AT ST. MALO

AUG 14 1944

By HAL BOYLE

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS BESIEGING ST. MALO CITADEL, Aug. 12—(delayed)—(AP) Stubborn Col. Andreas Von Aulock and the Nazi garrison still held on to their redoubtable seagirt fortress in St. Malo harbor tonight after a picked American assault group reached the inner wall of the rocky citadel but was unable to crack an entrance.

This fort is set into the ground to a depth of some 50 feet and beneath it is a network of underground tunnels extending in all directions from the water's edge.

Approaches Covered

It was heavy and all but impregnable pill boxes staggered along its top so that all approaches are covered with a deadly crossfire.

This fort is surrounded on three sides by the sea and the only way to attack it is across a narrow bottleneck of land with 500 yards of open ground to traverse before the wall is even reached. This open ground is heavily fortified with trip wires, barbed wire, anti-tank obstacles and mines.

The whole area is under fire from heavy caliber naval guns zeroed in from harbor islands and from closer guns emplaced along the water front itself.

The first actual assault on the citadel itself was made under command of Maj. John Speedie of San Antonio, Tex., after the approaching streets had been cleared of desperate Nazi defenders. The storming force was led by Lt. John J. Warkowitz of Carteret, N. J.

Here's what they did:

First, supporting American artillery laid down a 20-minute barrage concentrated on pillboxes posted to fire on the land approach. Hoping to catch the enemy before he could return to his gun positions, the assault troops ran forward as soon as the fire lifted. They were accompanied by flamethrowers and engineers.

Artillery then resumed fire, this time trying to knock out those close-in German guns placed along the water front a few hundred yards away. It required the utmost infantry and artillery coordination.

Surrounding the fort on the land approach, the crack Doughboy outfit quickly scaled the wall only to find that it was an outer wall and they were in a moat between two great stone barriers. They fought back savagely at the pillboxes and enemy machinegunners firing from slits back of the outer wall.

Gain Entrance

To get at the troops stationed deep in the side of the fortress, the Doughboys tossed grenades down the ventilator openings. Working their way along one wall, despite intense German fire from the front and rear, two squads managed to force an entrance into a room built in one corner, but found it was a blind apartment with no access to the interior fortress.

Unable to force an entrance at any point, the remainder of the assault force finally was ordered to withdraw, and as it fought its way back across the outer wall, Nazi naval guns out in the harbor reopened fire, shelling the top of their own fortress in an attempt to destroy the invading troops. That was how confident they were that the fortress was impregnable to artillery bursts.

"This is the strongest German fortification we have yet come against," said an American officer. He added grimly: "But it will be taken. Von Aulock said he would make a new Stalingrad of this place, and that's what he is going to get, and the story will have the same ending as the Stalingrad the Germans had in Russia."

AUG 14 1944

Classmate, Captured, Gives Bombing Data

Ninth Air Force Headquarters, France, Aug. 10 (AP—Delayed)—An air force intelligence officer needed information on vital German installations so he sent for a prisoner who reportedly had worked there.

When the prisoner walked into the tent, there was a stunned silence. After a terse exchange of greetings the German sat down and talked.

Later an official report stated simply that the target was bombed—it did not mention that the German prisoner and the air intelligence officer were classmates at a well-known university in the United States.

Terrific Aerial Onslaught Batters Nazi Supply Lines

AUG 14 1944

Allied Bombers Rip Enemy Troops in France, Blast Road Network.

Nordness

LONDON, Monday, Aug. 14—(AP) In the biggest aerial day since D-day, Allied air might inflicted terrible punishment yesterday on Field Marshal Guenther Von Kluge's retreating Normandy army, blasting vehicles and troops and ripping jammed roads and bridges all the way from the battlefront to Paris and the Seine.

Every type of aircraft, including more than 1,250 American heavy bombers, concentrated on the enemy's retreat route between Falaise and Argentan in an area bordered roughly by Lisieux and Rouen to the northeast, Laigle to the south, and eastward to Paris.

Yanks Blast Roads

Flying Fortresses and Liberators bombed roads and road junctions on a large scale for the first time, as did RAF Lancasters and Halifaxes. The heavies attacked in threes and bombardiers picked their own targets.

Marauders and Havocs of the Ninth Air force, Mitchells, Bostons and Mosquitors of the Second tactical air force, and fighter bombers of the Eighth Air force joined in the mauling assault, attacking everything that moved along the roads.

Returning crews told of terrific punishment meted out to German armor and troops rushing eastward to escape the Allied trap. Field reports related that the enemy was jamming the roads with as many as 80 vehicles to the mile, with everything headed eastward. These packed roads were targets for the Allied airmen, who left behind masses of wreckage.

From dawn until midnight there wasn't a moment when some formation wasn't in the sky.

Marauders and Havocs late in the day bombed rail bridges at Cerisy, Peronne and Doullens and a fuel transfer point at Corviel, with a loss of two Marauders.

After dark Lancasters, keeping up the incessant campaign against the enfeebled submarine menace, blasted oil storage depots at Bordeaux after having blasted submarine pens at Brest, with 6-ton bombs in the second attack in two days.

Indicating Allied planes were over Germany early today the Berlin radio broadcast that "nuisance raiders" were flying toward the Brandenburg-Berlin area.

Railways Destroyed

The Eighth's fighter bombers had a field day, destroying or damaging 2,110 railway cars, 221 locomotives, 217 military trucks and 79 other vehicles in addition to plastering 23 freight yards, 14 bridges and three tunnels. They lost eight planes.

Twelve heavy bombers were lost during the day.

Lending their full deadly weight to the effort to ram a cork into the bottle holding Nazi troops, the heavies in unprecedented operations smashed at roads and highway junctions in the areas of Bernay, Elbeuf, Rouen, Buchy, Conches, Quille, Damville, St. Leger, Meulan and Hernonville in the broad sector between the Seine and the battlefront.

RAF heavy bombers joined the Flying Fortresses and Liberators in plastering roads and bridges. Marauders and Havocs swarmed down, strafing roads. Fighter-bombers of the Ninth and Eighth Air forces and tactical air force darted in to hit armor, troops, locomotives, railway cars, oil cars, and all types of vehicles, hindering enemy movement behind a mass of twisted wreckage.

The weather was perfect for flying, and the enemy offered little opposition from ground guns or interceptors. Rarely have Allied planes had such a target and opportunity.

Southern France Hit

Meanwhile Mediterranean heavy bombers again smashed at military targets in southern France, in northern Italy and Yugoslavia. It was the second straight day of heavy bomber blows on Mediterranean anti-invasion defenses, and the third air blow on that sector in as many days. Tactical bombers began the assaults Friday, followed by up to 750 big bombers Saturday.

Heavy, medium and fighter-bombers from Italy hammered anew at gun emplacements, radio installations and other objectives along the French Riviera.

Liberators from Italy struck at rail bridges over the Rhone while Lightning fighter bombers flew all the way to Monte Limar, 135 miles north of Marseille, and attacked an airfield.

One formation of Flying Fortresses bombed troop concentrations in Pec, Yugoslavia.

Bridges Blown Up

From the west, Fortresses and Liberators also smashed an important railway bridge over the Seine and other formations thundered down upon enemy gun positions at St. Malo, on the north coast of Brittany, and at the nearby Isle de Cezembre where big German naval guns have been hampering the attack on St. Malo's citadel.

Close to 350 Marauders and Havoc bombers in co-ordinated attacks chewed up roads leading into Lisieux, Bernay and Rugles in successful operations in support of the ground attacks.

In darkness this morning Lancasters and Halifaxes struck the day's first blows at road junction and other targets in the enemy rear, heavily bombing such objectives as Falaise.

30 24 — 17967

Other RAF Lancasters went back to the besieged Breton port of Brest for the second straight day and unloaded six-ton earthquake bombs on the U-boat pens, leaving great clouds of smoke swirling above the target. A tanker also was set afire.

The RAF bomber command sent out more than 1,300 planes in 24 hours ending this morning, it was announced, including yesterday's attacks on the submarine nests of Brest, Bordeaux and La Pallice.

Rennes Airdrome Bigger Than LaGuardia Field

Rennes, France, Aug. 10 (AP—Delayed)—The Rennes airdrome, captured by the Americans, covers more acres than LaGuardia Field in New York and is one of the largest and best equipped fields the Germans had in France.

Originally laid out by the British in 1939, the field had 18 large hangars and two new concrete runways, one 4,360 feet long and the other slightly over 5,000 feet, which the Germans had built.

Both runways were 250 feet wide with elaborate systems of taxiways and parking areas extending two and a half miles into the cover of woods.

AUG 14 1944

RUSSIANS ATTACK VITAL RAIL LINK NORTH OF WARSAW

Nazis Hurled Back Across Biebrza River, Last Obstacle before East Prussia.

GERMAN DEAD MOUNT

Second Baltic Army Captures Madona in Drive Toward Baltic Sea.

Herther

LONDON, Monday, Aug. 14—(AP) Russian troops attacking with increased power yesterday drove to within 16 miles of the Nazi stronghold of Lomza in their broad blanking movement northeast of embattled Warsaw, and hurled the Germans across the Biebrza river, last big water obstacle before the German East Prussian border, 15 miles beyond.

NIGHT

A special Moscow announcement also disclosed that Gen. Andrei I. Yeremenko's Second Baltic army had killed or captured nearly 70,000 Germans bringing to more than 600,000 the number of enemy casualties suffered since the big Summer offensive began June 23.

Drive Toward Baltic

Yeremenko's troops, now almost half-way across Latvia in a drive toward the Baltic sea, yesterday captured the rail and highway center of Madona, 75 miles east of Riga, Latvian capital. Other units are within 55 miles of Riga on the southeast in the concerted Russian drive aimed at smashing 25 weakened Nazi divisions of possibly 200,000 men trapped in Estonia and Latvia.

North of Yeremenko's sector another powerful Soviet army, the Third Baltic, captured the rail and highway town of Voru, nearly 38 miles inside Estonia and 95 miles from the gulf of Riga. Gen. Ivan Maslennikov's men apparently intend to seal off Estonia as part of the methodical chopping up of the trapped enemy divisions.

The rail city of Rouge, eight miles southwest of Voru, also was captured. Its fall put the Russians only 32 miles from Valga, junction of the Talinn-Riga and Pskov-Riga railways. The line running through Valga is the backbone of Axis defenses in the two Baltic states.

Driving northward along the western shore of Lake Pskov the Russians also seized Sakhodi, 10 miles northwest of Petseri.

On the front near the southeastern corner of East Prussia Gen. G. F. Zakharov's Second White Russian army virtually had cleared the enemy from a 25-mile section of the east bank of the Biebrza river in a drive toward East Prussia along both sides of the Bialystok-Lyck railway.

By capturing Downary and Goniadz, the Russian were only three miles from the point where the railway crosses [illegible] fall of Gielczyn, [illegible] one Soviet column 17 miles east of Lomza, one of the main communication centers linking enemy defenes lines between Warsaw and East Prussia. The seizure of Menzhenin found other Red army units only 16 miles southeast of Lomza.

Zakharov's troops and the adjoining First White Russian army under Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky swept up 180 towns and villages during the day on a 100-mile front which has almost reached the entire length of the Bialystok-Warsaw trunk railway.

A midnight Soviet bulletin said the Germans still were hurling in large forces of counterattacking reserves, and in one area the oftenwrecked Hermann Goering division lost 500 killed. The Goering division previously had been knocked out by Allied troops in Tunisia, Sicily and Italy.

Among the villages taken by Rokossovsky's troops in the broad wheeling movement northeast of Warsaw were Mostowka, only 11 miles northeast of Warsaw, and Sulejow, 26 miles northeast of the Polish capital where Polish patriots were reported still fighting the Germans in the streets. Both Mostowka and Sulejow are only two miles from the Bialystok-Warsaw railway.

Gain in Lithuania

Moscow did not mention the progress of its troops in the Carpathian mountains near the Czech border in lower Poland, or in Western Latvia and Lithuania where they also are threatening German East Prussia. Berlin, however, reported slight Russian gains in Lithuania in the area of Vilkaviskis, which is 12 miles from the Prussian frontier.

The special announcement regarding the toll taken by Yeremenko's troops said that more than 60,000 Germans had been killed and 9,636 captured between July 10 and Aug. 10. In addition, the Second Baltic army destroyed or captured 167 airplanes, 226 German tanks and self-propelled guns, 1,820 guns of various calibers, 500 mortars, 3,113 machineguns, and 2,429 motor vehicles, Moscow said.

A Berlin broadcast, admitting a limited German retreat in northern Poland, said General Zakharov's army had been reinforced with 10 fresh Soviet divisions.

Moscow did not announce any further gains west of the Vistula 100 miles south of Warsaw. Enemy infantry and tank counterattacks were repulsed there, the communique said.

Advance in Latvia

Capt. Ernst Von Hammer, Transocean military commentator, also acknowledged Soviet successes in Western Latvia, Southern Estonia, and in Central Poland west of the Vistula river, where the Russians now have a huge bridgehead from which they can outflank the Polish capital and drive straight westward toward Germany's highly industrialized Silesia.

Moscow dispatches said tens of thousands of Lithuanian, Lettish and Estonian volunteers had joined three powerful Soviet armies in the sustained drives against two Nazi armies trapped in Estonia and Latvia. The size of the German forces now has shrunk to about 200,000, a Moscow estimate said.

One Lettish division attacking toward Riga, the Latvian capital, was reported almost within artillery range of that prize port, and all the Baltic-born troops were cooperating in terrain which they have known since childhood, Moscow said.

REDS DISCLAIM WARSAW FIGHT

AUG 14 1944

Puts Blame For Premature Uprising On Emigre Regime

Love

Moscow, Aug. 13 (AP)—Soviet resentment over reports the Red army had abandoned Warsaw's underground army to its fate raised fresh obstacles today for an agreement on Polish unity between the government-in-exile and the Russian-backed National Committee of Liberation.

NIGHT

The Soviet Government, through the official news agency Tass, disclaimed all responsibility for the premature insurrection in Warsaw, where Gen. Bor's patriot troops are ringed by German forces, while the Red army hammers at the suburbs.

No Liaison Attempted

This statement declared that the Polish Exile Government never attempted to establish liaison with the Red army command. "Misunderstanding or calumny of the Soviet command" was the reaction to foreign reports that the Patriots had contacted the Red army but received no aid.

Tass said flatly the source of these reports has been the Exile Government in London—with whom Russia severed relations—and that that regime itself ordered the battle inside Warsaw to begin.

"No attempts to notify and coordinate any events in Warsaw with the Soviet command were even made by Polish emigrant circles," Tass asserted. "The responsibility for things happening in Warsaw rests entiretly upon Polish emigrant circles in London."

Daily Worker Charge Featured

All Moscow newspapers printed a London dispatch quoting Daily Worker charges that Gen. Kazimierz Sosnkowski, commander in chief of the exile Polish army, after visiting Rome in an attempt to carry on anti-Soviet intrigues in the Vatican, ordered the Warsaw uprising to snatch credit for the capital's liberation from the Red army and its Polish corps.

This account declared that the Warsaw population was misled into thinking Sosnkowski's agents were in close touch with Red forces at the eastern gates, and as a result the Patriots suffered heavy losses.

Recriminations by London Poles concerning Warsaw served to harden opinion further here against the powerful elements headed by Sosnkowski, whom Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk did not repudiate on his Moscow visit.

Meanwhile, the National Committee of Liberation is firmly organizing civil administration, police and political life in liberated Polish territory with the backing of the Red army.

Churchill Meets Tito in Rome, Allied Balkan Blow May Ensue

AUG 14 1944

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Aug. 13. — Prime Minister Churchill, Marshal Josip Broz (Tito) and other Allied and Yugoslav personalities have met in Rome, the United Nations radio at Algiers said tonight.

[The British radio, in a broadcast to Europe hinting at "big new movements" in the Mediterranean area, said Marshal Broz and Dr. Ivan Subashitch, Premier of the Yugoslav government in exile, had joined at Rome Mr. Churchill, Lieutenant General Brehon B. Somervell, American chief of Army Service Forces, and Under Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson, N. B. C. reported last night.]

NAZI-CHETNIK FORCE BEATEN

Tito Reports Defeat Of 4,000 Foes In 6-Day Battle

London, Aug. 13 (AP)—A column of 4,000 Germans and Serb Chetniks, trying to break through to Niksic from Trebinje Bilece, was beaten in a six-day battle and forced to flee after heavy losses, Marshal Tito of the Yugoslav Partisans reported in a communique today.

NIGHT

In another battle with Gen. Draja Mihailovic's Chetniks, 522 Serbs were killed, 500 wounded and 637 captured, the communique declared.

TITO UNITS NEAR RAIL HUB

Harry Reserves for 4,000 Nazis and Chetniks Under Attack

LONDON, Monday, Aug. 14 (AP)—The Partisan forces of Marshal Tito in an offensive in central Serbia are closing on the rail town of Krusevac and advanced units have slashed German communications, a Free Yugoslav communiqué said today.

The war bulletin said Partisans in Montenegro were cutting up reinforcements attempting to reach a column of 4,000 Germans and Chetniks beset for six days in the Lim Valley.

In Macedonia and Croatia Patriots wrecked rail lines, and destroyed German transport and equipment yesterday, the communiqué added.

An earlier bulletin said 522 Serbs were killed, 500 wounded and 637 captured in another battle with Gen. Draja Mikhailovitch's Chetniks.

Morgenthau And Winant Eden's Luncheon Guests

London, Aug. 13 (AP) — Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Secretary of the Treasury, United States Ambassador John G. Winant and Dr. Harry D. White, economic director of the Treasury Department, were luncheon guests today of Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

NIGHT

5 GERMAN SHIPS SUNK BY ALLIES

LONDON, Aug. 13—(AP) Prowling Allied warships, maintaining a blockade in the Bay of Biscay and along the channel coast, around Brittany, sank five enemy ships and possibly a sixth in a series of skirmishes Saturday, the Admiralty announced today.

NIGHT

One small convoy of three armed trawlers and a supply ship was caught off Pointe de Penmarche-Finisterre, below the besieged Breton port of Brest, and was wiped out by a force of British and Canadian destroyers.

Whether the convoy was trying to evacuate personnel from Brittany was not made clear.

Another force led by the British cruiser Diadem and including at least one Polish warship, torpedoed and sank a medium armed merchant vessel west of La Rochelle in the Bay of Biscay.

Earlier, British motor torpedo boats on patrol in the channel intercepted an auxiliary vessel under escort of eight R-boats off Le Havre and pressed home a torpedo attack on the larger ship despite heavy enemy fire. Two large explosions were heard and it was considered likely the auxiliary vessel was hit.

The Allied warships suffered no casualties in all these skirmishes.

AUG 14 1944

2 BRITISH DESTROYERS ARE SUNK IN INVASION

LONDON, Aug. 13.—(AP) The Admiralty announced today the loss of the destroyers Isis and Quorn, three minesweepers and two trawlers in invasion operations.

The Isis, of the intrepid class, displaced 1,370 tons. The vessel was completed in 1937 and war service included action in the Mediterranean where she helped shell Genoa and Livorno in February, 1941 and a spell in the Far East where she landed Commandos during the Malayan campaign.

NIGHT

The Quorn, a hunt class ship of 904 tons, was completed in 1940 and was mainly engaged in convoy work.

The Isis had a normal complement of 145 men and the Quorn slightly fewer.

Many Robot Planes Blasted Over England

London, Aug. 13 (AP)—Sharp-eyed fighter pilots and anti-aircraft gunners beat back flying bomb attacks today, exploding a number of the missiles over the sea as southern England and London enjoyed a comparatively quiet Sunday.

A few robots got through, however, inflicting battle scars on two churches, one of which dates back to the 12th century; a famous English school, a hospital, a post-office and wrecking a row of 14th century houses.

Deaths were not high and a dozen persons were dug out of the wreckage after amazing escapes.

French Warned On Allied Bombs

London, Aug. 13 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower told the French people behind the German lines today how to avoid Allied bombs and bullets aimed at the enemy.

The commander in chief's latest instructions, carried over the Algiers radio, said the Germans were using farm vehicles and moving troops on bicycles. It told the French not to cycle in groups and warned them to take cover at the sight of Allied planes.

"Dig your protective trench far from routes of travel and as near home as you can," he said. "Keep an emergency supply of food at hand.

"Tie labels on the necks of your own children with their names, your name and your address. When you see liberating troops, stay under cover until you know the Allies have control and firing has ceased.

"The Germans have been shooting citizens who showed the tricolor too soon."

Von Paulus Urges Hitler Removal

London, Aug. 13 (AP)—Field Marshal General Friedrich von Paulus, Nazi commander who lost at Stalingrad, told the Germans in a statement broadcast by the Moscow radio today that "the war is lost through the fault of Hitler, and continuation by the Germans is senseless bloodshed."

"Germany," said von Paulus, "must remove Hitler, set up a new government which will make peace and create conditions which will insure the continued existence of our people.

"Recent events have made continuation of the war by the Germans senseless bloodshed. The Red army already has reached the frontiers of East Prussia. In France the Anglo-American troops are through the German defenses and in terrain giving them wide operational freedom. . . . For Germany the war is lost."

He warned the Germans that "the attitude of Hitler's representatives toward the population of occupied countries — which evokes the disgust of every real soldier and every sincere German—will impose upon us the most serious reproaches from all peoples of the world."

Nazi Offensive in Italy to Begin In 6 Weeks, Hitler Tells Troops

ROME, Aug. 13—(AP) German armies in Italy—their morale bolstered by a proclamation by Adolf Hitler telling them the Nazis will be ready to assume an offensive in six weeks—sent many patrols probing into the Allied lines south of the Arno river, Allied headquarters said today.

The Allied military government, meanwhile, speeded its efforts to bring relief to citizens of Florence, after withdrawal of Nazi troops from the city.

The headquarters of Gen. Sir Harold Alexander reported indiscriminate sniping within Florence was complicating the task of transporting food, water and medicine across the Arno. Strenuous efforts are being made to curb the shooting by both patriots and Fascists who have been battling each other for over a week.

An Allied headquarters spokesman declared "it is hoped that it will not be long before a reasonable administration of the civilian population is possible, but it must be borne in mind that conditions under which this will be achieved are the most difficult yet encountered in the Italian campaign."

A bulletin signed by Hitler telling Nazi troops that the defensive phase of the war soon will end and from then on the German army again will be attacking was distributed among the retreating Germans.

One Nazi prisoner said morale was high in his regiment as a result of this promise.

A number of German patrols were engaged in brisk clashes by American patrols on the south banks of the lower Arno, but there was no major fighting anywhere along the entire front yesterday.

Eighth army tanks and infantry entered Empoli, west of Florence, and after some street fighting reported the town clear except for a few snipers. The town's 15th century cathedral contains valuable Della Robbia paintings.

On the Adriatic sector the Poles and Italians were enlarging their bridgehead across the Cesano river and consolidating their latest gains.

Lt. Col. Eggers, Nazi commander of the Fourth parachute regiment which held Cassino for so long during the Spring, has been recaptured by British guards after escaping from Italian patriots who seized him recently, it was announced.

ITALIANS DEMAND WIDER FREEDOM

Use Churchill's Visit As Occasion For Appeal

London, Aug. 13 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill, Marshal Tito and other Allied and Yugoslav personalities have met in Rome, the United Nations radio at Algiers said tonight.

Rome, Aug. 13 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill's visit has been seized upon by the Italian press and political party leaders as an opportunity for intensification of their appeals to the Allies to allow a greater participation of Italian troops at the front and to revise the armistice conditions.

Randolfo Pacciardi, a leading figure in the Republican party, which is not represented in the six-party coalition Government, reiterated today a suggestion heard on all sides that the British are supporting the monarchy.

Pacciardi Blames King, Son

Addressing a mass meeting, Pacciardi said "Churchill often has said 'one man alone' was responsible for bringing Italy into the war."

"He is wrong," the Republican leader said, "for the King, his son, Crown Prince Umberto, and the army chief of staff (Badoglio) shared the responsibility with Mussolini."

During the speech which was frequently interrupted by anti-monarchical outbursts, Pacciardi, who led the Italian Garibaldi Legion against the Fascists in Spain and who recently returned from the United States, said that "if it had not been for President Roosevelt we still would be under the German heel."

For United States Of Europe

He added that the interest of the United States was in healing Europe so that Americans will not be sacrificed every generation and the only way to do this is to work for a "United States of Europe."

In an open letter to Churchill, Italia Libera, the Action Party newspaper, said "we are right in asking that he make himself the interpreter before his Parliament and before his Allies of the state of mind of the Italian people."

"We would like to know—our Government has said so to the Allies—what is the law of war which governs us," the article continued. "We would like to be able to lay the first brick of reconstruction under your control but with clear responsibility and autonomy."

Partisans And Fascists Battle In Florence

Florence, Aug. 13 (AP)—Gunfire still crackled in the streets of the world's greatest art center today but Italian Partisans were relentlessly cleaning up the city street by street.

The Germans, who are dug-in to the extreme north of the city, have blown all but one of the bridges over the canal in that part of Florence. Late yesterday, apparently being prodded too much by Partisans, the Germans sent two tanks to fire a few rounds down several long streets. Little damage resulted and the Germans withdrew.

Partisans are everywhere in the city—riding bicycles with tommy guns slung over their shoulders, and astride the tops of small Italian sedans.

13 Fascists Executed

Three more Fascists—two men and a woman—were lined up against the wall of an arcade beside the Church of Santa Maria Novella and executed yesterday afternoon for sniping. Ten others had been executed previously.

The only connection between the newly freed northern part of the city and southern section was over the Ponte Vecchio, which is suitable for pedestrian traffic only, and a foot-wide dam a few hundred yards down the river which was heavily mined.

Nazis Seize All Hearses

AMG officials, to provide food for the hungry people of Florence (about 300,000), north of the river have transported more than 12 tons of food over the Ponte Vecchio with a human chain of workers passing the supplies along by hand.

For a week before the Germans left they pillaged the shops of Florence and gathered all transport including hearses and horse-drawn wagons. Women and men on the streets were stripped of their jewelry by the Nazis.

Experiences Of Americans

The theft of the hearses caused great trouble. Mortuaries were crowded with dead and many were being taken in handcarts for burial.

But most of the priceless architectural treasures in the main part of the old city are undamaged.

Mrs. Tessie Passante, of New York, whose husband was formerly employed by the Standard Oil Company and is now a geologist in Florence, said "the Germans behaved very badly last week. My husband couldn't go out, and whenever I went out for water I took off all my rings."

Mrs. Mazie Kelton, another American who was caught in Italy when the war broke out, said she had not been out of her house in a week.

Citizens report that many of the city's manholes conceal mines, and it was assumed some delayed-action charges will explode during the next few days.

Nuns Keep Up English Class

In one building in the northern part of the city, 20 Irish nuns at the "Institute of the Poor Servants of the Mother of God," told of teaching English to young pupils under the noses of the Germans. The students carried their books under their coats.

These sisters were caring for many refugees, including an American, Mrs. Elizabeth Carney, formerly of Ashland, Ohio. She has been living in Italy 14 years.

Only along the river front and near the Ponte Vecchio is there much devastation in Florence. Windows of the Uffizi Art Gallery were blown out, but it otherwise was not damaged, and almost all the other architectural treasures of the old city have been spared. Much statuary and valuable paintings were long ago removed to safe refuges.

German looting at its most thorough level is evidenced on the Ponte Vecchio where small jewelry shops were ransacked before the enemy retired.

Sets Record With 200 Missions

Rome, Aug. 13 (AP)—Capt. William S. Gatling, 22, Tarboro, N. C., set a new record for American fighter pilots in this theater by flying his 200th mission on a single tour of duty. Gatling began as a Warhawk pilot in the western desert, and now flies a Thunderbolt.

Archbishop Spellman May Visit Monte Cassino

Vatican City, Aug. 13 (AP)—Archbishop Francis J. Spellman will visit the Monte Cassino abbey, famous shrine of the Benedictine Order destroyed by Allied guns and bombs, it was reliably reported today after he had another private audience with Pope Pius.

It is likely that his visit is connected with plans for restoring the monastery.

ALBANIA TORN BY CIVIL WAR

40,000 Patriots Forced To Fight King Zog Partisans

Bari, Aug. 6 (AP—Delayed)—The National Army of Liberation in Albania, now 40,000 strong, is badly in need of more arms and ammunition, Col. Bedri Spahui, head of its mission to the Allies, reported here today.

He said the army is standing alone against the common foe, which includes, in addition to two big nationalistic elements, one to three German divisions, the Albanian gendarmerie and a new German trained SS division.

No Help From Russia

"A little of everything" has been sent by Britain and America but nothing yet by Russia, he said. The most important assistance rendered has been that by Allied fighter bombers in raids against enemy communications, supply dumps and troop concentrations, he added.

Discussing the growth of the Partisan movement in the tiny mountain country, Colonel Spahui spoke frankly at a press conference of several other matters which Allied military censorship in recent weeks had ruled unmentionable.

There has been an open break between the National Liberation forces and the Nationalistic faction under Abas Kupi, which wants the throne

King Zog back on the throne, Colonel Spahui declared. This group has joined the Balli Kombetar, or collaborating elements, in working openly with the Germans, Colonel Spahui added.

List Of War Criminals

Albanian Partisans are compiling a list of war criminals to be tried after the war, the colonel asserted, "men directly responsible for collaboration with the enemy and whose hands are washed in blood." He named ten of the most prominent Albanians on the list, expressing the hope censorship would permit publication abroad. These were the names:

Fiquri Dine, Prime Minister at present for the Quisling government; Shefket Verlaci, first Prime Minister after the Italian occupation and one of the country's wealthiest men; Mehdi Frasheri, member of the Regency Council in the present government; Kupi; Ali Klisura, Hassan Dosti, Idhot Frasheri, Shender Muco, Bari Omari, Koca Muca, all leaders of the Balli Kombetar.

NEUTRAL OBSERVER HAILS MIKHAILOVITCH

BARI, Italy, Aug. 13 (AP)—A reliable and seemingly unprejudiced observer said today that Gen. Draja Mikhailovitch, ousted War Minister of the Yugoslav Government in Exile accused of being a collaborationist, actually moved his headquarters every few days to frustrate repeated German efforts to capture him.

The observer, who can not be further identified for security reasons, recently arrived here after a long stay in territory controlled by General Mikhailovitch's forces.

Although General Mikhailovitch is waging a relentless war against Marshall Tito, leader of Yugoslav Partisans, the Germans want the General for a number of reasons, the informant said.

The informant reported that the best Chetnik outfits, although unquestionably maintaining a liaison with Field Marshal Milan Neditch, quisling leader in Belgrade, and frantically opposing Marshal Tito, still were set upon resisting the Germans.

Despite a critical shortage of arms and ammunition and the continued execution of five hostages for each German soldier slain, he said General Mikhailovitch's men recently had assassinated several Gestapo agents and had boldly robbed an Axis-controlled bank in Belgrade of approximately $650,000.

30 24 — 17969

The informant said General Mikhailovitch declared recently that 600,000 Serbs stood ready to fight under his leadership should sufficient munitions be made available. The Chetnik leader estimated his present strength at 200,000 men with five rounds of ammunition each.

Turkey Suspends Newspaper

ISTANBUL, Aug. 13 (AP).—The Anatolian news agency said today that the Turkish government had provisionally suspended the newspaper "Tan" because it "persistently and systematically published dangerous articles and false news calculated to incite the citizens against each other."

AUG 141944

Vichy Laws As To Jews, Masons Are Repealed

Algiers, Aug. 13 (AP)—The Justice Minister of the French National Committee has announced today that an ordinance adopted June 26 by the consultative assembly empowering the committee to nullify Vichy laws and restore pre-war Republican laws will be applied to liberated France.

The first committee action under the ordinance was to repeal Vichy laws pertaining to Jews and Free Masons and to all those forced to labor for the Germans.

The ordinance says Vichy legislation is illegal because the French Government as constituted before June, 1940, never ceased to exist.

Nazis Reported Leaving Mytilene, Chios, Samos

Istanbul, Turkey, Aug. 13 (AP)—The newspaper Yeni Sabah, in a dispatch quoting Izmir (Smyrna) reports, said the Germans were evacuating the Aegean Islands of Mytilene, Chios and Samos.

The reports said all units of the German air force had been withdrawn from the islands and only a few German soldiers remained.

U. S. Envoy Reaches Teheran

Teheran, Aug. 13 (AP)—Leland B. Morris, first United States Ambassador to Iran, arrived here today by plane.

Swedish Paper Hails Interned Yank Flyers

Stockholm, Aug. 13 (AP)—Interned American flyers who were moved to new camps at Mulssjoe and Gracena, near Joenkoeping, Swedish aviation center, were greeted by the newspaper Smaalands Allehanda with the headline "Hello, Yankees—You are welcome in our country."

The newspaper devoted three pages to the flyers, saying: "You dropped from the sky just like birds that come to us in springtime and we hope you feel at home during the short time we have the pleasure of seeing you as our guests."

Approximately 800 American flyers are interned in Sweden.

CHINESE MAKE BID TO RETAKE HENGYANG

CHUNGKING, Aug. 13—(AP) The Chinese high command indicated today that Chinese forces were making a serious bid to recapture Hengyang from the Japanese.

A communique said the tempo of the fighting around the battered Canton-Hankow railroad city had increased. To the north and west fierce fighting occurred at points three to six miles from the city and both sides were suffering heavy casualties.

The Chinese said a portion of an enemy force had been eliminated 10 1-2 miles southeast of the city.

To the south fighting raged about 7 1-2 miles from Hengyang.

Seventy-five miles northeast of Hengyang the communique said Chinese forces were pressing against Liling, strategic Japanese base in Hunan province.

ALLIES PUSH AHEAD IN NORTH BURMA

AUG 141944

SOUTHEAST ASIA COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, Kandy, Ceylon, Aug. 13—(AP) Burmese and Chinese troops pushing deeper into north Burma from the captured Japanese base at Myitkyina toward Bhamo in north Burma have occupied the village of Kazu, 20 miles south of Myitkyina, a southeast Asia command communique announced today.

Bhamo is 80 miles south of Myitkyina and 90 miles southwest of Lungling, Burma road town under attack by Chinese troops from China. It is a possible objective to link the Ledo and Burma roads.

Other Allied troops moving eastward toward the Chindwin river along the Tamu-Sittaung road from India were reported meeting some Japanese opposition as they continued to drive southeast from Imphal.

The communique said that the task of mopping up straggling Japanese forces in the Hengtam area, just north of the Burma frontier and south of Imphal, was progressing satisfactorily.

Air operations over the Burma battle front were on a limited scale the report said due to continued heavy rains.

NIMITZ VOICES NEW OPTIMISM

Says Japan May Be Defeated Without Invasion

Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Aug. 13 (AP)—Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, back from the Marianas, where he is considering moving his headquarters, said today he did not believe invasion of Japan was necessary to win the war but that its occupation was necessary to win the peace.

Nimitz disclosed he had been to Guam and Saipan and there conferred with navy, army and marine leaders—meetings which followed quickly a significant war-plans conference here with President Roosevelt and Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

New Air Blows Disclosed

He expressed his long-term views on the war at a press conference shortly after announcing air attacks on the Bonin islands, 600 miles south of Japan; Paramushiro in the Kuriles on the north approaches, Pagan and Rota in the Marianas, Truk and Ponape in the Carolines and by-passed bases in the Marshalls.

"I am not sure or convinced that invasion will be necessary but I do believe occupation of Japan would be necessary to insure a winning peace," said the commander in chief of the Pacific fleet and Pacific Ocean areas.

But he added:

"We should keep in mind the possible necessity of invasion and be prepared for it."

Gives Jap Casualties

He said the Japanese ground casualties in the Gilberts, Marshalls and Marianas—the entire Central Pacific campaign — total 52,323 killed in action and 3,022 prisoners of war, plus thousands killed in aerial and surface bombardment which it is impossible to count. American losses were 5,903 killed.

Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information, who also just has returned from the Marianas, suggested it is possible for Japan to be starved out because virtually all her food is imported.

Nimitz agreed that a sea blockade, cutting off supplies, could go a long way toward "bringing Japan down."

"We will put the heat on as hard and fast as we can," he added.

Nimitz Eager To Move

Nimitz expressed eagerness to move his headquarters nearer the fighting area, which he had visited to confer with such leaders as Vice-Admiral Marc A. Mitscher, Vice-Admiral Richmond Kelley Turner and Maj. Gen. Roy S. Geiger.

The Marianas are approximately 3,000 miles beyond Pearl Harbor, and invasion headquarters for Pacific amphibious forces already are being established at Saipan by Admiral Turner.

Nimitz' press release today reported that land-based planes bombed Japanese bases Thursday and Friday from Paramushiro to the mid-Pacific Marshalls.

Gun positions and shore installations were the principal targets. Two ships were bombed.

One Japanese patrol vessel was sunk and a second damaged near Paramushiro.

Airdrome And Ship Hit

Liberators of the Seventh AAF attacked Chichi Jima island, in the Bonins, some 600 miles from Tokyo, hitting the airdrome and a cargo ship in the harbor. No attempt at interception was reported.

Pagan island, in the northern Marianas, south of the Bonins, was bombed by Mitchells which concentrated on runways and gun positions against moderate anti-aircraft fire.

Rota, near Guam, took a 50-ton bombing and strafing.

Truk and Ponape, in the Carolines, were attacked.

Marshalls Battered

More than 80 tons of bombs were dropped on Marshall islands still in Japanese hands. Coastal defense guns and other installations were hit by dive bombers and fighters of the Fourth Marine Air Wing.

In the operations one Dauntless dive bomber and one Liberator were damaged but all planes returned, Pacific Fleet Press Release No. 507 said.

4TH MINDANAO RAID IS MADE

M'Arthur's Flyers Sink 3,000-Ton Ship In Davao Gulf

General Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, Monday, Aug. 14 (AP)—In the fourth Philippines raid within five days, a night-ranging Liberator sank a 3,000-ton Japanese freighter in Davao Gulf Mindanao Island, early Saturday, headquarters announced today.

Previous attacks in the series launched this month—the first air strikes at the Philippines since April, 1942—were directed at Davao's airfields. Saturday's predawn raider also bombed and damaged a coastal vessel a few miles to the east.

At about the same time Mitchell and Catalina bombers in night forays were renewing attacks against Japanese shipping in Kaoe Bay at Halmahera Island, 250 miles south of Mindanao and 200 miles west of New Guinea.

Three Vessels Hit

Today's communique, telling of the Halmahera raids, said, "Our night air patrols left burning a 1,000-ton freighter and scored a direct hit on a 3,000-ton vessel in Kaoe Bay, sank a coastal vessel off Morotai Island, and bombed installations in the Talaud Islands."

Headquarters said 41 parked Japanese planes were destroyed or damaged, four 1,000-ton freighters were sunk, a 3,000-ton freighter-transport was destroyed or severely damaged, and several coastal vessels were sunk or damaged in air sweeps Thursday and Friday upon Halmahera and western Dutch New Guinea's Vogelkop peninsula.

In additional raids Saturday, Liberators and Mitchells, fighter planes and patrol torpedo boats attacked enemy targets along the Vogelkop coast. Most heavily hit was Babo airdrome on the southwestern coast, hammered with 27 tons of bombs.

Japs Twice Raid Schouten

The Japanese twice raided the Schouten Islands Biak area off Dutch New Guinea Friday night, sending one formation in at medium altitude and the other at low level. Damage was slight. There were a few casualties.

A spokesman disclosed that the Aitape campaign in British New Guinea has cost the Allies 285 killed, 23 missing and 999 wounded. Most of the casualties were American, since the Japanese trapped in the Wewak sector sought to break westward through the American lines, and rarely have engaged the Australian front along the Sepik river to the east.

Since the Aitape attacks started last July 11, 8,064 Japanese dead have been counted.

NIMITZ PREDICTS

AUG 141944

JAPANESE DEFEAT WITHOUT INVASION

AUG 141944

Claims Occupation of Homeland Will Be Necessary to Win the Peace.

BONIN ISLANDS BOMBED

Yanks Also Blast Pagan, Rota, Truk and Kuriles in Heavy Blow.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, PEARL HARBOR, Aug. 13—(AP) Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, back from the Marianas where he is considering moving his headquarters to keep closer to the westward push, said today he did not believe invasion of Japan was necessary to win the war but that its occupation was necessary to win the peace.

Nimitz disclosed he had been to Guam and Saipan and there conferred with Navy, Army and Marine leaders—meetings which followed quickly a significant war plans conference here with President Roosevelt and Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Discloses Raid on Bonins

He expressed his long term views on the war at a pres conference shortly after announcing in a press release air attacks on the Bonin islands, 600 miles south of Japan, Paramushiro in the Kuriles on the north approaches, Pagan and Rota in the Marianas, Truk and Ponape in the Carolines and bypassed bases in the Marshalls.

"I am not sure or convinced that invasion will be necessary but I do believe occupation of Japan would be necessary to insure a winning peace," said the commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet and Pacific ocean areas.

But he added:

"However, we should keep in mind the possible necessity of invasion and be prepared for it."

Nimitz expressed eagerness to move his headquarters nearer the fighting area which he visited to confer with such leaders as Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher, Vice Adm. Richmond Kelley Turner and Maj. Gen. Roy S. Geiger.

The Marianas are approximately 3,000 miles beyond Pearl Harbor and invasion headquarters for Pacific amphibious forces already are being established at Saipan by Admiral Turner.

Nimitz expressed his views on the necessity of invading Japan after being asked, "how far can we go in relying on air bombardment to defeat Japan?"

"I do not believe any single form of attack will defeat Japan," he said.

Combination of Weapons

"It will have to be a combination of every weapon—sea blockade, air bombardment, possible surface ship bombardment. Already surface ships have bombarded the northern Kuriles. A combination of the whole military effort will bring about the defeat of Japan.

"It hardly seems possible because of the great distances involved to deliver the same bomb tonnage on Japan as has been delivered on Germany and German positions in occupied Europe.

Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information, who also just has returned from the Marianas, suggested it is possible for Japan to be starved out because virtually all her food is imported.

Nimitz agreed that a sea blockade cutting off supplies, could go a long way toward "bringing Japan down."

"We will put the heat on as hard and fast as we can," he added.

"This war is a new experience for Japan," Nimitz pointed out.

"We do not know how much they can take before they'll throw in the sponge. But I certainly believe, no matter what the peace terms, it will be necessary to occupy certain places to insure the peace terms are carried out."

Nimitz was "impressed by the fine spirit and morale of the troops, both the navy afloat and the combat units ashore in the Marianas."

"This time there was no exception," he said.

"They're all in fine spirits and are ready to go. They also are in very fine physical condition. I can assure the folks back home these young men never will let them down."

Jap Casualties High

He said the Japanese ground casualties in the Gilberts, Marshalls and Marianas—the entire

Central Pacific campaign—total 52,232 killed in action and 3,022 prisoners of war, plus thousands killed in aerial and surface bombardment which it is impossible to count. American losses were 5,903 killed.

Asked if any Americans surrendered, Nimitz said "indications are a very few of our men got ahead of the lines and were taken prisoner but I do not believe any surrendered."

He said he, like all war correspondents, had heard rumors of atrocities but none have been confirmed and he was unable to comment, referring all queries to Washington.

Asked "do you think the Japanese can replace their lost carrier-based air power—more than 1,100 in and near the Marianas alone since June 10—in time for an effective defense?" he replied:

"A definite answer would disclose how much time we will give the enemy. I only hope our operations can take place at such a tempo that they never have a chance to prepare to meet us at the top of their efficiency."

Nimitz said Guam's Apra harbor would be developed and used to "its maximum capacity." He pointed out that Pearl Harbor had been developed steadily whereas 1922 treaties effectively stopped work at Apra.

The press release today reported that land-based planes bombed Japanese bases Thursday and Friday from Paramushiro to the mid-Pacific Marshalls.

Gun Positions Hit

Gun positions and shore installations were the principal targets. Two ships were bombed.

One Japanese patrol vessel was sunk and a second damaged near Paramushiro, in the Kuriles north of Japan.

Liberators of the 7th AAF attacked Chichi Jima island in the Bonins, some 600 miles from Tokyo, hitting the airdrome and a cargo ship in the harbor. No attempt at interception was reported.

Pagan island in the Northern Marianas, south of the Bonins, was bombed by Mitchells which concentrated on runways and gun positions against moderate anti-aircraft fire.

Rota, near Guam, took a 50-ton bombing and strafing.

Truk and Ponape in the Carolines were attacked.

More than 80 tons of bombs were dropped on Marshall islands still in Japanese hands. Coastal defense guns and other installations were hit by dive-bombers and fighters.

Natives Of Guam Present Letter Of Thanks To Nimitz

AUG 14 1944

United States Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Aug. 13 (AP)—The American liberation of Guam came in the nick of time when the natives had withstood about all they could of "ill treatments and atrocities," elders of the island told Admiral Chester W. Nimitz in a letter of thanks to be transmitted to the people of the United States.

Nimitz just has returned from an inspection trip to reconquered Guam. While visiting a refugee camp he was handed this letter:

"In behalf of the people of Guam, we take this opportunity to express to you and our common nation our heartfelt thanks for the recapture of Guam by the strong and invincible forces under your command.

"Rejoice At Capture"

"The recapture of Guam was opportune. Had it been delayed longer, the native inhabitants would barely withstood ill treatments and atrocities received from the Japanese. What kept us up throughout 32 months of Japanese oppression was our determined reliance upon our mother country's power, sense of justice and national brotherhood.

"We rejoice at the recapture of Guam and are extremely grateful for the timely relief we now are getting.

Letter To Roosevelt

"In closing, we request of you that, should you deem it expedient, this our note of appreciation be transmitted to the Honorable President and to the people of the United States of America.

"Gratefully yours, Fr. Leon Guerrero, Fr. Camacho, Pedro Martinez, Agueda Johnston, Josef Mambusan, Jose Roberto."

Nimitz is forwarding the letter to President Roosevelt.

Being Well Fed

He said he did not have time to inquire into the atrocities mentioned in the letter. He reported all liberated natives are being well fed and well cared for in refugee camps and are fast being rehabilitated and returned to their homes.

"However, all settlements are pretty badly shot up," he added.

Asked if the United States is supplying money to the Guamians, he replied:

"There is nothing you could use money for."

Mitscher Wins Gold Star

Advanced Base, Marshall Islands, Aug. 10 (AP—Delayed)—Admiral Chester W. Nimitz made a surprise visit to this base today and brought a surprise gift to Vice-Admiral Marc A. Mitscher, commander of the world's most deadly carrier force.

It was a Gold Star, in lieu of a third Distinguished Service Medal. Nimitz made the presentation at a private breakfast meeting of Vice-Admiral J. H. Hoover, commander of forward areas of the Central Pacific, and his party.

"Doing His Damnedest"

"Ninety-one years ago a naval officer opened up the ports of Japan," Nimitz said as he arose to read the citation, "and now another officer is doing his damnedest to close them." (The first part of his remark referred to Commodore Matthew C. Perry, who persuaded the Japanese to open their ports to American trade.)

The decoration is for Mitscher's carrier-force performance in the Marshalls last January and for raids on Truk and the Marianas in February.

Prevented Interference

These "vigorous and fearless air attacks skillfully prevented interference with our invasion," the citation read.

Mitscher already holds the Navy Cross, two Distinguished Service Medals, Portugal's Order of the Tower and Sword and campaign decorations from the Mexican campaign of 1916, the World War and the present war.

His opinion of medals for commanders: "They mean other men have done fine work."

Japs All Killed: Kill The Ump!

By TECH. SERGT. M. C. BRUNSON

[Marine Corps Combat Correspondent, formerly with the Baltimore Bureau of the Associated Press]

Saipan, Marianas Island (AP—Delayed)—Saipan had no sooner been secured than those marines who were able began seeking relaxation in sports.

The day after the Stars and Stripes had been run up over Saipan, a group of artillerymen in a rear area laid out a softball diamond in a field where their guns were set up.

Their first game probably was the first American athletic event in the island which had just been wrested from the Japs. Daily games have been played since then.

Another group of artillerymen, bivouacked in a banana grove, strung up a volley-ball net and began to play as soon as their part in the fighting was over.

Organized swimming parties for marines are beginning tomorrow. They serve a dual purpose, that of having fun and getting clean at the same time.

Islander Chief Scorns Marine's 5-And-10 Jewels

AUG 14 1944

By SERGT. WILLIAM ALLEN

[Marine Combat Correspondent]

(Distributed by the Associated Press)

Somewhere in the South Pacific (Delayed)—Marine Private (first class) Charles Poulsen, of Akron, knew he was going overseas and accordingly prepared for the natives by studying pigeon English throughout the voyage from the States. His sea bag contained many 5 and 10-cent store trinkets.

Recently, with another new arrival, Private (first class) Paulo Caruso, of Detroit, Poulsen visited a native village here and sought out the chief.

Redhaired Chief Silent

The chief, an ebony-skinned giant with flaming red hair, sat silent and expressionless before his mud hut and listened to the odd sounding mutterings of Marine Poulsen. He viewed the junk jewelry that was offered in exchange for native war clubs, cat's-eye shells, grass skirts and the like through uninterested eyes, still maintaining his silence.

The chief dug down in a sugar sack that he had converted into a pocket and produced a pipe which he proceeded to tamp with a mixture of dried roots and leaves while Poulsen continued to gesticulate.

When he fumbled for a stick to poke into the near-by fire to light the briar, Poulsen quickly produced a cigarette lighter and offered it, thinking that the native would be puzzled and impressed.

"Undoubtedly Out Of Fluid"

Taking the lighter, the chief snapped it three times in the conventional manner and returned it to Poulsen. He broke silence for the first time.

"This lighter is undoubtedly out of fluid," the chief said in precise English, and handed it back with a regular business card on which was printed:

PRICE LIST

Native war clubs (plain)	$1.00
Native war clubs (carved)	$3.00
Cat's eyes	4 for .50
Grass skirts (plain)	$2.50
Grass skirts (dyed)	$4.00

Poulsen, somewhat red-checked, returned to camp, minus $8 and still in possession of his dime-store jewels.

Missing Bolivian Mine Owner Reported Found

Santiago, Chile, Aug. 13 (AP)—Relatives of Mauricio Hochschild, wealthy Bolivian mine owner, who has been missing since July 30, said tonight they had been told he had been found. No details were available.

Hochschild, German-born and an Argentine citizen, disappeared with Adolfo Blum, vice-president of the huge Hochschild properties. They were last seen outside the Chilean consulate in La Paz after the mine owner had obtained a passport for a trip to Chile.

Some friends had expressed belief Hochschild was kidnapped or killed by members of a secret Bolivian military group which participated in an unsuccessful uprising against President Guilberto Villarroel last December.

Montreal Tramways Under Government

Montreal, Aug. 13 (AP)—Montreal wound up its 11th day without streetcars and busses tonight as preparations were completed for full resumption of service tomorrow with the Montreal Tramways Company under temporary Government control.

A strike of 4,000 tram and bus operators, seeking a union-shop clause in the contract between the company and the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employes, a Canadian Congress of Labor affiliate, was declared officially ended late Saturday, a few hours after the Federal Government announced appointment of two controllers to operate the facilities of the company.

Still undecided was the union-shop clause. In taking over the company's 950 trams and 300 busses, the Government set a 60-day period for settlement of this issue.

10 Marks On Hitler's Head, 'Goerdler's' Offer

New York, Aug. 13 (AP)—An ABSIE (American Broadcasting Station in Europe) picked up by NBC said today that posters signed "Carl Goerdler" and offering a reward of 10 marks for Hitler's head appeared on public buildings in Germany.

Dr. Goerdler, former Mayor of Leipzig who is being sought in connection with the Hitler assassination plot, has a Gestapo-fixed price of 1,000,000 marks on his head.

Nazi General's Death Reported

New York, Aug. 13 (AP)—A British German-language broadcast heard by NBC tonight reported the death of a Nazi Lieut. Gen. Fritz von Schultze, of the SS Panzer Division Nordland, which the broadcast said was stationed in the Baltic area.

BRITISH ACCEPT BROAD OUTLINES OF SECURITY PLAN

AUG 14 1944

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—(AP) Sir Alexander Cadogan, British delegate to the world security talks opening next week, virtually endorsed today the broad outlines for an international peace organization already laid down by President Roosevelt as the basis for the American security plan.

That statement, coupled with his disclosure that there already has been an exchange of ideas among the British, Americans and Russians on how peace should be organized, gave rise to hope among officials here for a greater degree of success than had been predicted heretofore for the Washington conversations.

Cadogan talked to reporters at a news conference held by the British ambassador, the Earl of Halifax, who has just returned from London.

His discussion of the general framework for a peace organization came while official quarters here were considering a suggestion for creation of special new military units, to operate beyond the traditional limits of international law, as a peace-maintenance force.

Cadogan disclosed that the Soviet government has supplied a statement of at least some of its postwar organization ideas in the last day or so. He said Britain sent over a statement of its tentative plans more than a month ago. Both Britain and the United States also had kept Moscow advised.

Cadogan said he was "optimistic" and believed that the preliminary exchange of information gives fair promise of agreement in the talks which will start here a week from Monday.

He said the British have not brought over "any cut and dried plan" but that the other delegates know what British ideas are and "I hope we will be able to construct something that will give good results."

He was asked whether there was anything he could say about the statement of President Roosevelt in mid-June favoring United States cooperation in a world organization having a council and an assembly of nations and backed by force. The President also declared there was no thought of a super-state or an international police force.

Cardogan said there was "nothing in the President's statement of June 15 to which we should care to take exception."

The peace police proposal, it was learned meanwhile, was developed by military authorities and is growing in importance in American plans for the security conferences.

HALIFAX SAYS BRITISH SATISFIED BY PROGRESS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—(AP) Much satisfaction in England over the progress of the war but "no over-optimism" was reported today by the Earl of Halifax, British ambassador, just back from conferences at home.

The British government, he said, plans if possible to take some of the restrictions off the British people once the European part of the war is ended, but some factories in the United Kingdom already are turning to production of goods for intensification of the fight against Japan.

World Peace Police Considered

Washington, Aug. 13 (AP)—Creation of special new military units which would operate beyond the traditional limits of international law has been suggested in official quarters here as possibly the most effective way of organizing postwar forces to maintain peace.

The proposal, it was learned today, was developed by military and naval authorities and is steadily growing in importance as American plans for the four-power peace organization talks here take final shape. It is expected to be put forward during the talks, although it is not necessarily considered a part of the formal American plan.

Method U. S. May Employ

Should the proposal not be favorably considered for general adoption by the other conferees—Russia, Britain and, later on, China—authorities predict it may still supply the answer to the question of how the United States can help preserve world peace by force without basically altering the division of foreign policy and military powers between the President and Congress.

Essentially the proposal is that each nation should earmark a part of its land, sea and air power as its own peace police organization. Each organization would retain its separate national identity. An important part of such a United States organization might be the world-roving 20th Air Force of superbombers.

First Call For Peace Police

In event of a threat to peace which the world organization could not stop by political and economic measures, units of the various peace police organizations could be ordered into joint action by their respective governments in much the same way that many different Allied divisions today fight together under a single commander.

Such a use of military forces would not be considered an act of war since it could be taken only by the peace-preserving nations after common agreement and in accordance with their declarations for maintaining peace. The peace police might be said to have the same sort of special legal status that United States marines occasionally have invoked in their peacetime operations.

Behind the peace police would be the rest of the armies, navies and air forces of each country—available for action if necessary, but presumably subject to the usual controls of international law and, in this country, of Congress.

Three Way Check By Congress

In the case of the special peace force, Congress would have a general three-way check on the system but not a specific control over each time the force should be called up. The general checks proposed are understood to be:

Senate action on the question of participating in a world agency backed by force.

House and Senate creation of the separate force and definition of its powers.

House and Senate annual appropriations to sustain it.

The proposal is regarded by its backers as about midway between the world police force idea and the idea that while force should be available if necessary to suppress aggression it need not be organized to that end beforehand.

Russia Favors World Air Force

In fact, to date these have been about the only two concepts widely discussed publicly although American peace-planners have been working intensely to develop a system which they would consider more effective. Presumably the British, Russians and Chinese have been similarly engaged and may come up with proposals of their own.

One idea which has been put forward unofficially in Russia is that while there should be no international police force there should be an international air force capable of striking quickly wherever serious trouble threatens. It is the possibility of compromise among differing points of view in the peace talks beginning here August 21 which keeps various American proposals for world organization from assuming a more official status.

The American group, headed by Under Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, intends to go into the talks with a minmium of commitments and a maximum of points for negotiation.

GEN. LEMAY TO HEAD 20TH BOMBER COMMAND

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13—(AP) Major General Curtis E. Lemay is the new chief of the 20th bomber command, operators of the fleet of Superfortresses, the War department announced today.

Lemay, 37 years old, a native of Columbus, Ohio, succeeds Brig. Gen. Kenneth B. Wolfe, who recently was appointed commanding general of the air forces materiel section at Wright Field, Ohio.

Until recently Lemay was commanding general of the heavy bombardment division of the 8th Air Force in England, in which post he personally led several big-scale attacks on German airplane industrial targets and U-boat installations.

As chief of the Twentieth command, his new theater will be the China-Burma-India area, from which strategic attacks are being launched on Japanese war economy.

AUG 141944

BRITAIN SEEKS ACCORD WITH US ON ARGENTINA

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 (AP)—Great Britain is as greatly concerned about the militaristic government of Argentina as the United States is and is working closely with this Government to find a joint solution, the Earl of Halifax, British Ambassador to Waashington, declared today.

Speaking at a press conference after his return here yesterday from a visit to London, Lord Halifax said that Britain was seeking to find a way of meeting the Argentine situation jointly with the United States, but that so far the solution had not been arrived at.

During the conference he indicated that the two countries thought alike in principle with respect to the Farrell regime, which Secretary of State Cordell Hull has branded as a "deserter to the Allied cause."

"During the past weeks," he told a gathering of about seventy-five correspondents, "we have been working in close collaboration with the United States. The matter has caused us as much concern as it has in the United States. Our common wish," he continued, "is to find a satisfactory solution. I don't think we have found that."

The British Ambassador said he thought he could not usefully comment on whether economic sanctions would be applied against Argentina.

Supergasoline Developed For 'Futuristic Bombers'

AUG 141944

Washington, Aug. 13 (AP)—A supergasoline powerful enough to enable the giant B-29 and B-32 bombers to perform at their maximum capabilities in raiding Japan has been developed by American chemists and will go into production when the military gives the command.

The Petroleum Industry War Council said today about 80 per cent. of the nation's high-octane gasoline capacity is primed to switch over to the new fuel with only minor changes in facilities.

Chemical details were withheld but the council said the supergasoline has a "vastly-improved octane rating" over the 100-octane fuel now used in battle planes.

"World's Finest Flying Fuel"

The council called the "X" octane gasoline "the world's finest flying fuel" and said it was designed to "draw from the futuristic B-32 bombers, lethal B-29 Superfortresses and the most modern fighter escort planes their originally intended maximums in sustained speed, short takeoffs, combat radius, and load-carrying capabilities."

The announcement said that oil-industry scientists predict that quantity production of the new gasoline would permit "possible Allied bombing of the Japanese mainland on a suburban-service schedule."

The signal for production is expected to be given "when military plans permit"—that is, "should a shift in United States military strategy suddenly call for a change in 100-octane aviation-gasoline production from volume to volatility."

William R. Boyd, Jr., chairman of the industry council, said that because of military requirements of the moment volume production of the new fuel must follow the quantity production of present-grade aviation gasoline for prosecution of the European war. At present, all available refining capacity of the United Nations is taxed to capacity in supplying Allied air forces over Europe and in the Pacific with more than 500,000 barrels a day of 100-octane gasoline, Boyd said.

Possible Production In Fall

He then said, "It has been estimated that in the fall of 1944 it may be necessary to produce a considerable amount of this improved aviation gasoline."

He said the new fuel is "100-oc- tane 'rebuilt chemically.' Oil-industry scientists, helped by new and delicate instruments, he said, have been perfecting their means of analyzing high-octane composition, and that 100-octane motor fuel has been lifted from the "groping laboratory stage" and its intricacies now are "in the realm of positive practicability."

ARMY FIRES 4 P.T.C. STRIKERS

AUG 141944

General Hayes Announces Action In Philadelphia

Philadelphia, Aug. 13 (AP)—Four employes of the Philadelphia Transportation Company were discharged today for failure to obey the army's order to return to work last Monday when service was resumed over the lines after a six-day strike.

Maj. Gen. Philip Hayes, the War Department's representative in operating the Government-seized lines, said the four are in addition to four discharged leaders who are scheduled for hearings tomorrow before Norman Griffin, United States Commissioner, on charges of violating the Smith-Connally Act.

Identifies Men Fired

General Hayes said the last four discharged are Thomas A. Quigley, operator; Louis Conaway, mechanic; Pat Inverso, a maintenance man, and Charles Kluge, operator.

The general said a board of three officers sat for four days to hear reasons why 191 employes failed to report for work last Monday in accordance with an army directive.

General Hayes said "I will not hesitate for one instant to impose full sanctions of the law upon anyone who had intentionally disobeyed my order."

Liquor Stores To Open

The cases of the four discharged leaders—James H. McMenamin, Frank C. Carney, Frank Thompson and William C. Dixey—are expected to be continued until the Federal grand jury investigating the strike makes its final presentment. The jury recessed Friday after hearing testimony of witnesses for three days and is scheduled to reconvene tomorrow.

Meanwhile, the ban on sales of liquor, in force since the outbreak of the transit strike August 1, will be lifted at 7 A. M., tomorrow.

Truck Owners Agree To Resume Operations

Minneapolis, Aug. 13 (AP)—Lou Hosking, executive secretary of the Midwest Operators Association, tonight informed Ellis T. Longenecker, Federal manager of 103 mid-Western over-the-road truck lines seized by the Government Saturday, that members had voted unanimously to resume operations Monday under Government control.

The decision came after a day-long meeting of the operators from which all but the membership and ODT officials were barred. Representatives and owners of lines operating in 15 States attended the conference, including 28 independent operators, whose lines will not be affected by today's decision, according to Longenecker.

Agree To Wage Increases

Acceptance of Government operation means that operators have agreed to pay wage increases voted the drivers last February by the WLB, nonpayment of which prompted the over-the-road truck tieup a week ago Friday night.

Basic scale for drivers had been 90 cents per hour or 3.4 cents per mile, whichever was larger. Under the new rates, pay will be 96 cents an hour, or 3.7 cents per mile, with the larger being paid. Average weekly wage which has been from $53 to $55 will rise approximately $4, it was estimated.

At the metting were owners and representatives of 15 States, stretching from Texas to Montana to Illinois, east and west.

Cruiser Fall River Launched At Camden

Camden, N. J., Aug. 13 (AP)—The heavy cruiser Fall River, was launched today at the New York Shipbuilding Corporation yards here. Mrs. Alexander C. Murray, wife of the Mayor of Fall River, Mass., sponsored the vessel.

The Fall River, 13,000 tons, mounts a main battery of 8-inch guns with large secondary and anti-aircraft batteries of smaller caliber.

AUG 141944

30.24— 17971

ALL SHAEF (Long) von Rundstedt's OFFENSIVE ON THE SOUTHERN FLANK OF THE GERMAN BULGE, THE VIRTUALLY COMPLETE SECURITY BLACKOUT ON NEWS FROM THE ATTACKS BASED ON LE MANS, 110 MILES SOUTHWEST OF PARIS, WENT THROUGH ITS FIFTH DAY. (GERMAN BROADCASTS, BESIDES REPORTING A PUSH BEYOND ALENCON— ITSELF HALFWAY BETWEEN LE MANS AND FALAISE-- SAID NAZI ADVANCE PATROLS HAD PUSHED 43 MILES DOWN THE ROAD FROM CHARTRES BEFORE MEETING THE AMERICANS. THIS WOULD PLACE U.S. FORCES AT LEAST 25 MILES EAST OF LE MANS, AND PERHAPS 85 MILES FROM PARIS.)

NOR WAS THERE ANY FURTHER OFFICIAL WORD ON OPERATIONS SOUTH OF THE LOIRE RIVER, WHERE THE AMERICANS HAD PUSHED 10 MILES SOUTH OF NANTES TWO DAYS AGO.

AUG 141944

(THE MYSTERY ATTACHING TO ALLIED INTENTIONS IN SOUTHERN FRANCE WAS FURTHER HEIGHTENED, BY GERMAN BROADCASTS SAYING THE GERMAN TROOPS HAD FALLEN BACK SOUTH OF THE LOIRE BETWEEN ALLIED-HELD NANTES AND ANGERS, BUT DENYING THAT THE AMERICANS HAD YET CROSSED THE RIVER.)

AS THE GERMAN PLIGHT IN NORMANDY WORSENED, ITALIAN-BASED HEAVY BOMBERS BATTERED SOUTHERN FRANCE'S DEFENSES IN THE THIRD SUCCESSIVE DAY OF ATTACK, ADDING A NEW MENACE FROM THE MEDITERRANEAN DIRECTION.

THE GERMANS STILL HELD ON TO THEIR LAST STRONGHOLD IN THE CITADEL OF ST. MALO ON BRITTANY'S NORTH COAST, AND THE SITUATION APPARENTLY WAS NOT GREATLY CHANGED AROUND THE BESIEGED U-BOAT AND NAVAL BASES OF ST. NAZAIRE, LORIENT AND BREST.

FD&W357PEW

AUG 1 1944

Add London Russian (Herald) xxx Moscow said

A MOSCOW BULLETIN SAID THAT GEN. IVAN MASLENNIKOV'S THIRD BALTIC ARMY, OPERATING ABOVE THAT OF YEREMENKO'S, HAD ROLLED THROUGH 60 VILLAGES, INCLUDING VORU, 95 MILES FROM THE GULF OF RIGA, AND 120 MILES NORTHEAST OF RIGA ITSELF. MASLENNIKOV'S TROOPS APPARENTLY INTEND TO SEAL OFF ALL THE GERMANS IN ESTONIA, WHILE OTHER SOVIET ARMIES FINISH OFF THE GERMANS TRAPPED IN LATVIA.

THE TOLL OF 69,636 CASUALTIES INFLICTED ON THE GERMANS BY YEREMENKO'S TROOPS BETWEEN JULY 10 AND AUG. 10 MADE A TOTAL OF 609,526 GERMANS KILLED AND CAPTURED BY FIVE RUSSIAN ARMIES SINCE THE BIG SUMMER OFFENSIVE BEGAN JUNE 23, MOSCOW SAID. ENEMY CASUALTIES SUFFERED AT THE HANDS OF FOUR OTHER SOVIET ARMIES PRESENTLY ENGAGED IN THE MIGHTY WESTWARD DRIVE HAVE NOT BEEN ANNOUNCED.

TWO HUGE RED ARMIES WHEELING CLOSE TO GERMAN EAST PRUSSIA IN THE AREA NORTHEAST OF EMBATTLED WARSAW CAPTURED 180 LOCALITIES DURING THE DAY, THE COMMUNIQUE SAID. THESE INCLUDED GONIADZ ON THE BIEBRZA RIVER, LAST BIG WATER OBSTACLE SEPARATING THE RUSSIANS FROM PREWAR GERMAN SOIL. GONIADZ, 17 MILES FROM EAST PRUSSIA'S FRONTIER, IS LESS THAN FOUR MILES FROM THE POINT WHERE THE BIALYSTOK-LYCK RAILWAY CROSSES THE RIVER.

AUG 141944

BERLIN, IN ADMITTING A FURTHER GERMAN RETREAT IN THAT SECTOR, SAID GEN. G.F. ZAKHAROV'S SECOND WHITE RUSSIAN ARMY HAD BEEN REINFORCED WITH 10 FRESH DIVISIONS. ZAKHAROV'S TROOPS CAPTURED 80 VILLAGES WEST AND NORTHWEST OF BIALYSTOK, AND THE ADJOINING FIRST WHITE RUSSIAN ARMY TOOK 100, THE BULLETIN SAID.

MOSCOW DID NOT ANNOUNCE ANY FURTHER GAINS WEST OF THE VISTULA 100 MILES SOUTH OF WARSAW. ENEMY INFANTRY AND TANK COUNTERATTACKS WERE REPULSED THERE, THE COMMUNIQUE SAID.

AUG 141944

A DISPATCH FROM DANIEL DE LUCE, ASSOCIATED PRESS MOSCOW CORRESPONDENT, GAVE THIS GENERAL PICTURE OF THE EASTERN FRONT:

"ADOLF HITLER APPARENTLY IS WILLING TO SACRIFICE ALL HIS BALTIC FORCES IN AN EFFORT TO CHECK SYNCHRONIZED RUSSIAN DRIVES ON GERMAN EAST PRUSSIA. HE IS BUYING TIME AT A COST OF THOUSANDS OF GERMAN LIVES, BUT THE DEEP SOVIET WEDGE BETWEEN WARSAW AND THE SOUTHERN BORDER OF EAST PRUSSIA THREATENS TO NULLIFY THE STAND OF HIS BALTIC TROOPS.

"MOSCOW DOES NOT UNDERESTIMATE GERMAN RESISTANCE WHICH HAS BEEN BOLSTERED BY EXTRA DIVISIONS HURRIED TO THE FRONT FROM CENTRAL GERMANY, NORWAY AND THE MEDITERRANEAN ZONE. AT WARSAW THE GERMANS ARE STOUTLY ENTRENCHED ALONG THE MOST FEASIBLE INVASION ROUTE TO BERLIN, AND ARE FIGHTING FURIOUSLY 100 MILES TO THE SOUTH IN THE AREA WHERE THE RUSSIANS HAVE BROKEN ACROSS THAT RIVER AND HOLD NEARLY 1,500 SQUARE MILES ON THE WESTERN SIDE.

"TO STABILIZE TEMPORARILY THE MOST ACUTE SECTORS THE ENEMY UNDOUBTEDLY HAS HAD TO TAP HEAVILY HIS STRATEGIC RESERVE WHICH WAS

30.24— 17973

TO HAVE BEEN USED ONLY IN A SUPREME EMERGENCY. SOVIET MILITARY OPINION WAS AGREED THAT IT WILL TAKE WEEKS OF GRINDING DOWN THE GERMAN RESERVE STRENGTH BEFORE A FINAL DECISION IS WON IN CENTRAL OR SOUTHERN POLAND, OR AT THE MARSHY LIMITS OF EAST PRUSSIA.

"THE HITLERITE PRESS IS PREPARING GERMAN READERS FOR NEW AND UNPLEASANT EVENTS SUCH AS A WIDENING OF THE SOVIET WEDGE BETWEEN THE BUG AND NIEMEN RIVERS (OPPOSITE EAST PRUSSIA), THE NEWSPAPER PRAVDA SAID. NEW DIVISIONS HAVE NOT IMPROVED CONDITIONS FOR THE ENEMY.

"PRAVDA SAID THAT EVEN JAPANESE NEWSPAPERS NOW SEE RUIN FOR THEIR AXIS ALLY BECAUSE OF SIMULTANEOUS BLOWS FROM THE EAST AND WEST."

DE LUCE SAID IT WAS AN ODD SENSATION FOR THE RUSSIANS TO HEAR THAT THE ALLIED WESTERN FRONT WAS MOVING MORE RAPIDLY NOW THAN ARE SOME SECTORS IN THE EAST, BUT THAT IT WAS A NOVELTY THEY RELISH AS ASSURING A GERMAN COLLAPSE. "ANOTHER THREE MONTHS" IS THE TIME LIMIT FREQUENTLY MENTIONED INFORMALLY BY RED ARMY OFFICERS, HE ADDED.

A TOTAL OF 9,636 PRISONERS WAS TAKEN ON THIS FRONT, WHICH HAS BEEN PUSHED WEST OF DAUGAVPILS, THE WAR BULLETIN SAID.

BEARING DOWN ON RIGA, ALREADY CUT OFF FROM THE WEST, RUSSIAN TROOPS SEIZED THE TOWN OF MADONNA, 75 MILES EAST OF THAT LATVIAN CAPITAL, AND OVERRAN 20 OTHER POPULATED PLACES.

WA18PEW

AUG 141944

LONDON--INSERT AFTER 5TH GRAF AERIAL X X X SATURDAY.

AT LEAST THAT NUMBER OF FOUR-ENGINED (Nordness) BOMBERS PARTICIPATED IN TODAY'S SWEEPS AGAINST THE SOUTHERN APPROACHES TO FORTRESS EUROPE. TWENTY-EIGHT PLANES WERE LOST IN ALL OPERATIONS FROM THE MEDITERRANEAN YESTERDAY.

HEAVY, MEDIUM, ETC., 6TH GRAF.

W357PEW

A21

Add London Aerial (Nordness) xxx La Pallice.

EIGHTH AIR FORCE FIGHTER BOMBERS COVERED APPROXIMATELY 25,000 SQUARE MILES IN AN AREA BORDERED ROUGHLY BY LE HAVRE AND MONS ON THE NORTH AND NORTHEAST AND VITRE IN THE SOUTHEAST, ADDING TO YESTERDAY'S AMAZING RECORD OF DESTRUCTION.

AUG 141944

BY NOON MUSTANG, LIGHTNING AND THUNDERBOLT FIGHTER BOMBERS HAD DESTROYED OR DAMAGED MORE THAN 200 LOCOMOTIVES, 826 RAILWAY CARS, 275 MOTOR VEHICLES, 51 OIL CARS AND ATTACKED TUNNELS AND ADDITIONAL GROUND INSTALLATIONS.

THEIR TOTAL YESTERDAY INCLUDED MORE THAN 3,000 RAILWAY CARS, OF WHICH 112 WERE AMMUNITION CARS WHICH BLEW UP, 363 LOCOMOTIVES DESTROYED OR DAMAGED, AND 499 OTHER VEHICLES.

THE ENEMY WAS GIVEN NO RESPITE BY DAY OR NIGHT, AND LAST NIGHT WAS ONE OF GREAT AERIAL ACTIVITY.

THE RAF LAST NIGHT ROARED OVER GERMANY AND DUMPED EXPLOSIVES ON AIRCRAFT AND ENGINEERING PLANTS AT BRUNSWICK, THE HUGE OPEL AIRCRAFT AND MOTOR TRANSPORT WORKS AT RUSSELSHEIM, WHICH EMPLOYES 35,000 WORKERS, THE PORT OF KIEL AND FRANKFORT.

HALIFAXES PLASTERED FLYING BOMB LAUNCHING SITES.

FULL-SCALE OPERATIONS WERE ROUNDED OUT BY SECOND TACTICAL AIR FORCE MOSQUITO, MITCHELL AND BOSTON BOMBERS, WHICH DURING THE NIGHT HAMMERED AT ENEMY MOVEMENTS ON ROADS LEADING TO THE MAIN BATTLE AREAS AROUND FALAISE AND PATROLLED ROADS AND RAILWAYS BETWEEN PARIS, ROUEN AND ORLEANS.

ONE AIRCRAFT WAS LOST.

AUG 141944

W211PEW

(ADVANCE)...LONDON, AUG.13-(A...E BRITISH DISTINGUISHED FLYING CROSS WAS AWARDED TODAY TO FLIGHT LT.CLARENCE MURL JASPER, SPOKANE, WASH., OF THE ROYAL CANADIAN AIR FORCE, DESCRIBED AS "A MOST RESOLUTE

PILT WHOSE DETERMINATION TO ENGAGE THE ENEMY HAS

PILOT WHOSE DETERMINATION TO ENGAGE THE ENEMY HAS ALWAYS BEEN EVIDENT."

"HE HAS COMPLETED MANY SORTIES AND DESTROYED THREE ENEMY AIRCRAFT IN THE AIR AND OTHERS ON THE GROUND," THE ANNOUNCEMENT SAID. HE WAS BORN AT OTTAWA,KAS., IN 1915, AND SERVED IN THE UNITED STATES NAVY FROM 1935 TO 1937.

(END ADVANCE)

AUG 141944

HW425PEW

LONDON, AUG.13-(AP)-BRITISH WARSHIPS SANK AT LEAST SIX GERMAN SUPPLY SHIPS AND TRAWLERS OFF THE FRENCH COAST SATURDAY IN A SERIES OF SMALL-SCALE SKIRMISHES RANGING FROM LE HAVRE IN THE CHANNEL TO THE BAY OF BISCAY AND CAME AWAY WITHOUT LOSS, A COMMUNIQUE ANNOUNCED TODAY.

W332PEW

LONDON, AUG. 13-(AP)-A REUTERS DISPATCH FROM STOCKHOLM SAID TODAY SEVERAL GERMAN TROOP TRANSPORTS WERE SEEN OFF THE ALAND ISLANDS STEAMING SOUTH FROM FINLAND TOWARD GERMANY, INDICATING THAT POSSIBLY THE WITHDRAWAL HAD BEGUN OF GERMAN FORCES FROM THAT SCANDINAVIAN COUNTRY.

AUG 141944

W420PEW

LONDON, AUG.13-(AP)-MORE THAN 60,000 GERMANS WERE KILLED ON THE SECOND BALTIC FRONT ALONE BETWEEN JULY 10 AND AUG. 10, THE RUSSIAN COMMUNIQUE ANNOUNCED TONIGHT.

A TOTAL OF 9,636 PRISONERS WAS TAKEN ON THIS FRONT, WHICH HAS BEEN PUSHED WEST OF DAUGAVPILS, THE WAR BULLETIN SAID.

BEARING DOWN ON RIGA, ALREADY CUT OFF FROM THE WEST, RUSSIAN TROOPS SEIZED THE TOWN OF MADONNA, 75 MILES EAST OF THAT LATVIAN CAPITAL, AND OVERRAN 20 OTHER POPULATED PLACES.

W418PEW

A U.S. FIGHTER PLANE BASE, ENGLAND, AUG.13-(AP)-LT.PAUL R. MELLINGER, YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO, A THUNDERBOLT PILOT, DROPPED A 500-POUND BOMB DIRECTLY ON A 40-CAR GERMAN AMMUNITION TRAIN IN NORMANDY AND, HE RELATED, "THE NEXT INSTANT EVERYTHING SEEMED TO HAVE BROKEN LOOSE. THE SHOCK THREW MY PLANE UPWARDS 100 FEET."

AK812PEW

AN EIGHTH AIR FORCE FIGHTER BOMBER BASE IN ENGLAND, AUG.13-(AP)-AMERICAN FIGHTERBOMBERS, IN A THREE-DAY SUSTAINED ASSAUL, HAVE INFLICTED TREMENDOUS DESTRUCTION ON NAZI RAIL AND HIGHWAY CONVOYS IN THE PARIS AREA AND HAVE BEEN A VITAL FACTOR IN DISORGANIZING ENEMY MOVEMENT FROM THE FRENCH BATTLEFRONTS.

AUG 141944

HERE AT THIS THUNDERBOLT BASE RETURNING FLIERS LATE THIS AFTERNOON GAVE VIVID ACCOUNTS OF THE EFFECTIVENESS OF THEIR DIVE-BOMBING AND STRAFING OF THE RETREATING GERMANS, AND THE SHOOTING UP OF TRAVEL LINES GENERALLY.

LT.COL. BEN RIMERMAN, THE BASE COMMANDER, OF 136 NO.33RD ST., OMAHA, NEB., DESCRIBED TODAY'S OPERATIONS AS "A FIELD DAY IM

AUG 141944

LT.COL. BEN RIMERMAN, THE BASE COMMANDER, OF 136 NO.33RD ST., OMAHA, NEB., DESCRIBED TODAY'S OPERATIONS AS "A FIELD DAY IN THE ENEMY'S BACKFIELD."

THE PLANES AT THIS BASE ALONE CHALKED UP A SCORE IN THE LAST 72 HOURS OF 13 AIRCRAFT DESTROYED, 268 TRUCKS OR VEHICLES DESTROYED OR DAMAGED AND 300 RAILROAD CARS DESTROYED OR DAMAGED.

LT.COL.KENNETH W.GALLOP, FLINT,MICH., WHO LED THE FIRST OF TODAY'S FOUR MISSIONS COMPARED THE ASSIGNMENT TO A HOUND AND HARE CHASE AND SAID HE HAD SEEN LITTLE FIGHTER OPPOSITION AND ONLY SPOTTY FLAK.

LT.RICHARD R.AKARD, 47 1/2 GRAND AVE., PARIS, TEXAS, HAD A BUSY DAY. IN THE MORNING HE STRAFED AND BLEW UP AN FW-190 ON THE GROUND

AND DIVE-BOMBED AND DESTROYED TWO OTHERS LATER ON THE GROUND AND THEN SHOT UP AN AIRFIELD. THEN HE STRAFED A TRAIN AND ATTACKED ONE LOCOMOTIVE HAULING TWO OTHERS, DESTROYING TWO AND TURNING ONE OVER.

HE CAME BACK TO THE BASE FOR LUNCH AND WENT OUT AGAIN AND STRAFED TWO MORE TRAINS, A GERMAN STAFF CAR, TWO TRUCKS AND AN ARMORED CAR.

LT.MAX B.HUNGATE, 2617 WEST COURT ST., FLINT, MICH., SAID THE EARLY MISSION CAUGHT GERMANS ON THE ROAD WITH "TRUCKS AS FAR AS YOU COULD SEE."

CAPT.WILLIAM D.SMITH, BLANCHARD,OKLA., SAID "JERRY MUST BE SHORT OF LOCOMOTIVES AND TRUCKS. WE FOUND AN ENTIRE CONVOY USING HORSES."

LT.RAYMOND ELUHOW, 630 WEST MASTER ST., PHILADELPHIA, SAID THE ROADS WEST OF PARIS WERE "LINED WITH WRECKS."

"THE JERRIES WERE EVEN SHOOTING REVOLVERS AT US," SAID LT.JOHN W.BISHOP, 2319 OLDHAM ST., AUSTIN, TEXAS.

RENNES,FRANCE--1ST ADD RENNES AIRDROME (TOP AYE) X X X COVER OF WOODS.

BUT AMERICAN AND BRITISH BOMBERS HAD LEFT ONLY FOUR OF THE 18 LARGE HANGARS STANDING AND THEY WERE DAMAGED. MORE THAN 90 BOMB CRATERS WERE COUNTED ON THE RUNWAYS.

EVERY VITAL INSTALLATION EXCEPT THE HOSPITAL AND THE FLYING CONTROL OFFICE IN A DEEP UNDERGROUND CONCRETE SHELTER HAD BEEN BLASTED, SEVERAL SMALL BUILDINGS HAD BEEN CAMOUFLAGED TO RESEMBLE HUGE ANT HILLS CAPT.WILLIAM HENDRICKSEN, 142 WEST 107TH STREET, CHICAGO, ILL., REPORTED.

"THE GERMANS ATTEMPTED TO DESTROY EVERYTHING OUR BOMBERS MISSED BUT DIDN'T HAVE ENOUGH TIME," SAID LT.COL.T.J.TRUMBULL OF ALBUQUERQUE, N.MEX.

HW533PEW

AUG 14 1944

AUG 14 1944

30. 24— 17975

BY DON WHITEHEAD

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, AUG 13-(AP)-AMERICAN TROOPS SMASHED FORWARD ALONG THE VIRE-MORTAIN FRONT AT DAWN TODAY IN A DRIVE TO CRUSH THIS HARD CORE OF RESISTANCE WHICH THE GERMANS HAVE STUBBORNLY HELD SINCE THE DOUGHBOYS' SENSATIONAL BREAKTHROUGH OUT OF NORMANDY.

EARLY MORNING MISTS WERE BEGINNING TO MELT WHEN THE ARTILLERY BEGAN TO THUNDER. THE TROOPS ONCE AGAIN WERE ON THE MOVE AGAINST AN ENEMY HARRASSED BY THE SWIFT DRIVE WHICH HAS FLOWED TO THE SOUTH LIKE A HOT STREAM OF LAVA FROM A VOLCANO.

LAST WEEK THE ENEMY HAD FIVE DIVISIONS MASSED IN THE VIRE-MORTAIN SALIENT AND MADE A DESPERATE EFFORT TO CUT THROUGH THE CORRIDOR TO AVRANCHES. TWO OF THEM WERE ARMORED DIVISIONS.

THE AMERICANS CONTAINED THIS THRUST, CHOPPED OFF THE PROBING FINGERS AND YESTERDAY RECAPTURED MORTAIN. TODAY THEY WERE READY TO ATTACK.

IN A FRANTIC EFFORT TO BLOCK AN AMERICAN BREAKTHROUGH, THE GERMANS HAVE BEEN REINFORCED BY AT LEAST ONE DIVISON FROM A REST AREA.

THE GERMANS COMING INTO THE LINE HAD BEEN TOLD THEY WERE TO MOUNT A COUNTEROFFENSIVE AND THAT THEY WERE EXPECTED TO RETAKE ST. LO. OFFICERS HAD TOLD THEM THAT WITHIN 60 DAYS THE AMERICANS WOULD BE DRIVEN BACK INTO THE SEA.

"THEY GOT A NASTY SHOCK WHEN WE HIT THEM," ONE AMERICAN OFFICER SAID.

DESPITE THESE REINFORCEMENTS, HOWEVER, THERE ARE SOME INDICATIONS THE GERMANS HAVE BEEN PULLING MEN AND EQUIPMENT OUT OF THE SALIENT.

THE AIR FORCE YESTERDAY BOMBED AND STRAFED COLUMNS MOVING EASTWARD DURING DAYLIGHT.

Z1042AEW

BY ROGER GREENE (425)

ON THE ORNE RIVER FRONT IN NORMANDY, AUG 13-(AP)-A GERMAN RETREAT TOWARD THE SEINE RIVER ALONG A 30-MILE FRONT WEST OF THE ORNE RIVER WAS IN FULL SWING TODAY.

UNDER TERRIBLE PUNISHMENT FROM ALLIED SKY ARMADAS, FIELD MARSHAL GEN.GUENTHER VON KLUGE WAS TRYING DESPERATELY TO PULL HIS ARMOR AND TROOPS BACK THROUGH A NARROWING GAP SOUTH OF FALAISE--THUS TACITLY CONCEDING THE BIGGEST GERMAN DEFEAT ON THE WESTERN FRONT SINCE D-DAY.

CAUGHT BETWEEN AMERICAN AND BRITISH FIRE ON BOTH FLANKS, GERMAN TROOPS, TRANSPORTS AND TANKS WERE JAMMING ROADS HEADED EAST IN BROAD DAYLIGHT AS URGENCY OF THE CRISIS HEIGHTENED HOURLY.

"VERY LARGE ENEMY MOVEMENT, INCLUDING ARMOR, ALL GOING EAST TOWARD THE ESCAPE HATCH SOUTH OF FALAISE HAS BEEN IN PROGRESS THROUGHOUT THE MORNING," SAID A BRITISH STAFF OFFICER AT FORWARD HEADQUARTERS.

SO FAR IT IS A FIGHTING RETREAT COVERED BY SCREAMS OF TANKS AND THERE IS NO IMMEDIATE SIGN OF CHAOS OR PANIC AS VON KLUGE SEEKS TO EXTRICATE THE BULK OF 20 DIVISIONS FROM THE TRAP.

BUT WITH CLEAR, SUN-SPARKLING SKIES, GREAT FLEETS OF ALLIED BOMBERS AND FIGHTERS INCLUDING ROCKET-FIRING TYPHOONS ARE INFLICTING TREMENDOUS DAMAGE ON THE LONG COLUMNS OF ENEMY TRANSPORT AND PLODDING NAZI TROOPS.

THROUGHOUT THE DAY THERE WAS A CONSTANT DRONE OF AMERICAN AND BRITISH AIRCRAFT SHUTTLING BACK AND FORTH ON THEIR DEADLY MISSIONS.

THE THUNDER OF BOMBS, CHURNING ROADS INTO BLACK GEYSERS OF EARTH, BLASTED VEHICLES AND TORN FLESH, MIXED WITH THE ROAR OF ALLIED ARTILLERY IN A MIGHTY CRESCENDO. CLOUDS OF YELLOW DUST BILLOWED OVER THE LONG GERMAN CORRIDOR OF RETREAT AS IF FROM A GIANT DUST BOWL.

TENS OF THOUSANDS OF ENEMY VEHICLES WERE ESTIMATED TO BE INVOLVED IN THE MASS TREK TOWARD THE SEINE.

THE ULTIMATE GOAL OF VON KLUGE'S RETREAT---WHETHER TO THE SEINE OR BEFORE PARIS ITSELF---WAS STILL A MATTER OF CONJECTURE, BUT THE NAZI MARSHAL MAY ATTEMPT AT LEAST A DELYAING STAND IN FALAISE, DEPENDING OF COURSE, ON WHAT HE IS ABLE TO SAVE FROM THE WRECKAGE.

IT WAS SIFNICICANT, HOWEVER, THAT THERE WERE NO REPORTS OF THE GERMANS TRYING TO BUILD A RESERVE ARMY TO COVER PARIS.

AS GEN.SIR BERNARD L.MONTGOMERY SAID IN HIS MESSAGE TO HIS TROOPS TWO DAYS AGO: "THE GREAT BULK OF THE GERMAN FORCES IN NORTH-WEST EUROPE ARE IN A BAD WAY; WE ARE BEHIND THEM IN MANY PLACES, AND IT IS POSSIBLE SOME OF THEM WILL NOT GET AWAY."

LESS THAN 24 HOURS AFTER MONTGOMERY PUT THE OFFICIAL HALLMARK ON THE PLIGHT OF THE GERMAN ARMIES, VON KLUGE WAS BEGINNING THE RETREAT THAT MAY FORESHADOW THE BEGINNING OF THE END.

AUG 141944

DA152PEW

THE HIGHEST OPTIMISM REIGNED IN BRITISH QUARTERS LATE TODAY BUT IT WAS TEMPERED BY WARNINGS.

LT.GEN.SIR MILES C.DEMPSEY'S SECOND BRITISH ARMY STILL IS PRESSING DOWN AGAINST CONDE-SUR-NOIREAU, ABOUT MIDWAY ALONG THE NORTHERN FLANK OF THE GERMAN ESCAPE CORRIDOR, WHERE IT LAST WAS REPORTED WITHIN LESS THAN THREE MILES OF THAT OBJECTIVE.

OTHER BRITISH COLUMNS STRIKING DOWN TOWARD FALAISE IN "THE BATTLE OF THE RIVERS" BETWEEN THE ORNE AND THE LAIZE ADVANCED NEARLY TWO MILES YESTERDAY FOR A TWO-DAY GAIN OF CLOSE TO FOUR MILES, CAPTURING CESNY AND BOIS-HALBOUT.

THE TOMMIES EXECUTED THIS BROAD THRUST

AUG 141944

THE TOMMIES EXECUTED THIS BROAD THRUST TO THE SOUTH OVER THICKLY-WOODED TERRAIN LONG HELD BY THE GERMANS, WHO ESTABLISHED A SERIES OF "WASHBOARD" DEFENSES--LINES OF DUG-IN GUNS, TANKS AND SLIT TRENCHES SPACED AT INTERVALS OF SEVERAL THOUSAND YARDS ALL THE WAY BACK TO FALAISE.

"THE BATTLE OF THE RIVERS IS A REAL INFANTRY WAR WITH TANKS ABLE TO OPERATE ONLY IN CLOSE SUPPORT OF TROOPS," A HEADQUARTERS OFFICER SAID.

AN ALL-ENGLISH INFANTRY GROUP IS CARRYING ON THE TASK OF SWEEPING THE ENEMY FROM THE BOCAGE COUNTRY BETWEEN THE RIVERS AND LATE TODAY IT WAS MAKING RAPID PROGRESS DESPITE BITTER GERMAN ATTEMPTS TO KEEP OPEN THE ROUTE TO THE FALAISE ESCAPE GAP.

THE FURY OF THE GERMAN DEFENSE WAS HIGH-LIGHTED AT THURY-HARCOURT, WHERE "DEATH OR GLORY" ENEMY TROOPS HELD OUT TO THE LAST BULLET AGAINST BRITISH MOP-UP SQUADS.

THE ENEMY'S SUICIDAL STAND GAINED PRECIOUS TIME. AS HIS DYING SHOTS RANG OUT ABOUT 500 GERMAN REINFORCEMENTS ARRIVED AND FIGHTING STILL WAS IN PROGRESS THROUGH THE STREETS OF THE BATTERED TOWN THIS AFTERNOON.

NAZI DEATH STAND FORCES ALSO COUNTERATTACKED VIOLENTLY IN A SECTOR SOUTHWEST OF THURY-HARCOURT, WHERE THEY THRUST BACK INTO A VILLAGE AND STORMED HILL 229 TO THE WEST.

W218PEW

AUG 141944

BY WILLIAM SMITH WHITE

WITH THE U.S. FIRST ARMY IN FRANCE, AUG. 13-(AP)-AMERICAN ARMOR AND INFANTRY SPRANG FORWARD SOME MILES TODAY IN A GENERAL ATTACK ALONG A HALF-MOON SHAPED FRONT RUNNING SOUTH FROM VIRE, SHOVING THE GERMANS BACK INTO AREAS ALREADY MENACED BY BRITISH AND CANADIANCOLUMNS.

GERMAN WITHDRAWALS WERE NOTED NOT ONLY IN THE SECTION IMMEDIATELY BELOW SOURDEVAL---BETWEEN VIRE AND MORTAIN---BUT IN OTHER SECTORS.

THE FIRST ARMY LUNGE WAS MADE AGAINST VERY STRONG ENEMY FORCES--ALL OR PARTS OF NINE GERMAN DIVISIONS NOW ARE FACING THE AMERICANS.

GERMAN PRISONERS WERE REPORTED TAKEN IN CONSIDERABLE NUMBERS.

W1143AEW

(ADVANCE FOR USE AT 6 P.M. EASTERN WAR TIME, TONIGHT, SUNDAY, AUG.13)

BY FIRST LIEUT.WELDON JAMES, MARINE CORPS PUBLIC RELATIONS OFFICER, OF HORATIO, S.C. AND ARLINGTON, VA.--DISTRIBUTED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

AUG 141944

(ADVANCE)..ABOARD THE USS TEXAS, OFF CHERBOURG (DELAYED)-IN A THREE-HOUR DUEL WITH POWERFUL GERMAN COASTAL BATTERIES TODAY THIS PROUD OLD QUEEN OF THE OLDER FLEET SUSTAINED TWO DIRECT HITS, INNUMERABLE DAMAGING NEAR MISSES, AND HAD TO FIGHT TWO FIRES SPREADING ON THE MAIN DECK.

BUT SHE FOUGHT BACK, LIKE AN AMAZON. THREE TIMES SHE ROARED BACK THROUGH SHELL BURST ALLEY, SWERVING, TWISTING, TURNING, IN A MAZE OF EXPLODING GEYSERS, WITH HER 14-INCH GUNS BLASTING A DEATH-TRAIN OF HALF-TON PROJECTILES AT THE ENEMY FORTS.

MIDWAY OF HER SECOND RUN-PAST, GERMAN GUNNERS SCORED THE PERFECT HIT. A NINE OR 11-INCH SHELL HIT DEAD ON TOP OF THE CONNING TOWER, BLEW UP WITH TERRIFIC NOISE INTO THE NAVIGATION BRIDGE EIGHT FEET DIRECTLY ABOVE, MORTALLY WOUNDED THE HELMSMAN, SERIOUSLY WOUNDING FOUR OTHERS, WRECKING A THIRD OF THE BRIDGE AND SOME OF ITS CONTROLS.

BEFORE THE CHOLING CLOUDS OF YELLOW-BROWN SMOKE HAD CLEARED AWAY, CAPTAIN CHARLES A.BAKER, U.S.N., 50, OF 1228 30TH STREET, N.W., WASHINGTON, D.C., COMMANDING OFFICER, MIRACULOUSLY UNHURT, HAD COMPLETED HIS ORDER: "CLEAR THE BRIDGE...ALL HANDS BELOW...," CARRIED ON, THEN, FROM THE CONNING TOWER.

FLAME FROM OUR OWN BELLOWING GUNS IGNITED GUN COVERS AND GUN LOCKER GEAR ON THE FANTAIL. BLAST BROKE OPEN AMMUNITION BOXES, SCATTERED 40-MILLIMETER SHELLS OVER THE HOT DECK. FORTY-FIVE CALIBER BULLETS, SPRUNG BY CONCUSSION FROM THE MAGAZINE OF AN OFFICER'S REVOLVER, BEGAN EXPLODING IN THE MIDST OF THE ROLLING, HALF-BROKEN SHELLS.

MARINE CREWS DASHED IN TO THROW THE DANGEROUSLY WARMING AMMUNITION OVERBOARD, WHILE SAILORS HELPED EXTINGUISH THE FLAMES. MARINE CAPTAIN A.A. BERNARD, 26, OF 565 BOSWELL AVENUE, NORWICH, CONN., DIRECTING THE LEATHERNECKS, HAD TO PULL HIS MEN BACK, SEND THEM IN AGAIN BETWEEN SALVOS--OUR 14-INCH GUNS BLASTING JUST OVER THEIR HEADS WOULD KILL THEM. BUT THEY GOT THE AMMUNITION OVERBOARD, AND THE SAILORS EXTINGUISHED THE FIRE.

GERMAN SHELLS CONTINUED TO ROAR OVER US, OR TO FALL JUST SHORT OF US, HURTLING SHELL FRAGMENTS AND MOUNTAINS OF WATER OVER THE DECKS.

A10WX

ANOTHER STRICK -- A 240-MILLIMETER ARMOR-PIERCER THAT BLASTED THROUGH THE PORT BOW, FELL WITHOUT EXPLODING INTO THE EMPTY CABIN OF M.A. CLARK, SHIP'S CLERK, U.S.N., 38, OF ALACHUA, FLA., AND LAY THERE, A BOUCING THREAT EACH TIME OUR MIGHTY SALVOS ROCKED THE SHIP.

THE SHELL DISPOSAL OFFICER, LITUTENANT (JG) JAMES D.FORD, U.S.N.R., 26, OF 117 WEST 13TH STREET, NEW YORK CITY, MOVED IN WITH HIS CREW, SMOTHERED IT WITH MATTRESSES, DECIDED TO NURSE IT ALONG BACK TO A BRITISH PORT.

IN THE MIDST OF THE TORMENT, AN ADMIRING DESTROYER AHEAD FLASHED BACK WITH BATTLE-CRY FAMOUS SINCE THE LAST WAR: "COME ON, TEXAS!"

AT THE END THE APPRECIATIVE COMMODORE OF THE MINESWEEPER FLOTILLA SIGNALLED THANKS "FOR STAYING IN THERE WITH US AND TAKING ALL THE SLUGGING -- OTHERWISE SEVERAL OF US WOULD CERTAINLY HAVE BEEN SUNK."

AND THE ARMY, FROM THE COAST, NOTING THAT SEVERAL OF THE ENEMY FORTRESSES HAD BEEN SILENCED, SIGNALLED ITS THANKS TO THE ENTIRE FLEET FOR A SORELY-NEEDED JOB "WELL DONE."

THAT FLEET INCLUDED THE AMERICAN BATTLESHIPS NEVADA AND ARKANSAS, THE CRUISERS TUSCALOOSA AND QUINCY, THE BRITISH CRUISERS GLASGOW,

AND ENTERPRISE, AN ANGLO-AMERICAN DESTROYER FLOTILLA, AND THE MINESWEEPERS.

ONE OF OUR DESTROYERS, THE USS O'BRIEN, SUSTAINED A DIRECT HIT IN THIS ACTION, AND 10 OF HER COMPANY WERE KILLED AND 12 WOUNDED. ANOTHER DESTROYER, THE USS BARTON, ESCAPED WITH INSIGNIFICANT DAMAGE.

AUG 141944

THE FLEET COMMANDER WAS REAR ADMIRAL MORTON L.DEYO, U.S.N., 57, OF KITTERY POINT, MAINE, ABOARD THE TUSCALOOSA. HIS FIRST BOMBARDMENT FORCE HEADED BY THE NEVADA, TACKLED THE GERMAN FORTIFICATIONS ON THE WESTERN LINE OF THE CHERBOURG PENINSULA. HIS SECOND, COMMANDED BY REAR ADMIRAL CARLETON F.BRYANT, U.S.N., 52, ALSO OF SEARSPORT, MAINE, ABOARD HIS FLAGSHIP TEXAS, ENGAGED THOSE ON THE EASTERN LINE.

IT WAS AN ENGAGEMENT OF A TYPE RARE IN THE HISTORY OF THE U.S. NAVY, UNTHINKABLE SAVE FOR THE MAGIC OF MODERN NAVAL GUNNERY OR THE ARMY'S DESPERATE NEED. THE GERMAN FORTRESSES WERE BRISTLING WITH SIX, NINE AND 11-INCH GUNS. THE AREA WAS HEAVILY MINED. THERE WAS NO ELEMENT OF SURPRISE; THE GERMANS HAD LONG EXPECTED THE FLEET, AND IT CAME, IN BROAD NOON-DAY DAYLIGHT, SEARCHING FOR ITS TARGETS ALONG A COAST OBSCURED BY HAZE AND SMOKE.

WE WERE WELL WITHIN GERMAN RANGE LONG BEFORE 12 O'CLOCK. THE GERMANS HELD THEIR FIRE. WITH THE TEXAS LEADING, WE MOVED IN CLOSER, NARROWING THE DISTANCE TO 14,000 YARDS. THE ARKANSAS OPENED UP FIRST, BUT OUR PLANE SPOTTER, HOVERING OVER THE DENSE HAZE AND BATTLE-SMOKE OF THE COAST, HAD DIFFICULTY LOCATING OUR THEN NON-FIRING TARGETS. OUR SHORE FIRE CONTROL PARTY, INLAND, HAD THE SAME HAZE-OBSCURED VISIBILITY AS WE.

THE BOOMING GUNS OF THE ARKANSAS WERE OUR CHIEF INTEREST AT ONE MOMENT.

THE NEXT MOMENT THERE WERE GEYSERS IN THE SEA 400 YARDS AHEAD, STRADDLING THE NEAREST DESTROYER. THEN THE GEYSERS WERE RISING ABOUT

AUG 141944

US.

THE BATTLE WAS JOINED. SEVERAL LONG MINUTES LATER WE HAD OUR TARGET -- FOUND BY ITS FLASHES AS SEEN BY OUR SPOTTERS ALOFT -- AND ENDED OUR AGONY OF INACTION WITH MIGHTY SALVOS FROM THE MAIN BATTERIES.

GERMAN SHELLS ROARED OVER US, FELL SHORT OF US, DEAD AHEAD, DEAD AFT, ALONG THE WATER LINE. THE MIGHTY OLD "TEE", SPED UP, SLOWED, SWERVED IN OBEDIENCE TO HER CALCULATING CAPTAIN.

SIXTY-FIVE TIMES, HER OFFICERS COUNTED, THE GERMANS STRADDLED OR NEAR-MISSED THE TEXAS, HURLING BACK HER DEFIANCE OVER THE INTERMITTENT SMOKE-SCREEN OF THE DESTROYERS AND SWEEPS.

ON THE NAVIGATION BRIDGE, THE TENSION WAS LIGHTENED BY INNUMERABLE SMOKES, REPEATED JOKES ABOUT UNSTEADY HANDS. AS CALM AS THE BUSY CAPTAIN WERE THE NAVIGATOR, LIEUT. COMMANDER LOUIS P.SPEAR, U.S.N., 27, OF 2924 RUSSELL STREET, BERKELEY, CALIF., AND THE COMMUNICATIONS OFFICER, LIEUT.FORREST S.DRUMMOND, U.S.N.R., 33, OF 108 EAST 38TH STREET, NEW YORK, CITY, EX-ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR AT THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO LAW SCHOOL.

AT HIS USUAL STATION PORTSIDE WAS THE CHAPLAIN, YOUTHFUL LIEUTENANT CLARENCE LE GRAND MOODY, U.S.N.R., 30, OF 700 EAST MAIN STREET, DILLON, S.C. AND 45 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY, THE SHIPS'S BROADCASTER, DOING A MASTERFULLY RESTRAINED JOB OF DESCRIBING, PLAY-BY-PLAY, EVERY BIT OF THE ACTION.

I MOVED SLIGHTLY TOWARD THE STARBOARD DOOR. THEN THE SHELL STRUCK.

THE NOISE AND THE BLAST WERE INDESCRIBABLE, THEN THERE WAS WARM, CHOLING YELLOW-BROWN SMOKE EVERYWHERE. THE BACK OF MY LEFT KNEE FELT AS IF A MULE HAD KICKED IT INWARD, WHILE A CYCLONE BLEW ME FORWARD.

30 24— 17977

A12WX

I STUMBLED, HALF BLINDED, DAZED AND CHOKING, OUT ON TO THE OPEN BRIDGE, WITH SEVERAL OTHERS. THE CAPTAIN HAD TURNED ABOUT FROM THE STARBOARD RAIL, WAS LOOKING IN THE BRIDGE: "CLEAR THE BRIDGE... ALL HANDS BELOW."

LIEUT.COMMANDER SPEAR, INSIDE STILL, REPEATED IT, ADDED, "TAKE IT SLOW."

AUG 141944

THE CAPTAIN A MOMENT BEFORE HAD GIVEN THE ORDER TO THE HELMSMAN, "RIGHT, HARD RUDDER!" NOW HE HAD TO GET TO THE CONNING TOWER, IMMEDIATELY CHANGE HIS PREVIOUS ORDER TO "STEADY AS YOU GO," AND THEREBY AVERT A POSSIBLE COLLISSION WITH THE ARKANSAS OR OTHER SHIPS.

THIS HE DID, AS IF THE WHOLE PERFORMANCE WERE A DAILY HABIT.

INSIDE THE BRIDGE, WITH THE SMOKE CLEARING, LIEUT.COMMANDER SPEAR AND CHAPLAIN MOODY, AIDED BY SHIP'S CLERK CLARK AND SEVERAL YEOMEN, ADMINISTERED MORPHINE TO THE WOUNDED...ALL STRUCK DOWN WITHIN A FEW FEET OF THE HELMSMAN, CHRISTEN N.CHRISTENSEN, QUARTERMASTER, THIRD CLASS, U.S.N.R., 21, OF 774 53RD STREET, BROOKLYN, NEW YORK, AGAINST WHOME MOST OF THE BLAST AND THE FRAGMENTS FLEW...STANCHED THEIR CUTS UNTIL STRETCHER-BEARERS AND MEDICAL CORPSMEN ARRIVED. AMONG THEIR AIDES WERE WILL J. EDDLEMAN, BUGLE MASTER, FIRST CLASS, U.S.N.R., 22, OF 305 WASHINGTON AVENUE, BROOKLYN, NEW YORK, AND THE CAPTAIN'S MARINE ORDERLY, PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, WILLIAM R.BUCKHOUT, OF 25 NORTH DUTCHER STREET, IRVINGTON, NEW JERSEY.

ELSEWHERE ON THE SHIP THERE WERE OTHER WOUNDED. BUT THE TEXAS' TRADITIONAL LUCK WAS STILL WITH HER. DESPITE THE VIRTUAL PERFECTION OF THE GERMAN SHOOTING, THERE WERE NO MORE DIRECT HITS. DESPITE THAT MIRACLE-HIT AT THE BASE OF THE BRIDGE, THE DAMAGE, THOUGH EXTENSIVE, WAS SUPERFICIAL, THE CASUALTIES INCREDIBLY FEW, COMPARED WITH WHAT IT MIGHT HAVE BEEN.

THE TEXAS WAS STILL FIGHTING, BLASTING AWAY NOW WITH TERRIFIC EIGHT-GUN SALVOS. I WATCHED THE REMAINDER OF THE BATTLE FROM THE CONNING TOWER, WHENCE, BEFORE I ARRIVED, I SAW TWO CORPSMEN SUPPORTING THE GUNNERY OFFICER, LIEUT.COMMANDER RICHARD B. DERICKSON, U.S.N., 34, OF WILLOW HILL HOUSE, MINISINK, PENNSYLVANIA, AND 2417 PRESCOTT AVENUE, S.W., SEATTLE, WASHINGTON, AND TAKING HIM BELOW. THERE WAS A GASH IN HIS HEAD. HE HAD BEEN INSIDE THE 14-INCH ARMOR OF THE CONNING TOWER. THE GERMAN SHELL HAD SHEARED OFF THE MAIN BATTERY FIRE DIRECTOR HANGING JUST OVER LIEUT. COMMANDER DERICKSON'S HEAD. BY A MIRACLE, THE HUGE WEIGHT ONLY GRAZED LIEUT. COMMANDER DERICKSON. HIS CONDITION, THE DOCTORS SAY, IS GOOD.

THE FLEET WAS TAKING PUNISHMENT. OTHER SHIPS WERE HIT. ADMIRAL DEYO DECIDED TO "DOUBLE THE DOSE" -- THE BOMBARDMENT LASTED THREE HOURS INSTEAD OF THE ORIGINALLY PLANNED 90 MINUTES, UNTIL THE ARMY CALLED IT OFF AT 3 O'CLOCK.

WE HEADED FOR OUR PORT IN BRITAIN, BATTERED AND SHAKEN, BUT FULL OF A THANKFUL SPIRIT.

(END ADVANCE FOR USE AT 6 P.M. EASTERN WAR TIME, TONIGHT, SUNDAY, AUG.13)

AUG 141944

VH111PEW

A U.S.NINTH AIR FORCE BASE, FRANCE, AUG.12-(DELAYED)-(AP)-TEN PILOTS WHO REPORTED THEY LAY IN WAIT AND POUNCED ON A GERMAN ARMORED COLUMN TODAY AS IT WAS FLUSHED FROM WOODS BY AMERICAN ARTILLERY AND TANKS CLAIMED DESTRUCTION OF TWO PANTHER TANKS AND A LARGE NUMBER OF MOTOR VEHICLES.

THE PILOTS SAID THEY LEFT FOUR OF THE TANKS BURNING AND SHOT UP SEVERAL STAFF CARS, SELF-PROPELLED GUNS AND TRUCKS.

"GERMAN PANZER TROOPS WERE SPEARHEADING A RETREAT INSTEAD OF AN ATTACK," DECLARED LT.COL.JOHN REASE, BOISE, IDAHO, WHO LED THE DIVE-BOMBER MISSION. "WE LEFT THEM SCATTERING LIKE ANTS FROM A DISTURBED ANT HILL."

AUG 141944

"OUR ARMOR WAS RUNNING THEM OUT," SAID LT.EARL STOEPPELWORTH, LAKEWOOD, OHIO, "THEN WE WERE STRAFING AND BOMBING THEM. IT WAS REALLY A FIELD DAY."

LT.ELTON DEEHLMANN, 269 CAVER ST., BROOKLYN, SAID: "WE HAD SUCH GOOD LUCK ON THE FIRST PASS WE WENT BACK AND HOSED THEM A SECOND TIME."

SAID LT.HARRIS W.MANI, 148 79TH ST., MILWAUKEE,WIS.: "THE TOTAL BAG SHOULD BE MUCH BIGGER THAN OUR FIRST CLAIMS."

AUG 141944

HW417PEW

BY ROBERT C.WILSON

WITH THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY IN FRANCE AUG 13-(AP)-THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY'S FLANKING PROBE NORTHWEST OF FALAISE REACHED ANOTHER TWO MILES TODAY TO LE MESNIL AND LE BIQUET IN THE FACE OF STIFF GERMAN RESISTANCE, AND STRENGTHENED FURTHER THE ORNE-LAIZE RIVER LINE WHERE THE CANADIANS AND THE BRITISH ARE FIRMLY ESTABLISHED.

THIS LINE NOW RUNS ROUGHLY FROM ESSON TO BOIS-HALBOUT AND SCATTERED GERMANS IN A POCKET FOUR OR FIVE MILES SQUARE ARE BEING MOPPED UP.

K746AEW

BRITISH ELEMENTS ON THE EASTERN SIDE OF THE CAEN-FALAISE ROAD SALIENT BEAT OFF ARMORED GERMAN COUNTERATTACKS AT FIERVILLE, LA CAMPAGNE AND ON THE NORTH BANK OF THE LAISON RIVER NEAR MAIZIERES.

THE LULL NORTH OF FALAISE WAS BROKEN ONLY BY HEAVY PATROLLING AND ARTILLERY EXCHANGES.

CONSIDERABLE ENEMY TRAFFIC TO THE EAST WAS DETECTED OUT OF FALAISE AND IT WAS REPORTED THE GERMANS MAY HAVE PULLED OUT OF VILLY, JUST EAST OF FALAISE. CANADIAN ARTILLERY WAS WITHIN RANGE OF THE FALAISE-LISIEUX ROAD.

RAF FIGHTER BOMBERS ATTACKED ENEMY STRONGPOINTS ALONG THE ENTIRE GERMAN CONTAINING ARC AND FARTHER IN THE NAZI REAR DESTROYED 119 MOTOR TRANSPORT AND DAMAGED 100 AND DESTROYED TWO TANKS AND DAMAGED FOUR OTHERS.

KK806AEW

ROME, AUG. 13--(AP)--A STORY OF MUSSOLINI'S PASSIONATE LOVE AFFAIR WITH A YOUNG ROMAN GIRL NAMED CLARETTA PETACCI IN THE MONTHS BEFORE HIS DOWNFALL WAS BEING HAWKED IN THE STREETS OF ROME TODAY AT FIVE CENTS A COPY.

AUG 141944

THE BOOKLET TELLS THIS STORY:

IL DUCE MET THE GIRL AT OSTIA, ROME'S BATHING BEACH, AND INVITED HER TO CALL AT HIS OFFICE THE NEXT DAY. SHE ACCEPTED THE INVITATION AND WHEN SHE SAID SHE LIKED FLOWERS MUSSOLINI TOLD HER HIS WW GARDEN WAS AT HER DISPOSITION.

AUG 141944

ON A VISIT TO THE GARDEN THE FOLLOWING DAY CLARETTA WAS SURPRISED TO FIND MUSSOLINI THERE DISGUISED AS A GARDENER.

"YOU ARE THE MOST BEAUTIFUL FLOWER OF MY GARDEN," WERE THE OPENING WORDS OF THE LOVE AFFAIR.

MUSSOLINI GAVE THE GIRL A VILLA OUTSIDE ROME, SHOWERED HER W TH HEFTS, AND HELD AN EXHIBITION F PAINTINGS WHICH SHE TOLD HIM WERE HERS BUT WHICH WERE ACTUALLY DONE FORHER BY A HACK ARTIST.

THE BOOKLET SAID HE PROCLAIMED THE PAINTINGS MARVELOUS

AND PURCHASED ALL 40 OF THEM.

MUSSOLINI ALSO GAVE CLARETTA'S SISTER A STELLAR ROLE IN AN ITALIAN FILM AND HER ACTING WAS SOMETHING THAT HAD ALL ITALY WONDERING HOW SHE GOT THE JOB, THE BOOKLET ~~EX~~ ADDED.

CLARETTA'S PET NAME FOR IL DUCE WAS "BIBI", THE BOOKLET SAID.

AUG 141944

RCA KENNEDYS THROUGH SECOND 0300 MB/ 9A

ROME, AUG.13-(AP)-VICE ADMIRAL H.K.HEWITT TODAY AWARDED THE LEGION OF MERIT TO TWO MEMBERS OF HIS STAFF AND BRONZE STARS TO SEVEN OTHERS ABOARD HIS FLAGSHIP IN A MEDITERRANEAN PORT.

LT.HARRIS A.JAMES OF NEW YORK CITY AND LT.ROBERT B.KERR, 1702 EDGEFIELD, DALLAS, TEX., RECEIVED THE LEGION OF MERIT FOR OUTSTANDING SERVICES IN THE LANDINGS IN SICILY AND AT SALERNO.

BRONZE STARS FOR DISTINGUISHED ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICES WERE GIVEN TO CAPT.E.J.GILLAM, WASHINGTON, D.C.; LT.COMDR.LUTHER F. ROWKAS, WASHINGTON, D.C.; LT.COMDR. GERALD S.FITZGERALD, MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.; LT.EUGENE F.PATTERSON, LOCKPORT, N.Y.; LT.(JG) KENNETH R. STEINMETZ, CHICAGO, ILL.; ENSIGN EARL C.PREBLE, PORTLAND, ORE.; LT.CMDR.SAMUEL A.JANNEY, GLOUCESTER, VA.

HW420PEW AUG 141944

BY DANIEL DE LUCE

MOSCOW, AUG. 13-(AP)-THE RED ARMY HURLED DIVISIONS OF BALTIC VOLUNTEERS INTO A BATTLE OF EXTERMINATION TODAY AGAINST AN ESTIMATED 200,000 GERMANS STILL LEFT ON THE SOIL OF THE VOLUNTEER SOLDIERS' NATIVE LAND.

UNDER THREE RED ARMY COMMANDERS--GEN.IVAN BAGRAMIAN, GEN.ANDREI YEREMENKO AND GEN.IVAN MASLENNIKOV--TENS OF THOUSANDS OF LITHUANIAN, LETTISH AND ESTONIAN VETERANS ARE HACKING THE ISOLATED ENEMY NORTHERN ARMY GROUP INTO FRAGMENTS BY A SERIES OF SEAWARD DRIVES.

FEW OF THE FAMILIES OF THESE FIGHTING SONS OF THE BALTIC REPUBLICS HAVE ESCAPED PERSECUTION DURING THE NAZI OCCUPATION. MANY LOST THEIR WIVES, CHILDREN AND PARENTS BECAUSE OF IMPRISONMENT AND OTHER MISTREATMENT. ALL THEIR PROPERTY WAS CONFISCATED LONG AGO.

THE LETTISH DIVISION WAS ENGAGED IN A SECTOR ALMOST WITHIN THE ARTILLERY RANGE OF THE OUTER DEFENSES OF RIGA, PRIZE LATVIAN PORT.

BY DANIEL DE LUCE (150)

MOSCOW, AUG. 13-(AP)-RED INFANTRY STORMED WITHIN 17 MILES OF EAST PRUSSIA TODAY FROM THE BIALYSTOK BULGE, WHICH WIDENED NORTHEAST OF WARSAW INTO A CRUCIAL DRIVE TO OUTFLANK THE POLISH CAPITAL.

WITH THEIR FLANKS FIRMLY LINKED, THE ARMIES OF MARSHAL KONSTANTIN K.ROKOSSOVSKY AND GEN.G.F.ZAKHAROV DROVE THE GERMANS FROM MORE THAN 180 SETTLEMENTS IN A MAMMOTH ONSLAUGHT ACROSS THE MAZE OF TRIBUTARY STREAMS BETWEEN WARSAW AND THE SOUTHERN BORDER OF EAST PRUSSIA.

IN DEVASTATING BLOWS ALONG THE MAIN HIGHWAY AND RAIL LINE INTO EAST PRUSSIA FROM BIALYSTOK, ADVANCING RED RIFLE UNITS SUPPORTED BY TANKS AND STORMOVIK PLANES APPROACHED TO WITHIN 27 MILES OF LYCK.

SOVIET TROOPS FANNED OUT ALONG THE WIDE TRUNK OF THE BIEBRZA RIVER AND LAUNCHED ATTACKS FOR BRIDGEHEADS ON THE NORTHERN BANK FROM WHICH TO PRESS ON TOWARD LYCK. OTHER RED COLUMNS WERE FIGHTING DUE 3'S-WARD TOWARD THE COMMUNICATIONS HUB OF LOMZA AND WERE 70 MILES FROM THE HISTORIC BATTLEFIELD OF TANNENBERG.

DY811PEW

THE RED BREAKTHROUGH NORTHEAST OF WARSAW ALREADY HAD SPANNED THREE ARMS OF THE BIEBRZA AND OUSTED THE ENEMY FROM BOTH BANKS OF THE UPPER BUG RIVER.

THE MOMENTUM OF THE SOVIET OFFENSIVE SEEMED ACTUALLY TO BE INCREASING DESPITE THE DIFFICULT SWAMPY GROUND WHERE THE GERMANS MADE SUCCESSIVE STANDS. UNLESS THE NAZIS CAN STABILIZE QUICKLY THAT BIG SECTOR, A WEDGE WILL BE DRIVEN DEEP BETWEEN THE GERMAN FORCES IN EAST PRUSSIA AND WARSAW, LEAVING THE LATTER BY-PASSED AND ITS STRATEGIC DEFENSIVE VALUE NULLIFIED.

HJ907PEW

ROKOSSOVSKY STRENGTHENED HIS HAND FOR A BID TO ENCIRCLE WARSAW BY CLEARING THE ENEMY FROM THE KAMIENCZYK AREA ALONG THE BUG RIVER 31 MILES TO THE NORTH BUT LIBERATION OF THE POLISH CAPITAL TOOK SECOND RANK AS A RED ARMY OBJECTIVE, TOPPED BY THE GROWING PROSPECT OF RIPPING THE EAST PRUSSIAN FLANK WIDE OPEN FROM THE SOUTH.

THIS GREATER DANGER WAS FORESEEN BY THE GERMAN COMMAND SEVERAL WEEKS AGO BUT IT HAD FLUNG A LARGE SHARE OF ITS AVAILABLE STRATEGIC RESERVES AGAINST GEN. IVAN CHERNIAKOVSKY'S THREAT AT THE NORTHEASTERN EDGE OF EAST PRUSSIA, APPARENTLY HOPING TO INFLICT A SERIOUS SETBACK TO ALL THE RED ARMY'S INVASION PLAN.

HJ1106PEW

STOCKHOLM, AUG. 13-(AP)-THE NEWSPAPER ALLEHANDA, QUOTING DISPATCHES FROM MARIEHAMN, FINLAND, SAID TODAY ANOTHER CONTINGENT OF GERMAN TROOPS, SIZE UNKNOWN, HAD LEFT FINLAND THROUGH THE PORT OF TURKU.

AUG 141944

HJ704PEW

NIMITZ BOX (100)

U.S.PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS,PEARL HARBOR,AUG.13-(AP)-AMERICA'S SECRET WEAPON AGAINST JAPAN? IT'S HER FIGHTING MEN.

ADM.CHESTER W.NIMITZ SAID SO TODAY AT A PRESS CONFERENCE WHEN ASKED IF A SECRET WEAPON WAS USED IN THE MARIANAS.

"SUCH DISCUSSION SHOULD BE DISCOURAGED," HE SAID.

"OUR BEST SECRET WEAPON IS THE QUALITY OF OUR SERVICE PERSONNEL WHO GO OUT TO MEET THE JAPANESE. I THINK THEIR ABILITY TO MEET AND DEFEAT THE ENEMY ANYWHERE IS A REAL SURPRISE TO THE JAPANESE WHO MOVED SO FAST AGAINST THE ORIENTALS BUT UNDER-ESTIMATED THE OCCIDENTALS."

EA8PPW NM

BY MORRIE LANDSBERG (200)

WITH U.S. ARMY FORCES,GUAM,AUG.8-(DELAYED)-(AP)-(VIA NAVY RADIO)-MORE THAN TWO WEEKS OF ACTION ON GUAM HAS PROVED THAT SOLDIERS OF THE 77TH ARMY DIVISION, MOSTLY FROM THE EASTERN STATES, CAN TAKE ON JUNGLE AND JAPANESE--AND CONQUER BOTH.

WHEN THE 77TH, KNOWN AS THE STATUE OF LIBERTY DIVISION, DREW THE TASK OF TAKING MT.SANTA ROSA, A KEY HIGH POINT OF NORTHERN GUAM, THE DIVISION'S COMMANDER, TALL, VIGOROUS MAJ.GEN. ANDREW D.BRUCE. OBVIOUSLY WAS PLEASED.

"THIS IS WHAT WE HAVE BEEN WAITING FOR," HE SAID. THE GUAM FIGHTING WAS THE FIRST COMBAT FOR THE DIVISION AFTER NEARLY FOUR YEARS OF TRAINING.

AS THE SANTA ROSA BATTLE OPENED, LT.COL.THOMAS B.MANUEL, FT.LAUDERDALE,FLA. AND B

IG.GEN.ED

AUG 141944

AS THE SANTA ROSA BATTLE OPENED, LT.COL.THOMAS B.MANUEL, FT.LAUDERDALE,FLA., AND BRIG.GEN.EDWIN H.RANDALL, MUNCIE,IND., SCANNED CRAYON-MARKED MAPS AT REGIMENTAL HEADQUARTERS.

CAPT.ERNEST DAMERON, BESSEMER,N.C., CAME UP WITH A REPORT THAT A TANK SHELL HIT A NEARBY TREE AND A JAPANESE TUMBLED OUT OF IT. RANDALL AND MANUEL CHUCKLED.

DAMERON RECEIVED A FIELD TELEPHONE MESSAGE A FEW MINUTES LATER AND SAID, "THOSE TROOPS JUST KNOCKED OUT TWO PILLBOXES."

"GOOD STUFF," REPLIEDIMANUEL. "NOW WE'RE MOVING."

AT A TEMPORARY ROADSIDE COMMAND POST, CAPT.JAMES A.GRIMSLEY, 22-YEAR-OLD COMPANY COMMANDER FROM FLORENCE,S.C., ANNOUNCED:

"WE JUST GOT A REPORT THAT WE'VE KNOCKED OUT A SHACK THAT WAS HIDING A VERY TROUBLESOME PILLBOX."

EASTERNERS OR NOT, THE MEN OF THE 77TH WERE ON THEIR WAY TO TAKE MT.SANTA ROSA.

HW932PPW NM

BY FRED HAMPSON (220)

AITAPE, BRITISH NDW GUINEA, AUG 10-(DELAYED)-(AP)-THE LAST OF THE JAPANESE FORCE HURLED AGAINST AMERICAN LINES 20 MILES SOUTHEAST OF AITAPE, BRITISH NEW GUINEA, HAS BEEN COMPLETELY SMASHED.

AUG 141944

"I DOUBT THAT THEY'LL EVER BE ABLE TO RE-FORM FOR ANOTHER ORGANIZED PUSH," OBSERVED BRIG.GEN.JULIAN CUNNINGHAM OF SAN ANTONIO, TEX., COMMANDER ON THE DRINUMOR RIVER FRONT.

FAILURE OF THE JAPANESE ATTEMPT TO BREAK OUT OF THE 130-MILE-LONG WEWAK AREA IN WHICH THEY HAVE BEEN TRAPPED SINCE LAST APRIL--AN ATTEMPT WHICH BEGAN WITH STRONG ATTACKS IN MID-JULY--HAS SEALED THE DOOM OF THE SURVIVING ELEMENTS OF GEN.HATAZO ADACHI'S 18TH ARMY.

THE FINAL ATTACKING FORCES WERE SCATTERED AT AFUA VILLAGE, ON THE AMERICAN RIGHT FLANK, WHERE THE JAPANESE ATTEMPTED IN A SUCCESSION OF VICIOUS CHARGES THIS WEEK TO OUTFLANK THE AMERICANS AND ROLL THEM INTO THE SEA.

MORE THAN 8,000 JAPANESE HAVE BEEN KILLED IN THE AREA DURING THE PAST MONTH, FOR A LOSS OF 285 ALLIED TROOPS KILLED AND 23 MISSING.

DETERMINED PATROL ACTION, CONSTANT BOMBING BY AUSTRALIAN BEAUFORTS, ATTACKS BY FIFTH AIR FORCE STRAFERS AND TREMENDOUS ARTILLERY FIRE BROKE THE JAPANESE 41ST, 20TH AND 51ST DIVISIONS INTO SMALL GROUPS NOW EITHER IN FLIGHT ACROSS THE HILLS OR LOST IN THE JUNGLE.

CUNNINGHAM SAID HIS MEN, SOME OF WHOM HAVE BEEN AT THE FRONT FOR 40 DAYS, NOW FACES ONLY MOPPING-UP WORK. HE SAID IT WAS DOUBTFUL THAT THE TWO REGIMENTS OF JAPANESE LEFT AT WEWAK WOULD BE BROUGHT AGAINST DOUGHBOYS WHO HAD SLAUGHTERED THE ENEMY AT A RATIO OF BETTER THAN 30 TO ONE.

MM903PPW NM

BY TECH.SERG.THEODORE C.LINK, 5322 CAVOY COURT,ST.LOUIS, MO., A MARINE CORPS COMBAT CORRESPONDENT. DISTRIBUTED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUG 141944

(WX) ASAN BEACH, GUAM (DELAYED)-DARING JAPANESE TROOPS BROKE THROUGH THE MARINE LINES AT DAWN AND ATTACKED THE THIRD MARINE DIVISION HOSPITAL, WHICH UNDERWENT A SIMILAR EXPERIENCE ON BOUGAINVILLE ISLAND LAST NOVEMBER. THE ATTACK HERE ROUTED 270 PATIENTS AND TEMPORARILY DISRUPTED THE ENTIRE HOSPITAL UNTIL THE JAPS WERE REPULSED AFTER A BITTER FIGHT.

THE NAVY FIELD HOSPITAL WAS STRUNG ALONG THE NIBUAL RIVER VALLEY NEAR ASAN POINT. A ROAD LED BACK INTO THE HILLS OF NIBUAL RIDGE AND IT WAS DOWN THIS ROAD THAT JAPANESE TROOPS INFILTRATED. MARINE GUB WERE ON THE ALERT FOR POSSIBLE TROUBLE.

AUG 141944

AS DAWN BROKE A GROUP OF 25 JAPANESE TROOPS, LED BY A CAPTAIN A LIEUTENANT, CAME CHARGING DOWN THE ROAD LEADING INTO THE HOSPITAL. THE JAP ATTACKERS WERE FLANKED BY SNIPERS AND MACHINE GUNNERS ON THE HILLSIDES.

AS THE PATIENTS FLED, CLAD ONLY IN BLANKETS OR BRIEF HOSPITAL SMOCKS, MARINE AND NAVY DEFENDERS SPRANG INTO ACTION. MARINE CORP. EULICE L.LOVERY, WHO FORMERLY WORKED AS A PACKING HOUSE EMPLOYE IN HIS HOME CITY OF DUBLIN, GEORGIA, WAS WASHING HIS FACE WHEN HE SAW THE JAPS.

LOVERY GRABBED HIS CARBINE AND LET GO WHEN THEY WERE 20 YARDS FROM HIM. HE KNOCKED DOWN THE CAPTAIN AND FIVE OF THE JAP SOLDIERS. THE OFFICER AND ONE PRIVATE BEGAN TO CRAWL AND HE FIRED AT THEM.

"THEY WERE 'YIP-YIPPING' AND COMING FAST," SAID LOVERY. "I DISTINCTLY HEARD THE CRY, 'CHARGE,' AND SAW THE JAP OFFICER

WITH THE SWORD. IN ALL I LET LOOSE 5 SHOTS AT THEM.

OTHER NAVY MEN AND MARINES TOOK UP THE BATTLE AND 17 JAPANESE WERE SLAIN ALONG THE ROAD AND IN THE BRUSH ON EACH SIDE OF THE ROAD.

MEANWHILE NAVY SURGEONS WERE OPERATING BY THE FIRST DAYLIGHT ON A MARINE RIFLEMAN WHO HAD LOST HIS FINGERS AND PART OF A HAND IN A BATTLE IN ANOTHER SECTOR. THE SURGERY TENT WAS IN THE CENTER OF THE CAMP. A JAPANESE MORTAR, FOLLOWED BY TWO OTHERS IN RAPID SUCCESSION, RIPPED THROUGH THE TOP OF THE TENT. SNIPER FIRE BROUGHT EVERYONE INTO THE HOSPITAL TO HIS KNEES.

AUG 141944

LT.COMM.CLARENCE C.PIEPERGERDES, MEDICAL CORPS, U.S.N.R., OF BISBEE,ARIZ., RALLIED ALL HOSPITAL PERSONNEL, MARINES, AND AMBULATORY PATIENTS, AND THEY ERECTED ADDITIONAL SANDBAG EMPLACEMENTS. COMMANDER RAYMOND R.CALLAWAY, MEDICAL CORPS, U.S.N.R., ROUTE 2, SHADES MOUNTAIN, BIRMINGHAM, ALA., COMMANDING OFFICER OF THE HOSPITAL AND A VETERAN OF THE BOUGAINVILLE ATTACK, CALLED FOR HELP FROM NEARBY MARINE FORCES TO DEFEND THE HOSPITAL.

TROOPS FROM DIVISION HEADQUARTERS, ENGINEERING TROOPS, AND PORTIONS OF SIGNAL AND OUT OUTFITS WERE RUSHED INTO THE SITUATION TO AVOID CALLING ON LINE REGIMENTS, WHO WERE BUSY ON THE BEACHHEAD PERIMETER AT THE FRONT LINES.

THE REINFORCEMENTS REPULSED THE ATTACK AFTER FOUR HOURS OF FIGHTING.

HY1149PEW NM

BY SERG.DAVID DEMPSEY, OF 74 WEST 12TH ST.,NEW YORK CITY, A MARINE CORPS COMBAT CORRESPONDENT. DISTRIBUTED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

(WX) SAIPAN, MARIANAS ISLANDS-(DELAYED)-MARINES ON SAIPAN COMBINED TWO OLD WEAPONS TO PRODUCE A SPECTACULAR NEW ONE WITH DEVASTATING EFFECT, A FLAME THROWING TANK.

UNDER THE TYPE OF FIGHTING WHICH TOOK PLACE HERE, WITH THE JAPANESE SOLDIERS WELL ENTRENCHED IN MOUNTAIN CAVES AND CLIFFSIDE DUGOUTS, IT WAS A GODSEND TO OUR INFANTRY.

MARINE LIGHT TANKS EQUIPPED FOR THE PURPOSE PRECEDED INFANTRY ADVANCES AGAINST FORTIFIED POSITIONS WITH MUCH LESS RISK THAN TROOP BORNE FLAME THROWERS.

ONE TANK WAS CREDITED WITH KILLING 75 JAPANESE SOLDIERS IN A CAVE. MANY SUCH DUGOUTS WERE VIRTUAL ARSENALS AND PRACTICALLY UNAPPROACHABLE BY THE INFANTRY.

AUG 141944

THE TANKS ALSO WERE WIDELY USED IN ADVANCES THROUGH SUGAR CANE FIELDS, WHERE JAPANESE SNIPERS FREQUENTLY HID.

AGAINST THIS WEAPON, THE JAPANESE WERE ABLE TO OFFER LITTLE RESISTANCE.

HY1139PEW

AUG 141944

BY TECHNICAL SERGEANT DONALD A.HALLMAN,SR., MARINE CORPS COMBAT CORRESPONDENT, OF 51-01 39TH AVENUE, LONG ISLAND CITY, NEW YORK, (FORMERLY OF NEW YORK DAILY NEWS). DISTRIBUTED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

(WX)..GUAM-(DELAYED)--THE EVER-VERSATILE SEABEES HIT THE BEACH WITH THE MARINES THIS TIME. A CONSTRUCTION BATTALION MAINTENANCE UNIT LANDED WITHIN A FEW HOURS OF THE FIRST ASSAULT WAVES ON GUAM DESPITE INTENSE ENEMY ACTION.

ATHE MAINTENANCE UNIT WAS LANDED TO UNLOAD AMMUNITION AND SUPPLIES ACROSS THE 300-YARD REEF SOUTH OF AGAT ON GUAM, TO SET UP SHORE DUMPS AND TO MOVE EQUIPMENT.

THEY DID MORE THAN THAT. THEY MOVED THE SUPPLIES ALL RIGHT BUT FOUND A MULTITUDE OF SMALL CONSTRUCTION CHORES THROUGHOUT THE BEACHHEAD. THEY ARE STILL OCCUPIED ON THEM.

THEY LANDED IN THREE UNITS: ONE UNDER LIEUTENANT FREDERICK B. WINSLOW, CIVIL ENGINEER CORPS, U.S.N.R., OF 9111 ALTON PARKWAY, SILVER SPRING, MD., COMMANDING OFFICER; ANOTHER UNDER LT. WILLIAM R. HILDEMAN, CIVIL ENGINEER CORPS, U.S.N.R., OF 1309 SCHILLING AVE., CHICAGO HEIGHTS, ILL.; AND A THIRD UNDER LT. (JUNIOR GRADE) CLYDE V. MAXWELL, JR., U.S.N.R., OF WEST, MISSISSIPPI.

AUG 14 1944

RE B25, WPB'S STAM ON BEACON NEWSPRINT CASE UNHAD ANY FURTHER EXPLANATION ON 90-TON PENALTY, BUT FYI ONE WPB OFFICIAL AT TIME STAM ISSUED SAID THEY "WOULD GO LIGHT ON THEM THIS TIME." WILL

BRWX (120)

FDR BOX

KEETCHIKAN, ALASKA, AUG. 13-(AP)-THURSDAY AFTERNOON WAS A RED LETTER DAY FOR JOE SAMUEL AND THE CREW OF THE SEINER HAROLD, THE VETERAN KETCHIKAN FISHERMAN REPORTED TODAY.

THE CRAFT'S LOG SHOWED THE FOLLOWING ENTRY:

"AUG. 10--WENT ALONGSIDE AND SAW PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES. WE WERE CALLED TO SHOW THEM WHERE THE FISH WERE."

SAMUEL SAID NEITHER THE PRESIDENT NOR ANY MEMBER OF THE CREW WERE SEEN TO CATCH ANY FISH, BUT ADDED HE DID NOT FOLLOW THE SHIP AFTER IT LEFT TOLSTOI BAY AT THE NORTHERN END OF PRINCE WALES ISLAND.

AL1019PPW NM

THE ROAD TO BERLIN

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUG 14 1944

1--RUSSIAN FRONT: 322 MILES (MEASURED FROM EASTERN SUBURBS OF WARSAW).

2--ITALIAN FRONT: 603 MILES (MEASURED FROM FLORENCE).

3--FRENCH FRONT: 626 MILES (MEASURED FROM SOIGNOLLES, SOUTHEAST OF CAEN).

HJ1048PEW

NEW YORK, AUG. 13-(AP)-A BRITISH GERMAN-LANGUAGE BROADCAST HEARD BY NBC TONIGHT REPORTED THE DEATH OF A NAZI LT. GEN. FRITZ VON SCHULTZE OF THE SS. PANZER DIVISION NORDLAND WHICH THE BROADCAST SAID WASHEZVM BALTIC AREA.

HJ903PEW

AUG 14 1944

NEW YORK AUG 13-(AP)-THE JAPANESE DOMEI AGENCY SAID TODAY IN A BROADCAST DISPATCH THAT 16 LARGE FOUR-ENGINED ENEMY PLANES ATTACKED CHICHI ISLAND IN THE BONINS YESTERDAY. THE BROADCAST, REPORTED BY U.S.GOVERNMENT MONITORS, CLAIMED THAT THE RAID ON CHICHI HAD BEEN REPELLED BY "FURIOUS COUNTERATTACKS." THERE WAS NO ALLIED CONFIRMATION.

KK807AEW

(ADVANCE)...SEATTLE, AUG.12-(AP)-IT'S BEEN TWO AND A HALF YEARS SINCE R.A.RANKIN, BOATSWAIN'S MATE, 1CL AND 17 SHIPMATES DODGED THE JAPANESE FLEET AND ESCAPED AFTER CORREGIDOR FELL, BUT THE 23-YEAR-OLD FORMER LONG BEACH, CALIF., SAILOR'S DREAMS STILL ARE NIGHTMARES AND HE CALLS OUT HIS SHIPMATES' NAMES IN HIS SLEEP.

RANKIN IS IN A NAVAL HOSPITAL HERE BECAUSE OF LOST WEIGHT AND SHAKY NERVES AFTER SEVERAL ATTEMPTS TO RETURN TO ACTIVE DUTY FAILED.

"WE WERE AT CORREGIDOR WHEN IT FELL AT 7 O'CLOCK IN THE MORNING," HE RECOUNTED TO AN INTERVIEWER, "AND WE HAD ORDERS FROM LT.COMDR. JOHN MORRILL, OUR COMMANDING OFFICER, TO SCUTTLE OUR SHIP. IT WAS A MINESWEEPER, THE LAST SHIP LEFT.

"THIRTY OF US WENT ON THE SCUTTLING PARTY, AND AS WE WATCHED HER DISAPPEAR, WE TALKED ABOUT TRYING TO ESCAPE. ONLY 18 OF US WANTED TO TRY."

RANKIN SAID THAT, WITH COMMANDER MORRILL IN CHARGE, THE 18 LOADED THEIR "LIBERTY BOAT," A 36-FOOT DIESEL LAUNCH, WITH NAVIGATION INSTRUMENTS, NINE DRUMS OF FUEL, CORNED BEEF AND HARDTACK, A .30-CALIBER MACHINEGUN, HOPE AND STOUT HEARTS. THEY SAILED FIVE MILES UP THE BEACH, CAMOUFLAGED THE BOAT WITH LEAVES AND SPENT THE REST OF THE DAY ON A HILLTOP WATCHING THE JAPANESE TAKE AWAY THE PRISONERS CAPTURED ON CORREGIDOR. HE SAID BOATS DESIGNED FOR 100 OR 150 WERE PACKED WITH 300 TO 400 IN THE STIFLING HEAT.

THAT NIGHT THE MORRILL PARTY BEGAN THEIR 31-DAY FLIGHT. THEY PULLED PAST THE JAPANESE PATROL BOATS AND THEN THE ENGINE DIED. "WE DRIFTED BACK THROUGH THE PATROL BOATS AND A MILE FARTHER THAN WE HAD COME," HE RECALLED.

THE ENGINE WAS REPAIRED AND, IN BROAD DAYLIGHT, THE LAUNCH STARTED ON BETWEEN TWO ISLANDS AGAIN. SIGHTING THE JAPANESE FLEET, THE CREW SLAPPED BLACK PAINT ON THEIR LAUNCH TO HIDE ITS "NAVY LOOK."

"THE FLEET WENT BY WITHIN 1,500 YARDS, AND THE SUN WAS SHINING BRIGHTLY, BUT THEY DIDN'T SPOT US."

THEN A STORM HIT THE LITTLE LAUNCH AND FOR 12 OR 13 HOURS IT WAS "BAIL OR SINK." THEY SAILED ON, MEETING NATIVES WHO GAVE THEM BANANAS. THEY MET OTHER NATIVES WHO TRIED TO STEER THEM TOWARD THE JAPANESE. FOUR NIPPONESE SMALL CRAFT WERE SEEKING THEIR TRAIL, SO THE LAUNCH SLIPPED INTO A COVE, LET THE SEARCHERS PASS, AND THEN FOLLOWED THEM.

AT THE SOUTH END OF THE PHILIPPINES THEY MET A NATIVE SCHOOL

TEACHER WHO TOLD THEM JAPAN HAD TAKEN NEW GUINEA AND JAVA AND WERE LANDING IN AUSTRALIA.

BUT THEY WENT ON, AND WHEN THEY REACHED AUSTRALIA, THEY MISSED DARWIN BY ONLY SEVEN MILES.

"WE BEACHED THE BOAT ON MELVILLE ISLAND AND GOT OUT, READY TO FIGHT. WE MET A MISSIONARY PRIEST WHO WAS BAKING BREAD. AFTER 31 DAYS OF CORNED BEEF AND HARDTACK, WE ATE LOAF AFTER LOAF OF THAT BREAD. HE TOLD US THE YANKS WERE IN DARWIN."

SO THEY SAILED ON, THROUGH THE SUBMARINE NETS AND MINES, WENT ASHORE IN DARWIN AND FEASTED ON TEA AND CRUMPETS.

THREE WEEKS LATER RANKIN WENT TO SEA AGAIN, BUT HIS "TIN CAN" WAS TORPEDOED AND SUNK AT GUADALCANAL. HE ASKED FOR SEA DUTY AGAIN BUT HE KEPT ON LOSING WEIGHT AND AFTER LOSING 50 POUNDS, HE WAS SENT HOME. THAT WAS A YEAR AGO. HE WENT TO SEA AGAIN BUT HIS NERVES WENT BAD; HE LOST MORE WEIGHT AND HE COULDN'T SLEEP, SO HE'S BACK ASHORE AGAIN.

HIS WIFE HAS COME NORTH TO BE NEAR HIM. HE CORRESPONDS WITH HIS COMPANIONS OF THE PHILIPPINES-TO-DARWIN FLIGHT -- ALL SAVE ONE, WHO WAS KILLED LATER.

(END ADVANCE FOR AMS OF SUNDAY, AUG.13.)

AUG 14 1944

GG2 05PCW

FOLO WASHN LEMAY

SEATTLE,AUG.13-(AP)-MAJ.GEN.CURTIS E.LEMAY, NEWLY ANNOUNCED COMMANDER OF THE 20TH AIR FORCE, HAS BEEN "IN TRAINING" FOR HIS JOB OF BOSSING THE WORLD'S BIGGEST BOMBERS SINCE THE PIONEERING DAYS OF HEAVY BOMBER OPERATIONS.

HIS SELECTION AS ONE OF THE KEYMEN OF THE AIRFORCES WAS PREDICTED MORE THAN TWO YEARS AGO BY THE LATE MAJ.GENERAL ROBERT E.OLDS, THEN COMMANDER OF THE SECOND AIR FORCE AT SPOKANE, WHO WAS LEMAY'S COMMANDER ON MANY OF THE FLIGHTS WHICH PIONEERED HEAVY BOMBER TECHNIQUE.

"COLONEL LEMAY IS THE BEST AERIAL NAVIGATOR IN THE AIR FORCES. HE'S THE BEST IN THE WORLD," GENERAL OLDS ASSERTED ONE DAY DURING A DISCUSSION OF HIS WORK IN PIONEERING THE TRANS-ATLANTIC FERRY ROUTE BEFORE THE UNITED STATES WAS IN THE WAR AND IN MAKING THE EARLIER ARMY GOOD-WILL FLIGHTS TO BUENOS AIRES.

GENERAL LEMAY, AT THAT TIME A COLONEL, WAS GENERAL OLDS' NAVIGATOR ON ALL THOSE FLIGHTS. "I'D TELL HIM WHERE WE WANTED TO GO AND HE'D GET ME THERE. HE ALWAYS HIT IT ON THE NOSE."

DV1120PCWNM

PORTLAND,ORE.,AUG.13-(AP)-THE JAPANESE NAVY IS GETTING "SCARED TO FIGHT" THE U.S.NAVY BUT THAT DOESN'T MEAN AN EARLY VICTORY, REAR ADM.THOMAS LEIGH GATCH SAID TODAY.

AUG 1 1 1944

THE JUDGE-ADVOCATE GENERAL OF THE NAVY, WHO WAS AWARDED THE NAVY CROSS FOR THE RECORD OF HIS BATTLESHIP SOUTH DAKOTA IN SHOOTING DOWN 32 JAPANESE PLANES IN THE BATTLE OF THE SANTA CRUZ ISLANDS, TOLD AN OREGONIAN INTERVIEWER:

"THE ODDS ARE EVEN LONGER IN OUR FAVOR NOW THAN THEY WERE AGAINST US AT THE BATTLE OF GUADALCANAL, AND THE JAPS DON'T SEEM TO LIKE TO FIGHT AGAINST THE ODDS. BUT EVEN IF THEY DON'T STAND UP AGAINST US AT SEA, WE HAVE A LONG WAY TO GO TO GET THEM AS COMPLETELY DEFEATED AS WE'D LIKE TO FIX THEM, OR ALL THIS EVENTUALLY WILL HAVE TO BE DONE OVER."

DV1105PCWNM

30. 24— 17983

GERMAN TROOPS, CAUGHT IN ALLIED TRAP, FACE BATTLE OF ANNIHILATION IN FRANCE

Flower of Nazi 7th Army Caught

100,000 to 200,000 Turn in Flight to Give Battle to Allies—Eisenhower Sees Definite Opportunity for Major Victory—Third Yank Army in Field.

AUG 15 1944

By James M. Long

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Tuesday, Aug. 15—(AP)—Triumphant Allied armies welded a trap of steel and artillery fire about the flower of the Seventh German Army today in the greatest victory of Allied arms in France, and from 100,000 to 200,000 enemy troops turned for a battle to the death.

Backing away from a hail of bombs and artillery [illegible] Normandy sealing a 12-mile gap at the Eastern end of their Falaise pocket and "coffin corridor," the Germans checked their retreat to plug their some forces swung around west in an attempt to [illegible] Paris, and gear leaking lines.

Enemy Invites Destruction

Thus they invited destruction—a [illegible] open the road to the final battle for consummation which would mean northeastern and southern France. a gigantic victory for the Allies in [illegible] For this [illegible] in a dramatic order of the battle for northwestern France, Eisenhower [illegible]

AUG 1.

[illegible] ned his armies to the day a[illegible] with every ounce of drive ahead [illegible] he said, was "a energy. For h[illegible]ity for a major definite opportu[illegible] under Paris Allied victory [illegible] effort. would fall w[illegible] Appears

Third Yank Army

The southern jaw [illegible] the great Allied pincers was being [illegible] closed by the U. S. Third Army—[illegible] which the Germans said was being [illegible] by Lt. Gen. George S. Patton, [illegible] and battering up to within eight [illegible] a half miles of Falaise.

Canadian troops smashed [illegible] within 3 1-2 miles of Falaise [illegible] of the north in a rolling offensive they [illegible] jumped off Monday after cl[illegible]er-Allied bombers obliterated [illegible] the man anti-tank screen [illegible] forces, long city.

Between them [illegible] south raked toms from [illegible] eastward to the every road [illegible]ris, and waves of Seine [illegible] added to the hurricane of bom[illegible]

[illegible] this gap vanished, Germans had been streaming eastward [illegible] horsewagons, bicycles and every other farm vehicle they could commandeer toward the uncertain sanctuary of the Seine.

Retreat Probably No Longer Possible

There seemed no explanation for their decision to turn and fight other than that retreat no longer was possible.

Those who escaped the bottleneck were seen racing northeast toward the Seine along a route which Allied mastery of the air has turned into a path of death and destruction.

1944

Reports from the Canadian front indicated some of the escaped units were armored.

But Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, now disclosed to be the overall commander of all U. S. forces in France—the greatest ever massed for battle under the American flag—declared he was confident the bulk of the Seventh could not escape.

[illegible] to [illegible] as [illegible]

That could be anything [illegible]

[illegible] on [illegible] to [illegible] below Thury-Harcourt on the north.

[illegible] the Canadians and the Americans pressed in from the north and south Americans and British were caving in the pocket from the west and northwest. Doughboys alone fought eastward as much as 12 miles.

The British captured Thury-Harcourt, Orne river bastion below Caten, wiped out the last German wedge to the east as far as the Laize river and drove on south.

One column closed to within two miles of Conde-Sur-Noireau on the northwest, steadily ironing out the German bulge that remains west of the Orne.

Americans driving from Mortain reached Domfront, 13 miles east, and a parallel column, plunging through demoralized enemy forces, reached the village of Ger in a six-mile push from Mortain.

Pockets Being Mopped Up

Another armored force, guarding against any attempt at a German break south from the pocket, stabbed to Ranes, 11 miles southwest of Argentan and ran into resistance. Other pockets were being mopped up near Alencon.

The Third Army, disclosed to be fighting alongside the American First Army, also was the force that sealed off the Brest peninsula before turning east in the momentous wheeling movement that taught the Germans a lesson in lightning warfare.

It came so rapidly that as doughboys swept up to German positions they actually found enemy guns pointing the other way. Apparently the enemy did not know or could not figure out which way the lightning would strike

Enemy Neglected South Flank

One of the swiftest maneuvers ever seen on any battlefield, the drive began when a German rout before Le Mans disclosed to amazed American generals that the enemy had neglected to protect his south-end flank.

Whether from stupidity or from lack of reconnaissance, the Germans made no attempt to break out of the pocket until American [illegible]

"The Germans invented Blitzkrieg, one general said, "and we perfected it. . . . We also borrowed and improved on the German's 'wedge and kessel,' that is, to make your breakthrough with armor, encircle the enemy, then chew him to pieces.

The lines of the trap were ill-defined, but it was no wider than Argentan as noted from a point east of its greatest [illegible] on the west end to [illegible] as about 27 at the eastern [illegible] near Domfront on the south to below Thury-Harcourt on the north.

Both Ends of Gap Compressed

Both ends were compressed. The closed western end was about nine miles wide measured from Barenton north to last reported Allied positions below Vire, but the pocket was shrinking rapidly, as was the mouth on the east, last measured at 13 miles.

"It will be a military miracle if the Germans got out anywhere near whole," an Allied staff officer declared. "This is the end of a German army."

Most Momentous Week

Gen. Eisenhower predicted that this week would be one of the most momentous in the history of this war, fruitful for Allied arms, fateful for the enemy.

Gen. Charles de Gaulle's French Committee of National Liberation, with an armored division disclosed to be fighting beside the Americans, issued a dramatic call tonight for a national civilian uprising to hasten the day of liberation.

On the battlefront, the only question was how many troops the Allied armies could kill or catch and how many the enemy could withdraw across the Seine to fight again.

Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, commander of the First American Army, expressed confidence most of the Germans would be unable to get away.

Armies Pursue Germans

The British Second Army on the north and the American First on the west were in hot pursuit, mowing down rearguards by the hundreds and swarming through positions abandoned so recently that machineguns still smoked and belts still were loaded with bullets.

The Americans striking from Mortain—site of Field Marshal Guenther von Kluge's folly, the attempt to break through the Normandy-Brittany corridor — drove east seven to 12 miles. The Germans were abandoning their dead and had no time to dig in behind hedgerows.

The doughboys took Barenton, six miles east of Mortain, and recaptured Domfront, eight miles farther on in a drive toward the east while other Allied troops [illegible] ce below Vire.

[illegible] of heavy explosions [illegible] the nearby forest, as the [illegible] the enemy was blowing up [illegible] munition stores and supply [illegible] ps.

(The Germans said that between this sector and Argentan, the Americans had pressed north to the area of Carrouges, and were blocking with four divisions any attempt for a breakout of the pocket on the south.)

Enemy Tanks Disappearing

Before the British Second Army to the northwest, enemy tanks were disappearing from what remained of the German bulge across the Orne river, a front dispatch said, as Von Kulge tried desperately to extricate his most valuable armored units..

Some of these withdrew under cover of night and in small convoys, but they were badly shot up by Allied Air Forces whose score in the battle area yesterday was 1,300 German vehicles knocked out.

Patrols moving due west of this setcor stabbed to within three miles north of the stronghold of Vassy, and a short distance farther west the village of Estry fell to the British after a week's battle.

Other British units striking in concert with the Canadians above pivotal Falaise scored a three-mile advance and after capturing Martainville pushed on near Bonnoeil, seven miles northwest of Falaise.

Thury - Harcourt, Orne river stronghold of "Normandy's Switzerland," was firmly in British hands after a teetering battle yesterday in which flames from the ruins once drove both sides from the town.

A mighty striking force of RAF heavies, as well as British, Free French, Dutch and Canadian tactical warplanes broke open the way for the Canadian march toward Falaise with a saturation attack.

The heavies concentrated on a wooded area where a powerful screen of anti-tank guns stopped the Canadians last week.

Then the armored Canadian infantry, striking out from below Estrees-La Campagne, rolled forward in self-propelled artillery wagons known as "priests" but from which the guns had been removed to give the soldiers the protection of the armor.

Nazis Surrender

Alongside were tanks, and the first bomb-groggy Germans threw up their hands in surrender. The offensive moved forward two miles in three hours. Then resistance stiffened as the attacked reached the first enemy gun positions still intact.

But the Canadians were well across the Laison river and were fighting in strategic high ground [illegible] highway from Falaise running northeast toward the Seine.

Taking advantage of the German preoccupation with this sector, British forces to the northeast struck east, possibly also aiming to cut this road farther east, and captured the village of Le Bu-sur-Rouvres, two miles north of the Canadian bridgehead of Rouvres on the Laison river.

The British said the Germans were withdrawing forces from the Pas-De-Calais buzzbomb area in an effort to come to the aid of Von Kluge's stricken army, but added that under a hail of bombs yesterday an estimated 100 locomotives and 3,000 trucks were destroyed or damaged.

The enemy made no effort to break out until late today and then, only after the Allied artillery had brought their last avenue of escape under fire.

Close In From Three Sides.

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 14 (A. P.).—The greatest victory of Allied arms in France impended tonight with the pride of the Seventh German Army writhing in a trap closing under the hammer blows of three attacking armies west of Paris.

The few routes open to the 100,000 to 200,000 Germans through a gap little more than twelve miles wide below Falaise, were saturated with shells and bombs.

AUG 15 1944

U. S. AND CANADIANS SET FOR KNOCKOUT

BALL

100,000 Nazis Trapped in One of History's Greatest and Swiftest Maneuvers—Flyers Slaughter Foe.

Alencon, France, Aug. 14 (A. P.).—The Allies tonight narrowed to twelve shell-torn miles the escape gap for the bulk of the German armies in western France. American troops and tanks were driving north and the Canadians were pushing down toward Falaise, to cap one of the great pursuits in military history.

DAY

The two armies were poised for a knockout of from ten to 15 German divisions, numbering from 100,000 to 200,000 men, whose destruction, now impending, would mean the finish of Hitler in western France.

The entrapment of the enemy was accomplished by one of the slickest and swiftest maneuvers ever accomplished on any battlefield. It started after the Nazi rout before Le Mans, 110 miles west of Paris, and was carried through with a lack of enemy opposition that amazed Allied generals. German intelligence or leadership—or both—collapsed utterly, or else the German command

AUG 15 1944

Canadian, British and American armies closed in with hard-driving offensives from north, west and south—and an Allied staff officer observed: "It will be a military miracle if the Germans should get out anywhere near whole.

"This is the end of a German Army," he declared.

Striking with hammer-and-anvil effect, the Americans surged forward for gains of seven to thirteen miles from the west side of the pocket, capturing Domfront.

The Canadians, jumping off in a new major offensive led by tanks and huge armored troop carriers, burst open the Nazis' Laison River barrier above Falaise, and reached the region of Sassy, where they were three and a half to four miles northeast of Falaise.

The effect was to cut to less than fifteen miles the gap through which Field Marshal Gen. Guenther von Kluge was making frantic efforts to extricate approximately 100,000 Germans—a fourth of the entire force with which the Allies have come in contact since D day.

[A London radio correspondent, Robert Reed, with the Americans on the central sector, said that German traffic is piling up all along the roads leading to the Falaise gap. The London relay of the dispatch, recorded by CBS, said the gap is being shelled the whole time by American artillery, and is being bombed from the air without respite.]

AUG 15 1944

Thousands of Allied planes pounced on every German in sight. The enemy fought bitterly to escape extermination.

The effect was to cut to less than 16 miles the gap through which Field Marshal General Guenther von Kluge was making frantic efforts to extricate approximately 100,000 Germans—a fourth of the entire force with which the Allies have come in contact since D-day.

In a smoking cauldron, covered like a lid by thousands of Allied [illegible] man in sight, the enemy fought a bitter, tangled battle to escape extermination. American troops, closing in on the 30-mile-deep pocket, found Germans mowed down by the hundreds.

Advance Near Domfront

Greatest American advance was along the middle of the contracting claw east of Mortain, where the infantry bore down on the vicinity of Domfront in a smash of 7 to 12 miles by noon today. Domfront is 13 miles east of Mortain.

Barenton, on the Mortain-Domfront road, was captured in this drive. Sourdeval, at the tip of the German trap, also fell to the Allies.

(The German radio said there also was violent fighting near Carrouges, 13 miles southwest of Argentan, with approximately four American divisions blocking the Germans' chief escape routes.)

The Canadian offensive got off at noon following an attack by hundreds of heavy and medium bombers which smashed enemy the Allied front lines.

30-24— 17985

Falaise Neared

The Canadians, who had been five miles north of Falaise and one and a half to two miles north of the Laison river, got across that major barrier. Capture of Falaise, three miles south of the river, would close another German escape point.

The British on the Canadians' right flank also scored gains of three miles and more, capturing Martainville and pushing on to near Bonnoeil, seven miles northwest of Falaise, and taking Proussy, two miles north of Conde-sur-Noireau, 15 miles west of Falaise.

Seven-mile spurts were made by the Americans on the west side of the pocket along the Vire-Tinchebray line. South of Vire the Allies advanced two miles to St. Martin de Chaulieu.

It was announced that American troops on Saturday had taken 2,828 more German prisoners, bringing their four-day total to more than 13,000.

The number of German prisoners taken in France since the beginning of the campaign had now mounted to beyond 115,000.

Eisenhower, in one of his rare orders of the day to all men of the armies, air and naval forces, called it a "definite opportunity for a major Allied victory."

Speedy Action Needed

It may be grasped, he exhorted, "only through the utmost in zeal and determination and speedy action."

The trap was sprung, it was disclosed after five days of secrecy-shrouded operations west of Paris, when powerful American armored and infantry spearheads sweeping in a 250-mile arc through Le Mans, converged upon the German flank and rear in a sudden twist to the north. This swing took the Americans through Alencon and Sees.

(The Berlin radio told of an American penetration near Trut-temer, five miles southeast of Vire on the western side of the pocket.)

Defenses Seem Doomed

Field Marshal Kluge's defense of France south of the Seine appeared doomed as his forces squirmed under frightful punishment to pull out through the suddenly narrowed gap.

Practically all his escape roads toward the Seine were cut. Allied air forces were pouncing on every movement of the Germans, wrecking hundreds of locomotives and thousands of rail cars. Not a single wagon or bicycle was immune from attack from the swarms of aircraft which buzzed over the battle area in endless processions.

Roads that remained open were under Allied shellfire, and it appeared that only new [illegible] armies could stem the No[illegible] tide.

40 Divisions Contacted

However, Kluge already had drawn on 40 of the 60 or 65 divisions he was believed to have had in France at the start of the invasion. British staff officers yesterday said the Allies already had contacted 40 divisions.

Of these 15 already have been counted as destroyed or badly cut up in the beachhead battles, the St. Lo break-through, the Brittany sweep and the terrific battles in the hedgerows below Caen.

Now 12 more understrength divisions were believed caught in the giant bag.

Only the coming hours would show how many of these Kluge would be able to extricate.

It appeared unlikely he would be able to save enough to make another strong stand below the Seine, and as yet there was no indication that he had been able to build up a reserve to defend even Paris.

Farm Vehicles Used

He was making a desperate effort to save as much as possible, however, using haywagons, farm vehicles and even bicycles to move his troops, and leaving behind a hard rearguard crust to prevent Allied armies from the west, south and north from cutting his retreating forces to pieces.

Meanwhile, there still was no news of any Allied operations east of Le Mans toward Paris, nor from the spearhead which crossed the Loire three days ago and struck southward ten miles.

100 Miles From Paris

The Allied trap, 30 or more miles deep, was 100 miles west of Paris, but it seemed unlikely Kluge's shattered forces could put up any further defense, on an effective scale, of the 20,000-square-mile area through which the American whirlwind had swept in the past three weeks.

The 16-mile corridor between Argentan and the Falaise area could be completely covered by artillery fire, although in the center this fire was unobserved and therefore could not form a complete shell fire seal. It was uncertain, too, as to how many big guns the American spearhead was able to bring up and service from the southern side of the corridor.

In the Vire area the Allies gained up to three miles, although the Germans displayed stubborn resistance around Mortain. This sector is along the western portion of the enemy line and in the area from which the Germans tried unsuc-

[illegible]ully a week ago to split the [illegible]es in Normany and Brittany.

(Reuter reported that the town [illegible] Ger, one of the two most important road networks in the entire Mortain-Vire area, was captured today by American troops punching eastward.

(Ger is located about seven miles east and slightly north of Mortain. Ger and the town of Tinchebray, some six miles farther northeast, are considered the two most vital highway hubs of the entire area.)

Allied planes flew about 5,500 sorties yesterday in support of the great entrapment move.

Nazi Columns Ripped

Thousands of Allied bombers and fighters ripped with frightful toll at the congested columns of tanks, trucks and troops falling back all along the way to Paris.

Taking full advantage of the situation, the Allied air arm had its biggest day since D-day, leaving masses of wreckage and many enemy dead and wounded along the roads.

Illustrative of the toll, United States Eighth Air Force Mustangs, Thunderbolts and Lightnings alone destroyed or damaged 2,110 railway cars, 221 locomotives, 217 motor trucks and 79 other military vehicles in the retreat yesterday.

Road To Lisieux

The Germans still had one good road, leading northeast from Falaise to Liseux and indirectly to Paris, but this was menaced by Canadian artillery fire.

In the Breton peninsula American troops made slight advances in the siege of Brest. German garrison remnants still were holding out in the Citadel of St. Malo.

(Reuter reported that the German radio said this afternoon that Pleurtuits, big road junction southeast of St. Malo, has been abandoned by the Germans in the face of heavy Allied pressure.)

Eisenhower Sees Great Victory Near

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force Advanced Command Post in Normandy, Aug. 13 (Delayed) (A. P.).—Allied armies have created a "definite opportunity for a major Allied victory," Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower declared today in an order of the day.

In a special appeal to "Allied soldiers, sailors and airmen," the Supreme Commander called for a special effort by all Allied fighters, "because the victory we can now achieve is infinitely greater than any it has so far been possible to accomplish in the west, and because this opportunity may be grasped only through the utmost in zeal, determination and speedy action."

[A radio report from France said Gen. Eisenhower was so concerned that his appeal reach all troops as rapidly as possible that he discarded the Army formality of working through channels and had the message issued directly to London for immediate broadcast via British stations to all Allied forces in France.]

The text of the order of the day follows:

"Allied soldiers, sailors and airmen:

"Through your combined skill, valor and fortitude you have created in France a fleeting but definite opportunity for a major Allied victory, one whose realization will mean notable progress toward the final downfall of our enemy.

"In the past I have, in a moment of unusual significance, made special appeals to Allied forces it has been my honor to command. Without exception the response has been unstinted and the result beyond my expectations.

"Because the victory we can now achieve is infinitely greater than any it has so far been possible to accomplish in the west and because this opportunity may be grasped only through the utmost in zeal and determination and speedy action, I make my present appeal to you more urgent than ever before.

"I request every airman to make it his direct responsibility that the enemy is blasted unceasingly by day and by night and is denied safety either in fight or in flight.

"I request every sailor to make sure that no part of the hostile forces can either escape or be reinforced by sea, and that our comrades on land want nothing that guns and ships and ship companies can bring to them.

"I request every soldier to go forward to his assigned objective with the determination that the enemy can survive only through surrender. [illegible] no foot of ground once gained be relinquished, nor single German escape through a line once established.

"With all of us resolutely performing our special tasks, we can make this week a momentous one in the history of this war—a brilliant and fruitful week for us, a fateful one for the ambitions of Nazi tyrants.

"DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER."

Eisenhower Sees Opportunity For Major Victory in France

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE ADVANCE COMMAND POST IN NORMANDY, Aug. 13.—(Delayed)—(AP) Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower told his forces today they had created a "fleeting but definite opportunity" for a major victory and that this week could be "a brilliant and fruitful week for us, a fateful one" for the Nazis.

In an order of the day addressed to "Allied soldiers, sailors and airmen," the Supreme commander asked for a special effort "because the victory we can now achieve is infinitely greater than any it has so far been possible to accomplish in the west and because this opportunity may be grasped only through the utmost in zeal and determination and speedy action."

Gen. Eisenhower asked airmen to blast the enemy unceasingly day and night; called on sailors to guard against enemy escape or reinforcement by sea; and asked his soldiers "to go forward to his assigned objective with the determination that the enemy can survive only through surrender."

For the past three days the Supreme commander has been in almost constant conference with his battle commanders, working at pressure reminiscent of the closing days of the Tunisian and Sicilian campaigns which he directed.

YANKS IN FRANCE LED BY BRADLEY

Command Consists of Original First Army Plus a New Third Army

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Aug. 14. — (AP) Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley was disclosed tonight as overall commander of the whole American fighting force in France, which includes, besides the original First army, a new Third army, which the Germans have said is commanded by Lt. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr.

The Allied announcement made no reference to the commander of the Third army, officially disclosed tonight for the first time to have been in action in France and to have effected the cutoff of the Brest peninsula and the spectacular sweep northward from Le Mans, closing a trap on the German Seventh army.

Hodges Replaces Bradley

Bradley's former place as commander of the First army was taken by Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges, who previously commanded a U. S. Army corps in France.

Two other commanders were identified—Maj. Gen. Edward H. Brooks as leader of the Second Armored division and Maj. Gen. Wade H. Haislip, head of the 15th corps.

With the two full armies disclosed in action, the United States has in France the greatest fighting force ever massed in battle under the American flag — and Bradley has the greatest field command.

How the whole Allied fighting structure in France fitted together still was not disclosed fully.

No Pure U. S. Group

There was no indication of any solely American army group, and thus for the moment at least, two American armies apparently still come under the original 21st army group.

That left Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, commander of the 21st army group, still officially chief deputy in the field of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Supreme Allied commander.

However, the British-Canadian components of that army group had no announced parallel in an overall commander, such as Bradley's new position, except for Montgomery. A recent dispatch from Eisenhower's advanced command port in France referred to his conferences with "British and American" field commanders.

This was the breakdown, so far as announced—obviously with much to be filled in:

Under Gen. Eisenhower, Montgomery heads the 21st army group, the only army group in the field.

Under it are the Canadian First army, with Lt. Gen. H. D. G. Crerar in command, and the British Second army commanded by Lt. Gen. Sir Miles C. Dempsey; and on the American side, with Bradley in charge, are Hodges' First Army and the Third army of "General X."

Fifty-seven-year old Lt. Gen. Hodges, new First army commander, has spent 40 years in the army, most of it in the infantry. He enlisted in 1906 as a private after spending two years in the U. S. military academy at West Point.

A native of Perry, Ga., he was a private, corporal and sergeant for three years before he was commissioned. He served in posts in the United States, in the Philippines; with Gen. John J. Pershing's punitive expedition to Mexico, and the Fifth division in the World War. He fought at St. Mihiel and in the Meuse-Argonne, was decorated wtih the Distinguished Service Cross and the Silver Star for gallantry, and attained the rank of lieutenant-colonel.

Attended Artillery School

After the war he attended an artillery school and also served as an infantry instructor in an air corps tactical school before taking over an army corps in France, he was a commander in the replacement and school command of the army ground forces.

The dash and daring of the American Second armored division is wrapped up in the career of their commander, Gen. Brooks—an old cavalryman and artilleryman and a former football player.

The two battle cries of the 51-year-old Brooks are firepower and physical fitness.

A native of New Hampshire, Brooks, whose home is in Concord, got his first military training at Norwich university in Vermont. He fought in five major engagements in the last war.

After serving as a gunnery instructor at Fort Sill, Okla., and in the Philippines he transferred to Fort Riley, Kans., where his horse-drawn artillery battery was the first to complete a 100-mile forced march in less than 24 hours.

When the war broke out in 1941 Brooks was on the War department general staff. He was later assigned to the armored force as an artillery officer and played a major role in the development of the self-propelled artillery piece and the assault gun—both now potent forces in armored tactics.

Maj. Gen. Haislip, now chief of the American 15th army corps in France, once again is fighting on soil where he won distinction in the first World War.

The 55-year-old West Pointer was cited for distinguished service in the St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne offensives in 1918 when he was a major.

Haislip was born in Woodstock, Va., July 4, 1889. His first active service was border duty at Galveston, Tex., in 1913. After the World War he served in various posts and attended several war schools, including the Ecole Superieure de Guerre in Paris, from which he was graduated in September, 1927.

He was serving in Washington at the outset of the European war, and was made assistant chief of staff, G-1, in February, 1941. In March, 1942, he became chief of the 85th Infantry division at Camp Selby, Miss.

Gen. Bradley Is Calm As His Men Drive On

AUG 15 1944

By William Smith White and Don Whitehead

With American Forces in France Aug. 14 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Omar N Bradley, commander of the United States First Army, has engineered a spectacular coup which threatened virtually to obliterate Marshal Guenther von Kluge's Seventh Army—but the general sat calmly at his headquarters today, his hands folded in his lap.

It seemed he hadn't a care in the world, though his troops had a chance to achieve what few armies ever do—trap and destroy an enemy army.

While this classic battle moved swiftly, Bradley chatted with his generals and calmly discussed his problems. He was fit and tanned by the sun and wind.

Studying A Map

He was found sitting at a turn in a path bordered by bright flowers. He had his legs crossed and was studying a map with his aide, Major Chet Hansen. He put aside the map and invited us into the house where he could be more comfortable.

General Bradley was confident that most of the enemy would be unable to escape from the pocket, where it was estimated there were elements of at least nine German divisional organizations with a strength approximating what the enemy used in trying to hold Cherbourg peninsula.

Some of the enemy already had slipped through, however.

The Germans' escape corridor has been cut to less than 20 miles and every yard is within easy range of Allied medium and heavy artillery. In the bright, cloudless sky warplanes are blasting at German convoys.

Censorship Lifted

With the attack developed to this point censorship restrictions were lifted today to permit correspondents to tell what has been happening during the last few days.

The swift American move to the north to forge this trap began last week through Alencon and LeMans. It appeared from the maps that the direction of the thrust was toward Paris. But that was not Bradley's intention. He was out to destroy Kluge's army and not to capture Paris.

At first the movement of troops and armor was masked to confuse the enemy as to the direction of the American attack.

The Germans were disorganied and did not know where American columns were. Yesterday one enemy unit was caught trying to retreat to Le Mans, although that town had been in American hands several days.

Vire A Hinge

When his columns got into position, Bradley began wheeling them northward, with the move hinged on Vire.

Within the arc of the larger wheeling movement there were smaller wheeling movements by divisions thrusting like scythes to the north.

Then at dawn yesterday the entire American force began a coordinated drive to put the last crushing power against the pocket.

American infantry is tearing through the Germans so fast that abandoned enemy machine guns are found with their belts still loaded.

Gain Up to 12 Miles.

American tanks lunged forward today in thrusts that carried them seven to twelve miles eastward by noon along the center of Lieut.-Gen. Omar N. Bradley's great smothering attack.

To the north American infantry is tearing through the Germans so fast that abandoned enemy machineguns are found with their belts still loaded. Expendable scraps of German units are being thrown in to try to delay the Americans — such mixed and mangled remnants that on one 5,000-yard sector the elements of six separate German divisions have been identified.

In this area the Nazis are making no effort now to remove or bury their dead, and they are not even attempting to dig in behind the hedgerows from which they are attempting to gain time.

The Nazis are fighting as individuals, but it is apparent they have suffered such casualties in highly trained junior and non-commissioned officers that they are unable to fight well as units. This goes for units down to battalion size.

This lack of knowledge of how to get out of one position and into another, as a unit, is costing the enemy heavily in piled up casualties, especially from American artillery fire.

Information about the effectiveness of the tremendous Allied air attacks on the Germans racing back toward Paris naturally was scarce among ground troops, but this fragment was heard over the radio:

An unidentified pilot's voice: "Boy, am I having a field day! I've got forty-five of them (German vehicles) down there under me."

See What Guns Did.

"Maybe it sounds pretty gruesome," a senior operations officer said. "Our men have been fighting for a long time without seeing much evidence of their work in German dead. Now they are seeing them—and hundreds at a time.

"We have just had a case to show how the Germans no ware suffering from lack of highly trained people. We captured a German captain who was counterattacking—and without support of assault guns—with only thirty-six men left of his company. He didn't even know where his regmient was. He was crying—because he wasn't getting anywhere."

YANK THIRD ARMY FIGHTS IN FRANCE

AUG 15 1944

BOYLE

AMERICAN THIRD ARMY HEADQUARTERS, France, Aug 14—(AP) It was disclosed officially tonight that the American Third army is fighting in France and has closed the southern arm of the pincers movement that trapped the German Seventh army after one of the most spectacular armored surges in military history.

Supreme headquarters has withheld publication of the name of the Third army's commander.

(Another Supreme headquarters announcement disclosed that Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley was overall commander of the entire American fighting force in France which includes the First and Third U. S. armies. Bradley's place as commander of the First army was taken by Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges, previously commander of a U. S. army corps in France).

(Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, military commentator for the Nazi Propaganda Agency Transocean news, said Lt. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., was leading the Third army).

Certainly not since Patton's Seventh army chopped Sicily in half and with the help of Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's British Eighth army on the right flank subdued the whole island in 38 working days has any Anglo-American army moved with such whirlwind speed.

Since going into action on Aug. 1, exactly two weeks ago, the Third army has smashed across and isolated the Brest peninsula in a dramatic charge reminiscent of the drive from Castel Vetrano to Palermo which split Sicily a year ago last month. It then turned eastward and in a gigantic encircling movement raced northward to bag the entire German Seventh army except those trying to escape through the narrowing Falaise-Argentan bottleneck.

DEGAULLE TELLS FRENCH TO RISE AGAINST GERMANS

DAY

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Aug. 14.—(AP) People of France were summoned today by Gen. Charles de Gaulle's French committee of national liberation to strike for their own freedom with a general uprising against the German conquerors whose hold on the country is weakening under Allied blows.

Calling for a national uprising which would be "the prelude of liberation," the committee statement said "there is not one Frenchman who does not feel and who does not know that it is his simple and sacred duty to take part immediately in the supreme war effort of his country."

The French were told to strike with all their might and to harass the enemy by joining the direct war with the Allied armies, by laying down their tools in Nazi held factories and by destruction of small German garrisons.

They were asked to prevent Germans from fleeing through the Pyrenees and east and north to Paris. Special instructions are to be issued for the Paris area, said the statement.

"In the field, in the factory, in the workshop, in the office, in the home and in the street, whether he be under arrest, deported or a prisoner of war, each Frenchman can harm the enemy or prepare that which harms him," continued the appeal.

"Everywhere organizations of the French resistance are at work. Everybody is urged to join these and follow their directives."

After giving general directions on how Frenchmen in various areas could best harass and destroy the enemy, the call to arms concluded:

"Frenchmen, the hour of liberation sounds. Join up with the French Forces of the Interior. Follow directions of our leaders. A national uprising will be the prelude of liberation."

French in Britanny were told to destroy enemy groups and isolate garrisons attempting to reach German-held ports. Those north of the Loire were advised to take up arms and attack enemy units and those between the Loire and the Garonne river were urged to harass enemy formations attempting to move up from southern France and to destroy little garrisons. French in the Pyrenees were charged with preventing escape of Germans and collaborationists.

This call to Frenchmen came with announcement that French troops, commanded by Gen. Jacques Leclerc, veteran of North Africa, were in action against the Germans on their home soil for the first time since France capitulated in 1940.

diately in the supreme war effort of the country.

"In the field, in the factory, in the workshop, in the office, in the street—whether he be under arrest, deported or a prisoner of war—each Frenchman can harm the enemy or prepare that which harms him."

"Everywhere organizations of French resistance are at work. Everybody is urged to join these and follow their directives.

"The national uprising in Brittany has largely contributed to the liberation of this region. In all parts of France the French forces of the interior are receiving from their leaders their combat orders and are engaged in battle."

The call for national effort carried instructions to various areas, including Paris.

French Troops Go Into Action On Home Soil

AUG 19 1944

BAKER

Led By Famed Desert General Jacques Leclerc.

SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE, Aug. 14 (AP)—High-spirited French troops commanded by the famed desert General Jacques Leclerc have gone into action against the Germans on their home soil for the first time since the 1940 armistice.

Ride Sherman Tanks

Wearing brilliant red forage caps and riding Sherman tanks, the bronzed and eager Frenchmen, many of them veterans of North Africa, began arriving on the Normandy beaches late in July.

It was permitted to be disclosed only today that these forces, forming the second French armored division, have been fighting alongside the Americans. There are thousands of them in this force.

De Gaulle Calls for Uprising

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 14 (A. P.).—Gen. Charles de Gaulle's French Committee of National Liberation issued a call tonight for a national uprising in France.

"The duty of every Frenchman has been outlined in the appeal of Gen. de Gaulle for the people of France," a statement said. "There is not one Frenchman who does not feel and who does not know that it is his simple and sacred duty to take part imme-

30.24 — 17987

Theirs is a complete force fighting under [illegible] over-all command, and first clash with the enemy in metropolitan France they gave a brilliant account of themselves.

"One of the finest fighting outfits ever put together under any flag,' was the praise accorded them by a high American commander.

Wildly Greeted

The homecoming of France's fighting sons was greeted by their proud people with one of the wildest outbursts of enthusiasm ever witnessed. It multiplied many times over as they rolled through the country.

Every hamlet and village turned out with the news of their approach, and they had difficulty negotiating the narrow lanes and streets as cheering crowds overflowed into their path. Although this French armored force was supposed to be a "military secret," word got around that they were due in towns along the route of their march.

Tears linked with cheers as medium and light tanks bearing such names as "Dunkerque," "Dijon," "Marne,' 'and "St. Mihiel" rolled past with the tricolor flapping from the tank turrets, and with the cross of Lorraine over a white relief map of France in blue squares on their thick, tough sides.

Spontaneous Celebrations

Arrival of Allied liberation forces has brought spontaneous celebrations in many French towns, but the people reserved for their own warriors their greatest and most touching reception.

Their progress across country was made over a carpet of flowers and a row of uplifted bottles of their beloved Vin Rouge and Cognac. Dusty bottles of the rarest vintage which had been kept in hiding for the great day were trotted out and in many cases picked up on the fly by broadly-grinning crews.

There were pathos in the homecoming for some of the men, passing through what once had been their home towns, but which now are piles of rubble and gaunt chimneys of dead towns hiding their own dead.

Joy Unrestrained

For others there was joy unrestrained when they spied girl friends and families they had not seen in four years or more. For them these columns were held up while embraces and kisses were exchanged.

Portraits of De Gaulle painted on the front of some tanks brought roars of "Vive De Gaulle" and "Vive La France." In this part of France at least there is overwhelming support for the head of the French committee of national liberation.

Their commander assumed the name of Leclerc to prevent German reprisals againsth relatives or friends in France. He organized a 2,000-mile march from his base at Lake Chad for harassing raids upon Rommel's forces in Libya, and joined the British Eighth Army in the battle for Tripoli and Tunisia.

Gen. Le Clerc's Forces Fight In France

AUG 15 1944

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 14 (AP)—The Second French Armored Division, commanded by the mysterious General Jacques Le Clerc of African fame, is fighting in France alongside American forces, supreme headquarters announced late today.

This was the first disclosure of the recent whereabouts of the mysterious general, one of the first to rally to Gen. Charles de Gualle.

At the same time France fell he was Governor of the French Camaroons and a year later he had organized a small force and was fighting the Italians in Libya.

Fought Rommel In Africa

The following year he was the organizer of a daring 2,000-mile march from his base at Lake Chad in which Fighting French forces made harrassing raids on Axis forces in Libya.

Once more his forces appeared in the climactic battle of North Africa in 1943, appearing as a menace to Marshal Edwin Rommel's south flank when General Sir Bernard L. Montgomery began his drive.

True Name Hidden

Gen. Le Clerc's forces joined the Eighth Army in the battle that ran the Germans from Tripoli, then participated in the showdown struggle for Tunisia.

The general assumed the name of Le Clerc, and his true name has been hidden from the Germans to prevent reprisals on friends or relatives in France.

General Draper Promoted

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 14 (AP).—Headquarters announced today the promotion to major general of Warren Fales Draper, chief of the Public Health Branch of Civil Affairs in the European theater. The branch is responsible for the care of [illegible] civilians in the battle area, helps distribute medical supplies and gives advice on prevention and control of disease among civilians and animals.

Drive on Paris Was a Feint

Story Can Now Be Told—Main Job Is to Beat Enemy, Not to Take Territory.

By WES GALLAGHER

AUG 15 1944

With the United States First Army in France, Aug. 12 (Delayed by Censorship) (A. P.).—Stabbing north from Le Mans toward the British and Canadian sector south of Caen, American forces appeared today on the verge of closing a vast trap around the German Seventh Army.

American forces turned away from Paris to close the trap, in a deliberate and pre-designed move to entrap and destroy the German army.

Lieut.-Gen. Omar N. Bradley's American forces first feinted toward Paris and then swept northward toward Alencon. (Alencon has now been taken and passed.)

Paris may be left to fall like ripe fruit as a by-product of the operation, if it is successful. Despite the tremendous psychological effect of which an Allied capture of Paris would have, the primary mission of the American, British and Canadian forces in France is to destroy the German army and defeat Germany. If that mission were not accomplished the fall of Paris would merely give the Allies more territory without placing them any closer to the main aim—the defeat of Germany.

The American sweep over Brittany already has given Gen. Eisenhower more territory than can be comfortably "digested" at the moment. The Germans must be cleared from Brest and Lorient to make the Brittany Peninsula of use to the Allies. This digestion process is not yet completed, and more territory just now would add a burden.

On the other hand, if the German army is caught in the Allied trap between Caen and Le Mans, the capture of Paris will be that much easier, and Hitler's war machine would be dealt a blow in the west from which it could never recover.

Destruction of the German Army would save France for the French. Stubborn German rearguard actions are wiping out town after town with the thoroughness exhibited in the first world war. The French, with homes destroyed, their living taken away and their wives and children killed because they are in the path of the war, are in no mood to welcome their liberators. (Ninety words censured.)

Speed Dazzles Nazis.

The Germans were surprised by the speed with which the Americans organized their attack from Le Mans to the north. The enemy misjudged the pace of the drive. When the Germans tried to disengage in the pocket formed by Vire, Sourdeval and Mortain, they found the American advance climbing all over their rearguard.

Ceaseless air attacks made it impossible for the Germans to move columns along the roads by day, narrowing the retreat to a few hours after nightfall.

It remains to be seen if the Hitler-dominated High Command can get the bulk of German troops out of the pocket before it closes.

British Hit Nazi North Flank

On the Orne River front, Aug. 14 (AP)—The British Second Army smashed deeper into the northern flank of the German escape corridor today as the enemy continued to hasten his flow of tanks and troops to the east in a dramatic race against time.

"The enemy carried out a very great movement on the roads yesterday and during the night and got some of their forces halfway out of the bulge west of the Orne river," an officer at forward headquarters of Lieut. Gen. Sir Miles C. Dempsey's army said.

"The German withdrawal still is orderly. They were shot up, and shot up badly, by our planes, but they are using side roads and clinging to the shadows of bushy hedgerows and it is difficult to catch them in the open."

Small Groups Daily

Packets of small German convoys, seldom exceeding 30 vehicles at a time, were seen passing through the gap south of Falaise. Nearly 1,000 enemy vehicles were shot up from the air yesterday.

"The situation is tightening from hour to hour," the headquarters spokesman said." It is like a balloon. Von Kluge is trying by a gentle squeeze to get all the air out while we are trying to explode it by jabs at the flanks, or to strangle the enemy by choking off his exit."

Estry Captured

Battering down from the north, British troops supported by tanks dug sharply into the upper crust of the bulge. In synchronized thrusts, Dempsey's forces advanced 200 yards to a point just north of Proussy, only two miles above Conde-sur-Noireau, and patrols entered La Rocque, three miles north of the German stronghold of Vassy. Vassy also fell in the drive to La Rocque.

Farther west, British infantry captured the bitterly defended village of Estry after a weeklong battle.

Symbolic of the whole German withdrawal, the enemy pulled out two companies and left one company with machine guns to defend Estry under orders to fight to the death. The Nazi rear-guard company was overrun by British tommies, however, and many of them surrendered, while the others took to their heels.

East of the Orne, British and Canadian troops driving southward in the "battle of the two rivers" between the Orne and the Laize, made steady progress against fanatical German rear guards.

In a typical action, British troops seized a crossroads at Grand Donnay, four miles southeast of Thury-Harcourt, only to be driven back by a violent German counterattack supported by rocket guns.

An hour later, the British surged back and recaptured the crossroads and pushed on to Donnay in a half-mile advance under blistering fire.

Lose And Retake Town

Canadian infantry had a similar experience at Tourneby over near the river Laize. They captured the town, but were driven out, and came back to take it again by storm.

The charred, shell-torn ruins of Thury-Harcourt, a peacetime resort center and the hub of seven key roads at the top of the "Switzerland of Normandy," were firmly in British hands this morning after a bitter fight through the streets of the burning town yesterday. At the height of the battle the heat became so intense that both sides had to retire until the flaming embers cooled. The German defenders, who had been srongly reinforced, fell back to the south and an enemy pocket remained on the west side of the Orne below Thury-Harcourt today.

British Attack, Withdraw

In the Vire sector at the western end of the bulge, the British attacked across the Vire-Vassy road, but withdrew to their original positions under heavy shelling.

Newly captured prisoners from a Nazi rocket gun regiment said their division was "in chaos" as Von Kluge's retreat gathered momentum.

Generally speaking, however, reports agreed that the enemy was putting up stubborn rearguard action all along the front with skeleton forces screening the main withdrawal by small local actions until beaten back.

Civil Affairs Units Fight Beside Troops

Hurry to Speed Relief And Restore Order to Released French Towns.

By Howard Cowan
Associated Press War Correspondent Representing the Combined American Press

GEN. EISENHOWER'S ADVANCED HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Aug 14 (AP)—Civil affairs units of the Allied Armies now are fighting their way through France alongside frontline assault troops to speed relief and restore order in liberated towns and villages, Lt. Gen. A. E. Grasett, assistant chief of staff in Gen. Eisenhower's command disclosed today.

Number of Casualties Reported

A number of casualties already have been reported among the hand - picked, specially - trained crews who heretofore moved into such areas after resistance had ceased, the Toronto-born British Army expert said.

The ruthless tactics of the fleeing German Army commanders who flooded battle areas with civilian refugees and an assortment of turned out of prison cells were among the problems confronting the Allies, the general said in an interview. Despite this, he added, the civilian affairs phase of the French campaign has proceeded smoothly.

Gen. Grasett said officials of the United Nations relief and rehabilitation administration were studying plans for helping the liberated countries if the governments of France, Belgium and Holland ask for this aid.

Receive Joint Attention

Two of the most important problems—public health and displaced persons—are now receiving the joint attention of the Army civil affairs authorities and the UNRRA. Dr. Wilbur Sawyer of New York, UNRRA displaced persons bureau, are in liaison with Gen. Grasett's staff.

Looking toward the day when France will return to a peace-time basis, the Allies last week turned food and clothes rationing over to French authorities.

At the invitation of the French, civil affairs observers have attended all court trials. The severest penalties imposed so far have been life imprisonment sentences given two young Frenchmen at Cherbourg convicted as Nazi spies.

Have Not Interfered

The Allies have not interfered with the French loyalists methods of dealing with Nazi sympathizers—the use of shears on pro-German heads.

There has been no guillotine in conformity with Gen. Eisenhower's firm demand that there be no bloodbath for France's internal political enemies.

Looking toward the time when Normandy's agricultural products will be needed to feed all of France, stores of food are being piled up from surpluses which formerly went into Nazi black markets in Paris and Berlin.

AUG 15 1944

300 Nazis Bagged By U. S. Thunderbolts

NINTH U. S. AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS, Aug. 14 (AP)An airborne Thunderbolt squadron commanded by Col. Robert L. Delashaw, San Antonio, Tex., captured more than 300 German soldiers on the ground today without landing and without firing a shot.

The planes were strafing trucks along a road when a small group of enemy appeared and stood on the road waving white flags.

"We hit the deck, buzzed them several times and pretty soon there were several hundred there," related Capt. John R. Willingham Tuscaloosa, Ala. "We looked for our infantry but didn't see a single doughboy around so we realized the white flags were meant for us."

The Germans formed into columns of four and started marching down the road toward Allied troops while the planes shuttled back and forth over them and radioed ahead. Soon American ground soldiers came out and took over.

The Fighter Too Shot Up To Fly, Bail Out On Land

A United States Ninth Air Force Base in France, Aug. 13 (AP—Delayed)—Lieut. Richard Kik, Jr., of Kalamazoo, Mich., and Lieut. Charles E. Rife, of East Cleveland, Ohio, were shooting up German tanks east of Mortain when Kik's Thunderbolt was hit by flak.

Rife called him and said, "You're smoking."

"Yes, I got hit pretty bad," Kik replied.

Capt. Henry Mazur, of Lowell, Mass., flight leader and former West Point football star, cut in on the radio conversation and told Rife to take Kik back to the base.

Wings Punctured

They had no more than gotten under way when two direct hits punched holes as big as manholes in both wings of Rife's plane.

"Now I've had it," Rife called to Kik.

"I can see the holes in your wings, but your engine isn't hit," Kik replied, forgetting his own troubles. "Shove the throttle forward and keep up speed."

"I don't think I can make it," Rife replied. "My flap is gone, the aileron is gone; I can't turn left. I'm going to belly-land."

Struck In Back

"Listen, Rife, you can't belly-land. You've got a bomb hung under your wing. Get some altitude and bail out."

"I can't bail out because I've been hit in the back and I'm afraid it cut a hole through my parachute."

"You've got to keep going, then. Keep cool, Rife. We've got to make a landing," Kik pleaded.

Ground Crew Listens In

They kept coming until they appeared over this French base. Ground personnel listening to the conversation on the radio, were pacing and chewing their nails.

Finally Rife's landing gear was observed coming down slowly. He was pumping it down by hand.

Rife nosed his ship down and his wheels touched the ground at 160 miles an hour. Kik, his engine beginning to blaze and spurting oil, was right behind him. As Rife climbed out of the cockpit three pieces of shell fragment fell out of his parachute. He was not hurt.

Le Mans Captives Tell Of Strife in Nazi Army

Regular Officers at Odds With S. S. as Defeatism Spreads

ALENCON, France, Aug. 14 (AP).—German prisoners taken after Le Mans was occupied reported dissension among their regular army officers under Field Marshal Guenther von Kluge and the new S. S. (Elite Guard) officers rushed in by Adolf Hitler after the attemt on his life.

This gave rise to the possibility that the regulars who were left in the field were realizing the hopelessness of their predicament and were adopting a stand-still attitude while letting Hitler's pet S. S. officers take the responsibility for disaster.

Some prisoners said that after Le Mans their officers openly asserted the war would not last more than another two weeks. Defeatism, they said, is spreading from the top down among the Germans.

Allies Parachute Arms To French Partisans

AT THE FRENCH FRONTIER NEAR ST. GINGOL, Aug. 14. (AP)—Allied planes parachuted heavy arms and also dropped a half dozen officers from headquarter into northern France's Maquis region, it was reported here tonight through reliable channels.

Anti-tank guns were included in some sectors this afternoon, whereas before only light arms have been dropped into the Haute Savoie and Jura regions. The appearance of officers was taken to indicate a forthcoming partisan drive of major proportions there.

Signal flares seen from the frontier tonight indicated that the provisioning still was going on.

Maquis Believed At Loire

Irun, Aug. 14 (AP)—The great majority of the French Maquis forces in the central plateau region of France, the Pyrenees foothills and Savoy have now moved northward and are fighting a guerrilla war at the rear of the German armies along the Loire, advices from France said today.

A member of the French underground who crossed the Spanish border near here said the former Maquis strongholds are now almost deserted, and only small Patriot forces remain in the Pyrenees to prevent the escape of Vichy officials.

Pro-Nazis Watched

The Patriots in southern France are keeping close watch on collaborationists, many of whom are now waiting in Vichy for German troops to convoy them north, this informant said.

Other French advices reported continued withdrawal of Germans from southwestern France, where Atlantic Wall forces were declared reduced to a bare handful.

This movement reputedly added confusion to the traffic situation east of Paris, where highways already were choked with retreating Germans.

Called Demoralized

A Barcelona dispatch said German troops arriving in the north appeared badly demoralized. It declared there were numerous clashes between men and officers and between regular army and SS units.

Heavy explosions in the Biarritz and Bayonne areas were heard in Spain yesterday. Officials said the Germans were destroying equipment.

Frenchmen crossing the frontier yesterday said Allied bombers had scored direct hits Saturday on the German submarine base at Bordeaux.

REPORT CONVOYS OFF GIBRALTAR

German Radio Speculates Possibility of Thrust Into Southern France, Italy.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Berlin radio said last night that large Allied convoys were passing through Gibraltar Strait and that the Allies have been concentrating "considerable tonnage" in the Mediterranean. The broadcasts speculated whether it presaged an outflanking movement against the German rear in Italy or a landing in South France.

George Schroeder, chief editor of Transocean news, Nazi propaganda agency, said in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press that the question posed was whether landings would be made behind the Apennines barrier in Italy "or is it the plan to employ De Gaulle forces standing by in Corsica and North Africa by having them land in southern France near the great Maquis districts?"

The commentator read significance into the meeting of Prime Minister Winston Churchill with Marshal Tito, head of the Yugoslav partisans, adding that "Churchill desires as a support of British military plans in Italy that partisans launch an attack on the Italian eastern flank in Istria. Military operations to be expected are preceded by an Anglo-American war of nerves on Bulgaria plus a host of rumors."

Allied sources remained silent on plans for the Mediterranean theater and on reports of ship concentrations there. However, for three consecutive days American heavy bombers from Italy have pounded military installations in southern France, and there were indications that further raids were in progress overnight.

Nazis Fear New Landings

LONDON, Aug. 14 (AP).—The German radio, asserting that large Allied convoys were streaming through the Strait of Gibraltar into the Mediterranean, speculated tonight that landings in the south of Europe were imminent.

There was no Allied confirmation of such reports. For three consecutive days, however, strong forces of American heavy bombers from Italy have pounded military installations in southern France.

The Germans spoke of possible landings in southern France, on the islands of Greece and in Italy above the Gothic line, which Allied land forces now are approaching.

The appearance of Prime Minister Churchill in Italy clearly created anxiety in Berlin.

"Concentrations of Allied troops in the Mediterranean have been reported in the last few days," the enemy radio said.

Churchill's talks with Marshal Josip Broz (Tito), the Yugoslav patriot army commander, appeared to Berlin to be concerned chiefly with impending military action.

Capture Stronghold

Scale 30 Foot Walls of Moated Bastion Of Osowiec Near Biebrza River, Last Water Barrier Before German East Prussia 15 Miles Beyond.

By W. W. Hercher

LONDON, Tuesday, Aug. 15—(AP)—Russian shock troops scaled the 30-foot-high walls of the moated stronghold of Osowiec near the Biebrza River in Northern Poland yesterday, bayonetted the German garrison and then rushed up pontoon bridges for an imminent crossing of the Biebrza, last water barrier before German East Prussia, only 15 miles beyond.

Sweeps Half Way Cross Estonia

In the North another powerful Red army swept almost half-way across Estonia and spilled on to the Latvian frontier in a swift drive aimed at splitting in two the 200,000 trapped Nazi troops facing a disaster almost comparable to that suffered at Stalingrad. With the capture of Antsla in a 19-mile advance, this army was only 16 miles from Valga, rail junction on the Tallinn-Riga line which is the defense backbone of Col. Gen. Georg Lindemann's surrounded Baltic armies.

Premier-Marshal Joseph Stalin in an order of the day announced the fall of Osowiec, 17 miles from East Prussia, to Gen. G. F. Zakharov's Second White Russian Army which in seven weeks has fought its way 350 miles westward from White Russia and reached the Augustow Canal and the adjoining Biebrza River on a 45-mile front. Some of the Russian positions near the canal, north of Osowiec, are within 11 miles of East Prussia.

Osowiec Powerful Point

Stalin termed Osowiec a "powerful fortified district in the German defenses of the river Biebrza covering the approaches to the borders of East Prussia," and ordered a Moscow salute of 12 salvoes from 124 guns.

Berlin spokesmen, acknowledging the peril to East Prussia, warned the German homeland that "a very great trial of strength" was at hand. In Moscow the press printed an appeal quoting Marshal Friedrich Von Paulus, captured German commander at Stalingrad, as telling the Germans "the war is lost through the fault of Hitler, and continuance by the Germans is senseless bloodshed."

The man who lost at Stalingrad, now 1,050 miles behind Soviet spearheads which in Central Poland are within 75 miles of German Silesia, was the highest-ranking German yet to ask the people to overthrow Hitler. Lt. Gen. Fritz Franek, another captured Nazi officer, also made an appeal, the 20th German general to take that action.

Dug And Blew Germans Out

A midnight Soviet bulletin describing the capture of Osowiec said the Russians literally dug and blew the Germans out of that stronghold as other German forces up and down the river retreated across the Biebrza under a merciless strafing by swarming Soviet planes which also attacked troop trains, fuel dumps and enemy concentrations inside East Prussia.

Red assault troops crossed the moat before Osowiec, reducing dozens of blockhouses before reaching the inner defenses of the citadel. Soviet airmen skipped bombs into the fortress, then infantrymen scaled the high walls and used grenades and bayonets liberally in crushing the garrison.

100 Localities Taken In Estonia

In Estonia Gen. Ivan Maslennikov's third Baltic army captured 100 localities in its race toward the Gulf of Riga, now less than 80 miles west of the Soviet spearheads. Berlin, admitting Soviet strides on this front, said Maslennikov had hurled 20 infantry and four tank divisions, or about 250,000 men, against the battered Germans, who have been ordered by Hitler to fight an "insular defense" in a sacrificial effort to delay the impending Soviet blows on East Prussia.

One Unit Kills 400 Germans

In capturing the stubbornly-defended rail town of Antsla one Soviet unit alone killed 400 Germans and captured great quantities of equipment, the midnight Moscow bulletin said. At one point the Russians were wtihin 13 miles of the Tallinn-Riga railway to the west, it said.

Besides taking Antsla, the Russians also captured Tsooru, seven miles to the southeast and 21 miles east of Valga, which sits astride the Estonian-Latvian border. Murati, near the Latvian border 21 miles southwest of Petseri, also was seized as Russian troops poured into northern Latvia.

Three villages were captured in an arc around Aluksne Lake in Latvia by Russian columns which were less than four miles from the town of Aluksne, an important highway and rail town. These were Skrini, on the northern side of the lake, Aizupe on the east, and Salni on the southeast.

Berlin Admits Bitter Fighting

The Soviet communique was one of the shortest since thte summer offensive began June 23, but its brevity did not necessarily mean an absence of fighting. Berlin, in fact, told of bitter conflicts at almost every point along the heaving 1,000-mile front from the Baltics to the Carpathians.

The Russians were acknowledged to have gained some ground north east of Warsaw in the movemen aimed at flanking that Polish capital on the north by reaching the Vustula river. Berlin also admitted Russian gains west of the Vistula river 100 miles south of Warsaw, and again repeated that the Russians also had established a bridgehead near Warka, only 30 miles below Warsaw.

Gen. Zakharov's troops now hold a broad front opposite East Prussia. Three other Soviet armies also menace this easternmost German province on a front extending from Warsaw to the Baltic at a point west of Riga.

Costs Foe Several Thousand Dead

Gen. Ivan Bagramian's First Baltic army in Lithuania during the day beat off heavy German counterattacks near Raseiniai, 53 miles northwest of the East Prussian rail city of Tilsit, the bulletin said.

The day's fighting cost the Germans several thousand dead, the midnight supplement said.

Northwest and west of Sandomierz, in the area of central Poland where the Russians have established a huge bridgehead west of the Vistula river below Warsaw, the Russians repulsed heavy German tank and infantry counterattacks in the gruelling struggle to expand their holdings which already consist of nearly 1,500 square miles.

Great Battle Raging

"A great battle is raging northwest of Bialystok," said the Nazi news agency Transocean in announcing the fall of Osowiec and the retreat of German troops to the wester nside of the Biebrza.

Red Shock Troops

30.24 — 17989

"The Russians have started their big drive for East Prussia and according to their own statements the impending major battle will call for a very great trial of strength during the next few days and weeks."

Berlin broadcasts also acknowledged Soviet advances northeast of Warsaw, where the Russians are within 11 miles of the Polish capital in a broad flanking drive aimed at reaching the Vistula river north of the city.

Inside Warsaw the Poles said their unerground forces still were fighting the Germans in the streets, and Berlin itself told of "mopping up" operations against the Poles.

Captured Osowiec is 35 miles northwest of Bialystok and 25 miles southeast of Lyck, East Prussian rail junction on the fringe of the Masurian lakes—first World War battleground.

Swarms of Stormovik fighter-bombers pounded the Germans in the 15-mile corridor between the shattered Biebrza river defenses and the East Prussian frontier, and Moscow dispatches said that at many points on the German side of the border traffic was brought to a standstill by continuous air attacks.

Konigsberg and Lyck in East Prussia, Warsaw, Grodno and Bialystok cross there. The city lies twenty-five miles below Lyck and is considered a fortress key to the marshland approaches to the difficult Masurian Lake country of East Prussia.

At midnight, Moscow announced the fall of Goniadz, four miles to the east. It is this region that a fresh Russian offensive, flanking both East Prussia and Warsaw, is gaining momentum.

The Berlin radio acknowledged fresh Russian advances in the Baltic States southwest of Lake Pskov. In that region, twenty to twenty-five German divisions have been severed from land communications by a Russian corridor to the Baltic Sea west of Riga.

The German communique reported bitter fighting in Russian bridgeheads across the Vistula River west of Baranow, 110 miles below Warsaw, and southeast of Warka, thirty-two miles below the Polish capital.

Southwest of Lake Pskov in the encircled Baltic region, the German bulletin said embittered fighting is going on with Soviet forces which made a further advance. The Soviets were declared attacking in Latvia "with superior forces," an expression which appeared to be preparing the German home front for news of another major reverse.

thirty-five miles.

Red Army forces apparently striving to rip Nazi defenses in East Prussia wide open from the south menaced the enemy stronghold of Lomza, vital communications center that links embattled Warsaw with the Junker province.

[The German radio said that strong Russian forces, supported by many tanks and planes, succeeded in gaining some ground northwest of Bialystok—the drive threatening East Prussia from the south and Warsaw from the north.]

Great tank battles continued west of the Vistula in the Kielce region about 100 miles south of Warsaw and within thirty-five miles of Krakow, the last great Polish bastion guarding industrial centers of German Silesia, seventy-five miles from advanced Russian elements. The Germans were counter-attacking vainly.

Virtually no news came from the siege of Warsaw itself, where the Russians were planted just outside the Polish capital on the eastern side of the broad and swift Vistula. Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky still was bringing up tanks, supplies and reserves and building communications.

Since Friday the Russians between Warsaw and East Prussia have bitten deep into German lines, capturing 530 settlements and forcing three rivers, the Narew, the upper Bug and the Biebrza, crossed Sunday. Progress here was one of the major strategic victories of the summer campaign, for the Germans had mounted massive counter-attacks in futile attempts to destroy this threatening wing of Russians.

Rokossovsky's Army group was pressing north and northwestward on a sixty-five-mile front from the Bug northwest of Warsaw. The important communications center of Lomza, Ostrow and Ostroleka lay within his grasp, and there are virtually no other large towns before the east Prussian frontier.

At the same time, a Soviet communique disclosed that the twin armies of Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky and Gen. G. F. Zakharov, whose mammoh drive to outflank Warsaw on a 100-mile front has reached almost the entire length of the Warsaw-Bialystok railroad, had cleared the Germans from more than 180 settlements northeast of the Polish capital.

Germans Paid Big Price.

The Russians announced Gen. Andrei Yeremenko's Second Baltic Army, now almost half way across Latvia, had killed or captured nearly 70,000 Germans in a month, boosting to 609,526 the Nazi casualties inflicted in the summer offensive.

Mostawka, 11 miles northeast of Warsaw, was taken by Tokossovsky's troops. That town and captured Sulejow, 26 miles northeast of Warsaw, are only two miles from the Warsaw-Bialystok rail line.

Soviet rifle units supported by tanks and planes were 27 miles from the East Prussia city of Lyck, along the main highway—rail lines running northwest from Bialystok.

Reds Capture Polish Fortress

Nazi Bastion on Approach to East Prussia, Osowiec, Is Taken by Storm.

London, Aug. 14 (A. P.).—The capture of the fortress town of Osowiec, a Polish communications center fifteen miles south of the Masurian Lake region of East Prussia, was announced by Premier Stalin tonight in an order of the day.

Hours earlier the German radio had told of the evacuation of the town and the withdrawal of the Nazi lines "a few kilometers to the west."

Stalin's order, broadcast by the Moscow radio and recorded by the Soviet Monitor here, said the Second White Russian Army Group of Col.-Gen. G. F. Zakharov "carried by storm the town and fortress of Osowiec, powerful fortified district in the German defenses on the river Biebrza covering the approaches of East Prussia." He ordered twelve salvos fired from 124 guns in a victory salute.

Osowiec is a Polish city on the Biebrza River which the Russians forced on Sunday. Railroads from Zero Hour Near.

Moscow, Aug. 14 (A. P.).—The zero hour for an all-out Soviet assault on East Prussia appeared to be approaching rapidly today as Russian armies massed in a great threatening arc before the borders of that German province.

Russian units to the south were fifteen to seventeen miles from the East Prussia frontier, while to the east other Soviet forces were seven to ten miles away and to the north from thirty to

Poles Wage Revolt With Allied Guns

Moscow Denies Fight Coordinated With Red Drive.

LONDON, Aug. 14 (AP) — Polish underground forces fighting the Germans inside Warsaw have received a small quantity of arms and ammunition from their Allies in the west during the past two days, enabling them to continue resistance, Polish authorities in London said today.

On Extremely Small Scale

This assistance still is on an extremely small scale, however, and Poles here expressed fear Gen. Bors' troops may be wiped out in a matter of days unless Warsaw meanwhile is liberated by the advancing Red Army.

A communique from Gen. Bors said the Germans are using flamethrowers in their assaults on the underground forces in Warsaw, and that the enemy captured the Stawk district Sunday. It added underground forces repulsed attacks in the center of Warsaw and scored minor successes in Zoliborz, a northern residential district.

Destroyer Shells West Bank

All day yesterday a German destroyer shelled the west bank of the Vistula river between the Poniatowski bridge and the railroad to Danzig, said the communique.

Meanwhile a statement by Tass, official Soviet Russian news agency, that the Warsaw uprising was ordered without a previous effort to coordinate it with the timetable of the Soviet High Command drew the explanation from the Poles here that the underground had been ordered to attack when it did to prevent the Germans from looting the city while evacuating it and also to hamstring enemy reserves going into action against the Russians.

Soviet Appeal Cited

These Poles also asserted that the Moscow radio on July 30 appealed in Polish for the citizens to rise against the Germans and become a million-strong army for the liberation of the city. They declared that Gen. Bors gave the signal for his troops to open the battle Aug. 1 when Russian artillery was heard on the outskirts of Warsaw.

Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk of the London Polish Government-in-Exile, back here after his mission to Moscow, began a series of conferences with cabinet colleagues and talked with British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden in his search for a formula to keep the wheels moving toward a durable Russian-Polish understanding.

Frankly Downcast

London Poles were frankly downcast over the inconclusive outcome of the parleys in Moscow.

One of the difficulties leading to the suspension of the parleys was the contention of the National Committee that Poland's authoritarian constitution of 1935 must be repudiated. Another was the question of boundaries.

Stalin was reported to have signified his willingness to accept any frontiers on which all sections of Polish opinion could agree, but the National Committee emphasized it was not seeking the return of eastern areas taken by Russia in 1939 and wanted, instead, territorial compensation at the expense of a defeated Germany.

the northern residential district of Zoliborz, the communique added.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden held a luncheon conference today with Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk and other Polish leaders to discuss last week's Polish conversations in Moscow. The Premier had failed to reach an accord with the Soviet-sponsored Polish National Committee of Liberation, but the prospect of further conferences was left open.

Bor's Forces Face Nazi Flamethrowers

London, Aug. 14 (AP)—The Germans are using flame throwers to screen their assaults on Warsaw positions of the Polish underground forces, a communique from General Bor, underground commander, said today.

The bulletin, distributed by the London Polish Government, said a German destroyer shelled the west bank of the Vistula river between the Poniatowski bridge and the railroad to Danzig all day yesterday.

The Germans took the Stawk district adjoining the railway station, but underground troops repulsed attacks in the center of Warsaw and made minor gains in the northern residential district of Zoliborz.

man strongpoints along the escape corridor only 3,000 yards in front of Allied troops.

Bombing by the mediums was accurate and without loss. Shortly before midday great waves of Royal Air Force heavy bombers exploded a path through the German positions for the advancing Canadians.

Some 750 Fortresses and Liberators streamed into the Reich to plaster the I. G. Farben Industrie chemical plant at Ludwigshafen,

3,000 Allied Bombers Smash Nazi Territory

By Ned [illegible]

LONDON, Aug. 14—(AP)—Relentless armadas of close to 3,000 American and British heavy bombers smashed Germany's home and fighting fronts today in answer to Gen. Eisenhower's call to deny with all aerial might German ability either to fight on or flee.

Industrial Targets Battered

Two explosive-packed air fleets totalling nearly 1,500 American Flying Fortresses and Liberators lashed at already battered industrial targets in southern Germany and at airdromes and freight yards from northeastern to southwestern France.

A British bomber force predominantly heavies blasted pairs through the German lines in the Falaise sector in direct support of the major Canadian drive southward attempting to close the narrowing gap to trap Field Marshal Guenther von Kluge's scattered and retreating Seventh Army.

Riviera Hit

Up to 750 American heavy bombers at the same time struck from Italy, smashing German military installations in the Riviera section in the south of France for the third consecutive day of incessant operations by tactical forces of the Mediterranean command.

The weather, after a hazy start, cleared beautifully to aid the Allies in their continued hammering offensive against enemy roads, junctions, bridges, freight yards and troops. There was every indication that today's hammering was equal in intensity to the aerial onslaught of the past two days.

Supports Canadian Push

Marauders and Mitchells of the Second Tactical Air Force started an aerial offensive in front of the Canadian push shortly before noon, pointing specifically for three Ger-chemical [illegible] an electrical equipment factory at Mannheim where parts for jet-propelled planes are made, and air force stations at Sandhofen, near Mannheim, and Echterdingen, near Stuttgart.

(Continued on Page Three)

Bombers Left Alone

None of the few enemy fighters that were seen attempted to engage the bombers which were escorted by Mustangs and Thunderbolts. Enroute home the fighters strafed airfields and other targets in Germany and France, destroying several planes on the ground.

Intense flak was encountered over Mannheim and Ludwigshafen and three bombers and one fighter were missing from the operation. This brought the total loss from all operations of the Eighth Air Force heavies and fighters to four bombers and four fighters.

A second force of up to 750 Fortresses and Liberators visually bombed the railway yard at Angouleme in the Bordeaux area, bridges northeast of Paris, and Metz-Frescapy, Lyon-Bron, Dole-Tavaux and Dijon-Longvic airdromes. The last three are in the vicinity of Dijon.

Little Fighter Opposition

Mitchells and the heavies' escorts of Mustangs met little fighter opposition in strafing and bombing forays along the Seine River and east of Paris.

Enemy shipping at the besieged Brittany port of Brest received another shattering blow from British heavy Lancasters which now have dropped 12,000 tons since Aug. 6 on the Nazi submarine pens at Brest.

Eighth Airforce fighter-bombers as well as planes of the Ninth and Second Tactic Air Force were out in full force blasting the enemy's armor and his back-tracking troops.

Great Heap of Wreckage

Returning pilots said that daylight movement was not as great as previously from the Falaise and Argentan gap but spoke almost in awe of the great heap of twisted wreckage which they hit again to make sure the Nazi vehicles were unrepairable.

Bag of the Eighth's fighter-bombers for the week ended yesterday was 900 locomotives immobilized, 1,800 railroad cars destroyed including many carrying German troops, 6,200 railroad cars damaged, 525 additional oil tank cars destroyed and 355 damaged, 188 additional ammunition cars destroyed, 572 motor vehicles destroyed or damaged.

In all these far-flung attacks not a single enemy fighter came up to challenge the Americans, although the Germans attempted to defend the rail routes with intense anti-aircraft fire.

Smash at Rail Transport

The airmen began by smashing at rail transport in Pas de Calais because the Germans were known to be trying to bring supplies down from Belgium.

The planes went out in flights of as many as 300 at a time. They split into squadrons and attacked the targets individually as they found them.

The ninth in the week ended yesterday destroyed 170 tanks and listed 90 others as probably destroyed or damaged. In that period the Ninth destroyed 25 German planes in the air and lost 57.

Many of the week-long attacks were so successful that fighter-bomber pilots returning to the same areas today found all rail traffic at a standstill.

From Strtegic to Tactical

A senior officer of the Eighth fighter command disclosed that the Eighth's fighters switched from normal strategic operations to tactical work in support of the Allied armies in France because of the fast-developing ground situation and knowledge that the Germans were attempting to supply and reinforce their frontline troops largely by rail through Paris.

Reconnaissance showed that Paris railway yards were jammed and the enemy was known to be in a bad position because of his lack of many kinds of supplies. The Eighth's bomb-carrying fighters were turned loose a week ago today with instructions to rip up everything they could find in the way of rail transport in the area north of the Seine to Belgium and east from Paris to the German border.

The Ninth at the same time concentrated on areas nearer the battlezone.

3,500 Planes Hit Reich, France Targets

BEALMEAR

AUG 15 1944

London, Aug. 14 (AP)—The German radio asserting that large Allied convoys were streaming through the Strait of Gibraltar into the Mediterranean, speculated tonight that landings in the south of Europe were imminent.

London, Aug. 14 (AP)—More than 3,500 American and British planes today bombed war industries in southern Germany, enemy installations throughout France and shipping in the great port of Brest, while harrying the Germans in their retreat in Normandy.

They struck from British and Italian bases.

Up to 1,500 United States Flying Fortresses and Liberators from England attacked German war industries at Mannheim and Ludwigshafen and German airfields, rail yards and bridges in both Germany and France.

DAY

South France Hit Again

Another fleet of up to 750 American heavy bombers struck from Italy at military objectives in the south of France for the third consecutive day. They also battered the northwest Italian coast again. The heavies flew without escorts. Mustangs and Lightnings flew separately and strafed targets in the same areas which the bombers hit. Targets were not immediately identified.

Hundreds of British medium and heavy bombers hammered Nazi lines in the Falaise sector to pace the new Canadian offensive. A large flight of heavy Lancaster bombers earlier had bombed German shipping at Brest.

Bridges Battered

More than 250 Marauders and Havocs plastered bridges, road and rail junctions, including half a dozen highway spans over the Touques river between Pont-l'Eveque, ten miles north of Lisieux, and Gace, 25 miles south of Lisieux, in the immediate path of the fleeing Germans.

They also bombed road and rail junctions and bridges both east and west of Paris and around Amiens.

Up to 750 Flying Fortresses of the English-based Eighth United States Air Force, escorted by Mustangs and Thunderbolts, rained tons of explosives upon the I. G. Farbenindustrie chemical plant at Ludwigshafen, upon an electrical equipment factory at Mannheim, and upon German air force stations near Mannheim and near Stuttgart in Germany. At the same time 750 more Fortresses and Liberators of the Eighth attacked airfields in eastern and northeastern France, railroads in southwestern France and bridges northeast of Paris.

Germans Are Frantic.

Thunderbolt pilots said this afternoon that American tanks were flushing the German tanks out from cover, so that our fighter-bombers could dispose of them on the roads.

"The Germans must be frantic," said Major Leo C. Moon of Demaih, Idaho, a Thunderbolt squadron leader. "If they move, we spot them from the air and in no time they are literally being swarmed. If they stop, our tanks catch them and finish them off."

The Germans had reversed their tank turrets and were firing behind them as the American tanks chased them a quarter of a mile behind, flyers declared, and Major Harold G. Shock, a Thunderbolt pilot from San Francisco, said that the German armored units were retreating on secondary roads in a haphazard fashion.

Fleeing Nazis Lashed

Another day of excellent weather sent the tactical air forces lashing anew at von Kluge's battered divisions fleeing from Normandy.

Swarming down only 3,000 yards in front of Allied troops, Mitchells and Bostons of the Second Tactical Air Force successfully attacked three German strong points along the front of the German escape corridor in Normandy. Returning crews said the bombing was very accurate and not a plane was lost.

Hanover Pounded

These assaults followed a night of activity by RAF Mosquitos, formations of which, the Air Ministry announced, blasted Hanover and returned without loss, while other British planes mined enemy waters.

Marauders, bombing with the aid of flares, rained explosives on troops and ammunition stores dispersed in the Forest d' Halouse, some 15 miles east of Mortain, where the Germans were putting up the stiffest rear-guard resistance.

Mosquito squadrons bombed and strafed rail lines from the battle area to Paris. Many raidiated northeast from that city. Direct hits were scored on a bridge over the Orne.

Allied airmen flew more than 5,500 sorties in all-day blows yesterday at everything moving between the battlefront and the Seine river.

Smashed At Will

The Germans are now in the position Allied air forces have been hoping for since D-day. They have been driven to daylight withdrawal, putting all their manpower and material on the open road, where bombers and fighters can blast them at will.

This situation was forecast recently by Air Chief Marshal Sir Trafford L. Leigh-Mallory, who promised that once it developed his airmen would turn enemy withdrawals into a rout.

The United States Eighth Air Force reported that its fighter-bombers had destroyed or damaged more than 6,000 railroad cars in operation over France in the last two days, along with 594 locomotives, 931 motor vehicles and more than 100 barges.

Among the railroad cars were 154 carrying ammunition, and 433 tank cars.

In addition United States Ninth Air Force fighter-bombers knocked out 30 tanks, 144 railroad cars, 2 locomotives, 309 motor vehicles, 30 horse-drawn vehicles, 40 gun positions and 3 ammunition dumps and cut rail lines at 11 places.

170 Tanks Destroyed

In the week ended yesterday, the Ninth Air Force reported its fighter-bombers chalked up a score of 170 tanks destroyed plus 90 probably destroyed or damaged, 1,798 motor vehicles destroyed and 440 damaged, 825 railroad cars destroyed, 40 probably destroyed and 650 damaged.

In the week the Ninth Air Force pilots destroyed 25 German planes in the air while losing 57 planes.

Allies Sink 5 Ships Off Coast Of France

London, Aug. 14 (AP)—Allied warships patrolling the Bay of Biscay and the Channel coast around Brittany sank five enemy ships and possibly a sixth in a series of skirmishes Saturday, the Admiralty announced yesterday.

Also announced was the loss of the British destroyers Ivis and Quorn, three minesweepers and two trawlers in invasion operations.

Churchill Confers With Slav Leaders

London, Aug. 14 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill, Yugoslav Partisan Leader Marshal Tito and Premier Ivan Subasic of the Exile Yugoslav Government met in Italy Saturday and yesterday, it was announced here today, for talks which may do much toward shaping the post-war fate of Yugoslavia.

A brief announcement from the Prime Minister's residence at 10 Downing street said:

"On August 12 and 13 the Prime Minister had meetings in Italy with the Yugoslav Prime Minister and Marshal Tito, at which political and military questions were discussed in a spirit of entire frankness.

DAY

To Continue Discussions

Marsal Tito and the Yugoslav Prime Minister propose to continue these discussions, which are animated by the desire of each side to make the largest contribution to the common welfare of Yugoslavia."

The conferences culminated a series of maneuvers from which Tito apparently has emerged as a dominant figure in Yugoslav affairs. It was generally believed here that the talks would pave the way for more active military support of Tito's Partisans, who have been credited with keeping as many as 17 German divisions busy.

Berlin Radio Denies Von Papen Dismissal

LONDON, Aug. 14 (AP)—Franz von Papen, whose mission as ambassador to Turkey was listed as a failure when that country broke off diplomatic and economic relations with the Reich, is still in the good graces of the Nazis, the German news agency Transocean indicated in a broadcast heard tonight by Associated Press monitors.

The agency indirectly spiked rumors that the Nazis' ace intriguer would be named envoy to the Vatican but said a government spokesman who saw von Papen yesterday suggested he would be held available in Germany to watch future Turkish moves.

Transocean expressed doubt that Turkey would enter the war, asserting that severance of relations with Germany was the price she paid to the Allies in order to remain non-belligerent.

Reds in Accord On Civil Flying

London, Aug. 14 (A. P.).—The United States and Russia have agreed in a preliminary conference that it would be expedient to organize an international commission for civil aviation with advisory functions on technical matters, the Moscow radio said today.

DAY

The broadcast said that the discussions were conducted in Washington in July at the suggestion of the American Government and resulted in a "general understanding of mutual interests and points of view of both countries concerning the tasks and development of post-war international aviation."

U. S. AND RUSSIA SEEKING AIR PACT

Washington, Aug. 14 (A. P.).—Secretary of State Hull announced today that a preliminary understanding has been reached with Russia on post-war civil aviation. Secretary Hull's announcement said that both sides favor the establishment of an international authority for civil aviation, with consultative and technical functions.

The agreement was reached during conferences with the Russian air mission during June and July. Secretary Hull emphasized that the conversations were preliminary and exploratory, and that "no commitments were made on either side."

"Views were exchanged in a friendly atmosphere, and an understanding was reached of the points of view of both countries with respect to post-war developments in civil aviation," the State Department said. Meanwhile, similar talks have been going on with China, the Netherlands and Great Britain and are scheduled to begin with other countries looking toward a United Nations air conference which may be held this year.

Richard Strauss Reported Held

AT THE GERMAN FRONTIER, Aug. 14 (AP)—Composer Richard Strauss has been placed under house arrest somewhere in Austria, travelers from Vienna reported today. This could not be confirmed, but it is known that a number of his public appearances recently were canceled.

Frontone Falls To Allies In Italy Fighting

AUG 15 1944

Only Significant Action Of Day — Front Quiet.

HERE AND

ROME, Aug. 14 (AP)—Eighth Army troops inching toward the Adriatic end of the Germans' Gothic Line in Italy have captured the mountain town of Frontone on the north bank of the Cesano river 27 miles from the sea, Allied headquarters announced today.

Only Significant Action

This was the only significant ground action along the Italian front, where Allied authorities devoted their major effort to the relief of the hungry and thirsty civil population of Florence.

Allied motor convoys poured ton after ton of food and water into the historic city. The Allied military government reported 450 tons of food already had been distributed. Anti-typhus serum and other medical supplies also were sent into the city which the Germans had evacuated.

Within the city clashes between Italian patriots and Fascists, which had brought indiscriminate shooting, tapered off to occasional sniping.

NIGHT

Official reports gave nothing further on earlier unverified reports that the Germans were causing demolitions in the northern part of the city.

Along the entire Italian front fighting dwindled to a few patrol actions. There were a few artillery exchanges across the Arno river, but Empoli was occupied by the Allies without fighting.

Kesselring Order

Allied headquarters disclosed that Nazi Marshal Gen. Albert Kesselring had issued a pamphlet declaring vigorous punishment would be meted out to Italian civilians attacking German supply and communication lines behind the front. Shooting will be the penalty for aiding "bandits," the pamphlets said.

Frontone Taken By 8th Army

30.24— 17991

In Italy

Washington, Aug. 14 (AP)—Secretary of the Navy Forrestal was disclosed today to be among the high Allied leaders present in Italy during recent days. An Army Signal Corps picture showed Forrestal on an inspection tour of the Fifth Army front.

Rome, Aug. 14 (AP)—Eighth Army troops captured Frontone, 27 miles inland from the Adriatic coast in the Appennines, in the only major advance along the Italian front, headquarters announced today.

Sniping died down in Florence, enabling Allied military government officials to supply the stricken city with food, water and other necessities without major difficulty, the Allied command said.

Empoli Occupied

Empoli, the Arno river city west of Florence, fell to the Eighth Army without a fight yesterday. Although enemy movements were observed on the north side of the Arno near Piso in the Fifth Army sector, there was only scant fighting on the whole front.

General Alexander's headquarters said a pamphlet issued by Nazi Marshal Kesselring threatened stringent relatiation against Italian civilians for attacks which jeopardized Nazi supply and communication lines behind the front.

Shootings Threatened

The pamphlet said shooting would be the penalty for aiding Patriot "bandits," failing to report activities of Patriots, or giving them information about German military installations.

Attacks on German soldiers or acts of sabotage in Italian villages would be punished by burning the village, shooting male inhabitants over 18 and interning all women in labor camps, the pamphlet added.

Rhone Bridges Attacked

ROME, Aug. 14 (AP)—The Mediterranean Air Force, striking at southern France for the third successive day, hit hard at bridges over the Rhone and coastal installations yesterday, it was announced today.

Liberators, escorted by Mustangs, attacked spans across the Rhone artery at Avignon and St. Esprit, thirty-five miles to the north. Bridges across the Rhone tributaries at Orange and Crest also were attacked.

Other Liberators and Flying Fortresses attacked military installations along the coast in the Marseilles and Toulon area and on the Italian coast in the region of Genoa.

The Montelimar airfield, ninety-five miles north of Marseilles, again was attacked.

Marauders and Mitchells also concentrated on targets in southern France, hitting radio installations, gun positions and other objectives.

Royal Air Force bombers attacked the port of Genoa last night, and the Balkan air force bombed German concentrations in Yugoslavia.

GEN. CLARK DREAMS OF FISH

Rome, Aug. 14 (A. P.)—When the war is over, Lieut.-Gen. Mark W. Clark's ambition is to retire to Camano Island in Puget Sound and "fish for the rest of my life."

This was disclosed in a lengthy press release on the general issued today by his public relations staff.

Vatican Again Denies Stalin Wrote To Pope

Vatican City, Aug. 14 (AP)—The Vatican issued a new and stronger denial today of a report that Premier Stalin had sent a note to Pope Pius proposing collaboration between Russia and the Holy See for solution of post-war problems.

The Vatican newspaper, Osservatore Romano, said. "The very nature of the rumor, the means by which it has been spread and the particulars given have already induced more than one newspaper to inquire into the possible truth of it."

De Gaulle Lauds Roosevelt

ALGIERS, Aug. 14 (AP).—General Charles de Gaulle, commenting today on President Roosevelt's speech Saturday, said that no one understands better than France Mr. Roosevelt's preoccupation with future security. Pointing out that Mr. Roosevelt had said America's security lies in the Pacific, De Gaulle declared "Ife is right," and added, "France's security is on the Rhine."

Japanese Hit Back Heavily to Safeguard Hold On Central China Fortress—Heavy Fighting The Rule Throughout Whole Area.

By Spencer Moosa

CHUNGKING, Aug. 14—(AP)—Chinese forces redoubled their attacks on the city of Hengyang today and the Japanese hit back savagely to safeguard their hold on the Central China fortress.

Heavy Fighting General

Heavy fighting was general throughout the Hengyang area. The Chinese High Command said its troops repulsed repeated assaults south of Hengyang.

In the Salween river drive in western Yunnan, Chinese marshalling their strength for an all-out attack on the walled city of Tengchung repulsed five Japanese counterblows. The Chinese clung to their foothold in the western corner of the ancient city's walls and also repulsed enemy efforts to dislodge them from positions in the southern corner.

Preparing for Attack

In this Burma Road offensive the Chinese had nearly completed their preparations for an attack on a large hill mass southeast of Lungling and the last strong Japanese position east of the town.

In the Hengyang battle area an enemy unit crossed the Siang river from a point 18 miles northwest of Leiyang, 30 miles below Hengyang, and drove northward before it was intercepted.

The Chinese recaptured several strategic points north of Leiyang and also took several more such points in the environs of Liling, 75 miles northeast of Hengyang. A Japanese attack on Chinese positions in the northwestern suburbs of Siangsiang, 60 miles north of Hengyang, was beaten back.

U. S. Planes Active

Bombers and fighters of the U. S. 14th Air Force kept up intensive activity over the China battle areas and returned from all their operations without loss. In the Yangtze river area P-40s of a Chinese American wing destroyed three and damaged three out of a patrol of 20 enemy aircraft, sank a boat loaded with gasoline and damaged two others.

A Chinese correspondent reported that a section of the Burma Road east of the Salween river, destroyed by the Chinese in 1942 during the Japanese conquest of Burma, now has been restored completely and is busy with traffic between Kunming and the river.

One section of the road was nicknamed Woman-Baby Highway by an American engineer because it was repaired by women and children since all men were in the army.

All-Out Tengchung Drive Is Set

Chungking, Aug. 14 (AP)—Chinese troops are massing for a full-scale assault on the ancient walled city of Tengchung, a main goal in their western Yunnan offensive, a Chinese communique said today.

The Chinese said they still were supported by Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault's 14th Air Force.

Other Chinese forces are continuing preparations to retake Lungling, Japanese stronghold astride the Burma road, and also are maintaining steady pressure on the isolated garrison at Sungshan, to the northeast, the announcement said.

Still Fight For Hengyang

On the Hunan front the Chinese indicated they are striving to recapture the strategic railway center of Hengyang. Heavy fighting, costly to both sides, was reported swirling around the city. The Chinese said part of an enemy force had been wiped out five miles to the southeast.

(A Japanese communique broadcast today by the Tokyo radio said Japanese troops had repulsed Chinese forces "which gathered around Hengyang" and asserted that "our units now are preparing the next stage of operations." The bulletin asserted 66,468 Chinese dead had been counted in Hunan between May 27 and August 8 and gave Japanese losses as 5,343 killed.)

Chinese Redoubling Attack on Hengyang

Section of Burma Road Repaired and Back in Use

Strip Between Kunming and Salween River Open to Traffic

CHUNGKING, Aug. 14 (AP).—A section of the Burma Road east of the Salween River, which the Chinese destroyed in 1942 as the Japanese conquered Burma, has been repaired and is now busy with traffic between Kunming and the river, a Chinese correspondent reported today.

Under the supervision of American and Chinese engineers, all sharp turns have been eliminated, the roadbed has been smoothed and broadened, and bridges and culverts have been strengthened.

An American engineer nicknamed one section of the road the "woman-baby highway" because it was repaired entirely by Chinese women and children when all men were drafted for military service.

The correspondent found that all towns and villages along the road had been restored.

U.S. BOMBERS BLAST HALMAHERA BASES

Heavy Air Attacks Neutralize Airdromes, Immobilize Ground Troops.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, Tuesday, Aug. 15—(AP) Gen. Douglas MacArthur's bombers have "practically neutralized" the Japanese airdromes on Halmahera island, headquarters announced today.

Halmahera's "maritime forces have been largely interdicted and its ground troops immobilized" by "sustained air assaults", which were continued Sunday, today's communique declared.

A spokesman added that Japan's main defense line from the Halmahera group through the Philippines has thus been threatened.

Halmahera lies about 200 miles west of New Guinea and 250 to 300 miles south of Mindanao.

In addition to new raids upon Halmahera, Liberators pounded Manokwari on Western Dutch New Guinea with 80 tons of bombs.

Timor island, northwest of Darwin, Australia, was hammered with 20 tons of bombs.

Other planes swept the southwest coast of Dutch New Guinea while air and naval patrols in the lower Geelvink bay and Maccluer gulf areas destroyed five barges and many supply-laden trucks.

Of the Halmahera operations, the communique said:

Our air attacks were continued, causing great fires and explosives.

"Since the seizure of Biak, Noemfoor and Sansapor, our effective and sustained air assaults against the enemy's positions in the Dutch East Indies, especially his air bases, has greatly weakened the great bastion stronghold centered at Halmahea.

"His airfields there and at contiguous intermediate bases are practically neutralized, his maritime forces largely interdicted, and his ground troops immobilized in their present positions.

"The flexibility of this great base from which previously his forces of all categories could be rapidly distributed to points where they were needed is now gone.

"Should he fail to retrieve his weakness, the main line of defense of his conquered empire in the Southwest Pacific, extending through the Halmaheras and the Philippines, is threatened."

Sansapor is on the northwest tip of Dutch New Guinea, and Biak and Noemfoor island are in Geelvink harbor 150 to 200 miles to the east.

60 Pacific Fighters Become U. S. Citizens

AN ADVANCED U. S. BASE, Southwest Pacific (Delayed) (AP)—Sixty American combat troops, fighting the Japanese on this New Guinea perimeter, came out of foxholes and other front line positions recently to be naturalized.

Dr. Henry B. Hazard, of the U. S. immigration and naturalization service, administered the final oath of citizenship about 1,000 yards behind the firing line as the Royal Australian Air Force protected the participants with an aerial umbrella.

After the oath the new citizens trotted back to their foxholes and combat stations.

STEP UP RAIDS ON PHILIPPINES

Allies Now Hope for Victory Without Invading Japan.

Pearl Harbor, Aug. 14 (A. P.).—The fourth bombing of the Philippines in five days and new air blows north and south of Japan were portents today of a war moving west and so fast that Admiral Chester W. Nimitz may have to advance his headquarters to catch up with it. Emphasizing this heightened tempo of the offensive, Admiral Nimitz told a press conference that the war may be won without invading Japan — although occupation "would be necessary to insure a winning peace"—and mentioned the possibility of American warships bombarding Japan.

In looking for a new headquarters, the admiral has his eye on the recently invaded Marianas, 3,000 miles away, more than 600 miles past Japanese-held Truk and within 1,500 miles of Tokyo.

It now can be disclosed that after his momentous conferences here with President Roosevelt and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Admiral Nimitz went to Guam and Saipan, consulted the fighting leaders there and has just returned, determined "to put the heat on as hard and fast as we can."

"I am not prepared to say now whether I will advance my headquarters to the Marianas," he said, "but I can say that I am constantly on the lookout for an opportunity to move closer to the fighting."

That fighting was carried again to the Philippines on Saturday, Gen. MacArthur announced today, by New Guinea - based Liberators which sank a 3,000-ton freighter in Davao Gulf. It was carried within 600 miles of Tokyo on Friday by Marianas-based Liberators which bombed the airfield and a cargo ship at Chichi Jima in the Bonins, south of Japan. Striking within less than 500 miles of northern Japan, Aleutians-based Liberators sank a patrol vessel and damaged another near Paramushiro in the Kuriles on Thursday.

In the Marianas Admiral Nimitz conferred with Vice-Admiral Richmond Kelley Turner who is establishing a huge invasion base at Saipan. He said that the American forces in the Marianas "are ready to go," and added: "I can assure the folks back home that these young men will never let them down."

He brought back a letter from liberated Guam, signed by a delegation on behalf of the more than 20,000 natives, attesting: "What kept us up throughout thirty-two months of Japanese oppression was our determined reliance upon our Mother Country's power, sense of justice and national brotherhood."

Japan Toiling Through New Type of War

American Air and Sea Forces Seem to Be Able to Move About at Will Even Deep Within Japanese Waters—Don't Know How Much They Can Take, Says Admiral

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Aug. 14—(AP)—Japan, in the plain, understandable words of Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, is toiling through "a new experience" in warfare that may bring her to her knees without the necessity of invading the Nippon homeland.

Emphasized By Attacks

The commander in chief of the mighty Pacific fleet voiced these thoughts at a press conference Sunday. His words were emphasized by aerial attacks on Japanese positions over a 3,500-mile battle arc from the northern Kuriles to Halmahera, south of the Philippines.

The aerial onslaught was a convincing demonstration of the admiral's pledge to "put the heat on as hard and fast as we can" in the Pacific.

"We do not know how much they can take before they'll throw in the sponge," said Nimitz, just returned from newly conquered bases in the Marianas after conferring with ranking commanders and disclosed he has in mind moving his headquarters to the Marianas. That would place him some 1,500 miles from either Japan or the Philippines.

Occupation Is Necessary

Regardless of whether Japan capitulates prior to invasion Nimitz envisaged occupation of Japan as necessary "to insure a winning peace." Although invasion may not be necessary, he said, "we should be prepared for it."

Earlier, Nimitz announced the latest aerial strikes in the campaign that is neutralizing enemy island defenses or leveling them in the forefront of invasion. They included raids against Paramushiro in the Kuriles, the Bonins south of Japan, Pagan and Rota islands in the Marianas, Truk and Ponape in the Carolines and isolated Japanese still hanging on in the Marshalls.

In the Halmehera area, on the southern invasion route to the Philippines, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported aerial strikes against enemy shipping. Big Liberator bombers penetrated Davao gulf to sink a 3,000-ton freighter. A coastal vessel was sunk near Halmahera, a direct hit scored on a 3,000-ton vessel and a 1,000-ton freighter left burning.

"Our plane landed in a river and we beached it on a sandy little island. People from the town came out in boats to meet us."

Others in the party were Frances Langford, Jerry Colonna, Patty Thomas and Tony Romano.

The plane was enroute from New Caledonia to Sydney when it made the crash landing near Laurieton, New South Wales, 276 miles north of Sydney. It developed engine trouble on the way from Guadalcanal.

The party, with the exception of Miss Langford who was reported "overtired," gave a charity show at the little town.

BOB HOPE SAFE IN PLANE CRASH

AUG 15 1944

Sydney, Australia, Aug. 14 (A. P.).—Comedian Bob Hope and his troupe of soldier entertainers escaped injury today in the crash-landing of a Catalina flying boat near Lauriston, New South Wales, Australia.

The plane, also carrying Frances Langford, the singer, developed engine trouble as it came in from Guadalcanal and landed on a sand spit near the fishing hamlet.

A relief plane will take the party on to Sydney tomorrow.

When one engine of the Catalina cut out, the passengers jettisoned some of their luggage, but this sacrifice was in vain and the pilot decided to set the plane down just before dusk.

A launch took the party to Laurieton. Hope walked into the town's little post office and announced to the postmaster, "I'm Bob Hope."

The postmaster had heard Hope on the radio, however, and refused to fall. Hope had to prove his identity, whereupon he was allowed to use the telephone.

Hope made his Australian premiere tonight as a hastily arranged charity concert in Laurieton's tiny town hall. Others in his party were Jerry Colonna, Patty Thomas and Tony Romano.

BOB HOPE TROUPE IN CRASH LANDING

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 14.—(AP) Comedian Bob Hope and his USO troupe touring the Southwest Pacific to entertain servicemen escaped injury when their plane developed engine trouble and crash-landed in a New South Wales river yesterday.

Was he worried as the plane came down?" What do you think?" He replied to newsmen's queries today.

"We had to throw a lot of our personal gear overboard to lighten the plane," he related. "We all let our souvenirs go first and then the girls had to throw some of their glamorous clothes. 'Twas very sad.

SO ROBOT PLANES ARE NOT ROCKETS

Melbourne, Aug. 14 (A. P.).—It is scientifically impossible for England to be shattered by gigantic rocket bombs or jet-propelled bombs, Frank G. Barnes, Australian inventor, said today, because they need a high trajectory reaching into the stratosphere, where they can't operate.

He said that a jet-controlled mass would lose its efficiency as it reached the rarified atmosphere and would drop before it could reach England from Europe. He also declared that rocket bombs depended on trajectory and would have to reach an altitude of several hundred miles to be effective from Europe. He added that jet-propulsion would never be feasible in the stratosphere.

The flying bombs which now strike Britain, he said, are totally different from rocket bombs, relying on planes and directional equipment to maintain straight travel at low altitude.

Sets N. Y.-to-London Mark

Beaverbrook Home in 17½ Hours on Plane Used by Churchill

MONTREAL, Aug. 14 (AP).—A famous Royal Air Force transport plane, the Commando, has arrived in London after carrying Lord Beaverbrook 3,465 miles from New York in the record time of 17 hours 28 minutes, it was revealed today.

The flight of the Commando, the airplane which had carried Prime Minister Churchill to Teheran, Moscow and Casablanca, was the first British non-stop flight from New York to London. Its time was 2 hours 36 minutes better than the record established by an American plane last year.

The flight gave Lord Beaverbrook two record performances on his trip to America and return. Another R. A. F. plane, the Marco Polo, set a new "Whitehall-to-White House" mark July 21 in taking him non-stop from London to Washington.

A Japanese communique broadcast today by the Tokyo radio and recorded by the Associated Press, said that Japanese troops had repulsed Chinese forces "which gathered around Hengyang" and asserted that "our units now are preparing the next stage of operations." The bulletin asserted 66,488 Chinese dead had been counted in Hunan between May 27 and August 8, and gave Japanese losses as 5,343 killed.

The Japanese Domei news agency claimed today that twenty-two allied planes were destroyed in a dawn raid on the air base of Liuchow, in Kwangsi province, yesterday. It said five large enemy planes were set afire.

Soviet Peace Proposal Arouses Much Interest

AUG 15 1944

Russian Proposal for Organizing World Peace Forces in Such a Manner as to Place Control In Hands of Great Powers Seen A Key to Red Thought.

By John M. Hightower

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—(AP)—A Russian proposal for organizing the post war peace in a manner which would place control firmly in the hands of the great powers capable of using force to suppress aggression has aroused intense interest among officials here as being probably the key to Soviet security planning.

Contained in Analysis

The proposal is contained in a lengthy analysis of failures of the League of Nations and suggestions for a new world organization which was recently published in a Leningrad writers magazine Zvezda.

The article reached Washington only a few days before an official document outlining Russia's ideas for the world security agency. These ideas will be presented at the four-power meetings opening Monday at Dumbarton Oaks, Georgetown estate.

The analysis was signed by N. Malinin, otherwise unidentified. There was speculation that the name might be a pseudonym for a Russian official, possibly vice commissar of Foreign Affairs Maxim Latvinov, who was for years Russia's representative to the League of Nations.

Of Great Significance

At any event there was a strong feeling here that the publication at this time was of great significance as an indication of what Soviet leaders want out of a security organization.

The main point of the Russian proposal is that the "genuinely guiding and decisive role" in the organization "must be assumed by the great powers, which have demonstrated in fact during the present war their greatness, stability and power."

This would be accomplished, the article implies, by creating the "directive organ" of the peace agency solely out of great powers and giving the world's small nations a position only in the general assembly of nations. The assembly would decide routine matters by majority vote and important questions by two-thirds vote so that there would be no "false equality" extending to the small powers a voice in decisions greater than their real influence in world affairs, the article declares.

Ties To Be Supplemented

The ties binding the great powers within the peace organization framework would be supplemented by separate treaties [illegible] covering the use of force which would be decided upon by the great states on a basis of unanimity.

"In these treaties," the Russian proposal states, "there must be defined as precisely as possible the role of each power in extinguishing this or that center of aggression. This role, of course, will not be the same for each power in each case and will depend on a number of political, geographical and strategic conditions, but at the same time their mutual aid to one another in any action for safeguarding peace must be assumed in one degree or another."

Regional Responsibility

Other sections of the article make clear that this means a regional responsibility for each great power in the maintenance of peace but no one of them would act except on unanimous agreement with the others.

On the question of organizing force for maintenance of peace, the Russian proposal calls for an international air force which would be able to strike swiftly against any aggressor, but it describes as impractical the organization of an out-and-out international police force.

"In some cases for sobering of an aggressor state," it is stated "it will be sufficient to break off diplomatic or commercial and financial relations, and also cut off railway, telegraphic and aerial communications. In other [illegible] serious cases recourse will be required to blockade and in [illegible] es [illegible] to naval and aerial [illegible]

One idea which has considerable support in [illegible] circles—the creation of international forces of each participating nation for the purpose of suppressing aggressors—is criticized in the analysis as [illegible] because [illegible] nation [illegible] participate [illegible] entire strength [illegible]

ALLIES AGREED ON SIGN ACCORD ON FRENCH RULE

[illegible] Aug. 15—(AP)—[illegible] in and the [illegible] letter are [illegible] agreements [illegible] liberated [illegible] committees [illegible]

The [illegible] patched [illegible] ing in[illegible] be finally [illegible] nd dispatched [illegible] D. Eisenhower [illegible] ey will [illegible] United States [illegible] wright [illegible] tary Act of [illegible] the [illegible] Britain. This [illegible] ing in a few days.

The United States [illegible] the "military [illegible] cial explained, [illegible] the status of a [illegible] subject to the [illegible] process of Senate ratification.

30-24— 17993

this method avoids any appearance of a political committment to the French committee.

A separate and parallel memorandum is being signed to provide for lend-lease shipments to the French.

The arrangements made by the British and French and the Americans and French are substantially the same on all points. They provide essentially that General Dwight D. Eisenhower will have supreme authority in France so long as the war continues there.

Eisenhower is to retain direct control of all military areas, including the combat zones and rear-area supply depots and the like. He is to turn over to the French for civil administration all other rear areas. It is up to him to fix the limits of the military and non-military areas.

One unexpected clause in the agreements, which was written in at the insistence of American conferees, provides there should be no French censorship of Allied correspondents in France. That means that only military censorship can be applied.

Signing of the agreements in conjunction with the swift advance of Allied armies in France is taken here to mean that the French committee, under General Charles de Gaulle, may open its own capital in metropolitan France soon, moving from Algiers.

U. S.-Cuba-Mexico Highway Considered

Washington, Aug. 14 (AP)—Senator Andrews (D., Fla.) reported today that officials of the United States, Cuba and Mexico are talking up a new "good neighbor superhighway"—one featuring two water hops via ferries.

He said the new route, designed to boost post-war tourist travel and commerce between the Americas, would have the following links:

1. Through Florida to Key West on roads already built.
2. A 90-mile jump to Havana by ferry.
3. West across Cuba for about 100 miles on a highway which must be improved.
4. A 175-mile ferry hop to Puerto Morelos on Mexico's Yucatan peninsula.
5. Across Mexico, via Merida, to San Cristobal, on a trail needing considerable work, to meet the regular Pan-American roadway.

Andrews said the project "seems entirely practical, since we already are ferrying whole trains from Florida to Cuba, and would be very inexpensive, since most of the roads are already built and we will have a great surplus of these ferries after the war." He plans to introduce legislation soon to create a Congressional committee to consider the idea.

"This good-neighbor super-highway could serve well as an alternate to the regular Pan-American roadway," Andrews commented. "It would be particularly valuable to the eastern seaboard, because it would reduce the driving distance from anywhere along there to Mexico City by more than 1,000 miles."

Andrews said it "would be the duty of the Congressional committee and the governments involved" to decide how the cost of the necessary road building should be financed.

MAIL SERVICE RESUMED WITH 8 ITALIAN AREAS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—(AP) Civilian mail service between the United States and eight additional Italian provinces was resumed today (Tuesday).

The service is limited temporarily to personal correspondence. No checks, drafts, securities or currency may be sent.

The provinces are Aquila, Campobasso, Chieti, Frosinone, Littoria, Pescara, Rome and Teramo. Previously, service was resumed with the city of Rome and Vatican City state; and Sicily, Sardinia, Bari, Brindisi, Catanzaro, Cosenza, Lecce, Matera, Potenza, Reggio, Calabria, Salerno, Taaranto, Naples, Avellino and Benevento.

The postoffice department announcement said mail service has not yet been resumed with the province of Foggia.

War Prisoners Total 226,416 in U. S.

Washington, Aug. 14 (A. P.).—The War Department has disclosed that on August 1 there were 226,416 Axis prisoners of war in the United States. Most of them are working, the department said, in occupations ranging from farming to logging.

U. S. DESTROYER SUNK

Washington, Aug. 14 (A. P.).—The 300-foot destroyer escort Fiske has been sunk by a torpedo launched from a German U-boat in the Atlantic.

A Navy announcement did not indicate how many of the approximately 150 men aboard lost their lives. Lieut. John A. Comly, the commander, was listed as a survivor.

The loss of the Fiske raises to 175 the number of American warships lost since the war started. This includes 134 sunk, thirty-two listed as overdue and presumed lost and nine destroyed to prevent capture by the enemy.

Gurney Denies F.D.R. Sought Guam Forts

AUG 14 1944

Says He Seeks to Make Inference Congress Opposed Move.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 (AP)—Declaring he was "amazed" by President Roosevelt's recent statement that "we weren't allowed to fortify Guam," Senator Gurney (R-SD) said today the chief executive never recommended to Congress that the Pacific island be fortified.

"I think the President's statement was a plain inference that Congress opposed him in such a program, and the record does not bear him out," Gurney said in a statement.

Fault Lies with Administration

"Certainly if there is any fault to be found, or responsibility placed as to why Pacific island outposts were not fortified—and I am thinking especially of Guam—then that responsibility lies definitely with the administration and is at complete variance with the President's statement x x x."

Gurney, a member of the Senate Military Committee, said the President in a speech July 27 at Scofield Barracks, Honolulu, included this statement: "At that time Hawaii was one of our major outposts. We were not allowed to fortify Guam."

"While listening to the President's speech Saturday night from the Bremerton Navy Yard, I caught again the idea that the President seemed to want to convey to the listeners that he was not allowed to fortify the islands in the Pacific, and especially Guam," he added.

Is Amazed

"This amazes me for I have been a consistent advocate of preparedness for our national defense and I am fully informed of the record in this matter. Certainly it is true that never at any time has the commander in chief, as president or individually, made any recommendations to Congress to fortify Guam."

Gurney's statement said that at Senate committee hearings in 1939 Admiral William D. Leahy, the President's chief of staff and then chief of naval operations, was asked what it would cost to fortify Guam.

"His reply was that it would take around $200,000,000, and furthermore, that such a proposition was not in the mind of the Navy Department at that time—only harbor improvements were contemplated which were to cost around $5,000,000," the statement said.

DEMANDS DATA ON MARAUDERS

AUG 15 1944

Senator Reynolds Asks About Merrill's Men.

Washington, Aug. 14 (A. P.).—Senator Reynolds (D.-N. C.), chairman of the Senate Military Affairs Committee, called on Secretary of War Stimson today for an official explanation of published reports that "sick men" among the famed Merrill's Marauders were called upon to defend the Myitkyina airport in northern Burma from a Japanese attack.

Senator Reynolds, in a letter to Mr. Stimson, asked also for a report on what he termed the practice of holding out "bait" in the form of promises of promotions and leaves to troops volunteering for special duty in the jungles in the China-Burma-India theater. He wrote that the Senate Military Committee should be "fully informed" on these points:

Lists Four Points.

"1. The question of unauthorized promises of promotions, leaves of absence, and early relief for those who would volunteer for special duty in the jungles, and what action the Army expects to take or has taken to prevent and discourage future use of such 'bait' to induce men to volunteer for exceptionally dangerous assignment.

"2. What has now been done with the volunteers of Merrill's Marauders who volunteered for a reported three months' special duty.

"3. What has been done to improve the reported breakdown in morale and the restoration of the confidence and faith these men should have in their leaders, but which they apparently lack?

"4. What fatalities, casualties, &c., were suffered by the unit (the Mauraders under the command of Brig.-Gen. Frank Merrill) as a result of the error in ordering sick men to the defense of the airport?"

Recalls Press Dispatches.

Senator Reynolds said he made the inquiries of Secretary Stimson in view of press dispatches on August 6 telling of the incident in which convalescent troops were removed to the front when Jap forces were threatening to retake the Myitkyina airport. The same dispatches also spoke of an "almost complete breakdown of morale" resulting from "ill-advised promises" to the troops.

Referring to mention in the dispatches of "officers' reports giving full details of the history of the Merrill's Marauders incident," the Senator asked Mr. Stimson to make them available to the committee so it could have "a clear and authentic picture of just what occurred."

ARMY MAY LIFT BAN ON 15 BOOKS

Also May Eliminate Mixup Over Two Movies.

Washington, Aug. 14 (A. P.).—Army officers expressed the belief today that legislation scheduled for Senate consideration this week would lift the political-propaganda ban from a list of fifteen books and eliminate such incidents as last week's confusion over whether two motion pictures were banned. Last Wednesday, the War Department's Bureau of Public Relations told reporters that the movies "Wilson" and "Heavenly Days" had been rejected for distribution to troops following a decision that they fell within the political propaganda ban imposed by Title V of the Soldier Vote law.

On Saturday, however, the bureau announced that this information was erroneous—the two movies never had even been offered to the Army for distribution to troops, hence no occasion had arisen for an official decision. The actions behind the conflicting statements were not disclosed, but it was understood that an official in the Special Services Division, misunderstanding a telephone conversation with an officer who viewed "Wilson" at a New York theater, passed along to the Public Relations Bureau a report that the film had been banned.

The situation regarding "Heavenly Days," starring the radio team of Fibber McGee and Molly, was less clear. There was some indication that official machinery had been set in motion regarding this film, but the department said that it never had passed the stage of informal discussion.

List of Banned Books.

One book prohibited under the soldier vote law is "The Official Guide to the Army Air Forces," which the Air Forces themselves wanted to buy and distribute. The other fourteen were nominated by the Council on Books in Wartime for distribution as recreational reading material but rejected by the Army and Navy under the law's political propaganda ban. They included:

"Watching the World," by Raymond Clapper; "Lend Lease," by Edward R. Stettinius, Under-Secretary of State; "Time for Decision," by Sumner Welles, former Under-Secretary of State; "American Unlimited," by Eric Johnston, Chamber of Commerce president; Senator James M. Mead's "Tell the Folks Back Home"; Chang's biography of "Chiang Kai-shek"; "My Ten Years in Japan," by former Ambassador Joseph C. Grew; "Yankee From Olympus," by Catherine Drinker Bowne; "One Man's Meat," by E. B. White; Charles A. Beard's "The Republic" and Charles and Mary Beard's "Basic History of the United States"; John Carlson's "Under Cover"; Stuart Chase's "Rich Land, Poor Land," and John Dos Passos's "State of the Nation."

Army and Navy officials, in conferences last week with Senator Taft (R.-Ohio), author of title V of the soldier vote law, and Senator Green (D.-R. I.), agreed on amendments which would end censorship of all general circulation publications and entertainment, imposing a ban only on obvious propaganda designed to further the candidacy of a specific individual in national elections.

AUG 15 1944

ARMY CASUALTIES

Washington, Aug. 14 (A. P.).—The War Department announced today the names of 1,637 Army casualties in the Asiatic, Central Pacific, European, Mediterranean and Southwest Pacific war areas. Included in the list are the following with their next of kin:

WOUNDED

NEW YORK.

Central Pacific Area.

CAIRNS, John D., cpl.; Mrs. Jane A. Schorr, 89 Verona st., Brooklyn.
DAMATO, Anthony M., tech. sgt.; Mrs. Margaret Damato, 121 Woolcott st., Brooklyn.
FITZGERALD, Richard H., staff sgt.; Mrs. Elizabeth M. Fitzgerald, 1242 Morris ave., Bronx.
FRISCIA, Joseph A., pvt.; Mrs. Angelina Friscia, 1512 75th st., Brooklyn.
GALLIPANI, Frank L., pfc.; Mrs. Angelina Sicilia, 4 Hart st.
GALLO, Carmen, pfc.; Peter Gallo, 108-42 51st ave., Corona.
GIAMBRONE, Paul, sgt.; James Giambrone, 264 Penn st., Brooklyn.
KLEIN, Arthur, 1st lt.; Mrs. Minnie Klein, 113 S. 9th st., Brooklyn.
KRANKER, Julius J., sgt.; Mrs. Gladys Kranker, 219 N. Broad st., Peekskill.
McAULIFFE, Edward B., tech. sgt.; Mrs. Agnes McAuliffe, 171 Lexington ave.
McDERMET, Chester R., pvt.; Mrs. Florence McDermet, 149 S. 2d st., Lindenhurst.
MORGANSTERN, William, tech. sg.; Mrs. Rose Morganstern, 1615 Union st., Brooklyn.
MUETHER, William H., pfc.; William Muether, 113-12 210th st., St. Albans.
NEEDLEMAN, Maynard, sgt.; Mrs. Sophie Needleman, 19 Holly st., Brooklyn.
OLSEN, Martin A., 2d lt.; Martin A. Olsen Sr., 115-107 223d st., St. Albans.
RICE, Lester, pfc.; Henry Rice, 1069 DeKalb ave., Brooklyn.
RIMBACH, Arnold, pfc.; Mrs. Ann Rimbach, 3144 Fairmount ave.
SCHWARTZ, Harry, pfc.; Morris Schwartz, Box 383, Woodridge.
SKOOG, Harry L., pfc.; Mrs. Anne Skoog, 159 Gelston st., Brooklyn.
SLAVIK, Martin R., sgt.; Mrs. Rose Slavik, 35 Cedar ave., Islip.
SOLOMON, Kenneth M., staff sgt.; Samuel Solomon, 35-18 31st ave., Astoria.
SULLIVAN, Joseph P., staff sgt.; Mrs. Geraldine Sullivan, 1623 2d ave.
TRIEBEL, George S., cpl.; Mrs. Catherine Triebel, 158-17 Jordan ave., Hollis.
WEISSE, George H., staff sgt.; Miss Doretta L. Weisse, 8519 Broadway, Elmhurst.

European Area.

ABREU, Louis A., pvt.; Mrs. Laura Abreu, 176 E. 86th st.
ALBANESE, Joseph, pvt.; Jack Albanese, 349 W. Broadway.
BAKAL, Abraham S., pfc.; Mrs. Rose Bakal, 2126 Vyse ave., Bronx.
BLACK, Herbert A., pvt.; Mrs. Julia Black, 1647 218th st., St. Albans.
BURMAN, Robert E., staff sgt.; Mrs. Della C. Burman, 615 W. 171st st.
CAIRO, Gaspar, 2d lt.; Mrs. Cora L. Cairo, 94-12 117th st., Richmond Hill.
CHARLAND, Guy M., pvt.; Godfrey Charland, 1245 Park ave.
COON, Sidney, sgt.; Morris Coon, 4520

12th ave.
COX, Albert G. Jr., pvt.; Mrs. Lillian W. Cox, 418 W. 47th st.
CRIDLAND, Raymond W. pvt.; Mrs. Mary Cridland, 284 N. Main st., Freeport.
CURRIE, George L., pfc.; Mrs. Edward W. Nebel, 763 Main st., Farmingdale.
CUTTING, Otto R., staff sgt.; Miss Pauline M. Cutting, 393 17th st., Brooklyn.
DAMURA, Salvatore R., pvt.; Mrs. Viola T. Damura, 1651 81st st., Brooklyn.
DEICHES, Stanley R., pvt.; Alexander Deiches, 10 Holyoke Rd., Rockville Centre.
DELLA CROCE, Cyrus F., pfc.; Tito Della Croce, 337 44th st., Brooklyn.
DEVITTO, Vincent, pvt.; Fred Devitto, 127 Hill st., Brooklyn.
DOOLEY, William E., 1st lt., Mrs. Emma Dooley, 91 Herbert st., Brooklyn. Adele
DURGAVICH, Walter P., pvt.; Mrs. Adele R. Durgavich, 725 4th ave., Brooklyn.
EISENHAUER, John C., staff sgt.; Charles Eisenhauer, 95-79 114th st., Richmond Hill.
FALABELLA, Albert J., pfc.; Michael J. Falabella, 1057 E. 54th st., Brooklyn.
FANNING, Dominic, pvt.; Thomas Fanning, 207 Dean st., Brooklyn.
FLOREY, Edward J., pfc.; David Turner, 130-32 Lefferts Blvd., Jamaica.
FOX, John F., pfc.; Mrs. Matilda Fox, 3508 Fillmore ave., Brooklyn.
FRIEDMAN, Leon, pfc.; Harry Friedman, 133 Stockton st., Brooklyn.
HAGGERTY, George W., staff sgt.; Mrs. Elizabeth J. Haggerty, 1602 Hering ave.
HAMMOND, Delmar, pvt.; Mrs. Leonard Hammond, 212 14th st., Brooklyn.
HANSON, Paul J., pvt.; Mrs. Dorothea Hanson, 15-A Berkeley Pl., Brooklyn.
JONES, Bryant W., sgt.; Mrs. Muriel E. Jones, 6 Crown Top Rd., Manhasset.
KENNEDY, Thomas J., 2d lt.; Thomas J. Kennedy Sr., 333 W. 57th st.
LEBWORTH, Marion J., pvt.; Mrs. Paula Lebworth, 147 W. 79th st.
LEONE, Joseph, pvt.; Mrs. Anna Bergonzi, 1050 74th st., Brooklyn.
LEVINE, Morris T., pvt.; Mrs. Bessie Levine, 87 Dow ave., Mineola.
LICKEL, Conrad R., sgt.; Henry Lickel, 162 W. 84th st.
LOPEZ, Alexander A., pfc.; Mrs. Helen Arche, 509 W. 150th st.
LUNNY, William T., cpl.; Mrs. William H. Lunny, 859 Forest ave., Staten Island.
McCULLOUGH, John H., tech. 4g.; Mrs. Mary V. McCullough, 184 Nagle ave.
O'BERG, John A., 2d lt.; Mrs. Linda J. O'Berg, 29 Lake st., White Plains.
O'CONNOR, John I., pvt.; Robert O'Connor, 145 Hylan Blvd., Rosebank.
OKEN, Louis, pfc.; Mrs. Ida Oken, 665 Quincy st., Brooklyn.
PALMERI, Richard, pvt.; Mrs. Helen Palmeri, 2075 Daly ave.
RAMMAIRONE, Raffaele, pfc.; Mrs. Lucy Rammairone, 271 Ave. W, Brooklyn.
SPECTOR, Abraham, pvt.; Mrs. Helen L. Spector, 158 E. 34th st., Brooklyn.
TELLER, Isidore, cpl.; Mrs. Lena Teller, 700 E. 9th st.
THOMPSON, John W., pfc.; John J. Thompson, 2695 Briggs ave.
TOIS, Abraham, pfc.; Mrs. Rebecca Tois, 266 S. 9th st., Brooklyn.
WRENN, Gerard P., pvt.; Mrs. Grace L. Wrenn, 428 E. 89th st.

Mediterranean Area.

ANDERSON, Alfred M., pfc.; Mrs. Betty Anderson, 30-52 34th st., Astoria.
BELKIN, Saul, pvt.; Mrs. Ruth S. Belkin, 163 Conklin ave., Brooklyn.
BERNSTEIN, Sol, pfc.; Mrs. Minnie Bernstein, 133 Blake ave., Brooklyn.
FICARRA, Onofrio, tech. 4g.; Mrs. Rose Ficarra, 1702 46th st., Brooklyn.
GLASSEN, Joseph A., pvt.; Mrs. Rose Glassen, 427 Autumn ave., Brooklyn.
HUHN, Walter C. Jr., pfc.; Mrs. Mary Huhn, 50 Elmont Rd., Elmont.
KIEM, Robert L., pfc.; Mrs. Florence Kiem, 625 52d st., Brooklyn.
LYNCH, Thomas J., pvt.; James J. Lynch, 66 New Broadway, N. Tarrytown.
MARTINEZ, Antonio, pfc.; Mrs. Katie Bernudez, 110 E. 111th st.
ROSENFELD, Hyman D., pvt.; Mrs. Esther M. Rosenfeld, 61 Harrison ave., Brooklyn.
SADOWSKI, Anthony T., pfc.; Mrs. Mae Sadowski, 519 8th st., Brooklyn.
SANDERSON, Andrew, pvt.; Mrs. Isabelle Sanderson, 566 W. 171st st.
SCORDA, Joseph, pfc.; Mrs. Rose Scordo, 507 E. 15th st.
SELLECK, Benjamin S., pfc.; Mrs. Hugh Milton, 10 Sunset Rd., Bay Shore.
SIEMS, Grover C., 1st lt.; Grover C. Siems Sr., 5301 32d ave., Woodside.
TREZZA, Rudolph A., pfc.; Mrs. Nellie Trezza, 185 High st., Brooklyn.
VAETH, Robert H., pvt.; Mrs. Augusta Vaeth, 6506 Cooper ave., Glendale.
VEGA, Gordon P., 2d lt.; Mrs. Karen M. Vega, 31-44 38th st., Astoria.
VOGT, Peter E., staff sgt.; Mrs. Camille Vogt, Tappan.
WEINBERG, Milton, 1st lt.; Sidney Weinberg, 8 W. 169th st., Bronx.
ZICCA, Albert, pfc.; Mrs. Jennie Scarfone, Boston Post Rd., Rye.
ZWIEBEL, John K., 2d lt.; Ralph J. Zwiebel, 307 W. 103d st.

Southwest Pacific Area

BROOKS, Leonard, pvt.; Max Brooks, 1642 Anthony ave.
COMISKY, Eugene M., staff sgt.; Mrs. Ellen J. Comisky, 45-07 189th st., Flushing.
GRIGIONE, Joseph J., pfc.; Mrs. Carmela Grigione, 2361 1st ave.
KAPLAN, Abraham, pfc.; Mrs. Yetta Kaplan, care Sadie Brawer, 701 Ralph ave., Brooklyn.
KOSKOFF, Samuel, pvt.; Mrs. Beatrice Koskoff, 340 S. 5th st., Brooklyn.
KOVITZ, Joel, pvt.; Mrs. Pearl Kovitz, 127 Canal st.

LOMBARDOZZI, Cosmo J., pfc.; Mrs. Nancy Lombardozzi, 111 E. 5th st., Brooklyn.
MAGNANI, Louis, cpl.; Mrs. Jean Magnani, 1576 E. 96th st.
McCORMACK, Bertram V. Jr., pvt.; Bertram E. McCormack, 239 Nichols ave., Brooklyn.
PERONE, Anthony, pfc.; Mrs. Margaret G. Perone, Mongeluzzo Lane, Greenvale.
ROSCANO, Antonio, pfc.; Mrs. Theresa Roscano, 128 Fountain ave., Brooklyn.
SIMONS, Edward F., pvt.; Louis Simons, 42-02 250th st., Little Neck.

NEW JERSEY.
European Area.

BUTLER, James A., pfc.; Mrs. Lena Butler, 302 Harrison ave., Harrison.
CHENCHARICK, John, staff sgt.; Walter Kryowski, 1528 Bower st., Linden.
CORTI, John F., pvt.; Mrs. Mary Corti, 102 Wayne st., Jersey City.
CRERAN, Norman J., pvt.; John J. Creran, 73 Myrtle ave., Maplewood.
DANHART, Richard G., tech. 3g.; Mrs. Eleanor Danhart, 524 4th ave., Westwood.
DAVALA, Joseph J., pvt.; Mrs. Helen C. Davala, 25 Frances ave., Trenton.
DUCKWORTH, George G., staff sgt.; Mrs. Rose M. Duckworth, 6214 Hudson Blvd., West New York.
FAUGNO, Ralph A., pfc.; Mrs. Ida Faugno, 41 Logan st., Jersey City.
FESTA, Adam, tech. 5g.; Ralph Festa, 202 Parker st., Newark.
FOSTER, Irvin F., pfc.; Mrs. Bertha Foster, Route 5, Bridgeton.
KARAS, Stanley A., 1st lt.; Mrs. Anna Karas, 68 Chambers st., Newark.
KAUFMAN, John H., pfc., Mrs. Esther Kaufman, 63 Bragaw ave., Newark.
KELLY, Thomas Jr., pvt.; Mrs. Emma Kelly, 21 N. Main st., Paterson.
KENNEDY, Fred J., pfc.; Mrs. Stella Henning, 118 Norwood st., Newark.
KLICH, Henry, pfc.; Mrs. Sadie Klich, 216 Washington st., Jersey City.
KRAUS, Lysle R., sgt.; Mrs. Gertrude Howe, 320 Railroad ave., Teaneck.
KROLL, Jacob M., tech. 5g.; Mrs. Druscella Kroll, 715 Clinton ave., Hoboken.
LAMOTTA, Louis F., pfc.; Mrs. Lena Lamotta, 57 Houston st., Newark.
LIDHOLM, Erick L., pfc.; Mrs. Dorothy L. Lidholm, 103 Albemarle ave., Route 6, Trenton 8.
McLAREN, Andrew M., pvt.; Mrs. Ellen M. McLaren, 574 E. 24th st., Paterson.
PIRYLIS, Fanurios C., pfc.; Mrs. Gertrude Piryliş, 35 Lock st., Newark.
PIZZA, Thomas A., pfc.; Mrs. Theresa Pizza, 137 McKinley Pl., Plainfield.
ROSENTHAL, Hillel, pfc.; Mrs. Ruth Rosenthal, 83 W. 39th st., Bayonne.
SORENSON, Clifford R., pfc.; Richard Sorenson, 375 Mechanic st., Perth Amboy.
VOLLAND, Paul F., pfc.; Mrs. Clara J. Volland, 128 Broad st., Bloomfield.

Mediterranean Area.

BALDAUF, William L. Jr., pfc.; Mrs. Carrie Baldauf, Box 261, Waldwick.
CHWAZIK, John F., pfc.; Mrs. Mary Chwazik, 37 S. 2d st., Elizabeth.
FLANNERY, Robert G., pfc.; Mrs. Ella M. Flannery, 138 Madison ave., Hasbrouck Heights.
GLESTER, Joseph F., pvt.; Mrs. Marie Glester, St. George ave., Avenel.
McLAUGHLIN, John F., 2d lt.; Mrs. Nellie E. McLaughlin, 856 Ester ave., Teaneck.
ROBINSON, Carl, pvt.; Mrs. Pearl M. Robinson, 485 Greenwood ave., Trenton.
RUSS, Stanley C., pfc.; Mrs. Stanley C. Russ, 2415 Palisade ave., Union City.

SAVINO, Anthony, sgt.; Mrs. Ester Castaro, 265 14th ave., Newark.
STRUBLE, Clarence T., pvt.; Oliver L. Struble, 135 Main st., Franklin.
WALSH, Edward J., pvt.; Mrs. Mary A. Walsh, 230 Grant ave., Newark.

Southwest Pacific Area

CANDARELLO, Albert, staff sgt.; Salvatore Candarello, 775 N. 6th st., Newark.
DEPAZZI, Anthony F., pvt.; Fred Depazzi, 405 Blvd., Bayonne.
DISKIN, Clifford N., pvt.; Mrs. Betty M. Diskin, 48 Colonial, Trenton.
HAGGERTY, Wilbur J., pfc.; Mrs. Amelia D. Haggerty, Route 2, Branchville.
REULBACH, Raymond C., pfc.; Mrs. Lillian F. Reulbach, 201 New York ave., Union City.
ROBSHAW, Harry Jr., sgt.; Mrs. Sadie Robshaw, 44 Highland ave., Kearny.
TERRACCIANO, Pasquale C., pvt.; Mrs. Theresa Terracciano, 27 Kent st., Trenton.
WIECZOREK, Joseph T., sgt.; Mrs. Anna Wieczorek, Milltown Rd., New Brunswick.

CONNECTICUT.
European Area.

BALLARD, John K., 2d lt.; Mrs. Mary M. Ballard, 97 Hubbard ave., Stamford.
BARKER, George R., pfc.; Mrs. Alice Barker, 27 California st., Bridgeport.
BURR, George H., pvt.; Mrs. Nellie E. Burr, 144 Pembroke st., Bridgeport.
JENNINGS, George W., staff sgt.; Mrs. Helen M. Jennings, 202 Bronx ave., Bridgeport.
LAUF, Elmer F., cpl.; Mrs. Helen A. Lauf, 9 Cherry st., Danbury.
SOMMER, Herbert, pfc.; Abraham W. Sommer, 1208 Stratford ave., Bridgeport.

Mediterranean Area.

SALVATORE, Harry F., pfc.; Mrs. Frances Salvatore, 371 Woodstock ave, Stratford.

NAVY CASUALTIES

Washington, Aug. 14 (A. P.).—The Navy Department announced today the names of 283 casualties in the Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard, which makes a total of 22,273 casualties reported by the Navy since December 7, 1941. Of this total 22,273 are reported dead, 17,200 wounded, 9,848 missing and 4,469 prisoners of war. The list today includes the following with their next of kin:

NEW YORK.
DEAD

CAVALUZZI, Michael L., pfc. M. C.; Michael Cavaluzzi, 401 E. 77th st.
COLLIN, John A., cpl. M. C.; Mrs. Rose Collin, 505 E. 15th st.

WOUNDED

BERG, Adam William, ens.; Adam Louis Berg, 101-37 102d st., Ozone Park.
CASSARO, Vito A., pfc. M. C.; Vito Cassaro, 2052 E. 72d st., Brooklyn.
COOPER, Morton, pfc. M. C.; Mrs. William Cooper, 2061 71st st., Brooklyn.
CUCCO, Jerry J., pfc. M. C.; Mrs. Josephine M. Cucco, 1555 82d st., Brooklyn.
DEITCH, Louis, pfc. M. C.; Mrs. Beckie Deitch, 412 E. 51st st., Brooklyn.
DEL HOYO, Joseph L., pfc. M. C.; Mrs. Joseph L. Del Hoyo, 76 E. 104th st.
DEVICO, Lawrence, pfc. M. C.; Mrs. Stiffin Devico, 68 Crotona ave., Harrison.

DONOVAN, William M., cpl. M. C.; Mrs. William Donovan, 85 Depot Pl., S. Aqueduct.
DOWNEY, Edward J. Jr., pfc. M. C.; Edward J. Downey Sr., 6 Prospect ave., Ossining.

MISSING

BARCOOZY, John Jr., qm.2c.; Mrs. Veronica Palmer, 1940 Golden ave., Bronx.
CALLAN, Kenneth Thomas, elec.m.3c.; Mrs. Rose Mary Callan, 460 W. 50th st.
CIRALDO, Frank, m.mach.m.3c.; Leo Ciraldo, 1049 Coney Island ave., Brooklyn.
FRANK, William J., tpm.m.2c.; Charles F. Frank, 9603 Ave. N, Brooklyn.
FRONTINO, Joseph N. tpm.m.2c.; James Frontino, 639 Washington ave., Brooklyn.
FROST, Chester F., mach.m.1c.; Mrs. Irene C. Frost, 1272 Ryawa st., Bronx.
TRACY, John T., elec.m.3c.; Mrs. Alice Tracy, 63-13 Woodside ave., Woodside.
WILKOWSKI, John B., sig.2c.; Xavier Wilkowski, 306 E. 8th st.

NEW JERSEY.
WOUNDED

CRAIG, Robert F. Jr., pfc. M. C.; Robert F. Craig Sr., 53 Hillcrest ave., W. Paterson.

MISSING

GURNEY, Hubert R., chf.ymn.; James J. Gurney, 45 Washington ave., Dumont.
HICKS, Carl James, tpm.m.2c.; Charles Hicks, 99 W. 45th st., Bayonne.
TEISEN, Arthur T., m.mach.m.1c.; Theodore Teisen, 925 Park ave., Hoboken.
TRYTKO, Stanley, rad.3c.; Peter Trytko, 189 Morris ave., Newark.

CONNECTICUT.
MISSING

DE CESARE, Felice P. Jr., chf.rad.; Felice P. De Cesare Sr., 244 Catherine st., Bridgeport.

Didn't you see a single thing?

Never saw much but the moon shine on
A Burmese temple around Maingkwan,
And silver transports high in the sky,
Thursday River and the swift Tanai,
And Hukawng Valley coming all green—
Those are the only sights I've seen.
Did our job, though, like God willed:
We had the Ledo Road to build.

Army to Sift Cigaret Charge

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 (AP)—Senator Wiley, Republican of Wisconsin, said today that the Army services forces had promised to investigate reports that service men were charged for cigarettes which were donated for free distribution. He said he asked the inquiry after being informed that troops at an unspecified army base had been compelled to buy cigarettes "from ship captains at the price of $3.50 per carton, which cigarettes were stamped 'donated by General Motors Corporation.'"

AUG 15 1944

'We Had the Ledo Road to Build'

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(AP) Answering the query as to whether he had observed any of the beauty attached to the Burma-India-China country, Sgt. Smith Dawless, of Los Angeles, Calif., wrote for the Army Times, War Department employes' paper:

Is the Gateway to India at Bombay
Really as beautiful as they say?

Don't rightly know, Ma'am. Did my part
Breakin' point in the jungle's heart;
Blasted the boulders, felled the trees
With red muck oozin' around our knees,
Carved the guts from the Patkai's side,
Dozed our trace, made it clean and wide,
Metalled and graded, dug and filled:
We had the Ledo Road to build.

Well, surely you saw a burning ghat,
Fakirs, rope-tricks, and all of that

Reckon I didn't. But way up ahead
I tended the wounded, buried the dead.
For I was a Medic, and little we knew
But the smell of sickness all day through,
Mosquitoes, leeches, and thick dark mud
Where the Chinese spilled their blood
After the enemy guns were stilled:
We had the Ledo Road to build.

Of course you found the Taj Mahal
The loveliest building of them all.

Can't really say, lady. I was stuck
Far beyond Shing with a QM truck.
Monsoon was rugged there, hot and wet,
Nothing to do but work and sweat.
And dry was the dust upon my mouth
As steadily big "cats" roared on south
Over the ground where Japs lay killed:
We had the Ledo Road to build.

You've been gone two years this spring.

HOUSE APPROVAL IS EXPECTED ON GEORGE MEASURE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—(AP) A bi-partisan drive began shaping up in the House today to pass the Senate-approved "states rights" bill for handling unemployment problems in postwar demobilization.

Leaders of the coalition voiced confidence they could easily repeat the Senate's performance in bowling over the principles of the Murray-Kilgore bill which would have set up federal standards for unemployment compensation, running up to $25 weekly.

The Senate's "state rights" legislation, sponsored by Senator George (D-Ga.), was referred by Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.) to the House Ways and Means committee, and Chairman Doughton (D-N.C.) called the committee to meet tomorrow.

Rep. Disney (D-Okla.) and Dewey (R-Ill.) predicted speedy approval of the George measure, and Rayburn told newspapermen he expected the House to complete action on postwar legislation and be ready to adjourn by September 1.

Dr. Robert K. Lamb, legislative representative of the Congress of Industrial organizations, told the Senate group surplus property which will become available with victory on "X-day" should be treated as a "windfall" of the war not as the "menace" which he said some businessmen have pictured it.

He said the CIO wanted:

1. Maximum production, so that jobs may become available to returning veterans.

2. An orderly program for disposing of the surpluses, with the supplies spread over the nation and not dumped in one section where speculators may get hold of them.

3. Disposal of war plants without complete interruption of operations.

The George bill leaves to the states the fixing of unemployment compensation rates, while extending coverage to 3,500,000 government employes. The government would reimburse states for payments to ex-federal workers and set up a federal fund to guarantee the solvency of state unemployment systems.

It also creates an office of war mobilization and reconversion under a presidentially-appointed director to co-ordinate demobilization planning and policies. This phase may be handled by the House in a separate bill.

While the ways and means committee considers the George bill, House members will begin debate tomorrow on a bill dealing with the disposition of surplus government property after the war.

5 SHOPS SEIZED IN UNION DISPUTE

AUG 15 1944

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(AP) The government today seized five San Francisco machine shops where an A.F.L. machinists union has balked at complying with a War Labor board order to stop limiting union members to a 48-hour work week.

President Roosevelt directed Secretary of the Navy Forrestal to assume nominal control of the plants, but to permit the managements to continue normal functions so far as possible.

The five shops were among 104 where the A.F.L. Machinists lodge 68 imposed a prohibition against Sunday and overtime work. WLB chairman William H. Davis, however, advised the President that these five employ the most workers and have been affected most by the union's refusal to withdraw the ban.

30.24— 17995

Davis said the WLB was hopeful that seizure of the five will bring about an end to the prohibition, which board officials have described as a "limited strike" because it restricts a union member to a 48-hour week.

The WLB order, which the union has defied for several months, did not direct an increase in the work week, but simply called for elimination of the ban so that union members could work longer if they desired without incurring a union penalty.

Plants included in the seizure order were the Federal Mogul corporation, the Pacific Gear and Tool Works, the Link-Belt company (Pacific division), the U. S. Pipe and Manufacturing company and the Enterprise Engine and Foundry company.

The union has been seeking a new contract with the companies but the WLB has ruled that an agreement cannot be negotiated as long as the overtime ban stands.

Seizure of the plants permits the government to prosecute, under the War Labor Disputes Act, any person believed to be encouraging interference with war production at the shops.

Civilian Production Will Start Today

AUG 13 1944

Chairman Donald M. Nelson Lifts WPB Ban On Home Front Goods—Hundreds of Articles to Be Made in Non-critical Areas.

By Sterling F. Green

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—(AP)—Chairman Donald M. Nelson tonight lifted the War Production Board's ban on hundreds of civilian articles where local surpluses of labor and machinery permit.

Long-Awaited Order

The long-awaited order, delayed since July 1 by the opposition of the Army, Navy and War Manpower Commission, is effective at midnight. Nelson said the order was the fourth and last in his program to provide "a mechanism for partial conversion of industry from wartime to peacetime production."

"For the time being," he warned, "it is not anticipated that any large increases in production of civilian goods will be possible."

Cuts 86 Restrictive Orders

Cutting across 86 restrictive orders now on WPB's books, the action empowers WPB field offices over the country to let individual plants make consumer goods hitherto prohibited or restricted.

It provides priority aid, also, for concerns willing and able to manufacture any of several hundred "preferred" items listed by WPB as scarce and badly needed.

This preferred list covers such goods as vacuum cleaners, electric ranges, wash tubs, egg beaters, lawn mowers, sewing machines, church goods, bicycles, and oil burners.

If an eligible manufacturer cannot make one of the preferred items, the order provides, he may apply to produce less essential things, but he will not obtain a priority rating.

May Cover Any Items

His application may cover any of the items restricted by the 86 orders, including even phonographs, gambling machines and replace sets, but WPB's permission in such cases is less likely.

"This is primarily a plan to decentralize some of the operations which will be necessary to 'take up the slack' as men and materials cease to be needed for war purposes," Nelson stated.

"Above everything else it is vital to arrange the machinery, so that in the future when military demands decline or change, the men, the facilities and the materials which are set free can speedily be put to other uses.

"Under the terms of the 'spot' procedure, field offices will be in a position to authorize production of civilian goods now, provided the materials, manpower, and facilities not needed for war production are avaliable."

Subject to Review

In making the so-called "spot" or local authorizations to manufacturers, the action of WPB field offices is subject to review by the Area Production Urgency Committee, and the veto of the local manpowe rrepresetnative. This was decreed by War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes in his directive issued last week as a safeguard against the drain of labor from arms production into civilian production.

"Civilian reserves" of some metals are being established by WPB, from which allotments will be made to manufacturers qualifying under the new order. An aluminum reserve definitely will be set up, but it was uncertain whether supplies of steel and copper will be so earmarked at this time.

Manufacture of the more complicated consumer items, such as refrigerators and vacuum cleaners, will be subject in part to the availability of electric motors and other scarce components.

Must Be Specified Forms

To obtain WPB consent for civilian production, a manufacturer must file his request on specified forms with his WPB district office. After screening by that office and the manpower representative, WPB will grant an authorization fixing the amount of goods which may be made and setting a production schedule.

The application will be handled completely by the field office if the firm is a small one, but will be forwarded to Washington for final decision if the manufacturer employs more than 50 workers in a West Coast critical labor area, more than 100 workers in a "Group One" (acute) or "Group Two" (serious) labor area elsewhere, and more than 250 workers in other areas.

"The labor and facilities to manufacture must be available to the applicant, and not required for more essential purposes," WPB said, adding that the application would be rejected if it would interfere with local or inter-city recruitment of war workers.

More Consideration to "Preferred List"

In general, "more favorable consideration" will be given to those manufacturers who propose to use idle, excess or frozen materials and parts, or who will make an item on the "preferred" list, WPB said. Manufacturers who will make the preferred gods but who need new materials will be asigned a priority rating of AA-5 to get them.

Nelson said instructions would be issued to field offices accompanying the new "priority regulation 25," which would forbid increased civilian production until after labor checks had been made and the area WMC representative had certified that civilian goods production could be stepped up without labor recruiting.

Supplies of steel and copper continue to be short, Nelson said, and as a result little if any new production employing these metals will be permitted.

UMW WILL ATTEMPT TO END COAL STRIKE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(AP) Leaders of the United Mine Workers pledged today to try to end a six-weeks old unauthorized strike of more than 4,000 Penneylvania anthracite miners with the prospect that if they fail, the government will seize the strike affected collieries within a week.

Dr. C. J. Potter, deputy chief administrator of the Solid Fuels administration, said the strike in the Shenandoah and Mahanoy City, Pa., areas already has cost the nation well over 400,000 tons of hard coal. The miners are employes of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Co.

Secretary of Interior Ickes conferred with three union leaders representing UMW President John L. Lewis and with Ralph E. Taggart, president of the company. Ickes had invited Lewis to the conference but the union chief was out of Washington. Lewis has ordered the strikers back to work several times, but they have ignored him.

Potter reported that the problem of stopping the strike was left completely to the union. The union officers, Vice President John O'Leary, Secretary-Treasurer Thomas Kennedy, and John J. Mates, member of the international executive board, agreed to take all possible measures to get the miners back to work Potter said.

The men walked out in protest over the way wages for Saturday work are paid under the new contract between the union and the anthracite operators. Signing of this contract was the signal for the recent restoration of all anthracite properties to private ownership after long government control.

Informed sources, meantime, said there would be only one thing to do if the strike cannot be settled properly. A plan has been drawn up they said, for government acquisition of the Philadelphia and Reading company and the solid fuels administration is making preparations to put it into effect.

N.Y. 'Doll Woman' Sent to Prison For Sending Information to Japs

AUG 13 1944

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—(AP) Branded as "a woman who sold her country to the Japs for money, frail, thrice-married Mrs. Velvalee Dickinson, 50-year-old doll store owner, was sentenced today in Federal court to 10 years' imprisonment and fined $10,000 on her guilty plea to a charge of violating the Federal Censorship law.

Mrs. Dickinson, who earlier had delivered an impassioned plea for clemency, was in tears as she heard Judge Schackelford Miller, Jr., impose the sentence—the maximum penalty.

In her plea, she admitted associating with Japanese agents in the country but placed the blame of sending information about West Coast naval activities to the enemy upon her late husband, Lee T. Dickinson, former San Francisco produce merchant.

U. S. Attorney James B. M. McNally, who called the defendant "a hired Japanese spy," said the government charged her with being the agent through whom the Japanese were to be supplied naval information. He said the plot was the scheme of a former enemy minister and that the information was sent to a third person in Argentina but was destined for Tokyo.

"It was only by the most fortuitous circumstances that little, if any, reached its destination," he said.

The government earlier had called for a dismissal of an espionage charge because, McNally said, the evidence was circumstantial in nature and could not be brought out in open court without endangering the national security.

Denying Mrs. Dickinson's claims that her husband was the responsible party, McNally said the government had evidence proving that she was paid "over $60,000" by the Japanese.

Mrs. Dickinson said the enemy paid $25,000 for the information—all to her husband, who, she said, had entered into an agreement to send Japan the naval information.

McNally said that Mrs. Dickinson—as late as Thanksgiving, 1941—"could have given our government incontestable proof that the Japanese were expecting to be at war with the United States in a few days."

In sentencing the "Doll Woman," Judge Miller said the offense to which she pleaded guilty "bordered on treason."

TELEGRAPH SERVICE OPENED

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—(AP) Opening of direct radio-telegraph service between New York and Bombay, 8,000 miles apart, was announced today by two major communications companies. They were R. C. A. Communications, Inc., and Mackay Radio and Telegraph Co., Inc.

DEWEY CONTINUES WORK ON SPEECHES

AUG 13 1944

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 14.—(AP) Gov. Thomas E. Dewey returned to Albany today to find his calendar clear of political callers for a few days, thus leaving him free to devote most of his time to polishing the campaign speeches he began drafting at his Pawling farm.

Upon his arrival in a thunderstorm after a 100 mile motor trip from his sprawling Quaker Hill farm near the Connecticut border Dewey went to the Executive Mansion with Mrs. Dewey. He spent the afternoon there working on state business and announced six appointments to state agencies.

Dewey is known to be desirous of returning to Pawling as soon as possible to concentrate on the speeches he will deliver next month in his drive for the presidency as Republican nominee.

The [illegible] evening weeks are expected to see Dewey moving only between Albany and Pawling while National Chairman Herbert Brownell, Jr., perfects a nationwide organization to get out the vote. Brownell, who has just returned from a mid-western trip, was in Boston today continuing his organization effort. The 26 states having Republican governors form the nucleus of this campaign.

Dewey will hold a press conference late tomorrow, his first in 10 days.

Gen. Roosevelt Rallied 1st Division in Sicily

'We Can't Swim Out of Here,' He Said, as Tanks Attacked

FORT DEVENS, Mass., Aug. 14 (AP).—When a German panzer division hit the American 1st Division at Gela, in Sicily, a brigadier general shouted: "The ocean's behind us and we can't swim out of here. Let's go forward and stop the tanks."

It was the late Theodore Roosevelt who let out that yell that sent his men into successful combat at a moment when it appeared they were to be driven back into the sea.

The story of General Roosevelt's action was told today by a man who witnessed it, Private George H. Cryne, of 28 Anderson Avenue, Milford, Conn., a man who took a voluntary reduction in rank from technical sergeant so that he might be in on the Normandy invasion. He was wounded in the latter campaign and now is recuperating at Lovell General Hospital.

Recounting the Gela experience, Cryne said, in an interview: "We had landed and gone through the town and over the [illegible] ridge beyond Gela when a panzer division struck us. They [illegible]red to cut us to pieces before our armor could get ashore. It was then that Old Teddy yelled.

"Our artillery manhandled the 105 millimeter guns to the top of the rise, sighted down the barrels on the tanks and fired. It was like shooting fish in a barrel. We stopped them cold and then a few hours later our armored divisions came ashore and had their pictures taken among the wreckage of the tanks we had shot up."

Lt. Joseph P. Kennedy Jr., 27, Ex-Envoy's Son, Killed in Action

Flyer Had Been Missing Since Plane Exploded in European Theater Aug. 12

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—Lieutenant Joseph P. Kennedy jr., twenty-seven years old, son of the former Ambassador to the Court of St. James's, has been killed in action, his father was told today in a telegram from the Navy Department.

The father, now at his summer home in Hyannis on Cape Cod, was not immediately available for comment. Word of receipt of the telegram was confirmed, however, at the office of former Mayor John M. Fitzgerald, the aviator's grandfather.

Details of how Lieutenant Kennedy met death were not given.

In Washington the Navy said only that Lieutenant Kennedy had been missing since Aug. 12 after an explosion occurred during an operational flight in the European theater.

Lieutenant Kennedy was one of nine children. A brother, Lieutenant John Kennedy, returned to this country recently after winning decorations as the commander of a PT boat in the Pacific theater. John was listed as missing for ten days before his parents received word that he was alive and well.

The dead officer was graduated from Harvard in 1937.

Was on U-Boat Patrol

LONDON, Aug. 14 (AP).—Lieutenant Joseph P. Kennedy jr., whose death in action was announced today in Boston, had been flying on anti-submarine patrols in the Bay of Biscay for six months.

No details were available at present on the death of the officer.

Father Of 2 Blacklisted

For Duration

Transit Worker Penalized In Philadelphia Tie-up.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14 (AP)—In the first such drastic action ever taken, Thomas A. Quigley, 30, a motorman and father of two children, was blacklisted for employment in any industry for the duration for failure to comply with an Army directive to striking transportation workers to return to work, Major General Philip Hayes announced today.

General Hayes, the War Department's representative in running the government, seized Philadelphia Transportation Company said Quigley was the only one of eight discharged PTC workers whom the Army had decided to blacklist for future employment.

The Army, which took over the lines after a six-day transit tsrike which began Aug. 1, ordered workers back to their jobs Aug. 6.

Meanwhile, the attractive 21-year-old motorwoman, Mrs. Dorothy Hibbs, who took the first trolley car out when the Army broke the strike, quit her job today because, she said, of threats and remarks directed at her by fellow workers and because her supervisors refused to allow her to work as a motorwoman.

She was given a release and a referral to a new job by the War Manpower Commission.

Earlier, Philip C. Pendleton, counsel for four PTC strike leaders charged with violating the Smith-Connally act was challenged by U. S. Commissioners Norman J. Griffith to produce evidence or retract a statement hinting that four defendants were victims of a "gigantic conspiracy to railroad innocent men to jail."

Pendleton said "if I find the evidence I think will support the statement I made, I will bring it to you. If I can't I will issue a public retraction."

The four strike leaders—James H. McMenamin, Frank P. Carney, William C. Dixey and Frank Thompson—appeared for hearing today and were granted a continuance unutil Monday, Aug. 28. They pleaded innocent upon arraignment and were released on $2,500 bonds.

Two of the eight Negroes whose upgrading to drivers' jobs precipitated the strike, began regular passenger runs today as the Army withdrew all guards from trolleys, buses and subway and elevated trains.

A federal grand jury probing the transportation tie-up will reconvene tomorrow after having been in recess since Friday.

The 11 PTC superintendents subpoenaed as witnesses are expected to testify Wednesday.

A public opinion poll conducted by the Evening Bulletin disclosed today that 63.5 per cent of Philadelphians questioned said the transportation strikers were not justified, and and 25.5 percent said the stoppage was justified. Eleven percent expressed no opinion on the justification of the strike.

GEN. LEAR ASSERTS U. S. ARMY MAY BE ABSENT FOR YEARS

Ground Forces' Commander Says Soldiers May Return Home Via Tokyo.

Cincinnati, Aug. 14 (A. P.).—Lieut.-Gen. Ben Lear, commander of the Army Ground Forces, said today, "Much of the Army now in Europe may return home via the Suez Canal and Tokyo, after years of absence."

Gen. Lear expressed this view in an address prepared for the annual encampment of the United Spanish War Veterans, in connection with an assertion that "a great many men will be needed for the decisive operations in the Pacific to carry through the final assault against the Japs."

Appeal to People.

"Victory in Europe is in sight—how soon I cannot proffer a guess," he said. "When this victory is gained, we shall turn much of our fighting force and all of our strength and hatred against our enemies in the Pacific. We will wreck them completely and permanently in a military sense."

He urged that the people "realize the importance of the continued emergency," adding that "their attitude should be one of supporting the recommendations of military planners—definitely, positively and without the slightest trace of equivocation."

Observing that "our training (of troops) today goes far toward easing the first shock from battle," Gen. Lear said that he had "seen several divisions immediately prior to their departure for overseas.

Past Seventh Inning.

"How fit they looked," he declared. "How well equipped and what splendid morals and morale! To me they are not G. I. Joes, nor will they be G. I. Jims. They are soldiers, infantry soldiers of the republic. America's fighting men.

"Americans," he continued, "may count themselves fortunate indeed that, in the posts of highest authority, they have such capable men to direct the destiny of our fighting forces. Now, as the war approaches its climax, we see more clearly how sound and keen their foresight and leadership have been from the first. The first few innings of the war found the score going against us in a most frightful manner, but we have passed the seventh inning and the situation has been reversed."

Toronto Constable Favors World Police

Cleveland, Aug. 14 (AP)—An international police system, based on cooperation of existing law forces, was recommended to the 51st annual conference of the International Association of Police Chiefs today by Brig. Gen. D. Colburn Draper, chief constable of Toronto, Canada.

General Draper told the opening session he anticipated "the time when an international police bureau will be established to provide the means for instantaneous cooperation and immediate coordination of effort in the eternal war against crime and subversion."

He suggested that the conference, atended by more than 1,000 law-enforcement officers, appoint a committee to study possibilities of such a system. Draper, first vice-president of the association, under traditional procedure will become president at closing session of the conference.

Fellow Captives Beat Nazi

Angered Because He Insisted on Writing Father, in U. S.

OMAHA, Aug. 14 (AP).—A German prisoner of war at the Scottsbluff, Neb., camp who wanted to write to his father, a resident of the United States, was severely beaten Friday night by fellow prisoners, who declared the father was "not a good Nazi," the 7th Service Command announced today. The prisoner was a member of a group captured near Cherbourg.

"Two or three of the other prisoners told him that he couldn't write his father because the father was not a good Nazi," the Army said, "but the prisoner insisted on writing, and was beaten so badly he was taken to the camp hospital." His condition was said not to be serious. No American officer or guard witnessed the incident, the Army said.

Jap-American Sisters Ask Verdict Set Aside

DENVER, Aug. 14—(AP)—Three Japanese-American sisters asked the federal court today to set aside a verdict convicting them of conspiracy to commit treason, and to grant them a new trial.

The motion was filed by Kenneth W. Robinson, attorney for Mrs. Tsuruko Wallace, 35; Mrs. Florence Shivze Otani, 33, and Mrs. Billie Shitara Tanigoshi, 32, convicted Friday on government charges that they plotted to aid in the escape of two German prisoners of war from the Trinidad, Colo., prisoner of war camp.

Robinson said he expected the court would schedule argument on the motion this week. If the court denies the retrial, the women will be sentenced. They are liable to maximum penalty of two years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine.

The sisters were acquited of treason charges.

AUG 15 1944

Gatch Says Japanese Sword Rattlers Must Go

Calls Problem in Pacific as Primarily One for U. S.

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 14 (AP).—America will never be safe from war in the Pacific unless "the fire-eating, sword-rattling black dragon elements of Japan are completely liquidated," Rear Admiral Thomas L. Gatch, Judge Advocate of the Navy, asserted today.

"Perhaps the Jap peasants will do it," he said in a speech at Willamette University as he received an honorary Doctor of Laws degree. The Chinese probably would love to do it. At any rate it must be done."

Admiral Gatch said America must "maintain such an armament that no gangsters could have the faintest hope of getting a sufficient start in an armament race. . . . If we are to be worthy of peace we must never forget that peace is not something to be enjoyed, but something to be earned.

"In Europe we have staunch allies upon whom we may safely depend to see to it that the Germans will be left in no position to follow the lead of an atavistic gangster. To the westward the problem is primarily ours. Ours is the more difficult problem, for there is nothing in Christendom comparable to the enduring hatred of the Japanese."

Plans $175 Flight to Hawaii

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14 (AP).—The Matson Navigation Company announced today plans to fly passengers from the Pacific Coast to Hawaii after the war for $175. Flights are planned to leave Honolulu, Los Angeles and San Francisco morning and evening; Portland and Seattle twice weekly.

Far East Evacuees Arrive in U. S.

Los Angeles, Aug. 14 (A. P.).—Some 150 civilian evacuees from China, India and Iran, including Dr. J. Lossing Buck, former husband of novelist Pearl Buck, have arrived at this port of embarkation.

Dr. Buck, professor of Agricultural Economics at the University of Nanking, was accompanied by his Chinese wife and their seven-month-old daughter, Rosalind Grace. Dr. Buck said his wife is the first Chinese to enter the United States since repeal of the exclusion act. She holds visa No. 1 under the new quota.

AUG 15 1944

FARTHER SOUTH ZAKHAROV'S TROOPS DREW DANGEROUSLY CLOSE TO LOMZA, BIG GERMAN COMMUNICATIONS CENTER LINKING THE GERMAN DEFENSES BETWEEN WARSAW AND EAST PRUSSI. THEY WERE CONVERGING ON THE CITY FROM THE SOUTHEAST AND EAST, AS MARSHAL KONSTANTIN K. ROKOSSOVSKY'S ADJOINING FIRST WHITE RUSSIAN ARMY STEADILY ROLLED BACK THE ENEMY ON A BROAD FRONT BETWEEN WARSAW AND THE BUG RIVER.
THE GERMANS HAD RUSHED HEAVY REINFORCEMENTS TO THE EAST PRUSSIAN-

30.24— 17997

LITHUANIAN FRONTIER AFTER THE GERMAN PROVINCE WAS IMPERILLED TWO WEEKS AGO BY GEN. IVAN CHERNIAKHOVSKY'S OFFENSIVE WHICH PUT HIS THIRD WHITE RUSSIAN ARMY WITHIN 12 MILES OF PREWAR GERMAN SOIL.

AFTER THE ENEMY DIVERTED TROOPS TO THAT FRONT ZAKHAROV'S MEN STRUCK AT THE SOUTHEASTERN CORNER OF EAST PRUSSIA, AND BERLIN SAID THAT 10 FRESH DIVISIONS, UPWARDS OF 100,000 RUSSIANS, HAD BEEN HURLED INTO THE BATTLE.

BERLIN TOLD OF BITTER FIGHTING AT ALMOST EVERY POINT ALONG THE 1,000-MILE FRONT BETWEEN THE BALTIC AND THE CARPATHIAN MOUNTAINS, AND ACKNOWLEDGED SOVIET GAINS IN SOUTHERN ESTONIA WHERE IT WAS SAID GEN. IVAN MASLENNIKOV'S THIRD BALTIC ARMY WAS PUSHING FORWARD WITH 20 INFANTRY AND FOUR TANK DIVISIONS.

THE RUSSIANS WERE WITHIN 95 MILES OF THE GULF OF RIGA IN A DRIVE AIMED AT CHOPPING UP THE TRAPPED REMNANTS OF 25 GERMAN DIVISIONS OF POSSIBLY 200,000 MEN.

AUG 15 1944

ONE HUNDRED MILES SOUTH OF WARSAW, WHERE THE RUSSIANS HOLD A HUGE BRIDGEHEAD WEST OF THE VISTULA RIVER POINTED TOWARD GERMAN SILESIA, THE SOVIETS AGAIN WERE HITTING THE GERMAN LINES WITH HEAVY TANK FORCES. BERLIN COMMENTATORS DECLARED THE RUSSIANS WERE REPULSED "ALMOST EVERYWHERE," AND THEN ACKNOWLEDGED IN THE NEXT BREATH THAT THEY HAD CAPTURED A TOWN WHICH WAS NOT IDENTIFIED.

Z341PEW

LONDON, TUESDAY, AUG. 15-(AP)-THE GERMAN RADIO SAID TODAY THAT THE RUSSIANS WERE SMASHING AT EAST PRUSSIA FROM THE SOUTHEAST --APPARENTLY FROM FALLEN OSOWIEC--AND ACKNOWLEDGED THAT "SOVIET PRESURE HAS INCREASED ALONG THE EAST PRUSSIAN FRONTIER, ESPECIALLY NORTHWEST OF BIALYSTOK."

THE BROADCAST, RECORDED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, SAID RUSSIAN FORCES HAD "TRIED TO APPROACH THE GERMAN FRONTIER FROM THE SOUTHEAST THROUGH THE BOBR SWAMPS, THE FIRST ATTEMPT TO REACH THE FRONTIER FROM THE EAST HAVING BEEN FRUSTRATED."

(EDS--MAY BE INSERTED IN NIGHT LEAD LONDON RUSSIAN, OR BRACKETED IN MOSCOW-RUSSIAN IF DESIRED)

AK125AEW

SECOND NIGHT LEAD AERIAL
Y NED NORDNESS

LONDON, TUESDAY, AUG. 15-(AP)-BERLIN ROCKED TO THE BLAST OF BOMBS AGAIN LAST NIGHT AS RAF MOSQUITOS PLASTERED THE GERMAN CAPITAL WITH EXPLOSIVES IN A FORAY COMPLEMENTING THE WORK OF SOME 3,000 ALLIED HEAVY BOMBERS WHICH BATTERED GERMANY'S HOME AND FIGHTING FRONTS YESTERDAY.

THE ATTACK ON BERLIN WAS DISCLOSED IN A TERSE BRITISH ANNOUNCEMENT AND THE GERMAN-CONTROLLED PARIS RADIO SAID TARGETS IN THE VICINITY OF PARIS ALSO WERE HIT.

YESTERDAY'S GREAT DAYLIGHT ATTACKS CAME IN ANSWER TO GEN. EISENHOWER'S CALL FOR AN ALL-OUT EFFORT TO SMASH GERMANY'S FIGHTING STRENGTH.

TWO X X X 2ND GRAF

AK152AEW

AUG 15 1944

LONDON, AUG. 14-(AP)-BRITISH HOMES HAVE BEEN DAMAGED AT THE RATE OF 700 AN HOUR BY HITLER'S FLYING BOMBS, BUT THE BRITONS THEMSELVES ARE RAPIDLY LEARNING TO DODGE THE ROBOTS, IT WAS SHOWN IN A REPORT TODAY THAT INDICATED ONE PERSON WAS KILLED FOR EVERY THREE BOMBS LAUNCHED AGAINST SOUTHERN ENGLAND AND THE LONDON AREA.

THE FULL-FORCE VENGEANCE ATTACKS, WHICH ENTER THEIR THIRD MONTH TOMORROW, HAVE BEEN BROKEN CONSIDERABLY BY ROUND-THE-CLOCK FIGHTER PATROLS, ANTIAIRCRAFT COASTAL BARRAGES AND ELABORATE SYSTEMS WARNING OF THEIR APPROACH.

MINISTER OF HEALTH H.U. WILLINK TOLD A BIRMINGHAM AUDIENCE TODAY THAT FATALITIES PER BOMB ARE DOWN TO ABOUT ONE THIRD COMPARED WITH THE FIRST FORTNIGHT OF THE ATTACK. HE SAID DEATHS IN THAT PERIOD AVERAGED ABOUT ONE PER BOMB.

(ON AUG. 2 PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL REPORTED 5,340 BOMBS HAD BEEN LAUNCHED, 4,735 PERSONS KILLED AND 14,000 INJURED.)

THERE HAS BEEN LITTLE RESPITE FROM THE MISSLES, HOWEVER, AND AGAIN FOR A SHORT TIME THIS MORNING BOMBS CAME OVER THE SOUTHERN COUNTIES AND LONDON.

MJ1026PEW

LONDON, AUG. 13-(AP)— ASSERTING THAT THE FUTURE OF WORLD CIVILIZATION DEPENDED UPON CLOSE COOPERATION BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES AND GREAT BRITAIN, COL. HARRY M. AYRES, ANNISTON, ALA., PUBLISHER DECLARED TODAY THAT " IT IS UNTHINKABLE THAT EITHER OF US EVER AGAIN SHOULD ATTEMPT TO WALK BY OURSELVES ALONE."

IN A SHORT WAVE BROADCAST TO THE UNITED STATES AYRES WARNED THAT " CANNINESS IN WORLD POLITICS BELONGS TO THE DAY THAT IS DEAD"

" THIS IS THE TIME FOR GREATNESS," HE SAID," AND TRUE GREATNESS ALWAYS RISES ABOVE PETTY DIFFERENCES OF OPINION AND SEEKS TO FIND ACCORD IN THE HIGHEST REALM OF SPIRITUAL VALUES THAT ARE COMMON TO ALL MANKIND."

AUG 151944

" IT IS ~~HERE~~ IN THIS APPROACH AND IN THIS WAY ALONE THAT WE CAN SUCCESSFULLY RESOLVE THE COMPLEX PROBLEMS THAT NOW BESET THE WORLD. HAPPILY IT SEEMS THAT BRITAIN AND AMERICA -- AND I MIGHT ADD RUSSIA AND China also--are attempting to apprehend this common denominator in their strivings for a just and enduring peace.

####

ADD SHAEF-(LONG) xx DAMAGED

THE MINIMUM OF 100,000 GERMANS ESTIMATED TO BE IN THE POCKET WERE ABOUT ONE-FOURTH OF THE ENEMY FORCE CONTACTED BY THE ALLIES SINCE D-DAY.

THIS GIANT TRAP WAS THE REASON BEHIND FIVE DAYS OF OFFICIAL SECRECY, AND REPRESENTED FAR BIGGER STAKES THAN A DASH TO PARIS.

ALLIED SOURCES BELIEVED ONLY NEW GERMAN ARMIES COULD STEM THE TIDE OF ALLIED CONQUEST, BUT IT WAS THOUGHT VON KLUGE HAD ALREADY DRAWN ON AT LEAST 40 OF THE UP TO 65 DIVISIONS AT HIS DISPOSAL.

OF THESE, 15 HAVE BEEN DESTROYED OR CUT UP, AND 12 MORE ARE BELIEVED IN THE POCKET WEST OF PARIS.

THE AMERICANS IN THE LAST 24 HOURS HAD BROUGHT 2,828 MORE PRISONERS INTO THEIR PENS, BRINGING THE TOTAL OF THE PAST FOUR DAYS TO 13,000. THE TOTAL OF PRISONERS TAKEN SINCE D-DAY PASSED 15,000.

THERE WAS NO CHANGE IN THE BATTLE FOR THE BRETON PORTS. SOME GAINS WERE MADE AT THE MOST IMPORTANT PORT OF BREST BUT THE ATTACK HAD NOT YET REACHED MAJOR FORCE.

ST. MALO STILL HELD OUT, AND ST. NAZAIRE AND LORIENT WERE ENCIRCLED.

SOUTH OF THE LOIRE THE AMERICANS APPARENTLY STILL HAD THEIR TEN-MILE FOOTHOLD ACROSS THE RIVER SOUTH FROM NANTES WITHOUT ANY FURTHER THRUSTS.

AUG 151944

ON THE MEDITERRANEAN FRONT, TOWARD WHICH THIS SALIENT WAS THRUST, THE FRENCH RIVIERA'S COASTAL DEFENSES WERE POUNDED BY AMERICAN HEAVIES IN THE FOURTH CONSECUTIVE DAY OF AIR ATTACKS.

ADD SHAEF-(CHILL) xx PRESSURE

THE GERMANS WERE PUTTING UP STUBBORN RESISTANCE ALONG THE COVERING CRUST BEHIND WHICH EVERY MAN POSSIBLE WAS BEING PULLED OUT. THERE WAS NO INDICATION WHETHER VON KLUGE HOPED TO RALLY FOR A MAJOR STAND ON THE SEINE RIVER OR EVEN PARIS.

AMERICAN ARMOR, IN A DRIVE FROM LE MANS IN THE LAST FIVE DAYS, WAS REPORTED TO HAVE POUNDED 55 MILES NORTH TO ARGENTAN, WITHIN SOME 18 MILES OF THE BRITISH AND CANADIANS PINCHING IN FROM THE NORTH OF THE GERMANS IN THE 30-MILE-DEEP CORNER OF NORMANDY.

ARGENTAN IS ONLY 13 MILES SOUTH AND SLIGHTLY EAST OF FALAISE. A FRONT DISPATCH LAST NIGHT SAID THE AMERICANS WERE ATTACKING NORTH OF ARGENTAN, WHILE THE BRITISH AND CANADIAN DRIVE HAD WIENED OVER A 20-MILE FRONT AND CARRIED TO WITHIN FIVE MILES OF FALAISE FROM THE NORTH.

AUG 151944

(THE BRAZZAVILLE RADIO, HEARD BY CBS, SAID THE ALLIES WERE ONLY ONE AND ONE-QUARTER MILES FROM FALAISE).

30. 24— 17999

THE WHOLE ESCAPE CORRIDOR WAS WITHIN ARTILLERY RANGE OF THE AMERICANS ON THE SOUTH AND THE CANADIANS AND BRITISH TO THE NORTH.

CAPTURE OF ARGENTAN WOULD MEAN THAT AMERICAN ARMOR, IN A SCYTHE-LIKE SWEEP BEHIND THE ENEMY POSITIONS IN NORMANDY, HAD CUT THE LAST DIRECT ESCAPE HIGHWAY TOWARD PARIS. THE GERMANS STILL HAD ONE GOOD ROAD, LEADING NORTHEAST FROM FALAISE TO LISIEUX AND INDIRECTLY TO PARIS, BUT THIS WAS MENACED BY CANADIAN ARTILLERY FIRE.

THE AMERICAN ARMORED FORCE ON THE SOUTH SIDE OF THE CORRIDOR HAD PLUNGED MORE THAN 100 MILES THROUGH NAZI LINES SINCE IT SLASHED EASTWARD FROM THE BRETON PENINSULA. FROM LE MANS, 110 MILES SOUTHWEST OF PARIS, IT IS 30 MILES TO ALENCON AND ANOTHER 25 TO ARGENTAN.

AS THE ALLIES BATTLED TO CLOSE THE TRAP, THE U.S. FIRST ARMY OPENED A GENERAL OFFENSIVE AT DAWN SUNDAY AGAINST THE WESTERN END OF THE GERMAN LINE IN NORMANDY, ADVANCING SOME MILES ON A FRONT BETWEEN VIRE AND MORTAIN. THIS ATTACK FELL AGAINST THE WEDGE FROM WHICH THE NAZIS TRIED UNSUCCESSFULLY A WEEK AGO TO SPLIT THE ALLIES IN NORMANDY AND BRITTANY. THE AMERICANS PUSHED FORWARD SEVERAL MILES, TAKING HUNDREDS OF PRISONRS.

AUG 151944

HOW DESPERATELY THE GERMANS WANTED TO RETREAT WAS SHOWN BY THEIR DAYLIGHT WITHDRAWAL SUNDAY IN THE FACE OF MASSIVE ALLIED AIR STRENGTH. TAKING FULL ADVANTAGE OF THE SITUATION, THE ALLIED AIR ARM HAD ITS BIGGEST DAY SINCE D-DAY, LEAVING MASSES OF WRECKAGE AND MANY ENEMY DEAD AND WOUNDED ALONG THE ROADS.

ILLUSTRATIVE OF THE TOLL, U.S. EIGHTH AIR FORCE MUSTANGS, THUNDERBOLTS AND LIGHTNINGS ALONE DESTROYED OR DAMAGED 2,110 RAILWAY CARS, 221 LOCOMOTIVES, 217 MOTOR TRUCKS AND 79 OTHER MILITARY VEHICLES IN THE RETREAT YESTERDAY.

BUT A BRITISH STAFF GENERAL AT THE FRONT WARNED AGAINST OVER-OPTIMISM, REMARKING THE ALLIES COULD MAKE NO RAPID DASH ON PARIS UNTIL THEY HAD MOPPED UP GERMAN UNITS PASSED BY THE AMERICANS IN THEIR BREAKTHROUGH. HE ALSO CITED THE PROBLEM OF THE LENGTHENING ALLIED COMMUNICATION LINES.

AUG 151944

THIS OFFICER SAID THE GERMANS NOW PROBABLY WOULD HAVE TO PULL BACK THEIR MAIN SUPPLY DEPOTS TO THE PARIS AREA BECAUSE OF ALLIED BOMBINGS.

VON KLUGE'S GREATEST WORRY, HE CONTINUED, IS THAT THE GERMAN ARMY IS ONLY ABOUT 50 PER CENT MOBILE. THE GERMAN COMMANDER ALSO IS SEVERELY HANDICAPPED IN DETERMINING THE STRENGTH AND DIRECTION OF THE ALLIED THRUSTS BECAUSE OF HIS ALMOST COMPLETE LACK OF AERIAL RECONNAISSANCE.

A SPOKESMAN FOR GEN. DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER WARNED FRENCH CIVILIANS IN A BROADCAST TO TAKE COVER WHEN ALLIED PLANES APPRACH AND TO AVOID ENEMY ROUTES OF TRAVEL AND BRIDGES. HE ALSO ASKED THEM NOT TO TRAVEL ON BICYCLES DURING DAYLIGHT BECAUSE SO MUCH GERMAN TRANSPORT HAS BEEN DESTROYED THAT "THE ENEMY NOW IS MOVING TROOPS ON BICYCLES."

SINCE D-DAY, SUPREME HEADQUARTERS SAID, ALLIED PLANES HAVE HIT 70 GERMAN HEADQUARTERS AND ARZ KNOWN TO HAVE KILLED ONE GENERAL--MAJ. GEN. RITTER VON ELBER VON DAVAMS.

MS37AEW

ADD FRANCE ANIMALS

DRAPER, COMMISSIONED OFFICER IN THE U.S. PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE SINCE 1910, WAS MADE A BRIGADIER GENERAL IN 1939. HIS WIFE AND TWO CHILDREN LIVE AT ARLINGTON, VA.

AK730PEW

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, AUG.14-(AP)-ALLIED BOMBS HAVE HIT 70 GERMAN HEADQUARTERS AND ARE KNOWN TO HAVE KILLED AT LEAST ONE GERMAN GENERAL--MAJ.GEN.RITTER VON ELBER VON DAWMANS, IT WAS DISCLOSED TODAY.

THE GERMAN GENERAL'S BODY WAS FOUND IN A COMMON GRAVE NEAR A GERMAN HEADQUARTERS SOUTH OF CAEN ALONG WITH THE BODIES OF TWO MAJORS, TWO CAPTAINS AND 14 OTHER OFFICERS AND NON-COMMISSIONED OFFICERS.

IN THE CAMPAIGN TO OBLITERATE ENEMY HEADQUARTERS AND THUS REMOVE THE BRAINS FROM THE UNITS THE ALLIED COMMAND HAS BOMBED 70 SUCH TARGETS SINCE D-DAY.

THE RAID WHICH COST THE LIFE OF VON DAWMANS WAS BELIEVED TO HAVE TAKEN PLACE IN THE EVENING OF AUG. 10 WHEN THE HEADQUARTERS WAS SMASHED BY TACTICAL AIRFORCE MITCHELL BOMBERS WHILE THE GERMAN OFFICERS WERE IDLING IN THE BUILDING AFTER DINNER.

ONLY THE WALL OF THE STRUCTURE REMAINED STANDING AND CREWS HAD REPORTED "THE MISSION WAS HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL."

UNCOVERING OF THE BODIES BY GROUND FORCES VERIFIED THE SUCCESS.

AK740PEW

ALENCON--THIRD ADD FRENCH X X X UNDER FIRE.

"THE GERMANS INVENTED THE BLITZKRIEG," ONE GENERAL COMMENTED, "AND WE PERFECTED IT.

"WE ADDED SOMETHING NEW TO WARFARE. WHENEVER WE NEEDED THEM FOR SPECIFIC TARGETS, WE HAD OUR PLANES AND A LOT OF CREDIT HAS TO GO TO THOSE BOYS.

"WE ALSO BORROWED AND IMPROVED ON THE GERMANS' 'WEDGE AND KESSEL' TECHNIQUE. WE MAKE OUR BREAKTHROUGH WITH ARMOR, ENCIRCLE THE ENEMY AND THEN CHEW HIM TO PIECES."

THE DEMORALIZATION AMONG THE GERMANS WAS EMPHASIZED BY THE FACT THAT THEY HAD MANY OF THEIR GUNS POINTING THE OTHER WAY AS ALLIED TROOPS SMASHED FORWARD. APPARENTLY THE GERMANS DID NOT KNOW OR COULD NOT FIGURE OUT WHICH WAY THE LIGHTNING WAS GOING TO STRIKE.

PRISONERS TAKEN SINCE LEMANS WAS OCCUPIED REPORTED DISSENSION AMONG THEIR REGULAR ARMY OFFICERS UNDER MARSHAL VON KLUGE AND THE NEW S S (ELITE GUARD) OFFICERS RUSHED IN BY HITLER AFTER THE ATTEMPT ON HIS LIFE.

THIS GAVE RISE TO THE POSSIBILITY THAT THE REGULARS WHO WERE LEFT IN THE FIELD WERE REALIZING THE HOPELESSNESS OF THEIR PREDICAMENT AND WERE ADOPTING A STANDSTILL ATTITUDE WHILE LETTING HITLER'S PET SS OFFICERS TAKE THE RESPONSIBILITY FOR DISASTER.

SOME PRISONERS SAID THAT AFTER LE MANS THEIR OFFICERS OPENLY ASSERTED THE WAR WOULDN'T LAST MORE THAN TWO WEEKS MORE. DEFEATISM, THEY SAID, IS SPREADING FROM THE TOP DOWN.

WM434PEW

AUG 151944

SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE--3RD ADD NIGHT LEAD FRENCH (BY BALL) X X X AND TUNISIA.

SWINGING NORTH FROM LE MANS AND ADVANCING AGAINST STIFF RESISTANCE, THE FRENCH AND AMERICANS SOME DAYS AGO TOOK MAMMERS, 16 MILES SOUTHEAST OF ALENCON, AND BEAUMONT, 16 MILES DUE SOUTH OF ALENCON, ONE OF THE MAIN COMMUNICATIONS CENTERS FOR THE GERMANS IN WESTERN FRANCE.

IN ONE BRISK ACTION ON THIS FRONT, 20 AMERICANS, ARMED WITH TWO BAZOOKAS, WAYLAID A GERMAN COLUMN OF TEN VEHICLES. THEY FIRED TWO SHOTS, THE REMAINDER OF THE COLUMN GROUND TO A HALT, "AND THE HEINIES PILED OUT REACHING FOR THE SKY," SAID MAJ.WILLIAM J.FALVEY OF KNOX, IND.

AK941PEW

AMERICAN THIRD ARMY HEADQUARTERS-FIRST ADD FIRST LEAD THIRD ARMY (BY BOYLE) XXX ARGENTAN BOTTLENECK.

SERVING IN THE THIRD ARMY IS THE 15TH ARMY CORPS, WHICH WAS ACTIVATED AT CAMP BEAUREGARD, LA., FEB. 15, 1943, AND IS UNDER THE COMMAND OF MAJ. GEN. WADE H.HAISLIP, VIRGINIAN WHOSE WIFE LIVES IN WASHINGTON, D.C.

DURING THE LAST WAR THE THIRD SERVED AS AN OCCUPATION ARMY AND WAS REACTIVATED IN THE UNITED STATES UNDER THE COMMAND OF LT. GEN. COURTNEY H.HODGES. IT WENT TO ENGLAND AND ITS UNITS TRAINED EXTENSIVELY FOR MISSIONS WHICH SUBSEQUENTLY WERE PERFORMED TO PERFECTION IN ACTUAL COMBAT.

AUG 151944

WHILE THE FIRST ARMY CARRIED THE BRUNT OF THE BITTER AND COSTLY HEDGEROW FIGHTING OF THE EARLY WEEKS OF THE CAMPAIGN, THE THIRD ARMY READIED ITSELF TO EXPLOIT THE BREAKTHROUGH AT THE PROPER MONENT.

HEADQUARTERS ARRIVED IN NORMANDY EARLY IN JULY AND COMPLETED PLANS. ON JULY 25, AFTER ONE OF THE MOST TERRIFIC AIR BOMBARDMENTS EVER UTILIZED TO SUPPORT A GROUND OPERATION, THE FIRST ARMY JUMPED OFF AND CRACKED THE GERMAN LESSAY-PERIERS-ST. LO LINE.

IN LESS THAN A WEEK THE GERMAN FORWARD WALL HAD BEEN SHATTERED AND ON AUG. 1 THE THIRD ARMY'S TANKS TOOK OFF ON A ROUNDUP ATTACK, STILL BRILLIANTLY PROGRESSING AFTER TWO WEEKS OF CEASELESS ADVANCE.

IT WAS THE TASK OF THE FIRST ARMY TO ENGAGE AND HOLD AS MANY AS POSSIBLE OF THE ENEMY FORCES--THE SAME MISSION AS GIVEN THE BRITISH AND CANADIAN FORCES FARTHER EAST--WHILE THE THIRD ARMY WAS ASSIGNED BY GEN.BRADLEY TO SWING SOUTH BELOW THE NAZIS' ORGANIZED LINES, TO SWOOP ABOUT AND CREATE A VAST POCKET IN WHICH THE TRAPPED GERMANS COULD BE REDUCED AT LEISURE.

IN ITS BATTLE DEBUT THE THIRD ARMY MET NOTHING BUT SUCCESS.

"THE GERMANS INVENTED THE BLITZ--WE PERFECTED IT," SAID ITS COMMANDER.

THE THIRD ARMY BATTERED ITS WAY THROUGH GRANVILLE AND AVRANCHES, OPENING THE ENTIRE BREST PENINSULA FOR SPEEDY EXPLOITATION, SLASHING THROUGH ALL OPPOSITION OR BY-PASSING STRONGPOINTS TO BE MOPPED UP LATER.

THE ARMYDROVE SIMULTANEOUSLY IN THREE DIRECTIONS--SOUTH TO RENNES, AND BELOW; WEST TO BREST, AND EAST TO LE MANS.

REACHING THE LATTER CITY A COLUMN SWUNG NORTH AND AFTER A DAY AND NIGHT OF INCESSANT FIGHTING REACHED THE ARGENTAN AREA--BOTTLING UP THE GERMANS.

TO DO ITS JOB THE THIRD ARMY THREW OUT OF THE WINDOW ALL THE RULES ON SUPPLY AND COMMUNICATION. UNITS DROVE FORWARD SO FAST THAT THE CORPS AND ARMY HEADQUARTERS HAD TO SEND ARTILLERY SCOUT PLANES UP TO CHECK HOW FAR THEY HAD GONE. TANK OUTFITS SIMPLY RAN WILD OVER THE LANDSCAPE, SAWING UP RETREATING GERMANS, DODGING PAST THE FEW STRONG DEFENSES AND, AFTER SEALING THEM UP, GALLOPING ON TO THE NEXT OBJECTIVE.

THE GERMANS WERE SO BEFUDDLED THAT THEY HAD NO OPPORTUNITY TO REGROUP OR REORGANIZE A NEW LINE.

THE THIRD ARMY'S DRIVE HAS CAUGHT THE IMAGINATION OF EVERY SOLDIER IN FRANCE. THE AVERAGE REACTION OF THE ORDINARY DOUGHBOY AS WELL AS MANY OF THE CONSERVATIVE STAFF OFFICERS IS:

"IT HAS SHORTENED THE WAR BY WEEKS--PERHAPS MONTHS."

MJ1047PEW

BY MERRILL MUELLER
REPRESENTING THE COMBINED AMERICAN NETWORKS

GEN.EISENHOWER'S ADVANCED COMMAND POST, AUG 14-(AP)-THE DESTRUCTION OF THE GERMAN 7TH ARMY IS ABOUT TO TAKE PLACE IN THE PRESENT BATTLE OF FRANCE.

GEN.EISENHOWER, SUPREME ALLIED INVASION COMMANDER, PREDICTS THIS COMING WEEK WILL BE ONE OF THE MOST MOMENTOUS IN THE HISTORY OF THIS WAR--A FRUITFUL WEEK FOR US AND A FATEFUL WEEK FOR THE ENEMY.

30. 2.4 — 18001

PEACE CANNOT COME WITH THE MAJOR VICTORY WE ARE ABOUT TO ACCOMPLISH, BECAUSE THERE STILL ARE THREE GERMAN ARMIES REMAINING IN FRANCE WHICH ARE NOT ENGAGED. IT IS TRUE THAT SOME DIVISIONS FROM THESE THREE REMAINING ARMIES HAVE BEEN SHIFTED INTO THE PRESENT BATTLE AND ARE LOST IN THE ALLIED POCKET.

SOME OF THE ENEMY DIVISIONS EAST OF THE SEINE ARE LOWER UNITS OF POOR QUALITY, BUT THE FACT REMAINS THAT THESE THREE ARMIES HAVE PLENTY OF DRIVE AND FIRE POWER.

ONLY A POLITICAL COLLAPSE WITHIN GERMANY--ANOTHER ATTEMPT ON HITLER TO SUCCEED--COULD POSSIBLY DELIVER THIS WAR TO AN ARMISTICE WITHIN THE NEXT WEEK. THERE IS A SLIGHT CHANCE THAT A POLITICAL COLLAPSE MAY SHOW ITS FIRST MANIFESTATIONS ON EITHER THE RUSSIAN OR THE ALLIED BATTLE FRONTS WITH THE GERMAN ARMY'S EFFORT TO RID ITSELF BY REVOLT OF ITS NEW NAZI COMMANDERS. BUT EVEN SO, OUR TERMS STILL ARE UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER AND CLEAR ROADS TO BERLIN.

GEN.EISENHOWER HAS BEEN IN ALMOST CONSTANT CONFERENCE WITH ALL HIS BATTLE COMMANDERS FOR THE PAST THREE DAYS. HE IS WORKING AT A PRESSURE REMINISCENT OF THE CLOSING DAYS OF THE TUNISIAN AND SICILIAN CAMPAIGNS.

THESE ARE THE CLOSING DAYS OF THE CAMPAIGN IN NORTHWESTERN FRANCE AND THE NEXT PHASES ARE THE CAMPAIGNS OF NORTHEASTERN AND SOUTHERN FRANCE.

GEN.EISENHOWER ASKS HIS COMMAND FOR EVEN MORE SELF DETERMINATION AND SPEEDY ACTION. HE IS COMMANDING A NAVAL, AIR AND ARMY CORDON AROUND WHAT IS LEFT OF A GERMAN ARMY, ONCE UNDER ROMMEL'S COMMAND--A CORDON WITHOUT A PASSEGEWAY FOR THE ESCAPE OF A SINGLE NAZI.

IF IT SUCCEEDS, PARIS IS THE PLUM FOR THE TAKING WITH LITTLE EFFORT.

ALLIED TROOPS HAVE PRODUCED A TREMENDOUS BATTLE SITUATION ABOUT TO PAY DIVIDENDS OF A GREAT VICTORY IN THE FIELD. THERE WILL STILL BE MUCH FIGHTING LEFT TO DO IN EUROPE THEREAFTER.

(NO PICKUP)

BY EDWARD D.BALL (460)

WITH THE AMERICANS OUTSIDE ARGENTAN,AUG.14-(AP)-FIELD MARSHAL GUENTHER VON KLUGE'S CORNERED PANZERS, MAKING AN ELEVENTH HOUR ATTEMPT TO BREAK OUT, WERE SLAUGHTERED TODAY IN A COMBINED DAYLONG ASSAULT BY AIR AND ARTILLERY, THE LATTER FIRING AT TIMES AT POINT-BLANK RANGE.

BIG RIFLES AND DIVE BOMBERS TOOK OVER DESTRUCTION OF THE ENEMY AFTER A NINE-DAY, 180-MILE PURSUIT OF THE GERMANS BY AMERICANS WHO SPEARHEADED THE SOUTHERN CLAW OF OUR PINCER FROM LE MANS IN COLLABORATION WITH THE CANADIANS STRIKING FROM THE NORTH.

GERMAN ARMOR WAITED UNTIL THE ESCAPE CORRIDOR WAS LESS THAN 20 MILES WIDE BEFORE MAKING A SUPREME EFFORT TO BULL THEIR WAY OUT OF ENTRAPMENT---AND THEY APPARENTLY WERE TOO LATE. REPEATEDLY OUR BOMBERS, DIVING OUT OF A CLEAR, BLUE SKY, POUNDED ON THEM WHI LONG TOMS AND LIGHTER ARTILLERY POURED FIRE ON THEM.

THE ENEMY'S MAIN ESCAPE BIDS WERE MADE THROUGH THE TOWN OF MONTREE AND THROUGH THE FORET DE COUVES. IN THE VICINITY OF MONTREE EIGHT TIGERS WERE AMONG 30-ODD TANKS DESTROYED BEFORE NOON. SOME OF THEM WERE ABANDONED AND BLOWN UP BY THEIR CREWS WHEN THEY RAN OUT OF GAS. FIFTEEN OR 20 TANKS WERE DESTROYED IN THE FORET DE COUVES DURING THE MORNING AND GREAT PLUMES OF SMOKE WHICH AROSE FROM THEIR BURNING CARCASSES WERE VISIBLE FROM THE HILLS FOR MILES AROUND.

EARLY IN THE AFTERNOON ANOTHER 20 TANKS STARTED THROUGH THE FOREST AND CAME WITHIN A MILE AND A HALF OF THE ADVANCED POST AT WHICH I STOPPED. IT DEVELOPED INTO A WILD MELEE.

"IT'S A SCRAMBLE DOWN THERE AND THE GERMANS ARE GOING AROUND IN CIRCLES," SAID MAJ.EDGAR T.GUENTHER, WHITE RIVER, ARIZ., WHO IS A MINING ENGINEER IN CIVILIAN LIFE.

AUG 15 1944

HE AND LT.WILLIAM SARMIENTO, ASBURY PARK,N.J., SCHOOL TEACHER, WERE FOLLOWING THE ACTION ON MAPS LIKE BASEBALL FANS WITH SCORECARDS.

"IT IS AS HOT AS A FIRECRACKER AND THE WOODS," SAID PFC ALEX ADAMSKY, DANCY,WIS., WHO WITH SGT.ROBERT D.MURPHY, BUFFALO,N.Y., AND CORP.D.T.KIMBRIEL, ABILENE,TEX., DROVE INTO THE FOREST WITH THEIR GENERAL AND HAD TO COME BACK ANOTHER WAY.

THE DECISIVE ACTION WHICH SET THE GERMANS UP FOR A KNOCKOUT BLOW OCCURRED SATURDAY WHEN ARMOR SMASHED A STRONG PANZER FORCE IN A BATTLE WHICH RAGED THROUGHOUT THE DAY AND NIGHT IN THE FORET DE COUVES WHILE AMERICANS KNOCKED OUT A SMALLER ENEMY FORCE IN THE TOWN OF SEES, JUST NORTHWARD. THIS ENABLED AMERICAN AND CANADIAN ARTILLERY TO PUT THE BOTTLENECK UNDER FIRE.

SUMMARIZING THE BREAKTHROUGH FROM THE CHERBOURG PENINSULA AN AMERICAN GENERAL CALLED IT ONE OF THE GREATEST MOVEMENTS OF INFANTRY IN HISTORY.

"THE INFANTRY PUT IT OVER," HE SAID. "FOR FOUR AND FIVE DAYS AT A TIME THEY WALKED DAY AND NIGHT.

"DURING THE NINE DAYS WE WERE PUSHING THEM WE WERE FIGHTING DAY AND NIGHT. SOMETIMES WE KNEW LITTLE OF WHAT THE GERMANS WERE DOING FOR WE WERE GOING SO FAST.

"THE TROUBLE WITH THE GERMANS," HE SAID, "THEY JUST HELD ON TOO LONG AROUND HERE.

"I TOLD MY MEN THE GOING WOULD BE FAST AND TOUGH BUT THAT THE PAYOFF WOULD BE RICH. IT LOOKS LIKE IT IS."

(EDS: 3RD GRAF FROM END MAKE READ: "XXX WERE PURSUING THEM" ETC.)

EV&MJ1018PEW

BY EDWARD D.BALL

ALENCON AUG 12-(DELAYED)-(AP)-ALLIED TROOPS OCCUPIED ALENCON, ONE OF THE MOST IMPORTANT HIGHWAY HUBS IN WESTERN FRANCE, AND SURGED NORTHWARD TO THE TOWN OF SEES IN BROILING HEAT TODAY. ONLY MINOR GERMAN RESISTANCE WAS ENCOUNTERED.

DESPITE THE SWELTERING HEAT THAT DRENCHED THE DOUGHBOYS' UNIFORMS WITH PERSPIRATION, THEIR SPEED WAS UNSLACKENED AND THEIR SPIRITS WERE AT THEIR HIGHEST SINCE D-DAY.

FROM GENERAL TO GI THERE WAS EXUBERANCE AT THE SWIFT PACE MAINTAINED SINCE THE BREAKTHROUGH.

"I'VE SPENT THE BEST YEARS OF MY LIFE IN THIS MISERABLE WAR AND NOW WE'RE GOING SOMEWHERE," REJOICED SGT.ELMER J.KISTLER OF NATRONA HEIGHTS, PA. "ON TO BERLIN!"

THERE WAS NO FLOWER TOSSING AND LITTLE FLAG WAVING HERE. PERHAPS THE ENTHUSIASM OF THE CITIZENS WORE OUT WHEN THE FIRST ARMORED ELEMENTS PASSED THROUGH YESTERDAY.

AN OLD FRENCHMAN TAPPED MY SHOULDER AND POINTED TO A BOMB BLASTED CATHEDRAL.

"BOMBS," HE SAID. "AMERICANS. FIFTEEN DAYS AGO."

THEN HE SHUFFLED UP THE STREET WITHOUT ANOTHER WORD.

"UP TO HERE WE HAVE AN EASY TIME OF IT AFTER THE BREAKTHROUGH," SAID A BRIGADIER GENERAL SITTING IN A JEEP UNDER A SHADE TREE.

"THIS IS ONE OF THE NICEST PIECES OF MANEUVERING I HAVE EVER SEEN AND I HAVE BEEN ON THE BATTLEFIELD FOR 18 MONTHS HERE AND IN ITALY.

"WE'VE USED THEIR OWN TACTICS ON THEM--THAT IS, SCATTERED THEM WITH ARMOR, THEN ENCIRCLE THEM AND CHEW THEM UP."

THE GENERAL, WHO LED THE DASH FROM PERIERS TO LE MANS AND WHO IS LEADING ONE FORCE HERE, SAID THAT AFTER THE INITIAL BREAKTHROUGH AROUND PERIERS "WE CAME SO FAST THE GERMANS DIDN'T CATCH ON TO WHAT WAS HAPPENING. MY OUTFIT ALONE CAPTURED 1,500 PRISONERS WEST OF LE MANS.

FANNING HIMSELF WITH A FIELD MAP, HE ADDED:
"I AM READY TO END THIS THING UP AND GET BACK TO MY AIR-CONDITIONED BANK BACK HOME. I AM A BANKER TURNED SOLDIER FOR THIS WAR."
HE SAID THE GERMANS BEGAN CHECKING OUT AUG.9.
"THEY LEFT A FEW HERE AND WE HAVE BEEN SMOKING THEM OUT IN TWO'S AND THREE'S," SAID PFC. RAY H. DUNNIGAN OF FT.WORTH, TEX., WHO TEAMED UP WITH PVT.JOE CASSINI OF MEMPHIS, TENN., ON PATROL DUTY.
MK704AEW

BY ROBERT C.WILSON

WITH THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY, AUG 14-(AP)-THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY SMASHED FORWARD TWO MILES IN THREE HOURS TODAY ON THE APPROACHES OF FALAISE IN A MAJOR ATTACK SPEARHEADED BY TANKS AND ARMORED TROOP CARRIERS.

THE GRIM-FACED CANADIANS LEAPED FORWARD AT NOON AFTER BEING TOLD BY LT.GEN.H.D.G.CRERAR, IN AN ORDER OF THE DAY:
"WE CAN CONTRIBUTE IN A MAJOR DEGREE TO A SPEEDY ALLIED VICTORY BY OUR ACTION TODAY."
THEIR TWO MILE ADVANCE BY 3 P.M. WAS IN A SECTOR ACROSS THE LAISON RIVER.
AUG 151944
THE CANADIAN FORWARD POSITION HAD BEEN WITHIN FIVE MILES OF FALAISE, IMPORTANT ROAD JUNCTION WHERE WILLIAM THE CONQUEROR WAS BORN.
THE ATTACK WAS MADE ON A TWO AND A HALF-MILE FRONT ROUND ESTREE-LA CAMPAGNE AND SWPT ACROSS THE LAISON RIVER IN A DRIVE AIMED AT DOMINATING GERMAN COMMUNICATION LINES THROUGH FALAISE. CAPTURE OF THE CITY ITSELF IS OF SECONDARY IMPORTANCE.
ARMORED BRIGADES LED THE ASSAULT, INTERSPERSED WITH THE SELF-PROPELLED ARTILLERY KNOWN AS "PRIESTS" FROM WHICH GUNS WERE REMOVED AND TROOPS WERE CARRIED UNDER PROTECTION OF THE ARMOR PLATING.
BEFORE THE TROOPS ROLLED A SMOKE SCREEN LAID DOWN BY ARTILLERY TO BLIND THE ENEMY, STRONGLY DUG IN AND BENT ON HOLDING OPEN THE LAST GOOD ESCAPE ROUTE TO LISIEUX AND PARIS.
THE LAISON RIVER RUNS ABOUT FOUR MILES NORTH OF THIS HIGHWAY AT THE POINT WHERE THE CANADIANS CROSSED IT.
MEETING HEAVIER GERMAN RESISTANCE AT EACH STEP, THE CANADIANS DROVE AS FAR AS CLAIR TIZON WHICH WAS CAPTURED WITH ITS BRIDGES INTACT AND CROSSED EASTWARD OVER THE LAIZE RIVER.
THE DRIVE STARTED TWO DAYS AGO WITH THE CANADIANS CROSSED THE LAIZE AT BRETTEVILLE, 5 1/2 MILES NORTH OF CLAIR TIZON, AND PUSHED SOUTH ALONG THE WESTERN BANK OF THE RIVER.
KK704AEW
THE VILLAGES OF TOURNEBU AND LE MESNIL ALSO FELL TO THE DRIVE, WHICH WAS PARALLELED ON THE CANADIANS' RIGHT FLANK BY THE BRITISH SECOND ARMY ON THE MOVE SOUTHEAST OF THURY-HARCOURT.
IN SUPPORT OF THE CANADIANS' PUSH THE RAF DESTROYED 21 TANKS, LEFT FIVE OTHERS PROBABLY DESTROYED OR DAMAGED, DESTROYED 130 GERMAN MOTOR TRANSPORT AND DAMAGED 250.

BY HENRY B.JAMESON

NINTH AIR FORCE ADVANCE HEADQUARTERS, FRANCE, AUG. 14-(AP)-FIGHTER PILOTS WHO HAD A FIELD DAY TODAY BLASTING ENEMY CONVOYS ALL THE WAY FROM BREST TO PARIS REPORTED THAT PANICKY GERMAN TROOPS WERE DESERTING THEIR VEHICLES AND ATTEMPTING TO FLEE ON FOOT AHEAD OF THE ADVANCING AMERICAN COLUMNS IN THE MAIN BATTLE SECTORS.

THE DAY'S CLAIMS WILL RUN INTO SCORES OF TANKS AND HUNDREDS OF OTHER VEHICLES.

"GERMANS WERE GOING EVERYWHICH WAY," SAID LT.EDWARD W.DAGE, KITTANNING, PA., WHO CLAIMED DESTRUCTION OF THREE TRUCKS.

PILOTS AT ONE BASE SAID THEY CAUGHT AT LEAST 50 GERMAN TANKS AT A REFUELLING STATION AND STARTED A FIRE WHICH SPREAD QUICKLY OVER THE ENTIRE AREA.

"I SAW SOME VEHICLES BREAKING AWAY AND RUNNING LIKE HELL FROM THE MAIN GROUP WHICH WAS JAMMED FOR MILES," DECLARED LT.WILLIAM OLDEN, 1439 VAN KIRST ST., PHILADELPHIA, PA., WHO DOVE DOWN AND BOMBED THE CROSS ROADS WHICH THEY WERE PASSING. "A BLIND MAN COULDN'T HAVE MISSED THEM."

A NINTH AIR FORCE OFFICER SAID THE GERMANS DEFINITELY WERE STARTING A BIG RETREAT AND "WE ARE THROWING EVERYTHING WE'VE GOT AT THEM TODAY."

AN INTELLIGENCE OFFICER AT ONE OF THE BASES MADE THE SIGNIFICANT OBSERVATION THAT FOR THE FIRST TIME IN DAYS THE FIGHTERS ENCOUNTERED VIRTUALLY NO FLAK.

"THE GERMANS SIMPLY ARE RUNNING NUTS DOWN THERE ON THE ROADS," SAID CAPT.TOMAS MONTAG, WEST BEND, IA., WHO STRAFFED THE FLEEING COLUMNS UNTIL HE EXHAUSTED HIS AMMUNITION.

"GERMAN VEHICLES WERE TEARING OUT HELTER SKELTER IN ALL DIRECTIONS WITH OUR ARMORED COLUMNS COMING UP ALMOST BUMPER TO BUMPER RIGHT BEHIND THEM," SAID LT.WILLIAM GARRY, WINONA, MINN., WHO SAID HE SHOT UP EIGHT STAFF CARS, TWO TRUCKS, ONE AMMUNITION DUMP AND TWO PORTABLE GUN POSITIONS

ADD MOSCOW -(LUCE) XX BIALYSTOK

SOVIET TROOPS THREW THE GERMANS BACK ACROSS THE BIEBRZA RIVER, LAST BIG WATER BARRIER BEFORE EAST PRUSSIA, AND FOUGHT FOR BRIDGEHEADS FROM WHICH TO PRESS TOWARD LYCK.

YEREMENKO'S LATVIAN LEGIONS, DRIVING TOWARD THE BALTIC, CAPTURED THE RAIL--HIGHWAY CENTER OF MADONA, 75 MILES EAST OF RIGA. OTHER UNITS REACHED WITHIN 55 MILES OF RIGA ON THE SOUTHEAST IN RUSSIA'S ATTEMPT TO SMASH REMNANTS OF TWO NAZI ARMIES TRAPPED IN ESTONIA AND LATVIA.

NORTH OF YEREMENKO'S FORCES, GEN. IVAN MASLENNIKOV'S TROOPS SWEPT BEYOND CAPTURED VORU, NEARLY 38 MILES INSIDE ESTONIA AND 95 MILES FROM THE GULF OF RIGA. THESE FORCES HAVE OCCUPIED OVER 60 SETTLEMENTS IN 24 HOURS, THE RUSSIANS SAID, AND THE SWIFT PACE SEEMINGLY INDICATED EARLY COLLAPSE OF GERMAN POWER IN THE BALTIC.

INCESSANT FIGHTING RAGED BETWEEN THE TROOPS OF GEN. IVAN CHERNIAKHOVSKY AND THE GERMANS IN SOUTHERN LITHUANIA LESS THAN A DOZEN MILES FROM EAST PRUSSIA, BUT THERE WAS NO WORD ON RED ARMY PROGRESS.

RED ARMY FORCES WEST OF THE SANDOMIERZ BRIDGEHEAD ACROSS THE UPPER VISTULA, SOUTH OF WARSAW, BEAT OFF ENEMY ARMOR AND MAINTAINED PRESSURE AGAINST THE WARSAW-KRAKOW LINE.

AUG 151944

M550AEW

EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, TUESDAY, AUG.15-(AP)-GEN. G.F.ZAKHAROV'S SECOND HITE RUSSIAN ARMY YESTERDAY REACHED THE BIEBRZA RIVER, 15 MILES ROM GERMAN EAST PRUSSIA, AND CAPTURED THE FORTRESS OF OSOWIEC IN THE ECOND OF TWO POWERFUL SOVIET DRIVES POINTED AT GERMAN SOIL.

BY REDUCING OSOWIEC THE RUSSIANS HAD A CLEAR ROAD TO THE EAST RUSSIAN RAIL TOWN OF LYCK, AND THIS

NEW MENACE TO THE NAZI PROVINCE AS EXPECTED TO EASE THE PRESSURE ON GEN. IVAN CHERNIAKHOVSKY'S THIRD HITE RUSSIAN ARMY WHICH HAS BEEN STALLED A FORTNIGHT BY DESPERATE ERMAN RESISTANCE NEAR THE EAST PRUSSIAN-LITHUAN BORDER.

OSOWIEC'S FALL, WHICH WAS MARKED BY THE FIRST MOSCOW VICTORY GUN ALUTE IN NEARLY A WEEK, WAS THE DAY'S BIGGEST EAST FRONT NEWS, UT IN SOUTHERN ESTONIA GEN. IVAN MASLENNIKOV'S THIRD BALTIC ARMY APTURED ANTSLA AND 100 OTHER PLACES IN A RELENTLESS DRIVE TOWARD THE ALTIC SEA.

MASLENNIKOV'S PUSH THROUGH THE LINES OF TWO TRAPPED GERMAN BALTIC RMIES CARRIED TO WITHIN 16 MILES OF VALGA, KEY JUNCTION ON THE PSKOV-IGA AND TALLINN-RIGA RAILWAYS.

OTHER RUSSIAN UNITS BEAT OFF HEAVY GERMAN COUNTERATTACKS IN THE SEINIAI SECTOR OF LITHUANIA NORTHWEST OF KAUNAS, AND ALSO BEYOND HE VISTULA RIVER BELOW WARSAW.

ZAKHAROV'S OFFENSIVE TOWARD EAST PRUSSIA FROM THE SOUTHEAST SET HE STAGE FOR ANOTHER GREAT BATTLE IN THE HISTORIC COMBAT AREA OF HE ASURIAN LAKES, WHERE 30 YEARS AGO THE GREAT BATTLE OF TANNENBERG WAS OUGHT.

MJ1002PEW

AUG 151944

MOSCOW AUG 14-(AP)-NEWSPAPERS FEATURED TODAY AN APPEAL OF ARSHAL FRIEDRICH VON PAULUS, CAPTURED GERMAN COMMANDER AT STALINGRAD, ELLING THE GERMANS "THE WAR IS LOST THROUGH THE FAULT OF HITLER, AND ONTINUANCE BY THE GERMANS IS SENSELESS BLOODSHED."

LT.GEN.DR.FRITZ FRANEK ALSO WAS QUOTED IN THE MOSCOW PRESS AS PPEALING TO THE GERMANS TO DESERT HITLER. FRANEK WAS THE 20TH CAPTURED GERMAN GENERAL TO MAKE SUCH AN APPEAL; VON PAULUS WAS THE HIGHEST ANKING.

THE PUBLISHED AND BROADCAST STATEMENT FROM THE STALINGRAD COMMANDER SSUMED MORE THAN USUAL INTEREST SINCE HITLER PERSONALLY ELEVATED VON AULUS TO THE RANK OF MARSHAL IN THE FINAL DAYS OF THE DEBACLE OF TALINGRAD.

"GERMANY MUST REMOVE HITLER, SET UP A NEW GOVERNMENT WHICH WILL MAKE EACE AND CREATE CONDITIONS WHICH WILL INSURE THE CONTINUED EXISTENCE F OUR PEOPLE," THE VON PAULUS STATEMENT SAID.

"RECENT EVENTS HAVE MADE THE CONTINUATION OF THE WAR BY THE GERMANS ENSELESS BLOODSHED. THE RED ARMY ALREADY HAS REACHED THE FRONTIERS OF AST PRUSSIA. IN FRANCE, THE ANGLO-AMERICAN TROOPS ARE THROUGH THE ERMAN DEFENSES AND IN TERRAIN GIVING THEM WIDE OPERATIONAL FREEDOM. EITHER IN THE EAST NOR WEST HAS GERMANY RESERVES CAPABLE OF RESTORING HE SITUATION. XXX

"FOR GERMANY THE WAR IS LOST. GERMANY FOUND HERSELF IN THIS OSITION DESPITE THE HEROISM OF HER ARMY AND THE PEOPLE AS A WHOLE HROUGH THE FAULT OF THE STATE AND THE MILITARY LEADERSHIP OF HITLER."

VON PAULUS, TOUTED BY GERMAN PROPAGANDA AT THE TIME OF STALINGRAD AS OUTSTANDING HERO OF THE ENEMY ARMED FORCES, WAS QUOTED AS WARNING S COUNTRYMEN THAT "THE ATTITUDE OF HITLER'S REPRESENTATIVES TOWARD E POPULATIONS OF OCCUPIED COUNTRIES--WHICH INVOKES THE DISGUST OF ERY REAL SOLDIER AND EVERY SINCERE GERMAN--WILL IMPOSE UPON US THE ST SERIOUS REPROACHES FROM ALL PEOPLES OF THE WORLD. IF THE RMAN PEOPLE DON'T REJECT SUCH RIMES, THEY WILL BEAR THE FULL SPONSIBILITY FOR EVERYTHING."

KK805AEW

MOSCOW, AUG 14-(AP)-THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT, INDICATING RESENTMENT OVER REPORTS THAT THE RED ARMY HAD ABANDONED WARSAW'S UNDERGROUND ARMY TO ITS FATE, DECLARED YESTERDAY THE POLISH GOVERNMENT-IN-EXILE IN LONDON NEVER HAD ATTEMPTED TO ESTABLISH LIAISON WITH THE RUSSIAN MILITARY COMMAND REGARDING THE PATRIOT FORCES.

A STATEMENT RELEASED THROUGH THE OFFICIAL NEWS AGENCY TASS ASSERTED THAT THE EXILE GOVERNMENT, SAID BY THE RUSSIANS TO BE THE SOURCE OF THE REPORTS, WAS RESPONSIBLE FOR EVENTS IN WARSAW.

M423AEW

AT THE FRENCH FRONTIER,AUG.14-(AP)-HEAVILY-ARMED GUARDS IN STREETS AND HOTELS KEPT WATCH TODAY OVER A TURBULENT AND RESTLESS VICHY THROUGH WHICH RAN A SERIES OF RUMORS, NOT ABSOLUTELY CONFIRMED, BUT INCLUDING ONE THAT MARSHAL PETAIN HAD GONE TO GERMANY.

WHETHER PETAIN STILL WAS IN VICHY COULD NOT BE STATED BY PERSONS WHO LEFT THERE YESTERDAY. AT ANY RATE, HE HAD NOT BEEN SEEN. HE WAS KNOWN IN THE MOST RELIABLE QUARTERS TO HAVE SENT A NOTE LAST WEEK TO LEGATIONS OF HIS "CAPITAL" THAT HE WOULD NOT LEAVE WILLINGLY; IF IT SHOULD BECOME KNOWN THAT HE HAD DEPARTED IT CAN BE TAKEN FOR GRANTED THAT IT WAS AGAINST HIS WILL.

REGARDLESS OF PETAIN THERE WAS A STEADILY INTENSIFIED FEELING OF CRISIS AND CONFUSION IN VICHY, TRAVELERS FROM THERE SAID. THE REPORT THAT A PARTISAN ARMY WAS MARCHING TO ATTACK THE CAPITAL WAS TAKEN AS HIGHLY EXAGGERATED. BUT THE DANGER FROM PARTISAN AMBUSH ATTACKS WAS SAID TO HAVE INCREASED.

TROOPS GUARDED ALL ENTRANCES TO THE TOWN. THE STREETS OF VICHY WERE CROWDED WITH POLICEMEN, MILITIA AND "SPECIAL POLICE".

MJ1040PEW

AT THE GERMAN FRONTIER,AUG.14-(AP)-STRIKES AND DEMONSTRATIONS COINCIDENTAL WITH THE ATTEMPT UPON HITLER'S LIFE LASTED THREE DAYS IN VIENNA BEFORE THEY WERE CHECKED, IT WAS REPORTED MOST RELIABLY FROM THE FRONTIER TONIGHT.

THOUSANDS PARADED OPENLY ON THE STREETS STARTING ON JULY 19, WHICH WAS TAKEN AS EVIDENCE THAT THE HITLER ATTEMPT OCCURRED AT LEAST ONE DAY BEFORE IT WAS ANNOUNCED ABROAD, INFORMANTS SAID. THERE WAS ONE REPORT THAT AN ATTEMPT WAS MADE UPON THE LIFE OF GAULEITER BALDUR VON SHIRACH AND THAT HE WAS WOUNDED.

MANY HUNDREDS WERE REPORTED ARRESTED AND A LARGE NUMBER EXECUTED.

MJ1020PEW

AUG 151944

BY CHARLES S.FOLTZ (170)

IRUN, SPAIN,AUG.14-(AP)-THE GERMANS HAVE BEGUN MOVING THOUSANDS OF FRENCHMEN FROM PRISONS IN SOUTHERN FRANCE TO HASTILY CONSTRUCTED LABOR CAMPS IN THE SIEGFRIED LINE AREA WHERE THEY ARE PUT TO WORK STRENGTHENING FORTIFICATIONS.

FRENCHMEN WHO ESCAPED FROM THE FIRST CONTINGENT OF BORDEAUUX PRISONERS WHEN IT WAS HALTED BY A MAQUIS BARRIER NORTHEAST OF THAT CITY REACHED THE FRONTIER TODAY.

THEY SAID AT LEAST 20,000 FRENCHMEN FROM SOUTHERN PRISONS AND CONCENTRATION CAMPS, ARRESTED BY THE GESTAPO AND COLLABORATIONIST POLICE SINCE D-DAY, WERE BEING MOVED NORTH, THEIR DESTINATION LABOR CAMPS ON THE GERMAN SIDE OF THE SIEGFRIED LINE.

THREE THOUSAND FRENCHMEN FROM THE NOTORIOUS FORT DU HA IN BORDEAUX RECENTLY WERE LOADED INTO ARMY TRUCKS AND RUSHED TO THE NEAREST CATTLE CARS ON THE BORDEAUX-AGEN-TOULOUSE RAILROAD--THE ONLY LINE SOUTH OF THE LOIRE STILL OPEN--AND THE FIRST CONTINGENT WAS HALTED BY THE MAQUIS BLOCK.

THE TRANSFER FROM THE PRISONS OF BAYONNE, BIARRITZ AND BORDEAUX HAVE NOT BEEN MADE WITHOUT INCIDENT. SEVERAL FIGHTS STARTED BETWEEN GERMAN GUARDS AND UNARMED FRENCH PRISONERS, ACCORDING TO BORDER REPORTS, AND AT LEAST 25 PRISONERS FROM FORT DU HA WERE SHOT BY THE GERMANS BEFORE DISTURBANCES WERE QUELLED.

MJ1055PEW

1ST LT. ARTHUR B. SPRINKLE, 2616 HARRISON

ADD ROME- (KENNEDY) XX YUGOSLAVIN

BOULEVARD, AUSTIN, TEX., WHO LED A FORMATION OF MEDIUM BOMBERS WHO OVER TOULON, REPORTED EXCELLENT COVERAGE.

1ST LT. CHARLES DODD, 5600 MORRISON ROAD, DENVER, COLO., SAID "WE COULD SEE SMOKE FOR 50 MILES."

1ST LT. WILLIAM G. SNOGGLES, LIVERPOOL, N. Y., SAID HE SAW BOMBS FROM A PLANE AHEAD OF HIM WHIT AN ISLAND OFF LA CIOTAT ON WHICH THERE WAS A GUN EMPLACEMENT. WWG

AUG 151944

TECH. SGT. WILLIAM JOLKEWER, 142 HUNTINGTON TERRACE, NEWARK, N. J/, REAR GUNNER IN A RAID OVER THE FRENCH COAST, SAID WWG "THE EXPLOSIONS GAVE THE APPEARANCE OF BOMBS WALKING AMONG THE GUN PITS."

BY GEORGE E.BRIA (250)

ROME,AUG.14-(AP)-FOOD AND EMPLOYMENT STILL POSED THE MOST DIFFICULT PROBLEMS IN HUNGRY AND IDLE ROME AS THE GOVERNMENT OF PREMIER INVANOE BONOMI MOVED TO ASSUME NOMINAL JURISDICTION IN THE ROME REGION TOMORROW WITH THE ALLIED CONTROL COMMISSION STEPPING DOWN TO AN ADVISORY CAPACITY.

THE FOOD SHORTAGE WAS MOST CLEARLY REFLECTED IN THE INFANT MORTALITY RATE--300 OF EVERY 1,000 BABIES HAVE BEEN DYING BEFORE REACHING THEIR FIRST BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARIES, COMPARED WITH A NORMAL RATE OF FROM 100 TO 150 PER 1,000.

AN ESTIMATED 100,000 PERSONS WERE STILL WITHOUT WORK.

THE HIGH INFANT MORTALITY RATE REFLECTED THE SUSTAINED UNDERNOURISHMENT OF MOTHERS, FOR MANY BABIES HAVE BEEN DYING AT BIRTH. ALLIED AUTHORITIES SAY THAT DEATHS OF INFANTS SURVIVING BIRTH ARE BEING GRADUALLY REDUCED BY FREEZING DISTRIBUTION OF POWDERED MILK EXCLUSIVELY FOR THEIR USE.

IT WAS GENERALLY AGREED THAT UNLESS THE GENERAL FOOD SUPPLY WAS INCREASED IN THE FALL AND WINTER MONTHS, THE DIETARY SITUATION IN ROME WOULD BECOME CRITICAL.

IN JULY 8,160 TONS OF ALLIED-IMPORTED FOOD WAS DISTRIBUTED IN ROME COMPARED WITH 6,702 TONS IN JUNE, BUT THE INCREASE STILL FAILED TO MEET MINIMUM REQUIREMENTS LAID DOWN BY THE ALLIED CONTROL COMMISSION.

IMPORTED FOOD HAS BEEN SUPPLEMENTED BY FRUITS AND VEGETABLES BUT A CONSIDERABLE QUANTITY OF THESE HAS SPOILED BECAUSE OF THE RED TAPE REQUIRED TO TRANSFER FOOD FROM SURPLUS REGIONS TO NON-SELF-SUFFICIENT ROME.

BONOMI IN A STATEMENT TONIGHT SAID "THE ITALIAN GOVERNMENT WILL AVAIL ITSELF OF ITS INCREASED AUTHORITY TO POINT OUT WITH EVER INCREASING INSISTENCE THE NECESSITIES OF ITS PEOPLE" BUT ADDED THAT MIRACLES COULD NOT BE EXPECTED.

THE STATEMENT SAID "THE MAJOR EFFECT" OF THE TRANSFER OF POWER WOULD BE FELT IN THE FIELD OF SANCTIONS AGAINST FASCISTS.

MJ1140PEW

VATICAN CITY, AUG 14-(AP)-POPE PIUS XII RECEIVED U.S. UNDERSECRETARY OF WAR ROBERT P. PATTERSON AND LT. GEN. BREHON S. SOMERVELL, COMMANDER OF U.S. ARMY SERVICE FORCES, IN A PRIVATE AUDIENCE TODAY.

MK711ATW

ADD ALGIERS XX RHINE

"I FIRMLY HOPE THAT WITH OTHER POWERS WE WILL REACH A BASIS OF VITAL SECURITY PROFITABLE TO ALL," DEGAULLE SAID.

"IT IS A REMARKABLE FACT THAT THE SECURITY AND POWER OF THE UNITED STATES AND FRANCE NEVER HURT EACH OTHER. ON THE CONTRARY, OUR FRIENDSHIP IS NEVER SO STRONG AS WHEN BOTH ARE POWERFUL AND CERTAIN OF THEIR FUTURE."

AK732PEW

SOUTHEAST ASIA COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, KANDY, CEYLON, AUG 14-(AP)-ALLIED TROOPS, STEADILY DRIVING THE LAST JAPANESE REMNANTS OUT OF NORTHEASTERN INDIA, MADE STEADY PROGRESS YESTERDAY AS THEY ADVANCED AGAINST LIGHT OPPOSITION ON THE TIDDIM ROAD AND IN THE KABAW VALLEY SECTOR, ALLIED HEADQUARTERS ANNOUNCED TODAY.

IN NORTHERN BURMA, MEANWHILE, CHINESE TROOPS AND KACHIN LEVIES CONSOLIDATED POSITIONS AROUND FALLEN KAZU AND PUSHED PATROLS DOWN THE MANDALAY RAILWAY TO MINGON, FIVE MILES SOUTHWEST OF TAUNGNI, THE ANNOUNCEMENT SAID.

KK656AEW

AUG 15 1944

ADD PEARL HARBOR XX BROTHERHOOD

NIMITZ SAID HE DID NOT BELIEVE ANY "SINGLE FORM OF ATTACK WILL DEFEAT JAPAN."

"IT WILL HAVE TO BE A COMBINATION OF EVERY WEAPON--SEA BLOCKADE, AIR BOMBARDMENT, POSSIBLE SURFACE SHIP BOMBARDMENT," HE SAID, ADDING POINTEDLY:

"ALREADY SURFACE SHIPS HAVE BOMBARDED THE NORTHERN KURILES."

ALTHOUGH FORESEEING THE POSSIBILITY OF FORCING JAPAN, WITHOUT INVASION, TO "THROW IN THE SPONGE," NIMITZ TOLD NEWSMEN "WE SHOULD KEEP IN MIND THE POSSIBLE NECESSITY OF INVASION AND BE PREPARED FOR IT."

DURING THE ENTIRE CENTRAL PACIFIC CAMPAIGN--GILBERTS, MARSHALLS, MARIANAS--NIMITZ SAID 52,323 JAPANESE KILLED IN ACTION HAVE BEEN COUNTED AND 3,022 TAKEN PRISONER AT A COST IN AMERICAN DEAD OF 5,903.

PM121APW NM

AUG 15 1944

BY ASAHEL BUSH

AN ADVANCED AIR BASE OFF NEW GUINEA, JULY 31-(DELAYED)-(AP)-"OURS IS THE BEST TENT AREA IN NO MAN'S LAND," COMMENTED LT. HARRY K. PALMER, OF 704 RODNEY AVE., BUFFALO, N.Y.

ANOTHER AMERICAN MORTAR SHELL ARCHED OVERHEAD. YOU COULD HEAR THE REPORT AS IT LEFT THE MORTAR AND A FEW MINUTES LATER AN EXPLOSION ON THE RIDGE BEHIND PALMER'S TENT--A HOLLOW SOUND AS IF THE SHELL MIGHT HAVE ENTERED THE MOUTH OF A CAVE.

PALMER IS A PILOT IN THE "BATS OUTA HELL" UNIT OF THE FIFTH AIR FORCE MITCHELL BOMBERS. HIS OUTFIT LONG HAS KEPT PACE WITH THE ADVANCING BATTLEFRONT, JUMPING FORWARD BY STAGES TO LEND CONTINUING SUPPORT TO THE GROUND FORCES. THIS IS THE FIRST TIME, HOWEVER, THAT A JUMP HAS TAKEN THE "BATS" INTO A ZONE OF ACTUAL COMBAT.

JAPANESE SOLDIERS ARE ENSCONCED ON THE RIDGE ABOVE PALMER'S TENT. THEY ARE SURROUNDED AND THEIR ULTIMATE PLIGHT IS HOPELESS, BUT BECAUSE THEIR POSITION IS VIRTUALLY UNASSAILBLE, THEY HAVE BEEN ABLE TO HOLD OUT UP TO NOW.

OCCASIONALLY THEY DROP A GRENADE IN THE DIRECTION OF THE BATS' CAMP OR FIRE A FEW RANDOM RIFLE SHOTS.

IN RETURN THEY DRAW FIRE FROM MORTARS OR TANKS BROUGHT INTO A POSITION BELOW THE CAMP SITE.

AUG 151944

THE FIRING, TO THE INFANTRY'S AMUSEMENT, INVARIABLY ATTRACTS A GALLERY OF CURIOUS AIRCORPSMEN.

THE PROJECTILES LOOP OVER PALMER'S HEAD AND THOSE OF HIS FELLOW FLIERS.

"OUR'S IS THE BEST TENT AREA IN NO MAN'S LAND," PALMER REPEATED.

JP&SB550PEW

AITAPE, BRITISH NEW GUINEA, AUG. 11-(DELAYED)-(AP)-
FIVE MEN ARE ALIVE TODAY BECAUSE SECOND LT. GEORGE W. BOYCE HAD PRESENCE OF MIND AND THE COURAGE TO DIE.

DURING THE RECENT FIGHTING IN THE FOOTHILLS AROUND AFUA VILLAGE, ON THE DRINIUMOR RIVER FRONT 20 MILES EAST OF AITAPE, A JAPANESE PITCHED A GRENADE INTO THE FOXHOLE CONTAINING BOYCE AND FIVE OF HIS MEN.

BOYCE ROLLED ONTO THE GRENADE AND SMOTHERED THE EXPLOSION. HE WAS BLOWN TO BITS, BUT NONE OF THE OTHERS WAS HURT.

A FORMER NEW YORK CITY AUTOMOBILE INSURANCE MAN, BOYCE WAS THE SON OF MRS. CATHERINE BOYCE, 166 EAST 87TH STREET, NEW YORK.

MH749PPW NM

MEXICO CITY,AUG.14-(AP)-AMERICAN LEGION COMMANDER WARREN H. ATHERTON OF STOCKTON,CALIF., WHO IS COMPLETING A TOUR OF LATIN AMERICA, TODAY PROPOSED ORGANIZATION OF A PAN AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF WAR VETERANS, WITH THE LEGION UNITS IN THE AMERICAN REPUBLICS AS THE NUCLEUS.

AUG 151944

ATHERTON SAID HE WILL RECOMMEND ERECTION OF A MONUMENT TO UNITED STATES AND MEXICAN SOLDIERS ON THE BORDER BETWEEN THE TWO COUNTRIES.

THE PLAN WAS PROPOSED TO HIM BY GEN.RAMON ITURBE, HEAD OF THE VETERANS OF THE MEXICAN REVOLUTION.

DV1053PCW

MEXICO CITY,AUG 14 (AP)-SENORITA MARIA CECILIA ARMIDA, NEWLY APPOINTED COUNSELOR OF THE MEXICAN EMBASSY IN RIO DE JANEIRO, SAID TODAY SHE WILL LEAVE FOR HER POST AUGUST 24.

AUG 151944

THE 23-YEAR-OLD MEXICO CITY GIRL SAID THAT SHE HAD PREPARED HERSELF FOR THE POST BY ATTENDING SCHOOLS IN ST.LOUIS, MO., AND ELSEWHERE.

OTTAWA, AUG. 14-(AP)-AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS ANNOUNCED TONIGHT AWARD OF THE DISTINGUISHED FLYING CROSS TO FLT. LT. C.M.JASPER, CLARK HOTEL, SPOKANE, WASH., A MEMBER OF THE R C A F OVERSEAS.

TA1137PEW

NEW YORK, AUG.14-(AP)-THE NAZI-CONTROLLED VICHY RADIO BROADCAST TODAY THAT THE GERMAN ARMY COMMANDER AT MARSEILLE HAD ORDERED EVACUATION FROM THAT FRENCH MEDITERRANEAN SEAPORT OF ALL PERSONS WHOSE PRESENCE "IS NOT OF DIRECT OR INDIRECT INTEREST" TO THE GERMAN ARMY.

"ANY OFFENSES AGAINST THIS ORDER WILL BE PUNISHED IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE PROVISIONS OF THE ORDINANCE RELATING TO THE SAFETY OF THE WEHRMACHT," SAID THE BROADCAST RECORDED BY THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION.

THE BROADCAST ORDER SAID THE DEPUTY PREFECT OF ADMINISTRATION OF MARSEILLE HAD BEEN ENTRUSTED WITH ENFORCING THE EVACUATION AND ADDED "SEVERAL DEPARTMENTS HAVE BEEN RESERVED AS RECEPTION AREAS, IN ADDITION TO THOSE WHICH HAD ALREADY BEEN EARMARKED FOR THAT PURPOSE."

PERSONS ALLOWED TO STAY IN MARSEILLE MUST CARRY A SPECIAL PERMIT, SAID THE BROADCAST AND "ALL THOSE WHO AFTER THE TIME LIMIT, WHICH WILL BE MADE KNOWN LATER, FAIL TO FURNISH THEMSELVES WITH A CERTIFICATE WILL BE PUNISHED AND EVACUATED AT ONCE."

NEW YORK, AUG 14-(AP)-THE NAZI RADIO IN OCCUPIED BELGIUM SAID TODAY IN A DOMESTIC BROADCAST THAT ADOLF HITLER HAD ISSUED A DECREE UNITING THE SUPREME COMMAND OF THE GERMAN ARMY AND OF THE GERMAN GESTAPO IN OCCUPIED BELGIUM AND NORTHERN FRANCE AND HAD APPOINTED GEN. RICHARD JUNGKLAUS COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF OF THE GERMAN ARMY IN THE AREA.

THE BROADCAST, REPORTED BY THE FCC, INDICATED THAT JUNGKLAUS, KNOWN AS AN ARDENT DISCIPLE OF HEINRICH HIMMLER, HAD BEEN EXERCISING THE POLICE POWER FOR SOME TIME IN THAT INCREASINGLY TURBULENT REGION.

THE "SIGNIFICANT MODIFICATION IN ORGANIZATION," SAID THE BROADCAST, WAS NECESSARY "NOT ONLY FROM THE POINT OF VIEW OF THE TOTAL WAR EFFORT IN WHICH THE GERMAN PEOPLE IS INVOLVED" BUT ALSO "TO ENABLE A MORE EFFICIENT PURGE OF THE ELEMENTS WHICH ARE DISTURBING PUBLIC ORDER AND SECURITY."

"BY DECREE OF THE FUEHRER," SAID THE FLEMISH-LANGUAGE BROADCAST, [illegible] POST OF COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF OF THE WEHRMACHT IN BELGIUM AND [illegible]ERN FRANCE HAS BEEN UNITED WITH THAT OF THE POST OF SUPREME [illegible]ITE GUARD) LEADER AND OF POLICE CHIEF, AND AS SUCH [illegible]N UEHRER JUNGKLAUS WAS APPOINTED TO COMMANDER IN VIEW OF THE WE[illegible]AC.T."

MK738AEW

30.24 — 18007

NEW YORK,AUG.14-(AP)-THE BBC IN A BROADCAST TONIGHT HEARD BY CBS SAID FRENCH FORCES OF THE INTERIOR HAD DESTROYED THE "GERMAN GARRISON" AT VENDOME IN THE ORLEANS DIRECTION IN A FURIOUS BATTLE."

THE BROADCAST ALSO REPORTED THAT FRENCH PARTISANS HAD FORCED THE GERMAN HIGH COMMAND "TO PUT WHOLE DIVISIONS INTO THE LINE" AGAINST THE PATRIOTS.

AK728PEW

NEW YORK,AUG.14-(AP)-THE STOCKHOLM TIDNINGEN SAID TODAY A GERMAN STEAMER LOADED WITH LAND MINES AND AMMUNITION FOR THE EASTERN FRONT BLEW UP IN THE HARBOR OF TALLINN, ESTONIA, WHILE BEING UNLOADED BY RUSSIAN PRISONERS OF WAR, KILLING 150 PERSONS.

THE DISPATCH, REPORTED TO THE OFFICE OF WAR INFORMATION, SAID "IT ISN'T YET ASCERTAINED WHETHER IT WAS AN ACCIDENT OR SABOTAGE BUT OWING TO THE SUSPICION THAT IT WAS SABOTAGE, ALL SURVIVING RUSSIAN WAR PRISONERS AT THE HARBOR WERE IMMEDIATELY EXECUTED."

EV1010PEW

NEW YORK,AUG.14-(AP)-IN A STATEMENT BROADCAST TONIGHT OVER THE MOSCOW RADIO THE SOVIET-SPONSORED FREE GERMANY NATIONAL COMMITTEE ANNOUNCED THAT FIELD MARSHAL GEN.FRIEDRICH VON PAULUS HAD JOINED THE COMMITTEE AND THE UNION OF GERMAN OFFICERS IN MOSCOW.

THE BROADCAST, RECORDED BY THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION, ALSO SAID SIX OF THE EIGHT GERMAN GENERALS WHO HAD JOINED THE COMMITTEE AFTER "COLLAPSE" OF THE EASTERN FRONT HAD BECOME MEMBERS OF THE OFFICERS UNION.

VON PAULUS, WHO SURRENDERED TO THE RUSSIANS WITH HIS SIXTH GERMAN ARMY AT STALINGRAD, WAS QUOTED BY THE MOSCOW RADIO LAST NIGHT AS SAYING GERMANY HAD LOST THE WAR BECAUSE OF "HITLER'S STATE AND MILITARY LEADERSHIP."

MJ1022PEW

AUG 151944

NEW YORK, AUG 11-(AP)-A CANADIAN BROADCASTING CORP. REPORTER SAID TODAY THAT THE GERMANS HAD PAINTED THE RED CROSS ON ARMORED CARS, TRACK VEHICLES, SELF-PROPELLED GUNS AND OTHER TRANSPORT IN THEIR RETREAT IN FRANCE.

THIS "DIRECT VIOLATION OF INTERNATIONAL LAW" WAS REPORTED IN A NBC BROADCAST, QUOTING CORRESPONDENT BILL HERBERT. CBS RECORDED THE BROADCAST HERE.

MT146PEW

NEW YORK, AUG 14-(AP)-AN ALGIERS BROADCAST SAID TODAY THAT GEN. ALPHONSE PIERRE JUIN, COMMANDER OF FRENCH FORCES IN ITALY, HAD BEEN NAMED FRENCH CHIEF OF STAFF.

THE BROADCAST, HEARD BY FCC, SAID THE RETIRING CHIEF, GEN.MARIE EMILE BETHOUART, IS ASSUMING AN ACTIVE COMMAND.

MT201PEW

NEW YORK, AUG 14-(AP)-TWO HUNDRED AUSTRALIAN VETERANS OF LIBYA, CRETE AND SYRIA MARCHED jauntily UP BROADWAY TO CITY HALL TODAY, CHEERED BY CROWDS THAT LINED THE SIDEWALKS FIVE DEEP.

MAYOR F.H. LAGUARDIA, WISHING THEM SAFE RETURN FROM A NEW MISSION, URGED THEM TO "GO OUT AND GET AS MANY JAPS AS YOU CAN, AS QUICKLY AS YOU CAN. WE WILL HAVE TO PUSH THEM BACK ONTO THEIR OWN ISLAND AND THEN INTO THE SEA."

SAN FRANCISCO,AUG 14 (AP)-CAPT.RICHARD F.WHITEHEAD, COMMANDER OF SUPPORT AIRCRAFT IN THE CAPTURE OF ROI AND NAMUR ISLANDS IN KWAJALEIN ATOLL, HAS BEEN AWARDED THE LEGION OF MERIT FOR "ESPECIALLY MERITORIOUS CONDUCT" IN THAT PHASE OF THE MARSHALL ISLANDS CAMPAIGN.

AUG 151944

CAPT.WHITEHEAD, OF CHICAGO, (STREET ADDRESS UNAVAILABLE), RECEIVED THE AWARD FROM VICE ADMIRAL JOHN H.TOWERS, DEPUTY COMMANDER IN CHIEF OF THE PACIFIC FLEET.

ATTACHED TO VICE ADMIRAL R.K.TURNER'S STAFF, CAPT.WHITEHEAD WAS IN DIRECT CHARGE OF AIR OPERATIONS AGAINST SAIPAN IN THE MARIANAS.

CG145PCW

UNDATED JAPANESE DIET
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LIFE IN THE UNITED STATES, AS REPORTED TODAY BY THE TOKYO RADIO:

"THE SHORTAGE OF FOODSTUFFS IN AMERICA IS BECOMING MORE AND MORE MARKED. IN RESTAURANTS AND HOTELS, MEAT IS SERVED ONLY ONCE A WEEK. AS FAR AS BUTTER AND CHEESE ARE CONCERNED, NOT EVEN A SHADOW OF THEM CAN BE SEEN AMONG THE CITIZENS OF THE UNITED STATES.

"WHISKY AND BRANDY CAN STILL BE BOUGHT TODAY BUT ALL SUCH BEVERAGES ARE ADULTERATED AND COST AT LEAST $15, SOMETIMES EVEN $20 A BOTTLE."

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION MONITORS REPORTED THE TOKYO BROADCAST FROM AN ITALIAN-LANGUAGE TRANSMISSION.

WM239PEW

THE ROAD TO BERLIN
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

-- RUSSIAN FRONT: 322 (MEASURED FROM EASTERN SUBURBS OF WARSAW)
-- ITALIAN FRONT: 603 (MEASURED FROM FLORENCE)
-- FRENCH FRONT: 626 (MEASURED FROM SOIGNOLLES).

AK1220AEW

FOUR YEARS AGO TODAY
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUG 151944

AUG. 14, 1940--BRITISH PLANES BOMB CAPRONI AIRCRAFT PLANTS IN MILAN, FIAT FACTORIES IN TURIN AND INDUSTRIAL CENTERS OF ALESSANDRIA AND TORTONA; GERMAN SUBMARINE TORPEDOES AND SINKS ARMED BRITISH MERCHANT CRUISER TRANSYLVANIA IN THE ATLANTIC.

WE247AEW

ALLIED TROOPS ADVANCE SWIFTLY INLAND MEETING SLIGHT OPPOSITION ON RIVIERA; TRAPPED GERMANS POUNDED IN NORMANDY

AUG 16 1944

Americans and French Extend Beachhead in South France

Official Communique Says Islands Off Coast Seized and Cap Negre Occupied—Night Report Declares Operations Proceeding Successfully—Enemy Opposition Remains Sporadic— No Enemy Air Attacks Yet Reported.

AUG 16 1944

ROME, Aug. 15 (AP)—Thousands of Allied troops, mainly Americans and French, swarmed onto the south coast of France on a broad front between Marseille and Nice today, seized and extended firm beachheads against inconsequential German opposition, and drove northward with the avowed intention of joining the Allies in northwestern France.

An Allied communique at 10:40 P. M., said Americans and French troops before dawn took the Sentinel Islands of Port Cros and Levant, ten miles off the coast, and seized Cap Negre, on the mainland due north of the islands and 28 miles east of Toulon.

Other specific locations were not given, the beaches being placed merely in the 125-mile strip of coast between Marseille and Nice.

The Germans said the focal point of the Allied invasion was at St. Raphael, 30 miles northeast up the coast from Cap Negre, and also said t' were landings west of Toulon and at Bormes, 25 miles east at onetime naval base.

No Plan Of Concerted Enemy Attack

American airmen who flew over the beaches late in the day said there was no sign of any concerted enemy opposition and that American vehicles were "running all over the countryside".

The official night statement said, "on the beaches of the mainland, where landings were successful against light opposition, the operation is proceeding satisfactorily," adding that, "substantial numbers of Allied troops, together with guns, munitions and supplies, had been landed across the beaches of Southern France by dark this evening.

"The beachhead has been extended and widened during the day's operation.

"Enemy opposition remains sporadic, and no enemy air attacks have yet been reported."

German Prisoners Demoralized

Word from the beaches indicated that German prisoners taken in sporadic, light fighting showed almost total demoralization, primarily as a result of the American break-through in northwestern France, which they realize meant that the fatherland's downfall was near.

One dispatch from a correspondent in the field said that by afternoon the invaders were well into southern France and going ahead fast against Germans, who were caught entirely by surprise. Allied casualties were reported to have been silght.

Air Troops Land

Thousands of Allied parachutists and air-borne troopers landed well inland at 4:30 a. m. ,also against scanty opposition, following the important opening blow against the offshore islands. A picked force had neutralized the islands' big guns silently to pave the way for the tactical surprise of the main seaborne landings which followed.

Backed by more than 800 warships of all sorts—the greatest naval force ever assembled in the Mediterranean—the first sea-borne troops went ashore in broad daylight at 7:30 a. m. (1:30 a. m., EWT). at several unidentified points between Marseille and Nice—a 125-mile stretch of rocky coast.

French Army in Being Again

"The Army of France is in being again, fighting on its own soil," said a proclamation by Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, the Allied commander in chief. Distributed by plane, his proclamaton told the French the primary aim of the new invasion was "to drive out the Germans and to join up wth the Allied Armies advancing from Normandy." to form a solid front across France.

Heavy aerial bombardment preceded the invasion in a final installment of the aerial softening-up process that had been in progress for three days.

The Air Forces announced that more than 14,000 pilots and air crews participated in the day's operations. This was exclusive of airborne troops and parachutists who landed in France and whose numbers were not disclosed but were described as great.

One Allied pilot, acting as a naval artillery observer, said he had flown 60 miles inland without seeing any big concentration of German troops.

The Germans apparently already had been forced to pull a large part of their troops northward to meet the threat of Gen. Eisenhower, even though they themselves had been predicting the Mediterranean landings for more than a week.

(The German-controlled Paris radio early Wednesday said there was heavy fighting between Cannes and Nice and between St. Raphael and Cap Camarat, with General Wilson personally directing the latter operation. An NBC reporter, however, said American Liberty ships already were being unloaded in Cannes Harbor.)

Bomb Roads Leading From Beaches

American Liberators this morning bombed the road leading from the beach to Frejus, near the mouth of the Argens River, two miles from St. Raphael. Marauder medium bombers struck heavily during the morning at beach and gun installations in a 30-mile sector from west of Cannes to east of Toulon, the great naval base where much of the scuttled French fleet lies rusting.

Other Liberators bombed five highway bridges over the great Rhone river between Valence and Avignon, along the natural pathway towards northern France.

In the last coastal bombings, the planes used smll bombs designed to destroy whatever German troops and guns remained, without creating craters large enough to impede the thrust inland.

That it was not impeded was indicated by a field dispatch from Herbert L. Matthews of the New York Times, representing the combined American press, who wrote tonight:

"A flabbergasted American army numbering many thousands is well into southern France this afternoon and going fast. It has been done virtually without opposition and with amazingly small casualties.

Caught by Surprise

"The Jerries were caught completely by surprise, and what few there were waiting for us have been scattered or captured. Men, tanks, artillery and material of all kinds have been pouring into three separate beaches since H hour . . . and by now we have built up such strength that it seems almost certain we have not only come to stay but to push on. This ought to be the decisive blow for France, and everybody is astonished that it went off so easily."

Flying over the coast where less than a fortnight ago he had seen intense antiaircraft fire, Kenneth L. Dixon, Associated Press correspondent, reported he was unable to see the flash of a single German gun today.

An airforce spokesman said the major pre-invasion tasks of knocking out railroads from the beachhead area northward through the Rhone valley and eastward into enemy-held northern Italy had been accomplished and that the landing area was virtually isolated.

30. 24— 18009

Along with their hundreds of tons of small bombs the Allied planes dropped 44 tons of leaflets urging Germans troops to present themselves to the Allied lines for surrender and calling on French citizens to do everything in their power to help the invaders.

Under Wilson's Command

For the present, at least, the southern front remained under Wilson's supreme command, independent of Gen. Eisenhower's in the northwest. The designation and composition of the invading armies remained military secrets. Its commander also was not identified.

A denial was issued here to London newspaper reports that the American Lt. Gen. Jacob L. Devers, deputy to Wilson, was field commander of the invading forces.

Veteran American units formed the major spearheads of the onslaught.

Some of them had been through the fighting in Tunisia, Sicily and Italy. Alongside them were French units.

An Allied communique reported that British troops also were participating, but a Navy communique referred only to the landing of French and American troops. This presumably indicated that the British participants were among the airborne forces only.

Complementary to Northern Invasion

Authoritative sources emphasized that the entire invasion operation was complementary to the operations in northwestern France and had been planned for many weeks to dovetail with Eisenhower's over-all plans for the French campaign.

Hundreds of thousands of men were involved in the preparations and operations. For weeks troops in rear areas were put through intensive special training based on the experience gained in Sicily, at Salerno and Anzio, while the fleet of landing craft and warships massed in the Mediterranean. Some of the ships had participated in the Normandy landings of June 6, while some of the air transports used had been sent in recently from the Burma theater.

There was repeated evidence of the thinning of German defenses. Only a single Marauder formation reported seeing any antiaircraft fire, and that was light. Only one pilot reported seeing any German tanks, and they were being dive-bombed by American Thunderbolts.

For hours the German air force was not in evidence at all. Finally American Lightnings encountered 18 Messerschmitt 109's near the assault area and promptly shot down three of them.

Thousands of sorties were flown by Allied fighter pilots who reported they failed to see a sign of opposition.

Progress North May Be Swift

It was considered here that the ground forces should be able to make swift progress northward.

The coast on which the Allies landed is a difficult one, with rugged hills and cliffs rising abruptly from the sea but interspersed with beaches, some small, others extensive.

Resort towns nestle among the green hills and reddish stones, looking out on the sparkling sea that has made that area one of the world's most famous holiday spots.

Once that coast bristled with big German guns and detection devices, designed to ward off just such landings as were made so easily. Three days of steady, concentrated aerial bombardment knocked out much of the defenses, and the final tremendous blasting in the three hours before the landings completed the job.

The shells and rockets of the naval vessels roared into the beaches from daylight until the moment of the landings.

Warships of the United States, Britain, France, Canada, the Netherlands, Poland, Belgium and Greece participated. Battleships, cruisers, destroyers and smaller vessels were included.

Minesweepers led the way to the shore in calm, clear weather.

comomed American press, declared that an American Army numbering many, many thousands, was well into southern France late this afternoon and was amazed that it was still going so fast. It has been done virtually without opposition and with amazingly few casualties, he said, adding that the Jerries were caught completely by surprise.

AUG 16 1944

"What few Germans were waiting for us have been scattered or captured," he continued. "Men, tanks, artillery and material of all kinds have been pouring into three separate beaches since H hour at 8 o'clock this morning, and by now we have built up such strength that it seems almost certain we have come not only to stay but also to push on.

"This ought to be the decisive blow for France, and everybody is astounded that it went off so easily.

DAY

Well Inland and Moving Fast.

"Americans can be proud that this was their venture from its inception to this successful outcome—perhaps our greatest single contribution to the war in Europe. The Germans will doubtless rally and throw in forces to stop the push as soon as they can; but meanwhile nothing counts today but the jubilation at the almost bloodless success of the great operation.

"Units on our flank did not have it quite so easy, but they too are well inland and moving fast."

One of the greatest airborne combat forces ever assembled paved the way for the assault and likewise carried out operations successfully.

Italy had been blocked for several days.

Allied air forces endeavored to avoid a mistake that was made at Cassino. They used small quick-fused bombs in attacks on objectives near the beaches to avoid deep craters which later might impede the troops' progress inland.

Airmen Batter Rhone Bridges.

AUG 16 1944

This afternoon Liberators and Fortresses bombed five highway bridges crossing the Rhone between Valence and Avignon and the road leading from the beach to Frejus, near the mouth of the Argens River west of Cannes. Enemy airfields in the Marseille area appeared to have been knocked out or abandoned.

The Germans apparently had pulled a large part of their effectives in southern France northward to meet the threat to Marshal von Kluge's Seventh Army.

Shortly before dawn a large airborne combat force descended into the rugged hills which rise from the coast line and went into a grapple with the German defenders for possession of key communication points and commanding vantage points.

Call on Patriots to Rise.

The invasion was accompanied by the signal from the French National Committee and Allied commanders to all Frenchmen to rise up against their German oppressors, and indications were that the well-organized underground army of southern France had responded.

Scarcely a shot was fired at the big transport planes and gliders which put the airborne troops down, and the first returning pilots of the massive fighter plane screen which covered the invasion said not a single enemy plane opposed the earlp operations.

Later, when Lightnings encountered the first German planes to be seen, three Messerschmitts were shot down without loss.

An Allied spotter plane flew sixty miles inland without sighting a single enemy troop concentration.

While Allied bombers struck incessantly at objectives inland, the huge invasion fleet of more than 800 battleships and other warships, hurled tons of steel into German coastal defenses.

American, British, French, Canadian, Netherlands, Polish, Greek and Belgian warships covered the swarms of landing craft carrying American veterans of Italy, and French forces which had fought in Italy and North Africa. Most of the airborne troops were believed to be British.

The prodigious invasion effort, involving hundreds of thousands of men and mountains of supplies and equipment, was not far from the mouth of the Rhone River leading northward across France.

Marseille, a city of more than 800,000 population, is twenty-five miles east of the Rhone mouth and at the edge of a large triangular coastal plain where many important air bases are located.

Nazis Specify Landing Area.

Nice is less than twenty miles from the Italian frontier. Coming down almost to the coast along most of this 125-mile stretch are the mountains and hills of Toulon, burial ground of most of the French fleet; the resort of Cannes, and many other famous resorts.

[German broadcasts were more specific on what they said was the invasion sector than were Allied announcements. The Germans narrowed the landing area to a seventy-mile stretch between Toulon, thirty miles east of Marseille and Cannes. Focal point of the strike, the Germans added, was the sixteen-mile stretch between St. Raphael and Cap Camarat, about midway between Toulon and Cannes.]

The Riviera coast where the landings were made is rugged with hills rising abruptly from the coast and is rockbound in many places. But between these ledges are many beaches, some small, others extensive. Back of these beaches are the little resort towns nestling against the hills—one of the world's best known playgrounds.

U. S. and French Predominance.

The striking force was composed largely of American and French troops whose patch was prepared by thousands of planes which had pinpointed guns, coastal defenses, bridges and roads since Friday. These attacks already had sealed off the Germans in the area under attack from speedy help either from Italy or northern France. Bombers today alone flew more than 1,000 sorties over the beachheads without opposition.

The immediate commander of the Allied forces which landed in southern France today has not been identified, but reports published in London naming the American Lieut.-Gen. Jacob L. Devers as the commander were described tonight as incorrect. The whole operation is under the direction of Gen. Wilson, and Gen. Devers is his deputy.

The air forces also dropped several million leaflets today, some inviting German troops to surrender, others instructing French civilians to keep off the roads and away from military objectives and yet others advising the underground what to do.

Flying at 1,000 feet over the Blows Fall Between Nice and Marseilles—800 Ships Support Assault—Airborne Forces Drop Far Inland.

KENNEDY

Rome, Aug. 15 (A. P.).—The Army of France and a great force of battle-hardened Americans and British, struck Hitler on a fourth major front today, invading southern France and successfully completing all their landings along a broad section of Mediterranean beach around Toulon.

A special communique a few hours after the blow was struck said beaches along a considerable length of the Riviera had been seized by midmorning according to schedule with scarcely any ground opposition and no air opposition.

In a dispatch from the south of France tonight Herbert L. Matthews of the New York Times, representing the

The great stab into the "underbelly of Europe," bringing the battle for France to full fury, was backed by more than 800 ships—one of the biggest fleets ever to sail the Mediterranean and by great air power.

"The army of France is in being again, fighting on its own soil for the liberation of its country with all its traditions of victory behind it. Remember 1918," was the ringing declaration of the commander in chief of the invasion force, Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson.

AUG 16 1944

Striking after sunrise, seven waves of infantry splashed ashore in the first two hours and seized their initial objectives with great rapidity at many places along a 125-mile stretch of the Riviera between the great port of Marseille and Nice.

They encountered only the weakest opposition, for enemy defenses had been pulverized by five straight days of a powerful air offensive.

An air force spokesman said the landing area had been virtually isolated by the destruction of every rail bridge in the Rhone Valley from Valence to Marseille—a distance of 120 miles—while the Riviera rail line into beaches, Associated Press War Correspondent Kenneth Dixon said that an hour after the landing began at 8 A. M. (2 A. M. Eastern war time) "as far as twenty miles inland a complete lack of any kind of a struggle marks the rugged landscape."

The landings were made in calm, clear weather and went off exactly on schedule, it was announced officially.

All early reports indicated that resistance at the initial stages of the operation were much less than anticipated. Pilots from whose planes parachutists jumped a little before dawn said they encountered little or no ack-ack fire.

The job of attempting to stem the Allies striking at the "underbelly" apparently lies with Col. Gen. Johannes Blaskowitz, last reported as commander of the German forces in southern France.

Nazi 19th Army in Area.

The German Nineteenth Army is believed encamped along the French Mediterranean coast. The German First Army is deployed in south and central France, spread out mostly along the Pyrenees south of Brittany along the Bay of Biscay. In recent days, divisions of the First Army have been reported moved into Normandy to bolster the reeling German Seventh Army. Both the First and Nineteenth were last reported commanded by Marshal Johannes von Blaskowitz, a tank expert. Many of their units are believed to be second rate, some interspersed liberally with impressed foreigners.

The coast, stretching from Spain to Italy, and 700 air line miles from Berlin—farther than from the Norman-Breton sector—is part of what Prime Minister Churchill once called the "underbelly" of Europe.

The Nazis presumably have fortified the coast in the meantime, but whether they have been forced to reduce their garrisons to meet the Allied threat from Normandy and Brittany is speculative.

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 15 (A. P.).—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has taken personal charge of operations in the western invasion and an American Army Group has been established there under Lieut.-Gen. Omar N. Bradley, independent of, and co-equal with, the British-Canadian command of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery.

Gen. Bradley's group — the Twelfth—is composed of at least two armies, the First and the Third. Gen. Bradley was succeeded by Lieut.-Gen. Courtney H. Hodges as commander of the First Army and command of the newly formed Third went to Lieut.-Gen. George S. Patton Jr.

Both Gen. Montgomery and Gen. Bradley report directly to Gen. Eisenhower, who directs the operations of both groups from a command post in France.

The change in the command setup took place immediately upon Gen. Eisenhower's arrival in France more than a week ago. Gen. Bradley's force has been in operation for some time, and he has been directing American strategy since the time of the "breakout offensive" along the Lessay-Periers-St.-Lo line on July 25.

DAY

Hodges and Patton.

Originally Gen. Montgomery was Gen. Eisenhower's chief deputy in the field and, as such, commanded all the ground forces, American as well as British and Canadian. For a period of about a week when Gen. Bradley's Twelfth United States Army Group began operations and before Gen. Eisenhower arrived in France, Gen. Montgomery was the "co-ordinator" between the two Army groups. With the Supreme Commander now on the continent the two army groups have assumed equal status, both commanders reporting to Gen. Eisenhower.

Gen. Hodges previously commanded an American Army Corps in France. Gen. Patton was a field commander in the Tunisian and Sicilian campaigns.

They Perfected the Blitz.

The two American armies have decidedly different missions. In the bitter and costly hedgerow fighting of the early weeks of the Normandy campaign the First Army was charged with engaging and holding as many as possible of the enemy forces—the same task given the British and Canadian forces further east. Held in readiness until the First Army had cracked, the St. Lo line, the Third Army's tanks took off on a round-up attack on August 1 to exploit the breakthrough, a front-line dispatch said.

Brilliant victories were scored by the Third Army in its ceaseless advance. One of its high-ranking officers estimated that it had taken 31,500 prisoners, wounded 38,400 Germans and killed 9,300. Some of its tanks rolled more than 600 miles in the last two weeks. One tank column roared forward ninety-six miles in twenty-four hours, and another dashed more than 100 miles in twelve hours.

Its units gained ground so fast that corps and army headquarters had to send artillery scout planes up to check where they were, a dispatch said. So quickly did the tanks saw through the Germans that the enemy had no opportunity to regroup or reorganize a new line. As its commander said: "The Germans invented the blitz—we perfected it."

Major-Gen. Wade H. Haislip, a 55-year-old West Pointer and a native of Woodstock, Va., was identified as the commander of the Fifteenth Army Corps which is serving in the Third Army. Gen. Haislip, who won distinction in the last war, was serving in sist Chief of Staff, G-1, in February, 1941. In March, 1942, he became chief of the Eighty-fifth Infantry Division at Camp Shelby, Miss.

Veterans of Last War.

Major-Gen. Edward H. Brooks of Concord, N. H., an old cavalryman and artilleryman, was identified as the leader of the Second Armored Division. Gen. Brooks, who is 51, fought in five major engagements in the last war. He played a major role in the development of the self-propelled artillery piece and the assault gun—both now potent forces in armored tactics.

The new First Army commender, 57-year-old Gen. Hodges, has served forty years in the Army, most of it in the infantry. He enlisted as a private in 1906 after spending two years at West Point. In 1909 he was commissioned. A native of Perry, Ga., Gen. Hodges was decorated with the Distinguished Service Cross and the Silver Star for gallantry during the last war. In this war, before taking over an Army corps in France, he was a commander in the Replacement and School Command of the Army Ground Forces.

U. S. Command Is Set Up in France

AUG 16 1944

First and Third Armies Under Bradley Who Reports Directly to Eisenhower.

Washington at the outset of the present war and was made As-

WILSON LEADING ALLIED TROOPS IN SOUTHERN FRANCE

AUG 16 1944

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Aug. 15—(AP) The Allied troops invading France from the south are under Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, commander of the Allied forces in the Mediterranean theater, but presumably will move into the jurisdiction of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as they drive northward.

Gen. Wilson's position in the south of France is the same as Supreme Commander Eisenhower's in the west, it was said officially.

Headquarters disclosed today that Lt. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., is the commander of the new American Third army, existence of which was first disclosed officially yesterday, and other new details of the Allied organization in the West were made public.

The newly-formed American organization has been named the 12th U. S. army group, and it is under the command of Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley. Completing Gen. Eisenhower's team in the west is Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, British army group commander.

Hard-hitting Gen. Patton commands the American Third army under Bradley and Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges has taken Gen. Sir Miles former place as commander of the American First army. A French division of armor under Brig. Gen. Jacques Leclerc, famed desert general who pushed up from Lake Chad to join the Allies in the North African campaign, is fighting under Patton.

Under Montgomery are Lt. Gen. Sir Miles C. Dempsey of the British Second army and Lt. Gen. D. G. Crerar of the Canadian First army.

Wilson's deputy commander in the Mediterranean is U. S. Gen. Jacob L. Devers and Gen. Sir Harold Alexander is in command of the Allied forces in Italy. It was also officially indicated who was the commander heading the actual invasion forces in Southern France.

There is yet another group in the west not yet in the field, the allied airborne army under Lt. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, the operation of which Eisenhower announced recently.

The announcement of the new commands affecting Bradley, Hodges and Patton came at a press conference at Eisenhower's command post in Normandy where the Supreme commander issued a warning against expecting the end of the Germans in the West would come in a few weeks.

The Supreme commander showed optimism over the situation and again praised the coordination of army, navy and air forces and their supply services.

GEN. WILSON CALLS TO FRENCH PEOPLE

Washington, Aug. 15 (A. P.).—Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, Supreme Allied Commander in the Mediterranean theater, told the French people after the landings were made in southern France that the object of the Allies was to drive out the Germans and join with the Allied armies advancing from Normandy.

The following is the text of his broadcast:

AUG 16 1944

"The armies of the United Nations have landed in the south of France. Their objective is to drive out the Germans and join up with the Allied armies advancing from Normandy.

"French troops are participating in these operations side by side with their comrades in arms, by sea, land and air. The army of France is in being again, fighting on its own soil for the liberation of its country with all the traditions of victory behind it. Remember 1918.

"All Frenchmen—civilians as well as military—have their part to play in the campaign in the south. Your duty will be made clear to you. Listen to the Allied radio, read notices and leaflets, pass on all instructions from one man and woman to another.

"To end the struggle as quickly as possible so that all France may resume again her free life under conditions of peace and security. Victory is certain. Long live the spirit of France and all that it stands for."

Commander Wilson's message was released in Washington by the War Department.

MONTGOMERY STILL COMMANDS FORCES

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Wednesday, Aug. 16 (AP) In an official statement today Supreme headquarters said there has been no change in Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's status as General Eisenhower's deputy commander in the field.

The formal press release said, "It is officially stated at Supreme headquarters that announcement of General Bradley's command of the Twelfth army group in no way affects the position of General Montgomery as over-all commander of all Allied ground forces in France.

[illegible] had been carried by the Associated Press, the British Press association and Reuters News agency that General Eisenhower's move to France put him in personal command and that the announcement Bradley was commanding the American Twelfth army group [illegible] Sunday on the same basis as Montgomery, who commands the British-Canadian Twenty-first army group.

Headquarters correspondents of both Reuters and the British Press association said their stories had been confirmed to them by an official in [illegible] headquarters conference room.

The AP report [illegible] information from the field.

Much the same report had been heard unofficially in London.

A Reuters correspondent, however, declared early at a press conference that General Eisenhower [illegible] Supreme Allied commander, went to France to be "nearer the battle, but is no more in direct [illegible] command than he had al-[illegible]

INVASION CHIEF NOT N[illegible]

Reports of Clevers [illegible] Command Held In[illegible]

ROME, Aug. 16 [illegible] commander of Allied [illegible] landed in southern [illegible] been identified [illegible] lished in Lond[illegible] Gen. Jacob L. [illegible] can, were [illegible] incorrect.

The [illegible] the di[illegible] Montgomery [illegible]

30. 24 — 1801

London, Aug. 15 (A. P.).—Reports were published in London that Lieut.-Gen. Jacob L. Devers, U. S. A., was commanding the forces which landed today in the south of France. Devers is an expert in tank warfare.

London, Aug. 15 (A. P.).—"The supreme hour has struck," the German radio said tonight. "It is the hour when we must throw into battle the last little ounce of strength."

South France Invasion Described by Eyewitness

AUG 16 1944

By Kenneth L. Dixon

WITH ALLIED FORCES ATTACKING SOUTHERN FRANCE, Aug. 15—(AP)—Until a few hours before troops stormed ashore today in Southern France, the coastal defenses of the underbelly of Hitler's Europe appeared about twice as tough as those encountered in Normandy. But the expected resistance failed to materialize.

Watched From Mitchell Bomber

I watched the landings from a B-25 Mitchell bomber, 1,000 feet above the beaches.

As far as twenty miles inland there was a consistent lack of any sign of struggle to mark the entire rugged landscape. From my vantage point, it appeared that the new Allied blows to liberate France were meeting almost no resistance in the first stages.

Preliminary reconnaissance indicated shore defenses would form a hard shell, not too well supported from behind. Twice during recent days I have flown over those defenses in reconnaissance planes. They were bristling with guns behind heavy emplacements. However, I saw few indications of strong defenses farther inland.

Were Not Fired Upon

It still seems incredible that we were not fired upon as we flew in with the gliders and parachute troops. It is also strange that the naval ships and landing craft unloading their cargos of men and equipment should not be showered with enemy fire.

Apparently both the air forces and navy did a powerful job of neutralizing those shore defenses during the thundering three-hour bombardment before the landing assault.

Along the entire coastal sector anti-aircraft batteries were so densely packed a few days ago that planes officially recorded flak as "intense." Yet no one aboard the plane from which I watched the assault saw a single shot fired or any sign of activity as the gliders landed.

Pilots Encounter No Fire

Pilots who carried parachute troops over also reported they encountered no fire and all planes apparently returned safely.

Cracking of the outer shell was impossible until a few hours before the actual landings started. Otherwise the bombardment would have telegraphed the punch.

Similarly, although many bombing missions were flown over the assault area during the preliminary air stages, they were matched by other missions flown over other areas all along the entire southern French coast to confuse the Germans.

Time Comes for Blow

But the time came during the final pre-invasion hours when the blow had to be struck. Then all available airpower poured high explosives on gun emplacements and all visible targets. The air attack was supported by naval fire of a magnitude never before unleashed in this theatre.

Behind the beach defenses lies higher ground to which the Nazi defenders might flee. Getting to those heights and cutting the enemy off was the main job of the airborne boys who dropped from the sky to help put pressure on the defense shell from the inside. There was unquestionably one of the toughtest jobs of the entire operation.

But even if the hard outer line of German defenses was cracked without a ground fight, another one may be just inside. It was not visible from the skies, but the Germans have long since proved through Italy that they are pretty handy about hiding what they don't want seen.

(Continued on Page Two)

Allied Parachutists Land Miles Behind Mediterranean Front.

AUG 16 1944

By KENNETH DIXON.

On a B-25 Mitchell Bomber Over Southern France, Aug. 15 (A. P.).—So far as I could see from a height of 1,000 feet above the beaches where the Allies smashed ashore less than an hour ago no major fighting had yet developed.

From this vantage point 1,000 feet up the new Allied blows at southern France seemed to be meeting with almost no resistance in the preliminary stages.

There was plenty of visual evidence, however, that the preliminary stages of the Allied operation—parachute and glider landings—were carried out successfully.

We came in with the first wave of glider troops to strike southern France. Some miles inland they cut loose from C-47 tow planes and glided down into little meadows between rugged crags just within the coastline.

With the exception of a few which crashed into ditches and fences or turned over on their backs the gliders seemed to make it safely.

Nowhere was there any sign of resistance to them. We sometimes got as low as 200 or 300 feet over the treetops and not a shot was fired at us.

The first sign of movement as scores of gliders skidded to a stop in clouds of dust came from near an overturned glider which apparently was badly wrecked. A small machine moved beetle-like from under the wing of a nearby glider and headed toward the one in trouble.

"There goes the first airborne jeep into action in Southern France," said Corporal Bill Luneback of Chicago, the bomber's 22-year-old radio operator.

"Everything must be going O. K.," he said with a grin.

Lack of Gun Flashes.

Along the coast and out at sea there was a complete lack of gun flashes or any other sign of action. Although we only traversed the northern sector of the beachhead and, due to fleecy clouds and the low altitude, could not observe the entire assault area, still we were unable to note anything resembling stiff resistance.

When I last flew over this sector some two weeks ago the entire coast line was alive with flak. This morning, although hundreds of Allied planes were operating over the entire area, I did not see a single one shot down.

Once we thought we were in a flak zone when one glider apparently disintegrated in the air. This, however, was still far from the coast of France and there was no apparent explanation for it.

Pieces flew in all directions. The bodies of the men aboard seemed like giant scarecrows as they were hurled into space, standing out starkly for a moment against the red sunrise and then tumbling down to splash into the quiet sea.

While it was impossible to check with perfect accuracy the terrain which previously had been marked out on the map, it seemed from just overhead that all troops had been landed on or near designated spots.

We crossed the French coastline about 9 A. M.—an hour after the first assault waves waded ashore and approximately four hours after the first sizable bunch of parachute troopers jumped inland. The parachutists had missions of cutting off coastal defenders from reinforcements and seizing and holding key high positions.

Most of the gliders landed on small fields, on roads or in meadows. A General previously had told me the biggest worry when they got inland for both the gliders and unarmed towplanes was small arms fire. However, no one aboard this plane saw a single shot fired or any sign of activity—either military or civilian—as the gliders landed.

No Fire Encountered.

Returning pilots, who carried parachute troops over previously, said they also encountered no fire and all planes apparently returned safely.

The first pilot over the area was Lieut.-Col. Joel Crouch of Riverside, Cal.

Some of the parachutists evidently met with accidents—if not resistance. While most parachutes still blossomed out over trees and brush in the forest area, here and there one hung straight down with a soldier as a pendulum.

Apparently both the air forces and Navy did a powerful job of neutralizing German shore defenses during the thundering three-hour bombardment before the landing assault.

Skies Were Clear

Despite occasional fleecy clouds the skies generally are clear and there is bright sunshine all along the Riviera beaches. So many times before—Salerno, Anzio and last main push up Italy—D days found the weather too overcast to permit the Allies to use their air supremacy fully.

Today that supremacy was evidenced everywhere.

Three layers of low range fighter protected both ground and airborne activities. At about 10,000 feet were P-38 Lightnings. At above 15,000 feet P-47 Thunderbolts and at about 25,000 feet Spitfires watched over the invasion.

After assembling on Italian fields in the Naples area towplanes and gliders held a rendezvous out over the sea at 3,000 feet. They then flew to their objectives along the sea corridor provided by the Navy. Precautions were taken to avoid repetition of the Sicilian incident in which many of our own planes were shot down by Navy gunners. There have been no reports of such accidents today.

Our pilot, Capt. Norman Clark of Toledo, Ohio, headed in over the coast at between 1,000 and 2,000 feet with some towplanes and gliders barely skirting the mountain tops. The gliders finally cut loose and the mother planes swung around to return. We waited circling long enough to see the last glider come to a halt. Very few seemed badly damaged in the landing.

Free French Forces Strike With New Intensity to Assist Allied Invasion in South And Sledge-hammer Blows in the West

By Alex Singleton

LONDON, Aug. 15—(AP)—Complete disorganization of Germany's communications throughout France was claimed by authoritative French sources today as patriot forces struck with new intensity to assist the Allied invasion in the South and the sledge-hammer blows in the West.

The independent French news agency reported from Bern that 10,000 French patriots were "advancing toward Vichy" and that hundreds more were joining them as they pushed ahead.

The agency said six other detachments of French forces of the interior were moving on Bordeaux.

The dispatch did not say where the patriots were coming from or how they were armed.

A communique issued through the French press service reported that French forces of the interior killed 800 Germans, wounded 900 and took 100 prisoners during the past 24 hours while seizing the towns of Breton, Serignac, Lanion and La Clarte, in Brittany.

Sabotage Halts Deliveries

The report said the delivery of equipment from factories working on German production had been halted by sabotage. It listed the Englebert works near Compiegne and the Kodak air factory at Rheims as among the "many" whose output had been stopped.

The French were officially silent on F. F. I. activity in the area of the southern invasion but a spokesman said the Maquis had undoubtedly joined up with the Allies in large numbers at the beachhead, while ripping up roads, demolishing bridges and clearing minefields in the rear.

Road Blocks Not Wanted

Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, Allied commander in the Mediterranean, issued instructions to civilians in the south, warning them not to block roads, not to try to cross combat lines, to report on German movements and to maintain discipline.

Meanwhile, French radio reports reflected higher tension in both Paris and Vichy.

One Paris broadcast, heard by Associated Press monitors, said the battle might reach Paris "any moment," and revealed, "we are threatened with famine. Sabotage under the pretense of patriotism is increasing our plight."

People Told to Remain Calm

Another broadcast appealed to the people to "remain calm" and quoted the city's German commander as saying, "the population ought to know that the German authorities will do all in their power to guarantee the people's food supply."

Heavily-armed guards in the streets and hotels of Vichy were keeping watch over the restless knots of people discussing the situation and their plight, according to a message entering the French frontier.

In an interview in London Madame Emilienne Moreau, heroine of two wars and delegate to the French Liberation Committee's consultative assembly, maintained 90 per cent of the French people were against Vichy.

She said any compromise between the Allied governments and even moderate elements of the Vichy regime would bring extremely strong French reaction and [illegible] She said the French people demand execution of [illegible] Marshal Petain and "all those who collaborated with the Germans."

MAQUIS SUPPORT ALLIED LANDINGS

AUG 16 1944

MADRID, Aug. 15—(AP) French patriots, spurred to fighting action by Allied landings in southern France, have begun what may be their final offensive against demoralized German garrisons in the path of the invading armies, advices from the interior said tonight.

At the same time, Vichy's Civil administration was tottering throughout southern and central parts of the country, with collaborators hurriedly surrendering their positions.

A few hours after the Allies landed, Maquis forces sent an ultimatum to the German commander

Airborne Troops Lead Drive

Patriots Disorganizing Nazi Communications

at Pau, near the Spanish frontier, and while it was ignored it was understood the commander was asking for permission to withdraw.

A neutral diplomat arriving at Irun from Pau by automobile tonight said he would have been unable to make the trip were he not known to Maquis leaders, so completely are they in control.

Reports reaching Irun said the landings were the signal for the Maquis to attack under a pre-arranged plan, and by sundown a score of towns had been surrounded, including Auch, Agen, Mountauban, Rodez, Periguex, Tulle, Aurillac and Limoges.

Serious resistance was expected at Limoges, just south of the Qire river defnses. The other towns mentioned were manned by garrisons of less than 1,000 each.

Even Toulouse, capital of the whole south-central area, was threatened. The German commander received an ultimatum, but the Germans are believed to have several thousand troops in that key city. It was not known whether the Germans had decided to fight or move out.

The Germans have given every indication they have no intention of defending southwestern France.

Dramont, southwest of Cannes. The Germans claimed that only in south of St. Tropez, 12 miles west of St. Raphael, were the Allies able to land tanks forces.

Landings Asserted

The propaganda agency Transocean asserted there were landings at (1) Bormes, east of Toulon, (2) the St. Raphael area, and (3) between Cannes and Nice. Transocean declared "German troops launched immediate counter-attacks and engaged invading troops in heavy fighting.' DNB said the Bormes landing was "frustrated."

The Nazi agencies and military commentators hastened to label the land-sea-air action as "on a far smaller scale than the Normandy invasion." while Transocean quoted military analyst Ludwig Sertorious as saying the landings were "no surprise." Sertorius added;

"Some time ago big naval concentrations already were being observed off Central Italy and in harbors of Corsica. Major parts of the Fifth Army in Italy were being detached from the Arno river front. There was doubt, however, as to the actual place the landings were to start. It was first believed that the Gulf of Genoa might be the target. The German command was prepared for both (Genoa or the French coast opposite Corsica) and had time to take appropriate measures."

Nazis Say Invasion Is in Full Swing

German Military Commentator Kurt Dittmar Gloomily Begins to Prepare People for Invasion of Reich Itself—Threats Seen Everywhere.

AUG 16 1944

By Wade Werner

LONDON, Aug. 15—(AP)—The Germans said tonight that the Allied invasion of Southern France was in full swing along a 125-mile stretch of the Mediterranean Coast between Cannes and a point west of Toulon.

Prepare for Invasion of Reich

At the same time Lt. Gen. Kurt Dittmar, German military commentator, in a Berlin broadcast gloomily began preparing the Nazi people for an invasion of the Reich itself. Dittmar said superior Russian forces had broken across the Vistula river and "measures of vast defense building now are in progress not only in East Prussia but everywhere Reich territory is threatened."

The Germans said the focal point of the Allied invasion of southern France was on a 10-mile stretch between St. Raphael and Cap

Not a Coherent Action

In a dispatch to the controlled press outside Germany, DNB said the St. Raphael-Cap Dramont fighting "cannot yet be called a coherent action on a broad front."

"Rather it seems that the enemy wants to occupy first the Gulf of St. Tropez and the airfields of St. Raphael so he will be able to land and concentrate more reinforcements from the air and sea," DNB said.

"The enemy movements on the sea and his employment of air power are in no way on a scale of the operations of June 6."

In another dispatch DNB described the fighting area as a coastal stretch 15 miles in length where the beaches are flat only at some points and the foothills of Alpes Provencales rise more than a mile high. These slopes, the agency said, were heavily fortified.

Weaker Than Normandy Thrust

Repeating that the invasion was "considerably weaker" than the Normandy thrust, DNB said later that "the attacker was met everywhere by concentrated German defenses and heavy casualties were inflicted on him."

(The Berlin radio in a broadcast recorded by the CBS short wave listening station described the invasion thusly:

("Previous to the landing the Allied aerial bombardment of the coastal defenses on the coast of southern France became very furious, as the enemy invasion fleet which had been lying off Corsica a few days ago began to steam in the direction of the coast.

("Attempts were made . . . to drop French paracnute troops over Marseille . . . The bulk of this landing force was wiped out.

Gliders Spotted

("The landing between Cannes and Nice was carried out simultaneously, under the cover of massive bomber formations . . . The reply of the defenders was immediate. Fierce fighting ensued here as well.

("Shortly afterwards, Allied parachute troops landed in battalion strength near San Raphael, and were immediately engaged by German patrols in this area.

("An additional Allied attempt which took place at Dramont, failed.")

Unlike the Normandy D-Day, when Germany scooped the world with the news, Propaganda Minister Goebbels kept his countrymen in the dark for an hour after the Allied communique which itself was held up for four hours after the landings for security reasons.

FALL OF 2 ISLANDS MADE NEW INVASION SUCCEED

WITH ALLIED AIR FORCES ATTACKING SOUTHERN FRANCE, Aug. 15—(AP) Capture of two islands—Port Cros and Levant—made possible the success of today's Southern France invasion from both naval and air points of view.

These islands, literally bristling with heavy gun emplacements plus anti-aircraft batteries are due south of Cap Negre. They sat like powerful watchdogs of the French mainland.

During two recent reconnaissance rides over Southern France I flew over them and had an opportunity to see at first hand their anti-aircraft power. Pictures taken during those missions showed heavy naval guns imbedded in concrete with only a shallow silhouette vulnerable to either sea or air bombardment.

Thus before the landings could hope to be successful the islands had to be neutralized—otherwise a big percentage of the invasion flotilla might be blasted out of the water and the spots might become a constant thorn in the side of Allied air supremacy over the sector.

A BIT OF FRANCE FLIES WITH THEM

With Allied Air Forces attacking Southern France, Aug. 15 (A. P.).—Flying Frenchmen of the famous Lafayette Escadrille and sister squadrons unleashed their Thunderbolts over their native land today, supporting the Allied sea and air-borne invasion which struck France's southern shore.

Each pilot of the P-47s with tricolors painted on the tails carried a leaf from a tree in France next to his heart as he flew. The French major who commands the fighter-bomber group supplied the leaves. He was strafing a train over France not long ago and swept so low he hit a tree. But the powerful Thunderbolt plowed on through and brought him back—with a big bunch of leaves decorating his plane. He divided them among his fellow pilots.

NEW INVASION WORST KEPT SECRET OF WAR

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Aug. 15.—(AP) The invasion of southern France was perhaps the worst kept secret of the war.

Thousands of Frenchmen and Americans knew it was coming. Correspondents in Normandy and Brittany were constantly asked about it both by Frenchmen and GI's.

The question was among the first asked by Frenchmen in towns which had been captured. The French underground probably was told of the impending invasion and they told everyone else.

Invasion of S. France No Mystery in Rome

ROME, Aug. 15 (AP).—The Allied invasion of southern France caused little stir among Romans—perhaps because the operation had been "a wide-open secret" in the Eternal City for weeks.

On occasions civilians had remarked to security-conscious correspondents: "You know, of course, that such and such a division is going to invade Southern France"

Air-tight security obviously was impossible on such a large-scale operation, but few newsmen could recall any operation as frequently discussed as this one.

Churchill Active In Invasion Plans

Rome, Aug. 15 (A. P.).—The invasion of southern France permitted the disclosure today that the main purpose of Prime Minister Churchill's visit to Italy was to be here for the final preparations of the operation.

Mr. Churchill spent the past week conferring with military leaders and seeing troops of this theater off on their newest venture.

14,000 Flyers in Invasion

ROME, Aug. 15 (AP).—More than 14,000 pilots and crew members flew in today's invasion operations, the air forces announced tonight. This does not include air-borne troops who descended on southern France, the number of whom was not announced.

Cassino Lesson Put in Practice

ROME, Aug. 15 (AP).—Allied air forces endeavored, in their attacks paving the way for the invasion of southern France, to avoid a mistake that was made at Cassino. They used small, quick-fused bombs in attacks on objectives near the beaches to avoid causing deep craters which later might impede the troops' progress inland.

New Invasion Supply Service

ROME, Aug. 15 (AP).—To support the great army which has landed in southern France, a big new service and supply organization—a continental base section—has been set up. Its work includes the rebuilding and operation of ports, operation of maintenance shops and countless rear establishments and handling of the enormous supply lines.

ALLIES MAY FOLLOW NAPOLEON'S COURSE

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Allies, in landing in Southern France, may be attempting a strategy similar to that of Napoleon's.

Allied aerial operations indicated one of the chief landings may have been in the Cannes area.

Napoleon, escaping from a short exile on the Island of Elba, landed with 1,000 men near Cannes on March 1, 1815, in the gulf now named for him, and began the 100-day campaign to reconquer the throne of France.

Knowing his enemies would expect him to take the easier path up the narrow Rhone valley, he deliberately struck across the difficult French Alps. The French rallied to him and he made speedy progress. The campaign ended at Waterloo, north of Paris.

Detection Aids Of Foe Wrecked Before Landing

3-Day Aerial Attack Paved Way for Invasion; Hills and Cliffs Dot Coastline

ROME, Aug. 15 (AP).—The coast on which the Allies landed today is a difficult one, with rugged hills and cliffs rising abruptly from the sea but interspersed with beaches, some small, others extensive.

Resort towns nestle among the green hills and reddish stones, looking out on the sparkling sea that has made that area one of the world's most famous holiday spots.

Once that coast bristled with big German guns and detection devices, designed to ward off just such landings as were made so easily. Three days of steady, concentrated aerial bombardment knocked out much of the defenses and the final tremendous blasting in the three hours before the landings completed the job.

Marseille, located on the Gulf of Lyon, twenty miles east of the Rhone River's mouth and about the same distance west of Toulon, is France's second largest city, with a population of 914,000, and is one of the nation's largest ports.

The naval base of Toulon was the last bit of France to be taken by the Germans. When Hitler tried to grab the French fleet on Nov. 27, 1942, there were seventy-five French ships in the great harbor, but French naval men scuttled forty-four to fifty-one warships and damaged others before the Germans could lay hands on them. A few ships escaped to the Allies.

Other principal cities on the French Mediterranean coast are Nice, Avignon, Nimes, Montpellier, Cette, Beziers, Narbonne and Perpignan.

Nice, a city of 241,000 and a center of Riviera activity in pre-war days, became French in 1859 as a reward to the nation for aiding the Italians in expelling the Austrians from Lombardy.

In 1939, however, Italian Fascists listed Nice as a "stolen territory" and agitated for its return. It was one of the objectives of the Italians when they went to war.

The job of attempting to stem the Nazi sinking at the "underbelly" apparently lies with Colonel General Johannes Blaskowitz, last reported as commander of the German forces in southern France.

The German 19th Army is believed encamped along the French Mediterranean coast. The German 1st Army is deployed in south and central France, spread out mostly along the Pyrenees south of Brittany along the Bay of Biscay. In recent days divisions of the 1st Army have been reported moved into Normandy to bolster the reeling German 7th Army. Both the 1st and 19th were last reported commanded by Blaskowitz, a tank expert. Many of their units are believed to be second rate, some interspersed liberally with impressed foreigners.

IT'LL BE HOT TIME AT SHANNON'S BAR

Rome, Aug. 15 (A. P.).—Capt. William R. Grady, of Springfield, Mass., and First Lieut. James F. Shannon, 22 of 133 Amity St., Brooklyn, N. Y., were on the last flight of heavy bombers to go over the beaches before troops landed in southern France today.

"We went over from 7:25 A. M., to 7:30 A. M. and then the first troops came ashore," said Capt. Grady. "We had strict instructions not to bomb after that minute. As we left, we could see an enormous number of ships choking the sea and milling around as small craft started for shore. We were bombing underwater obstructions and mines on beaches.

Before the war Shannon, a navigator who has flown forty-four missions, was a bartender in his father's bar and grill in Congress street, Brooklyn .

In New York Lieut. Shannon's father, Thomas F., said he would "surely have to give some drinks on the house" to celebrate the news of his son's participation in the invasion.

"Yes, I'm very glad to hear that," he remarked.

Reached at his bar and grill, Mr. Shannon said his son had been in college at Mount St. Mary's near Baltimore, Md., before he joined the Air Corps two years ago. He also attended St. Peter's in Jersey City, he said.

PAEAN FOR AMERICANS

Canadian Troop Newspaper Hails Our Armies in France

ROME, Aug. 15 (AP)—The Canadian troop newspaper Maple Leaf in an editorial column praising the daring tactics of the Americans in northern France declared today that "our allies from another of the 'decadent democracies' have done a magnificent all-around job. They have what it takes in large doses.

"The major credit for placing the Germans in their present precarious position belongs to Lieut. Gen. Omar Bradley's American Armies. It is true that the Canadians and British played their part—and played it well—by pinning down strong German forces.

"But it was the Americans whose dash, speed and courage first broke out of Normandy. It was the Americans who gained such important positions that Field Marshal von Kluge decided they had to be cut off. And it was the Americans who met the great counter-attack at Mortain, held it, and forced the enemy to commit even more strength until the great prize lay within the bottle * * *

"The audacity of the American thrusts has caught the fancy of every Allied soldier."

Russians See Victory in 1944

MOSCOW, Aug. 15 (AP)—"Victory this year," said many Russians today, when they heard the first radio flashes that the Allies had landed in southern France.

REPORT NAZIS FOOLED BY DUMMY PARATROOPS

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 15—(AP) Swedish correspondents reported the Germans were fooled by Allied dummy parachutists which dropped in the Marseille area in the Southern France invasion today and that Nazi troops had been diverted to the area "in the highest state of alarm" to round them up.

Other dispatches quoted a German military spokesman as predicting a fifth Allied front"—a landing on the Dalmatian coast, as a result of the meeting between Prime Minister Churchill and Marshal Tito in Italy.

SHIPS UNLOADING IN CANNES

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(AP) American Liberty ships are being unloaded in the southern French harbor of Cannes, George Moorad, American radio reporter, said in a pool broadcast from Rome heard by NBC. He added that "so far as we know not a single Allied plane was lost in the gigantic job of invading Southern France."

Escape Gap Is Cut to Nine Miles—Guns and Planes Seal It Off—100,000 to 200,000 Nazis Face Last-ditch Battle.

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 15 (A. P.).—Four Allied armies beat forward simultaneously in a tightening stranglehold on the trapped Seventh German Army today, narrowing the escape gap at Falaise to nine miles and clinching control of roads leading south from the Normandy pocket.

Hundreds of prisoners were seized. Field Marshal Gen. Guenther von Kluge's troops again clogged the roads leading eastward in a desperate daylight attempt to wriggle out, and he threw in "slave" reinforcements to stay the Allied advance as suicide rear guards.

[The Berlin radio declared that a violent battle, unprecedented in living memory, is being fought for the Falaise gap, and in a broadcast picked up at New York by CBS the British radio asserted that American columns are still driving toward Paris, but that their progress was not known, as they are still moving in operational secrecy. The American forces in France are the biggest battle formations ever assembled under the American flag, London added.]

Patton Eight Miles Away.

Lieut.-Gen. George S. Patton, leading the Third United States Army, struck northward to within eight miles of Falaise. Canadians driving south were within a single mile of that town on the eastern edge of the trap.

A British avalanche of tanks and men on the opposite end of the pocket hammered to within a mile of Conde-sur-Noireau, and a front-line reporter declared that "the roof of the German escape corridor west of Falaise appeared to be collapsing." Conde is fifteen miles west of Falaise.

The First United States Army, on the British right, advanced in a tidal wave on a front extending beyond Mortain, seizing hundreds upon hundreds of captives. Americans captured La Ferte Mace, thirteen miles east of Domfront, winning control over escape avenues to the south, and the Falaise hatch was blocked by a rain of bombs and artillery shells, ripping the retreating Nazi columns apart.

Gen. Eisenhower, taking personal charge of the invasion operations in the west, declared it certain that the German forces "congregated on our front are taking a sound beating," but cautioned his hearers that "we are still a long way from the Rhine."

How many of Von Kluge's force of anywhere from 100,000 to 200,000 men had escaped was not known. But many thousands were believed still pocketed. A British staff officer in the field declared: "Enemy reinforcements are still arriving, but they are 80 per cent foreign 'slave troops,' who will probably be left behind as sacrifice rearguards while Von Kluge tries to get his best forces out."

On the British front, at forward headquarters late today, an officer declared: "The pace of the German withdrawal is rising hour by hour. Von Kluge is pulling out his armor first as No. 1 priority and is also seeking to extricate his best infantry. But he must leave behind strong rearguards to prevent a complete collapse.

"In some places the Germans are retreating so fast that our troops are having difficulty in maintaining contact, but there is still no sign of enemy panic."

The headquarters officer added that Von Kluge had just issued another of his myriad "fight to the last bullet and last breath" commands.

Little movement was observed in the escape gap overnight and it appeared that Von Kluge was assembling the remaining trapped forces—possibly in the slim hope that he could fight an effective battle but more likely because further withdrawal was impossible.

Escape Route Is Blocked

Von Kluge's Forces Being Mercilessly Hammered By Allied Guns.

CEASE TO EXIST AS REAL ARMY

Germans Probe for Weak Spot Through Which To Flee.

By James M. Long

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Wednesday, Aug. 16—(AP)—The Germans caught in the Normandy death trap were being hammered mercilessly today in the climactic battle for Northwestern France and an American officer declared the enemy forces "have ceased to exist as an army."

Rain, which fell in sheets across the battlefield and sent the swarms of warplanes back to bases, was the only hope of Field Marshal Gen. Guenther Von Kluge, trying to extricate his forces through a shell-fraught gap below Falaise now narrowed to nine miles.

As Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's troops in Normandy tightened their grip on the entrapped Nazis a new Allied invasion on the southern coast of France tore another breach in the crumbling walls of Hitler's European fortress.

British and Canadians on the north and Americans on the west and south closed in on the pocket for the kill which will mean the greatest victory for Allied arms in the west in this war.

Even should the bulk of the 50,000 or more Germans believed still in the trap manage to elude the Allied armies, they will be in no condition to stand and fight before Paris for an officer declared the Seventh Army had lost most of its equipment and material.

Americans advancing four miles or more were seizing great stores of ammunition and equipment, and hundreds of prisoners were streaming back through the American lines.

The roof of the German corridor in Normandy's hills and hedgerows was caving in, with Canadians storming to within a mile of pivotal Falaise, nine miles above where the Third American Army is pounding north against fierce resistance in an attempt to close the trap.

American forces at the west end of the corridor drove forward two to four miles, while British troops pressing down from the north stormed the German citadel of Vassy, and were threatening Conde-Sur-Noireau.

Squeezed on all sides, the Germans were probing the south limits of the trap for a weak spot through which their thousands of confused soldiers might escape.

Many Flee During Night

Some of them braved the hail of shells and bombs sealing off the escape hatch and fled during the night, and unofficial estimates were that 50,000 or more of the 100,000 to 200,000 in the Seventh Army still were inside.

But as hundreds of the enemy, hands raised in surrender, trooped into the Allied lines, Gen. Eisenhower declared the Germans were "taking a sound beating."

The coffin corridor was narrowed now to a 10 by 30-mile area, hardly half the size it was a few days ago, and Allied gains of as much as seven miles were squeezing the Germans hourly.

Inside the trap food was growing short, and among 1,822 captives counted today were some who had been subsisting on moldy bread for four days. Others angrily denounced the officers who had brought them to this debacle.

Traveling in Small Units

Those who had broken out of the trap and were fleeing toward Paris were traveling in small units in an effort to avoid high casualties from air attacks, violent and ceaseless for three days.

The "roof" of this corridor was holding fairly well before pivotal Falaise, but it was caving in on the northwest, where enemy forces could be seen falling back south before the charging British.

Canadians pressing on Falaise were little more than two miles to the north, and by storming into Epaney to the east were less than a mile from the Falaise-Lisieux road of escape.

Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third American Army fought to within eight miles of Falaise on the south without regard to the action still raging in Argentan, five miles behind it. This hard-riding force had driven 250 miles in three weeks.

Americans on the offensive at the western end of the corridor solidified their hold on Ger and fought on eastward to within a mile of the highway junction of Tinchebray. American capture of Domfront, the enemy's southern stronghold on this sector, was confirmed.

Other American forces put the stopper in a sector where German armor was reported probing Allied lines by capturing La Ferte-Mace, between Domfront and Argentan.

British Push Head

Lashing out at the Germans still west of the Orne, the British pushed ahead several miles south of Thury-Harcourt and were within a mile of important German positions at Conde-Sur-Noireau.

Farther west they were only a mile north of Vassy, whose radiating highways are important to German defenses in the north.

"In some places," said a British officer at forward headquarters, "the Germans are retreating so fast our troops are having difficulty maintaining contact, but there still is no sign of enemy panic."

He reported that Field Marshal Gen. Guenther Von Kluge had issued another of his "fight-to-the-last-bullet" orders to rear guards trying to hold back the British and Canadian tide on the north.

As the German plight grew worse, speculation arose that the next German line of defense might be before Paris itself.

With his forces exposed to the merciless blows of mighty Allied air forces, it was considered unlikely Von Kluge could rally any part of his army that has escaped the trap for a stand immediately east of the Falaise - Argentan gap.

Enemy Needs Time

The Nazi marshal may have to withdraw to the Paris region to gain time to regroup.

The cleanup of the Breton peninsula was marked by slackened resistance at Dinard, across the bay from St. Malo and the scene of some of the heaviest fighting in Brittany. Americans had pressed well into the town.

No developments were reported in the sieges of Brest, Lorient and St. Nazaire, now entering the 11th day.

Nor was further light shed on the progress of the force which lanced across the Loire ten miles south of Nantes. This move took on added significance in view of the Allied landings in southern France.

Gen. Patton Leads Third Army; Senate Approves His Promotion

GALLAGHER

AUG 16 1944

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Aug. 15—(AP) Fiery Lt. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., is the tactical genius who drove the rampant Third U. S. Army across Brittany, through Le Mans and then northward through Alencon and Argentan, completing the southern jaw of the trap on the Nazi Seventh army.

The controversial, gravel-voiced Patton, has been leading an army litterally 'born in battle" Aug. 1. It has been on the offensive since the day it was created and never has let up a minute.

NIGHT

Living down the soldier-slapping incident in Sicily which put him under a cloud last fall, Patton justified the conviction of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower that "Old Blood and Guts" was one of America's finest field commanders. The supreme commander, revealing today that Patton was on the marching wing of the Third army, said is was "where he belongs."

(In Washington the Senate Tuesday confirmed Patton's promotion to the permanent rank of major general. The Senate Military Affairs committee had withheld approval of the nomination since last October over the soldier-slapping incident, but indorsed it unanimously after disclosure of his new role. Reprimanded by Eisenhower, Patton publicly apologized to his troops.

(Senator Chandler (D-Ky) said the committee agreed Patton was "a great soldier" who had been "sufficiently disciplined.")

The American drive across France, fastest ever made by any army, resulted from a combination of methodical strategy evolved by Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, American over-all commander in France, and the driving energy of the volatile, pistol-packing Patton.

Bradley launched the breakout offensive July 25 when all his forces were parts of the U. S. First Army. When the campaign hit its stride Aug. 1 a small portion was taken from the First and placed under Patton as the Third Army.

Backed by new forces pouring into the beaches at the rear, Patton drove through Coutances, then Avranches, then fanned out into Brittany. His front grew from a few miles to hundreds of miles overnight.

The situation was delicate. Patton's front was being fed through the narrow coastal corridor. His entire army would have been stranded if the Germans could cut the corridor.

Bradley took the responsibility and Patton plunged on, often riding at the head of his tank columns. The risk was converted to solid victory.

Many military men were amazed at Patton's audacity. His armored forces lashed through disorganized German forces for Brest, Lorient and Nantes. Frequently American units had Germans on all sides and had to send out tanks to escort their supplies. Fast mechanized cavalry detachments cut the German pockets into smaller units and spread confusion.

French underground forces rose up to help corral the Germans and soon the Brest peninsula was held firmly. As late as two days ago one could drive for 60 or 70 miles in Brittany without seeing an American soldier.

Bradley then turned the American First Army east to guard Patton's flank and stopped a German break-through drive on Avranches.

Although mopping up of the Brittany ports still was incomplete, Patton turned fresh forces north toward Le Mans and Paris. His 1944-model blitzkrieg still is going on.

PATTON SCORES COMEBACK ON BATTLEFIELD

He Is Revealed as Leader of Brilliantly Victorious Third U. S. Army.

GALLAGHER

AUDACITY MADE EXPERTS GASP

Senate Confirms Him in New Permanent Army Rank of Major-General.

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 15 A. P.).—Gen. Eisenhower announced today that Lieut.-Gen. George S. Pattor Jr., Old Blood and Guts of the Tunisian and Sicilian campaigns, is leading the American Third Army which has driven roughshod over the Germans in lower Normandy and Brittany.

And for his part, Gen. Patton, hitting the comeback trail after the soldier-slapping incident in Sicily, can point to that brilliant drive in Brittany as justification of the faith Gen. Eisenhower has had in him.

DAY

Under the cool, reasoned strategy laid down by Gen. Omar N. Bradley, who was his subordinate in Sicily, Gen. Patton has driven his Third Army across Brittany and toward Le Mans with a speed no army has ever made before.

[The Senate today confirmed the promotion of Gen. Patton to the permanent rank of Major-General. A few hours after the disclosure of Gen. Patton's leadership of the Third Army, the chamber acted on the unanimous recommendation of its military committee.]

Peeled Off Amid Battle.

Gen. Bradley's strategic genius and Gen. Patton's driving ability also were back of a feat unique in military campaigning by creating a new army while their forces were actually engaged in an offensive.

When Gen. Bradley launched the great breakout offensive on July 25, all the American forces were parts of the First United States Army. Then, as the campaign hit high gear on August 1, a small segment was broken off the First Army, became the Third Army, and was placed under Gen. Patton for the push down the west coast of the Cherbourg peninsula. New forces piled up on the beaches to the rear and Gen. Patton drove the Third Army through Coutances, down the coast to Avranches and fanned out into Brittany.

Overnight his front expanded from a few miles to hundreds of miles, all fed through the narrow corridor down the west coast of the Cherbourg peninsula. It was a delicate military situation and no place for an unduly cautious or a faint-hearted commander. If the corridor was cut, the entire Third Army would be stranded.

Gen. Bradley assumed responsibility forthis trick, and Gen. Patton, riding often at the very head of his tank columns, turned the delicate situation into a solid victory. His audacity made many high officers gasp. He sent his armored forces driving for Brest, Lorient and Nantes and they cut through disorganized German forces as if they were cheese. Often they were surrounded by Germans and had to send out tanks to escort their supplies across the peninsula. Mechanized cavalry detachments of fast tanks fanned out as task forces, cutting German pockets up into smaller and smaller units and spreading confusion.

French Patriots Helped.

The French Underground did the rest. The Patriots burst into the open and rounded up the pockets behind the armored forces, in fact acting as supporting infantry. In a few days the Brest Peninsula was firmly held, with the Germans corraled in Lorient, Brest and St. Nazaire, awaiting American disposal. As late as two days ago it was possible to drive sixty or seventy miles in Brittany without seeing an American soldier. Gen. Patton had put a new meaning into lightning warfare.

Meanwhile Gen. Bradley had turned the First Army east to protect Gen. Patton's flank and halted a German effort to drive through to Avanches. Although busy at the Brittany ports, Gen. Patton turned fresh troops and tank columns north toward Le Mans and Paris in a brilliant encircling move still in progress.

A French division of armor under Brig.-Gen. Jacques Leclerc, who joined the Allies from Lake Chad in Africa, is fighting with Gen. Patton.

Gen, Eisenhower said that Gen. Patton had been on the marching wing of the American spearhead driving to envelope the German Seventh Army in Normandy. The Supreme Commander added that that was where Gen. Patton belonged.

The announcement confirmed something most every one, including the Germans, had guessed. It came at a press conference in which Gen. Eisenhower summarized the situation in one of the war's most critical periods—for the Germans. But Gen. Eisenhower warned against expecting that the end would come in a matter of weeks.

"This week is marking a very definite climax in one phase of the operational plan that has been in effect since D day," the General said. "Just what will be the result in the sum total no one can say. It is certain that German forces congregated on our front are taking a sound beating. In the campaigns lying ahead numbers of such tactical victories must be won because, even if we realize our fondest hopes in a situation such as this, we are still a long way from the Rhine.

"All of us are keyed up to keep on intensifying our efforts to the moment of final victory—no matter how long it may take."

The supreme commander appeared guardedly optimistic over the trend of the fighting and again cited the co-ordination of the Army, Navy and air forces and their supply services.

Paying particular tribute to the R. A. F. and the United States A. A. F., Eisenhower said that the Allies now were realizing opportunities that they had expected to have all through the campaign, because they had expected good weather.

Gen. Eisenhower said, however, that a man who attempts to measure the length of war remaining in terms of weeks is not attempting to use any logic, but merely hunches and wishful thinking.

Hitler has nothing to lose by fighting to the last man, he continued, and with the people fighting under the heel of a despot and not in the "spontaneous cooperation of free people" as President Wilson said, there is no reason to expect them to quit until the bitter end.

A Dashing Man.

The Supreme Commander tried to catch up with Gen. Patton on a visit last week, but complained that Gen. Bradley would not let him drive down through the area, still infested by snipers, unless a couple of scout cars and a tank went along. Gen. Eisenhower, who dislikes such show-hand fuss, called the whole thing off.

He likes to view the Allied armies as a team, Gen. Eisenhower said, with one wing on the left and the other on the right. They are fighting with equal clean, moral efficiency and determination, he declared.

He viewed the Germans' present plight as the result of a mistake in holding too long and underestimating the strength in the marching wing under Gen. Patton.

Questioned about the probability of an entry into Paris and the chances that the Germans would fortify and defend the old French capital, Gen. Eisenhower reiterated that he was not interested in the capture of Paris. His aim is to defeat the German Army wherever he finds it.

There's a real battle over there, the General said, a terrific battle.

Commenting on the Germans' stubborn resistance in the Caen-Falaise area, Gen. Eisenhower explained that the enemy had to hold (at those positions) to permit any fighting in the Cherbourg peninsula and on south to the Loire River.

Until the Germans could install static defense positions in here, they had defended it with all their panzers. That was the reason, he said, that the progress of British and Canadians had never been as spectacular as that of the Americans, who made a magnificent breakthrough, but every foot gained at Caen was almost as important as miles elsewhere.

Hamilton, Mass., Aug. 15 (A. P.).—Informed at her home here today that her husband was commanding the newly formed Third Army in France, Mrs. George S. Patton Jr. said: "I am delighted to know where he is and that he is on the kind of job he has trained himself for since 1918. I hear regularly from my husband, but his letters are strictly confined to questions about the family."

HITLER'S CLUTCH ON FRANCE SLIPS

GALLAGHER

AUG 16 1944

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Aug. 15—(AP) There was every indication tonight that Hitler's four-year clutch on France was nearing an end.

With preliminary reports indicating only isolated resistance to the new Allied invasion of France from the Mediterranean, and with the French underground aiding the squeeze play from the west and south, the Germans appear to be in a position from which they cannot defend the country.

The Allied effort has been helped considerably by the strategy of Hitler in ordering every unit to stand firm to the last.

The Allied Mediterranean blow was timed to coincide with the point when the German garrison along Southern France was at its lowest point in two years. Despite the fact that the invasion was the worst-kept secret of the war, Allied reports indicated that the Germans had little ability on opening day to deal with it.

NIGHT

Hitler had steadily drained the Nazi army in Southern France under Field Marshal Gen. Johann Blaskowitz in order to cope with the Allied invasion from the west.

Colorful Tales Trail Gen. Patton In His Wild Dash Across Brittany

AUG 16 1944

Supreme Headquarters Advanced Command Post in Normandy, Aug. 15 (A. P.).—Fresh tales concerning Lieut.-Gen. George S. Patton Jr., the gravel-voiced tank commander, are spreading in the wake of his swift maneuvers through Normandy and Brittany.

As soon as his Third Army had smashed into Brittany, according to a front-line story, he vowed: "I'll have tea in Brest Sunday, even if I have to slow down."

The following Sunday tank spearheads actually penetrated the outskirts of the harbor city—but had to retire before heavy fire.

DAY

A military policeman at a village street intersection was berated by a colonel for a traffic jam.

"Please sir, don't talk that way to me," the M. P. said and cringed. "Gen. Patton's just been through here."

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said today he talked with Patton by telephone earlier in the week and asked why he didn't get the lead out of his feet. The Supreme Commander did not repeat the explosive reply that poured from the other end of the line.

30. 24 — 18015

and at last reports there were less than five German divisions available in the Toulon-Marseille area where the attack is taking place.

It was likely that the biggest German effort would not develop for several days during the gathering of forces for attack. It may never come, for the Allies have complete superiority in the air.

There was no chance that the German High command would bring in new divisions from the west to help in the south. The western armies under Field Marshal Gen. Gunther Von Kluge were fighting a losing battle for their lives.

In Central and Southern France the French underground was engaging German outposts, destroying communications and in fact cutting the Germans in France into several forces.

By HAL BOYLE.

With United States Armored forces at Argentan, Aug. 13 (11:46 P. M.) (Delayed) (A. P.).—Huge German Army forces, trapped tonight by converging Allied armored spearheads, began immediate attempts to smash out of 300 square miles enclosed by the steel vice.

From a wheatfield overlooking Argentan at 7 P. M., I could see the vanguard of the great Nazi retreat try to stab its way through a bottleneck twelve miles wide between this town and the city of Falaise.

This narrow bottleneck is the greatest Allied armored roundup of the war and all roads are under heavy artillery fire from the Canadians on one side and the French and Americans on the other.

There is no way for the Nazis to escape unless they are able to fight their way out—and that is what these tank men who have already rolled 330 miles in two weeks, fighting most of the way—want them to try. They think such an attempt will shorten the war a matter of weeks.

DAY

Guns Smash German Convoys.

Our artillery at this moment is beating to pieces a German convoy trying to escape through the Argentan road hub from the west. On a far away ridge, I can see our shells burst as they land among clouds of dust hiding individual vehicles in the convoy. Some have been hit directly and pillars of black smoke rise from the shroud of yellow dust.

In a ditch by the edge of a field, an air support officer, Capt. Albert G. Kelly of San Jose, Cal., is signaling to Mustangs circling overhead. He tells them just what targets he wants them to attack.

Start calling them in," he said to an operations sergeant, "we have got to report that the Germans have a strong column of heavy tanks moving up from Carrouges to try to break a path through."

Sherman tank crews are waiting to engage the enemy if he makes a major attack in an attempt to crash through the Allied steel ring. They climbed out on top of their tanks and cheered the dive-bombers as they went to work.

Most Dramatic Moment.

It was one of the most dramatic moments of the war—this probing by the trapped and puzzled enemy of the encirclement he must break in bloody battle or surrender very quickly to the Allies; for if the Nazis lose the 100,000 to 200,000 men believed caught here, they will have no way to recoup. Elements of twelve divisions are believed surrounded.

They were enveloped in a wide end around sweep by plunging American armored columns, while other British, American and Canadian forces held the bulk of German armor pinned down along a front from south of Caen to Mortain.

The French populace, many of whom sensed the importance and probability of the closing of the Allied pincers, was hysterical with delight, and bombarded tankmen with roses and besieged them with wine. Two soldiers sustained minor casualties as the result of a direct hit by an over-enthusiastic Frenchman who tossed down a can of German beef rations and a bottle of cognac.

Beautiful Tank Country.

Watching the distant enemy convoy get a twilight shelling from the artillery and air, a brigadier-general, who forced his armored spearhead to the outskirts of Argentan, said: "The roads are cut now and there isn't any place for them to go. As they jam up looking for a way out, our airmen can go to work on them."

He said that the tankmen under his command had suffered light casualties, considering the number of Germans killed and trapped. He said his command had had numerous fierce encounters with the enemy in its spectacular sweep.

"We had the most trouble getting through the small towns," another commander said. "We ran into tanks, bazookas, anti-tank guns and mines. Everybody fired at us, including snipers. A lot of snipers hid behind wheat shocks and tried to pick off our men with rifles and machine guns. We just sprayed the fields with machine guns. If you want to see a lot of dead Germans, just go look behind those wheat shocks."

Standing behind his jeep, the commander—a slim, active little man wearing sun glasses—waved enthusiastically at the countryside and exclaimed: "This is classic tank country—beautiful. We could move our tanks anywhere through these grain fields. We had some of our heaviest fighting in that little trip, but it was wonderful to have good tank country to fight in."

AUG 16 1944

"We moved 330 miles in the last two weeks," said Major-Gen. Gregg McKee of Bakersfield, Cal., "and all but seventy-five of them, we were moving against the enemy."

"Yes and in twelve hours alone, we captured 683 prisoners from seven different divisions," said Major Joseph D. D'Aigre of Plaquemine, La. "The Germans had been sending down here for reorganization, outfits chewed up by our Allies on the Caen front. We were picking them up before they were regrouped and in shape."

As the tankmen jump up and down in their vehicles like schoolboys, watching the artillery and air bombs spray on the enemy convoy, First Sergt. William Nowles of Nashville, Tenn., walked through the wheatfield holding up mail. "The first we've had in two weeks," he said.

The prize prisoner taken by the tankmen was a German colonel commanding a regiment of Panzer Grenadiers. "He was taken completely by surprise," said Major D'Aigre. "He and a lieutenant had stepped out on the road to look and I drove up in one of our tank destroyers and took them both prisoners. The colonel had been sent on a mission to the south to stop us—but he never got to the place they were sending him. That's how mixed up they are."

The French dressed in their Sabbath finery and gathered as if for a circus parade to watch the endless columns of artillery and armor moving up to guard the bottleneck. They had trouble cheering the troops and doing their chores at the same time. One woman, sitting in a chair before her home, tried to wave with one hand and sew with the other. Another washed a bawling baby's face with one hand and raised the other in a victory sign.

In the village of Mortree, near Argentan, two combat engineers—Sergt. Carl Jakubecy of Fairhaven, N. J., and Private Willard Wolf of Mountain Lake, Minn.—helped remove two Nazi panther tanks blocking the road. "One of our tanks got three of these babies," said Jakubecy.

In the roadside grass, French families spread picnic lunches to watch the tanks go by, silhouetted against the smoke from forest fires started by artillery in the great Ecouves forest.

Rain Helps Nazi Retreat

ON THE ORNE RIVER FRONT, France, Aug. 15 (AP).—Heavy rains deluged the Normandy front tonight, giving a strong boost to Nazi Marshal Guenther von Kluge's retreat through the Falaise escape corridor, as the storm hampered Allied planes in their hunt for the fleeing Nazi columns. The enemy given the benefit of having the rain wash out the telltale clouds of dust disclosing the avenues of his withdrawal eastward toward the Seine River and the gates of Paris.

NIGHT

GREENE

BRITISH BOMBS HIT CANADIAN LINES

AUG 16 1944

With the Canadian First Army, Aug. 16 (A. P.).—British heavy bombers dropped a number of explosives behind Canadian lines yesterday while assaulting German positions, causing a number of casualties. (Twenty-seven words censored.)

DAY

The error occurred a short time after United States heavy bombers were involved in the same sort of mishap on this front. (Eight words censored.)

The explosives fell far back of Cinthaux, and one result was to halt some flights of bombers and send them back with their loads undropped. A senior Canadian officer said, however, that four out of five bombs loosed fell in the target area.

NEW 9TH AIR FORCE GROUP

19th Tactical Command Added to Units in France

AUG 16 1944

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 15 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, new commander of the United States Ninth Air Force, announced today that the Ninth now has two tactical fighter forces flying from French bases in support of the Allied armies.

He disclosed the existence of the Nineteenth Tactical Air Command, which has been operating Mustang, Lightning and Thunderbolt fighter-bombers in France along with the original Ninth Tactical Air Command.

The Nineteenth's commander is Brig. Gen. Otto P. Weyland of Washington.

Brig. Gen. Elwood R. Quesada heads the Ninth Tactical Air Command.

SITUATION IN FRANCE PLEASES ARMY HEADS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—(AP) Military authorities here were openly enthusiastic today over the situation in France, particularly the action around the Flers pocket, where the reinforced German 7th army has been trapped.

Conceding the importance of the invasion of Southern France and its relation to the northern operations, a highly-placed military observer said that nonetheless northern or central France would be the place of decision, with the possibility that it will come soon.

Indications were seen that the Germans inside the Allied ring around the area centered at Flers were forming for an attempt to break-out toward the southeast at a point below Argentan. It was said that the Nazis in the trap were resisting strenuously and in an organized manner.

London, Aug. 15 (A. P.).—Gault MacGowan, veteran war correspondent of The New York Sun, was reported by the Germans today to have been captured near Chartres on the road to Paris.

Apparently, he ventured beyond the Allied lines once too often.

The Germans said they took Mr. MacGowan to Paris after a shooting scrape in which a companion was wounded. Correspondents usually travel in pairs on the United States First Army front and it is quite possible that his companion was another American correspondent, as yet unnamed.

In his recent trip across the Brest Peninsula, Mr. MacGowan discussed reports that virtually no Germans were defending Paris and said:

"I wonder if it is true that you can drive into Paris in a taxicab?"

Mr. MacGowan always was going to the front lines and beyond in search of colorful material.

DAY

Crossed Brest Peninsula.

Just five days ago he made a long trip across the Brest Peninsula to the outskirts of Lorient with Associated Press Correspondent Wes Gallagher. Finding he could not get into the town by foot, Mr. MacGowan took a flight in a Piper Cub plane with a major noted for his daring. They flew toward the port city at tree top height.

The German garrison was disturbed and opened up on the little plane with some heavy batteries. Nazi 88-mm. shells burst close, rocking the craft, before the pilot could drop it behind a nearby hill.

Mr. MacGowan had several other close calls from death or capture in Africa in search of stories. He often was seen riding in a jeep under shellfire, particularly in the difficult winter campaign of 1942-43 in Northern Tunisia around Medjez-el-Bab.

Germans Give Report.

The German Transocean News Agency said in a Berlin broadcast today that the war correspondent of The New York Sun had been taken prisoner by the Germans in France.

The broadcast gave the correspondent's name as "Gowen."

Transocean said that "Gowen," hearing a false report that the Allies had taken Chartres, headed there with a companion in an amphibian vehicle, but met a German tank on reconnaissance many miles west of the city.

The companion, who was not identified, fired a few shots and was wounded and then both were seized, according to the broadcast. It said "Gowen" was taken to Paris.

Soldier Lauds MacGowan.

The report of Gault MacGowan's capture by the Germans in France reached The New York Sun by Associated Press dispatch at the same time that another of the many letters received from American soldiers since the war started arrived, telling of Mr. MacGowan's custom of being wherever action was hottest.

"We have been reading a lot about some of the correspondents at the front, how heroic they are," Corporal Nolan Guillory wrote in the letter received today from the front in Normandy, "but I want to tell you about the most heroic one, Gault MacGowan of your paper.

"Our outfit has been at the front ever since this thing started. We have been right up in the first lines, and the only correspondent we always see up there when the going gets tough is MacGowan. There he is, walking around as though there wasn't a war on. All the guys in my outfit say he has more courage than they have. He was with us when we went into La Haye de Puits, St. Lo and Coutances, and the only other correspondent visible was one from Yank, the Army newspaper. We think Mr. MacGowan should get a medal for that."

Mr. MacGowan was awarded the Purple Heart by special order of President Roosevelt for wounds received as a result of enemy action during the Allied attack on Jabel Mansour in North Africa on April 5, 1943, which he was covering as a correspondent for The Sun.

For the same incident he was cited for bravery and awarded the Croix de Guerre by Gen. Henri Giraud. Mr. MacGowan was with the French attacking force when he received a leg wound. It was dressed by a German prisoner, a medical orderly. Despite his injury, Mr. MacGowan followed the attacking force through to the successful conclusion of the battle.

Described Flight.

Mr. MacGowan, born in England in February of 1894, won ribbons for military service with the British in France, Italy and Mesopotamia in the first world war. His latest dispatch to The Sun, before the one from Normandy published today, was dated August 11 and was delayed in transit. It was printed in The Sun yesterday and told of Mr. MacGowan's flight in an unarmed Piper Cub plane with Major Charles Carpenter of Moline, Ill., over Quimperle, midway between Lorient and Quimper, in Brittany.

Describing Major Carpenter as "just a daredevil soldier the War Department put in a Piper Cub instead of the boots of a paratrooper," Mr. MacGowan recounted how the Major flew low over towns, seeking out Germans to train Allied artillery on them. "But when they aren't worth shells he drops hand grenades on them," Mr. MacGowan stated. With Major Carpenter, Mr. MacGowan flew ahead of the Allied armor to the river junction which makes Quimperle a port big enough for 800-ton ships to enter.

The town, into which the Fighting French were moving and asking for support as the Germans moved out, "went frantic with joy," Mr. MacGowan wrote, "mad like the Major."

"It's swell to go mad for a moment," he added. "We alighted safely. The enthusiastic French brought us cider, eggs, big baskets of pears, anything they could find in a hurry."

Mr. MacGowan, a quiet man who speaks with an English accent, was once a captain of the Indian cavalry. Among the honors which have been bestowed on him by foreign governments are Officer of the Military Order of Christ (Portugal), 1933; Officier de l'Instruction Publique, 1930, and Chevalier de la Legion d'Honneur, 1934 (both of France).

Has Traveled Widely.

Among other honors, Mr. MacGowan is an Officer of the Order of Ouissam Alaouite Cherifien, Morocco, 1938. He was a delegate to the West Indies Fourth Imperial Press Conference in 1930; honorary secretary on the Council Institute of Journalists representing the West Indies from 1930 to 1935; a Selfridge Prizeman; a member of the Company of Newspaper Makers; a Liveryman of the Stationer's Company and Freeman of the City of London since 1937.

He has traveled in various parts of the world, both as an explorer and a newspaper man. He discovered a new pass into Little Tibet and made the first flight over the Orinoco delta and the first flight from Trinidad to British Guiana.

Joining the staff of The Sun in October of 1934, Mr. MacGowan was sent abroad for this newspaper in the summer of 1939, and was in Spain during the Spanish civil war. He covered the coronation of King George VI for The Sun, and before going to North Africa, from which he returned with the advancing Allied troops, he reported the war in London and was a press observer with the Commandos in the raid on Dieppe. He went with the troops onto the continent in the D day invasion, and has been at the front with them ever since.

In 1923, Mr. MacGowan married Miss Wendy Smith, youngest daughter of the late J. H. Corley Smith of Simla and the Transvaal. They have one son, Barry Alaric Gault, born in 1925, now with his mother in England.

Konev's Toll Is 172,000

Of This Number Russian General Claims 140,000 Are Listed as Dead.

SURGE TOWARD E. PRUSSIA RISES

Thousands of Other Germans Outflanked and In Danger — Counterattacks at Warsaw Repulsed.

By W. W. Hercher

LONDON, Wednesday, Aug. 16—(AP)—Soviet field dispatches said last night that Red Army troops had crossed the Biebrza River in Northern Poland, striking through a 15-mile belt of Axis defenses guarding imperilled East Prussia, while Moscow announced that Marshal Ivan S. Konev's Fourth Ukraine Army had killed or captured 172,360 Germans.

Konev's troops attacking through Southern Poland toward German Silesia killed 140,000 Germans between July 13 and August 12, the special announcement said.

May Exceed Million

On the basis of Moscow accounts six Soviet armies have killed or captured a total of 781,886 Germans since the great summer offensive began June 23, and when three other armies presently engaged in shattering the Reich forces are heard from, the total is likely to exceed 1,000,000.

Swarms of armored fighter-bombers covered the Russian surge toward East Prussia, spraying German positions at Grajewo, only two miles from the frontier in the attack along the Bialystok-Lyck railway.

The Russians already are endangering thousands of outflanked German troops fighting in the Suwalki triangle a short distance above the Biebrza river section. The Suwalki triangle, annexed to East Prussia from Poland in 1939, recently was invaded by Gen. Ivan Cherniakhovsky's third White Russian army.

Another Army Takes Up Battle

When German reserves, flung into battle in the Suwalki area and along the east Prussian-Lithuanian border farther north, slowed Cherniakhovsky, the second White Russian army went over to the offensive now rolling dangerously close to the southern border of East Prussia on the fringe of the Masurian Lakes—famous battleground in the first World War.

The Soviet high command daily communique was silent about this sector, but Associated Press Moscow Correspondent Daniel De Luce said an invasion of the southern part of East Prussia was likely in the next 72 hours.

In the north Gen. Ivan Maslennikov's third Baltic army had swept half-way across southern Estonia and was on the verge of cutting the Tallinn-Riga trunk railway—communications backbone linking the 200,000 stranded Germans of Col. Gen. Georg Lindemann's two Baltic armies which are fast withering under the blows of this powerful contingent.

The Russians were only 70 miles from the Gulf of Riga.

Another Junction Taken

Madise, less than five miles from the Tallinn-Riga railway and 13 miles northeast of Valga, Estonian-Latvian border city and rail junction, was captured, the bulletin said, in a seven-mile advance northwest of Antsla, taken Monday. The rail station of Anne, three miles west of Antsla on the road to imperilled Valga, also was seized, as well as Urvaste, seven miles northeast of Antsla.

Striking northward along the Voru-Tartu highway another Soviet column swept through Mustajoe, 27 miles southeast of Tartu and 127 miles from Tallinn, Estonian capital on the Baltic. Ten miles northeast of Voru they seized Vastse-Koiola. Pushing along the Petseri-Tartu railway another group took Ilumetsa, 12 miles northwest of Petseri. The advance point taken in the push northward along the west bank of Lake Pskov was Mikitamae, 13 miles north of Petseri.

Counterattacks at Warsaw Repulsed

For the first time in weeks the Russian bulletin mentioned the Warsaw area, saying that German counterattacks had been repulsed east of Praga, the east bank suburb of the Polish capital on the Vistula river. Russian units of Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's First White Russian army last were reported within 11 miles of Warsaw at Mostowka on the northeast.

Besieged Warsaw is 100 miles southwest of the shattered Biebrza river sector, and Zakharov's troops and those under Rokossovsky have been slowly driving a wedge between Warsaw and East Prussia.

Vast Materiel Losses

German equipment losses could be gauged by Moscow's announcement that in a month's time Marshal Konev's Foruth Ukraine Army had destroyed or captured 1,941 tanks and self-propelled guns, 3,615 guns of various caliber, 11,727 motor vehicles, and 687 aircraft.

The Russians beyond the Vistula were within 75 miles of the rich industrial province of German Silesia, and their spearheads were reported within 35 mile of Krakow, last big bastion in southern Poland before the Silesian frontier.

In the area of Raseiniai, Lithuanian town 53 miles northeast of Tilsit, German East Prussia Rail city, the Russians repulsed strong enemy infantry and tank attacks and inflicted heavy losses in men and material, the Soviet Bulletin said.

Nazis Claim German Victory

A broadcast by the German news agency Transocean, however, declared that Raseiniai, which the Russians captured Aug. 10, was recounquered by counterattacking Germans on Monday. The broadcast said that grenadiers of a Silesian infantry division and Elite parachute troops killed or captured the entire Soviet garrison there.

The only other sector mentioned in the Moscow communique, recorded by the Soviet monitor, was west of Sanok, near the Czech border in Southern Poland. German tank-supported attacks were beaten off there, it said.

The first big objective of the Russians on the threshold of East Prussia was the rail junction of Lyck, only 25 miles beyond the shattered Biebrza river line.

REDS ATTACK EAST PRUSSIA

Open Drive on Grajewo 2 Miles From Border.

Moscow, Aug. 15 (A. P.).—Russian forces started attacking freshly dug German entrenchments today in front of Grajewo, two miles south of the East Prussian border, after cracking the steel and concrete forts around Osowiec and winning a bridgehead across the Biebrza River.

Gen. G. F. Zakharov threw the full offensive might of his second White Russian Army group against the Germans' attempts to reorganize their frontier line just below the Masurian Lakes.

A thundering bombardment from the air supported the Red Army attack.

"The water of the Biebrza ran dark with enemy blood today," a front dispatch to Izvestia said. Zakharov smothered a series of tank counter-attacks with his high-powered drive and struck directly in the rear of large enemy forces tied up in the Suwalki triangle (which East Prussia annexed in 1939) by Gen. Ivan Cherniakovsky's divisions.

Not only Grajewo but Lyck in East Prussia, twelve miles to the north was menaced by the two Russian Army groups. Should these communication centers fall, a German withdrawal from the northwestern corner of East Prussia would be imperative.

Enemy Casualties Heavy.

Enemy casualties at Osowiev are expected to run into the thousands, a front dispatch said.

The Red Army continued to squeeze the defenses of Warsaw and fought bitterly for a larger springboard west of the Vistula River in the area threatening Krakow and Kielce, 100 miles south of the Polish capital. Wide advances in the Baltic States gave evidence of the crackup of the enemy divisions in Estonia and Latvia, separated from the main Germay Army by a corridor to the Baltic west of Riga.

A German fortified zone three to six miles in depth lay littered with fire-blackened Nazi tanks and wrecked field guns behind Zakharov's vanguard.

Flat boggy country intersected by numerous creeks now separates the Red Army from Lyck, East Prussian communications center, but the Biebrza was the last major natural obstacle..

The crossing of the Biebrza came while Moscow's victory guns, sounding for the first time in nearly a week, were marking the fall of the fortress city of Osowiec near the stream in northern Poland.

Zakharov's new menace to the Nazi province appeared likely to ease the pressure on Gen. Ivan Cherniakhovsky's Third White Russian Army, which has been stalled a fortnight by desperate German resistance near the East Prussia-Lithuania border farther north.

Antsla Captured.

Although the capture of Osowiec was the major news announced in the daily Soviet communique, Gen. Ivan Maslennikov's Third Baltic Army, smashing through southern Estonia, captured Antsla and 100 other communities, further shattering lines of two German armies cut off from their homeland by the Red Army corridor that was driven to the Baltic Sea below Riga.

Maslennikov's thrust carried to within sixteen miles of Valga, key junction on the Pskov-Riga railways.

NAMES OF CITIES CHANGED

MOSCOW, Aug. 15 (AP) — The Presidium of the Supreme Soviet today decreed new names for several cities recaptured in the Ukraine. Akkerman has been changed to Belgorod-Dnestrovsky, Tarnopol to Ternopol, Cernauti to Chernovitski and Czertkow to Chortkov.

3,000 Allied Planes Hammer Continent

8,000 Tons of Explosives Cast on Score Of Enemy Bases in Belgium, Holland And Germany While Another Powerful Force Clears Way for Invasion.

By Ned Nordness

LONDON, Aug. 15—(AP)—Three thousand American and British planes, two-thirds of them bombers, cast 8,000 tons of explosives on a score of enemy air bases and airdromes in Belgium, Holland and Germany today, while another powerful force of Italian-based heavyweights hopped the Mediterranean to Southern France and blasted a wide path for the new ground invasion there.

Wreck Enemy Air Strips

A force of 1,100 RAF Lancasters and Halifaxes and nearly 1,000 U. S. Flying Fortresses and Liberators churned up enemy air strips, wrecked buildings, and left flaming wrecks of 180 to 270 Nazi planes caught parked on the fields.

Fighters escorting the American bombers also destroyed a number of planes on the ground, disabled 62 locomotives, and destroyed or damaged 188 railway cars.

Moderate enemy opposition in the air was encountered, the bombers knocking down 13 planes and the fighters bagging 14 for a total of 27. Sixteen bombers and five fighters failed to return.

Mosquitos Hit Berlin

Last night RAF mosquitos again struck Berlin, hurling blockbusters on the battered Reich capital. None of the Mosquitos, whic halso laid mines in enemy waters, was lost.

The fresh daylight attacks were aimed at squelching any attempts by the eGrmans to gather their depleted sky strength for support of their desperate ground forces back-tracking before victorious Allied troops in France.

The big American bombers pounded seven air bases and five airdromes. These bases are situated in the suburbs of Cologne, at Wiesbaden, Frankfurt, Wittmund, and in Bad Zwischenahn, Vechta and Handorf. The first three lie along the Rhine river, the others in northwest Germany.

The airdromes included two at Twente-Enschede in Holland, one at Florennes, Belgium, and others at Venlo and Plantlunne in northwest Germany.

RAF Hits Nine Airfields

The RAF bombers smashed at five fighter air fields in Holland and four in Belgium. The weather again was decidedly favorable, enabling visual bombing. From 20 to 30 planes were found parked on each field as the sky giants loosed their deadly cargoes.

For the first time American fighters were disclosed to have escorted the Lancasters and Halifaxes. RAF fighters, which often have joined in covering American bombers, also flew alongside. Two of the British bombers were lost.

Along the famous Riviera playground in southern France the Allied planes not only wiped out paths for the invasion troops, but flew in air-borne soldiers. Attacks on the coast and strategic areas inland from the Mediterranean have been carried out for some time, climaxed by a thunderous three-day bombardment of beach targets ending Monday. Then the Allied tactical operations began in cooperation with naval gunning.

Contributed to Success

British-based American bombers and their escorting Lightnings, Mustangs and Thunderbolts also contributed the past few weeks to the success in southern France by pulverizing airfields in the southeast, and slashing into tangled wreckage the important freight yard feeder lines on and near the French-German border.

Aircraft maintained their stepped-up operations in support of ground forces in western France today, flying an unceasing vigil over the Falaise-Argentan "coffin corridor" and beyond its outlet.

Everything moving was pounced upon and every likely hiding place was sprayed. But the pilots brought back word that the Germans were not moving much, at least in daylight. Both the Second Tactical Air Force and the Ninth Air Force Fighter-Bomber Group said a wide area east of the escape corridor—all the way to the Seine, on to Paris, and down to Chartres—was void of much enemy movement.

Railway Yards Bombed

U. S. Marauders and Havocs of the Ninth Air Force, without aerial opposition or loss, bombed railway yards at Serqueux, 25 miles north of Rouen, and two bridges over the Oise river at Auvers-sur-Oise and L'Isle Adam, both north of Paris, in order to block the movement of German troops and supplies.

R. A. F. coastal command Beaufighters and Mosquitos, on watch for enemy ships forced to flee French ports, caught 13 vessels in the Gironde off St. Vivien and Le Verdon and scored numerous hits on all of them. The Mosquitos employed bombs and depth charges, and the Beaufighters sent their rocket projectiles crashing into the boats. An explosion was observed aboard a destroyer. The other ships included a depot ship, two auxiliaries, six armed trawlers and two tugs.

Four coastal aircraft were missing.

American Marauders — the only USAAF bombers attacking the enemy both day and night — exploded a big ammunition dump northwest of Paris in a post-midnight assault.

2000 BOMBERS HIT REICH AND LOW COUNTRIES

U. S. and British Squadrons Strike From Both Italy and England.

London, Aug. 15 (A. P.).—At least 2,000 American and British heavy bombers were hurled today against Germany, Holland and Belgium while other hundreds of planes from Italy and England blasted the Nazi forces in the paths of the invasions of northern and southern France. At least nineteen German Air Force bases and stations were deluged with around 8,000 tons of bombs.

The widespread attacks were designed to knock out what is left of Hitler's air units before they can marshal their remaining strength for all-out support of the desperate German ground forces.

More than 1,100 Lancaster and Halifax heavy bombers of the Royal Air Force attacked nine German fighter bases in Belgium and Holland and caught twenty or thirty planes parked on each field. American fighters flew side by side with R. A. F. pursuit squadrons in escorting the bombers. Only two of the big craft were lost. It was the first time American planes have been reported escorting R. A. F. bombers.

Fortresses and Liberators of the English based Eighth United States Air Force were escorted by up to 1,000 fighters. They slashed at three operational airdromes for the German Air Force and at seven non-operational stations which have clusters of workshops and various installations for maintenance and repairs. The first announcement said that attackers landed bombers on the targets with good to excellent results.

Allied warplanes were attacking the south of France for the fifth consecutive day, laying a path of blazing steel and explosives before the American, French and British forces swarming onto the Mediterranean beaches.

Air base targets struck were at Cologne-Ostheim, Weisbaden-Erbenheim and Frankfurt-Schborn along the Rhine; Venlow, Wittmundardorf, Bad Zwischenahn, Vechta and Handorf in northwest Germany; Florennes in Belgium and Twente-Enschede in Holland. First crews back said that the Germans offered the stiffest fighter resistance in weeks.

American Marauders and Havocs continued through the day to attack enemy communications. They bombed a railway center at Serqueux, twenty-five miles north of Rouen, and two bridges across the Oise north of Paris. The bombings were to block German troop movements.

Rommel's Condition Improves

LONDON, Aug. 15 (AP).—Field Marshal Erwin Rommel is progressing well in his recovery after an accident, a German broadcast reporting a Berlin press conference said today. Earlier accounts have said that Rommel, apparently the victim of an Allied air attack, sustained head injuries.

TITO TAKES 5 TOWNS

London, Aug. 15 (A. P.).—Marshal Tito's Yugoslav Army has smashed out in a new attack thirty-five miles west of the Italian border in Slovenia and captured five towns, a communique broadcast by Tito's headquarters announced today. Among the towns captured were Gornjograd, twenty miles northeast, and Smartno, fifteen miles east of the rail junction of Ljubljana.

7 NAZI SHIPS SUNK

LONDON, Aug. 15—(AP) A British naval force led by the Cruiser Mauritius damaged seven German supply ships and other vessels and scored hits on a destroyer in three engagements today off the naval base of La Rochelle, between Nantes and Bordeaux, the Admiralty announced tonight. The British suffered neither casualties nor damage, the communique said.

32 POLISH BOY SCOUTS EXECUTED BY GERMANS

LONDON, Aug. 15.—(AP) The London headquarters of the Association of Polish Scouts and Guides said today it had received word of the execution of 32 Boy Scouts in Poland early last month by German occupation authorities.

The Germans, who had banned the scout movement in Poland, were said to have carried out the executions after a mass arrest of young people in the town of Nowy Saez during an investigation into scout activities.

King Congratulates FDR on Guam Victory

LONDON, Aug. 15. (AP)—In a message of congratulations on the liberation of Guam, King George VI told President Roosevelt tonight that the British Commonwealth "will make an increasingly powerful contribution" to "the utter defeat of Japan."

The text:

"Please accept, Mr. President, my war congratulations on the liberation of Guam from a brutal enemy's occupation.

"This successful feat of arms marks yet another notable stage in the brilliant advance of U. S. forces in the central Pacific and has aroused our deep admiration.

"It is a splendid augury of the coming utter deefat of Japan, to which the forces of the British Commonwealth of Nations also will make an increasingly powerful contribution."

10,000 FRENCH PATRIOTS ADVANCE TOWARD VICHY

LONDON, Aug. 15—(AP) The IFA (Independent French Agency) reported from Bern today that 10,000 French patriots were "advancing toward Vichy," and that hundreds more are joining them as they push ahead.

The dispatch said other detachments of French Forces of the Interior were advancing on Bordeaux. It did not say where the patriots were coming from or how they were armed.

VICTORY BETTING BOOMS IN ENGLAND

London, Aug. 15 (A. P.).—Allied successes in France have caused a rush of victory betting and have cut the odds against the European war ending by the last of October.

The current popular odds are 100 to 15 compared with 100 to 7 three months ago.

Not all of the bettors are realistic, the bookies report—many picking their dates out of teacup readings, dreams or astrology.

Most of those favoring numbers work with D day, June 6, adding sixes and coming up with December 6.

TokyoTells of NewU.S.Weapon

LONDON, Aug. 15 (AP).—The Tokyo radio declared today that a new American weapon is a fourteen-pound anti-personnel bomb whose explosion is controlled from a plane by a steel cable wound around the missile.

RODNEY BOMBARDS ALDERNEY ISLAND

MORROSO

ABOARD H.M.S. RODNEY, Aug. 12.—(Delayed)—(AP) H. M. S. Rodney, principal heroine in the sinking of the German super battleship Bismarck, anchored 20 miles off the channel island of Alderney today and leisurely hurled 75 one-ton 16-inch shells into a Nazi battery without return fire.

As the Rodney sped homeward, her battle ensign whipping in the breeze, aviators reported the "area very well plastered up" and a summary showed direct hits on three of the four Nazi guns. Alderney is just nine miles off the tip of the Cotentin peninsula in Normandy.

The crew expected immediate return fire but none came, leading to the assumption that the Germans were surprised and ran to deep shelters when the first shell landed. The Rodney's job, however, was to lay down 75 shells no matter what the enemy did, being especially careful not to shoot into the town of Saint Anne, roughly 600 yards behind the target.

RODNEY BATTERS ALDERNEY ISLAND

By JOHN A. MOROSO 3d.

Aboard H. M. S. Rodney, Aug. 12 (Delayed) (A. P.).—The valiant and venerable 38,000-ton British battleship Rodney swooped down upon the Channel Island of Alderney today and poured seventy-five rounds of one-ton sixteen-inch shells into a Nazi battery.

The Rodney, one of the world's heaviest armed ships, is a veteran of the Norwegian campaign and the principal heroine in the sinking of the Bismarck. She bombarded Italy and blasted Caen and Le Havre in the Normandy invasion.

This was a fantastic affair. Usually ships and planes pray for good weather when assaulting the enemy. Three days ago we sped toward the target, only to have R. A. F. Spitfire spotter planes turn us back because the visibility was so good that the strong German anti-aircraft batteries on the island could have shot down our planes. The Rodney returned to a British port and remained there until early today, when she sped back across the Channel. We anchored in deliberate, methodical British fashion and for two hours and thirty-one minutes the Rodney pumped high explosive shells into the battery about twenty miles away.

The first shot from a cold gun, traveling more than 16,000 feet high, landed 300 yards from the target. The officers corrected the range and on the fifth, six, seventh and eighth shots made direct hits on the Nazi guns

STRIKES IN COPENHAGEN

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 15—(AP) New strikes broke out today in many Copenhagen plants, including Burmeister & Wain, shipbuilding center, in protest against the recent execution of 11 Danes by the Germans.

Italian Front Mostly Quiet

ROME, Aug. 15—(AP)—A brisk engagement developed when Fifth Army patrols made contact with German patrols three miles southeast of Pontedera yesterday but in all other sectors the Italian land front was quiet except for artillery duels, Allied headquarters said today.

German shelling of Florence almost ceased and the Allied position there "continues to improve steadily," headquarters added. Although there was some interference from snipers, food, water and medical supplies continued moving into the city in great volume for the civil population.

Allied tanks and mortars engaged the enemy on both sides of the Arno bend west of Signa. Eighth Army troops mopping up pockets of resistance in the Empoli area killed at least 25 Germans.

At Florence it was learned that five of Florence's beautiful bridges were blown up without any prior announcement to Florence citizens who had been dealing with the Germans seeking an understanding with the Allies to save the city's historic and artistic treasures. Citizens along the river front were ordered out of their homes about 72 hours before the demolitions took place.

High Florentine sources said Field Marshal Gen. Albert Kesselring ordered the bridges destroyed because he was determined that the Allied pursuit of the Germans north of Rome should not be repeated north of Florence.

ITALIAN ACTION HELD TO PATROLS

Rome, Aug. 15 (A. P.).—Fifth Army patrols engaged the enemy in a sharp fight three miles southeast of Pontedra but otherwise the Italian front remained comparatively quiet yesterday except for artillery fire, Allied Headquarters announced today.

Eighth Army troops were reported continuing to mop up enemy pockets of resistance in the Empoli area, where they killed at least twenty-five Germans. Allied tanks and mortars were engaged in harassing the enemy on both sides of the Arno bend west of Signa.

The Allied position in Florence continues to improve steadily, Headquarters said, with German shelling of the city almost halted. Supplies for the civil population are arriving in large volume.

CABELL IN NEW AIR POST

Named Chief of Operations and Intelligence in Mediterranean

ROME, Aug. 15 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Charles P. Cabell, 40-year-old former West Pointer, was appointed Director of Operations and Intelligence of the Mediterranean Allied Air Force today. He succeeds Brig. Gen. Lauris Norstad, who received an undisclosed assignment in another theatre.

General Cabell, as director of plans with the United States Strategic Air Forces, had an active role in planning the Normandy invasion and bombing Germany. He won the Distinguished Flying Cross for one of his missions over enemy territory while commanding a bomber wing from Britain.

A. M. G. Quits 3 Italian Areas

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15 (AP).—The Allies turned over Rome and two other provinces, Littoria and Fronsinone, to the Italian government of Premier Ivanhoe Bonomi today. The State Department bulletin of Aug. 6 said the withdrawal of Allied Military Government officials would take place today, and department officials today confirmed that the transfer had been completed.

Bullitt Joins French Army At 53 as a Commandant

Former Ambassador Retains His American Citizenship

ALGIERS, Aug. 15 (AP).—William C. Bullitt, fifty-three years old, former American ambassador to France, yesterday joined the French army as a commandant, equivalent to the rank of major in the United States Army, the French Information Ministry announced today.

Bullitt, an honorary citizen of a number of French towns, established that he could retain American citizenship and serve in the French army.

Bullitt said his offer of active military duty had been rejected twice by Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson because of his age.

Stilwell's Planes Bag 3 Jap Ships

CHUNGKING, Aug. 15—(AP)—Three Japanese freighters were sunk by wide-ranging heavy bombers in a raid on Formosa, Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters announced today.

The freighters were caught in the Formosa Strait by the bombers, which also struck the docks of Takao Harbor, in Southwestern Formosa.

Takao Is Blasted.

Chungking, Aug. 15 (A. P.).—Heavy bombers of the United States Fourteenth Air Force have bombed the docks at Takao on the Japanese colonial islands of Formosa and have sunk three freighters in the straits between Formosa and the China coast, Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters announced today.

Takao, on the southwestern coast of Formosa, is one of the island's chief ports and an important base for Japanese military movements in the China-Philippines area.

Warehouses Set Aflame By Mitchells

Low Flying Bombers Hammer Halmahera Installations.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Wednesday, Aug. 16—(AP)—Low-flying Mitchell medium bombers set afire Japanese warehouses and other installations in raids upon Halmahera island and Ternate island lying just off Halmahera, headquarters announced today.

Shore Installations Hit

Liberators also raided Halmahera Monday, smashing at installations along the shores of Wasile Bay and setting stores afire and exploding ammunition dumps.

Antiaircraft fire was intense.

Headquarters also announced that air patrols sank eight Japanese sailing vessels off Ceram, south of Halmahera.

The continuous raids in this area have threatened the Halmahera-Philippine defense line, fall of which Gen. Douglas MacArthur says would imperil Japan's communications south of China, placing them "in grave danger of flank envelopment."

A fortnight of devastating aerial blitz "practically neutralized" Halmahera, MacArthur announced Tuesday, destroying the flexibility of that great enemy base.

Last Island Obstacle

Halmahera, about 300 miles south of the Philippines, is the last island obstacle in the invasion route that leads to Mindanao, southernmost major island of the archipelago that awaits American deliverance.

After his forces seized Sansapor, at the western tip of Dutch New Guinea, July 30, in a surprise move that bypassed Manokwari, MacArthur stressed the importance of Halmahera, about 200 miles northwest of Sansapor.

The Halmahera-Philippine line, the general said, "is the main defense cover for his (the enemy's) conquered empire in the Southwest Pacific. Should this line go, all his conquests south of China will be imperiled and in grave danger of flank envelopment."

Is Virtually Useless

Now, within little more than a fortnight, Halmahera, southern anchor of that line, is virtually useless to the Nipponese. Air attack has "practically neutralized" its airfields and intermediate bases, bases, barred its port facilities to enemy maritime forces, immobilized the Japanese garrison.

Since the first major raid on Halmahera July 27, at least 83 enemy planes have been destroyed there and many others damaged, 15 ships and many smaller craft have been sunk and 42 vessels and barges damaged.

A week ago MacArthur reported that Yap, Japanese naval and air base 800 miles east of Mindanao, "appears to have been neutralized."

The Palau islands, important enemy base about 500 miles east of Mindanao, has been under almost daily air attack since early June.

Thus enemy bases that could mount opposition to a southern invasion of the Philippines are being nullified, their forces pinned down.

PARALYZE JAPS ON HALMAHERA

MacArthur's Flyers Hit Last Block to Philippines.

General Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, Aug. 15 (A. P.).—Allied bombers, striking swiftly and with devastating accuracy, have "practically neutralized" Halmahera, the last major island block to the Philippines. They accomplished the task in the record time of slightly more than two weeks, and with the record economy of only three major attacks upon airdromes. Halmahera, 200 miles west of New Guinea, is about 300 miles south of Mindanao.

"Our air attacks upon Halmahera were continued, causing great fires and explosions," Gen. MacArthur announced today. Air raids upon enemy targets from Timor to Bougainville also were announced.

"The enemy's airfields at Halmahera and at contiguous intermediate bases are practically neutralized, his maritime forces largely interdicted and his ground troops immobilized in their present positions. The flexibility of this great base is now gone."

A bomb-inflicted creeping paralysis, inducted with the conquest of Saipan, Tinian and Guam in the southern Marianas, has thus struck at Japan along Japan's island defense line, Gen. MacArthur announced just a week ago that Yap, the once-important enemy naval and air base in the Western Caroline, "appears to have neutralized." Yap is about 500 miles southwest of Guam, 900 miles northeast of Halmahera.

In the first major raid upon Halmahera, on July 27, forty-five enemy planes were destroyed. A week later thirteen more were knocked out, and last Sunday the destruction or damaging of forty-one additional planes was announced. In additional strikes against shipping in the Halmahera area during August, fourteen Japanese freighters, twelve coastal vessels, twenty-eight barges and a number of small craft have been sunk or seriously damaged.

Gen. MacArthur's announcement today added this warning of deeper punches to come: "Should the enemy fail to retrieve his weakness on Halmahera, the main line of defense for his conquered empire in the Southwest Pacific, extending through the Halmaheras and the Philippines, is threatened." Earlier the General had said: "Should this line go, all of his conquests south of China will be imperiled and in grave danger of flank development."

YANKS BOMB BASES ON ROAD TO TOKYO

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Aug. 15 — (AP) American warplanes bombed enemy island positions north and south of Tokyo and in the Central Pacific over the weekend, stirring up fighter interception at three points that ranged from half-hearted attempts to aggressive action.

Three to eight enemy planes were destroyed, others damaged and a patrol vessel sunk in these operations, announced today by Adm. Chester W. Nimitz.

One Liberator Lost

One Liberator bomber was lost and two others damaged.

The brunt of the attack fell on the Kurile islands, backdoor approach to Japan, on Friday and Saturday. The raids carried the current series of attacks through three consecutive days.

Shipping near Paramushiro and the airstrip at Suribachi were hit Friday. Some 15 to 20 fighter planes hopped the 11th Army Air Force Liberators making the assault and three of the fighters were shot down and probably five more. Two of the Liberators were damaged but all returned.

The next day Navy search planes hit a new target in the Kuriles—little Araito island off the northern tip of Paramushiro. A patrol ship was sunk there and defense installations bombed. Several enemy interceptors took to the air but failed to press home their attacks, Nimitz reported.

Nearby Shumushu island was smacked the same day by a single Navy plane.

It was at Iwo Island in the Volcano group, about 700 miles south of Tokyo, on Sunday that enemy interceptors showed a willingness to fight it out. Nimitz reported that "an aggressive group of enemy fighters" intercepted and one Liberator was lost. The airfield and adjacent installations were plastered with more than 35 tons of bombs.

Army medium bombers, probably based on Saipan, pounded gun positions and runways on Pagan island, in the northern Marianas, Sunday and also bombed and strafed Rota island, south of Saipan.

Other raids were made the same day by Navy or Marine planes on Nauru island, west of the Gilberts, and on remaining Japanese positions in the Marshalls.

U. S. BOMBERS RAID THE KURILES TWICE

Washington, Aug. 15 (A. P.)—Pounding the north Pacific Kurile Islands on two consecutive days, American bombers blasted shipping, airfield installations and defense positions on Paramushiro, Shumushu and Araido islands Friday and Saturday, the Navy reported today.

Shipping was struck near Paramushiro and Araido, northwest of Paramushiro, on both days. A patrol vessel was sunk by strafing near Araido in the first reported attack on the Japanese positions there.

Between fifteen and twenty fighter planes atempted to halt the Eleventh Army Air Force Liberators carrying out the Friday raids, but succeeded in inflicting only minor damage on two of the big bombers. The Navy reported that three of the enemy planes were shot down, five probably shot down and two damaged.

MARINES MOURN PRIVATE'S DEATH

By Second Lieut. J. C. LUCAS, U. S. M. C.

Distributed by the Associated Press.

Saipan, Marianas Islands (Delayed).—It seldem happens that a whole battalion is saddened by the death of a private first class, but today, as word spread that Tommy (Thomas E.) Richards was dead, the tribute to this 20-year-old boy from Alliance, Ohio, was one of the most touching things ever witnessed by the men who fought with him.

Tommy's battalion commander told about it just a moment ago. "Whatever you say about Tommy, it won't be enough," he said, and added that Tommy would become one of the legends of the Marine Corps, for he had everything it takes to make a good Marine. He was brave, competent, loyal and modest.

30-24—18019

Tommy did not make the Marshall Islands campaign. He was left behind in the rear eschelon, and his pride was badly wounded. When the Saipan campaign was planned, Tommy beged to be taken along.

Tommy, his battalion commander said, was a "man of all trades." He had no place in the line, and, at Saipan, he was left aboard ship to help in the unloading. Two days later, Tommy went to his commanding officer, tears in his eyes, and said he aws tired of staying behind. He wanted to get ashore. He was sent to Saipan as an orderly for his colonel.

They did not keep Tommy long in the regimental command post. Two days later, the colonel was digging his own foxhole. His orderly had disappeared. The colonel spoke direly of punishing him when he returned.

Soon the colonel heard that Tommy was at the front. He had joined an assault company as a stretcher bearer. He had risked his life repeatedly to pull his companions back to safety. He had killed several Japs. The colonel received a request from the company commander, that Tommy Richards be left at the front.

In reply, he wrote: "my memory isn't what it used to be. I'll probabl yforget to do anything about him."

Tomm yRichards remained at the front. Yesterday, an officer fell, and Tommy started after him. Tommy never reached him. Tommy and the officer both are dead.

Admiral Whiting Gets Navy Award

An Aleutian Island Base, Aug. 12 (Delayed) (A. P.).—Rear Admiral F. E. M. Whiting, first commandant of the new Seventeenth Naval district, received the Legion of Merit today for a "conspicuous contribution to the success of our operations against the enemy in the North Pacific."

Admiral Whiting came to the Aleutians last fall. He commanded the Battleship Massachusetts in the bombardment of Casablanca in the North Africa invasion in 1942.

REPORT BOMBING OF VOLCANO ISLES

The Tokyo radio announced today that twenty-two American Liberator bombers raided Iwo Jima in the Volcano islands, some 600 miles from Tokyo, in broad daylight yesterday.

The broadcast, recorded by United States Government monitors, the Associated Press reports, asserted that Japanese fighters had engaged the raiders in battle and declared that two of the heavy bombers were shot down.

The island has been raided several times previously by American planes, but there was no immediate confirmation of the latest Japanese report.

Because of the danger of United States air raids Japanese authorities in Korea have abandoned the use of a siren to summon the population for twice-a-day compulsory worship of Emperor Hirohito, it was disclosed by a broadcast over the controlled Keijo radio reported today to the Office of War Information.

Trumpet calls and the rendition of a song called "On to the Sea" have been broadcast at 7 A. M. and noon by local radios as a substitute for the siren, which has been restricted to use as a raid warning "in order to be prepared to meet the raids of enemy planes," said the Keijo broadcast as recorded by FCC.

AUSTRALIA ASKS TWO MILLION BRAS

Melbourne, Australia, Aug. 15 (A. P.).—Australia needs 2,000,000 American and British-made corsets and a like number of brassieres, the Minister of Customs indicated today in relaxing import restrictions on these items.

Hitler Knights Von Papen

Hitler has bestowed the Knight's Cross of the War Merit Cross with Swords upon Franz von Papen, German Ambassador to Turkey, who returned home after the Reich, the Berlin radio said today, according to the Associated Press.

The award was for special achievements and personal efforts, said the broadcast, and was given to Von Papen when he visited Hitler's headquarters.

Nazi Collapse Will Aid Home Production

Nelson Says Fall of Germany to Permit Increase of 30 Per Cent in Civilian Production, Approximately to Civil Economy Level of 1939.

By Sterling F. Green

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15—(AP)—Donald M. Nelson, newly-embarked on a program for small-scale industrial reconversion, estimated tonight that the collapse of Germany would permit a 30 per cent increase in civilian production—enough, he said, to bring the civilian economy to about the level of 1939.

Will Not Interfere with Armaments

This increase will not interfere with the ability of American industry to continue the armament output needed to crush Japan and finish the war, the War Production Board chairman predicted at a news conference.

"I would estimate that the fall of Germany will be followed by a drop of 40 per cent, roughly, in the volume of war production," Nelson said.

It will be necessary to retain WPB's controls over industry after Germany's defeat, Nelson said, in order to insure that materials and equipment are kept flowing to the armed forces.

No Need For WPB Controls

"At the end of the Japanese war, however, I see no necessity for continuing into the reconversion period the controls which WPB now exercises," Nelson said in reply to questions. "Some controls may have to be retained—possibly those over tin, crude rubber and lumber, for instance—but these would be gradually tapered off as those materials are brought back into good supply."

Emphasizing that his new "priority regulation 25," effective today, will mean increased production only of the simpler consumer items for the time being, the WPB chairman warned that the country need not expect new automobiles, refrigerators or washing machines. These heavy items require electric motors, gears and other scarce parts which cannot now be spared, he explained.

Increase In Scarce Parts

Such scarce parts, he stated, come into increased supply after the end of hostilities in Europe permits an easing of arms production.

The length of the period of unemployment and plant shutdowns between the cancellation of war contracts and the start of peacetime production will depend largely, he stated, on "the advance preparations made by the war agencies and by Congress."

"A great many industries have been reconverted already," he said. "The tire industry, for instance, has been completely reconverted. At one time, tires were cut back tremendously; now, because of huge military demands, tires have had to be restored to production."

Without Idleness

The agricultural implement and the textile industries are others which should accomplish the transition without idleness, he said. "The principal gap will occur in the automobile industry, which has been completely scrambled, and the other consumer's durable goods industries which have been largely scrambled, and the construction industry."

The automobile industry, he predicted, "will surprise the whole nation by the speed with which they get back into passenger car production when the signal is given." He recalled that the much-feared idleness in Detroit, at the time of the conversion of the motor plants to war work, was very brief.

Officials have said that the limited reconversion program ordered into effect today where it will not interfere with war production, will help consume leftover war materials which are piling up in quantities so large as to threaten post-war markets.

Idle Steel On Hand

In that connection Nelson said at the news conference that fabricators and others have on hand some 3,000,000 tons of idle steel.

A joint statement by Nelson and Chairman Paul V. McNutt of the War Manpower Commission was issued at the news conference. It declared their agreement that war production "has the first claim on the nation's manpower" and that no diversion of manpower from war to less-essential civilian production can be permitted.

The statement added that "there should be the maximum resumption of civilian production consistent with war production needs; that, therefore, whenever labor and materials are available which are not needed in or cannot be made available for war production, they should be employed in civilin production."

Senate to Be Told Of Postwar Talks

Hull to Keep Committee Well Informed—Meetings Begin Next Monday At Dumbarton Oaks.

By John M. Hightower

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15—(AP)—Secretary of State Hull intends to maintain closest touch with key members of Congress, particularly Senate Foreign Relations committeemen, during the four power talks here on world peace organization.

Ideas Already Presented

While American ideas to be laid down during the meeting have already been presented to Senate and House committee members, Hull associates said today, feels that the full confidence of the legislators must be maintained and believe the way to do that is to keep them informed of developments.

Thus it appeared certain that congressional leaders would be advised periodically of any changes in details of the post war organization plans—changes which may have to be made to gain agreement among the United States, Britain, Russia and, eventually, China.

Begin Next Monday

The meetings will begin next Monday at Dumbarton Oaks, Georgetown estate, removed somewhat from the August heat in which Washington is now sweltering. Ambassador Andrei A. Gromyko and members of the Russian group are expected here from Moscow in a day or so. The British delegation arrived last Saturday.

The procedure of the conferees will be initially, it is expected, to seek out points on which they are in agreement and defer toward the end of their sessions the points on which they differ.

Doubt Drastic Changes

Actually, despite evidence of some differing views, American officials doubt that there will have to be any drastic changes in the main lines of the American plan as made public by President Roosevelt.

For one thing, it is said, Sir Alexander Cadogan, the British conferee, has already made known British agreement with the Chief Executive's declaration. For another, while there are differences in some respects with Russian ideas as unofficially disclosed, there are apparently no differences with Russia in principle.

World Air Corps

One Russian proposal put forward in the much publicized article by "N. Malinin," calls for organization of a world air corps to back up the decisions of the proposed world council to suppress a threatened violation of world peace.

There is no evidence available in official quarters here, however, that the Russians are officially committed to the international air force idea or that they would not be willing to achieve their objective in some other way. A counter American suggestion has been to hold national forces in readiness for prompt action in any threatening situation and it is on the need for prompt action in this air age that the Russians build their unofficial case for an international air corps.

U. S. Against

The United States has rather strongly committed itself against creation of any sort of international force which would be at the direct disposition of the world council.

American military men have advised the diplomatic negotiators that even if it were politically feasible in this country to contribute American support to such a force it would not be a practical way to do the job.

These advisors argue that an international force would have to have international bases and probably even internationalized supply lines to function effectively. This would mean, according to the American view, the creation of tremendously complex machinery, involving language difficulties.

Smaller Nations

Another evident difference between the Russian and Anglo-American views involves the question whether representative small nations shall be given places on the world council, in addition to the membership of all nations large and small in the world assembly. But on this point, it is felt here, the actual Russian objective is one with which United States and Britain are in agreement—that is keeping control over peace preserving forces in the hands of those nations which have the forces to use.

The purpose might be served, according to the views of some Americans, by giving small nations some place on the council but so arranging the voting rules that they would exercise an influence commensurate with their position in the world. Thus it might be specified that the decisions of the four big powers on the use of force, once they were made unanimously, could not be hamstrung by the disagreement of a few small nations.

M'KELLAR URGES ACQUISITION OF ISLANDS BY U. S.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15—(AP) Senator McKellar (D-Tenn) urged the United States today to demand permanent possession of all islands necessary to the "future security" of the nation.

Applauded by Chairman Reynolds (D-N C) of the Military committee and Senator Chandler (D-Ky), the Tennessee legislator offered a resolution advocating:

1. Possession by the United States of all islands in the possession of or mandated to Japan on Dec. 5, 1941, including Formosa and the Ryukyu islands, which might help in the defense of the Panama canal.

2. Acquisition by the United States under post-war agreements of Bermuda and all islands in the West Indies "which are now the possessions of European nations."

4. Negotiation by the President of an agreement with the Republic of Ecuador looking to acquisition of the Galapagos islands.

Expressing complete agreement with McKellar's resolution, which was referred to the Foreign Relations committee, Senator Chandler declared it was just as "foolish" to leave islands in the hands of Allies unable to defend them as it is to leave them with enemies, and added:

"After the last war we said we did not want anything, and we did not get anything. American boys have been losing their lives winning back islands which were mandated to Japan or to some weak friendly nation which could not protect them when the showdown came.

"We must say to them that we are going to have possession of every island in every ocean, which, if in the possession of any enemy, or a weak friend, would be a direct menace to the people of the United States."

Reynolds said he would like to see the McKellar resolution broadened to include not only Bermuda, but Bimini and Nassau, off the coast of Florida, and Jamaica.

"We should not only take the islands which belong to the British there, but we should discuss the appraised value from what Great Britain owes us as a result of World War I and World War II," he said.

Similarly, Reynolds advocated acquisition of Curacao, just north of Venezuela, which he would deduct from 'what the Dutch government will owe us for reconquering and redelivering to them the Dutch East Indies."

He also favored taking over the French islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon, off the coast of Newfoundland.

Ban on 'Political Propaganda' Modified for Armed Services

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15—(AP)

Spurred by a widespread outcry, the Senate voted today to modify the "political propaganda" ban and permit soldiers and sailors to pick their own newspapers, magazines and books, so long as they are generally circulated and the services can deliver them.

It passed a Soldiers' Vote law amendment which also lowers the bars affecting films and radio programs, including political speeches. It sets up impartiality as the guide in the selection of films and broadcasts for the nation's fighting men.

Under Army and Navy interpretations of the existing law, a list of publications and movies had been banned on the ground that they included material calculated to affect the November general election vote.

The amendment, sponsored by Chairman Green (D-R I) of the elections committee and Senator Lucas (D-Ill), and approved by Senator Taft (R-Ohio), author of the present restrictions, came out of committee with unanimous backing. The Senate passed it on a voice vote before it had time to get well settled on the clerk's desk. Now it goes to the House.

After passage of the bill, Taft said on the floor that the original provisions would have created no difficulty if properly interpreted but added that the War department had set up "unnecessary restrictive interpretations."

He pointed out that the House probably will not be able to act on the measure for some time and urged the services, in the meantime, to make "reasonable interpretation" of the present law.

Green said the law as revised would permit Army and Navy stores to sell any newspaper, magazine or book of general circulation in the United States, subject to the ability of the forces to deliver them. There never has been any bar against the servicemen buying whatever reading matter they wanted off military posts, or having it delivered individually by mail.

The only remaining limitation on general circulation publications is that when delivery difficulty makes selection necessary, the choice be made "in some impartial manner prescribed by the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy, such as preference expressed by members of the armed forces or the recommendation of expert committees, or otherwise."

Green said political speeches could be broadcast to soldiers and sailors, if the other side were given equal time. If a movie with one political slant is shown to troops, he said, the showing of a film with the opposite bent would be considered as a counter-balance.

Government publications, films or broadcasts would be barred from distribution to troops if they had an obvious political slant.

Before the committee acted, Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) told newsmen the existing political propaganda rule had been "deliberately interpreted by the Army and Navy in a way to make it look ridiculous to the public and to embarrass the Republican sponsors of the provision."

He said publications which patently included no political propaganda had been barred.

Taft in his Senate speech accused the War department of having interpreted the original act in "nonsensical" manner that gave the public and troops an erroneous idea as to its intent.

"It is my opinion that these amendments are unnecessary, but I have joined in preparing them because of the unnecessarily restrictive interpretation placed upon the act by the War department and its Morale division.

"There has been no difficulty in the Navy.

"The purpose of the original act was a simple one: To prevent the administration from using its monopoly of all channels of communication to the armed forces abroad to disseminate political propaganda designed or calculated to assist the President in the election."

It was never intended to restrict the sales at post exchanges of publications of general circulation, Taft said, adding:

'This doubt about the War department's impartiality is not new. Its representatives cooperated 100 per cent with the extreme New Dealers and the C.I.O. Political Action committee in support of the clearly unconstitutional Federal ballot carrying no names except that of the candidate for President."

Reporters Win Air Medals

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15 (AP).—The War Department today announced award of Air Medals to war correspondents Thoburn H. Wiant, of The Associated Press, who recently returned from the China-Burma-India theater and Theodore H. White, of "Time" and "Life" magazines, for their work in reporting the air war against the Japanese. Mr. Wiant, known to intimates as Toby, lives at 78-32 Main Street, Kew Gardens, Queens, N. Y. He formerly lived in Indianapolis. Mr. White lives at 60 Greenwood Street, Dorchester, Mass.

Aid for Russian Hospitals

Red Cross to Provide Equipment for 10 Civilian Centers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15 (AP).—The Red Cross announced today it will provide virtually all the equipment for ten 500-bed civilian hospitals to be re-established in Russia. The hospitals, located in nine cities, will be supplied with all necessary equipment except bedsteads and mattresses. Ticking will be sent for the latter.

MILLER SUGGESTS VETS GET ARMY JEEPS CHEAP

AUG 16 1944

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15—(AP) While Congress is considering ways to best dispose of surplus war materials, Representative William J. Miller (R-Conn.), a veteran aviator of the last war, would like to see the returning serviceman get a jeep cheap if he wants it.

Miller will make a brief speech in the House tomorrow in support of an amendment he intends to offer on Thursday to the Surplus Property bill now under debate.

It would declare the government's policy in disposing of the excess sinews of war to include opportunity to returning veterans of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, etc., to "purchase single units or small lots of any surplus property at the same price for which such property has been sold or offered for sale in large lots."

This would throw the whole field of surplus supplies open to the serviceman who may be buying a farm, a house and lot, or a small business. He might even want a jeep or peep to keep on his sheep farm—or to get back and forth to the office or classroom if he elects to go to college.

Postwar Lending Seen for Bankers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15. (AP)—The comptroller of the currency told the nation's bankers today that their major responsibility once the war is over, "will be the search for lending opportunities in a society of free enterprise and personal initiative."

"Much depends on a successful campaign in this field, for by it the banks will assist in creating a sound postwar economy and in assuring their own position in it," Comptroller Preston Delano said in his annual report.

Delano saw "healthy signs" of determination by bankers to meet the issue. He called particular attention to the formation of credit pools to facilitate loans to business, and an active campaign by the American Bankers Association for the education of its members in their approach to the problems of transition.

Carusi Named Commissioner Of Immigration

Executive Assistant to Five Attorneys General To Be E.G.Harrison'sSuccessor

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15 (AP).—President Roosevelt today nominated Ugo Carusi, executive assistant to Attorney General Francis Biddle, to be Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization in the Department of Justice.

Mr. Carusi, of Barre, Vt., succeeds Earl G. Harrison, of Philadelphia, who resigned recently to resume his private law practice.

Mr. Carusi was born in Carrara, Italy, in 1902, the son of Eugene A. and Eva Bertoli Carusi, naturalized American citizens who had returned to Italy for a visit. The parents returned to the United States and settled in Barre when Carusi was three months old.

He attended public schools, and in 1918 went to work in a law office. From 1922 to 1925 he was secretary to the Attorney General of Vermont. In 1925 he came to Washington, where he attended National University Law School, and entered the Department of Justice as private secretary to Attorney General John G. Sargent.

In 1930 he was appointed executive assistant to Attorney General William D. Mitchell, and has served in the same capacity to the four succeeding attorneys general, Homer S. Cummings, Frank Murphy, Robert H. Jackson and Francis Biddle.

In 1938 Mr. Carusi was appointed by the President to represent the United States at the first International Congress on Criminology at Rome.

He is a member of the American and District of Columbia Bar Associations and a Shriner. Since 1937 he has been a member of the law faculty of National University, lecturing in constitutional and administrative law.

PAPERS PRAISED FOR AID IN LOAN

AUG 16 1944

Morgenthau Thanks Them for Part They Played.

Washington, Aug. 15 (A. P.).—American newspapers, despite paper shortages, the European invasion and a national political convention, carried a record volume of advertising and news column promotion of the recently concluded Fifth War Loan.

This accomplishment, hailed by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau as "truly outstanding," was announced today by Frank E. Tripp, chairman of the Allied Newspaper Council.

The Fifth War Loan, with a goal of $16,000,000,000, brought more than $20,000,000,000 in cash into the Treasury. It was conducted during June and July.

Asking Mr. Tripp to express the Treasury Department's thanks to the nation's publishers, Mr. Morgenthau said: "Newspapers have every right to be proud of the part they are playing in this financing program—and the nation can be thankful for a free press, which is serving our country so well and so unselfishly."

Calls Record Amazing.

Mr. Tripp, disclosing Treasury lineage figures, described the Fifth War Loan record as amazing and said that it was the greatest sales effort in the history of the American press.

Asserting that newspapers omitted "millions of lines of commercial advertising to accomplish this great record," Mr. Tripp said that dailies published 106,968 separate advertisements, totaling 66,505,805 lines of space with a value of $7,628,549. Comparable figures for the Fourth War Loan last January were 89,048 ads, 58,443,134 lines and $6,085,005 in value.

The news and editorial columns of daily papers carried 26,153,925 lines, compared with 22,000,000 lines in the Fourth Loan, while the weekly lineage jumped from 13,000,000 to 19,428,750.

Mr. Morgenthau's Letter.

The text of Mr. Morgentahu's letter to Mr. Tripp follows:

"Will you please convey to the newspaper publishers of America my sincere appreciation for the outstanding contribution they have made to the success of the Fifth War Loan drive.

"In spite of difficult paper shortages, newspapers gave greater advertising and editorial support to the Fifth Drive than any previous one.

"The newspaper advertising performance has been truly outstanding, and I hope you will ask all publishers to express our thanks to the patriotic sponsors who have so unselfishly supported this vital war financing effort.

"Newspapers have every right to be proud of the part they are playing in this financing program—and the nation can be thankful for a free press, which is serving our country so well and unselfishly.

"We acknowledge with gratitude the splendid assistance of the Allied Newspaper Council and your fellow publishers."

COMMITTEE ORGANIZED TO PLAN INAUGURATION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15—(AP) Congress rounded out its committee of legislators today to arrange for inauguration Jan. 20, 1945, of a new president—regardless of whether he is Franklin D. Roosevelt or Thomas E. Dewey.

Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.) named Representatives Doughton (D-N.C.) and Martin (R-Mass.) to serve with him on the House committee. The Senate last June chose Senators Byrd (D-Va.), McKellar (D-Tenn.) and Vandenberg (R-Mich.) as its committeemen.

30. 24 — 18021

PLAN TO REORGANIZE HOUSE FAILS TO DEVELOP

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—(AP) A one-man campaign to reorganize the House, put Republican Joseph W. Martin in the Speaker's chair and unseat Democratic committee chairmen, collapsed today 24 hours after it started.

Representative Ed Rowe (R-Ohio), a freshman member, steamed up the idea, motivated by what he said was a desire to cut short "delaying tactics" and "get something done."

His complaint was aimed at the Democrats who hold power by a slim margin, 216 to 212, with three seats vacant.

Rowe sent telegrams to the Republican members, wrote letters to some of them, and was all set to introduce a resolution for the reorganization when G.O.P. Leader Martin of Massachusetts stepped in.

Martin met with Rowe this morning, told him that he and the other leaders feel such a move to be "ill-timed." The implication was that the Republican leadership hopes to win control of the House at the November elections and any precedents set now might be embarrassing at some later date.

Pepper Would Broadcast Proceedings of Congress

Proposes to Give Recordings to Networks at Cost

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15 (AP).—Senator Claude Pepper, Democrat, of Florida, proposed in the Senate today that the proceedings of Congress be broadcast. Introducing a resolution to give the radio networks access to the Senate and House floors, Senator Pepper said:

"Literally millions upon millions of people demonstrated their interest in the democratic processes by following the proceedings of the recent national political conventions by radio. It is my opinion that the public interest would be similarly served by the broadcasting of Congressional proceedings."

He said the proposed broadcasting privileges would not extend to any government-owned radio facilities.

The resolution provided that the architect of the capital shall set up in the Senate and House chambers recording or transcribing machines, and that copies of the transcriptions shall be made available to radio stations and networks at cost.

Senator Pepper also provided that no radio station or network should be required to broadcast any of the proceedings, and that either house could prohibit broadcast of any of its proceedings at any time.

Latin Nations Ready to Make Big Purchases

AUG 16 1944

Have Accumulated $1,250,000,000 Worth of Foreign Purchasing Power.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15 (AP)—Latin Americans have accumulated a billion and a quarter dollars worth of foreign purchasing power and, along with the cash, a pent-up demand for merchandise now unavailable because of the war, the National Industrial Conference Board reported today.

20 Nations

The 20 nations of Latin America, the private research organization said in 1943 alone exported $1,090,000,000 more goods than they received.

A survey by the board showed this marked reversal in the trend of United States-Latin American business: In 1938, the 20 countries imported $27,600,000 more than they exported; in 1943 they sold us $583,900,000 more than we sold them.

The board concluded that Latin America's inflation, ranging in the case of wholesale prices to more than 100 per cent in some of the countries, would be quickly eased once the merchandise can be exported to them.

Wartime Exports

The booming wartime exports of Latin America have brought them both cash and credits, including blocked balances in Britain. While the United States funds are not officially blocked, the effect of good shortages has been similar to England's action in freezing balances there.

"The blocked foreign balances which are largely responsible for the inflation are due primarily to the inability to import goods," the board said.

Liquidate Balances

Such goods will of course become available again once the war is ended, and the blocked balances will thus presumably be liquidated almost automatically, and with them much of theinflation itself."

In price and currency inflation, however, the board found, the Latin Americas have been better off than Axis Europe.

In Argentina it found wholesale prices up 100 per cent from the first half of 1939, and currency circulation up 76 per cent, while the cost of living was said, officially, to have risen only a minor amount.

Up 110 Per Cent

Prices were up 110 per cent in Peru, currency up 210 per cent and the cost of living up 57 per cent.

Chile's wholesale price level rose 96 per cent, currency 167 per cent and the cost of living 98 per cent.

Bolivia's cost of living increase was figured as 213 per cent, Cuba's 70 per cent and Mexico's 88 per cent.

ACTRESS MADE CITIZEN

NEW YORK, Aug. 15 (AP)—Dolly Haas, German actress who fled the Reich in 1934 and who since has appeared in British films and American plays, was among 300 persons to receive final naturalization papers here today.

Dewey Says F.D.R. Trip Is 'Holiday'

Declines Comment On President's Recent Hawaii Jaunt.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 15 (AP)—Thomas E. Dewey tonight classified as a "holiday" President Roosevelt's trip to Hawaii and the Aleutian islands which Mr. Roosevelt said he undertook as a part of his constituional duties.

Asked at his first conference in 10 days about the journey during which the President accepted a fourth-term nomination from a Pacific naval base, inspected Pearl Harbor naval installations and returned from Alaska to address the nation by radio from the deck of a destroyer, the Republican nominee said tartly:

Dewey Declines Comment

"I don't comment on Mr. Roosevelt's holidays."

"Do you use that expression, 'holidays,' advisedly?" a newsman asked.

"Why, surely," the nominess replied with a smile.

Dewey declined to elaborate. But from other Republican sources there has been some criticism in the past of Mr. Roosevelt's inspection trips on the grounds that some of them may have been partly political in nature.

Thrilled by Invasion

With shirt-sleeved reporters clustered about him in the stifling heat of the executive mansion porch, Dewey, clad in a dark suit without a vest, said he had been absorbed during the day by the "great news' of the Allied invasion of southern France.

"I have been getting a tremendout thrill out oft it, as every other American does, he observed.

Silent on Campaign

Other than to say he had not present plans for a speech in Owosso, Mich., his birthplace, the nominee maintained silence about the active GOP campaign which is expected to start after Labor Day. Gov. Harry F. Kelly of Michigan had announced previously Dewey would visit that state during the campaign and might speak in Owosso.

DUKE AIDS CEREMONY

Newport, R. I., Aug. 15 (A. P.).—The Duke of Windsor, who with the Duchess is spending a two-week vacation here, last night assisted in the dedication of a $75,000 Federal recreation building to be operated by the U. S. O. for Negro service men.

Co-dedicators of the building were Gov. J. Howard McGrath and Mayor Herbert E. Macauley of Newport.

The Duke, guest of Robert R. Young, New York, spoke of the work carried on by people of the Bahamas in the war effort.

He said that 6,000 Bahama natives are engaged in war work in the United States.

NEW OUTBURSTS MARK PROBE OF TRANSIT STRIKE

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 15—(AP) Fresh violence preceded renewed probing today into the causes and aftermath of Philadelphia's war production-crippling transit strike.

Two outbreaks of hoodlumism—the first since 14 persons were injured during the six-day strike—occurred last night. Police reported a gang of negro boys, ejected from a bus in an argument over payment of fares, attacked a war plant worker. Cruising police chased them away and arrested one of the alleged assailants. Bricks hurled through a trolley's windows injured a negro woman passenger.

The Army itself began an investigation of the story of Mrs. Dorothy Hibbs, 21, that she was given no work after running a trolley the first two days after the strike ended. She said returned strikers subjected her to jeers while she waited in the carbarn for work orders that did not come. She blamed organized pressure against those who were prompt to obey the Army's work-or-be-fired ultimatum on penalty of being denied WMC job referrals for the duration of the war.

Thomas A. Guigley, 30-year-old motorman, who ignored the ultimatum, was confronted with the prospect of induction into the Army Thursday if physically acceptable, or of earning a living for his wife and two children in farm, domestic, state or federal government work—the only fields not covered by the wage stabilization program. Quigley was the only striker thus affected, his name being the only one referred by the Army to the War Manpower commission. WMC Regional Director Frank McNamee has said work referral would be denied to any striker who failed to meet the Army deadline for returning to work.

The federal grand jury began its second week of investigation, hearing the Philadelphia Transportation company's version of the strike, attributed to FEPC—directed upgrading of eight negro employes, from Charles F. Ebert, executive vice president, now general manager under direction of the Army, which seized control of the system August 3.

AWOL Costs Commando Kelly Liberty for 90 Days, Plus Fine

FORT BENNING, Ga., Aug. 15.—(UP) T-Sgt. Charles E. (Commando) Kelly, the one-man army from Pittsburgh, and one of the great American war heroes, was confined to the military reservation today because he overstayed a furlough.

A court martial fined him $90 and ordered him to stay in camp confines for 90 days for having been absent without leave.

The 23-year-old Medal of Honor winner, whose heroism at Alataville, Italy has become an Army legend, testified at his court-martial that he tried to return to camp on time, but everywhere he stopped he was delayed by hero-worshippers.

It was one celebration after another in his honor, Kelly said.

His sentence, regarded as lenient for being A.W.O.L. in wartime, called for a $15 monthly reduction from his pay for a period of six months in addition to confinement.

RIOTING FLARES IN PRISONER CAMP

AUG 16 1944

Negro Troops Stone Italians Near Seattle—One Victim Found Hanged.

SEATTLE, Aug. 15 — (AP) A Negro soldier raid on sleeping members of an Italian military service unit at Fort Lawton was reported officially tonight, and a Port of Embarkation statement said that "a short time following the fight the body of one of the Italian soldiers was found hanging from a nearby tree."

The military statement refrained carefully from placing responsibility for the hanging, and said an immediate investigation was launched after the incident last midnight.

Twenty-four of the Italians, who originally were brought to the United States as prisoners of war, were reported injured and hospitalized. A lesser number of the attackers, who were said to have been armed with rocks, were injured. The dead Italian was identified as Gughielmo Olivanta.

Military authorities said the attackers were arrested. The Army statement said the possibility of suicide will be investigated.

Military officers gave no hint as to the cause of the melee. One officer said "there has been no previous trouble or appearance of ill will on the part of other personnel at the post" toward the Italians, who have been quartered there several months.

The Italian service units were composed of prisoners of war who pledged allegiance to the Allied cause. There has been some public criticism recently of the recreational privileges extended to the Italians, but military authorities explained that they are aiding the war effort by labor in behalf of the armed forces.

The official statement said no other information would be available until after the investigation is completed.

Text of Statement

The Port of Embarkation statement said:

"At about midnight Monday, Aug. 14, a number of Negro soldiers raided the barracks of the Italian service unit at Fort Lawton while members of the unit were sleeping.

"In the ensuing melee, which lasted only a few minutes, 24 Italians were injured and hospitalized. Several of the attacking soldiers were less seriously hurt.

"The attackers carried rocks which they picked up on the ground by the barracks.

"A short time following the fight the body of one of the Italian soldiers was found hanging from a nearby tree. He was identified as Gughielmo Olivanta. A phase of the investigation will be to determine whether this could have been suicide.

"The post authorities placed the attacking soldiers under arrest and launched an immediate investigation. They promised disciplinary action and said no further information would be available until the investigation was complete.

"The Italian service unit has been at Fort Lawton for several months and there has been no previous trouble or appearance of ill will on the part of military personnel at the post. The unit is made up of volunteers who have been carefully screened and found to be neither pro-Nazi nor pro-Fascist. They are used in various labor capacities at the fort."

LONDON, WEDNESDAY, AUG. 16-(AP)-THE PARIS RADIO AT MIDNIGHT BROADCAST A REPORT OF HEAVY FIGHTING IN THE AREA BETWEEN CANNES AND NICE AND BETWEEN ST.RAPHAEL AND CAP CAMARAT ON THE SOUTHERN FRENCH FRONT.

THE BROADCAST SAID THAT GEN. SIR HENRY MAITLAND WILSON, COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF OF THE ALLIED FORCES IN THE MEDITERRANEAN AREA, WAS REPORTED TO BE "CONDUCTING OPERATIONS PERSONALLY BETWEEN ST.RAPHAEL AND CAP CAMARAT."

JR7PEW

LONDON AUG 15-(AP)-A GERMAN COMMUNIQUE SAID ALLIED TROOPS HAD LANDED ON A 70-MILE SECTION OF THE SOUTH FRENCH COAST BETWEEN TOULON AND CANNES DURING EARLY MORNING HOURS TODAY AND THAT "OUR COASTAL DEFENSE IS ENGAGED IN A FIGHT WITH THE ENEMY LANDING TROOPS."

THE ANNOUNCEMENT FOLLOWED A STRANGE SILENCE OF SEVERAL HOURS AND TACITLY ADMITTED THE INVADING AMERICAN, FRENCH AND BRITISH AMPHIBIOUS FORCES HAD SECURED A FOOTING.

TOULON IS ONE OF FRANCE'S GREATEST NAVAL BASES WHERE THE FRENCH FLEET WAS SCUTTLED WHEN HITLER GRABBED "UNOCCUPIED FRANCE" IN THE FIRST DAYS OF THE ALLIED INVASION OF NORTH AFRICA. CANNES IS A FAMOUS FRENCH RIVIERA RESORT CITY.

THE GERMAN COMMUNIQUE NOTED THAT THE ALLIES LANDED "AFTER HAVING INTENSIFIED IN THE LAST FEW DAYS AIR ATTACKS ON DEFENSE INSTALLATIONS AND COMMUNICATION LINES IN THE SOUTHERN FRENCH COASTAL AREA." THE OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT SAID 30 ALLIED PLANES WERE DOWNED IN THE OPENING HOURS.

THE GERMAN 19TH ARMY IS BELIEVED ENCAMPED ALONG THE FRENCH MEDITERRANEAN COAST. THE GERMAN FIRST ARMY IS DEPLOYED IN SOUTH AND CENTRAL FRANCE, SPREAD OUT MOSTLY ALONG THE PYRENEES SOUTH OF BRITTANY ALONG THE BAY OF BISCAY. IN RECENT DAYS, DIVISIONS OF THE FIRST ARMY HAVE BEEN REPORTED MOVED INTO NORMANDY TO BOLSTER THE REELING GERMAN SEVENTH ARMY. BOTH THE FIRST AND 19TH WERE LAST REPORTED COMMANDED BY MARSHAL JOHANNES VON BLASKOWITZ, A TANK EXPERT. MANY OF THEIR UNITS ARE BELIEVED TO BE SECOND RATE, SOME INTERSPERSED LIBERALLY WITH IMPRESSED FOREIGNERS.

AUG 16 1944

THE OFFICIAL GERMAN NEWS AGENCY DNB BROADCAST THAT THE ALLIES FIRST MADE A DIVERSIONARY LANDING ATTEMPT ON THE BAY OF BORMES, 25 MILES EAST OF TOULON AND THAT THIS WAS FRUSTRATED.

THE AGENCY SAID THE AREA BETWEEN CANNES AND NICE WAS SHELLED HEAVILY BY WARSHIPS.

ONE AIRBOURNE THRUST BY 100 GLIDERS (PERHAPS 2,000 MEN) WAS REPORTED IN THE NICE AREA, ABOUT 20 MILES EAST OF CANNES AND NEAR THE FAMOUS GAMBLING RESORT OF MONTE CARLO.

"IN SOME PLACES, ATTACKS ARE ALREADY SMASHED AND IN OTHER PLACES FIGHTING IS GOING ON WITH GERMAN COASTAL DEFENSES," THE DNB REPORT SAID.

(NO PICKUP)

FD859AEW

